ticles appearing in Streicher's newspaper denouncing the Jews and demanding their extermination were also offered in evidence by a young British prosecutor, who charged they served as "incitement to murder."

Streicher wrote in a German medical journal:

"One of the Jews' main purposes in life is to seduce Aryan women. One single cohabitation of a Jew with an Aryan woman is sufficient to poison her blood forever. Never again will she be able to bear purely Aryan children, even when married to an Aryan. They will all be bastards with dual souls and bodies of a mixed breed."

Frank's Diary

Frank, who attempted to take his own life at the time of his arrest, sat stiffly in the prisoners' box as Assistant United States Prosecutor Lieuteant Colonel William H. Baldwin, of Detroit, Mich., read from his diary a list of brutalities reminiscent of the Dark Ages.

"Once we have won the war," read an entry in Frank's diary on January 14, 1944, "then, for all I care, mincemeat can be made of the Poles."

Calls For Brutality

Over and over again Frank called upon his aides to be brutal and ruthless in carrying out Hitler's program for Poland—a program that specified a low standard of living, elimination of the power of the Roman Catholic Church and a ban preventing the intelligentsia from forming into a ruling class.

Frank's diary showed that in January, 1943, he told district leaders in Warsaw, "we must not be squeamish when we learn that a total of 17,000 people have been shot. These persons who are shot are nothing more than war victims."

He boasted: "I have not been hesitant in declaring that when a German is shot up to a hundred Poles shall be shot, too."

Two Hundred and Forty-fourth Engineer Combat Battalion—Sailing today from Le Havre.

Ex-Yugoslav Official Arrested, Paper Says

Rome, Jan. 10 (AP)—The newspaper Il Tempo reported today that Rome police had arrested Dr. Miroslaw Sperlerkovic, former minister in the government of Yugoslav puppet premier Milan Nedic. The paper said Sperlerkovic had been hiding in Rome since August.

[Nedic, 72-year-old former chief of staff of the Yugoslav army, and three of his top aides have been turned over by Allied authorities for trial on collaboration charges, Marshal Tito's government announced in Belgrade last night.]

Sicilian Separatists Routed

ROME, Jan. 10 (AP)—Italian carabinieri and security police were reported today to have put down an uprising of 1,000 Sicilian separatists after a pitched battle near Palermo, Sicily. The Italian news agency Ansa said the separatists fled after the carabinieri, with the aid of the security police forces, attacked a position which the separatists had ehld on a craggy hilltop for twenty-four hours.

4 U.S. 'Air Gangsters' Reported Killed By SS

Naples, Jan. 10 (AP)—Statements described by the prosecution as confessions of two German SS men, introduced at the war-crimes trial here today, told how four American flyers were taken for last rides and executed at Bolzano because a fanatical SS chief considered them "air gangsters."

Major Samuel D. Lewis, the prosecutor, read the statements. He said that one of the victims, Staff Sergeant Medard R. Tafoya, survived for three days and was shot three times before the Nazis killed him.

Lewis said SS men Heinrich Andergassen and Albert Storz had signed confessions of the murders of Capt. Roderick Hall, American whom the Nazis hated because of his behind-the-lines warfare in northern Italy; four other American airmen, and two British soldiers, all in uniforms.

Andergassen and Storz are on trial in the Palace of Justice, with Major August Schiffer, head of SS headquarters at Bolzano, and a German policeman, Hans Rutz.

NORWALK MOTHER TO GET DIARY OF SLAIN WAR HERO

NAPLES, Jan. 10—(AP) The late Capt. Roderick Hall's diary, retrieved from a bottle buried in an Italian Partisan's yard, was ordered sent to his Connecticut home today after being used as evidence in the trial of his alleged slayers.

A military commission trying four Germans accused of slaying the Office of Strategic Services hero and four other Allied fliers ordered Hall's diary sent to his mother, Mrs. Gertrude Merrill of 184 East avenue, South Norwalk, Conn., after being transcribed as evidence.

The prosecution claims Hall was murdered after his capture behind the German lines in Italy more than a year ago because the Nazi SS chief at Bolzano, Maj. August Schiffer, declared he had done "most serious damage" to the German war effort.

The diary in the form of a 3,000-word letter to his family dated Oct. 31, 1944, said in part:

"If any of you ever travel to these parts in the future, don't be afraid to mention my name. It's known from one end of the Alps to the other. x x x Even if it hasn't been as much as many others have done in this war, at least I've done something."

Earlier in the day statements described by the prosecution as confessions of two German SS men told how four of the fliers were taken for last rides and executed at Bolzano because the SS chief considered them "air gangsters."

U.S. Envoy Tells Poland He Will Oppose Loan

Warsaw, Jan. 8 [AP—Delayed]—United States Ambassador Arthur Bliss Lane informed the Polish provisional government today that he would oppose granting of any United States funds to Poland "as long as present conditions prevail" in this country.

The Ambassador was protesting against recent measures by the regime, including a decree nationalizing all basic industries employing more than 50 persons per shift.

Lane told the Polish Foreign Ministry he considered that the 1931 commercial treaty between Poland and the United States had been violated. He said this treaty permitted free entry and development of commercial enterprises in Poland by American business men.

Poland's Reply Undisclosed

"I informed the Foreign Ministry that I would not recommend the expenditure of one cent of United States money for the Polish Government as long as present conditions prevail in Poland," Lane said.

The Government's reply has not been made public.

Hilary Minc, Poland's Minister of Industry, presented the nationalization decree which the National Council of the Homeland (Parliament) promptly ratified January 4. Minc declared the Government was determined that foreign capital should not control any business enterprise in Poland.

The 1931 Treaty

A 30-article treaty of friendship, commerce and consular rights was signed in Washington on June 15, 1931, by Henry L. Stimson, then Secretary of State, and Polish Ambassador Tytus Filipowicz.

This treaty provided that citizens of each nation should be permitted to engage in professional, scientific, religious, philanthropic and commercial work of every kind in the other nation.

Commercial Provisos

It authorized them to carry on every form of commercial activity not forbidden by local law and to "own, erect, or lease and occupy appropriate buildings . . . upon the same terms as nationals of the state of residence, except as provided by laws . . . in force at the time of the signature of this treaty."

"The dwellings, warehouses, manufactories, shops and other places of business and all premises thereto appertaining . . . shall be respected," it was set forth.

Foreign capital investments in Poland that year totaled $1,159,000,000. Of this, $413,142,000 was from the United States, France was second with $175,000,000.

POLAND ASKS U.S. LOAN OF $500,000,000

American Envoy Said to Be Opposed to Grant of Funds

APPLICATION IS PENDING

Lane Registers Protest About the Restrictions Ordered by Warsaw Government.

Washington, Jan. 10 (A. P.).—Export-import bank officials disclosed today that Poland has applied for about $500,000,000 to finance projects envisaged for trade and reconstruction.

The officials said that the Polish application was not in "an active stage of consideration" and that there was no prospect for immediate action. They said is was one of seven pending requests.

Meanwhile, a State department spokesman said that United States Ambassador Arthur Bliss Lane had protested to the Polish Government against its action in prventing American citizens from inspecting American-ownd property in Poland before putting into effect its nationalization program.

An Associated Press dispatch from Warsaw said that Lane had informed the Provisional Government that he would oppose granting of any United States funds to Poland as long as present conditions prevail.

The spokesman said that Lane, in a message to the State Department, deeclared that he had entered no protest regarding Poland's program for public ownership of the greater part of its commercial enterprises, on the ground that that country, as a sovereign nation, has the right to enact nationalization legislation.

Abolishes Church Weddings

Warsaw, Jan. 8 [AP—Delayed]—The national council of the homeland ratified a decree today abolishing church weddings as legal marriage and requiring all marriages to be performed by civil registrars. The decree does not prohibit church ceremonies, but these do not constitute a legal act of marriage.

Polish Jews See No Need Of 'Panicky Emigration'

By The Associated Press.

WARSAW, Jan. 8 (Delayed)—The Central Jewish Committee of Poland announced today the Jewish situation in this country does not justify panicky emigration." The committee warned Jews leaving Poland against "chaotic and illegal emigration." The Government earlier announced that it solidly backed the emigration of Jews to Palestine and other countries.

O.K. CLAIMED BY VENIZELOS

Greek Regent's Approval Of New Coalition Announced

Athens, Jan. 10 (AP) — Former Premier Sophocles Venizelos, leader of a segment of the Liberal party which allied itself with the Populist Monarchist group, declared today that the coalition had received the approval of Regent Archbishop Damaskinos.

Venizelos said in an interview that the Regent received [illegible] Constantine Tsaldaris, signer of the political pact for the Populists.

Tsaldaris, Venizelos said, assured the Regent that the Populists would not urge, without American or British consent, an early plebicite on the return of King George to the throne.

To Back Republican Ideas

Britain's Foreign Secretary Ernest Bevin has suggested that the plebiscite be delayed until 1948, in the hope that Greece's economic conditions will be stabilized by that time.

Earlier Venizelos had denied that the new coalition was designed to overthrow Premier Themistokles Sophoulis's young government.

Venizelos, who parted ways with Sophoulis last November, expressed confidence that "a majority of the Greek people would follow him." He added that he intended to support republican ideas.

"Unacceptable" To Sophoulis

Sophoulis, also a Liberal, had expressed amazement at the coalition and said it might mean the fall of his less than 2-month-old regime. The Premier termed the new alignment "unacceptable."

The right wing coalition also drew criticism from a spokesman for the EAM coalition of Communists and Leftists, who declared that "a reactionary section of the British, in Athens were aware of and favored the agreement."

As a new political crisis appeared to be developing, associations of doctors, merchants, industrialists and lawyers appealed to Sophoulis and other party leaders "for unison at this juncture to protect national interests . . . in view of impending dangers threatening Greece, both externally and internally."

Japs In Switzerland Ordered Back Home

Bern, Switzerland, Jan. 10 (AP)—A Japanese informant said today that Japanese diplomats in Switzerland had been ordered to return to Tokyo.

He said about 50 persons would leave on the Spanish steamer Plus Ultra, scheduled to sail from Naples for Manila on January 18.

Aboard, he said, would be 49 Japanese departing from Spain, including Yakichiro Suma, Japanese Ambassador to Spain.

IRAN CLASHES TAKE 5 LIVES

Parliament Told Anglo-U.S. Plan Will Be Rejected

Tehran, Jan. 10 (AP)—Five persons were killed and nine wounded in political disorders in Russian-occupied northern Iran, Government sources said today, as a cheering Iranian Parliament was told that a British-American proposal for a tripartite investigation of Iran's internal affairs would be rejected.

Government officials said the disorders occurred near Zenjan, 200 miles northwest of Tehran, and at Kazvin, 90 miles northwest of the Iranian capital. Earlier, new disturbances were reported also at the Caspian Sea town of Chalus, 65 miles north of Tehran.

Reports Attack Beaten Off

An officer of the Iranian general staff said four "democratic" partisans were killed and seven wounded "when residents of two villages near Zenjan beat off an attack led by democratic ex-chieftain Alli Dad."

The officer added that Alli Dad and "two other leaders of the partisans" were captured, along with arms and ammunition.

At Kazvin, southern gateway to Russian-garrisoned Azerbaijan, one person was reported killed and two wounded by gunfire during what M. Darkhchan, Iranian director general of security, described as an "election row."

Darakhchan went to Kazvin last night to investigate the incidents, first reported as an attack by 'immigrants and strangers" on voters in the Kazvin province elections. Upon his return, the official said "order has been restored by provincial police who are investigating the affair."

Partisan Quarters Burned

The government reported that at Chalus, fighting between townspeople and Tudeh (leftist) partisans resulted in the burning of Tudeh headquarters.

Rejection of the British-American suggestion for an investigating commission was announced by Finance Minister Hagir.

His statement came after two members had attacked the proposal, declaring they were opposed to foreign intervention in Iranian affairs. They asserted the findings of the proposed commission would be influenced by "pressure of foreign forces occupying Azerbaijan."

Russian troops have been stationed in Azerbaijan since 1941."

King Ibn Saud Arrives in Egypt

Suez, Jan. 10 (A. P.).—King Ibn Saud of Saudi Arabia, accompanied by eight of his sons and a suite of ninety-four persons, arrived in Egypt today aboard the Egyptian royal yacht Mahrussa for a twelve-day visit with King Farouk.

Jewish Worker Killed In Clash In Jerusalem

Jerusalem, Jan. 10 (AP)—A Jewish worker was killed and several other Jews were injured today in a fight with Arabs at Beith Nabala camp near Jaffa. British airborne troops restored order.

In other parts of Palestine Jews retaliated against the Arab boycott of Jewish-made goods with a similar economic pressure against the Arabs.

The two-edged boycott spread through Jerusalem, Haifa and Jaffa, with Arabs forming picket lines and passing out leaflets. Many Jews retaliated by refusing to buy vegetables, eggs, cigarettes and other merchandise from Arabian merchants.

Some Arabs avoided Jewish-owned coffee houses, shops and moving picture theaters in Jerusalem because of the boycott.

Fighting Breaks Out In Iran Provinces

Tehran, Jan. 10 (AP)—A Government announcement said today that fighting had broken out in two Russian-occupied provinces in northern Iran.

A Ministry of Interior official said the outbreaks occurred in Chalus, on the Caspian Sea in Mazandaran province, and at Kazvin.

One person was reported killed and two others wounded at Kazvin, in Kazvin province, where the Government said "group of immigrants and strangers" fired upon voters during a provincial election.

"Attempts To Intimidate"

The ministry said the attacks occurred Tuesday after "attempts to intimidate the voters" failed.

Kazvin, 90 miles northwest of Tehran, is the southernmost outpost of the Russian zone of influence in Iran and may be entered only with the permission of the Russian commandant.

Chalus is 65 miles north of Tehran and Russian troops were reported garrisoned there. The Government announcement said that "fighting is reported between townspeople and Tudeh (Leftist) Partisans" in Chalus.

Party HQ Burned

The report said Tudeh Party headquarters had been burned in the outbreak.

Iranian troops, dispatched to Azerbaijan in November when "democrats" seized control of the Government after a series of disorders, were met at Kazvin by Russian troops and ordered to turn back.

The Russians have been stationed in northern Iran since 1941 under a wartime agreement with the Government and the Anglo-American Allies.

STRIFE IN CHINA ENDED BY TRUCE

CHUNGKING, Jan. 10.—(AP) A truce in civil strife and a new era of political freedom for Communists and all other parties in China were announced today after two dramatic, eleventh-hour conferences arranged by Gen. George C. Marshall, American mediator.

The former U. S. Army chief of staff — dispatched to China by President Truman as a special envoy—went into action when truce negotiations appeared to be breaking down last night.

Marshall hurried into conference with Generalissimo Chiang Kai-Shek, then called the government and Communist negotiators into an unheralded session this morning nine hours ahead of schedule.

Swift Action

Before noon there were these swift developments:

Both sides ordered an immediate cessation of hostilities and a halt to all troop movements, except for transport of government forces in Manchuria and south of the Yangtze river.

Chou En-Lai, negotiator and head of the Communist delegation, praised Marshall's assistance and Chiang's determination for peace and said the "cease-fire" orders were going out today. Chou expressed hope the guns would all fall silent within three days, although it might take longer to reach some isolated spots, such as Hainan Island off China's south coast.

Walter Robertson, U. S. charge d'affairs, Gen. Yeh Chien-Ying, chief of staff of Communist armies, and Gen. Chan Chieh-Min, head of the government military council's intelligence section, were named as a commission to go to Peiping to see that truce terms were obeyed.

Chiang Kai-Shek, opening China's unity session of the political consultation conference, announced that the government had decided to grant the people freedom of person, conscience, speech, publication and association and safeguard them against illegal arrest.

Chiang announced that all political parties—including the long outlawed Communist party—would be equal before the law and could operate openly.

Chiang promised that local self-government would be promoted throughout China and popular elections would be held.

He granted amnesty to all political prisoners except 'traitors and those found to have committed definite acts injurious to the republic."

Chou En-Lai, speaking for the Communists, declared his party approved Chiang's four points as the basis for achieving constitutional government.

Chiang Applauded

Applause greeted Chiang when he announced the truce at the conference. Many delegates expressed the opinion privately that without it the government never would have announced its grant of political freedom.

Chiang said the government was ready to accept all decisions of the conference "if they are beneficial to national reconstruction, tend to promote popular welfare and can help in the democratization of the country."

"We must see to it" he declared, "that the National Assembly (for drafting a new constitution) be convened according to schedule (May 5) and that constitutional democracy be ushered in at an early date."

(The Communists have been arguing for a delay in the calling of the assembly, saying it would be packed by Kuomintang, the government party, unless new delegates were elected.)

The truce was generally conceded here to be the first big result of Marshall's mission to China. Marshall was haggard but smiling as he met correspondents this morning when the joint statement was issued.

Sudden Ending

The truce came suddenly and unexpectedly after the government bogged down negotiations with a demand that its troops be permitted to occupy certain strategic areas of the northern provinces of Jehol and Chahar.

Chou En-Lai said the Communists stuck to and won their objections against the government demands on the provinces, both of which the Communists insist they liberated from the Japanese.

He said that the strategic railroad towns of Dolonor (Tolun) in Chahar, and Chihfeng in Jehol, which the government wanted to occupy, would remain in Communist hands but acknowledged that Communist troop movements also would be frozen in the two provinces, as well as in Manchuria.

Chou described as something unprecedented the relations between the Kuomintang and Communists as a result of today's truce, reached after 18 years of almost continual conflict.

It was reported reliably that the most important Communist concession was agreement to let the government keep moving troops into and within Manchuria for the purpose of restoring China's sovereignty.

A dispatch from Changchun, Manchuria's capital, said government troops would begin entering Mukden in strength Jan. 15 and that Chinese and Russian circles there were preparing to welcome Madame Chiang Kai-shek at about the same time.

The dispatch said she would be accompanied by Chiang Chung-Kuo, the generalissimo's eldest son, who recently visited Moscow on a special mission for his father.

China Ends Its War; Political Parties Are Legalized

Chungking, Jan. 10 (AP)—Generalissimo Chiang Kai-shek announced today, shortly after a truce had brought an immediate end to China's civil war, that the Government had decided to legalize all political parties.

He said the Government would free all purely political prisoners, grant the people freedom of speech and promote local self-government.

Four Points Listed

Chiang, opening the Political Consultation Conference almost simultaneously with the conclusion of the cease-firing agreement, announced that the Government had decided to:

1. Grant the people freedom of person, conscience, speech, publication, and association and to safeguard them against illegal arrest and trial.

2. All political parties shall be equal before the law and may operate openly within the law.

3. Local self-government will actively be promoted in all places and popular elections will be held.

4. Political prisoners, except traitors and those found to have committed definite acts injurious to the republic, would be released.

Communist Approves

Gen. Chou En-lai, No. 2 Communist leader, approved the four points and said they were basic for achieving constitutional government.

Gen. George Marshall, special United States envoy to China, broke the deadlock in Chinese negotiations for a truce last night by visiting Generalissimo Chiang Kai-shek.

Differences over wording a cease-hostilities order were ironed out.

It was believed that Chiang agreed to modify his previous insistence that the Nationalists should occupy certain specified strategic areas in the Inner Mongolian provinces of Chahar and Jehol.

Wedemeyer On Way

It was reported from Shanghai that Lieut. Gen. Albert C. Wedemeyer, commander of United States forces in China, had left by plane for Chungking today for a "routine talk" with Chiang and Marshall.

Chiang opened the conference with an announcement of the truce, which he would not have been able to proclaim except for a spectacular unscheduled meeting last night with Marshall at which final seemingly unsurmountable obstacles were cleared.

After applause subsided, Chiang delivered a prepared speech, then announced the Government's four decisions which if faithfully implemented would go a long way toward precluding further civil strife and toward insuring emergence of constitutional democracy in China.

Result Of Truce

Most persons in the audience felt the decisions would not have been disclosed if the truce had not been achieved.

The Generalissimio declared the Government was ready to accept all decisions of the conference "if they are beneficial to national reconstruction, tend to promote popular welfare and can help in the democratization of the country."

He said China's mission generally speaking was to establish peace throughout the world and to eliminate forever aggression and armed conflict.

Internally, her task was to maintain peace and stability and to carry out the work of national reconstruction.

Reason For Conference

The conference was called to discuss problems of "national import."

The whole nation wanted Sun Yat-sen's three principles put into practical operation and all peoples of the world sincerely wishes China to become united, democratic and a strong nation, Chiang said.

"Therefore, we must see to it that the National Assembly will be convened according to schedule (May 5) and that constitutional democracy will be ushered in at an early date."

The rule of law henceforth must be enforced in order to lay foundations for constitutionalism, he continued.

Lists Urgent Needs

Most urgent needs are rehabilitation and unity, progress and prosperity of the nation which eventually would result in bettering living conditions, he added.

Chiang enjoined the delegates to be sincere and frank and to place national interest before everything else; to take a long view; to have the right conception of the nation's future; to remember the sacrifices of soldiers and civilians in war.

He expressed confidence in the outcome of the conference, which, he said, was being watched by public opinion throughout the world and was "also the object of Chinese people's prayers."

The conference adjourned until tomorrow afternoon.

The "cease fire" order was issued after Gen. Chang Chun, Government representative, and Chou meeting with Marshall, reached an agreement in a surprise meeting, held nine hours ahead of schedule.

The order was issued by Chiang and Mao Tse-tung, Communist chairman at Yenan on the basis of the agreement reached by the committee.

Orders To Commanders

Military commanders on both sides were directed to halt all troop movements with the exception of transport of Nationalist troops into or within Manchuria to restore Chinese sovereignty. The order also prohibits destruction of —and interference with—all lines of communications.

The truce order also provided

for immediate establishment of executive headquarters in Peiping with three commissioners—A Central Government representative, a Communist and an American—to carry out details of the agreement.

It was stipulated that the truce did not prejudice military movements south of the Yangtze River for the continued execution of the Government's military reorganization plan.

Part U.S. Will Play

It was agreed also that United States participation in the executive headquarters commission at Peiping would be solely for the purpose of assisting the Chinese members in implementing the order for cessation of hostilities.

Marshall agreed shortly after his arrival in China three weeks ago to assist in outlining procedures for a cessation of hostilities.

The Communists reported only last night that the Government's demand for occupation of Manchuria—Chahar and Jehol provinces particularly—was "unacceptable."

Announcement of the truce came as 38 delegates of China's various political factions gathered for today's opening of the Political Consultation Conference.

nication will cease and you will clear at once obstructions placed against or interfering with such lines of communication.

"(D) An executive headquarters will be established immediately in Peiping for the purpose of carrying out the agreements for cessation of hostilities. This headquarters will consist of three commissioners, one representing the Chinese National Government, one representing the Chinese Communist party and one to represent the United States of America. The necessary instructions and orders unanimously agreed upon by the three commissioners will be issued in the name of the President of the Republic of China through the executive headquarters."

As a matter of public interest, we further are authorized to announce that the following stipulations regarding the above cessation of hostilities order were agreed upon and made a matter of record in the minutes of the conference:

(1) The cessation of hostilities order does not prejudice military movements south of the Yangtze River for the continued execution of the plan of military reorganization of the National Government.

(2) The cessation of hostilities order does not prejudice military movements of forces of the National Army into or within Manchuria which are for the purpose of restoring Chinese sovereignty.

(3) Lines of communication mentioned in paragraph "C" of the cessation of hostilities order includes post communications.

(4) It is further agreed that movements of the forces of the National Army under the foregoing stipulations shall be reported daily to the executive headquarters.

We are also authorized to announce that the agreements, recommendations and directives of executive headquarters will deal only with the immediate problems raised by a cessation of hostilities.

American participation within the headquarters will be solely for the purpose of assisting the Chinese members in implementing the cessation of hostilities order.

The executive headquarters will include an operations section composed of the number of officers and men required to supervise adequately in the field the various details.

It is agreed that separate and independent signal communications systems may be established for each commissioner in order to insure rapid and unhampered communications.

The headquarters will be located initially at Peiping.

Text of Truce in China

CHUNGKING, Jan. 10 (AP)—Following is the text of the announcement of a truce in China's internal strife:

We, Gen. Chang Chun, representative of the National Government, and Gen. Chou En-lai, representative of the Chinese Communist party, have recommended to Generalissimo Chiang Kai-shek and Chairman Mao Tse-tung (of the Communist party in Yenan), and have been authorized by them to announce that the following order has been issued to all units of the regular militia, irregulars and guerrillas of the National armies of the Republic of China and of Communist-led troops of the Republic of China:

"All units of the regular militia, irregular and guerrilla of the National armies of the Republic of China and of Communist-led troops are ordered to carry out the following directive:

"(A) All hostilities will cease immediately.

"(B) Except in certain specific cases, all movements of forces in China will cease. There also may be the movement as necessary for demobilization, re-disposition, supply, administration and local security.

"(C) Destruction of, and interference with all lines of commu-

Cruiser Going To Hong Kong

Shanghai, Jan. 10 (AP)—Rear Admiral C. Turner Joy and his staff sailed today for Hong Kong aboard the flagship cruiser Los Angeles to head the U.S. South China Naval Force after an elaborate sendoff last night.

British Battle Near Semarang

BATAVIA, Java, Jan. 10 (AP)—British forces battled Indonesian forces today in the Semarang area of central Java, where large nationalist concentrations have been reported.

A British mobile column cleared the Semarang road six miles southwest of the town, eliminating several roadblocks, one of them guarded by twenty men with three machine guns. One Gurkha soldier was killed and a British officer was wounded.

Delay Indicated In Korea Conference

Seoul, Jan. 10 (A. P.).—A temporary delay in the Soviet-American conference to work out occupation problems in Korea was indicated today. Lieut.-Gen. John R. Hodge, commander of United States Occupation Forces, said the commander of Russian forces in northern Korea, Lieut.-Gen. Chistiakov, had expressed willingness to begin the conference within a week or ten days.

SHIDEHARA'S REGIME IN JAPAN FALLS

Commission To Decide Occupation Policy Meets In Japan

Tokyo, Friday, Jan. 11 [Reuter]—The Japanese Government has resigned.

Chiang gives equality to all parties.....Page 3

Tokyo, Friday, Jan. 11 (AP)—Premier Kijuro Shidehara's Cabinet met in regular session today and a source at the Premier's official residence—usually well informed—predicted it would resign en bloc.

This source said he expected the resignations would be announced today or tomorrow. He denied a Kyodo news agency report that Shidehara had decided to remain in office while dropping only a few ministers from his Cabinet to comply with General MacArthur's political-purge decrees.

Expects Delay In Elections

Kyodo said the general elections, scheduled tentatively for this month, would be delayed, possibly for two more months, in order to eliminate candidates affected by the purge orders.

The agency said Shidehara might try to hold on as Premier until after the election.

Meanwhile the Allies' new Far East Commission to determine occupation policy met in Japan for the first time.

Economic Chief Consulted

After a luncheon with General MacArthur, the eleven-member commission consulted on undisclosed topics with MacArthur's economic and scientific chief, Maj. Gen. W. F. Marquat.

The chairman, Maj. Gen. Frank R. McCoy, said the commission would tour Honshu, main Japanese island, and hoped to visit atom-bombed Hiroshima before starting back to Washington January 31.

A spokesman for MacArthur's headquarters cautioned the Japanese press against "being misled by certain of their news sources which were obviously uncreditable."

The spokesman said newspaper reports of a crime wave in Japan were "not merely untruthful but in the present state of social flux in Japan today, very dangerous." Actually, he said, crime was 50 per cent lower than in 1944.

HOSPITAL TRAIN BUILT BY JAPS

Tokyo, Jan. 10 (A. P.).—The Coronet Comfort, a new eight-car hospital train, built with Japanese labor by the United States Third Military Railway Service, has completed its maiden run today.

It arrived in Tokyo after a round trip to Aomori, bringing fifty-one American patients from Hokkaido and northern Honshu Islands to the Twenty-seventh General Hospital.

SHIDEHARA PLANS TO STAY IN POWER

Tokyo, Jan. 10 (A. P.).—Kyodo news agency reported that Premier Kijuro Shidehara decided late today to remain in power by carrying out a partial reorganization of his Cabinet.

Kyodo also reported that Home Minister Zenjiro Horikiri announced in an interview that the Japanese Government would be obliged to delay the general election due to the necessity of eliminating candidates affected by Gen. MacArthur's directive ordering the ouster of ultranationalists. It was indicated the delay might be two months, and that Shidehara may be able to hold the premiership for that period.

The new Far East Commission, created to determine Allied occupation policy in Japan, held its first "on the ground" meeting today.

Major-Gen. Frank R. McCoy, the chairman, said the eleven-Power commission would tour Honshu from Sendai in the north to the Osaka-Kyoto-Kobe area in the south in its study of occupation problems. The itinerary will include atom-bombed Hiroshima, if possible, before returning to Washington January 31.

At the same time a spokesman for MacArthur said the Supreme Commander has no control of membership—as between soldiers or civilians—on the new four-Power Tokyo Council.

British Cruiser Among New Arrivals At Tokyo

Tokyo, Jan. 10 (AP)—Arrival of the British cruiser Argonaut was announced today by Allied headquarters. Also in Tokyo Bay are the New Zealand destroyer Achilles, and four destroyers of British Task Force 57, which will maneuver in Sagami Bay Saturday. The Achilles will proceed to Hong Kong.

LIFE TERM GIVEN JAP WHO ABUSED CAPTIVES

YOKOHAMA, Friday, Jan. 11.—(AP) Lt. Chotaro [illegible] was convicted today by a U. S. Military Commission of mistreating American prisoners of war and was sentenced to life imprisonment.

De Gaulle Is Accused Of Seeking Dictatorship

Australian Unionist Also Sees Fascism Alive in Europe

MELBOURNE, Australia, Jan. 10 (AP).—A. E. Monk, secretary of the Australian Council of Trades Unions, asserted today that European Fascism "lives in an organized form" and that General Charles de Gaulle is planning to set himself up as dictator of France.

Returning from the World Trade Union Conference and International Labor Organization meetings in Paris, Monk told newspapermen that Fascism has survived in all countries, "particularly in Great Britain, Germany, Sweden, Denmark, Italy, France and Spian."

Beheading Story Related At Trial

Manila, Jan. 10 (AP)—Japanese guards gave each of the 400 bound Filipino officers a cigarette.

An interpreter told the men, "my friends, you must be patient."

Then, before a single cigarette was finished, the Japanese beheaded and bayoneted the kneeling line of helpless men.

It happened on the edge of a Philippines ravine in April, 1942.

The story was retold today by the only two survivors at the war crimes trial of Lieut. Gen. Masaharu Homma, accused of responsibility for this massacre, the Bataan death march and other atrocities committed by his soldiers.

Homma Looks Away

Homma looked away when, at court order, Capt. Pedro L. Felix exposed his bare back and four black scars from bayonet wounds.

Felix testified that the hands of the 400 were bound with telephone wire. Guards put the cigarettes in their mouths and lit them.

"They began bayoneting and beheading us at a given signal," Felix said. "I was on the extreme left. I saw two heads roll off on the ground by me and then I felt a bayonet go into my back and hit my shoulder blade."

The bayonet was thrust through him three more times. He was left to die. But after the Japanese had gone he crawled away, joined the guerrillas and said he "got even."

Maryland Man Testifies

Major Eduardo Vargas, the other survivor, followed Felix to the stand among a parade of survivors of the Bataan death march.

Capt. Alberto Abelada said General Homma drove up in "a big glossy car" to a prison camp along the Bataan death mrach route but was more interested in a Japanese woman companion.

An enraged Japanese officer lopped off the head of a fallen American soldier in the death march who could not get up, said Tech. Sergt. Horace M. Clarke, of Salisbury, Md. Japanese in trucks, he said, made a game of cracking American soldiers' heads with clubs as they passed.

21 Arrested In Manila As Jeep-Theft Ring

Manila, Friday, Jan. 11 (AP)—United States military police today announced the arrest of six a.w.o.l. American enlisted men, eleven Philippine army officers and four employés of a printing shop on charges of complicity in a well-organized jeep-theft ring. Fifteen jeeps have been recovered.

Capt. M. [illegible] Traylor, chief investigator, said the ring even gave printed "ownership" papers to buyers of the stolen vehicles.

Several American GI's in the group, he said, were posing as Air Force officers and were "living high" on the proceeds of the jeeps, which had been sold to Philippine army officers. The printing shop employés were accused of duplicating ownership papers.

Senators Will Probe Army Demobilization; GIs Boo McNarney

WASHINGTON, Jan. 10 — (AP) The Senate Military committee today ordered an investigation of demobilization and acting Secretary of War Kenneth C. Royall called on the people to end "hysteria to get the boys back home."

Royall will be a witness when a military subcommittee starts hearings on demobilization and the complaints fired by soldiers around the world.

In an address for the Rotary club of Roanoke, Va., Royall said hysteria to get G. I.'s home is "endangering our whole occupation policy."

"If it continues," he said, "America will lose its power to prevent the totalitarian elements in Germany and Japan from building again for another conquest."

Royall hit at individual pleas to make exception of a son, husband or brother and said "the ending of this hysteria is the responsibility of the people of America."

The military subcommittee was set up under the chairmanship of Senator Edwin C. Johnson (D-Colo) who declared the demobilization situation has brought "near mutiny" in the army.

He referred to soldier demonstrations in Europe and across the Pacific.

Several top Army staff officers at European theater headquarters declared that "we have commitments in Europe and cannot walk off and leave them."

Thousands of soldiers who more than filled a theater at Seoul, Korea, asked today for a congressional investigation of demobilization.

Thousands more demonstrated last night in Honolulu—in the presence of five congressmen studying prospective statehood for Hawaii—and adopted a resolution calling for action on discharge legislation.

To get the Senate study going, possibly Monday, Johnson asked Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower, Army chief of staff, and acting Secretary of War Kenneth C. Royall to "explain the whole situation" at their earliest convenience.

Johnson said demonstrations following a recent Army decision to slow down discharges because of the need for men in occupation forces approached mutiny and were "distressing and humiliating to all Americans."

Senator Ferguson (R-Mich.) told a reporter conditions "can't be attributed to what people would call mutiny." He added:

"It isn't that at all. I discount these reports of so-called communism being involved. These letters I have been getting have been straight from the heart. They're not radicalism or anything else."

Along with demonstrations in Hawaii and Korea, there was the second in two nights at European theater headquarters at Frankfurt, Germany. Before the Frankfurt meeting, 50 men picked from all army units in Europe spent two and a half hours at a question and answer conference called by Maj. Gen. Harold P. Bull, theater chief of staff. They were informed by top staff officers about "commitments" in Europe.

Patterson's Name Booed

Mention of the name of Secretary of War Patterson brought boos at the Frankfurt gathering of some 1,000 G.I.'s.

In Honolulu, the mid-Pacific edition of the Stars and Stripes, army newspaper, was ordered to make no discourteous references to Patterson, the President, chief of staff or other authorities. The order came from Lt. Gen. Robert C. Richardson, Jr., commander of mid-Pacific army forces.

A War Department statement in Washington explained that Richardson had warned against "disrespectful action" after the paper had referred to Patterson as "Public Enemy No. 1."

Both Richardson and the War department directed attention to articles of war which provided punishment for officers or men who used "contemptuous or disrespectful words" against the President, Vice President, Congress or the Secretary of War.

In Tokyo, 26 staff members of the Pacific edition of the Stars and Stripes said in a statement that the paper had been turned into "a house organ for the War department" in the "demobilization crisis."

Without the knowledge of the enlisted staff, they said, the officer in charge of the paper, Lt. Col. James Parks, inserted in the paper a letter from a civilian radio commentator criticizing soldier demonstrations over demobilization.

In Washington, Johnson told reporters that Congress was not without remedies if it wants to use them." He said Congress could cut off Army appropriations or proclaim the war over and "then the boys would have to come home."

Asked whether Congress should take over demobilization, he replied:

"We are not an administrative body but we should determine policy. Whether demobilization should be speeded up or slowed down is one of the policy matters to be decided by Congress. We want to get all the facts and let Congress decide what to do, if it wants to do anything.

"In September we got results just by holding hearings. The military leaders responded by speeding up demobilization. There was the power of public opinion. That may be true this time or it may not. If it isn't, then Congress has other avenues."

Senate Group to Study Demobilization Situation

Action Follows Demand That Eisenhower Be Called Upon to Explain Whole Program —G. I. Protests Called 'Near Mutiny.'

JAN 11 1946

Washington, Jan. 10 (A. P.).—Senator Edwin C. Johnson (D.-Col.), who earlier today had declared conditions in the Army to be "near mutiny," was named chairman of a special Senate Military sub-committee this afternoon to explore the whole demobilization situation.

Senator Elbert Thomas (D.-Utah), chairman of the Senate Military Affairs Committee, also made Senators Briggs (D.-Mo.) and Revercomb (R.-W. Va.) members of the group.

Johnson said Briggs was out of the city, but he got in touch with Revercomb and arranged for expedited action. He wrote Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower, chief of staff, and Acting Secretary of War Kenneth C. Royall asking them to appear before the subcommittee at their earliest convenience "to explain the whole situation."

"Our hope is that we can stabilize the situation and clarify it," Johnson told a reporter. "We want to do it as fast as we can. Congress must determine the military policy of this country." Johnson earlier called G. I. demonstrations overseas in connection with the demobilization slowdown "near mutiny" and "distressing and humiliating to all Americans."

Johnson, himself a member of the committee, asked Congress to take a hand in the situation after the War Department disclosed that it was undertaking to recast its entire demobilization program.

The increasing pressure from disgruntled soldiers demonstrating overseas obviously was a factor affecting both the congressional and Army approach to the problem.

Eisenhower, Army Chief of Staff, authorized theater commanders, pending issuance of the new demobilization program, to return home all surplus personnel regardless of their point scores.

In a letter to Senator Thomas, Johnson declared: "No American Army must ever be permitted by Congress to degenerate into a mob. What must our neighbor nations think of such an outrageous display of irresponsibility?"

He also asserted that the War Department was repudiating "solemn pledges" about demobilization made to Congress last September by Gen. George C. Marshall, then chief of staff.

However, Gen. Jacob L. Devers chief of Army Ground Forces contended in a speech that public clamor for bringing the boys back immediately is jeopardizing our security and wrecking the morale of men needed to maintain the peace.

Slowdown Probe Was Urged by Mrs. Luce

WASHINGTON, Jan. 10—An investigation by the House Military Affairs committee "to determine the justification" of the War department's action in slowing down demobilization of troops was suggested to Chairman Andrew J. May, (D), Ky. by Representative Clare Boothe Luce. Mrs. Luce is a member of the committee.

She sent a letter to Mr. May along with a batch of cables, telegrams and letters she has received from veterans protesting the slowdown. Mr. May is out of the city during the Congressional recess.

DEMOBILIZING 'HYSTERIA' HIT

Acting War Secretary Assails Deluge Of Criticism

Roanoke, Va., Jan. 10 (AP)—Kenneth C. Royall, Acting Secretary of War, deplored tonight "American hysteria to get the boys back home."

Royall, who will be one of the first witnesses before the Senate subcommittee investigating the demobilization situation, made his comment in an address prepared for the Rotary Club here.

"The ending of this hysteria," Royall said, "is the responsibility of the people of America, not of the Army, not of the Navy, not of the President, not of the Congress, but the responsibility of leaders in American communities like you people here tonight.

Calls Demobilization Remarkable

"And it is not sufficient to agree in vacuum with the general principles of occupation and demilitarization of our enemy countries and then say 'I want one exception made and that exception is the case of my son or my husband or my brother' nor it is enough to say 'we must still adjust our national economy so as to carry the necessary burden of occupation, but I don't think it should affect my business or my normal life.'

"It is that philosophy of 'me and my son John' that's flooding our congressmen with a deluge of criticism of demobilization—in spite of the most remarkable record of orderly demobilization ever established by the armed forces of any country in any war in the history of the world."

Royall said that the "hysteria" to get troops back home is adding to the financial burden by leaving in foreign theaters and in this country insufficient personnel to care for property. Then he added:

"And also—and this is many times more important—it is endangering our whole occupation policy. If it continues, America will lose its power to prevent the totalitarian elements in Germany and Japan from building again for another conquest. These elements are silent. They were silent in Germany after the first World War. No sane man can believe that left alone, Germany and Japan will continue to pursue a peaceful and submissive course."

"War Still A Possibility"

Royall said that the people of the United States are pledged to strive for the success of the United Nations Organization but that in the unsettled world of today "we cannot risk our nation's future entirely on a yet untried organization."

He said that war is still a possibility and that "if it comes, in this new atomic age, it will be more terrible and total than anything we have known in the past. Neither the doctrine of 'sweetness and light' nor solemn pledges will stop the bombs of a fanatical aggressor."

Frankfurt G. I.'s Mass Again

About 1000 Soldiers Stage a Demonstration Against Redeployment Delays.

JAN 11 1946

Frankfurt, Jan. 10 (A. P.).—Roughly 1,000 soldiers staged a second night demonstration tonight against delays in redeployment and booed the name of Secretary of War Patterson when it was mentioned in speeches before United States Army headquarters. Some speakers declared that many commanding officers restricted their men to quarters so they could not attend the protest. The number was considerably less than last night.

Earlier in the evening high staff officers told 22,000 protesting soldiers "We have commitments in Europe and cannot walk off and leave them."

These statements were made at a question and answer conference lasting two hours and a half called by Major-Gen. Harold P. Bull, theater chief of staff, acting for Gen. Joseph T. McNarney, who had gone to Berlin for the monthly four-Power control council meeting.

Bull summoned more than fifty G. I.'s from all of the Army units attached to United States forces in Europe into the war room headquarters following last night's protest demonstration.

Looks at Tasks Ahead.

"We have definite commitments on a four-Power level," Bull told soldiers who complained that many jobs in the theater were being done by twenty men when they could be done by one.

The General cited the work of rehabilitating displaced persons, dismantling German military installations and closing out all occupational installations.

"It is mostly a liquidation job," he said. "We have got a whole continent to cover."

However, Bull and his redeployment aids, led by Brig.-Gen. Charles S. Eyester, redeployment chief of the theater, assured the G. I. representatives that men with fifty-five or more points would be on their way home by the end of February, and that men with fifty or more points would be out of Europe by the end of March.

Frankfurt Yanks Call For Ike And Boo McNarney, Patterson

LOREGAN

Frankfurt, Germany, Jan. 10 (AP). Approximately 1,000 GI's, demonstrating again tonight against the redeployment slowdown, booed and hissed the name of Gen. Joseph T. McNarney, American commander in Europe, and chanted "we want Ike."

The soldiers also booed the name of Robert P. Patterson, Secretary of War, and one speaker declared "we are going to continue to hold meetings until we make ourselves heard by 'Affable Ike,'"—a reference to General Eisenhower, United States chief of staff and McNarney's predecessor.

Assurance On Points

The soldiers demonstrated as their representatives emerged from a conference in which they were told by high army officers that men must be kept in Europe until the United States fulfills its commitments there.

The conferees were assured, however, that men with 55 or more points would be en route home by the end of February, and that those with 50 and more points would be out of Europe by the end of March. Redeployment officers estimated there are now 220,000 men in Europe eligible for discharge with 50 points, or more than three and one half years' service.

Acting for McNarney, who is attending a four-power meeting in Berlin, Maj. Gen. Harold P. Bull, McNarney's chief of staff, summoned more than 100 representatives of United States Army units for a question-and-answer meeting that lasted two and one half hours.

"We have definite commitments in Europe and we can't walk off and leave them," Bull told the complaining and questioning soldiers.

He cited the tasks of rehabilitating displaced persons, dismantling German military plants and closing all but occupational installations to explain why all GI's could not go home at once.

"It is mostly a liquidation job," he said. "We have a whole continent to cover."

Full Investigation Ordered

Bull assured the GI representatives that McNarney would be glad to see any of them on his return.

The Army in the European theater cannot release men faster than outlined in the new redeployment program, Bull explained, because the estimates were based on the lowest number of men needed to accomplish Government-assigned tasks. He said McNarney had ordered that every job in the European theater be investigated to see if it could be done away with and the men concerned released.

Asked why replacements were not arriving in greater quantity in view of the fact that selective service is still in force, the General replied: "I wish I knew the answer to that."

Another Demonstration

Just as the conference ended, complaining veterans began the second night's demonstration outside the I. G. Farben building, where United States Army headquarters in Europe are located. The number of participants was considerably less than at the previous protest meeting, and some speakers charged that many commanding officers had restricted their men to quarters so they could not attend.

A large group of military policemen was at the scene, but there was no disorder as the crowd listened to speakers in a light rain.

It was announced that $1,000 had been collected to send cables of protest to President Truman, Patterson and to newspaper columnists. Shouts of approval echoed through the area as the men decided to hold a third protest meeting tomorrow night.

After an hour and a quarter, the demonstration broke up with the men marching away singing, "we want to go home."

2,500 GI's Sign Protest

Berlin, Jan. 10 (AP)—In an orderly mass meeting tonight at the huge Titania Palast Theater, 2,500 GI's signed a petition protesting the slowdown in redeployment. The petition will be sent to Speaker Sam Rayburn of the United States House of Representatives and to a number of newspapers in the United States.

Geiger Forbids Marines To Hold Demonstrations

Pearl Harbor Gets Order Just Before Scheduled Protest

HONOLULU, Jan. 10 (AP).—Lieutenant General Roy S. Geiger, commanding general of the Pacific Fleet marine force, issued orders today forbidding marines under his command to stage mass demobilization demonstrations. The orders were received by marine company commanders a few hours before marines were scheduled to meet at Camp Catlin, Pearl Harbor, tonight.

"We have issued orders against any demonstration, meetings tonight or at any other time at which our men enter their alleged grievances," said Brigadier General Mervin H. Silverthorn, chief of staff. "It isn't necessary for the men to hold a meeting to make their grievances known. The marines have had a standard method as long as I can remember whereby any man at any time can see his company or unit commander to discuss his troubles and receive an answer."

Silverthorn said letters carrying Geiger's orders had been sent to various commanders, and they had been told to take "appropriate measures" to prevent any meetings.

General Asks Respect For Those In Authority

Honolulu, Jan. 10 (AP)—Lieut. Gen. Robert C. Richardson, Jr., cautioned the mid-Pacific Stars and Stripes today not to speak disrespectfully of those in authority, but explained later he had no intention of muzzling the outspoken, soldier-edited newspaper in connection with the current demobilization controversy.

Stars And Stripes used as a headline in its January 7 issue for a story on a Manila demobilization demonstration, "Patterson Branded Number One Enemy By Jeering Mob."

The story referred to Secretary of War Patterson.

"Although men of my (mid-Pacific) command may disagree with policies of government and express themselves freely thereon, it is improper while we are in uniform to attack our leaders as individuals," Richardson said. He explained that such attacks "violate the Articles of War which I am under oath to enforce."

Free To Disagree On Policies

Today's edition, published after Richardson's directive, did not carry a single word written by GI's but after the directive was clarified Stars and Stripes said it would resume with soldier-written news, letters and soldier cartoons and editorials tomorrow.

At a later press conference, Richardson explained his directive meant that there must be no derogatory remarks made against individuals in authority but that the paper was free to disagree with the policies of the Government and express itself freely.

"He has given us back freedom of the press, for which we are thankful," commented Mast. Sergt. Charles Avedon, of Los Angeles, editor in chief.

Avedon explained that he and his staff had interpreted the directive to mean that there could be no criticism of the Army or its policies because such criticism would be derogatory to officers.

Only News Service Stories

"That wouldn't be derogatory," the General said, "that would be controversial."

The Thursday Stars and Stripes carried only stories from news services, which were exempt from Richardson's cautionary directive.

Richardson said: "You are in military service and Stars and Stripes is a paper published under auspices of the United States Army with authority of the Secretary of W—

"You and every member of your staff are forbidden to refer in your newspaper discourteously to the President of the United States, Secretary of War, chief of staff of the Army or to others in authority in the Army. You will not publish letters from any individuals which contains discourteous or derogatory statements against authority.

"Responsible For Directive"

"You will be held strictly responsible for this directive and you and every member of your staff will be subjected to disciplinary action if you violate it. This directive does not refer to news received from news services."

There was no story of a mass meeting of 10,000 GI's here last night protesting demobilization policies.

At the same time the staff of another leading soldier paper in the Pacific—the Tokyo edition of Stars and Stripes—charged it had been converted into "a house organ for the War Department" in the current "demobilization crisis." Their commanding officer, whose purported action brought the complaint, declined to comment.

Protest Meeting In Seoul

Besides the Honolulu mass meeting, the demobilization "crisis" brought out unestimated thousands of protesting GI's in Seoul, Korea.

Ten thousand demonstrators in Honolulu aired their protests last night before five congressmen, invited spectators who are investigating prospective statehood for Hawaii.

With roars of approval the meeting adopted a resolution asking Congress to enact legislation making army men with two years service eligible for discharge by March 20, reinstate the cumulative discharge point system which was "frozen" last September 2; reduce the critical score for discharge by ten points a month; and eliminate essential classifications for men eligible for discharge.

Army Paper Told To Tone Down Criticisms JAN 11

Honolulu, Jan. 10 (AP)—The Honolulu edition of Stars and Stripes, army newspaper, drew a stern warning today from the General who has upheld its outspoken policy, as GI criticism of the demobilization program flared anew throughout the Pacific.

Lieut. Gen. Robert C. Richardson, Jr., commander of the mid-Pacific, cautioned Stars and Stripes not to make any discourteous references to the President, Secretary of War, chief of staff or others in authority in the Army. Although this immediately was termed military censorship by some here, it was pointed out that Richardson only was calling attention to the Articles of War, which provide severe penalties for such criticism.

Staff Held Responsible

Nor is the paper to publish soldiers' letters which could be construed as discourteous or derogatory to authority.

The order holds the paper's staff strictly responsible and subject to disciplinary action for violations, but exempts news received by Stars and Stripes from news services.

[In Washington the War Department had no immediate comment on reports of Richardson's order. The sixty-second Article of War says: "Any officer who uses contemptuous or disrespectful words against the President, Vice President, the Congress of the United States, the Secretary of War, or the governor or legislature of any state, territory, or other possessions of the United States in which he is quartered shall be dismissed from the service or suffer such other punishment as a court-martial may direct."

Applicable To Others

[Then, making provision applicable to all military personnel, the Article says: "Any other person subject to military law who so offends shall be punished as a court-martial may direct."

[The sixty-third Article also says that "any person subject to military law who behaves himself with disrespect toward his superior officer shall be punished as a court-martial may direct."]

Usurped, Paper Says

In Tokyo, 26 members of the Pacific Stars and Stripes published there charged that it had been usurped in the "demobilization crisis" and converted into a "house organ for the War Department." They charged that Lieut. Col. James Parks, officer in charge, "broke faith" by publishing without their knowledge a letter from a radio commentator who criticized soldiers demanding quick discharge and reminded them that their buddies had lost their lives in the war.

They said the commentator, William J. Dunn (CBS), declared he never intended the letter for publication but "only to get a gripe off my chest."

Meeting In Germany

Meanwhile, in Frankfurt, Gen. Joseph T. McNarney's headquarters took immediate steps to answer a mass demonstration staged by thousands of GI's and WACs last night in protest against the redeployment slowdown.

Orders went out to all units under McNarney's European theater command to send representatives to a conference at his headquarters in the I. G. Farben Building. It was announced that European theater staff officers would meet the GI representatives to discuss their complaints.

Ike's Plan Hailed

Other developments:

MANILA—Thousands of soldiers whooped as they learned of General Eisenhower's authorization for theater commanders to send home any men deemed not necessary to occupation. T/4 Harold Schiffrin, temporary chairman of a demobilization protest committee, said "it's a great step forward and an intelligent one" but that the committee would adopt a wait-and-ee attitude before disbanding.

SEOUL, KOREA—Thousands of soldiers, at a mass meeting, vociferously but respectfully demanded a congressional inquiry of the demobilization slowdown. "We cannot understand the War Department's insistence on keeping an oversized peacetime army overseas under present conditions," stated a resolution. Lieut. Gen. John R. Hodge, occupation commander, was present to answer questions.

Congressmen At Rally

HONOLULU—Five members of a congressional committee studying Hawaii's application for statehood attended a mass meeting of 10,000 GI's who roared their approval of a four-point demobilization speed-up demand.

Richardson's orders to Honolulu Stars and Stripes came as a surprise. The General previously had supported the paper's outspoken policies.

In an editorial Tuesday, Stars and Stripes had pointed out discrepancies in statements on demobilization emanating from the War Department and asserted that Pacific GI's, as a result, "were confused" and did not know whom to believe. It said that if men with two years service were not released by March 20, as promised informally some time ago by General Marshall, the Army would have broken faith with the troops.

Four-Point Plan Okayed

At the Hickam Field rally, the GI's roared approval of a resolution asking Congress to enact this four-point program:

1. Make army personnel with two years service eligible for discharge by March 20.

2. Reinstate the cumulative discharge point system as of September 2, when it was discontinued.

3. Reduce the critical score for discharge by 10 points per month. It now is 50 points, a reduction from 85 as of V-J day.

4. Eliminate essential classifications for men eligible for discharge.

MacArthur Takes Action.

Tokyo, Jan. 10 (A. P.).—Gen. MacArthur today issued instructions to the United States Army in the Pacific that no ship shall return to the United States with an empty berth.

He instructed all commanders to release men in the order in which they would next become available for return in order to fill all spaces on all ships.

Twenty-six members of Pacific Stars and Stripes asserted earlier today that that Army newspaper had been useryed in the present demobilization crisis and converted into a house organ for the War Department.

They declared in a statement that Lieut. Col. James Parks, officer in charge of the paper, broke faith with them by publishing a letter from a radio commentator without their knowledge.

They said the commentator, William J. Dunn (CBS), declared he never intended the letter for publication but "only to get a gripe off my chest." The letter criticized G. I.'s who have been demonstrating for discharge and reminded them of those who had given their lives in the war.

"We deplore the necessity of airing our grievances in public but the issue is greater than enlisted personnel or the officer in charge," the statement said.

"From the moment of its inception it (Pacific Stars and Stripes) has never enjoyed privileges of a free press even by Army standards. It has through open and implied pressure upon it been forced to delete, distort and play down news to serve personal and professional interest of

Secretary Patterson Tours With GI Guest

Yokohama, Jan. 10 (AP)—Secretary of War Patterson returned by plane today from Hiroshima after a quick tour of southern Honshu Island on which he took a GI as a guest.

Patterson looked up T/4 Derrick V. Webbs, of Shelburn, Vt., son of an old friend, and took him on a special train for an inspection of Osaka, Kobe, Kure and Hiroshima.

JAN 11 1946

JAN 11 1946

Canadian Rockies Get An Ike's Peak

Ottawa, Jan. 10 (AP)—General Eisenhower, honored by having one of the most famous peaks in the Canadian Rockies named for him, appealed today for a continuance in peacetime of the co-operation shown by the Allies in war.

The chief of staff of the United States Army heard Prime Minister W. L. Mackenzie King announce at a luncheon of the Canadian Club attended by 600 people that 9,390-foot Castle Mountain at Banff, Alberta, had been renamed "Mount Eisenhower" as "a lasting expression of the admiration and affection" of the Canadian people.

"Success was ours because each nation was willing to submerge what might have appeared to be its own narrow interest in the common cause," Eisenhower told the luncheon audience. . . . "Just as each was necessary to victory, all must march together toward peace."

UNITY IS URGED BY EISENHOWER

General Calls for Teamwork on Behalf of Peace.

Ottawa, Jan. 10 (A. P.).—Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower, under whose leadership the western Allies defeated Germany, appealed today for the same kind of unselfish co-operation to maintain the peace and save the world from chaos. Such co-operation, necessary to assure the success of the United Nations Organization, can be achieved only if every nation realizes that its very survival may be at stake, Eisenhower declared in a luncheon address broadcast to Canada and the United States.

"Nations that joined together to defeat ruthless enemies have even greater reason to remain united for the peaceful settlement of their differences, lest new Hitlers rise to throw the world into a chaos more awful than the shattered countries of Europe present today," he said. "That is what we squarely face."

It is up to the ordinary citizen, however humble, to take part in this task, Eisenhower said.

It's Up to Citizens.

"Governments may wisely deal with the problems which rise in our concerted search for peace," he continued, "but in the end it will be the citizens of all countries who must outlaw war. Until the peoples of the world understand and respect the interests of their neighbors, the victory will elude us. Until the peoples of the world embrace the democratic belief that the dignity of the individual is the basis of the success of nations, the world will not find an enduring peace."

With hostilities over, the Allies in their even greater task of banishing war forever may learn from their battlefield co-operation, the general declared, adding: "I hate war as only a soldier who has lived it can, as only one who has seen its brutality, its futility, its stupidity. Yet there is one thing to say on the credit side—victory required a mighty manifestation of the most ennobling of the virtues of man—faith, courage, fortitude, sacrifice.

Praises Canadians.

"If we can only hold that example before our eyes; moreover, if we can remember that the international co-operation then so generously displayed points the sure way to the success of the United Nations Organization, then the war can never be regarded as a total deficit."

Eisenhower, on a four-day visit to Canada, warmly praised the Canadians who fought under him, singling out for special commendation the role they played in the clearing of the Scheldt Estuary to open up the port of Antwerp in the closing days of the war. It was a great accomplishment, and the greatest climax of the many Canadian missions, Eisenhower declared.

The historic Canadian assault on Dieppe early in the war, in which there were 3,350 casualties among the 5,000 participants, taught the Allied leaders important lessons which were put to good use later in the war, he said.

"Let no one tell you that the Dieppe affair was devoid of valuable results," he said. "I know of no other single incident that did so much to confirm convictions that the coastal fortifications in France could be successfully breached on a large scale."

Ike's Busy Day In Canada

Ottawa, Jan. 10 (AP) — With a friendly Canadian welcome still echoing in his ears, General Eisenhower embarked on a busy schedule today, the second day of his four-day visit to the Dominion.

A luncheon address by the General before the local Canadian Club, to be broadcast throughout Canada and the United States, was the highlight of a heavy program.

In addition he was to call on Prime Minister W. L. MacKenzie King at his residence and hold a press conference. Motor routes for the General's drive through the city were planned so that Canadians could turn out to get their first glimpse of him.

19 1-2 Cent Hourly Increase For G-M Employes Is Urged By Truman's Fact-Finders

JAN 11 1946

WASHINGTON, Jan. 10 — (AP) President's Truman's fact-finders tonight recommended settlement of the General Motors strike on the basis of a 19 1-2 cent hourly pay raise, and said they were satisfied the company could pay it without increasing the price of cars.

The President endorsed the panel's voluminous report in full and strongly urged that it be accepted.

Acceptance Expected

A White House adviser, whose name cannot be used, indicated strong optimism over the prospect of ultimate—though perhaps not immediate—acceptance of the plan.

He said preliminary conversations with principals on both sides, in which the proposed raise percentage was discussed, produced no statement of rejection. It was emphasized, however, that there had been no agreement to accept it.

This adviser said the fact that Kaiser-Frazer already has signed a wage agreement with the same union for production of small cars at the former Ford bomber plant at Willow Run, together with reported readiness of Ford to pay any amount agreed to by General Motors, probably will influence General Motors.

General Motors spokesmen said there will be no statement from the company until officials have had a chance to digest the voluminous report.

R. J. Thomas, president of the C.I.O.-U.A.W. whose 175,000 General Motors workers have been on strike for 50 days, also put off comment pending study.

The President termed the report of his three-man panel, compiled in less than two weeks, a "thorough and reasoned document" capable of ending "this most costly conflict" of the past 50 days, and clearing the postwar "industrial skies."

The board proposed a 17 1-2 per cent increase on the present average pay of $1.13 an hour — more than half the union's demand for 30 per cent or 33.6 cents an hour.

The panel said it had satisfied itself the increase would not have "inflationary consequences." It said it was convinced that the company could pay "in the first 12 months after the resumption of production the recommended wage increase without increasing prices."

It assumed that 1942 prices would be maintained, that productivity would be no greater than in 1941, aggregate volume of production would equal that of 1941, but that other costs would be up since 1941.

The panel, whose decision to consider "ability to pay" prompted the company to withdraw from the fact-finding proceedings, said the corporation's profits would exceed the OUA base period of 1941, and with new operations opening up, might top its 1941 production in 1947 by 50 per cent.

It mentioned that General Motors itself had introduced company records on profits and dividends in opposition to a wage demand before the War Labor board in 1942.

Can Apply to OPA

The panel did not preclude application by the company for higher prices, and said that was a matter for OPA to decide upon.

Other automobile manufacturers whose 1941 output was not as near capacity as General Motors' will be in still better position, the board suggested. It made no attempt to reach a formula for the industry, it said, however.

Corporation officials reserved comment in Detroit and Washington, pending study of the voluminous report.

Thomas called a meeting of the union executive board in Detroit Saturday—a move regarded as significant because it would pass on any possible settlement of the strike which began two days before Thanksgiving.

Walter P. Reuther, vice-president of the union in charge of General Motors negotiations, called the local representatives into conference Sunday to act on the proposal. It was this group which voted to strike in November.

Increased Output Seen

The panel held that tremendous production and increased output-per-man may be expected in General Motors after the first 12 months and said "the company ought certainly to be included among those employers who are capable of making substantial wage increases for the benefit of their workers and of the nation."

Mr. Truman, in a formal statement shortly after the panel's report had been delivered to him, called it "a thorough and reasoned document" which would "commend itself to the good judgment of the American public."

"I sincerely hope that the parties will follow the recommendations and bring about a speedy end to this most costly conflict," the President said.

"I am satisfied that if such a settlement is made, the industrial skies will rapidly clear and American industry and labor will go forward to new heights of achievement in the interests of the whole country."

Acceptance by the corporation and the C.I.O.-auto workers could lead to the sought-after break in the series of major labor disputes plaguing reconversion. These include steel, electrical manufacturing and meat packing strikes lined up for next Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday.

The increase proposed for General Motors workers is slightly under the pattern which seems to be developing slowly in the C.I.O.-oil workers wage dispute. There have been oil settlements at 18 per cent.

The three-man General Motors panel, consisting of Chairman Lloyd K. Garrison, Milton D. Eisenhower and Chief Justice Walter P. Stacy, of the North Carolina Supreme court, was the first such group to complete its services and recommend a solution for a major postwar controversy. The fact-finding procedure is the basis of Mr. Truman's recommendations for handling the big labor disputes. He has asked for legislation to back such boards and in the meantime has gone ahead with them on his own.

Steel Report Awaited

A similar board has been named by Mr. Truman to investigate the C.I.O.-Steelworkers' demand for $2 a day higher pay in the steel industry. That panel delayed hearings this week to await the outcome of collective bargaining negotiations which started today in New York.

Another board is to report on January 15 in the oil disputes, which resulted in Navy seizure of strikebound refineries and pipelines in October. All but 36 properties have been turned back to the owners as a result of private compromise on the union's 30 per cent wage demand.

Government feelers on possible price concessions—centering on $4 a ton—were counted on to assist the steel negotiations.

A spokesman for the C.I.O.-United Electrical Workers here said that if the steel strike scheduled for next week is called off because of an agreement on wages, the 200,000 electrical union members planning to walk out of General Electric, Westinghouse and General Motors electric division will follow suit quickly.

That would leave only the meat packing strike pending for next week. Conciliation conferences in that row are under way in Chicago, with government price concessions playing a big role there.

The General Motors panel called for immediate end of the strike and reinstatement of the 1945 contract which the company cancelled on December 10—"as it had a right to do."

President Truman said that a large part of the proposed wage increase "is for a cost-of-living adjustment to the workers, who have received no general wage increase since 1942."

"The balance is to compensate for loss of earnings due to shorter hours and other factors," the President said.

The corporation had offered as high as 13 1-2 cents an hour, to balance the average worker's pay with a living cost increase of 33 per cent rise since January 1941.

The panel suggested that collective bargaining be resumed after the strike is called off and the 175,000 workers are back on the job. It said there should be no discrimination because of participation in the walkout.

It recommended also that "the management, the union, and the workers join in a wholehearted effort to restore production as speedily as possible; to continue it without interruption; and to lift it to new levels of efficiency and capacity in the interests of all the people."

in all likelihood exceed its maximum capacity to produce. The company will go into this period in a very favorable position: With a more efficient working force, as experienced workers return from the war and take the place of newcomers to industry; with new and up-gre .We have examined them and are unable to come to any clear conclusions; but one fact stands out, and that is that all the companies produced in 1941 much less in proportion to their capacity than General Motors, and therefore, un-

we have assumed that (a) General Motors will sell its products at its 1942 schedule of prices, (b) productivity will be no greater than in 1941, (c) aggregate volume of production will equal that of 1941, (d) material costs to General Motors have increased 15 per cent since 1941 and may increase more, (e) total payrolls have increased and will increase proportionately with wage increases and (f) selling, general and administrative costs will be somewhat higher than in 1941.

Our calculations show that, under these assumptions, the company can earn, in the first twelve months following the resumption of production, profits in excess of those of the base period used by Office of Price Administration for pricing purposes. Such a result is possible principally because (a) prices on General Motors 1942 models are slightly more than 12 per cent above 1941 models thus yielding a substantial increase in income on an equal volume of production, and (b) General Motors' 1941 profits were the highest in the history of the company. It does not follow, of course, that the company will not apply for price increases; nor do we attempt to forecast what the Office of Price Administration would do should an application be made after such approval by the National Wage Stabilization board as might be required. We have not felt it proper for us to consult the Office of Price Administration on this matter. It is because of continued shortages of materials and other uncertainties in production, that we have not felt justified in estimating for the first twelve months following resumption of work a total production in excess of that achieved by General Motors in 1941. We recognize of course that General Motors will gradually achieve higher and higher output, only the time factor being in question. Certainly as General Motors' new plants come into operation, it may exceed in 1947 its 1941 production by as much as 50 per cent. This desirable development will greatly increase the company's profits and will give it the pleasant task of determining how such profits shall be distributed—to stockholders, to reserves, and to consumers generally in the form of higher quality and lower-priced products.

Recommendations for G-M Strike Settlement

WASHINGTON, Jan. 10—(AP)—Following is the text of the recommendations with which President Truman's fact-finding board concluded its report on the General Motors strike:

RECOMMENDED SETTLEMENT

Since it is apparent that the parties cannot reach an agreement, it falls to this board to recommend a specific figure in the hope that it will afford a basis for bringing this prolonged conflict to a prompt and peaceful end.

Taking into account all the circumstances, the board has concluded that a general wage increase of 19 - 1-2 cents, or 6 above the company's offer, would be fair and consistent with the public interest in the maintenance of a stabilized economy.

To each of the parties we make the following comments with respect to this recommendation.

To the company we have this to say:

1. The award is within the probable range of the loss of take-home pay which will result from a shorter average work-week in 1946. If we have under-estimated the probable extent of overtime in 1946, there is an eleemnt of loss of earnings through down-grading and demotion which, though it cannot be measured, should in our judgment be given some weight along with loss of earnings through shorter hours.

2. The proposal is in line with the national wage-price policy.

3. It is reasonably related to adjustments which have already been made by some portions of American industry. As a leader of American industry, General Motors ought to stand in the forefront of those employers who are doing what they can to cushion for their workers the economic shock of the transition from war production to civilian production.

4. The company faces a period unprecedented in its history, when the demand for its products will to-the-minute plant facilities, which will come into operation in the latter part of the year; and with an increasing productivity through technological advance which can be expected to make itself felt significantly at least toward the end of the first year of operation.

To the union and to the workers we have this to say:

1. If, as we believe is probable, the hours worked in 1946 will average a fraction over 40, based on a normal 40-hour week, the amount here recommended would make up the entire loss of earnings from reduction of the war-time hours worked in 1944. If the hours should average close to 41, the loss would be more than made up, and overtime premium pay would further increase the effect of the benefit.

2. If in this respect our judgment should prove faulty and the hours should average 40 or less, the loss would still to a very large extent be made up. President Truman said on October 30, 1945, "We cannot hope, with a reduced work week, to maintain now the same take-home pay for labor generally that it has had during the war. There will have to be a drop. But the nation cannot afford to have that drop too drastic." If there should be a drop in this case, we do not believe that it would be a drastic one.

We conclude with these general observations:

1. There is laid upon us an obligation not to recommend an increase which we believe would have inflationary consequences. We have satisfied our consciences on that score so far as the company is concerned. (See foot note.)

2. So far as the rest of the automobile industry is concerned, it is recognized that the settlement in this case will affect the wage levels of all automobile companies, not necessarily identically or all at once, but fairly speedily and more or less to the same extent. It is well known that General Motors has consistently been the most profitable of the automobile companies. Only one other company approaches it in this respect. Except in the case of General Motors, however, published data on hours, wage rates, material costs, income and profits are mea-

der the peak demand to be expected in 1946, they are likely to be able to operate at a proportionately higher volume in relation to 1941 output than General Motors. Under these circumstances we do not think that there would be any occasion for considering a downward adjustment of the proposed General Motors wage increase on the ground of price consequences to the industry.

3. So far as industry generally is concerned, we wish to emphasize as sharply as we know how the fact that we have endeavored to decide this case upon its own particular merits. We have not evolved any formula or set of rules to be applied in other cases. Each case must stand upon its own footing and be judged accordingly.

SPECIFIC RECOMMENDATIONS

1. We recommend that the company grant a general wage increase of 19 1-2 cents an hour.

2. In line with the customary practice of American industry in similar situations, we recommend that the status quo prevailing before the strike be restored by the reinstatement of the 1945 contract between the parties, which the company cancelled on December 10, 1945 (as it had a right to do).

3. We recommend that after the reinstatement of the contract and pending its expiration on April 22, 1946 the parties settle by collective bargaining the remaining issues between them.

4. We recommend that the strike be called off and that the employes be returned to work without discrimination because of their participation in the strike.

5. We recommend that the management, the union, and the workers join in a whole-hearted effort to restore production as speedily as possible; to continue it without interruption; and to lift it to new levels of efficiency and capacity in the interests of all the people.

G.M. Head Explains Stand On Group

Detroit, Jan. 10 (AP)—C. E. Wilson, president of General Motors Corporation, has informed UAW-CIO President Walter P. Reuther that the corporation "is in no way responsible for any of the activities of the Society of Sentinels and contributes no support to it."

Reuther had asked General Motors to take a stand on the activities of the society, pointing out that G.M. Economist Stephen du Brul was one of its vice chairmen. The union official described the group's program as "starkly reactionary."

Things Society Opposes

The society, described as an organization of business men, recently ran a nationally distributed advertisement advocating abolition of the Social Security Act, the National Labor Relations Act, Wages and Hours Act and other legislation.

In a telegram to Reuther yesterday, Wilson said he had not heard of the society until he received the former's communication regarding it, and added:

"Mr. Stephan du Brul's interest in it is a personal matter with him."

"Incidentally," the telegram continued, "Mr. Du Brul has stated that he did nto subscribe to the statement to which you refer, (the society's advertisement) had nothing to do with its composition and contributed nothing to its dissemi-

UNION POSTPONES PLANS TO PICKET PHONE EXCHANGES

Western Electric Workers Delay Action Until Monday Morning.

NEW PARLEY CALLED

Weaver Accepts Schwellenbach Offer for Washington Conference.

NEW YORK, Jan. 10. — (AP) Ernest Weaver, president of the Association of Communications Equipment Workers (Ind.), said tonight that the union had postponed plans for picketing telephone exchanges in 44 states tomorrow, apparently temporarily removing the threat of a nationwide phone tieup.

Weaver said the picketing had been called off until Monday morning.

JAN 11 1946

He made the announcement after talking with Labor Secretary Lewis Schwellenbach by telephone and accepting an invitation to confer with the labor head and officials of the Western Electric Company in Washington tomorrow.

Schwellenbach entered the controversy as Weaver told reporters that negotiations were broken off.

Weaver said after the breakup of negotiations late tonight that it would be "practically impossible" to call off all the picket lines at such a late hour. Picketing had been scheduled to start in Michigan and part of Indiana at 12:01 a. m. (EST).

Pickets Planned

The A.C.E.W. is an affiliate of National Federation of Telephone Workers (Ind.), which had planned to observe picket lines in 44 states. Union officials said the lines would not be crossed by some 200,000 members of affiliated telephone unions.

John J. Moran, president of the Federation of Long Line Workers, declared earlier that 1,000 members of his union would leave their posts at the American Telephone and Telegraph company building at 7 a. m.

"It is with sincere regret that we announce that the company after considering a proposal from the union, which was a compromise of the original union demand, has not seen fit to make any proposal to the union and therefore definitely breaking off negotiations," Weaver said.

With Moran's announcement came word from J. R. Frydale, president of the Installation Workers Local in Chicago, that picketing of telephone exchanges in Illinois and Wisconsin would begin at 6 a. m., tomorrow. West Coast union officials said an estimated 17,000 communications workers in California and Nevada would be idle within a week.

However, the Mountain States Federation of Telephone Workers, representing virtually all employes of the Mountain States Telephone and Telegraph Company operating in Colorado, Arizona, Idaho, New Mexico, Montana, Utah, Wyoming, and El Paso, Tex., declined yesterday to observe picket lines.

In Buffalo, the executive council of the Empire State Telephone Union also decided against respecting picket lines, Gordon M. Gates, president of the Buffalo Council said.

New England Action

Only a scattered small number of persons left their jobs in New England where installation and maintenance is performed principally by employes of the New England Telephone and Telegraph Company, it was stated.

A walkout by Moran's union would mean that manual operation of the huge A. T. & T. long distance, trans-oceanic and ship-to-shore facilities in this city virtually would cease tomorrow. Local telephones where dial systems are in operation would not be affected by any walkout, but union officials said lack of maintenance would put those telephones out of order within a week or 10 days.

Telephone company engineers, however, said that barring accident dial phones would operate for "a long period without serious breakdown."

The installation workers struck yesterday, the second Western Electric Employes' group to walk out in a week. Their strike, involving 8,000 workers, tied up 775 installation projects in 44 states, the company said.

Last week, the Western Electric Employes Association, whose 17,000 members were engaged in the manufacture of telephone equipment in the Metropolitan area, struck in a demand for a 30 per cent wage increase. The installation workers had asked a weekly $6 boost, but just before walking out announced they had reduced the amount to an undisclosed figure.

Western Electric and the Bell Telephone System are subsidiaries of the American Telephone and Telegraph Company.

STEEL CONFEREES SILENT ON PARLEY

Union, Company Officials Adjourn Session for 24 Hours.

NEW YORK, Jan. 10.—(AP) Officials of the U. S. Steel Corp. and the C.I.O. United Steelworkers, meeting in last-minute efforts to avert a shutdown in the nation's steel industry, today adjourned for 24 hours without announcing what progress if any, was made.

Neither company nor union officials commented on today's three-hour session, other than to report that negotiations would be resumed at 2 p. m. tomorrow.

Benjamin F. Fairless, corporation president, and Philip Murray, president of the C.I.O. and the Steel Union, headed three-man delegations to the conference seeking a settlement to halt 700,000 steel workers from walking off their jobs Monday. The men are demanding a $2 a day wage boost.

Indications were that a satisfactory agreement might pave the way for settlement of other threatened strikes involving more than 1,000,000 workers across the nation.

Others present from the corporation were John A. Stephen, vice-president in charge of industrial relations, and Roger M. Blough, general solicitor. Other C.I.O. men present were Lee Pressman, general counsel, and Clinton S. Golden, assistant to Murray.

Price Boost Asked

U. S. Steel refused to continue wage negotiations unless the government granted a price boost. The firm asked $7 a ton increase, the OPA was agreeable to $2.50, but Reconversion Director John W. Snyder and Stabilization Administrator John C. Collett reportedly favored $4.

Informed sources believe a compromise may be reached at about the $4 figure, but what the government favors was not disclosed officially.

The Steelworkers entered the meeting expecting the corporation to offer a compromise wage boost, probably between $1.20 and $1.76 a day.

C.I.O. representatives have admitted that any settlement reached in the steel dispute would have a direct effect on the threatened strike of 200,000 United Electrical workers at General Electric, General Motors and Westinghouse companies, set for Jan. 15, and the A.F.L.-C.I.O. bid for higher pay for 500,000 shipyard workers.

Lock Strikers Ask Baldwin For Fact-Finding Committee

STAMFORD, Jan. 10.—(AP)—The International Association of Machinists (A.F.L.) called upon Governor Raymond E. Baldwin to appoint a fact-finding committee today after contract negotiations wit' the Yale & Towne Mfg. Co. had broken down for the third time after 15 minutes of discussion.

Asserting that the "company has refused to budge on the open shop and refuses to offer wage increases," Jerome Y. Sturm, union attorney, asked the governor to appoint the committee through Perley Hovey, State Labor department mediator, "for the purpose of hearing stimony and making findings and recommendations" on the issues which have kept the sprawling plant strikebound since November 7.

The union is seeking a closed shop and a 30 per cent wage increase. Approximately 3,000 workers are affected.

Hovey, who was the only neutral spectator at today's meeting, said the company had offered the same counter-proposals to the union de- offered last Thursday.

The union refused to consider them, he said, asserting it wanted "no part in wasting time."

The proposals off ed by the company on January 3 were for an open shop, a 45-hour work week, not guaranteed, and an increase of 5 cents per hour for day workers in t"e lowest labor grades.

Sturm issued a statement after the short meeting in which he said, "the company has refused to submit the issues to arbitration."

Said Weldon P. Monson, company attorney, "the union has failed to make any counter-proposals to the company's proposals of January 3."

Hovey revealed that the State Labor department plan he had submitted to both sides before the start of today's meeting was for "maintenance of membership." He s. ' both sides had been non-committal before the negotiations started and asserted he had had "no chance" to present the plan during the negotiations.

MEAT PACKERS BAR U.S. OFFER

Reject Price-Relief Proposal; Strike Set For Wednesday

JAN 11 1946

Chicago, Jan. 10 (AP)—Two large meat packers rejected a Government offer of price relief today and, after failure of this attempt to avert a nation-wide meat-industry strike, the United States conciliation chief, Edgar L. Warren, declared, "the situation looks very bad."

The Government proposed to pay 50 cents more a hundred pounds for all meat it buys, including purchases for the Army, Navy and foreign relief.

Swift Also Rejects Offer

Rejecting this plan, George A. Eastwood, Armour and Company president, said it was "wholly inadequte to meet the demands" of the CIO-Packinghouse Workers' Union, whose 200,000 members are scheduled to strike next Wednesday.

Swift and Company also turned down the proposal, declaring it "must be regarded as impractical because it would cover only the first three months of 1946 and carries no assurance as to volume. It is inadequate because, based on our January sales to the Government, the proposal would allow a wage increase of 1½ cents an hour."

Swift added that the 1½ cents it estimated the Government plan would allow would be in addition to the 7½-cent hourly wage increase already offered by the packers.

The union is asking a 25-cent raise, 17½ cents of it payable immediately and the remainder to be determined by further bargaining.

'No Half Strike'

Patrick Gorman, secretary of the AFL-Amalgamated Meat Cutters and Butcher Workmen, who attended the conciliation conferences said the work stoppage, if it comes will be "a complete tieup of the industry. There will be no half strike."

The AFL union has threatened to call out its 135,000 members in butcher shops throughout the country in support of the CIO demands.

Warren said there were two possibilities for averting a strike if negotiations break down: "Certification to the White House for appointment of a fact-finding board, or Government seizure of the plants involved in the dispute."

He did not elaborate this statement, saying he would withhold his own recommendation until he had conferred with the Secretary of Labor, Lewis B. Schwellenbach.

Kaiser's Son Given Post

Detroit, Jan. 10 (AP)—Appointment of Edgar Kaiser as vice president and general manager of the Kaiser-Frazer Corporation was announced today by Joseph W. Frazer president of the corporation. Kaiser, eldest son of Henry J. Kaiser chairman, will make his headquarters at Willow Run where the concern plans production of a medium and a low-priced automobile.

Congress Labor Action Is Forecast By George

Washington, Jan. 10 (AP)—Congress "is going to act" in the nation's labor crisis, Senator George (D., Ga.) declared here today in advocating that the lawmakers and the President get together on "a reasonable legislative solution."

The Georgian expressed fear that unless current disputes are settled before Congress returns Monday "we may get drastic and ill-considered legislation."

"It would be helpful," he said, "if the President could get together with leaders of both parties on a reasonable course. Certainly the country's present plight is above politics.

"People Expect Congress Action"

"The people are looking to Congress for action so we can resume the job of production and reconversion. The time is past, in my opinion, when the President can end the present wave of disputes by appeals to one side or the other."

He expressed doubt that men would return to work if the Government were to take over strike-bound industries.

The Senator, confined to his hotel by a cold today, said recently that his mail reaction to President Truman's Congress-prodding speech generally expressed opinion the executive "had not gone far enough."

4,000 WRITE TO TRUMAN

Ross Tells of Response to President's Call on Public

WASHINGTON, Jan. 10 (AP)—More than 4,000 leters and postcards have been received by the White House in response to President Truman's plea to the people to put pressure on Congress for action on his domestic program.

In addition, Charles G. Ross, press secretary said, more than 500 telegrams have been received, but this form of reaction has about stopped.

Mr. Ross said the letters, which are still arriving, run 80 to 85 per cent "favorable."

"Many say they are writing their Congressmen," Mr. Ross said, stating that he gave this information in reply to "commentators who said the response had been pitifully small."

SEC Union Filing Proposed By Byrd

Richmond, Va., Jan. 10 (AP)—Senator Byrd (D., Va.) will offer, when Congress reconvenes next week, legislation calling for the registration of all unions with the Securities and Exchange Commission, he told the Richmond Chamber of Commerce at its annual meeting here tonight.

Until labor shoulders the responsibility that accompanies power "there can be lo lasting industria peace upon which our future prosperity so vitally depends," Senator Byrd declared.

"I have already announced my desire to support President Truman in all proper measures to control strikes," he said. "I believe it vitally important that the President and the Congress get together on a constructive course. I will do all I can to bring this about.

Against Profits Study

"I favor the cooling-off period recommended by the President. I favor fact finding and the publication of full facts regarding both corporations and unions, but I do not believe that corporation profits should be considered as a basis for collective bargaining.

"If so, by the same token, losses must likewise be considered. Some corporations make money, others lose. Some make more, some make less, and to include profits as a major consideration in collective bargaining would mean a very spotted wage scale which, if fairly applied, would greatly confuse the wage situation. The principle is wrong and when a recession in business conditions comes, labor would be the first to want to abandon it."

Points In Legislation

Senator Byrd continued that: "As a first step to union responsibility, and this responsibility I believe to be essential before any real progress can be made to end industrial strife, I will offer when Congress reconvenes on January 14, legislation to provide:

1. That within a resonable time, and annually thereafter, all unions shall register with the Securities and Exchange Commission; that each union shall annually report to the commission, among other information: Initiation fees, annual dues charged to each member, assessments levied during the past twelve months' period, limitation on membership, number of paid-up members, salaries of officers, date of the last election of officers, the method of election, the vote for and against each candidate for office, reserves in the treasury, the date of the last detailed financial statement furnished to all members, and the method of publication or circulation of such statement.

2. That every labor organization having as members one or more employés of persons engaged in commerce shall take out articles of incorporation under the laws of the District of Columbia.

3. That labor unions can be sued for civil damages, either for the breach of its employment contract or for the unlawful damage or destruction of property.

4. That no labor organization shall be entitled to any rights, privileges or benefits under the National Labor Relations Act unless and until such organization complies with the provisions of this law.

"I will press for this legislation as strongly as I can. It is democratic and just. I am convinced its enactment will be a substantial deterrent to strikes."

FISTICUFFS MARK UNION SESSION

ATLANTIC CITY, Jan. 10—(AP) An international row between factions of the Industrial Union of Marine and Shipbuilding Workers of America (C.I.O.) broke into the open today in a disturbance that threatened to turn the union's 11th annual convention into a riot.

After President John Green—again victorious as the so-called Right-Wing leader—recessed the convention until tomorrow, disgruntled delegates rushed on the stage of the Chelsea Hotel auditorium in an effort to appeal his decision.

Green's rostrum and numerous tables were overturned, and fist fights broke out. In a matter of seconds, pent-up feelings were transformed into action and the melee became general.

Green's supporters gathered around the diminutive Scotsman and escorted him through the surging crowd of delegates, despite Green's pleas of "I'm all right, boys—I can take care of myself."

The disturbance was broadened when the delegates who voted for the recess—generally the Right-Wing faction—attempted to leave the auditorium from their positions in the front of the hall. In order to leave, they had to pass through the ranks of the rival group in the rear.

The split between the two groups first became evident yesterday when Green's backers won a test vote permitting delegates to vote for other locals by proxy. Opponents had contended that this system permitted Green's "hand-picked" delegates to control the convention.

KIMMEL BLAMES NAVY CHIEFS FOR FLEET DISASTER

Had to Keep Ships at Pearl Harbor or Quit Post, Admiral Says.

SHOT DOWN OWN PLANES

Testimony Given Four Years Ago at Secret Inquiry Revealed by Probers.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 10. — (AP) Congressional investiga s learned today that Admiral Husband E. Kimmel told the Roberts Commission four years ago the Washington administration insisted on keeping the fleet in Pearl Harbor and he had the choice of agreeing or quitting as its commander.

The admiral's testimony at previous secret quiries, furnished to members of the Senate-House committee today, disclosed that on Dec. 27, 1941, in Honolulu, Kimmel told the group headed by Owen J. Roberts, then associate justice of the Supreme court:

"I knew that the Navy department and the administration in Washington insisted on keeping the fleet out here. I knew of the vulnerability of the fleet here. I thought it was appreciated in the Navy department as well as by me, but it was one of the things I felt was beyond my power to change.

Choice Given

"I had the choice of saying I would not stay and to get another commander-in-chief, or to remain. Naturally, I wish I had taken the other course at the present time, but I did not."

The 63-year-old retired admiral, who Secretary Forrestal has said should never again hold a position with the Navy requiring the exercise of "superior judgment," is to begin his first public testimony before the Senate-House committee next Tuesday.

Committee members, studying his complete testimony before the Roberts commission, a Navy inquiry board and an Army inquiry board, found these principal contentions by Kimmel:

1. "Things would have been different" if Washington had furnished him all the information it had obtained through intercepting and decoding Japanese messages.

2. Had he been forewarned with information obtained when the Japanese consul's codes were seized in Honolulu Dec. 7, 1941, he would have ordered all fleet units to sea and would have put all his planes in the air.

3. If he had flown long-range reconnaissance from Nov. 27, when he received a "war warning" message, the Army and Navy would not have had enough planes to make up an air striking force to "go after the enemy if we found him."

4. He felt it "incomprehensible" that the Army did not report to him until Dec. 9 that its rader had plotted the course of the Japanese planes retiring from the attack.

5. From actions of the Navy department he believed that it shared his own opinion that an air attack on Pearl Harbor was only "a remote possibility."

6. He saw no Navy men intoxicated the night before the attack.

Kimmel disclosed that he was struck on the chest by a spent machine gun bullet as he watched the attack from his headquarters window.

Kimmel Complained

Kimmel complained to the Army inquiry board Aug. 25, 1944, that "vital information in the hands of the War and Navy department was not supplied" to him and Maj. Gen. Walter C. Short, then Hawaiian army commander.

"Things would have been different" if the information had been furnished, he testified.

"Had we been furnished this information as little as two or three hours before the attack, which was easily feasible and possible, much could have been done," he said.

Kimmel declared he was "certain that several days prior to Dec. 7, 1941, there was information in the War department and the Navy department that Japan would attack the United States, and very probably, that the attack would be directed against the fleet at Pearl Harbor, among other places."

He expressed the belief there was information in the War and Navy departments December 6, 1941, "that the hour of attack was momentarily imminent, and that early on December 7, 1941, the precise time of the attack was known."

Kimmel disclosed to the Roberts Commission that the codes of the Japanese consul in Honolulu had been seized on December 7 and that messages pertaining to Pearl Harbor had been broken down from these codes December 9.

The Senate-House committee has heard previously that the Japanese consul was ordered to burn his codes, but has had no evidence that the destruction was carried out.

Kimmel said that if he had had the information in these messages, which arranged signals about the location of the American ships in the harbor, he would have "ordered all units to sea, because the best dispositions against surprise air attack can be effected with the fleet at sea."

In a statement to the Roberts Commission, Kimmel said he never had had available at Pearl Harbor more than one-third of the planes that would be necessary for a complete circle, long-range reconnaissance. He said this would require 84 planes daily and three times that number to continue it indefinitely.

He said that because of rapidly changing personnel, it was necessary to keep the fleet near Pearl Harbor where facilities were available for training.

Navy Shot Down Own Planes, Kimmel Reveals

WASHINGTON, Jan. 10—(AP) Gunners on American warships in Pearl Harbor, jittery after the Japanese attack the morning of Dec. 7, 1941, shot down some American planes that night.

The incident was disclosed today in publication of testimony by Admiral Husband E. Kimmel, 1941 Pacific fleet commander, to the Roberts investigation commission four years ago.

The number of planes shot down was not developed in the examination.

Brig. Gen. Joseph E. McNarney asked Kimmel if he knew of "the incident which happened on the night of December 7 with regard to losing some of our carrier planes?"

Kimmel replied that he did. He went on to relate that Admiral William F. Halsey, at sea with a task force including the carrier Enterprise, had advised that six fighter planes were coming in to land at Ford Island Navy airfield in Pearl Harbor.

Came in With Lights On

The Army, Navy and everyone else was informed, he said, and the planes came in with their running lights on.

"Unfortunately, instead of going right down and landing at Ford Island, the smoke from the burning oil overshadowed the whole place and they were blinded and tried to get in there and they came right up over the ships," Kimmel continued.

"Now, you must remember that these people on the ships had undergone a terrific experience. One ship opened fire, and the trigger fingers were very itchy, and when that one ship opened fire the whole bunch opened in a fusillade.

"The minute the first one opened fire I sent out the signal, 'cease fire. Cease fire.' And the commandant of the district sent out the signal to cease fire.

"You can well understand the feelings of these people on the ships when they saw those planes coming over them after having had their first baptism of fire. I cannot find it in my heart to be too harsh on the people who opened fire.

"Much as I regret the incident, I know of nothing that we could have done other than we did do that night to prevent it."

Byrnes Outlines Plan to Tell World About America's Aims

Writes Truman That Overseas Information Program Will Help to Achieve Security and Peace So Much Desired.

JAN 11 1946

Washington, Jan. 10 (A. P.).—Secretary of State Byrnes has advised President Truman that the department's new international information program "will help to achieve the security and peace which our people so ardently desire."

Writing of the department's new International Office of Information and Cultural Affairs, created on January 1, Byrnes said: "The program will be a new departure for the United States, the last of the great nations of the earth to engage in informing other peoples about its policies and institutions."

He said in the letter, dated December 31 and made public by the White House today, that there never was a time, even in the midst of war, when "it was so necessary to replace prejudice with truth, distortion with balance and suspicion with understanding."

"We cannot expect," he wrote, "to carry on our foreign relations effectively unless we recognize this activity as, in your own words, 'an integral part of the conduct of our foreign affairs.'

"We would defeat our objectives in this program it we were to engage in special propagandist pleading. Our purpose is, and will be, solely to supply the facts on which foreign peoples can arrive at a rational and accurate judgment.

Submits Proposals.

The Secretary of State said that proposals for the overseas information service, in terms of money and personnel to be required after July 1, have been submitted to the Budget Bureau calling for:

1. Maintenance of American libraries of information abroad;

2. Supplying of documentary and background material by wireless and mail to United States missions overseas;

3. Scoring of documentary films into foreign languages;

4. Continued publication of a Russian language magazine for distribution in the Soviet Union;

5. Continuing supply of visual materials about the United States;

6.Maintenance in sixty-two countries of small staffs to conduct informational and cultural relations under the direct supervision of the chiefs of United States diplomatic missions.

Extend Some Activities.

Byrnes said to these activities will be added an extension to many other countries of the work now being done by the department, principally in Latin America, in exchanging students, scholars and technicians on behalf of twenty-six agencies of this Government.

He said that the program also provides for continuance of short-wave broadcasting on a reduced scale until recommendations can be made for ultimate disposition of the war time transmitters and frequencies now in the government's hands.

"Many countries," he said, "are interested in the development of this powerful new medium giving us direct access to the peoples of other lands who want to understand the American people and their policies."

Byrnes said that the proposals constitute a modest program compared to wartime standards.

"We shall not seek," he said, "to compete with private agencies of communication, nor shall we try to outdo the efforts of foreign governments in this field.

"Our program, however, calls for a significant expansion, in terms of personnel and budget of the pre-war expenditures of the Department of State."

ROSENWALD HITS COMMONWEALTH FOR PALESTINE

WASHINGTON, Jan. 10 — (AP) Lessing J. Rosenwald, president of the American Council for Judaism, opposed the creation of a Jewish commonwealth in Palestine in testimony today before the Anglo-American Palestine committee.

His testimony brought an indignant protest from Rabbi Stephen S. Wise, president of the American Jewish Congress.

"Anything which sets up a separate state introduces the question of allegiance," said Rosenwald.

"One of the fundamental tenets of Zionism is that a man can go to Palestine as a right and not as a sufferance.

"As an American citizen, I have the right to come into the United States. As soon as the Jewish state is set up, I, as a Jew, would have the right to go to Palestine."

"That puts Jews in a different category from any people," he said, in that it would give them dual citizenship.

Rabbi Wise, increasingly agitated, left his seat among the spectators and sought to whisper to the American co-chairman, Judge Joseph C. Hutcheson of Houston, Texas. The British co-chairman, Sir John Singleton, moved away.

When Rosenwald finished Rabbi Wise jumped to his feet, arms upraised, and asked for "just two minutes."

Judge Hutcheson reminded him that he had already testified and that other witnesses were waiting, but finally let him speak.

Rabbi Wise quoted the late Supreme Court Justice Louis D. Brandeis as saying, "let no American imagine that Zionism is incompatible with patriotism," and that "loyalty to America demands that every Jew become a Zionist."

Home Builders Bringing Plea To Truman

JAN 11 194

Washington, Jan. 10 (AP)—Leaders of the nation's home builders planned a plea to President Truman today for Government help in boosting the output of building materials.

They arranged a White House conference to tell Mr. Truman they can't make any real start toward solving the housing crisis until lumber and other necessary supplies become more plentiful.

The delegation was made up of officials of the National Association of Home Builders, headed by Joseph E. Merrion, of Chicago. Merrion summoned the group here for a series of "emergency sessions" with Wilson Wyatt, the new national housing expediter. Other Government officials will sit in.

Ceilings On Materials Issue

A spokesman for Merrion's group said the builders will not volunteer any recommendations to Mr. Truman for increasing the present driblet of materials.

But, he added, if the builders are asked for their suggestions they will recommend that OPA cancel price ceilings on materials. OPA recently has approved a number of price boosts in several lines of materials.

The Civilian Production Administration ascribes the materials' shortage to a lack of labor in the materials-producing industry. The builders believe that if prices are allowed to rise materials producers can pay wages high enough to attract the workers they need.

Recent Change

However, under the recently re-established priorities system for housing, most materials becoming available will be channeled into homes costing $10,000 or less. Some officials believe that if ceilings on materials were removed prices might go so high that builders would find it difficult to construct houses to sell for $10,000.

Meanwhile, a few samples of emergency housing for veterans and service men are on display—with the warning, "These are not the GI's dream house."

Federal Public Housing Authority officials yesterday took reporters on a tour of the housing demonstration, built on a mudpile in nearby Silver Spring, Md., to show what can be done with surplus war construction.

Space For 100,000 Is Goal

The FPHA hopes that by reusing housing originally built for war use it can provide living space for 100,000 veterans and service men.

Philip M. Klutznick, housing commissioner, came paddling through the ooze to explain that the thing to remember is that this is "stop-gap" housing, for emergency only.

The FPHA has a lot of barracks, dormitories and houses built for war workers. The Army and Navy soon will have similar buildings on their surplus lists. By throwing in a wall here and a bathroom there, these can be turned into small apartments.

$191,900,000 To Be Spent

Congress had agreed to spend $191,900,000 to have these buildings cut up and carted to towns and schools badly in need of housing for veterans.

There they can be reassembled and rented at a cost Klutznick guessed would be from $25 to $45 a month, including utilities.

The town or school will provide the site, the sewers and the utilities. The Federal Government will move the house in and set it up.

The cities and schools will do the actual renting of the property, with the profits, if any, coming back to the United States Treasury.

Aims To Save In Material

The chief point of the entire program is to save material needed for permanent construction—and to give the veteran a place to live now.

"These are not the GI's dream-house, but anyway they can get in out of the rain," said Klutznick, getting in out of the rain.

Bowles Appeals For Subsidies Retention

JAN 11 19

Washington, Jan. 10 (AP)—OPA Administrator Chester Bowles, flatly opposed to food-price increases recommended by Secretary of Agriculture Anderson, has appealed for a slower removal of Government subsidies.

Officials who know his views say Bowles has written to Stabilization Director John C. Collet asking that food subsidies be continued beyond dates tentatively set in a program drafted in November.

Abandonment Planned

At that time Collet announced the Government hoped to end by next June 30 virtually all such food payments. Purpose of the $1,785,000,000-a-year war-born program is to keep retail prices from rising.

Bowles took up the fight for extended subsidies against a background of blunt OPA opposition to Anderson's recommendation for an 18-cent-a-pound butter-price increase by next spring.

OPA also has fought quietly Anderson's proposal for higher meat prices. Officials said Bowles takes the position that, since food prices have not declined as expected and actually have risen in some instances, subsidies provide the only way to prevent a general increase in the cost of living.

May Hold Conference

At Collet's office, a spokesman said the possibility of revising the subsidy elimination timetable might be discussed today with Agriculture, OPA and Reconversion officials.

Congressional approval would be needed to extend subsidies beyond next June. Bowles, it is said, is ready to urge this in the case of some foods.

Subsidies currently cover such commodities as meats, milk and other dairy products, flour and a number of canned foods.

No Public Comment

OPA, while irritated when Anderson proposed last week that meat prices be hiked to avert the threatened packers' strike, refrained from public comment. This restraint was cast aside yesterday when the secretary said in Chicago that butter prices should go up, too.

Bowles told reporters frankly that he is "vigorously opposed to any price increase for butter."

The direct butter subsidy already has been withdrawn, causing a price increase of 5 cents a pound, effective last November 1, but other dairy subsidies controlling butter prices still are in effect.

Senator Opposes Loan To Britain

Washington, Jan. 10 (AP)—Senator Thomas (D., Okla.) is opposed to this Government making a $4,400,000,000 loan to Great Britain "the way I feel about it now," but he is reserving final judgement until after further study.

"Other countries will also be wanting loans and the first thing we know we will be giving away $25,000,000,000 to $50,000,000,000," he said.

"If liquid collateral is put up, that would be a loan. But if this country just takes an I.O.U., that is a gift."

Alcoa Gives U.S. Use Of Patents After Battle With Symington

Washington, Jan. 10 (AP)—The Aluminum Company of America has granted the Government free use of its aluminum patents, and thus has "cleared the way for competition" in the industry, the Surplus Property Administration announced today.

W. Stuart Symington, surplus property administrator, announced the agreement with Alcoa and the leasing by Reynolds Metals Company, largest of Alcoa's competitors, of two Government-owned plants in Arkansas. The leases were made possible by Alcoa's release of patents, he said.

The agreement gave Symington victory in a running battle between him and Alcoa. It reached its climax Saturday night with his charge that the company was obstructing disposal of Government plants by clinging to its patents.

'Monopolistic Position'

He said the company at that time was trying to get the more desirable Government plants for itself and "thus increase and solidify its own monopolistic position."

Tonight the surplus property administrator at a news conference hailed Alcoa's latest action as "a splendid contribution" and the "first step in putting thousands of Americans back to work."

Simultaneously, Chairman O'Mahoney of the Senate Small Business Committee issued a statement declaring the transaction was "a splendid beginning in the effort of the Government to establish competition in this great industry and to turn the plants from Government ownership into operation by private industry."

Symington said the arrangement involved no understanding by which the Justice Department would modify its pending monopoly charges against Alcoa.

Barred From Buying Plants

The department has barred the company on anti-trust grounds from buying or leasing any of the Government-owned plants which it built and operated for the Government during the war.

I. W. Wilson, Alcoa vice president, who sat beside Symington at the news conference, indicated, when questioned, that Alcoa would renew its efforts to buy surplus plants if the release of patents opened up the industry sufficiently to change the Justice Department's mind about Alcoa being a monopoly.

Wilson estimated that the Reynolds acquisition of the Hurricane Creek and Jones Mills (Ark.) plants would bring Reynolds's capacity for smelting aluminum to half that of Alcoa.

"Reynolds will have as much capacity as would correspond with the entire prewar market for aluminum in this country," Wilson said. "The whole industry will have three times the capacity which the prewar market could absorb. The future of the industry depends on expanding the markets for aluminum."

The patents involved cover the extraction of alumina from bauxite . . . the first step in the production of aluminum. Alcoa's patents are granted royalty-free to the Reconstruction Finance Corporation, which can sublease them to companies leasing Government plants.

Under this arrangement the Reynolds company will take over the Government - owned Hurricane Creek plant, which has an annual capacity of 1,555,000,000 pounds of alumina, on a five-year lease, with annual rentals scaling up from $237,000 in the first year to $546,900 in the fifth year.

Sliding-Scale Lease

Reynolds also will get a sliding-scale lease on the Jones Mills plant, where alumina is smelted into aluminum. The rental, designed to go up as output increases, will run from $534,800 in the first year to $1,069,600 in the fifth year.

The leases, which Symington said would be signed shortly, will include options to buy both plants.

Compromise Proposed On Airport-Aid Bill

Washington, Jan. 10 (AP)—An attempt will be made shortly after Congress reconvenes to iron out House and Senate differences on the airport Federal aid bill.

Senator McCarran (D., Nev.) said today that he expects to call the conference committee together as soon as its members return. Each house has passed a bill, but they differ in some respects, notably on how the money shall be distributed.

The Senate bill would permit the states to distribute the money. The House bill requires the municipalities or other sponsors to make application to the Federal agency handling the funds, except in states where an aeronautical authority exists.

The Senate bill would authorize a five-year program of $300,000,000 with $75,000,000 to be spent the first year. The House would provide $650,000,000 for ten years with $100,000,000 to be available the first year. The local sponsor would match the Federal contribution.

ARMY TO CLOSE 14 HOSPITALS

JAN 11 19

Structures Will Be Offered to Veterans First

Washington, Jan. 10 (A. P.).—The War Department announced today that fourteen more Army general hospitals, three annexes to hospitals and four convalescent hospitals will be closed by March 1, under present plans.

The hospitals will be offered to the Veterans Administration. If not desired by that agency, they will be turned over to Surplus Property Administration for disposal.

The Army so far has closed out twenty of the sixty-five general hospitals it operated during the war. The department reported that there were approximately 121,400 patients in general and convalescent hospitals at the first of the year and that this number will be reduced to about 39,700 by June 1.

The following general hospitals will be closed by February 28:

Billings General Hospital, Fort Benjamin Harrison, Ind.; (will revert to station hospital status to serve the needs of the fort); Camp Butner General Hospital, North Carolina.

The following are among those scheduled for closing by March 31: Camp Edwards Hospital, Mass. (to become station hospital for the camp) and the Thomas M. England Hospital, Atlantic City.

The following is among the annexes to general hospitals, but not the hospital itself to be closed by March 31:

Edgewod annex to Mason Hospital, Brentwod, L. I.

Wallace Urges Economic Plan To Assure Jobs

Asks Farm Field Service Men to Help in Averting 'Cycle of Boom and Bust'

ST. PAUL, Jan. 10 (AP).—A coordinated Federal policy amounting to an "economic charter" recognizing the right of equal opportunity to earn a decent living was asked for today by Henry A. Wallace as the key to averting another "cycle of boom-and-bust."

The Secretary of Commerce spoke at a regional conference of the field service branch of the Production and Marketing Administration, with 300 agricultural representatives from ten Mid-West states in attendance.

Mr. Wallace said the victory won by free peoples over the disciplined and regimented power of the nations that forswore their freedom is followed by another test and another threat.

"And the threat of chronic mass unemployment and stagnation," Mr. Wallace said, "is as dangerous as the threat of war," adding that the problem of averting the cycle of danger is a national one and calls for national action.

"The first need," Mr. Wallace said, "is a kind of mutual pledge to each other as free citizens that we will do this job . . . that we will take such action as will assure continued opportunity for everybody able and willing to work to earn a decent living.

"We need a statement of Federal policy adopted by our elected representatives that will amount to an economic charter; a statement that will express our mutual pledge and set it where all the world may see," he said.

There is no single measure or policy that will do the job, Mr. Wallace continued. "It will take a whole series of measures and policies. It will take a systematic, well-thought-out program of Federal measures that will direct the activities and the policies of the national government toward the basic objective of full-employment opportunity."

"The action for full employment that you get from Washington in the critical years ahead," Mr. Wallace said, "will clearly reflect the kind of men and women you people send to Congress."

Gen Browning to Head Domestic Commerce Unit

Republican Is Appointed to New Post by Wallace

WASHINGTON, Jan. 10 (AP).—Henry A. Wallace, Secretary of Commerce, tonight appointed Brigadier General Albert J. Browning, a Republican and a former business executive, as director of the new Office of Domestic Commerce.

General Browning is on terminal leave from the Army Service Forces, where he was director of purchases.

He is slated to become one of three Assistant Secretaries of Commerce under Mr. Wallace's reorganization plan, which will divide the department into three bureaus if Congress approves—domestic commerce, small business and foreign trade.

Before coming to Washington for war service General Browning was merchandising manager for Montgomery Ward & Co. in Chicago. He previously had headed the United Wall Paper Factories, Inc., of Chicago.

He was appointed deputy director of purchases of the old Office of Production Management under Donald M. Nelson. When Mr. Nelson became production chief he arranged General Browning's transfer to the War Department as part of his program of giving the armed forces experienced civilian executives to direct their purchasing.

In his new post General Browning will run Commerce's rubber, steel and other commodity divisions as well as the units concerned with transportation, building and the wholesale and retail trades.

ARMY-NAVY BILL SLOWED

Thomas Says Draft of Merger Plan May Take Weeks

WASHINGTON, Jan. 10 (AP)—Plans for speedy Senate action on President Truman's request for merger of the Army and Navy hit a stumbling block today.

Chairman Elbert Thomas of the Senate Military Committee announced that a special subcommit-

...would be unable to have unification legislation ready on Jan. 14 as expected.

"This is a bigger job than we thought," Mr. Thomas told reporters, who had been informed that a first draft of the bill would be made public today.

"It may be several weeks before we have a draft ready."

He added, however, that it had been decided to call the proposed new single agency "a Department of Common Defense."

Choice Seen Near Of Air Route To Orient

Washington, Jan. 10 (AP)—Senator Magnuson (D., Wash.) said today that he has been informed that the Civil Aeronautics Board probably will reach a decision on the route of the proposed airline to the Orient before the end of the month.

An examiner recommended that the route be through Canada and Alaska to the Orient, but eighteen Western senators and members of the House from the eleven Western states protested to the board that such a route would not best serve the needs of the nation. They asked that the route be from the Pacific Northwest to the Orient.

U.S. Seizes Two Hemp Plantations

Washington, Jan. 10 (AP)—The Alien Property Custodian today seized the world's two largest Manila hemp plantations, the source of about 90 per cent of the prewar global supply.

Custodian James E. Markham also announced seizure of all branches of the Bank of Taiwan, Ltd., and the Manila branch of the Yokohama Specie Bank, Ltd. Markham said he hopes that seizure of the plantations, and making their crops available to the United States Commercial Company, will "alleviate the serious shortage of hemp in this country."

The two plantations produce abaca, from which hemp is made. They are the Furukawa Plantation Company and the Ohta Development Company, Inc., both situated near Davao, P.I.

The Japanese invasion of the Philippines and the incident blocking off of fiber shipments to the outside world brought one of the Allied nations' most serious material shortages of the war. Wire cables had to be substituted for rope in many instances.

Attempts were made to grow Manila fiber in Panama and in other tropical areas but the crops have not been as successful as those grown in the Philippines.

NIMITZ EXPLODES JAPANESE HOAX

MIAMI, Fla., Jan. 10.—(AP) Fleet Admiral Chester W. Nimitz tonight exploded as a propaganda hoax, perpetrated by Japan's military hierarchy, the reported boast by Admiral Yamamoto that he would dictate peace terms in the White House.

Speaking before some 300 members of the Associated Press Managing Editors Association, the new chief of U. S. naval operations called upon the United States to maintain a mighty sea power "whose purpose transcends self-defense and self-protection and aims at fostering international security. . . ."

"Adm. Yamamoto was reputed to have bragged he would dictate peace in the White House," Adm. Nimitz told the newspaper executives. "We believed he made that boast; more importantly, the Japanese people believed he made that boast.

"But since the end of the war, we have learned from Japanese sources that Yamamoto never said anything of the kind; in fact, he had such a healthy respect for the United States that he said quite the opposite."

Nimitz said the militaristic Japanese government lifted a single sentence from the context of a statement by the Jap naval chief warning of the consequences to be expected from war with the United States, and "employed a prostituted Japanese press to twist Yamamoto's true assertion into an opposite meaning."

"When all causes for our victory are analyzed, the free press of the United States will be adjudged to have contributed as much as any other agency," he told the editors. "It is not without significance to note the corollary that the nations without a free press were defeated; the governments that inflicted rigorous censorship of opinion were destroyed."

Committee Visits Hyde Park, Honors FDR

HYDE PARK N Y Jan. 10—(AP) The United Nations committee stopped in its site hunting trip today to pay honor to the memory of the late Franklin D. Roosevelt, the man who helped conceive the United Nations Organization.

Chairman Stoyan Gavrilovic of Yugoslavia said at the conclusion of a motor trip along the banks of the Hudson that the proposed Hyde Park site—five square miles embracing the Roosevelt ancestral home—"seems to be quite a possibility."

"It will be taken into serious consideration in our recommendations" to the General Council in London for a permanent UNO home, he said.

The visiting diplomats rode through the river estate and concluded their tour with a visit to the Roosevelt home.

There, in the snow covered garden the men representing seven nations placed two wreaths and seven red roses on the grave of the late President.

A short time earlier the committeemen had gathered in the study of the Roosevelt home to hear a broadcast of the opening of the UNO General Assembly in London.

From Hyde Park the committee motored to Rye, N. Y., to spend the night. En route, they inspected another proposed site in upper Westchester County,—an area known as the Somers-Yorktown proposal.

The committee will see another Westchester site, the Harrison-Newcastle area, enroute tomorrow to Connecticut.

Artificial Pupil Is Cut In Eye of G.I. Boy Mascot

BALTIMORE, Jan. 10—(AP) An artificial pupil was cut today into the damaged right eye of Gianfranco Cabbia, eight, in the remote hope that the operation would give some sight back to the GI-befriended Italian boy.

Dr. Alan C. Woods, director of the Wilmer Eye Institute of Johns Hopkins hospital, performed the delicate surgery which required about two hours.

He said that he had little hope that the boy would see again, so extensively damaged is the back of the eye. The left eye was knocked out and the right eye severely injured when the child was kicked by a German cavalryman's horse in September, 1944.

Three divisions of GI's in Italy chipped in funds to bring the boy to the United States for treatment.

COMPETITION UNDER WAY FOR UNO ARCHITECTS

CAMBRIDGE, Mass., Jan. 10—(AP) Spokesmen fo two national groups of architects tonight proposed a "world-wide competition" to select architects for the United Nations capital that UNO's buildings may meet "the highest human concepts of fitness, economy and beauty."

The proposal was put forth by the executive committee of the American Society of Planners and Architects, headed by Dean Joseph Hudnut of Harvard University's Graduate School of Design, and the American branch of the International Congress of Modern Architects, headed by Richard Neutra, of Los Angeles.

LONDON, JAN. 10-(AP)-THE UNITED NATIONS ASSEMBLY, CARRYING FORWARD THE WORLD'S HOPES FOR PREVENTION OF AN ATOMIC AGE WAR, CAME INTO BEING IN BATTLE-SCARRED LONDON TODAY AND HEARD A BALD WARNING THAT IT HOLDS IN ITS HANDS THE CHOICE OF "LIFE OR DEATH" FOR MANKIND.

THE WARNING CAME FROM BRITAIN'S PRIME MINISTER CLEMENT ATTLEE AFTER DR.EDUARDO ZULETA OF COLOMBIA HAD CALLED THE DELEGATES OF THE 51 UNITED NATIONS TO ORDER AT 4:03 P.M. (11:03 A.M., EASTERN STANDARD TIME).

"IT IS FOR THE PEOPLES OF THE WORLD, THROUGH THEIR REPRESENTATIVES, TO MAKE THEIR CHOICE BETWEEN LIFE AND DEATH," ATTLEE DECLARED IN HIS BLUNT SPEECH.

DR. ZULETA, TEMPORARY PRESIDENT OF THE ASSEMBLY, TOLD THE DELEGATES IN THE BLUE, CREAM AND GOLD CENTRAL HALL OF WESTMINSTER PALACE ON PARLIAMENT SQUARE THAT ALL MUST GIVE THEIR UNQUALIFIED AND UNHESITATING SUPPORT "TO SAVE SUCCEEDING GENERATIONS FROM THE SCOURGE OF WAR."

THE AMERICAN DELEGATION TOOK SEATS LONG BEFORE THE LAST OF THE DELEGATES HAD ENTERED THE HALL. MRS.FRANKLIN D.ROOSEVELT SAT ON THE LEFT OF SENATOR CONNALLY (D-TEX). SECRETARY OF STATE JAMES F.BYRNES SAT ON CONNALLY'S RIGHT. THEY CHATTED AND LAUGHED DURING THE LAST MINUTES BEFORE THE TWO RAPS FROM DR.ZULETA'S GAVEL THREW OPEN THE SESSION.

THE GALLERIES OVERFLOWED AND MANY PERSONS STOOD IN THE CORRIDORS, UNABLE TO GET IN. CURIOUS CITIZENS BEGAN GATHERING EARLY IN THE STREETS OUTSIDE, UNDER THE RAINBOW OF THE 51 FLAGS OF THE NATIONS ASSEMBLED WITHIN. BY NOON A CROWD OF 100 HAD QUEUED UP FOR ADMITTANCE TO THE PUBLIC GALLERY.

ABOUT 700 DELEGATES HELD PLACES ON THE ASSEMBLY FLOOR AND THE GALLERY OFFERED SEATS FOR ANOTHER 1,000 REPORTERS, PHOTOGRAPHERS, GUESTS AND PLAIN CITIZENS.

THE SESSION MOVED TOWARD A LAST-MINUTE DISPUTE OVER ELECTION OF AN ASSEMBLY PRESIDENT FOR THE LONDON MEETING ONLY. THE UNITED STATES AND RUSSIA ARE SUPPORTING TRYGVE LIE, NORWEGIAN FOREIGN MINISTER. BRITAIN IS BACKING DR. PAUL HENRI SPAAK OF BELGIUM. THE ELECTION IS SCHEDULED AS THE ONLY FORMAL BUSINESS OF THE FIRST MEETING.

A QUESTION AROSE IMMEDIATELY AS TO WHETHER THIS WOULD UPSET INFORMAL AGREEMENTS MADE EARLIER AMONG THE BIG POWERS TO SUPPORT CANADA, MEXICO, BRAZIL, EGYPT, THE NETHERLANDS AND POLAND FOR THE SIX NON-PERMANENT PLACES ON THE SECURITY COUNCIL. GREAT BRITAIN ORIGINALLY HAD FAVORED COLOMBIA RATHER THAN MEXICO.

ANOTHER ELECTION FIGHT OVER A MEMBERSHIP IN THE SECURITY COUNCIL SEEMED ASSURED BETWEEN CANADA AND AUSTRALIA. GREAT BRITAIN AND THE UNITED STATES, AMONG OTHERS, ADVOCATE THE ELECTION OF CANADA BECAUSE OF HER PART IN THE WAR AND HER JOINT PART IN DEVELOPING THE ATOMIC BOMB.

TODAY AN AUSTRALIAN SPOKESMAN SAID HIS COUNTRY DEFINITELY IS A CANDIDATE AND "WE'VE GOT A GOOD CHANCE TO WIN."

ALL SIDES AGREED THERE WAS NOT ROOM ON THE COUNCIL FOR BOTH AUSTRALIA AND CANADA.

BRUSSELS, JAN. 10-(AP)-PAUL HENRI SPAAK, THE FIRST PRESIDENT OF THE UNITED NATIONS GENERAL ASSEMBLY, IS KNOWN AT HOME AS "THE CHURCHILL OF BELGIUM" BECAUSE OF HIS BRILLIANT ORATORY.

HE IS A FORMER PRIME MINISTER. HE ENTERED POLITICS IN HIS LATE TWENTIES AFTER FORSAKING A LAWYER'S CAREER. SPAAK IS A GRANDSON OF A FAMOUS LAWYER, PAUL JANSON.

JAN 11 1946

SPAAK WAS BORN IN THE BRUSSELS SUBURB OF SCHAERBEEK IN 1889. AT 17 WHEN THE KAISER'S ARMY WAS OCCUPYING BELGIUM, HE X TRIED TO CROSS GERMAN LINES AND JOIN THE BELGIAN ARMY TO FIGHT IN FRANCE. HE WAS CAUGHT AND INTERNED BY THE GERMANS UNTIL THE END OF THE WAR.

HIS POLITICAL CAREER BEGAN IN 1932 WHEN HE WAS ELECTED SOCIALIST DEPUTY FOR BRUSSELS. THREE YEARS LATER, PAUL VAN ZEELAND APPOINTED HIM MINISTER OF TRASPORTS IN HIS NEW CABINET. IN 1936, SPAAK FOUND HIMSELF AT

THE HEAD OF THE MINISTRY OF FOREIGN AFFAIRS AND IN 1938 HE BECAME PRIME MINISTER OF BELGIUM.

WHEN GERMANY AGAIN INVADED BELGIUM IN 1940, SPAAK WAS BACK AT THE FOREIGN OFFICE IN THE PIERLOT CABINET. LEAVING HIS WIFE AND TWO DAUGHTERS IN BELGIUM, HE ESCAPED TO SPAIN WITH HIS ONLY SON, FERNAND. ACCOMPANIED BY THE PRIME MINISTER, HUBERT PIERLOT, ALL THREE NARROWLY ESCAPED INTERNMENT IN SPAIN. THEY WERE FORCED TO HIDE IN THE CHATEAU JUST OUTSIDE MADRID WHILE SERRANO SUNER'S SPANISH GESTAPO, WORKING UNDER GERMAN PRESSURE, SCOURED ALL SPAIN FOR THEM.

JAN 11 1946

ESCAPING BY NIGHT OVER THE BORDER INTO PORTUGAL, THEY FINALLY REACHED ENGLAND WHERE SPAAK AND PIERLOT LED THE BELGIAN GOVERNMENT IN EXILE WHICH, OVER THE SHORT WAVES OF THE BBC, DIRECTED BELGIAN RESISTANCE AGAINST THE NAZIS.

BEFORE THE WAR SPAAK WAS AN ARDENT TENNIS PLAYER. HE WON A NUMBER OF CHAMPIONSHIPS. WHEN KING GUSTAV OF SWEDEN CAME TO BELGIUM, HE ALWAYS SELECTED SPAAK AS HIS OPPONENT.

NOW THAT ACHILLE VAN ACKER HAS CHOSEN TO ASK FOR DISSOLUTION OF THEBELGIAN PARLIAMENT, SPAAK FINDS HIMSELF WITHOUT A MINISTERIAL POST, BUT.

THE BELGIANS FEEL THAT HE WILL NOW HAVE MORE TIME TO DEVOTE TO THE GREAT TASK

OF LEADING THE UNITED NATIONS ORGANIZATION ON THE PATH TO A LASTING PEACE.

LONDON, JAN. 10 -- (AP) -- FORMER POSTMASTER GENERAL

FRANK WALKER SAID TODAY IT HAS BEEN CLEARLY INDICATED THAT THE AMERICAN DELEGATES WERE ENTERING THE UNITED NATIONS ORGANIZATION

GENERAL ASSEMBLY "WITH THE HOPE OF REAL ACCOMPLISHMENT AND IN FULL ACCORD ON POLICY".

"A FEELING OF HOPE AND GRAVE RESPONSIBILITY" SEEMS TO PERMEATE THE AIR," WALKER SAID IN AN

BROADCASTING COMPANY RADIO TALK EARLY TODAY, PRIOR TO THE OPENING

SESSION OF THE UNO.

"BECAUSE OF MY OWN CLOSE FRIENDSHIP WITH FRANKLIN D. ROOSEVELT, IN WHOSE CABINET I SERVED DURING THE WAR PERIOD -- BECAUSE I SAW HIM AND HIS GREAT SECRETARY OF STATE WEAVE THE PATTERN FOR THIS ORGANIZATION THAT NOW IS COMING INTO BEING -- I SHARE THIS FEELING OF HOPE AND GRAVE RESPONSIBILITY WITH PARTICULAR KEENNESS," WALKER CONTINUED.

WALKER SAID HE FELT THAT SUCCESS IS CERTAIN IF THE 51 MEMBER NATIONS FOLLOWED THE RULES THEY HAD LAID DOWN AND THE PEOPLE OF THE WORLD MAINTAINED THE ATTITUDE OF RESPONSIBILITY TOWARD THE ORGANIZATION, BUT WARNED, "HOPE IS NOT ENOUGH."

"SUSPICION MUST BE ERADICATED -- OUR GOAL MUST BE MUTUAL FAITH AND CONFIDENCE," HE SAID. "IT LIES WITHIN THE POWER OF THOSE ASSEMBLED HERE TO MAKE THE BEGINNING OF A NEW ERA FOR THE PEOPLES OF THE WORLD."

LONDON, JAN. 10-(AP)-THE MOSCOW RADIO, QUOTING A REPORT FROM BUDAPEST, SAID TONIGHT THAT FORMER HUNGARIAN PREMIER DR. LASZLO DE BARDOSSY WHO WAS CONVICTED OF BEING A WAR CRIMINAL, WAS EXECUTED TODAY. NO DETAILS OF THE EXECUTION WERE GIVEN.

BERLIN, JAN. 10--(AP)--A HIGH AMERICAN OFFICIAL IN U.S. OCCUPIED GERMANY PREDICTED THAT A LARGE AMOUNT OF GERMAN WAR PLANT EQUIPMENT IN THE WESTERN ZONES MIGHT HAVE TO BE DESTROYED BECAUSE IT WOULD BE REJECTED BY REPARATIONS CLAIMANTS AS NOT WORTH MOVING AWAY AND REASSEMBLING.

"IT IS BECOMING MORE AND MORE EVIDENT," THIS OFFICIAL SAID, "THAT REPARATIONS CLAIMANTS ARE LOOKING CLOSER AT THIS EQUIPMENT AND COUNTING THE COST OF HAULING AWAY AND REASSEMBLING WHAT, AFTER ALL, NETS THEM ONLY A SECOND HAND PLANT. SOME WHO AT FIRST WERE MOST EAGER TO GET THIS STUFF ARE NOW SUSPECTING ALL IS NOT GOLD THAT GLITTERS, AND THERE IS ACTUALLY A DELUSION IN IT."

HE CITED A CASE IN WHICH ONE COUNTRY'S AGENT APPRAISED ONE OF GERMANY'S BIGGEST FACTORIES, WHICH AT FIRST HE VERY MUCH COVETED, THEN DECIDED TO TURN IT DOWN.

"BECAUSE OF THIS LOOKING THE REPARATIONS HORSE IN THE MOUTH, IT IS LIKELY WE ARE GOING TO HAVE TO DESTROY CONSIDERABLY MORE INDUSTRIAL EQUIP-MENT THAN WE FIRST FIGURED IN THE DISARMAMENT SCHEME."

THE OFFICIAL SAID THAT AMERICA HAD NOT YET MADE ANY CLAIMS TO MACHINERY IN GERMANY BUT FROM THE FIRST HAD HAD ITS EYE--WISELY, HE SAID--ON GERMANY'S FOREIGN HOLDINGS AND PATENTS.

THE MAN, WHO IDENTIFIED HIMSELF AS STAFF SERGT. ROBERT F. CARR, JR., BUT DID NOT DISCLOSE HIS HOME ADDRESS, WAS CARRYING A GERMAN AUTOMATIC RIFLE AND A PISTOL WHEN HE WAS ARRESTED HERE. SIX OTHER MEMBERS OF THE GANG WERE ARRESTED LAST WEEK AT KREFELD IN THE RUHR IN A LUXURIOUSLY-CARPETED RAILWAY CAR WITH EASY CHAIRS, HEATING AND COOKING EQUIPMENT AND A RADIO.

MILITARY AUTHORITIES SAID THE GANG WAS BELIEVED TO HAVE TRANSMITTED SPURIOUS ORDERS TO DIVERT FOOD CARS TO SIDINGS WHERE THE GANG, TRAVELING WITH THE CARS OSTENSIBLY AS GUARDS, DISPOSED OF THE FOOD ON THE BLACK MARKET.

WHEN YOMIURI TELEPHONED ITS HONOLULU CORRESPONDENT ON DEC. 5, 1941, FBI MONITORS HEARD WHAT SOUNDED LIKE 20 MINUTES OF SUSPICIOUS DOUBLE-TALK. QUESTIONS OF WAR TENSENESS IN HONOLULU AND THE NUMBER OF SAILORS ON THE STREETS WERE MINGLED INEXPLICABLY WITH QUERIES CONCERNING THE WEATHER, THE QUALITY OF LIQUOR AND WHETHER FLOWERS WERE BLOOMING.

THIS BECAME KNOWN AS THE "FAMOUS DOCTOR MORI TELEPHONE CONVERSATION," NAMED FOR THE HONOLULU PHYSICIAN WHO ANSWERED THE CALL FOR HIS WIFE, YOMIURI'S CORRESPONDENT. MANILA, JAN.10-(AP)-GENERAL "IKE" OWNS MANILA TODAY.
THE NEWS THAT GENERAL EISENHOWER HAD AUTHORIZED OVERSEAS THEATER COMMANDERS TO SEND HOME MEN NOT NEEDED, REGARDLESS OF THEIR DISCHARGE POINTS, CAME AS A TOTAL SURPRISE TO THE MANY THOUSAND TROOPS IN PHILIPPINES. MANY RECENTLY HAD CABLED THEIR CONGRESSMEN AND FRIENDS ON THE MAINLAND TO DEMAND A SPEEDUP OF DEMOBILIZATION.
THE ASSOCIATED PRESS FIRST REPORT ON THE STATEMENT BY THE U.S. CHIEF OF STAFF WENT OUT OVER ARMY RADIO STATION WVTM. WAC SGT. JESSIE STEARNS SAID TELEPHONES BEGAN TO BUZZ IMMEDIATELY AS INCREDULOUS G.I.'S CALLED IN "AND IT HAEN'T STOPPED RINGING YET."
POSTED IN THE RADIO STATION LOBBY, THE AP DISPATCH ATTRACTED A JOSTLING, UNIFORMED, GRINNING CROWD. MANY SOLDIERS WHOOPED WITH JOY.
THROUGHOUT MANILA, SOLDIERS WERE INQUIRING HAPPILY: "HAVE YOU HEARD THE NEWS?"
"IT'S A GREAT STEP FORWARD AND AN INTELLIGENT ONE," SAID T/4 HAROLD SCHIFFRIN OF ROCHESTER, N.Y., TEMPORARY CHAIRMAN OF THE PROTEST COMMITTEE WHICH PLANNED TO MEET TONIGHT WITH DELEGATES FROM OTHER LUZON BASES TO FORMULATE PLANS TO ASK CONGRESS FOR A "CLEARER" DEMOBILIZATION PROGRAM.
"EISENHOWER NOW PUTS IT UP TO THE THEATER COMMANDERS TO GET MEN HOME. "IT'S A GOOD DIRECTIVE, AND IF IT'S CARRIED OUT IT WILL SOLVE THE PROBLEM."
LT. GEN.W.D.STYER, ARMY COMMANDER IN THE WESTERN PACIFIC, DECLINED COMMENT ON EISENHOWER'S DIRECTIVE PENDING ITS RECEIPT THROUGH OFFICIAL ARMY SOURCES.
SCHIFFRIN SAID THE SOLDIERS' COMMITTEE WOULD PROCEED WITH PLANS TO REQUEST SECRETARY OF WAR PATTERSON AND A CONGRESSIONAL COMMITTEE TO HEAR COMPLAINTS OF SOLDIERS WHEN THEY ARRIVE IN MANILA NEXT WEEK.
THE DIRECTIVE MAY END DEMOBILIZATION PROTESTS, SCHIFFRIN STATED, BUT UNTIL ITS EFFECT IS SEEN IN A DEFINITE MOVEMENT OF TROOPS HOMEWARD, THE COMMITTEE WILL CONTINUE.
IF A CONSIDERABLE NUMBER OF MEN ARE DECLARED BY GENERAL STYER AS UNESSENTIAL IN THE PHILIPPINES, IT APPEARS THAT THEY CAN BE SHIPPED HOME ALMOST IMMEDIATELY. AT LEAST A DOZEN SHIPS WITH SPACE FOR 40,000 TO 50,000 TROOPS ARE SCHEDULED TO DOCK HERE BEFORE JANUARY 16.

WASHINGTON, JAN. 10-(AP)-THE WAR DEPARTMENT SAID TODAY LT.GEN. ROBERT C.RICHARDSON HAD WARNED THE HONOLULU EDITION OF STARS AND STRIPES ABOUT "DISRESPECTFUL ACTION" AFTER THE PAPER HAD PUBLISHED AN ARTICLE REFERRING TO SECRETARY OF WAR PATTERSON AS "PUBLIC ENEMY NO. 1."

A DEPARTMENT STATEMENT, ISSUED IN REPLY TO INQUIRIES SAID THAT THE MID-PACIFIC COMMANDER "ISSUED A DIRECTIVE TO THE EDITOR AND STAFF X X X CALLING THEIR ATTENTION TO THE FACT THAT THEY WERE IN MILITARY SERVICE, THAT THEY WERE PUBLISHING A NEWSPAPER UNDER THE AUSPICES OF THE UNITED STATES ARMY X X X AND THAT THEIR ACTIONS WERE GOVERNED BY ARTICLES OF WAR."

THE DEPARTMENT STATEMENT THEN QUOTED THE ARTICLES OF WAR, NO. 62 AND 63, TO WHICH RICHARDSON REFERRED. THESE PROVIDE PUNISHMENT FOR OFFICERS OR MEN WHO USE "CONTEMPTUOUS OR DISRESPECTFUL WORDS" AGAINST THE PRESIDENT, VICE PRESIDENT, THE CONGRESS OF THE UNITED STATES AND THE SECRETARY OF WAR.

RICHARDSON, THE STATEMENT SAID, "DID NOT PROHIBIT PUBLICATION OF NEWS RECEIVED NOR CRITICISM OF POLICY OR METHOD. HE DID PROHIBIT INITIATION OF DISRESPECTFUL ACTION AGAINST OFFICERS AS INDIVIDUALS."

(300) AVIATION
BY ALEX H.SINGLETON
WASHINGTON, JAN.10-(AP)-AN ANGLO-AMERICAN ATTEMPT TO REACH AN AVIATION AGREEMENT THIS MONTH MAY PRODUCE THE FIRST SHOWDOWN OF THE ECONOMIC DIFFERENCES BETWEEN BRITAIN'S "NATIONALIZATION" PROGRAM AND AMERICA'S FREE ENTERPRISE SYSTEM.
THE ISSUE IS EXPECTED TO ARISE AT THE TWO-NATION CIVIL AVIATION CONFERENCE OPENING IN BERMUDA NEXT TUESDAY. THE RESULTS ARE CERTAIN TO BE WATCHED CLOSELY BY CONGRESS AS AN INDICATION OF THE DEGREE OF COOPERATION THAT CAN BE ATTAINED UNDER THE TWO SYSTEMS.
THE CONFLICT STEMS FROM THE DIAMETRICALLY OPPOSED POSITIONS OF THE TWO COUNTRIES ON THE QUESTION OF CONTROLLING RATES. BRITAIN IS HOLDING OUT FOR GOVERNMENT-ESTABLISHED MINIMUMS. THE UNITED STATES IS ARGUING FOR THE RIGHT OF AIRLINES TO FIX THEIR OWN CHARGES.
WHILE BOTH COUNTRIES HAVE PROFESSED A DESIRE TO AVOID CUTTHROAT COMPETITION IN THE SKY, A CLASH OF ECONOMIC INTEREST UNDER THEIR CONTRASTING SYSTEMS OF OPERATION APPEARS INEVITABLE AS THEY BID FOR EXPANDING MARKETS MADE AVAILABLE BY LONG-RANGE AVIATION.
UNDER THE LABOR PARTY'S LONG-RANGE PROGRAM FOR SOCIALIZATION OF SEVERAL OF BRITAIN'S BASIC INDUSTRIES, PRIME MINISTER CLEMENT ATTLEE'S GOVERNMENT ALREADY HAS UNFOLDED A PLAN FOR TAKING OVER ALL AVIATION EXCEPT PRIVATE FLYING.
ACHIEVEMENT OF THIS OBJECTIVE WOULD LEAVE THE UNITED STATES' PRIVATE ENTERPRISE AIRLINES FACING PROSPECTS OF WHAT WOULD AMOUNT TO SUBSIDIZED COMPETITION.
ANY ATTEMTP TO FIX RATES, AS A RESULT, WOULD APPEAR LIKELY TO PRODUCE A PROTRACTED ARGUMENT BEFORE FIGURES COULD BE REACHED HIGH ENOUGH TO INSURE THE AMERICAN COMPANIES A PROFIT.
THIS, OBVIOUSLY, WOULD REQUIRE A SURVEY OF COSTS OF OPERATIONS UNDER GOVERNMENT OWNERSHIP AS AGAINST THAT OF PRIVATE FINANCING AND DEMONSTRATE HOW FAR THE BRITISH GOVERNMENT IS WILLING TO GO IN FINANCING ITS AVOWED DETERMINATION TO BUILD A CIVIL AIR FORCE SECOND TO NONE.

THIRD NIGHT LEAD UNDATED STRIKES

BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

(CX) THREATENED DISRUPTION OF THE NATION'S TELEPHONE SERVICE WAS TEMPORARILY AVERTED LAST (THURSDAY) NIGHT WHEN A COMMUNICATIONS WORKERS UNION POSTPONED UNTIL MONDAY ITS PLANS TO PICKET TELEPHONE EXCHANGES IN 44 STATES..

WESTERN ELECTRIC INSTALLATION WORKERS, ON STRIKE IN THE STATES, CALLED OFF THE SCHEDULED PICKETING SHORTLY AFTER SECRETARY OF LABOR SCHWELLENBACH HAD CONFERRED BY TELEPHONE WITH ERNEST WEAVER, UNION PRESIDENT. THE PICKETING WAS TO HAVE BEGUN TODAY (FRIDAY).

WEAVER SAID HE HAD ACCEPTED SCHWELLENBACH'S INVITATION TO CONFER WITH THE LABOR HEAD AND WESTERN ELECTRIC OFFICIALS IN WASHINGTON TODAY (FRIDAY).

MEANWHILE, IN THE GENERAL MOTORS-CIO AUTO WORKERS DISPUTE, VICE PRESIDENT WALTER P.REUTHER ANNOUNCED THAT A RECOMMENDATION BY PRESIDENT TRUMAN'S FACT-FINDING BOARD FOR A 19 1/2 PER CENT HOURLY PAY INCREASE WOULD BE SUBMITTED TO A NATIONAL CONFERENCE OF GM WORKERS IN DETROIT NEXT SUNDAY, JAN. 13.

CALLING OF THE CIO UNION'S EXECUTIVE BOARD MEETING FOR A SUNDAY MEETING IN DETROIT WAS CONSIDERED SIGNIFICANT IN THAT UNION SOURCES SAID THAT BODY WOULD HAVE TO ACT FIRST ON ANY POSSIBLE STRIKE SETTLEMENT.

THE PROSPECT OF A HALT, ETC., 2ND GRAF 2ND NIGHT LEAD.

QZ1112PCSNM

JAN 11 1946

THE PROSPECT OF A HALT IN TELEPHONE SERVICE RESULTED FROM A PLAN BY TELEPHONE INSTALLATION WORKERS, ALREADY ON STRIKE, TO ESTABLISH PICKET LINES TODAY (FRIDAY) AROUND EXCHANGES.

PRESIDENT JOSEPH A.BEIRNE OF THE NATIONAL FEDERATION OF TELEPHONE WORKERS (IND), IN WASHINGTON, SAID HE EXPECTED THE ORGANIZATION'S 263,000 MEMBERS, INCLUDING OPERATORS, NOT TO PASS THE PICKET LINES.

"I AM SURE OUR PEOPLE ARE UNION SCONSCIOUS ENOUGH TO RECOGNIZE THE BADGE OF LABOR," BEIRNE SAID.

MR.TRUMAN ENDORSED IN FULL THE REPORT OF HIS FACT-FINDING COMMITTEE IN THE GENERAL MOTORS DISPUTE AND URGED ITS ACCEPTANCE BY THE COMPANY AND THE CIO UNITED AUTOMOBILE WORKERS UNION, WHOSE 175,000 MEMBERS HAVE BEEN ON STRIKE FOR 50 DAYS IN 70 PLANTS THROUGHOUT THE NATION.

THE PRESIDENT SAID THE FACT-FINDERS, HEADED BY LLOYD K. GARRISON, WERE SATISFIED GM COULD GIVE PRODUCTION WORKERS A 19 1/2 CENT RAISE WITHOUT INCREASING THE PRICE OF CARS.

INDICATING STRONG OPTIMISM OVER THE PROSPECT OF ULTIMATE--THOUGH PERHAPS NOT IMMEDIATE--ACCEPTANCE OF THE PLAN, A WHITE HOUSE ADVISER, WHOSE NAME WAS WITHHELD, SAID THE PROPOSED RAISE PERCENTAGE WAS DISCUSSED IN PRELIMINARY CONVERSATIONS WITH BOTH GM AND THE UNION.

HE SAID THE TALKS PRODUCED NO STATEMENT OF REJECTION FROM EITHER SIDE, BUT HE EMPHASIZED THERE HAD BEEN NO AGREEMENT TO ACCEPT IT.

GARRISON SAID THE HOURLY INCREASE RECOMMENDED WOULD COME TO AROUND 17 1/2 PER CENT. THE WORKERS HAVE DEMANDED 30 PER CENT.

THERE WAS ONE RAY OF HOPE IN THE TELEPHONE SITUATION.

MEANWHILE, A SPOKESMAN FOR STRIKING WESTERN ELECTRIC EMPLOYES, ETC., PICKING UP IN 5TH GRAF FIRST NIGHT LEAD.

MEANWHILE, A SPOKESMAN FOR STRIKING WESTERN ELECTRIC EMPLOYES SAID YESTERDAY (WEDNESDAY) THE UNION HAD SUBMITTED TO THE COMPANY A PROPOSAL WHICH--IF ACCEPTED--MIGHT END THE STRIKE AND AVERT A THREATENED NATIONWIDE TELEPHONE TIEUP.

PRIOR TO THE SPOKESMAN'S STATEMENT, HOWEVER, JOHN J. MORAN, PRESIDENT OF THE FEDERATION OF LONG LINE TELEPHONE WORKERS, ANNOUNCED 1,000 LONG DISTANCE TELEPHONE WORKERS, INCLUDING OPERATORS, WOULD LEAVE THEIR POSTS TODAY AND WOULD BE JOINED BY 6,000 MORE DURING THE DAY.

THE WESTERN ELECTRIC SPOKESMAN WAS WILLIAM D.BARRY, PRESIDENT OF LOCAL 69 OF THE INDEPENDENT ASSOCIATION OF COMMUNICATIONS EQUIPMENT WORKERS, WHO DID NOT DISCLOSE PROVISIONS OF THE PROPOSAL. J.R.MANDELBAUM, U.S. CONCILIATOR, HOWEVER, SAID IT CONCERNED THE 1947 DATE OF A NEW AGREEMENT.

MORAN SAID THE TELEPHONE WALKOUT WOULD BE SIMULTANEOUS WITH THE ESTABLISHMENT OF PICKET LINES AROUND NEW YORK CITY'S CHIEF TELEPHONE BUILDING. IT WOULD BE THE FIRST STEP IN A THREATENED NATIONWIDE SHUTDOWN OF LONG DISTANCE TELEPHONE SERVICE STEMMING FROM WEDNESDAY'S WALKOUT BY TELEPHONE INSTALLATION WORKERS.

THE INSTALLATION WORKERS HAVE ANNOUNCED THEY WILL PICKET TELEPHONE EXCHANGES THROUGHOUT THE NATION TODAY AND SAID THEY HAD BEEN ASSURED OTHER TELEPHONE WORKERS WOULD REFUSE TO CROSS THE LINES.

ANOTHER PHONE TIEUP, WHICH THE UNION SAID BEARS NO RELATION TO THE SYMPATHY WALKOUT ANNOUNCED BY THE FEDERATION OF LONG LINE TELEPHONE WORKERS, CURTAILED WASHINGTON TELEPHONE SERVICE FOR THE SECOND TIME IN SIX DAYS WHEN SWITCHBOARD OPERATORS OF THE CHESAPEAKE AND POTOMAC TELEPHONE COOMPANY LEFT THEIR POSTS TO ATTEND A UNION MEETING IN PROTEST AGAINST "OVERWORKING" SUPERVISORS AND OPERATORS.

THE WALKOUT, CONDUCTED BY THE WASHINGTON TELEPHONE TRAFFIC UNION, AN AFFILIATE OF THE FLLTW, INTERRUPTED WHITE HOUSE COMMUNICATIONS.

THERE WAS NO IMMEDIATE SETTLEMENT INDICATED IN THE WAGE DISPUTE BETWEEN 7,000 CIO EMPLOYES OF WESTERN UNION IN NEW YORK CITY. THE UNION PROTESTED THE COMPANY WAS DELIVERING TELEGRAMS BY MAIL, CLAIMING SUCH DELIVERY WAS IN VIOLATION OF THE FEDERAL COMMUNICATIONS ACT. THE STRIKE HAS LEFT THE METROPOLIS VIRTUALLY CUT OFF FROM THE REST OF THE NATION TELEGRAPHICALLY.

COLLECTIVE BARGAINING WAS RESUMED IN NEW YORK IN A LAST-MINUTE EFFORT TO AVERT A NATIONWIDE STEEL STRIKE, BUT THE SESSION ADJOURNED FOR 24 HOURS WITHOUT A PROGRESS REPORT. SOME 700,000 STEELWORKERS ARE DUE TO WALK OFF THEIR JOBS MONDAY IN AN EFFORT TO OBTAIN A $2 DAILY WAGE BOOST.

TOP EXECUTIVES OF THE U.S. STEEL CORPORATION, INCLUDING PRESIDENT BENJAMIN F.FAIRLESS, PARTICIPATING FOR THE FIRST TIME IN THE DISCUSSIONS, AND OF THE CIO, INCLUDING PRESIDENT PHILIP MURRAY, SAT DOWN TOGETHER TO ATTEMPT TO UNSNARL THE DISPUTE.

OTHER MEETINGS SLANTED TOWARD AVERTING WALKOUTS IN THE ELECTRICAL AND MEAT PACKING INDUSTRIES WERE HELD YESTERDAY. IN NEW YORK, OFFICIALS OF THE GENERAL ELECTRIC CO. AND THE CIO UNITED ELECTRICAL WORKERS UNION CONFERRED IN AN EFFORT TO HALT A STRIKE OF 200,000 WORKERS SET FOR TUESDAY. IN CHICAGO, FEDERAL CONCILIATION SESSIONS CONTINUED IN THE MEAT PACKING INDUSTRY, WHERE SOME 335,000 WORKERS HAVE ANNOUNCED A WALKOUT IS PLANNED FOR WEDNESDAY. BOTH SCHEDULED STRIKES STEM FROM WAGE DISPUTES.

CONTINUING STRIKES, INCLUDING THAT OF 175,000 WORKERS AT GENERAL MOTORS, KEPT IDLE ABOUT 415,000 PERSONS.

IN ST.LOUIS, 25 OF THE CITY'S PRINCIPAL WHOLESALE GROCERY FIRMS SHUT DOWN BECAUSE OF A TRUCK DRIVERS' STRIKE AND MOST RETAIL GROCERS WERE WITHOUT A SOURCE OF STAPLE FOOD SUPPLIES. THE DRIVERS' DISPUTE CONCERNS WAGES AND HOURS.

BIG 5 GIVEN POSTS IN UNO ASSEMBLY

JAN 12 1946

Elected Vice Presidents Along With Venezuela And South Africa

PATTIS

London, Jan. 11 (AP)—The five key powers of the United Nations Organization—the United States, Britain, China, France and Russia—were elected today with Venezuela and South Africa to the seven vice presidencies of the UNO General Assembly.

Thus the newly formed assembly temporarily accepted big-power leadership in forming an influential steering committee and moved swiftly ahead with building a new peace machine for the world.

Candidates supported by the big powers also were elected without dissent as chairmen of six committees. The committee chairmen and the vice presidents will sit with the assembly president, Paul-Henri Spaak, of Belgium, in directing UNO's work.

NIGHT

Group May Be Enlarged

The committee assignments went to the Ukraine, Poland, Panama, Uruguay, Syria and New Zealand.

There was a possibility, however, that the group of fourteen might be enlarged as Guy Perez Cisneros, delegate from Cuba, demanded that the steering be done by representatives of all 51 nations in UNO.

Spaak urged the assembly to accept the leadership of the fourteen until the UNO committee on legal questions could discuss Cuba's suggestion. His recommendation was accepted. The legal committee is to make its report in eight days.

The Cuban objection renewed a basic conflict that arose at the San Francisco conference, where many small nations argued bitterly against what they termed big-power domination.

Spaak referred to this issue in his presidential acceptance speech today.

Frisco Decision Cited

The San Francisco conferees, he said, decided to give the great powers a dominant place in the United Nations Organization.

"The system adopted there must be accepted here," he said, without elaboration.

Meanwhile, behind-the-scenes discussions centered on composition of the eleven-member Security Council and election of a secretary general.

Six nonpermanent members of the Security Council will be elected tomorrow. The five major-power delegates met tonight to seek agreement on a slate, with a fight over small-country membership assured.

The five powers were reported to have agreed upon Canada, Brazil, Egypt and Poland for the nonpermanent membership.

Reliable sources said, however, that there was disagreement on the remaining two council seats to be filled and that the council elections, scheduled for tomorrow at the assembly meeting, either would be postponed or the differences between Russia and other key powers would be aired in discussion on the floor.

Hodgson's Stand

Australia disclosed she would fight "to the bitter end" for a seat. Col. W. R. Hodgson, Australian Minister to France, said "Australia will not be satisfied" without membership.

The Security Council, core of the peace agency, will exercise full control over UNO's projected "international police force."

"After all, among the countries now mentioned for posts, India, Burma, Malaya, New Zealand and Australia would not be represented," Hodgson said, adding:

"That would mean a great part of the world without a representative on the most important council of the peace organization."

Another controversy also appeared to be brewing.

Seeks To Abandon Ballot System

Russia asked on the floor of the assembly today for abandonment of the secret-ballot system by which Spaak defeated the Soviet-sponsored candidate, Trygve Lie, Norwegian Foreign Minister, in yesterday's presidential election.

Sentiment for abandoning the secret-ballot system was reported developing within the American delegation on the grounds that secrecy is undemocratic. Britain has favored the secret ballot.

A motion by Dmitri Manuilsky, Foreign Minister of the Ukraine, one of the three U.S.S.R. delegations, that hereafter all persons voted on for UNO office be nominated and discussed from the floor was sent to the legal committee.

Cloakroom discussion today also centered on the election of a secretary general. The smaller countries, a survey of the delegates showed, are waiting on the sidelines for the Big Five to agree or disagree on a candidate.

Says Ike May Be Drafted

The London Star in its afternoon edition said that General Eisenhower, United States Army chief of staff, might be drafted as UNO secretary general to avoid a deadlock, but the United States Secretary of State, James F. Byrnes, promptly asserted Eisenhower was not to be considered available.

"Before leaving Washington," Byrnes said, "General Eisenhower advised me he had been informed that his name would be suggested, and in case it was, he wished me to state that he would not be interested and that he intended to continue in the office of chief of staff."

UNO ASSEMBLY ELECTS SEVEN VICE-CHAIRMEN

Places Go to South Africa, Venezuela and the Big 5 Powers.

REDS ATTACK SECRET BALLOT

U. S. Delegates Also Reported Opposed to Closed Voting as Undemocratic.

Harris

London, Jan. 11 (A. P.).—Delegates of the five major nations and Venezuela and South Africa were today elected to the seven vice-presidencies of the United Nations Assembly as the meeting moved toward an almost certain fight over small-country membership in the key Security Council.

DAY

JAN 12 1946

The voting on the vice-presidential posts brought a protest on the method of balloting, the second of the day. The posts went to the United States, Britain, Russia, France and China as well as to Venezuela and South Africa by acclamation. Britain protested that, under the rules, a secret ballot should have been taken.

With Belgium, which has the presidency of the Assembly, the countries providing the chairmen of the six main committees and the vice-presidencies form a General or Steering Committee.

The election of the vice-presidents came so late in the day that the Assembly deferred until tomorrow the selection of the six non-permanent members of the Security Council.

The larger Powers thus far have failed to agree on a slate for this vital body. Australia was reported prepared to fight with Canada for a place.

There was talk that Russia might back Norway instead of the Netherlands for one of the seats, for which the Dutch had expected big Power support.

Reds Attack Secret Ballot.

Earlier today Russia launched an attack on the secret ballot system under which her candidate for Assembly president was defeated yesterday.

Sentiment was reported developing among the American delegates too for the abandonment of the rule under which Paul Henri Spaak, the Foreign Minister of Belgium, was chosen Assembly president, with the backing of Britain, while Trygve Lie, the Norwegian Foreign Minister, was defeated despite his support by Russia and the United States. One reason advanced was that secrecy is undemocratic.

Dmitri Manuilsky, the Foreign Minister of Ukrainia, one of the three U. S. S. R. delegates, moved that hereafter all persons voted on for UNO office be nominated and discussed from the floor. Spaak was elected without his name being mentioned on the floor. Delegates wrote his name in on secret ballots.

was blocked, however, when Cuban and other proposals came up and Spaak observed that the assembly was attempting to discuss three things at once. He proposed that the question be sent to the legal committee, leaving the temporary rules in force, and Manuilsky accepted the suggestion.

The Cuban delegate, Guy Perez Cisneros, raised the issue of the predominance of the big Powers in the assembly by demanding a sweeping change in the proposed general or steering committee. This committee, as projected by the preparatory commission, would have fourteen members, five of them big Powers. Perez Cisneros argued either for a fifty-one nation steering committee or else a limitation upon its authority and a rule against the re-election of its members so as to restrict big Power membership.

UNO Site Issue Up Again.

Spaak, in his acceptance speech as President of the Assembly, discussed the question by declaring that the decision was made at San Francisco last spring to give the great Powers a dominant place in the UNO and that "the system adopted there must be accepted here."

Another development today was the possibility that Australia may ask the Assembly to reverse the Preparatory Commission's decision that permanent headquarters be near New York or Boston, in order to bring up again the proposal to make the world peace capital at San Francisco. In a telegram published in today's Official Journal Mayor Roger Lapham of San Francisco asked for reconsideration.

True to earlier reports of an agreement among the Big Five on the important assembly chairmanships, the Assembly elected Manuilsky chief of the important Political and Security Committee, and Maclaw Konderski of Poland, chairman of the Economic Committee. The chairmanships of two of the most important committees to be set up thus went to countries within the Soviet zone of influence.

Committees, meeting on a staggered schedule through the afternoon, elected their chairmen directly and unanimously, according to a pre-arranged slate. Prime Minister Peter Fraser of New Zealand was chosen to head the Social-Humanitarian group. His nomination by Stanley Knowles of Canada was seconded by Mrs. Franklin D. Roosevelt, making her first speech at the meeting.

Dr. Roberto E. MacEachen, Uruguayan Ambassador to London, was chosen head of the Trusteeship Committee. Dr. Roberto Jimenez, former Foreign Minister of Panama, was elected chairman of the Legal Committee, and Faris al Khoury, Speaker of the Syrian Parliament, won the chairmanship of the Administrative and Budgetary Committee.

MRS. R. REPORTED IN PLEDGE TO GI'S

JAN 12 1946

Said To Have Promised Troops To Take Protests To U.S.

Wilson

London, Jan. 11 (AP)—High-point GI's, demanding speedier redeployment, sought today the help of the American delegation to the United Nations Organization and reportedly drew from Mrs. Eleanor Roosevelt a promise that she personally would take their complaints to the United States.

Nine soldiers, representatives of about 500 who held a protest meeting in London's Hyde Park, called on Mrs. Roosevelt at her Claridge Hotel room. She welcomed them for a ten-minute talk, but admonished them not to repeat the conversation.

However, Sergt. J. T. Travers,

30.24-225

of Dallas, Texas, said "she told us she will carry our message personally to the States and promised she would do what she could."

Mass Demonstration Held

The group left messages asking for appointments tomorrow morning with Senators Connally (D., Texas) and Vandenberg (R., Mich.), both of whom are delegates to the UNO Assembly's second meeting.

The call on Mrs. Roosevelt followed an hour-long mass demonstration in front of army redeployment headquarters, to which the disgruntled GI's moved after gathering at Hyde Park.

Major J. B. Campbell, redeployment officer, was presented with a petition addressed to "the United States Ambassador to the United Kingdom," which the officer was asked to forward to the "proper authorities in Washington."

Marshall's Plan Cited

The soldiers' plan, which they said was "in line with the announcement made by Gen. George C. Marshall shortly after V-J day," called for:

Immediate shipment to the United States of all men with a point score of 50 to 54, making those with 40 to 49 points or three years' service eligible for discharge February 1; those with two years' service eligible for discharge March 20, those with eighteen months' service eligible for release May 1.

Explaining that Atlantic gales had damaged repatriation ships, Campbell told the men that "acts of God slowed down redeployment."

His remark brought boos and shouts of "nuts." A soldier shouted, "acts of God apparently don't apply to GI brides"—a reference to planned mass shipment to the United States of English wives of United States soldiers.

Another shouted, "you know who we got on this side, don't you?"

"Eleanor!" the crowd roared in reply.

As the group started for the hotel, Corporal Wilfred Head, of Martin, Tenn., called:

"Remind Harry and the congressmen that the brides can't vote—but we can."

at her room at Claridge's Hotel.

Earlier, a crowd of 500 GI's had shouted for "Eleanor" to help them, in a demonstration before the United States Redeployment Office.

Taken To Her Room

The nine soldier delegates, led by Sergt. Henry Calo, of Chicago, were taken by a diminutive bellhop to Mrs. Roosevelt's door. They rapped for about five minutes before she emerged and said, "I'm glad to see you all."

Glimpsing a half-dozen newsmen trailing the soldiers, she said smilingly, "No publicity."

She conferred with the soldiers in her room for more than ten minutes. She asked them, when they left, not to repeat the conversation.

Message To Be Carried

But Sergt. J. T. Travers, of Dallas, Texas, reported that "she told us she will carry our message personally to the States and promised she would do what she could."

As they left the hotel the nine soldiers brushed past uniformed attendants who attempted halfheartedly to shoo them through the door. They left messages requesting appointments tomorrow with Senators Connally (D., Texas), and Vandenberg (R., Mich.), who are also United States delegates to the United Nations Assembly.

To Demonstrate "Nightly"

Travers said the soldiers planned to demonstrate in front of Army redeployment headquarters "every day until we get an answer" to a four-point petition demanding a speed-up of their return to the United States.

The petition first was carried to Major J. B. Campbell, redeployment officer. It was addressed to Ambassador John G. Winant, who was asked to forward it to Washington.

GI's See Mrs. R., Win Promise Of Help

JAN 12 1946

London, Jan. 11 (AP)—Nine GI delegates obtained from Mrs. Eleanor Roosevelt today a promise to carry to the United States their demand for quick demobilization.

The soldiers met Mrs. Roosevelt

The petition presented a plan for immediate shipment to the United States of all men with 50 to 54 points, and making those with eighteen months of service eligible for release May 1.

Ships Damaged

After a fifteen-minute session with Campbell, the sergeant told the crowd that Campbell had explained the delays were caused by Atlantic gales which damaged transports.

The group grumbled, booed and shouted "Nuts!"

Another sergeant in the middle of the crowd shouted:

"You know who we got on this side, don't you?"

"Eleanor!" roared the soldiers.

Among those to call upon Mrs. Roosevelt and Congressmen, Calo chose Travers, Cpl. John H. Fields of Allen Park, Mich., T/Sgt. A. Ellenberg of New Brunswick, N. J., T/Sgt. William Halsey Jr. of 79 Charles street, New York, and Corp. Thomas Hayner of Huntington, W. Va.

Cpl. Wilfred Head of Martin, Tenn., shouted: "Remind Harry and the Congressmen that the brides can't vote—but we can."

Their demonstration was staged in front of a door marked "G. I. Brides' Entrance." One soldier yanked down the sign, held it up in front of the crowd, then put it back.

ARMY, NAVY CHIEFS TO FACE CONGRESS

Eisenhower and Nimitz Will Discuss Demobilization at Joint Session Tuesday

WASHINGTON, Jan. 11 — (AP) The Army and Navy agreed today to send Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower and Admiral Chester W. Nimitz to a Senate-House meeting Tuesday in the demobilization furor.

The Army reacted, too, by cutting the training period for troops to replace veterans overseas and deciding to let some long-service men out of the Air Force regardless of the need for specially qualified personnel.

The Army Times, unofficial service publication, reported that Eisenhower has issued orders to all Army commands against giving basic and other elemental training to combat veterans. The newspaper quoted him as saying that "a schedule prepared primarily to keep such men busy for the required number of hours has no place in the Army." Some veterans have complained they are compelled to undergo basic training repeatedly as a make-work device.

Approved by Truman

Congressmen hit on the idea of the joint session this morning. By midafternoon the appearance of the Army Chief of Staff and the Navy chief operations was settled. A senator who didn't want his name used said the arrangements had the full support of President Truman.

Congress held a joint session last September to hear Gen. George C. Marshall, then army chief of staff, on demobilization. That served to hush some of the complaints about the slowness of discharges at that time.

But Senator Edwin C. Johnson (D-Colo.), chairman of a senate military subcommittee named to look into the discharge problem, told a reporter:

"The joint session won't eliminate a need for a thorough investigation. We are after a lot of details and will go ahead with our inquiry."

A member of the full military committee, Senator Kilgore (D-W. Va.), predicted that discharge "inequalities will be adjusted in the immediate future." In an interview at Fairmont, W.Va., Kilgore attributed demobilization troubles to the army's making "many more promises than it was able to handle."

Related to the demobilization situation were these developments:

Training Period Cut

The Army ordered the training of replacement troops cut from 17 to 13 weeks. That will make these troops available four weeks sooner for replacing veterans overseas.

Army air forces announced that some soldiers with long service will be released automatically without respect to the need for specially qualified men. Any AAF enlisted man with 50 points and 42 months of service can get out. Some with fewer points and shorter service also can get out.

The Marine Corps ordered all marines eligible for discharge under the point system returned home immediately from Pacific transient centers. Men in transient centers are enroute from one assignment to another. The order means that eligible men need not wait to reach new assignments before starting home.

Maj. Gen. Thomas A. Terry, Burma-India army commander, announced in New Delhi that starting next month men not needed in his theater would be sent to the United States regardless of whether they are eligible for discharge. That complies with a directive issued this week by Eisenhower.

Gen. Mark W. Clark, commander of American forces in Austria, named a committee of officers and enlisted men to study personnel records in an attempt to answer protests on demobilization policies.

GI's Cable Assails 'Vienna Brass'

JAN 12 1946

Washington, Jan. 11 (AP)—Enlisted men of the United States occupation forces in Vienna, Austria, have appealed to Representative DeLacy (D., Wash.) to ask the War Department why so many high-point men must be kept there.

The cable, signed by T/Sergt. William Hayett representing 361 men of headquarters special troops in Vienna, said there were 14 generals, 46 colonels, 91 lieutenant colonels, 131 majors, 194 captains, 233 first lieutenants and 92 second lieutenants and 12,000 enlisted men in Vienna.

"Brass" Must Be Serviced

"A good part of the 12,000 enlisted men occupying Vienna," the cable said, "are engaged in servicing this heavy load of brass. Is this blackmail by the Army to get the nation to support compulsory military training?"

DeLacy said in Seattle, Wash., that he would ask the War Department for an explanation. He said the Army now has 5,000,000 men while the War Department said only 500,000 would be needed for occupation purposes.

DeLacy also received cables from enlisted men of the 15th Army at Frankfurt, Germany, and from enlisted men at Adak in the Alutians asking his aid in getting them sent home.

Reich GI's Set 3d Rally

Frankfurt, Germany, Jan. 11 (AP). A third mass meeting to protest the redeployment slowdown was tonight planned by GI's who booed the names of Secretary of War Patterson and their commander, Gen. Joseph T. McNarney, in another "I want to go home" demonstration last night.

Chanting "We Want Ike," approximately 1,000 protesting soldiers began the demonstration following a redeployment conference at which high army officers explained to soldiers that men must be kept in Europe until the United States had fulfilled its commitments.

Plan More Meetings

"We are going to continue to hold meetings," one soldier speaker shouted, "until we make ourselves heard by Affable Ike"—General Eisenhower, McNarney's predecessor and now United States chief of staff.

The number of participants in last night's orderly demonstration was considerably less than at the first meeting. Charges were made by some speakers that men had been restricted to quarters by their commanders to keep them from attending.

2,500 Sign Petition

Berlin, Jan. 11 (AP)—A petition protesting the slowdown of demobilization, signed by 2,500 soldiers, was forwarded to Speaker Sam Rayburn of the United States House of Representatives and to a number of American newspapers today following a massmeeting last night in Titania Palast Theater.

Study Is Ordered

Vienna, Jan. 11 (AP)—Demobilization protests have led Gen. Mark W. Clark, commander of United States forces in Austria, to appoint a committee to study personnel records in an effort to find an answer to the problem.

The committee, composed of four officers and four enlisted men, was appointed after 362 soldiers here had sent protests to newspapers and United States senators. Appointment of the group followed a meeting between General Clark and Sergt. William Hayett, of New York city.

Although there have been no group demonstrations in Vienna, soldiers in increasing numbers have been sending protest messages home.

JAN 12 1946

No Surplus In China

Shanghai, Jan. 11 (AP)—A spokesman for Lieut. Gen. Albert C. Wedemeyer, United States commander in the China theater, said today that General Eisenhower's demobilization speedup program would not affect this theater.

Surplus low-point men in China already have been sent home, said the spokesman.

"We have been criticized for sending low-point men home while we retained many with higher points because of the essential nature of their work," the spokesman added.

"We will still send home the men we don't need, but since theater requirements now call for more men than we have, few can expect to be placed in surplus status."

Marine Chiefs Bar Protest Rallies

Honolulu, Jan. 11 (AP)—United States Marines in the Pacific theater are under orders of their commanding general not to stage mass demonstrations such as other service groups have held in Korea, Japan, Hawaii, Guam and the Philippines to protest the current demobilization program.

The order of Lieut. Gen. Roy S. Geiger, issued yesterday to company commanders, canceled a Marine meeting scheduled last night at Camp Catlin, adjacent to Pearl Harbor.

"It's traditional with the Marines," explained Geiger's chief of staff, Brig. Gen. Mervin H. Silverthorn, "that men go to their commanders with their troubles, and we don't feel there is any occasion for meetings which are not a military formation that can be controlled."

Richardson Gratified

Silverthorn said the orders applied not only to a meeting last night but also to those at "any other time."

Meanwhile, Lieut. Gen. Robert C. Richardson, Jr., commander of army forces in the mid-Pacific, expressed gratification over the orderly manner in which soldiers of his command have held protest meetings.

"I am happy to say their actions reflect great credit upon my noncommissioned officers," he said.

Richardson told the men that any expressions of opinion formally ratified at orderly meetings would be transmitted to General Eisenhower and General MacArthur.

The Honolulu edition of the army newspaper, Stars and Stripes, reopened its columns today to soldier-written articles after a one-day interruption prompted by its interpretation of a Richardson order. Richardson's directive was initially taken to mean the paper could not criticize army policies.

The General in a directive had cautioned the newspaper against carrying derogatory remarks or references about the Secretary of War and others in army authority "as individuals."

5,000 Gather

Calcutta, Jan. 11 (AP)—A committee of GI's was delegated today to forward complaints against the redeployment slowdown to "proper persons" in Washington, following a protest meeting attended by approximately 5,000 American soldiers last night.

The meeting was conducted in orderly fashion but mention of Secretary of War Patterson's name drew boos.

6,000 In Mid-Pacific Due For Quick Release

Honolulu, Jan. 11 (AP)—Headquarters of Lieut. Gen. Robert C. Richardson, Jr., announced today a change in discharge requirements which would mean immediate release of more than 6,000 officers and men of his mid-Pacific command.

The public relations office could not say immediately whether this was the result of a new directive from the War Department, whose recent demobilization slowdown order touched off soldier protest demonstrations in the Pacific.

Under the change, all male enlisted personnel with 38 months of service in the Army or 48 discharge points, and all male officers, except medical officers, with 47 months of service or 68 points are eligible for immediate discharge.

Yanks In India, Burma Are Printing Protests

Calcutta, Jan. 11 (AP)—Forty thousand postcards demanding an investigation of redeployment in the India-Burma theater are being printed for sending to the chairman of the United States Military Affairs Committee and other "proper persons" in Washington by soldiers stationed in and near Calcutta.

The printing of the postcards was approved tonight by a 25-man committee formed after last night's meeting when approximately 5,000 GI's protested the War Department's announcement of a slowdown in demobilization.

MacArthur's Action

Tokyo, Jan. 11 (AP)—General MacArthur's new instructions that no ship is to return to the United States with empty berths constitute his only comment on the demobilization directive of General Eisenhower, headquarters press relations said today. General Eisenhower had instructed field commanders to return all unneeded men regardless of their point scores.

MacArthur instructed all his commanders to release men in the order in which they would become eligible.

Unneeded Soldiers Get Break

New Delhi, India, Jan. 11 (AP)—Beginning in February, men unnecessary in this theater will be moved to the United States regardless of whether they are eligible for discharge, Maj. Gen. Thomas A. Terry, Burma-India commander, announced today.

Army Denies Gag Rule

MANILA, Saturday, Jan. 12 (AP)—The protest brought an explanation today from Army authorities that the new policy was aimed at building up the Army rather than undermining it—but that it did not constitute gag rule

Col. W. E. Waters, in charge of the information and education section of Army forces Western Pacific, said it had been decided to exercise supervision of subject matter in letters of the Mail Bag column.

Henceforth, Colonel Waters said, letters touching on such controversial subjects as race relations, religion and officer privileges versus enlisted men's privileges will be banned.

Colonel Waters denied that the Pacifican staff had been forbidden to publish lists of Congressmen and Senators. He said that he had seen a proof list The Pacifican was scheduled to publish Jan. 10, had noticed that it was outdated, so had ordered the publication upheld until corrected. He said the list would appear Sunday.

3 RAF Flyers, Rescued By Ship, Reach Britain

London, Jan. 11 (AP)—Three RAF airman were landed at Dover today by the American Liberty ship Harriet Turman, which rescued them Tuesday after they had been adrift seven hours in a rubber life raft 500 miles offshore in the Atlantic.

Five other members of the crew are missing. The men were aboard an RAF Flying Fortress which crashed 500 miles southwest of Land's End while on a meteorological mission.

The Liberty ship was en route from Charleston, S.C., to Antwerp.

Rumors Say Windsor May Succeed Halifax

London, Jan. 11 (AP)—The Duke of Windsor left for Paris today after telling reporters "I have no definite plans for the future, as yet."

During his second short stay in London, the Duke conferred with Prime Minister Attlee, Foreign Secretary Bevin, United States Secretary of State Byrnes, and United States Ambassador John G. Winant, raising speculative rumors that he might succeed Lord Halifax as British Ambassador to the United States.

Albania Established Formally As Republic

London, Jan. 11 (AP)—Tiny, war-scarred Albania formally established itself as a republic today, the Ankara radio reported, and 51-year-old King Zog joined the growing ranks of Europe's throneless monarchs.

The broadcast, quoting dispatches from Tirana, said the 82-member constituent assembly, which was elected last month when Premier Enver Hodja's government was virtually unopposed at the polls, had voted for a republican form of government.

King Zog was informed of the news at his estate near London, where he is living in exile. He fled Albania in 1939 when Italian troops invaded his mountainous Balkan nation.

There was no comment immediately from Zog, but a member of his entourage remarked gloomily that the development "was to be expected."

BUYS BOMBER TO MOVE FAMILY

London, Jan. 11 (A. P.).—Unable to obtain ship passage without a long delay, Capt. Geoffrey Wikner has purchased a four-motored Halifax bomber from the Air Ministry to take his wife and two children to Australia.

The Australian war veteran said he hoped to take along a few passengers to help cover the fuel cost—which he estimated would be about $8,000. The plane was used by the Royal Australian Air Force in fifty-one raids over Germany.

Liverpool Cotton Market To Open to Buy From U.S.

LIVERPOOL, Jan. 11 (AP).—The Government Cotton Control Agency announced today that the Liverpool cotton market would be reopened, at least temporarily, for the purchase of raw cotton from the United States.

The control agency stated in a letter to the American Shippers' Association that while no general policy had been established for the purchase of cotton, "certain quantities of United States cotton during the next few weeks" would be purchased through Liverpool agents.

Sir Stafford Cripps, president of the Board of Trade, was reported last October to have opposed reopening the Liverpool market.

CZECH TESTIFIES FIVE TOP NAZIS VISITED DACHAU

NUERNBERG, Germany, Jan. 11. — (AP) A Czech doctor who spent four years at Dachau told the International Tribunal trying 22 ranking Nazis today that five of the defendants had visited the notorious concentration camp and he dramatically pointed out four of them.

The reaction was swift. Wilhelm Frick, former minister of the interior and one of the men pointed out by the witness, Dr. Franz Blaha, shook his fist and angrily demanded through his counsel that he be given a chance to take the stand immediately to "confront" his accuser.

Rosenberg Smug

Another defendant, pointed out by Dr. Blaha was Alfred Rosenberg, Nazi party philosopher. Rosenberg sat with a smug snarl on his face, but his counsel joined with Frick's lawyer in denying that Rosenberg and Frick had been at the camp.

The presiding justice told the lawyers that all defendants would get an opportunity to present their cases but they would have to wait their turn.

Dr. Blaha testified that he personally had seen Rosenberg and Frick at Dachau and that he had been told three other defendants, Walter Funk, former Reichsbank president, Fritz Sauckel, in charge of slave labor, and Ernst Kaltenbrunner, one-time security police chief, had made inspection visits there. He pointed to Funk and Sauckel also. Kaltenbrunner was not in court because of a cranial hemorrhage.

The German defense attorneys questioned Blaha at length but he held to his story.

Dr. Blaha, whose testimony at the Dachau trials led to the sentencing of 40 officials and guards—36 of whom received death sentences—was presented as a surprise witness after the prosecution completed cases against two top financiers of the Nazi regime, Funk and Dr. Hjalmar Schacht.

The prosecution charged that Schacht was a "double talker" who criticized the Nazis before foreigners, but went along willingly with them to build up the German war machine.

Funk was depicted as one of the key conspirators from the beginning when he started collecting campaign funds for the Nazis in 1931 until he succeeded Schacht as president of the Reichsbank.

Defendants Surprised

Blaha's appearance produced an emotional shock among the defendants, several of whom bolted upright with their hands clinching the rails.

The Czech doctor, whose wrist tendons were cut so he could not continue as a surgeon, testified that many high government and military figures frequently visited the extermination camp near Munich. He described how some murder victims were chosen for perfect teeth and smooth skins.

"Orders frequently were received at Dachau for skulls," Blaha said. "Teeth counted a great deal. When these orders came, the camp commandant would remark on the necessity of finding men with perfect teeth. It was dangerous to have a soft skin or good teeth at Dachau." Soft human skin, he said, was prized for leather.

The presiding justice adjourned the afternoon session by announcing the tribunal would work in closed session tomorrow and again Monday afternoon. There will be a regular open session Monday morning.

Schacht Blamed For Conquests

Nuernberg, Germany, Jan. 11 (AP) — The American prosecution charged before the international military tribunal today that Germany's military successes were made possible only by the resourcefulness, financial ruthlessness and "absolute cynicism" of Dr. Hjalmar Schacht.

The one-time wizard of German finances is now on trial for his life with 21 other Nazi leaders. He heard an assistant United States prosecutor, Naval Lieutenant Brady O. Bryson of Catonsville, Md., cite a memorandum which Schacht wrote Hitler in 1939 as evidence of Schacht's complicity in the annexation of Austria and Czechoslovakia.

Gives Self Credit

The memorandum hailed Germany's foreign policy as successful and pointed out to Hitler that Schacht's financial talents had rearmed German forces to the point which made the Nazi foreign policy possible.

Shortly after the memorandum was written, the former president of the Reichsbank and German Economic Minister declared in a speech in Vienna that "Hitler has created a communion of German will and German thought, he has bolstered it up with the newly strengthened Wehrmacht and he finally gave the external form to the inner union between Germany and Austria."

Not A 100 P.C. Nazi

As the prosecution built its case against the high-collared financier, bits of testimony showed that Schacht, although aiding in Germany's war effort, often declared himself out of sympathy with Nazi policies.

This was the first instance since the trial began in which any defendant has been pictured as anything but a completely ruthless criminal.

Schacht's "hatred of Hitler" was noted by former United States Ambassador William E. Dodd in his diary in September, 1934, but Dodd also pointed out that Schacht was ready for forceful occupation of small countries.

Wanted Upper Silesia

As early as 1929, the prosecution showed, Schacht declared in Paris that Germany never would be able to pay her obligations until the Polish Corridor and Upper Silesia were handed back and cololnial possessions were made available to the Reich.

While the American prosecution entered the final phase of its presentation of evidence against the individual defendants, chief United States prosecutor Justice Robert H. Jackson issued an order prohibiting interviews with prisoners or witnesses.

This followed a recent embargo laid down by the tribunal providing that correspondents who obtained interviews with the defendants through their counsel would be charged with contempt.

Jackson's order was directed to all personnel of the office of the chief counsel.

Patton War Report Nearly Completed

Frankfurt, Jan. 11 (A. P.).—The huge task of analyzing the campaign of the United States Army in Europe, which Gen. George S. Patton, Jr. was directing at the time of his death, is almost completed. The general board, now headed by Major-Gen. Leven C. Allen, will finish the exhaustive critique about January 31, headquarters announced.

The board has made more than 200 studies, ranging from "the strategy of the compaign in western Europe in 1944-45," to investigations of trench foot and the theater library services.

Autopsy On Passau Victims Awaited

Nuernberg, Jan. 11 (AP)—An autopsy was scheduled to be performed tonight at the United States Army Hospital in Regensburg on hte scorched bodies of three United States Army officers which were recovered from the charred ruins of a house on the outskirts of Passau at the Austrian border, 80 miles southeast of Regensbrg.

Pending receipt of the report on the autopsy tomorrow, officers of the 4th Armored Division, which is the occupation force for that area, declined to give any information in the circumstances surrounding the deaths, particularly respecting the possibility that the victims were beaten to death before the house burned.

Editors of the Army newspaper Stars and Stripes said their correspondents in the Passau area made a belated discovery of the fire, which occurred Monday, but their efforts to learn the details were hampered when investigating authorities declared the scene of the tragedy "off limits" and withheld information.

Soldiers who reached the ruins soon after the fire was extinguished, however, informed the Stars and Stripes that all three officers appeared to have had their heads caved in, and declared there were indications that the house was subsequently doused with gasoline and then set afire.

Although the dead officers were described as a major, a captain and a lieutenant, names of the victims were withheld pending notification of their relatives.

It was learned, however, that two of them were stationed at Regensburg and had gone to Passau only to visit the third victim.

Burned Yank Bodies Found

Nuernberg, Jan. 11 (AP)—The army newspaper Stars and Stripes reported today that the charred bodies of three United States Military Government officers had been found in a half-burned house on the outskirts of Passau, near the Austrian-Bavarian border.

"Soldiers who saw the fire said there were indications that the officers were beaten to death and the house set on fire after it was drenched with gasoline," the paper said. It declared that an army investigation already was under way.

The dead officers were described as a major, a captain and a lieutenant, but their names were not disclosed.

Harmony Marks Red-Bulgar Talks

Moscow, Jan. 11 (A. P.).—A joint Russian-Bulgarian communique announced today that conferences here between representatives of the two nations had been completed "in an atmosphere of complete mutual understanding and heartiness."

The bulletin said the talks had touched on the matter of economic collaboration and "other questions relative to the mutual relations between both countries," but gave no information on the decisions reached.

Russians Try Nine Germans

MOSCOW, Jan. 11 (AP)—Nine Germans, including Lieut. Gen. Herman Winkler, went on trial before a military tribunal in the Ukrainian city of Nikolaev yesterday for alleged war crimes.

Gestapo Torture To Get Radar Secrets Charged

Naples, Jan. 11 (AP)—The German Gestapo tried to find out secrets of American radar by torturing United States flyers captured in North Italy, the prosecution charged today at the war crimes trial of four Nazi officers accused of murdering seven Allied soldiers.

Major Samuel Lewis, of Dallas, Texas, trial judge advocate, submitted an affidavit of Sergt. Melvin Ernest Kelly, of Framington, Ill., who was shot down over Bologna. Kelly said the Gestapo beat him and forced him to witness the execution of an Allied soldier in a vain attempt to make him tell radar secrets.

His comrades of the Mitchell bomber were submitted to similar treatment, he said.

Lewis and the assistant prosecutor, Capt. John S. Pennell, of Jackson, Mich., sought to link Kelly's testimony with the murder of four American flyers at Bolzano a year ago. The airmen first were reported killed in action but later were found to have been shot on the pretext of attempting to escape. The victims were Lieut. Charles Parker, Milldale, Conn., Lieut. George W. Hammond, Jr., Newnan, Ga., Sergt. Medard R. Tafoya, Yoloa, Cal., and Lieut. Hardy D. Narrow, R. F. D. No. 2, Kenly, N. C.

Public Gatherings Prohibited In Naples

Rome, Jan. 11 (AP)—Public gatherings of more than five persons were prohibited in Naples by order of the Mayor today as disorders continued throughout Italy.

The mayoral edict followed an assault on the City Hall yesterday by about 4,000 unemployed veterans and returned war prisoners who were armed with clubs and stones.

The Mayor was stoned. Police intervened and in the resultant shooting twelve persons were injured.

Disorders also were reported from Palermo, Sicily, and a half dozen other cities, most of them demonstrations for "bread and work."

Hungary Executes Bardossy as Traitor

Former Premier Assails 'These Bandits'

BUDAPEST, Jan. 10 (Delayed) (AP).—Lazslo de Bardossy, former Hungarian Premier who led his country into war beside Germany, died a traitor's death today before a four-man firing squad.

His last fanatical words—"God save Hungary from these bandits"—nearly started a riot in the jail courtyard where the watching crowd shouted back, "Long live democracy!"

The silver-haired Bardossy originally was sentenced to hang. The Supreme National Council deemed a firing squad "more honorable."

He entered the gloomy Mark Street jail courtyard at 8:45 a. m. Bullets from rifles of four jailers thudded through his body two minutes later.

Provoked by the doomed man's last words, a crowd of onlookers stormed against the police-held barriers, but drew back as Bardossy half turned, sagged and crumpled after the crack of execution rifles.

Bardossy spent his last hours with his wife, who blames Americans for demanding her husband's life. A police officer said Bardossy joked with his wife during his last minutes, and shrugged off his fate with a muttered: "One must die sometime."

World War II Cost Put at 600 Billion

Four Times That of First, Bank Estimates

BASEL, Switzerland, Jan. 11 (AP).—The cost of World War II was more than four times that of World War I, the Bank for International Settlements estimated in a report made public here today.

World War II costs up to last summer borne by the various treasuries of the world were placed roughly at $600,000,000,000. Converting the "1913 dollar" into a "1945 dollar" (taking into account the rise in prices), the cost of World War I was placed at $180,000,000,000.

These figures, the report said, represent direct costs only, without counting the capitalized value of human life, the property losses, the loss of production, the cost of war relief and neutrals' losses.

U.S. Aid To Belgium Told

Brussels, Jan. 11 (AP)—The Belgian War Relief Society of the United States announced today that during the war Americans had donated more than $100,000,000 in currency and goods to the Belgian people.

Five in Jap Cabinet Have Quit, Is Report

TOKYO, Saturday, Jan. 12—(AP) A usually informed government source said today that five ministers of the Shidehara cabinet have submitted their resignations and a search already is underway for replacements. Their names would be submitted to Gen. MacArthur's headquarters for approval.

Two ministers believed to have been instrumental in convincing Premier Shidehara he should reorganize rather than decide on total resignation were said by the source to be among the five resigning.

The two are Kenzo Matsumura, minister of agriculture and forestry, and Daisaburo Tsugita, minister without portfolio.

MACARTHUR'S WORK UPHELD

Hirohito's Abdication Is Not Necessary, Patterson Says

Tokyo, Jan. 12 (AP)—Secretary of War Patterson assured Allied newsmen today that General MacArthur's command "remains undiminished" under the new four-power control setup for Japan, and said he did not believe Emperor Hirohito's war responsibility was such as to require his abdication.

The Japanese Cabinet, meanwhile, decided, after an all-day conference, that aged Premier Kijuoro Shidehara should remain in office pending attempts to solve by reorganization the crisis touched off by MacArthur's January 4 political purge directive.

Sources close to the Government said several ministers submitted their resignations during the day's session, and Kyodo news agency reported that one of these was Zenjiro Horikiri, Home Minister. Kyodo also reported that Tamon Maeda, Education Minister, was planning to resign.

Hirohito Receives Yoshida

Daisaburo Tsugita, the chief Cabinet secretary, said another Cabinet meeting would be held to decide on the resignations of ministers affected by MacArthur's directive. The directive ordered removal from public office of all ultranationalists who had helped to steer Japan into war.

Hirohito this morning received Shigeru Yoshida, Foreign Minister, for a report on the political crisis.

Government sources declined to say how many ministers might be forced out of the Cabinet, but Tokyo newspapers said that six of the twelve members would have to go.

Jap Reporters See Patterson

Furamatsu Kishi, Shidehara's secretary, said after today's meeting that the elderly Premier, who is recuperating from an attack of pneumonia, would have preferred to resign and turn the reins of government over to a new man. Retention of a premier after resignation of a large part of his Cabinet is unprecedented in Japanese politics.

Secretary Patterson's comment on the status of Hirohito was made at a news conference including Japanese as well as Allied reporters. In reply to the written question of a Japanese he said he did not think abdication was required.

"That is a problem for the Japanese people," he asserted, adding that the entire question of the emperor system was covered in the Potsdam declaration.

No Occupation Time Estimate

Patterson said he would not answer a question as to how long Japan would be occupied, and declared that "as far as I know there is no desire on the part of the Russians to furnish occupation forces."

Asked specifically if MacArthur had protested against a Russian occupation force, he replied "no." Asked if MacArthur had ever sent him a message warning that he would resign if the Russians came he again answered "no."

A Japanese reporter asked if there was a possibility that the supreme commander might resign or be recalled to the United States. Patterson responded:

"I think there is no possibility of that."

Jap Monopolies Criticized

The Japanese appeared surprised when Patterson, in reply to another question, said the occupation had been progressing smoothly but that "the existence of a food problem has never been brought out."

The War Secretary said MacArthur's command had "made an excellent beginning toward democratizing Japan, politically, socially and along economic lines." He mentioned the granting of civil liberties as one of the major accomplishments toward re-education of the Japanese people, and said that one of the major objectives of world peace would be promoted by breaking up Japanese monopolies and cartels.

Shidehara Due To Stay As Premier

JAN 12 1

Tokyo, Jan. 11 (AP)—The aged and convalescent Premier Kijuro Shidehara will remain in office while his Cabinet attempts to solve its political crisis by reorganization, the ministers decided today after a day-long meeting.

Some ministers submitted their resignations during the session in conformance with General MacArthur's January 4 political-purge directive, said sources close to the Government. However, they declined to disclose the number of possible resignations.

Later, Kyodo news agency said that Home Minister Z Enjiro Horikiri had handed his resignation to Shidehara and that Education Minister Tamon Maeda was unauthoritatively reported as planning to resign.

Shidehara's Stand

Government sources also indicated that Shidehara originally desired the ministers' resignation en bloc, but agreed to remain in office and try a reorganization after arguments raised in today's meeting were relayed to him at his home.

The chief Cabinet Secretary, Daisaburo Tsugita, officially announced the Cabinet's decision at 4.45 P.M. He said another meeting will be held to determine the resignations of ministers affected by MacArthur's directive.

He added that this meeting will probably not be until January 15, the next regularly scheduled Cabinet session, when Shidehara is expected to return after a two-week illness. A special meeting could be called earlier, however, and Kyodo said the ministers might convene tomorrow.

Confident On Election

Tsugita gave no direct reason for the Cabinet decision. He said, however, that "the Cabinet is confident the general elections will be carried out successfully." The elections, originally scheduled for this month, have probably been delayed two months by the Cabinet crisis.

Preceding his announcement, Tsugita and Kenzo Matsumura, Agriculture and Forestry Minister, had conferred with Shidehara at his private residence—one of a series of meetings in which Cabinet members, in relays, shuttled between the Premier's official and private residences.

Conference With Mikado

In midmorning, Foreign Minister Shigeru Yoshida had reported to Emperor Hirohito on the situation created by General MacArthur's order that all militaristic, ultranationalistic public officials who had influenced Japan to make war must be ousted.

During the week-long crisis, proponents of reorganization contended that the Cabinet should not resign as a body until the election had paved the way for party government.

Tokyo newspapers had previously reported that six of the twelve Cabinet members would be forced out for past ultranationalistic activities. The papers named these Ministers as falling under MacArthur's directive: Horikiri, Matsumura, Maeda, Tsugita, Dr. Hitoshi Ashida, Welfare, and Joji Matsumoto, Parliamentarian.

Few Decided Upon

Reluctance of Government sources to discuss possible resignations indicated that only a few had been decided upon so far.

Retention of a premier after a sizable portion of his Cabinet has resigned is unprecedented in Japanese politics. The usual procedure is total resignation, followed by reappointment of the Premier to form a new Cabinet.

Shidehara's secretary, Furamatsu Kishi, said after today's meeting that the Premier preferred to resign and turn over the Government reins to a new leader. Shidehara is recuperating from pneumonia, Kishi said.

Hirohito Is Held Jap Problem

Tokyo, Jan. 11 (AP)—United States Secretary of War Patterson said today, in answer to a Japanese newspaper man's questions, that he did not believe Emperor Hirohito's war responsibility was such as to require his abdication.

"That is a problem for the Japanese people," Patterson said, adding that the entire question of the Emperor system was covered in the Potsdam Declaration.

Reporting at a press conference on his tour of Japan before leaving tomorrow for Korea, China and the Philippines, the Secretary praised General MacArthur and the occupation army.

400,000 In May

He said Pacific army forces would be reduced to 400,000 in May and reported that neither Russia nor China, to his knowledge, has asked to send in troops to join American forces. Negotiations are under way for a British Commonwealth force to participate.

Questions submitted in writing beforehand by both Allied and Japanese correspondents covered a wide range, from the prime question of demobilization to MacArthur's position under the new four-power control setup agreed upon in Moscow recently.

GI Morale "Good"

Patterson said he found soldier morale good in Japan and other Pacific bases he had visited and said it was not impaired materially by demobilization. Asked if failure of Congress to have a blueprint was responsible for failure to work out an orderly demobilization, he replied:

"I don't admit there has been failure to carry out a plan for orderly demobilization. The War Department made careful plans and accelerated demobilization considerably over estimates of last August and September."

Patterson declined to comment on demonstrations by American soldiers in the Pacific in protest against the demobilization slowdown, but gave renewed assurance that he would visit Manila, where a GI committee has prepared questions to ask him.

Along Indicated Lines

Demobilization, he continued, is being carried out along indicated lines.

Asked what soldiers would be considered essential under General Eisenhower's recent authorization for the return of men not needed, Patterson said that was a rpoblem for MacArthur's headquarters.

He said there is need in Japan for highly skilled persons from civilian life in the United States and steps are being taken to supply them. As for soldiers now in the area, a reduction in theater requirements would cut that force—which was 807,000 in the Pacific January 1—to approximately 400,000 in May. The latter level was "set by the theater commander as necessary to carry out responsibilities."

Replacements Due

Of the 400,000, a large number will be relieved in the same period by sending out new men to replace them "in line with the American rule of fair play and spreading the load."

Patterson said MacArthur's "command remains undiminished" in reply to questions of both American and Japanese newsmen regarding the General's status under the four-power commission.

He told a Japanese correspondent that conditions are entirely different in Japan than in Germany and there is no possibility of divided rule such as exists in Germany.

He said he could not answer a question as to how long Japan would be occupied.

No MacArthur Protests

Asked specifically if MacArthur had protested against Russians coming to Japan, he replied "No." Asked if MacArthur ever sent him a message warning that he would resign if the Russians came, he again replied "No."

Asked by a Japanese if there is a possibility that MacArthur might resign or be recalled to the United States, Patterson answered: "I think there is no possibility of that."

The Japanese appeared surprised when, in answer to a question, Patterson said the occupation was progressing smoothly, but "existence of a food problem has never been brought out."

Error on Cyclotrons Admitted by Patterson

TOKYO, Jan. 11 (AP).—Secretary of War Robert P. Patterson today assumed full responsibility for the destruction of Japanese cyclotrons.

Asked at a press conference, "Who in your department ordered the cyclotrons destroyed?" the Secretary replied: "I will take the blame for that. That is, the order went out under my name. I didn't see the message. The mistake was in not consulting scientists first."

Several scientists who helped develop America's atom bomb protested strongly at news of the wrecking of the cyclotrons. They said the machines should have been sent to the United States for study.

Given Life, Jap Nearly Cries At Trial

JAN 12 1946

Yokohama, Jan. 11 (AP)—Lieut. Chotaro Furushima, third Japanese prison-camp commandant to be convicted of the mistreatment of Americans, nearly wept today as his sentence—life imprisonment—was read.

His wife, in the rear of the courtroom, remained impassive.

Furushima, former schoolteacher and vice mayor of Funatsu, was acquitted by the trial commission of two specifications alleging that he deprived internees of adequate food, clothing and medical facilities, but was convicted of brutalities for which the prosecution had sought the death penalty. "The trial was satisfactory," said Furushima's attorney.

In earlier cases, one camp commandant had been sentenced to death and another to life imprisonment at hard labor. All three sentences are subject to review by Lieut. Gen. C. P. Hall, United States 8th Army commander.

New Trials Next Week

A Japanese captain charged with responsibility for the deaths of four Allied prisoners of war will go on trial Monday or Tuesday—the fourth war-crime defendant in Japan.

Eighth Army authorities announced a lengthy indictment against Capt. Haichi Hirate, former commander of the Hakodate prison camp on the northern Japanese island of Hokkaido.

Hirate is charged personally with the death of British Pfc. Raymond Suttle, of Hadleigh, Suffolk, and of responsibility for the deaths of another British soldier and two Dutch soldiers.

Tokyo-U.S. Phone Wire Open Again

Tokyo, Jan. 11 (AP)—A wife in Texas wouldn't believe her husband was telephoning from Tokyo; a worried captain was reassured because "there was a smile in mother's voice" and a corporal stood looking at the phone and saying: "Gosh!"

Thus was telephone service resumed to the United States today, to carry emergency personal calls of occupation troops. The rate: 180 yen ($12) for three minutes.

Jap Geologists' Idea Stymied

Tokyo, Jan. 11 (AP) — Japanese geologists who asked permission to study other parts of the world left tonight to see Japan instead—in the company of American scientists.

The Japanese and 23 Americans left on a field trip to the Kyoto area, part of a research program aimed at helping Japan solve its economic problems.

Jap Paper Firm Restricted By Allies

Tokyo, Jan. 11 (AP) — Oji Paper Manufacturing Company, Ltd., which produces half of Japan's paper, and 40 subsidiary firms today were added to Allied headquarters' list of restricted concerns.

Financial transactions and production of the firms are subject to headquarters approval.

TOKYO BROTHELS 'LIBERATE' GIRLS

Tokyo, Jan. 11 (A. P.).—The Tokyo Brothel Keepers Association decided today to abolish licensed prostitution and to "liberate" 300 girls of Tokyo's restricted districts. The girls, whose debts previously had kept them in the predicament of white slaves, now will be permitted to operate by paying only for room and board, and to refund "on easy payments" their debts to the brothel keepers.

The Brothel Keepers Association announced that it had decided on the change as in keeping with "democratization."

PAPER CLAIMS 'HANDS BOUND'

Army Authorities Explain Policy On Daily Pacifican

JAN 12

Manila, Saturday, Jan. 12 (AP)—A protest by the staff of the army newspaper Daily Pacifican that "our hands are now bound" by new supervisory measures brought an explanation today from army authorities that the new policy was aimed at building up the Army rather than undermining it—but does not constitute gag rule.

Col. W. E. Waters, in charge of the information and education section of [illegible] Western Pacific, said it had been decided to exercise supervision of subject matter in letters of the "Mail Bag" column. The popular column features letters from service men in the theater who air their grievances.

Controversial Subjects Banned

Henceforth, Waters said, letters touching on such controversial subjects as race relations, religion and officer privileges versus enlisted men's privileges will be banned. He explained that "nothing can be done at this command level about such problems and it does no good to provoke ill feelings."

Waters denied the the Pacifician staff had been forbidden to publish lists of congressmen and senators to whom the GI's can address their protests against the demobilization policy.

He said he saw a proof list the Pacifican was scheduled to publish January 10, noticed it was outdated, so ordered the publication upheld until corrected. He said the list would appear Sunday.

Staff members had said the list was ordered out with no mention that later publication would be permitted.

Staff Issues Statement

The policy stems from a meeting of all information and education officers called late in December by Lieut. Gen. W. D. Styer, AFWESPAC commander, Waters explained.

The policy calls for approval of all subject matter in the Pacifican and unit newspapers by a supervising officer. Previously, the enlisted staff members wer the final judges.

The staff yesterday issued a statement saying an officer with power to delete any article was installed in the office after this week's demobilization demonstrations.

The statement, signed by Editor Tom Kinney and 32 members of his staff, came as the demonstrations appeared to be tapering off in the Pacific.

2,500 At Demonstration

Only 2,500 turned out last night for a demonstration in Hawaii, where sponsors had expected 12,000, and Lieut. Gen. Robert C. Richardson, Jr., expressed the hope they would cease with one last mass meeting tomorrow.

"All of you have had your say," he told a soldier spokesman. The War Department has shown an interest, so wait and see what they're going to do.

A two-man Senate subcommittee studying surpluses, bases and related matters arrived in Shanghai today and planned to leave for Manila tomorrow or Sunday. Members are Senators Tunnell (D., Del.) and Knowland (R., Cal.).

A spokesman for Lieut. Gen. Albert C. Wedemeyer said at Shanghai that General Eisenhower's directive to send all surplus men home regardless of point scores would not affect his command in the China theater because all such men already had left.

Soldier committees in Manila were busy assembling for the senators evidence of what the soldiers termed "waste and lost motion" in demobilization.

HANDS NOW BOUND BY CENSOR, ARMY PAPER EDITOR SAYS

MANILA, Jan. 11 — (AP) The staff of the army newspaper Daily Pacifican declared today that an officer with power to delete any article had been installed in its office after this week's demobilization demonstrations and "we are compelled to announce that our hands are now bound."

There was no immediate comment from Lt. Gen. W. D. Styer, commander in the Western Pacific, who told soldiers protesting war department slowdown orders Monday that the army still had work to do in the Pacific.

The statement, signed by Editor Tom Kinney and 32 members of his staff, came as the demonstrations appeared to be tapering off in the Pacific.

Only 2,500 turned out last night where sponsors had expected 12,000, and Lt. Gen. Robert C. Richardson, Jr., expressed the hope they would cease with one last mass meeting tomorrow.

"All of you have had your say," he told a soldier spokesman. "The war department has shown an interest, so wait and see what they're going to do."

Patterson Speaks

Secretary of War Patterson told newspapermen in Tokyo that in fact the war department had "accelerated demobilization considerably over estimates of last August and September."

"I don't admit there has been a failure to carry out the plan for orderly demobilization," he said, adding that it would be continued along indicated lines.

The Secretary said he found that morale on Pacific island bases he had visited was not materially impaired by the demobilization and reiterated he would visit Manila after trips to Korea and Shanghai next week.

A two-man senate sub-committee studying surpluses, bases and related matters arrived in Shanghai today and planned to leave for Manila tomorrow or Sunday.

Members are Senators Tunnell (D-Del) and Knowland (R-Calif.)

A spokesman for Lt. Gen. Albert C. Wedemeyer said at Shanghai that General Eisenhower's directive to send all surplus men home regardless of point scores would not affect his command in the China theater because all such men already had left.

Soldier committees in Manila were busy assembling for the senators evidence of what the soldiers termed "waste and lost motion" in demobilization.

The statement by the Daily Pacifican staff asserted that on "orders from on high" even the "mail bag" column of letters from soldier readers now "is subjected to severe editorial restrictions and limitations."

"We have been denied even the right to print Associated Press and United Press dispatches if they report any criticism or dissatisfaction whatsoever with official policies of the war department and our theater commanders."

Editor Kinney, veteran newspaperman from Covington, Ga., said the statement was issued because the staff had received many inquiries the last few days asking: "what's happened to the Daily Pacifican?"

"New restrictions on freedom of expression imposed from above no longer enable us to bring the full news and the full truth to our GI readers," the statement said.

"To keep faith with our readers, who have come to expect adequate news coverage and the truth as we see it and understand it from the columns of the Daily Pacifican, we are compelled to announce our hands are now bound. As loyal soldiers we execute orders received."

JEEP THEFT RING

Manila, Jan. 11 (A. P.).—United States military police today announced the arrest of six A. W. O. L. American enlisted men, eleven Philippine Army officers and four employees of a printing shop on charges of complicity in a well-organized jeep theft ring. Fifteen jeeps have been recovered.

Capt. M. H. Traylor, chief investigator, said the ring even gave printed "ownership" papers to buyers of the stolen vehicles. Several American G. I.'s in the group, he said, were posing as Air Force officers and were "living high" on the proceeds of the jeeps, which had been sold to Philippine Army officers. The printing shop employees were accused of duplicating ownership papers.

HELD IN CAIRO DEATH

Cairo, Jan. 11 (A. P.).—The Egyptian Public Prosecutor's Office said today that the "young man" who last week killed Amin Osman Pasha, former Minister of Finance, had confessed.

The killer's name was not given. The Prosecutor's statement said the slayer of the pro-British former Egyptian official had admitted guilt in "other crimes."

TKR In Java Disarmed

Batavia, Java, Jan. 11 (AP)—British authorities announced today that they had disarmed all personnel of the Indonesian Peace Preservation Corps (TKR) in Buitenzorg, scene of several recent outbreaks.

They said the local TKR commander was co-operating in sifting out undesirables and that, when this task was completed, authorized personnel would be rearmed.

Six Arrests At Bandoeng

Meanwhile, the British arrested six men at Bandoeng, Java's summer capital, on suspicion of implication in the killing of 50 Europeans, Eurasians and Indonesians. A Eurasian prisoner described the killing of 14 others December 19.

The military situation was quiet except for patrol clashes at Semarang and in two areas near the Dutch naval base of Soerabaja. A British mobile column cleared the Semarang road six miles southwest of the town, eliminating several roadblocks. One Ghurka soldier was killed and a British officer wounded.

Flight Engineer Guilty In Hawaii Plane Crash

Civilian Gets 6 Months, Fined $2,000; 18 Were Killed

HONOLULU, Jan. 11 (AP).—Headquarters of the commanding general of the Pacific Division, Air Transport Command, announced today the conviction of John R. Patrick, twenty-seven, of Tulare, Calif., on a charge of involuntary manslaughter growing out of the crash of an Army plane at sea Nov. 3 with loss of eighteen lives. He was sentenced to six months confinement and fined $2,000.

The plane, a four-engined Liberator, ran out of fuel and plunged into the ocean 500 miles northeast of Honolulu en route to Fairfield, Calif. Patrick, civilian flight engineer, was one of eight survivors.

Patrick was accused of failing to "determine positively" whether the plane had been refueled before the take-off. His defense, the public relations office said, was that he did take precautions.

The sentence is subject to a review and possible revision by Major General William Ord Ryan, commanding the A. T. C. Pacific Division.

UNITY GOVERNMENT MAPPED FOR CHINA

Dr. Sun Outlines Plans For Multi-Party Setup

Moos A

Chungking, Jan. 11 (AP) — The national delegation at the unity conference announced today it was drafting a formal plan for broadening China's Government to include other parties in line with United States policy.

Immediately following yesterday's truce to Government-Communist hostilities, Dr. Sun Fo, president of the Legislative Yuan (Council) unfolded the Government plan for cementing the divided nation.

JAN 12 1946

A broadcast from Communist headquarters in Yenan, heard by Associated Press monitors in San Francisco, said cease-firing orders already had gone out to its armies.)

Dr. Sun Outlines Plans

Dr. Sun, son of Dr. Sun Yat-sen, founder of the Chinese Republic, told reporters the Kuomintang (National) party proposal would be submitted within a few days to the political consultation conference now in session.

The plan would be to reorganize largely advisory, to make it China's supreme policy-making and directive authority, with membership including other parties.

The Council, now composed entirely of members of the Kuomintang, would be able to override the President of the republic (now Chiang Kai-shek) by a two-thirds vote.

In Line With Truman's Idea

Secondly, Dr. Sun said, new ministers of state with or without portfolio from among leaders of other parties would be added to the executive Yuan, China's Cabinet.

The delegation spokesman said this reorganization would be in line with recommendations for a broadened Government as outlined by President Truman in his December 15 statement on America's China policy.

Some observers pointed out that while the proposal fell short of an outright coalition Government demanded by both the Communists and the Democratic League, it was the greatest concession yet offered by the Government.

India-China Pipeline Sold By U.S. For Scrap

New Delhi, India, Jan. 11 (AP)—The 900-mile United States Army pipeline which carried oil and fuel across Burma into China has been sold as scrap to a New Delhi concern, the Indian Traders' Corporation, for a price still undisclosed.

The whole pipeline system including 35 pumping stations reaching from Assam, India, to Wanting, China, was estimated to total 17,500 tons of scrap. It operated until the end of the war.

The whole pipeline system, including thirty-five pumping stations reaching from Assam, India, to Wanting, China, was estimated to total 17,500 tons of scrap. It operated until the end of the war.

15 Australian Girls Are Given Reprimand

Brisbane, Australia, Jan. 11 (AP)—Fifteen Australian girls who flew to Manila without passports to work as secretaries for American officers, came home today to an official scolding.

They were severely reprimanded by the collector of customs for leaving Australia without proper travel documents and tax clearances. It was understood that no further action was contemplated in the case, which had drawn considerable criticism in Australian newspapers.

Before the girls left Manila on their homeward flight, Maj. Gen. Clements McMullen, commander of the Far East Air Service Command there, said they were being sent back "to appease the press."

The General explained that the fifteen secretaries had been brought to Manila to meet an acute personnel problem caused by the return home of all enlisted WACs in the FEASC.

Rio de Janeiro, Jan. 11 (A. P.).—The Meridional news agency reported today that seven United States Army personnel had been killed in the crash of a Flying Fortress at Touros, near Natal.

Haitian President Forced To Resign

Port-au-Prince, Haiti, Jan. 11 (AP). A three-man military junta took over the reins of the Haitian Government tonight after President Elie Lesoot was forced to resign in a climax to day-long demonstrations in which four to six persons were killed and 100 injured.

While troops guarded Lescot's home an unconfirmed report was heard that he had fled Haiti with his family aboard a ship. The new government said hundreds of political prisoners alread yhad been freed and it promised free elections.

The military junta, headed by Col. Frank Lavaud, Major Antoine Levelt and Major Paul Magliore, apprently had not yet restored order. Thousands of persons stormed police headquarters demanding punishment of an army lieutenant charged with killing one civilian and beating a woman during disorders today.

Five Jap PW's Escape On Morotai

Sydney, Jan. 11 (AP)—Five Japanese prisoners of war, four of them suspected war criminals, have escaped on Morotai Island, in the Halmahera group. They are the first Japanese reported to have escaped from guards since Japan surrendered.

A message from Morotai said one was to have appeared before an Australian court today on a murder charge, and three others were accused of atrocities against Dutch nationals. The fifth was a witness in a pending case.

Morotai, an island of 1,000 square miles, affords ample hideout possibilities. The escape was discovered when the five failed to answer midday roll call.

airmen with whom she had dates. Investigation showed she was living in a $175 a month apartment, although her salary was $90 a month and that of her mother $60 a month.

Girl Questioned, Dismissed

The girl was questioned, but was dismissed and no charges were brought. She moved to the United States with her mother and later a parcel was intercepted detailing plans of a Boston shipyard, together with specifications of a warship to be launched there, together with information about the Montreal airport.

The girl and her mother fled to Argentina, police said.

PW's Found Near Airport

The following winter, many German prisoners of war who had escaped from internment camps were found in ditches near the airport and one, Capt. von Foerster, a German U-boat commander, told officials that prisoners had orders to damage the airport if they could escape.

In England, before being transferred to Canada the prisoners were briefed on the layout of the field from pictures clipped from newspapers. Later raids in internment camps brought to light small instruction books about Dorval.

U. S. STRIKES INTERRUPT CANADA, BRITAIN CALLS

MONTREAL, Jan. 11. — (AP) Transatlantic telephone communication between Canada and Britain has been substantially interrupted and calls between the Dominion and seven American cities have been reduced to an emergency basis by the strike in the United States, the Bell Telephone Company of Canada said today.

A spokesman for the Canadian Telephone Company said the great majority of calls to and from Britain normally are routed by way of New York and the transoceanic channels from that city have been put on an emergency basis as well. That left only the Canadian Marconi Company's direct wireless telephonic channel to handle all overseas calls.

PRESIDENT MEETS CIO, STEEL HEADS FOR TALKS TODAY

Murray and Fairless to Confer with Truman in White House.

NEGOTIATIONS COLLAPSE

Union Reduces Demands—One Bethlehem Steel Plant Force Quit.

NEW YORK, Jan. 11 — (AP) President Truman stepped into the steel wage controversy tonight as negotiations broke down in efforts to avert a strike scheduled for Monday by 800,000 members of the CIO United Steelworkers.

Shortly after Philip Murray, CIO and Union president, announced that the walkout would begin as scheduled, the President invited Murray and Benjamin F. Fairless, president of the U.S. Steel Corp., to the White House tomorrow for a continuation of talks, starting at 2 p.m. E.S.T.

Both men accepted the invitation.

Negotiations collapsed here after a three-hour conference at which the Union reduced its wage increase demands from $2 a day to $1.60.

Lackawanna Workers Out

At Lackawanna, N. Y., thousands of Bethlehem Steel Co. employes left their jobs tonight and swiftly established picket lines around the sprawling plant.

Joseph P. Molony, district director of the United Steelworkers, said he authorized a strike after Bethlehem officials refused what he described as a Union offer to assist in making plans for maintenance service during the strike set for Monday.

He predicted that all of Bethlehem's 11,000 workers at Lackawanna would be out by tomorrow morning. Company officials could not be reached immediately.

Murray, speaking quietly to reporters in a corporation office here, said the Union today reduced its wage demands from 25 cents an hour to 20 cents which he said "we believe to be reasonable," but he said the corporation offered only 15 cents an hour increase which the Union considers "wholly inadequate."

The CIO chief, also president of the steelworkers, said his conferences with Fairless and "big steel" representatives were "now breaking up with no reasonable hope of settlement in the offing."

Fairless said in a statement that the strike would be in violation of the no-strike provision in the union contract which continues until Oct. 15, 1946.

He said the negotiations were broken off by Murray and that "we have offered to continue collective bargaining with the union, if so desired."

Fairless quoted Murray as saying that the union would not accept a wage increase of less than 19 1-2 cents an hour and said Murray apparently was mistaken when the CIO head said the union offer was 20 cents.

Largest in History

The strike, which would be the largest in the nation's history, would affect virtually the entire steel industry as well as other manufacturing plants whose workers are represented by the steel workers union.

First indication that the union had receded from its $2 a day demand came earlier today when the Timken Roller Bearing Co. of Canton, O., offered its workers a 17 1-2 per cent increase and Murray authorized union representatives to accept a 20-cent hourly increase. C.I.O. spokesmen said a 20-cent hourly boost would approximate the 17 1-2 per cent offered by Timken.

In his news conference tonight Murray said he was "hopeful" that an agreement could be reached with the Timken company on that basis.

Murray said there had been no discussion of steel price increases in his conferences with Fairless. The steel industry has asked for price increases of approximately $7 a ton to cover what it said were cost increases aside from any proposed wage adjustment. Government officials have indicated a boost of $4 a ton would be approved.

Murray was asked if the steel workers would remain on their jobs if the government should take over the plants. He replied he did not know what the government would do and that in his conferences with Fairless "we did not dwell on the realms of 'if.'"

Dictates Statement

After the news conference Murray dictated the following statement to reporters:

"The United Steelworkers have for the past four months endeavored to effectuate an agreement with the steel industry through the processes of collective bargaining. We have exercised an amicable agreement with the representatives of the industry.

"We have comported ourselves in accord with the request of our government in every respect, particularly in our ready acceptance to resume negotiations and also our willingness to accept conciliation.

"The people employed in the industry we are privileged to represent have suffered a shocking loss in weekly earnings due to the complete elimination of overtime in the industry and other factors such as down grading.

"Today, in an effort to arrive at a mutually satisfactory settlement, we reduced our original demand of 25 cents an hour to 20 cents. This, we believed, to be reasonable. However, the representatives of the corporation in refusing to recognize the justice of our claim made a counter offer of 15 cents an hour which in the estimation of the United Steel workers is wholly inadequate to meet present day living needs.

"Hence the conference is now breaking up with no reasonable hope of settlement in the offing. The members of all our organizations will be required to follow the plan of our wage policy committee adopted a month ago and discontinue work effective midnight Sunday."

PHONE EMPLOYES STRIKE SPREADS ACROSS NATION

Long Distance System Virtually Paralyzed; Few Calls Handled.

CONFERENCE FAILS

Schwellenbach to Resume Talks in Washington Today.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 11. — (AP) The government conciliation service failed tonight to halt a progressive tieup of the nation's long distance telephone service and recessed its efforts until tomorrow.

Howard T. Colvin, assistant chief of the service, reported that meetings would be resumed with Secretary of Labor Schwellenbach sitting in at 10:00 a. m. E.S.T. tomorrow.

"There was no progress in the way of a settlement," Colvin said, "but it helped to clarify the picture some."

System Paralyzed

NEW YORK, Jan. 11.—(AP) America's vast long distance telephone system was virtually paralyzed tonight and a government official said seizure of the industry might be recommended if the strike situation became more acute.

Throughout most of the nation only emergency and priority long distance calls were being handled as a result of picket lines set up at dawn by 8,000 installation workers at key exchanges, and subsequent sympathy actions in some areas.

In New York city the American Telephone and Telegraph company announced that only five per cent of the normal number of long distance calls were being handled over its nationwide network of lines.

At 4 p. m. the company estimated nearly 10,000 of its 10,124 long distance operators were off their jobs. That did not include 148,000 local and toll operators. The firm had no figure on how many of those were absent.

Telephone communications were disrupted when other telephone workers obeyed the installation employes' request not to cross picket lines. Long distance service was hit first, but in some places local service also was affected.

Union leaders called out 11,000 operators in northern California and Nevada and 7,500 in Ohio, regardless of whether the exchanges in which they worked were being picketed.

May Seize System

Labor Secretary Schwellenbach summoned representatives of the Western Electric company, employer of the 8,000 striking installation workers, and the union to a conference in Washington late today (4 p. m. EST).

A Labor department official, who requested that his name not be used, said government seizure might be recommended if the telephone tie-up became nationwide.

Effect of the action on toll calls —which with manual phone operations were the first to be affected —varied.

In New York, the American Telephone and Telegraph company announced that although 45 per cent of its long distance boards were manned by supervisors or other emergency operators, only five per cent of the normal number of calls went through because the persons on duty were inexperienced.

The company said the number of boards covered in other exchanges ranged from 9.3 per cent in St. Louis to 71 per cent in Buffalo. Most of them were less than one-third manned.

The corporation said 13 of its 14 major traffic offices were picketed, the exception being Boston where installation workers are not affiliated with the Western Electric employes.

In Philadelphia, Paul N. Williams, national secretary-treasurer of the Association of Communications Equipment Workers (Ind), of which the 8,000 strikers are member, said he was "pleased with the progress" of the strike.

The Ohio federation of telephone employes called its 7,500 members off their jobs at the Ohio Bell Telephone company at noon.

R. G. Pollock, president of the federation, said the union had declared the Ohio Bell Telephone company strikebound and "we took this action to call off the job our members in cities and towns whence pickets of the association of communications equipment workers are not operating."

Includes All Workers

He said the federation members included virtually all telephone workers except supervisors and the action shut down all service except that of dial phones in all Ohio Bell offices in the state.

In northern California and Nevada, 11,000 telephone operators were ordered by their union to leave their jobs this afternoon, regardless of whether their local telephone offices were picketed.

The start of picketing today was a reversal of plans announced a few hours earlier.

Ernest Weaver, president of the ACEW, said at 11:20 o'clock last night that picketing would be delayed until Monday because of the meeting called by Schwellenbach. At 4:42 a. m. he said picketing would go ahead as planned because "picket lines had been established in some locations and it was impossible to contact them."

G. M. Refuses Fact Finders' Pay-Rise Plan

Fact-Finders Proposal Unacceptable to Company, Says C. E. Wilson.

JAN 12

DETROIT, Jan. 11—(AP) General Motors corporation today announced that the report of the presidential fact finding committee on proposed GM wages was not acceptable to it. The announcement was signed by C. E. Wilson, company president.

The corporation announcement said the fact finders' recommendations for a 19 1-2 cents an hour wage increase and the reinstatement of its contract with the CIO United Automobile Workers was unacceptable "in whole or in part, as a basis for settling the UAW-CIO strike of General Motors plants."

Issue Statements

"General Motors," Wilson's statement declared "has rejected the unsound principle that a specific company should be forced to pay higher than competitive wages because of its financial ability."

The corporation's announcement drew from Walter Reuther, vice president of the CIO United Automobile Workers, the comment, "General Motors is still in defiance of its public responsibility and continues to refuse to meet its obligation to the men and women who work for it."

The GM president said the company's latest offer of a 13 1-2 cents per hour or $1.08 per day, made after the strike began 51 days ago, "still stands."

"The government has stated that living costs are up 33 per cent over 1941," he continued. "Our offer, when combined with other increases made since January, 1941, fully compensate for this accepted increase in the cost of living, and would raise the average employe's rate of pay more than 33 per cent over what it was in January, 1941."

Wilson said the presidential board's recommendations of an additional six cents an hour raise "is based on certain assumptions by them which in the opinion of General Motors are unsound."

"The board," he said, "tried to justify this amount in part by devious take-home pay arguments. Actually, the recommendation is based on the assumed ability of General Motors to pay this excess wage. The board made its own forecast of the future operations of the business and its own estimate of profits that might result from such operations."

GM's statement came as indications pointed to Union acceptance of the board's recommendations made public Thursday.

Sought 30 Per Cent

The union has sought a 30 per cent increase and called out 175,000 production workers in an effort to enforce the demand.

GM officials continued their exhaustive study of the recommendations by the government's fact-finding commission but withheld comment. Meanwhile the UAW-CIO completed plans for an extraordinary meeting here tomorrow of its 22-man international executive board and a session Sunday of some 200 Union delegates representing GM plants throughout the country.

The executive board will formulate recommendations to the delegate meeting. The delegates are empowered to authorize acceptance or rejection of any wage increase.

In the absence of R. J. Thomas and Walter P. Reuther, president and vice-president respectively of the UAW-CIO, Union officials here withheld formal comment on the fact-finders' recommendations. Informally, however, they pointed out that the findings had upheld contentions that a substantial increase could be granted by General Motors without a rise in product prices. They asserted also that there was nothing in the commission report to prevent a return to work and subsequent negotiations for further wage adjustments.

At the same time, these union officials assumed that if GM accepted the commission recommendations it would propose stipulations as to when the wage issue might be reopened.

GM president.

"The fact finding board report recommending a wage increase of 19 1-2 cents an hour and the reinstatement of the wartime labor agreement between General Motors and the UAW (CIO), which after careful consideration was cancelled by General Motors on December 10, 1945, is unacceptable to General Motors, in whole or in part, as a basis for settling the UAW (CIO) strike of General Motors plants.

"The General Motors' offer to increase the wages of all hourly-rated employes an average of 13 1-2 cents per hour of $1.08 per day still stands. The government has stated that living costs are up 33 per cent over 1941. Our offer when combined with other increases made since January, 1941, fully compensate for this accepted increase in the cost of living, and would raise the average employes' rate of pay more than 33 per cent over what it was in January, 1941.

"The additional six cents recommended by the board members is based on certain assumption by them which in the opinion of General Motors are unsound.

"The board tried to justify this amount in part by devious take-home pay arguments. Actually the recommendation is based on the assumed ability of General Motors to pay this excess wage. The board made its own forecast of the future operations of the business and its own estimate of profits that might result from such operations.

"General Motors has rejected the unsound principle that a specific company should be forced to pay higher than competitive wages because of its financial ability.

"The cancelled General Motors-UAW (CIO) agreement contained many provisions ordered by the National War Labor board. These provisions were included as a result of the war emergency, and at a time when the union's no-strike pledge was in force. Provisions ordered by the National War Labor board were not arrived at through collective bargaining but were accepted under protest and only because of the war. Many provisions of the cancelled agreement were not practical and sound for peacetime operations. A bet-

JAN 12 1946

DETROIT, Jan. 11—(AP)—The following is the text of the statement released by General Motors corporation today in which it said the report of the Presidential fact-finding board on proposed wage increases for GM workers is "unacceptable" to it.

It was signed by C. E. Wilson,

GREEN SAYS RISE MUST BE ACCEPTED

Washington, Jan. 11 (A. P.).—William Green said today that ultimately the recommendation for a 19½ cent an hour wage increase for General Motors production workers must be accepted.

He coupled this with a statement that he had again told President Truman that he was opposed to fact-finding procedure.

The president of the American Federation of Labor, talking to reporters at the White House after seeing the President, referred to what he called "Government entry into the fixing of wages" and said of the fact-finding panel in the General Motors dispute:

"The board has gone farther than fact-finding. That's what happens in any fact-finding policy."

Green then stated that the moral effect of the recommended wage increase at General Motors "is that ultimately it must be accepted."

The C. I. O.-United Automobile Workers Union is involved in the General Motors case, and has been on strike for fifty-one days demanding a 33-cent an hour increase.

Green said he told Mr. Truman that only a fraction of 1 per cent of the membership of the American Federation of Labor is now on strike. He said that he believed there was not a strike in the nation "which could not be settled satisfactorily and constructively by the sincere application of collective bargaining and voluntary arbitration."

STRIKE CUTTING TRAFFIC 80 PCT.

W-U OFFICIALS SAY

NEW YORK, Jan. 11—(AP) Company officials estimated the strike of Western Union employes had reduced wire traffic to 20 percent of normal today, compared to a 15 percent figure previously in the four-day-old walkout.

Another burden on its facilities, the company said, was a flood of messages from senders unable to use strike-bound long distance telephones during the day.

Meanwhile as strikers began raising a $10,000 fund for strike benefits, police reported the first violence in the dispute.

Outside the Western Union building on Hudson street, police reported, a worker finishing his shift was knocked down and kicked.

Messages and money orders addressed to the servicemen overseas continued to pile up in city cable offices, with both Western Union and the striking American Communications association (C.I.O.) blaming the other for the situation.

"Instead of accepting international messages and relaying them to New York, the company should advise people who wish to send them that they should telephone or airmail them direct to the cable companies," said Joseph P. Selly, union president.

The company announced that no more messages from overseas GI's were being accepted except for New York and Washington. A spokesman said supervisory workers were moving those which had accumulated.

Harold C. Taylor, a union vice-president, said in a statement that if Western Union would tell the public it could not accept traffic to foreign points, the union would arrange to move any backlog of messages which had accumulated.

The A.C.A. called the strike of its 7,000 Metropolitan workers in protest against a National War Labor board decision lowering a regional wage board award of an average 12-cents-an-hour increase in pay. Western Union workers in districts outside the New York Metropolitan area are represented by an A.F.L. union which is not on strike.

Lawrence Kammet, public relations director for the A.C.A., said the union expected to have a strike fund of $100,000 within 10 days. Other C.I.O. unions are contributing to the fund, he said.

Packer Strike Held Inevitable

Chicago, Jan. 11 (AP)—Government conciliation efforts to avert a packinghouse strike next week neared an end today with spokesmen for all sides terming the situation dark.

Only one more conciliation meeting—with Wilson and Company tomorrow morning—remains to wind up the sessions, aimed at heading off a strike called for Wednesday, by the CIO-United Packinghouse Workers' Union.

The union is demanding a 25-cent-an-hour wage increase, but has announced willingness to accept 17½ cents an hour now and negotiate on the balance.

Morrell In Parley

The union met this morning with Conciliator Ronald Houghton and representatives of the Morrell Packing Company, of Ottumwa, Iowa.

Houghton explained the Government proposal to raise prices of Government meat purchases 50 cents for each hundred pounds, an offer previously rejected as inadequate by both Swift and Armour.

There was no public announcement as to Morrell's position, but a Conciliation Service spokesman said the company felt it could not move until the Government's price policy is clarified.

Meantime, Lewis J. Clark, president of the U.P.W., issued a statement saying the union was "strongly opposed to any lowering of livestock prices."

Asserting a strike "now appears to be inevitable," Clark said the U.P.W. supports "the position of the CIO on the need for continued and effective price control" and the union recognizes "that inflation is another form of cutting wages."

He contended the companies could absorb the proposed wage increase—they have offered 7½ cents an hour in place of the 25—and asserted the "elimination of the excess profits tax" would result in "tremendous additional earnings."

Industry spokesmen who would not permit use of their names said the Government offer to increase prices on purchases for the Army, Navy and lend-lease would "have to be raised twenty times to match the 25-cent demand."

Late today the AFL-Amalgamated Meat Cutters and Butcher Workment of North America gave formal indorsement to the proposed strike of the SIO-United Packinghouse Workers. It was voted at a meeting of the AFL union's international officers and local union delegates.

Patrick J. Gorman, secretary-treasurer of the AFL union, said the meeting gave official approval to his previous announcements that the AFL packinghouse employes will strike on the same day that the CIO workers walk out.

SERIES OF STRIKES CRIPPLE SEATTLE

SEATTLE, Jan. 11—(AP) Their city tied up by postwar strikes, Seattle residents today had no transportation service, no telephones, except for dial instruments as long as they held out mechanically, and no newspapers to tell them about it.

Attempting to reach a settlement that would stop paralysis of city-wide transportation, representatives of the city's 1,100 bus drivers, who walked out at 12:01 a.m., the Transit Commission and three United States Conciliation Service men met with Mayor William S. Devin this afternoon. Both the union and commission representatives accused each other of breaking off their meeting last night, before the strike deadline.

More Tieups Occur

The bus strike, called by the A. F.L.-Street Car Men's Union when their demands of $1.37 an hour for a 40-hour week were refused, was accompanied by a telephone tieup when Association of Communications Equipment Workers pickets, in their nation-wide strike, surrounded all telephone exchanges here. Areas south and north of the city limits, were "blacked out" because of manual operation.

Meantime a settlement of the newspaper strike which has closed the afternoon papers, the Times and the Star, and the morning Post-Intelligencer since Nov. 18 over printers' union demands of a $2.95 a day increase appeared possible tomorrow. Publishers and the union negotiating committee agreed yesterday on a proposal to be submitted to a special union full membership meeting at 1 p.m. tomorrow.

At mid-day, the Street Railway Employes Union dispatched a letter by special messenger to the Transit Commission asking them to meet with their representatives through the U. S. Conciliation Service and a short time later Mayor William Devin arranged the meeting in his office.

Drivers Given Offer

The Transit Commission, which offered bus drivers $1.22 an hour, for a 40-hour week plus a cash bonus of $138, again called for arbitration or conciliation of the dispute. Drivers have received $31.15 for a 44-hour week. Three hundred and fifty maintenance men on strike ask $1.50 an hour but the commission offers only the "city scale" of pay.

Share-the-ride, started during gas-short wartime days, brought thousands to work.

Boeing, employing thousands at its airplane plants, said absenteeism was only about one per cent under normal because of loud-speaker announcements yesterday lining up rides. Sears Roebuck officials used their large vans to pick up employes. Army and Navy buses transported military and civilian personnel to and from work.

Taxicab officials reportad less business than expected, because of so much "share-the-ride" and because taxis were not expected to be available.

Alcoa Workers Jump the Gun, First in Steel Union to Go Out

PITTSBURGH, Jan. 11 (AP).—A walkout by 4,500 workers of the Aluminum Company of America—sixty hours in advance of the scheduled start of the steel strike—began today.

The aluminum workers, who are affiliated with the steel union, quit work at New Kensington and Arnold, Pa., twenty-five miles from Pittsburgh, in a protest against shipment of dies to the company's Lafayette, Ind., plant. The steel union headquarters, which has cautioned its locals against premature work stoppages, termed the strike unauthorized.

A company statement said:

"It has been a common practice of long standing to exchange dies between various works of the company in order to meet customer requirements." The Indiana plant has the American Federation of Labor as bargaining agent and would not be affected by the Congress of Industrial Organizations steelworkers' strike.

Steel mills began curtailing operations in the big Pittsburgh-producing area in preparation for the shutdown of blast furnaces, open hearths and other operations.

The Carnegie-Illinois Steel Corporation posted notices informing employees of the necessity for the reduced operations.

Bethlehem Workers Out

LACKAWANNA, N. Y., Jan. 11 (AP).—Thousands of Bethlehem Steel Company employees left their jobs at 9 o'clock tonight, swiftly establishing picket lines around the entire Lackawanna plant.

Joseph P. Molony, district director of the C. I. O. United Steelworkers of America, said he authorized a strike after Bethlehem officials allegedly refused a union offer to assist in making plans for maintenance service during a nation-wide steel walkout set for 12:01 a. m. Monday.

The picket lines formed as second shift workers walked off their jobs, and began halting automobiles and pedestrians approaching the gates.

Molony predicted that all of Bethlehem's 11,000 workers would be out by morning, as pickets were instructed to turn back all third trick workers, due to report at 11 p. m.

Minnesota Exempted

PITTSBURGH, Jan. 11 (AP).—The Congress of Industrial Organizations - United Steelworkers announced tonight that its approximately 20,000 members in Minnesota, where iron ore mining operations are concentrated, will not be included in the general steel strike called for Monday.

Union officials said that because of clauses in Minnesota labor laws steel workers in that state would not be called on strike with others in twenty-seven states.

A statement issued by Philip Murray, president of the C. I. O. and the U. S. A., and David J. McDonald, secretary-treasurer of the U. S. A., read:

The laws require that certain mediation procedures and a specified waiting period must take place before a strike can be called.

Action to Curb Rise in Trend to Mergers Urged

Trade Commission Seeks Bars on Consolidation of Competing Concerns

WASHINGTON, Jan. 11 (AP).—The Federal Trade Commission recommended today legislation "to stay more effectively the increasing consolidations of "competing corporations." To accomplish this, the commission suggested, as it has been doing since 1930, an amendment to the Clayton act.

In its thirty-first annual report to Congress, the commission specifically recommended prohibition of the corporate acquisition of another corporation's properties under the same conditions that acquisition of its capital stock would be unlawful.

The commission also concurred in the recommendation of the Temporary National Economic Committee for prior government approval of acquisition of corporations over a certain size.

With the war over, the commission suggested that Congress now take up for "serious, concrete consideration" the various recommendations of the T. N. E. C.

The committee, headed by Senator Joseph C. O'Mahoney, Democrat, of Wyoming, filed its final report in March, 1941, after nearly three years of public hearings and study.

The commission called this the "most authoritative, as well as the most extensive survey of the national economic system ever undertaken."

The T. N. E. C. declared its faith in the competitive system of private enterprise as a solution for the problems of post-war depression and made various recommendations designed "to preserve and strengthen" that system.

The committee asserted that the competitive system could be maintained only through a vigorous effort to decentralize industry and to implement and enforce the anti-trust laws.

EINSTEIN HITS AT JEWISH STATE FOR PALESTINE

WASHINGTON, Jan. 11. — (AP) Dr. Albert Einstein told the Anglo-American Palestine Committee today that the idea of an eventual Jewish state in the Holy Land "is against my heart" and that he wanted to see the territory administered by the United Nations Organization.

The noted Jewish scientist assailed the British administration of the Palestine mandate. He declared that a "divide and rule" technique was being practiced.

He expressed the opinion that differences between Arabs and Jews in Palestine were "artificially created." Smiling gently, clasping and unclasping his frail hands, he observed that a little enmity makes the ruler's task easier but too much, of course, is difficult, he added.

Questioned by members of the committee, Dr. Einstein said he thought it would be "natural" for the bulk of 100,000 German and Austrian Jewish refugees to be admitted to Palestine. He doubted it would cause much serious friction with the Arabs.

When the white-haired scientist entered the room there was applause which Judge Joseph Hutcheson of Houston, Tex., American co-chairman, quieted immediately. There was a witness for the Arabian point of view in the chair. Judge Hutcheson explained this to the spectators when Dr. Einstein's turn came, and added:

"If there are any in the audience who feel they have been suppressed, they can now applaud."

Handclapping was loud.

"Maybe they had better wait until afterward," murmured Dr. Einstein with a laugh.

Speaking in a soft low voice and in English, the scientist termed the British administration a colonial rule made possible with the help of native officials and groups interested in exploiting sections of the population.

Dr. Frank A. Aydelotte, an American committeeman, asked what should be done if the Arabs forcibly resisted the admission of Jewish refugees. Dr. Einstein replied that this would not be the case if it were not instigated.

Briton Comments

Richard H. S. Crossman, a British member, commented that to the British soldier who gets caught in the crossfire, the shot is very real.

The scientist insisted that things need not go that far. Crossman replied that if Dr. Einstein thought the British could arrange the hatred so it would stop just short of shooting, "you are indeed a great admirer of my country."

Then, continued Crossman, since Dr. Einstein believed that Britain had failed, would he advocate that America take over the responsibility?

Dr. Einstein lifted his hands in protest and exclaimed: "No. If I did I would be king of Palestine—God forbid." He said he thought the administration should be on an international basis.

Asked if his attitude toward Zionism was ta cultural or political one, he replied:

"I have never been for a political state. I think that is an imitation of the weakness of Europe as a whole."

Judge Hutcheson told Dr. Einstein that "your view of British shennanigans" was like that of an Irishman.

"An Irishman!" exploded Dr. Einstein in the only loud words he spoke. "But I have not suffered under your rule."

"Not mine," said the judge. "I'm an American." Dr. Einstein joined in the laughter.

The judge then wanted to know if the scientist considered it essential to real Zionism that a Jewish state be set up.

"The state idea is against my heart," said Dr. Einstein. 'It is connected with many difficulties."

Arab Gives Views

Dr. Khalil Totah of New York, executive director of the Institute of Arab American Affairs, an American of Arabian ancestry born of Quaker parents near Jerusalem, offered the committee his solution for the Arab-Jewish problem.

"Settle the Palestine problem in the same way that you solve problems in America or Great Britain —by the ballot," he said.

He proposed an election to set up a legislative council," a democratic one with no strings tied to it," through which the Arabs and Jews would settle their own problems.

Dr. Totah explained that the basis of the Palestine trouble is the Arabs' fear of Zionist aims which they interpret as political.

"It is not the Arabs who are aggressive," he declared. "The Arabs are on the defensive. It is the Zionists who are aggressive."

Dr. Totah added that Palestine might have been self-governing by now but for the Zionists.

Wilbert B. Smith of Wilmington, Del., member of the board of sponsors for the institute, said the alternative to Palestine for suffering Jews is to open up America and Canada.

"But the creation of a Jewish commonwealth will be an abiding affront to the Moslem world," he said.

ARABS FEARFUL OF ZIONIST RULE

Washington, Jan. 11 (A. P.).—Two American college professors of Arabian descent told the Anglo-American Palestine Committee today that Arabs fear the Zionists want to take over control of Palestine.

Dr. Philip Hitti of Princeton University and Dr. John Hazam of the College of the City of New York both agreed under questioning that in their opinion the Arabs would be willing to do their part in alleviating suffering of Europe's refugees, provided they could be assured that the Zionists would not take over Palestine as a Jewish State and if other countries would take their share of refugees.

Contending that the problems of Europe's refugees is primarily one for the nations who fought in the second world war, Dr. Hazam said: "No one can accuse the Arab of driving the Jew out of his European home. Why should he be called upon to take care of aliens which Europe, and apparently the western world won't?"

Dr. Hazam, a native American who was reared in the Near East, said the Jews claim they are bringing modern benefits to Palestine in which the Arabs share. Britain can take credit, which she doesn't get, for some of this modernization, he continued.

ARGENTINA LAX OUSTING SPIES

Acheson Says U. S. Plea Is Still Unheeded.

Washington, Jan. 11 (A. P.).—Acting Secretary of State Dean Acheson said today the United States has made no progress in getting Argentina to deport Germans objectionable to this country.

Summarizing at his news conference the United States efforts to persuade neutral countries to expel such Germans, Acheson said:

1. Although the United States on one occasion furnished transportation for the scheduled repatriation of alleged German spies, Argentina did not produce them.

2. On another occasion, Argentina failed to produce Germans for repatriation when Spanish shipping was available.

U. S. Won't Sign Treaty.

Acheson said that the United States Embassy in Buenos Aires was making representations about three or four times a week against the Argentine failure to act.

Ireland, he added, still has not replied to United States requests for expulsion of obnoxious Germans, Afghanistan of all the neutrals, he said, is the only one which has answered 100 per cent to American suggestions.

Acheson also reiterated that the United States does not intend to sign a hemisphere military defense treaty in which the present Argentine regime is represented. The mutual defense treaty is scheduled to be drawn up and adopted at a conference of American republics at Rio de Janeiro sometime in March or April.

Acheson had said in October that the Government would never sit down to draft what amounted to a military alliance with the Buenos Aires military regime.

In response to a query, Acheson said he believed Argentina would attend the Rio meeting.

GREECE GETS LOAN OF 25 MILLION

WASHINGTON, Jan. 11.—(AP) Hungry Greece today obtained a $25,000,000 loan from the United States.

Along with it she received a stern admonition that she must put her house in order — economically and politically—immediately if she hopes for additional help.

Acting Secretary of State Dean Acheson, in announcing approval of the loan by the Export-Import Bank, declared that the Greek internal situation is deteriorating very rapidly.

The type of action which the United States would like to see the Greeks take was outlined in a note to the Greek Foreign office, a document which Acheson himself acknowledged was couched in very strong language. Its chief points were these:

1. "Elections accurately reflecting the wishes of the Greek people should bring about an improved political situation which should contribute substantially to long-run economic recovery and to future stability."

2. "x x x Greece can accomplish little toward economic recovery unless the Greek government itself undertakes vigorous measures to control inflation and to stabilize the currency, to reduce government expenditures and to augment revenue, to increase the efficiency of the civil service administration, and to revive industry and trade."

Saying that such a program had been pledged but not achieved "by several ministries which have been in power during recent months" the note told the Greek government:

"The extent of possible further American economic assistance to Greece will necessarily be influenced by the effectiveness with which the Greek government deals with the problem of economic stabilization."

Loan-Request Listing Urged

Washington, Jan. 11 (AP)—Senator McClellan (D., Ark.) suggested today that the United States gather in all requests for foreign loans before acting on the British application for $3,750,000,000.

To approve a loan to Great Britain now, McClellan said, would establish a precedent which might prove embarrassing.

"Would we want to affront Russia, for instance, by denying her a loan after England had floated one here?" he asked a reporter.

May Total 20 Billions

McClellan said the loan applications from all foreign countries seeking assistance might total $20,000,000,000 or $30,000,000,000.

"I think we should wait and look at them all together, before we decide what we want to do."

Senator George (D., Ga.) said he thought there was considerable merit in the Arkansas Senator's suggestion.

Broker-Role Plan Pressed

Meanwhile, Senator Edwin C. Johnson (D., Col.) expressed determination to present his alternate loan plan. It calls for an issue of special British loan bonds to be sold to the public with the United States Government acting in the role of broker.

Legislation to sanction the $3,750,000,000 loan agreement recently drafted by representatives of both governments is expected to be introduced shortly after Congress reconvenes Monday.

U. S. Restores to Britain Copy of Magna Carta

Document Was Kept Here as War-Time Safeguard

WASHINGTON, Jan. 11 (AP).—One of four copies of the 730-year-old Magna Carta, held for safekeeping during the war by the United States Library of Congress, was returned to Great Britain today.

The document was signed by King John of England in 1215 as a voluntary relinquishment of most of his powers.

Brought to the United States in 1939 for the New York World's Fair and kept here when the war started, the Lincoln Cathedral copy of the manuscript was handed back to British Minister John Balfour today by Dr. Luther H. Evans, Librarian of Congress.

Accepting the document, Mr. Balfour commented that the great charter was the forefather of both the American and British bill of rights, the British habeas corpus act and the American Declaration of Independence.

Two Americans To Go To London Labor Parley

Washington, Jan. 11 (AP)—Two American representatives will be sent to a delegation meeting of the International Labor Organization in London January 28, the State Department said today.

They are Miss Frieda S. Miller, director of the Labor Department's Women's Bureau, and Bernard Wiesman, chief of the International Labor Organization branch in the State Department.

The London meeting will take up proposals for constitutional changes in the International Labor Organization.

U.S. Planes Shot Down By Yanks Dec. 7, 1941

Washington, Jan. 11 (AP)—Gunners on American warships in Pearl Harbor, jittery after the Japanese attack the morning of December 7, 1941, shot down some American planes that night.

The incident was disclosed yesterday in publication of testimony by Admiral Husband E. Kimmel, 1941 Pacific fleet commander, to the Roberts investigating commission four years ago.

The number of planes shot down was not developed in the examination.

Queried By McNarney

Brig. Gen. Joseph T. McNarney asked Kimmel if he knew of "the incident which happened on the night of December 7 with regard to losing some of our carrier planes."

Kimmel replied that he did. He went on to relate that Admiral William F. Halsey, at sea with a task force including the carrier Enterprise, had advised that six fighter planes were coming in to land at Ford Island navy airfield in Pearl Harbor.

The Army, Navy and everyone else was informed, he said, and the planes came in with their running lights on.

Fly Over Ships

"Unfortunately, instead of going right down and landing at Ford Island, the smoke from the burning oil overshadowed the whole place and they were blinded and tried to get in there and they came right up over the ships," Kimmel continued.

"Now, you must remember that these people on the ships had undergone a terrific experience. One ship opened fire, and the trigger fingers were very itchy, and when that one ship opened fire the whole bunch opened in a fusillade.

Ordered To Cease Fire

"The minute the first one opened fire I sent out the signal, 'Cease Fire. Cease Fire.' And the commandant of the district sent out the signal to cease fire.

"You can well understand the feelings of these people on the ships when they saw those planes coming over them after having had their first baptism of fire. I cannot find it in my heart to be too harsh on the people who opened fire.

"Could Not Be Helped"

"Much as I regret the incident, I know of nothing that we could have done other than we did do that night to prevent it."

McNarney asked if American planes had not been fired on on the 8th.

Kimmel said he had heard nothing of that.

Rear Admiral Robert A. Theobald put in that eighteen scout-bombers came in from the Enterprise late the evening of the 7th and were "shot at."

mandant of the naval district embracing Hawaii.

Kimmel's testimony did not go into the origin of the alleged "smear campaign."

Commission Hit

However, he said the Roberts Commission appointed by President Roosevelt to investigate Pearl Harbor gave the public "misstatements" about Army-Navy relations in Hawaii.

"In my opinion," he said, "such charges were entirely unsubstantiated by the recorded testimony of the Roberts Commission."

The commission, headed by former Supreme Court Justice Owen J. Roberts concluded there had been "dereliction of duty" on the part of Kimmel and Short. One of its assertions was that they "failed to consult and cooperate as to necessary action" after receiving war warnings.

Kimmel told the Roberts Commission that he had believed the area was operating its radar equipment 24 hours daily. Actually, it operated only three hours—two hours before sunrise and one hour after—on Sundays.

General Joseph T. McNarney, a member of the commission, asked Kimmel if he had checked with Short on that.

"No, except indirectly," Kimmel replied, "but when we had two

Kimmel Charges Critics Conducting 'Smear Campaign'

WASHINGTON, Jan. 11—(AP) Admiral Husband E. Kimmel told a Navy court in 1944 that he believed there was "a deliberate campaign to smear" him and Lt. Gen. Walter C. Short.

He described as "malicious lies" reports that he and Short failed to cooperate for defense of Pearl Harbor, where they were in command when the Japanese struck.

Kimmel's testimony at previous inquiries has been distributed to members of the Senate-House committee investigating the disaster. He is to be the witness when the group resumes public hearings Tuesday.

Short also denied there was failure to cooperate. A transcript of his testimony to an Army board of inquiry was received by the committee.

"Admiral Kimmel and Admiral Bloch and I were on extremely friendly terms personally as well as having very frequent conferences officially," Short declared.

Admiral C. C. Bloch was commander-in-chief of the fleet. He said the only meetings he had with Mr. Roosevelt before that "were in the course of official routine duties and occurred more than 20 years prior to my taking command in the Pacific."

Kimmel contended to the naval court that orders he received from the Navy department indicated Washington did not anticipate an attack on Pearl Harbor.

Washington directed transfer of 50 pursuit planes from Oahu to Wake and Midway Islands in the period shortly before the attack, he said, and commented:

"It appeared to us at the scene that such a proposal would not be made by the departments in Washington if they anticipated the imminent impact of hostilities upon Oahu."

At another point, he argued that "Washington evidently discounted heavily the probability of the air attack against Hawaii, for the means to repel such an attack were inadequate up to and including Dec. 7."

separate commanders and when you have a responsible officer in charge of the Army and responsible commanders in the Navy, it does not fit very well to be constantly checking up on them."

Under questioning by Roberts, Kimmel said he had no liaison officer at the radar center.

"As I understand it," Roberts asked, "you did not discuss with General Short what shape his dispositions were in to meet an air attack here?"

"No sir, I did not," Kimmel replied. "That was the Army's responsibility, and I presumed he would carry out his responsibility."

"But you did not discuss the possible air attack with him?" Roberts persisted.

"Oh, I think, sir, we discussed a possible air attack on many occasions."

Kimmel also gave the naval court of inquiry a categorical denial of what he said was a rumor that he was "a friend or intimate associate" of President Roosevelt before he was appointed com-

Gerald L. K. Smith Called By House Committee

Director of America First Party to Testify Jan. 30

WASHINGTON, Jan. 11 (AP).—The House Committee on Un-American Activities has called Gerald L. K. Smith, national director of the America First Party, for testimony on Jan. 30.

Ernest Adamson, committee counsel, told newsmen today that Mr. Smith would be examined "to the same extent" as representatives of the joint Anti-Fascist Refugee Committee and the Committee for Soviet American Friendship. Officials of the latter two groups have been asked to testify before the committee Jan. 23.

Mr. Adamson said the committee would question Mr. Smith particularly about the financing of his political group.

In Detroit, Mr. Smith issued the following statement: "On Dec. 27 I wrote the committee suggesting that I be called and urging that I be cross-examined without mercy concerning the false accusations brought against me by Communist elements."

ADMIRAL MILLS TO SUCCEED LAND

Truman Names New Maritime Head and Will Ask Legislation to Protect Navy Status

WASHINGTON, Jan. 11 (AP)—President Truman has chosen Rear Admiral Earl W. Mills to succeed Vice Admiral Emory S. Land as chairman of the United States Maritime Commission.

The White House announced today that Admiral Mills' nomination as chairman would be sent to the Senate when Congress reconvenes next week and that he also would be nominated for promotion to the rank of vice admiral.

Charles G. Ross, press secretary, told a news conference that legislation to permit Admiral Mills to retain his active status in the Navy would be asked. Gen. Omar N. Bradley retained his active status in the Army under similar legislation when he was made head of the Veterans Administration.

Admiral Land is scheduled to leave the Maritime Commission this month to head the Air Transport Association.

Admiral Mills, a native of Arkansas, is 49 years old and has been assistant chief of the Bureau of Ships since Nov. 1, 1942. He was graduated from the Naval Academy in June, 1917, and as a junior officer served aboard the battleship Minnesota and the destroyers Henly, Hazelwood and Hogan.

In September, 1926, he was assigned as aide and flag lieutenant on the staff of Rear Admiral J. V. Chase, commander of Battleship Division Four of the Battle Fleet. Later he was on duty at the Puget Sound (Wash.) Navy Yard and then, in 1933, went to the design and construction division of the Bureau of Engineering (now the Bureau of Ships). He served a hitch at sea, returned to the Bureau of Engineering and then, in 1940, was named assistant attaché at the American Embassy in London. He came back a short time later for duty in Washington.

Admiral Land's resignation as maritime chairman becomes effective Jan. 15, ending thirty-nine years in the Navy and nearly nine years on the Maritime Commission. In resigning, Admiral Land told Mr. Truman that he thought he had "done my bit" and that "a younger man should take on the chores."

U. S. 4th Army Command Goes To Wainwright

He Is Named to Succeed Patch; Headquarters To Be at Fort Sam Houston

WASHINGTON, Jan. 11 (AP)—Appointment of General Jonathan M. Wainwright as commander of the 4th Army was announced today by the War Department.

The hero of Corregidor, who has been chief of the Eastern Defense Command, replaces the late Lieutenant General Alexander Patch. General Wainwright's successor was not announced.

Headquarters of the 4th Army are at Fort Sam Houston, Tex.

Urges Strong Army

ANNISTON, Ala., Jan. 11 (AP).—General Wainwright advocates a strong Army "for security for ourselves and to aid in bringing security to the world."

He stated his views in a press conference just a short while before his new appointment was announced in Washington. The general is here for a reunion with four of his fellow officers.

General Wainwright also urged adoption of universal military training, and added: "There will be a third world war if we do not keep a strong finger on Japan and Germany for many years."

General Wainwright arrived here from a fox-hunting trip in Georgia. He returned to New York today.

With the general were Colonel Jesse T. Traywick, captured with him at Corregidor; Brigadier General John B. Coulter, stationed at Camp McClellan; Brigadier General Neal C. Johnson, also at Camp McClellan, and Colonel Benners B. Vall, of Union Springs, Ala., now retired.

College to Honor Wainwright

CHESTER, Pa., Jan. 11 (AP).—Pennsylvania Military College will present to General Wainwright an honorary degree of Doctor of Military Science Jan. 24 at graduation exercises commemorating the school's 125th anniversary.

Army and Navy Acting to Mesh Many Activities

Merger of Air Transport, Joint Intelligence and Shipping Pool Planned

WASHINGTON, Jan. 11 (AP).—Secretary of the Navy James Forrestal disclosed today that the Army and Navy, in advance of any eventual merger, are jointly whipping into shape plans to mesh more than a score of activities.

Detailed arrangements, he said, have been worked out by Army and Navy planning groups and are now ready for consideration by top commanders.

Among major projects are consolidation of the Army's Air Transport Service and the Naval Air Transport Service, establishment of a joint intelligence service and common use of shipping and port facilities.

Mr. Forrestal made the disclosures at a news conference, in which Fleet Admiral Chester W. Nimitz, chief of naval operations, and all of Admiral Nimitz's deputies participated.

The plan was described by these officials as aimed at accomplishing the major goals of an Army and Navy consolidation, by "building from the group up instead of from the penthouse down."

List To Be Enlarged

Admiral Nimitz said the list of activities to be integrated undoubtedly will be enlarged "as problems of common interest develop."

The work, Mr. Forrestal said, was the outgrowth of a conference he held several weeks ago with Secretary of War Robert P. Patterson, General of the Army Dwight D. Eisenhower, Army chief of staff, and Admiral Nimitz.

Other subjects on which agreements have already been reached by the planners, Mr. Forrestal said, include:

Joint recruiting and training of men, joint purchases, co-ordination of dispensing and contracts, communications, and ordnance procurement, development of new weapons, co-ordination of sea and air transportation and control of land transportation.

Joint use and operation of hospitals and hospital ships and medical services, research, prison administration, ship services and post exchanges, personnel and education policies, postal service and handling of war prisoners.

Joint Activities to Remain

Many other joint activities already in existence will be continued, Secretary Forrestal said. He cited as an example the joint petroleum board which controls buying and distribution of petroleum products for both services.

Earlier, Senator Lister Hill, Democrat, of Alabama, had said that many ideas advanced by the Navy in opposing a merger will be incorporated in plans for a single defense agency.

"We have agreed to take the best features of post-war plans of both Navy and War Department for the unification bill," Senator Hill told a reporter. "We will have a single department with three separate and autonomous forces, air, sea and land."

Sneator Hill is Senate Democratic whip and a member of the special committee of three Senators, a general and an admiral, which is drafting legislation to carry out President Truman's request for a single armed forces department.

Until the President came out strongly for the single department, all public expressions by Navy leaders had been against the merger plan while all Army and Air Forces spokesmen had urged it. But Senator Hill said that many of the suggestions urged by the Navy as alternatives to unification can be made a beneficial part of the program.

Navy's Suggestions

The Senator said these include:

1. A national defense counsel or commission that would "assure closer liaison of the State Department policies with those of the military and civilian agencies."

2. Stronger civilian control ov r the military.

3. An over-all agency for direction of scientific research.

4. Continuation of the war-time Joint Chiefs of Staff or some similar agency representing heads of the various armed forces.

"We are generally agreed upon our ideas but it may take some time and effort to get those into exact and accurate language," Senator Hill said. "I think we will have a bill ready for Senate action shortly."

Senator Elbert Thomas, Democrat, of Utah, chairman of the Senate Military Affairs Committee, told reporters that he had abandoned earlier plans to have a bill ready for Senate action when Congress resumes Jan. 14. Senator Thomas and Senator Warren R. Austin, Republican, of Vermont, third Senator of the drafting group, agreed with Senator Hill, however, that over-all outlines of the unification plan are in shape.

"Common Defense" Department

The new agency would be called the "department of common defense" headed by a Cabinet member called the "Secretary of Common Defense." He would take over Cabinet duties now divided between the Secretaries of War and Navy.

There would be Under Secretaries of Army, Air Forces and Navy.

The present Naval Academy at Annapolis, Md., and Army Academy at West Point, N. Y., would be retained. But basic training of thousands of reserve officers for Army, Navy and Air Forces in various colleges and universities would be under a standardized system, Senator Thomas said, adding that these present activities probably would be greatly expanded.

CURLEY SAYS U. S. FAILED TO PROVE MAIL FRAUD CASE

JAN 12 1

WASHINGTON, Jan. 11—(AP) Attorneys for Rep. Curley (D-Mass.), Mayor of Boston, and two others charged with mail fraud took the position today that the government had failed to prove its case and rested without offering evidence.

Eight character witnesses for Donald Wakefield Smith of Pittsburgh and Washington, former member of the National Labor Relations board who is one of the defendants, were the only defense witnesses called. All said they had known him many years as a man of truth and integrity.

William E. Leahy, counsel for Curley, observed that "we are ready to go to the jury right now." Counsel for James G. Fuller, the third defendant, followed the same course. Fuller is serving a five-year sentence on conviction of sending fraudulent securities through the mails.

Monday, in the absence of the jury, opposing attorneys will argue on what instructions District Court Justice James M. Proctor should give to the jury. Tuesday and Wednesday the case will be argued before the jury. After Justice Proctor's instructions Thursday, the jury will start deliberations.

A $3,500 transaction by Curley in Boston was the center of final testimony. Albert P. Hill, treasurer of the Hibernia Savings Bank of Boston, testified that on Aug. 3, 1941, Curley deposited $3,500 in cash to "make good" a check endorsed by Fuller which had not cleared.

This check, Hill continued, had been put in by Curley to replace a previous one, endorsed by both Fuller and Curley, which had been returned "with a notation that it had been altered."

The prosecution also put into the record testimony given in the West Roxbury Division of the Boston Municipal Court in 1941 in which Curley said he had received $3,500 from James G. Fuller, but that he was only acting as "an agent or messenger."

The defense has maintained that the transactions were personal ones on the part of Curley and had nothing to do with Engineers Group, Inc., of which Curley, Fuller and Smith were former officials.

The defense's decision to rest its case contrasted with the voluminous record piled up by the prosecution which took four weeks to present more than two score witnesses in its efforts to show that the defendants misrepresented their group as being in a special position to obtain contracts for clients.

General Hovey Assigned Bolling Field Command

Washington, Jan. 11 (AP)—Assignment of Brig. Gen. Burton M. Hovey, army pilot for twenty years who came up in rank from private, as commanding officer of Bolling Field was announced today.

His jurisdiction also includes the army airbase at Andrews Field, Md., which is now a sub-base of the Capital's military airport. He succeeds Col. William L. Boyd, who had been in charge since last May.

General Hovey returned the latter part of last year from overseas, where he served as commanding general of the 303d Fighter Wing in England and France, and deputy commander of the 29th Tactical Air Command in Holland and Germany.

West Point Is Coming Here

WASHINGTON, Jan. 11 (AP)—The Army announced today that the troop transport West Point, with 7,500 troops aboard, is coming direct from the Philippines to New York through the Panama Canal.

The vessel, due in New York about Feb. 3, is the second troopship to sail from the Pacific through the canal instead of docking at a West Coast port. The Explorer arrived in New York on Jan. 3 from Nagoya, Japan with 2,150 troops, most of them destined for Eastern demobilization centers.

The Explorer and the West Point, formerly the liner America, normally are used in Atlantic troop service. The Army said they weer routed on the longer canal route because there is plenty of shipping.

SUB, CRUISER CRASH IN FOG OFF COAST

WASHINGTON, Jan. 11—(AP) The navy disclosed tonight that the submarine Argonaut and the cruiser Honolulu had collided early this week in a heavy fog off the Atlantic Coast between New York and Philadelphia.

The navy said there was one casualty, ship fitter 3rd class Earl D. Johnson, 1419 Sixth avenue, Rockford, Ill., attached to the Honolulu, who was killed.

Both ships sustained minor damage the navy said.

The Argonaut, stove in by the bow, returned to Portsmouth, N.H., the Honolulu, with two compartments flooded, put into Philadelphia, Pa.

A. T. C. Gets Westover Field

WASHINGTON, Jan. 11 (AP).—The War Department said today that Westover Field, Springfield, Mass., has been formally turned over to the Air Transport Command as a terminal on the trans-Atlantic route. The field will take the place of A. T. C facilities at Wilmington, Del., the Army said.

Swim Honors to Kiefer

SAN DIEGO, Calif., Jan. 11 (AP)—Navy Lieut. Adolph Kiefer, tall Chicago swimming ace, has been picked as the outstanding U. S. tankman of 1945. Clyde A. Swendesen, A. A. U. subcommittee chairman, announced the selection last night as he disclosed the official All-America A. A. U. swimming team on which Kiefer was given three berths. Kiefer was listed in the individual back-stroke, 300-yard individual Medley and as a member of the all-star 300-yard Medley relay.

NIMITZ SAYS NAVY IS UNFIT TO FIGHT

Miami, Fla., Jan. 11 (A. P.).—Admiral Chester W. Nimitz told Associated Press managing editors last night that demobilization had left the Navy unfit to fight only five months after Japan's defeat.

"The saving grace is there is nobody who threatens to fight us at this time," said the Chief of Naval Operations.

"You all want your boys home as quickly as possible," said Nimitz. "I am wholly sympathetic with the natural desire, even if it is more emotional than practical. The fact remains, however, that it leaves the Navy at this moment unfit to fight."

The Admiral's talk marked a day in which editors from every section of the nation heard talks on atomic energy and themselves discussed the problems of editing and reporting.

Howard Blakeslee, Associated Press science editor, and Glenn Babb, the Press Association's foreign news editor, described the theory of the atomic bomb and its practical effect in war.

Babb, who toured the wreckage of Nagasaki, said 30,000 persons died when the bomb released its energy 2,000 feet over the city, and that Japanese officials told him 30,000 others died of the after effect.

Alan Gould, assistant general manager of the Associated Press, told delegates that the flash is declining as a journalistic device. He said the news service would rather transmit a publishable bulletin than the short, one-sentence flash.

COLLEGES OPPOSE COMPULSORY WAR TRAINING PLAN

CLEVELAND, Jan. 11—(AP) The Association of American Colleges, winding up its 32nd annual convention today, went on record as opposing immediate enactment of compulsory peacetime military training.

JAN 12 194

Approving a report by its resolutions committee the association urged the President and Congress to appoint immediately a broadly representative national commission "charged with wide powers of inquiry into the basic factors, policies and attitudes upon which our security depends."

Pending a report from such a commission, the resolution said of peacetime military training that "we are unimpressed by its educational and disciplinary claims, and would support it only if convinced x x x that it is indispensable to American and world security."

In urging appointment of a national commission, the resolution said:

"For the American people, the most urgent single need is for a deeper understanding of the new facts and responsibilities with which victory and atomic power confront us."

In other resolutions the association called on all elements of the building industry to expedite production of permanent low-priced housing units.

V-J DAY HOLIDAY URGED BY MASS. LEGISLATOR

BOSTON, Jan. 11—(AP) Massachusetts would celebrate V-J Day (August 14) as a legal holiday under the terms of a bill filed in the state legislature today by Rep. George T. Lanigan (D-Boston).

Atomic Bombing Movie

Army Shows Film of Test and Blows on 2 Japanese Cities

CLEVELAND, Jan. 11 (AP).—The Army released for public showing today, as the National Aircraft Show opened here, the official film "The Atomic Bomb Strikes."

A forty-minute showing of the first experimental blast set off in New Mexico, and aerial views of the bombing of Hiroshima and Nagasaki, followed by close-ups of the devastation in the two Japanese cities, the film had been shown only to high military officials and members of Congress.

A copy of the film was flown here from Washington and taken immediately to Public Hall for its first public run, amid long rows of exhibits of warplanes and aircraft equipment.

Groundhog Help Promised UNO In Pennsylvania

Quarryville, Pa., Jan. 11 (AP)—The United Nations Organization will be granted the "secret forecasting system" of the Slumbering Lodge of Groundhogs if it uses the system for "peace purposes only."

Charles F. Hess, hibernating governor of the lodge, which is preparing for its annual groundhog observing ritual February 2, said UNO could settle its "troubles in selecting a site for the United Nations capital" if the capital were set up in this eastern Pennsylvania section.

"That," said Hess, "is a tremendous concession made in the interests of world peace and harmony."

The lodge, which Hess described in a telegram to Dr. Stoyan Garvilovic, chairman of UNO's site-selecting committee, as "world famous," asked the committee to join it when when it regales itself in prewar splendor next month to make its determination of the weather.

MacLeish Warns Of Haste in UNO

Philadelphia, Jan. 11 (A. P.).—"A civil war of the world" is possible if a world Government is created before the nations are made ready for it, says Archibald MacLeish, former Assistant Secretary of State and a Pulitzer Prize winning poet.

MacLeish told the United Nations Council of Philadelphia last night that the atomic bomb made the peoples of the world "realize what wise men had been telling them for centuries that the only strong and true things in life were the invisible and impalpable things of the human spirit."

VETERANS' FARMS COSTLY

But Promise Good Returns if Food Prices Hold, Says FSA Head

PHILADELPHIA, Jan. 11 (AP)—Veterans buying farms with Government loans are paying higher than pre-war prices but can look for bigger returns if commodity prices hold at their present level, Regional Director J. H. Wood of the Farm Security Administration said today following a conference of eleven Northeastern State FSA directors.

"Veterans returning to farms in the Northeast are particularly fortunate," he said, "in that land values have not been inflated to the extent that they have in almost all other parts of the nation."

Speculators are taking advantage of returning service men in a few instances, it was reported.

1304 Are Dismissed At Naval Shipyard

Philadelphia, Jan. 11 (A. P.).—Pink slips were in pay envelopes today of 1,304 civilians at the Philadelphia Naval Shipyard.

Capt. Andrew I. McKee, yard commanding officer, said the discharges become effective February 11 and were made necessary by a decrease of funds.

Aid for Overseas Brides

PHILADELPHIA, Jan. 11 (AP).—An overseas bride committee has been formed to help foreign wives solve housing and other problems on arrival here, announced the English-Speaking Union, Philadelphia's cultural society which is sponsoring the committtee. Cooperating in the program are the Young Women's Christian Association, Daughters of the British Empire, southeastern Pennsylvania chapter of the American Red Cross, France Forever, Emergency Aid of Pennsylvania and the International Institute.

Light Cruiser Detroit Ends Her Naval Career

Philadelphia, Jan. 11 (AP)—The light cruiser Detroit, which was in the opening and close of this nation's participation in World War II, ended her naval career today.

The 22-year-old vessel was decommissioned at the Philadelphia Naval Base.

The Detroit shot down two Japanese planes at Pearl Harbor, suffering only slight casualties and damage. She was along side the battleship Missouri when the Japanese signed surrender terms in Tokyo Bay.

LABOR DISPUTES RISE

Albany, Jan. 11 (A. P.).—The number of labor dispute cases filed with the State Labor Relations Board in 1945 was more than double the total for the previous year.

A total of 1,301 new cases was submitted during 1945, the board noted in its annual report yesterday, compared with 661 in 1944. The peak load followed VJ day.

Disposed of were 1,077 cases, of which approximately 90 per cent were closed through informal procedure without necessity of a formal decision. This compared with 703 cases closed in 1944.

Of the total cases filed, 983 were union and fifteen employer requests for secret ballot elections to determine employees' choice of a collective bargaining agent.

Prisoner Farm Help Is Unlikely

SYRACUSE, N. Y., Jan. 11 (AP)—German prisoner-of-war farm labor probably will be unavailable to State farmers this year, according to Capt. John J. Howard, commander of the prisoner-of-war camp at Green Lakes State Park. There are no schedules for them to work this summer in view of War Department plans to return German prisoners to Europe by April, he said.

Edge Gives First Award In Veterans' Job Plan

Hands Certificate to Head of N. J. Manufacturers Body

TRENTON, N. J., Jan. 11 (AP).—The first certificate of participation in Governor Walter E. Edge's plan for veterans' employment was awarded today to Henry W. Johnson, president of the New Jersey Manufacturers Association.

Mr. Edge made the award in his office and commended Mr. Johnson for his work in furthering the program, which provides that one veteran be hired for every non-veteran taken into employment. Mr. Johnson is vice-president of the Delaval Steam Turbine Company of Trenton.

Colonel Warren S. Hood, director of the Division of Veterans Service of the Department of Economic Development, said the plan was approved by the American Federation of Labor, Congress of Industrial Organizations, New Jersey Chamber of Commerce and the Manufacturers Association and that more than 500 concerns are participating. Colonel Hood added that he could find no comparable program in any other state. He was asked by the Governor to ascertain exactly how many veterans have been employed under the plan.

Perfected Buzz Bomb Ready For U.S. Use At War's End

JAN 12 1946

New York, Jan. 11 (AP)—The United States Army Air Forces were ready to turn against Germany a perfected, steam launched version of its own buzz bomb, had not Nazi resistance collapsed.

Application of steam propulsion to launching the flying bombs by boiler-developed power was disclosed today by the Babcock & Wilcox Co., with AAF approval. The Germans used chemical means of launching many of their buzz bombs but never succeeded in cutting down heavy casualties among their gun crews.

Captured At Cherbourg

Americans captured a German buzz bomb and its installation after the fall of Cherbourg and brought it to Elgin Field, Florida, for study. The AAF called in the Babcock & Wilcox Company to design safe launching equipment.

Company engineers said today the problem was to provide high-pressure steam enough to accelerate a load of 5,000 pounds to a velocity of 250 miles an hour within 150 feet, the length of the ramp.

Launch Bombs Into Gulf

Their equipment provided 1,200 pounds per square inch pressure to handle steam at 3,000,000 pounds per hour, with a valve open eight tenths of a second and with a closing time of three-one hundredths of a second.

Real buzz bombs were launched in the Gulf of Mexico and the equipment was ready for operation by the middle of March, 1945, the company said. Each launching required ten gallons of oil or gasoline.

The German foldup prevented its use in combat, the company said.

Dewey Favors War Memorial

Proposes Battleship New York or Some Similar Project Honor State Dead.

Albany, Jan. 11 (A. P.).—Gov. Dewey proposed today that some State project be dedicated as a memorial to New York service men and women who lost their lives in world war II.

Dewey instructed the Committee on State Construction and Development to consider suggestions for a war memorial, and make a recommendation to him and the Legislature for early consideration.

In a letter to Assembly Speaker Oswald D. Heck, committee chairman, the Governor said many suggestions had been made, "each with appealing features."

These include proposals that:

The U. S. S. New York, the battleship which served with distinction in both world wars, be acquired by the State and perpetuated.

The aircraft carrier U. S. S. Saratoga be acquired and anchored in the Hudson River.

The State construct a new office building in Albany containing a memorial auditorium.

The State build a group of smaller buildings, creating a new center of State activity in a less congested area, either in Albany or some nearby community, so that each department could have a separate building.

The new throughway to be built from New York to Buffalo be designated the Memorial Throughway and a tree planted along the route for each New York State member of the armed services who gave his life in the late war.

13,000 TO MARCH IN NEW YORK'S VICTORY PARADE

NEW YORK, Jan. 11—(AP) With colors flying, fixed bayonets glistening and aircraft roaring overhead, some 13,000 infantrymen will march up Fifth Avenue tomorrow in the first victory parade since General Pershing led the First Division up the hero route in 1919.

At the head of the parade will be Brooklyn-born, 38 year old Major General James M. Gavin, leading 8,000 men of his famed 82nd Airborne Division. The parade, he said, would be a "tribute to all the guys who walked through the mud—the slogging GI."

Gavin is the youngest major general in the army.

Millions to Attend

Millions of people are expected to line the avenue from Washington Square to 86th Street to cheer the marchers and see the equipment they used in crushing Italy, Germany and Japan.

There will be 34 heavy tanks some of them weighing 45 tons; 12 tank destroyers, eighteen 105mm howitzers, 12 eight-inch howitzers, two tank transports, 12 armored cars, 44 57mm anti-tank guns, 21 jeeps, three ambulances and 48 other combat weapons in the parade.

Overhead 100 army fighter planes and 50 transports towing troop gliders will lend emphasis to the kind of fighting the 82nd Airborne and the 13th Airborne Divisions carried to the enemy in Sicily, Italy, the Normandy Beach, Holland and Germany.

In deference to the 13th and to other small contingents in the parade, the 82nd will not wear furbishings adopted overseas—white parachute scarves, white parachute shroud shoelaces, and white gloves. But the 82nd will wear the division-awarded Belgian fourrageres and Dutch lanyards.

Grover Whelan, the city's official greeter said two of America's heroes, General Jonathan Wainwright of Corregidor fame and Sgt. (now Major) Alvin York, World War I sharpshooter, would be in the reviewing stand. Both were members of the 82nd in the last war.

The 82nd, while on duty in Berlin, was the "show piece" of the American army. It paraded for Russian General Zhukov, British General Montgomery, for General Eisenhower, the late General Patton and for visiting European diplomats.

28,000 Vets Returning On 25 Ships At 7 Ports

JAN 12 1946

LONDON, JAN. 11-(AP)- THE SOVIET UNION'S UNO DELEGATION INTENDS NOT ONLY TO MAKE ITSELF HEARD---BUT SEEN.

IT WAS UNDERSTOOD THAT ANDREI GROMYKO, RUSSIAN AMBASSADOR TO THE UNITED STATES, COMPLAINED TODAY ABOUT HIS DELEGATION'S TABLE SIGN BEING ABBREVIATED TO A MERE "USSR" WHILE OTHER SIGNS SPELLED OUT "UNITED STATES" AND "UNITED KINGDOM."

JAN 12 1946

A NEW SIGN, AN ATTENDANT SAID, WAS BEING PAINTED. IT WILL READ, "UNION OF SOVIET SOCIALIST REPUBLICS."

AT THE UNO ASSEMBLY MEETING
LONDON, [illegible]- DELEGATES AND NEWSPAPERMEN ARE FINDING IT DIFFICULT KEEPING THE TWO BEN COHENS STRAIGHT.

ONE IS BEN COHEN, AMERICAN DELEGATE, ONE OF THE LATE PRESIDENT ROOSEVELT'S ADVISORS, NOW SERVING SECRETARY OF STATE JAMES F. BYRNES IN THE SAME CAPACITY. THE OTHER IS BEN COHEN, CHILEAN AMBASSADOR AND CHIEF SECRETARIAT ON THE SITE COMMITTEE.

SECOND NIGHT LEAD UNO

BY JOHN A.PARRIS

LONDON, JAN. 11-(AP)-THE FIVE MAJOR UNO POWERS WERE REPORTED TONIGHT TO HAVE AGREED UPON CANADA, BRAZIL, EGYPT AND POLAND FOR NON-PERMANENT MEMBERSHIP ON THE UNITED NATIONS' ALL-POWERFUL SECURITY COUNCIL WHICH WILL CONTROL THE NEW "WORLD POLICE FORCE".

RELIABLE SOURCES SAID, HOWEVER, THAT THERE WAS DISAGREEMENT ON THE REMAINING TWO COUNCIL SEATS TO BE FILLED AND THAT THE COUNCIL ELECTIONS, SCHEDULED FOR TOMORROW AT THE ASSEMBLY MEETING, EITHER WOULD BE POSTPONED OR THE DIFFERENCES BETWEEN RUSSIA AND OTHER KEY POWERS WOULD BE AIRED IN DISCUSSION ON THE FLOOR.

ANDREI GROMYKO, ACTING CHIEF SOVIET DELEGATE, ASKED AT A CONFERENCE OF THE FIVE MAJOR DELEGATIONS TONIGHT THAT THE ELECTION BE DEFERRED WHILE THE SOVIET DELEGATION SOUGHT INSTRUCTIONS FROM MOSCOW, INFORMANTS SAID.

JAN 12 1946

FOR A TIME THERE WAS UNCERTAINTY, IN VIEW OF DEVELOPMENTS, WHETHER TOMORROW'S SESSION WOULD BE HELD AT ALL; BUT LATE TONIGHT CONFERENCE OFFICIALS SAID THEY WOULD CONVENE AT 10:30 A.M. (5:30 A.M., EASTERN STANDARD TIME), AS PLANNED.

AMERICAN AND BRITISH SOURCES EMPHASIZED THAT THE OVER-ALL ATMOSPHERE OF RELATIONS AMONG THE MAJOR POWER DELEGATIONS REMAINED HARMONIOUS.

THEY SAID THE POWERS HAD REACHED AN AGREEMENT ON 16 OR 17 OF THE 18 NATIONS TO BE CHOSEN FOR MEMBERSHIP ON THE UNO'S SOCIAL AND ECONOMIC COUNCIL.

THE KEY POWERS -- UNITED STATES, RUSSIA, BRITAIN, CHINA AND FRANCE -- WERE ELECTED WITH VENEZUELA AND SOUTH AFRICA TODAY TO VICE PRESIDENCIES OF THE GENERAL ASSEMBLY. EACH OF THE DELEGATIONS REPRESENTING THESE NATIONS WILL MEET SOON TO CHOOSE THE PERSON TO SERVE AS ITS VICE PRESIDENT.

THE ASSEMBLY, WITHOUT DISSENT, ALSO ELECTED NATIONS SUPPORTED BY THE BIG FIVE TO CHAIRMANSHIPS OF THE ASSEMBLY'S SIX COMMITTEES. THESE CHAIRMEN, WITH PRESIDENT PAUL HENRI SPAAK OF BELGIUM AND THE VICE PRESIDENTS WILL FORM THE STEERING COMMITTEE WHICH WILL DIRECT THE ASSEMBLY'S WORK.

GUY PEREZ CISNEROS, DELEGATE FROM CUBA, ASKED THAT THE COMMITTEE BE ENLARGED TO INCLUDE REPRESENTATIVES OF ALL 51 NATIONS, BUT PRESIDENT SPAAK URGED THE ASSEMBLY TO ACCEPT THE LEADERSHIP OF THE 14, (SPAAK, THE SEVEN VICE PRESIDENTS AND THE SIX COMMITTEE CHAIRMEN), UNTIL THE UNO COMMITTEE ON LEGAL QUESTIONS COULD DISCUSS CUBA'S SUGGESTIONS. THE LEGAL COMMITTEE IS TO REPORT IN EIGHT DAYS.

JAN 12 1946

ON THE SECURITY COUNCIL QUESTION, IT WAS REPORTED THAT BRITAIN AND AMERICA SUPPORTED MEXICO AND THE NETHERLANDS FOR THE REMAINING TWO UNASSIGNED SEATS OVER WHICH THERE IS DISAGREEMENT, WITH RUSSIA OBJECTING TO BOTH.

THE RUSSIAN DELEGATES, IN PRIVATE CONVERSATIONS, HAVE BEEN CRITICAL OF NETHERLANDS POSTWAR POLICIES IN INDONESIA. THEIR OBJECTIONS TO MEXICO, IT WAS SAID, WAS BASED ON THE ARGUMENT THAT THE COUNCIL SHOULD NOT INCLUDE ANOTHER LATIN AMERICAN NATION BESIDES BRAZIL.

THERE WAS SOME TALK THAT RUSSIA MIGHT BACK YUGOSLAVIA AND, IF YUGOSLAVIA WRE ELECTED, MIGHT ACCEPT EITHER MEXICO OR THE NETHERLANDS TO THE REMAINING VACANT SEAT.

THE NATIONS UPON WHICH THE FIVE POWERS AGREED FOR MEMBERSHIP ON THE SOCIAL AND ECONOMIC COUNCIL, INFORMED SOURCES SAID, WERE THE FIVE POWERS THEMSELVES AND AUSTRALIA, CANADA, IRAQ, TURKEY, UKRAINE, CZECHOSLOVAKIA, NETHERLANDS, NORWAY, PERU, CUBA, CHILE AND COLOMBIA. THE SOLE DISAGREEMENT IN THIS PROPOSAL WAS THAT THE RUSSIANS VOICED SOME OBJECTIONS TO NAMING FOUR LATIN-AMERICAN NATIONS, ARGUING THAT THREE WOULD BE ENOUGH, INFORMANTS REPORTED.

IF, UNDER THE FINAL AGREEMENT, ONE LATIN-AMERICAN NATION IS ELIMINATED, THERE WOULD BE TWO PLACES TO FILL; AND THERE WAS A DISCUSSION THAT THESE VACANCIES WOULD GO TO INDIA AND YUGOSLAVIA, ALTHOUGH DEFINITE AGREEMENT ON THAT APPEARED UNCERTAIN.

THE ASSEMBLY, ACCEPTING THE BIG POWER RECOMMENDATIONS, ASSIGNED ITS COMMITTEE CHAIRMANSHIPS TO UKRAINE, POLAND, PANAMA, URUGUAY, SYRIA AND NEW ZEALAND.

EACH OF THE SIX DELEGATIONS WILL ELECT ONE OF ITS MEMBERS TO FILL THE POSTS AND TO SERVE EX-OFICIO ON THE 14-MEMBER STEERING COMMITTEE WHICH CUBA SEEKS TO ENLARGE.

ANOTHER CONTROVERSY, ETC, 19TH GRAF NIGHT LEAD.

MQ956PES

LAST MINUTE CHANGES WERE POSSIBLE, THE INFORMANTS SAID, BUT WERE NOT EXPECTED. THE ELECTIONS WERE TO BE HELD AFTER THE ASSEMBLY HEARD THE READING OF THE PREPARATORY COMMISSION'S REPORT AND THE PRESIDENTIAL ADDRESS OF BELGIAN FOREIGN MINISTER PAUL HENRI SPAAK, NEWLY-ELECTED HEAD OF THE ASSEMBLY.

JAN 12 1946

DELEGATES OF THE 51 PARTICIPATING NATIONS GATHERED EARLY IN HISTORIC CENTRAL HALL ON WESTMINSTER SQUARE FOR THE SECOND SESSION, WHICH WAS SET FOR 10:15 A.M. (5:15 A.M. EASTERN STANDARD TIME).

THE ALL-POWERFUL 11-MEMBER SECURITY COUNCIL--WHICH WILL CONTROL THE UNO'S "INTERNATIONAL POLICE FORCE"--PROBABLY WILL NOT BE ORGANIZED UNTIL TOMORROW, CONFERENCE OFFICIALS SAID.

A FIGHT LOOMED BETWEEN CANADA AND AUSTRALIA FOR A SEAT ON THE COUNCIL, TO WHICH THE ECONOMIC AND SECURITY COMMITTEE WILL BE EMPOWERED TO MAKE RECOMMENDATIONS. THE TWO ENGLISH-SPEAKING NATIONS SOUGHT THE PLACE WHICH HAS BEEN ALLOTTED TO THE BRITISH DOMINIONS.

FIVE OF THE REMAINING 10 SEATS WILL GO TO THE KEY POWERS. THE OTHER FIVE, DELEGATES SAID, WOULD LIKELY BE VOTED TO COLOMBIA AND MEXICO, AS REPRESENTATIVES OF SOUTH AND CENTRAL AMERICA; TO BELGIUM FOR WESTERN EUROPE, TO POLAND FOR EASTERN EUROPE AND TO EGYPT FOR THE MIDDLE EAST.

THERE WERE UNCONFIRMED REPORTS, MEANWHILE, THAT THE CHIEF DELEGATES OF THE FIVE MAJOR POWERS, WHO REPORTEDLY REACHED AGREEMENT ON THE COMMITTEE APPOINTMENTS THROUGH INTERMEDIARIES, WOULD MEET TONIGHT TO SEEK AN AGREEMENT ON A NOMINEE FOR SECRETARY-GENERAL.

THE UNITED STATES AND GREAT BRITAIN WERE SAID TO FAVOR LESTER PEARSON, CANADIAN AMBASSADOR TO THE UNITED STATES, FOR THE POST. UNCONFIRMED REPORTS SAID THE RUSSIANS MIGHT BACK VLADIMIR SIMIC, YUGOSLAV AMBASSADOR TO WASHINGTON.

SOME SOURCES SAID THE FINAL AGREEMENT MIGHT NOT BE REACHED UNTIL ANDREI VISHINSKY, CHIEF SOVIET DELEGATE, ARRIVES FROM SOFIA WHERE HE IS NOW CONFERRING WITH THE BULGARIAN GOVERNMENT REGARDING A CABINET REVISION IN ACCORDANCE WITH THE BIG THREE MOSCOW DECISION. IT WAS REPORTED HE WOULD NOT REACH LONDON UNTIL SATURDAY.

IN VISHINSKY'S ABSENCE THE RUSSIANS SUFFERED A TACTICAL DEFEAT IN THE SECRET-BALLOT PRESIDENTIAL ELECTION YESTERDAY WHEN SPAAK, BACKED BY THE BRITISH, DEFEATED RUSSIAN-SPONSORED TRYGVE LIE, NORWEGIAN AMBASSADOR TO BRITAIN, 28 VOTES TO 23.

SPAAK CHATTED WITH ANDREI GROMYKO, ACTING CHIEF OF THE SOVIET DELEGATION, AT A COCKTAIL PARTY GIVEN LAST NIGHT BY BRITISH FOREIGN SECRETARY ERNEST BEVIN.

PERSONS PRESENT REPORTED THE BELGIAN FOREIGN MINISTER APPROACHED GROMYKO AND SAID:

"I'M SORRY YOU COULDN'T VOTE FOR ME, BUT I'LL BE A FAIR PRESIDENT."

GROMYKO, SMILING PLEASANTLY, WAS REPORTED TO HAVE REPLIED:

"WE WANTED YOU FOR THE SECURITY COUNCIL INSTEAD."

THE RUSSIANS' UNSUCCESSFUL ATTEMPT TO ELECT LIE BY ACCLAMATION BROUGHT MUTTERINGS OF "POWER TACTICS" FROM SOME OF THE SMALLER NATIONS' DELEGATES, WHO SAID PRIVATELY THAT THEY WERE RESENTFUL BECAUSE THE ASSEMBLY, "LIKE THE SAN FRANCISCO CONFERENCE," SEEMED TO BE DOMINATED BY THE BIG POWERS.

IN THIS CONNECTION THE INFLUENTIAL BRITISH WEEKLY "ECONOMIST" COMMENTED THAT "IF THE UNO IS TO BE EFFECTIVE IT MUST COME TO SWALLOW THE SEPARATE THREE-POWER, FOUR-POWER OR FIVE-POWER CONFERENCES, COMMISSIONS AND SPECIAL ARRANGEMENTS WHICH AT THE MOMENT COVER THE REAL SUBSTANCE OF INTERNATIONAL POLICY."

"THE HOPEFUL FACT ABOUT THE UNO," THE WEEKLY SAID, IN A COMMENTARY WHICH FOUND AGREEMENT AMONG MANY DELEGATES, "IS THAT WITH THE FULL CONSENT OF THE GREAT POWERS SOME MACHINERY IS IN THE PROCESS OF BEING BUILT THROUGH WHICH THEY CAN, IF THEY WILL, MAKE A WORLD SOCIETY WORK."

FIRST LEAD TRIAL (300)

BY GEORGE TUCKER

NUERNBERG, GERMANY, JAN. 11-(AP)-A CZECH VICTIM OF THE DACHAU CONCENTRATION CAMP TESTIFIED TODAY THAT FIVE OF THE 22 TOP NAZI DEFENDANTS ON TRIAL AS WAR CRIMINALS VISITED THE DACHAU COMPOUND AT A TIME WHEN MANY OF THE MOST HORRIFYING EXPERIMENTS ON HUMAN BEINGS WERE IN PROGRESS.

THE WITNESS, DR.FRANZ BLAHA, POINTED DIRECTLY INTO THE PRISONERS BOX AND IDENTIFIED WILHELM FRICK, FORMER MINISTER OF INTERIOR; ALFRED ROSENBERG, NAZI PARTY PHILOSOPHER; WALTHER FUNK, FORMER REICHSBANK PRESIDENT, AND FRITZ SAUCKEL, WHO WAS IN CHARGE OF SLAVE LABOR, AS FOUR OF THE VISITORS. HE LOOKED FOR THE FIFTH MAN HE ACCUSED, ERNST KALTENBRUNNER, BUT THAT ONETIME SECURITY POLICE CHIEF STILL WAS ABSENT BECAUSE OF A CRANIAL HEMORRHAGE.

BEFORE BLAHA TESTIFIED, THE INTERNATIONAL MILITARY TRIBUNAL HEARD THE AMERICAN PROSECUTION CHARGE THAT GERMAN MILITARY SUCCESSES WERE MADE POSSIBLE ONLY BY THE RESOURCEFULNESS, FINANCIAL RUTHLESSNESS AND "ABSOLUTE CYNICISM" OF DR.HJALMAR SCHACHT, ANOTHER OF THE DEFENDANTS.

BLAHA SAID MANY HIGH GOVERNMENT AND MILITARY FIGURES FREQUENTLY VISITED THE EXTERMINATION CAMP NEAR MUNICH. HIS APPEARANCE IN THE WITNESS BOX PRODUCED A KIND OF EMOTIONAL SHOCK AMONG THE DEFENDANTS. MANY OF THEM BOLTED UPRIGHT, WITH THEIR HANDS CLINCHING THE RAILS BEFORE THEM.

UNDER THE QUESTIONING OF U.S. ASSISTANT PROSECUTOR THOMAS J.DODD, BLAHA DESCRIBED HOW SOME MURDER VICTIMS WERE SELECTED BECAUSE OF THEIR PERFECT TEETH AND SMOOTH SKINS.

"ORDERS FREQUENTLY WERE RECEIVED AT DACHAU FOR SKULLS," BLAHA SAID. "TEETH COUNTED A GREAT DEAL. WHEN THESE ORDERS CAME, THE CAMP COMMANDANT WOULD REMARK ON THE NECESSITY OF FINDING MEN WITH PERFECT TEETH. IT WAS DANGEROUS TO HAVE A SOFT FINE SKIN OR GOOD TEETH AT DACHAU."

30.24-241

HE ADDED THAT SOFT HUMAN SKIN WAS SO PRIZED FOR LEATHER AND BINDINGS THAT VICTIMS WOULD BE SHOT IN THE BACK OF THE NECK OR KNOCKED IN THE HEAD SO THE SURFACE WOULD BE UNMARRED.

BLAHA WAS ARRESTED FOR ASSISTING CZECHOSLOVAKIA AT THE TIME OF THE SUDENTENLAND CRISIS. AS PART OF HIS PUNISHMENT, HIS WRIST TENDONS WERE CUT SO HE COULD NO LONGER FOLLOW HIS CAREER AS A SURGEON.

SCHACHT LISTENED INTENTLY WHILE HIS PROSECUTION PROCEEDED.

MERGER

WASHINGTON, JAN. 11-(AP)-SENATOR HILL (D-ALA) SAID TODAY THAT MANY IDEAS ADVANCED BY THE NAVY IN OPPOSING MERGER WITH THE ARMY WILL BECOME PART OF THE PLAN FOR A SINGLE ARMED FORCES DEPARTMENT.

"WE HAVE AGREED TO TAKE THE BEST FEATURES OF POST-WAR PLANS OF BOTH NAVY AND WAR DEPARTMENT FOR THE UNIFICATION BILL," HILL TOLD A REPORTER: "WE WILL HAVE A SINGLE DEPARTMENT WITH THREE SEPARATE AND AUTONOMOUS FORCES, AIR, SEA AND LAND."

HILL IS SENATE DEMOCRATIC WHIP AND A MEMBER OF THE SPECIAL COMMITTEE OF THREE SENATORS, A GENERAL AND AN ADMIRAL WHICH IS DRAFTING LEGISLATION TO CARRY OUT PRESIDENT TRUMAN'S REQUEST FOR A SINGLE ARMED FORCES DEPARTMENT.

UNTIL THE PRESIDENT CAME OUT STRONGLY FOR THE SINGLE DEPARTMENT, ALL PUBLIC EXPRESSIONS BY NAVY LEADERS HAD BEEN AGAINST THE MERGER PLAN WHILE ALL ARMY AND AIR FORCES SPOKESMEN HAD URGED IT. BUT SENATOR HILL SAID THAT MANY OF THE SUGGESTIONS URGED BY THE NAVY AS ALTERNATIVES TO UNIFICATION CAN BE MADE A BENEFICIAL PART OF THE PROGRAM.

THE SENATOR SAID THESE INCLUDE:
1. A NATIONAL DEFENSE COUNCIL OR COMMISSION THAT WOULD "ASSURE CLOSER LIAISON OF THE STATE DEPARTMENT POLICIES WITH THOSE OF THE MILITARY AND CIVILIAN AGENCIES."
2. STRONGER CIVILIAN CONTROL OVER THE MILITARY.
3. AN OVER-ALL AGENCY FOR DIRECTION OF SCIENTIFIC RESEARCH.
4. CONTINUATION OF THE WARTIME JOINT CHIEFS OF STAFF OR SOME SIMILAR AGENCY REPRESENTING HEADS OF THE VARIOUS ARMED FORCES.
2WE ARE GENERALLY AGREED UPON OUR IDEAS BUT IT MAY TAKE SOME TIME AND EFFORT TO GET THOSE INTO EXACT AND ACCURATE LANGUAGE," HILL SAID. "I THINK WE WILL HAVE A BILL READY FOR SENATE ACTION SHORTLY."
CHAIRMAN ELBERT THOMAS (D-UTAH) OF THE MILITARY COMMITTEE TOLD REPORTERS THAT HE HAD ABANDONED EARLIER PLANS TO HAVE A BILL READY FOR SENATE ACTION WHEN CONGRESS RESUMES JANUARY 14.
THOMAS AND SENATOR AUSTIN (R-VT), THIRD SENATOR OF THE DRAFTING GROUP, AGREED WITH HILL, HOWEVER, THAT OVER-ALL OUTLINES OF THE UNIFICATION PLAN ARE IN SHAPE.

A187WX

THE NEW AGENCY WOULD BE CALLED THE "DEPARTMENT OF COMMON DEFENSE" HEADED BY A CABINET MEMBER CALLED THE "SECRETARY OF COMMON DEFENSE." HE WOULD TAKE OVER CABINET DUTIES NOW DIVIDED BETWEEN THE SECRETARIES OF WAR AND NAVY.
THERE WOULD BE UNDER SECRETARIES OF ARMY, AIR FORCES AND NAVY.
THE PRESENT NAVAL ACADEMY AT ANNAPOLIS, MARYLAND, AND ARMY ACADEMY AT WEST POINT, NEW YORK, WOULD BE RETAINED. BUT BASIC TRAINING OF THOUSANDS OF RESERVE OFFICERS FOR ARMY, NAVY AND AIR FORCES IN VARIOUS COLLEGES AND UNIVERSITIES WOULD BE UNDER A STANDARDIZED SYSTEM, THOMAS SAID, ADDING THAT THESE PRESENT ACTIVITIES PROBABLY WOULD BE GREATLY EXPANDED.
"AFTER SPECIALIZED TRAINING IS COMPLETED FOR OFFICERS THERE SHOULD BE A SINGLE OVER-ALL WAR COLLEGE," THOMAS ADDED. "THEN THE o AMBITIOUS YOUNG OFFICER OR CADET WOULD NOT TRY TO BE A GENERAL OR ADMIRAL BUT A STAFF OFFICER IN THIS TOP BRACKET."

WASHINGTON,JAN.11-(AP)-THE GERMAN HEAVY CRUISER PRINZ EUGEN WILL BE BROUGHT TO THE UNITED STATES FOR "STUDY AND EXPERIMENTATION," THE NAVY ANNOUNCED TONIGHT.
OFFICIALS DECLINED TO SAY WHETHER THE "EXPERIMENTATION" WOULD INCLUDE ATOMIC BOMB TESTS.
THE 18,460 TON CRUISER WILL SAIL FROM BREMEN THIS WEEKEND. IT IS EXPECTED TO REACH BOSTON IN ABOUT 10 DAYS.
THE SHIP WAS TAKEN OVER BY THE ALLIES ON THE SURRENDER OF GERMANY AND AWARDED TO THE UNITED STATES AS A RESULT OF THE POTSDAM CONFERENCE.
EIGHT AMERICAN NAVAL OFFICERS AND 85 ENLISTED MEN COMMANDED BY CAPTAIN A.H.GRAUBERT, LOS ANGELES, CALIF., ARE MANNING THE SHIP WITH THE ASSISTANCE OF GERMANS.

NIGHT LEAD UNDATED STRIKES
BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

JAN 12 1946

(CX) A SPREADING PARALYSIS BEGAN CRIPPLING THE NATION'S LONG DISTANCE AND SOME LOCAL TELEPHONE COMMUNICATIONS YESTERDAY (FRIDAY) AND A GOVERNMENT OFFICIAL SAID SEIZURE OF THE TELEPHONE PROPERTIES MIGHT BE RECOMMENDED IF THE TIE-UP BECAME NATIONWIDE.
GENERALLY ONLY EMERGENCY CALLS WERE ACCEPTED ON LONG DISTANCE LINES AND THROUGH SOME MANUALLY-OPERATED LOCAL EXCHANGES. THE SERVICE DISRUPTION CAME WHEN 8,000 STRIKING INSTALLATION WORKERS PUT PICKET LINES AROUND KEY LONG DISTANCE EXCHANGES EARLY YESTERDAY--AND MOST UNION TELEPHONE WORKERS REFUSED TO CROSS THE LINES.
LABOR SECRETARY SCHWELLENBACH SUMMONED REPRESENTATIVES OF THE STRIKING ASSOCIATION OF COMMUNICATIONS EQUIPMENT WORKERS (IND.) AND THEIR EMPLOYER, THE WESTERN ELECTRIC COMPANY, TO A CONFERENCE. EARLIER A LABOR DEPARTMENT SPOKESMAN WHO DECLINED TO PERMIT USE OF HIS NAME SAID GOVERNMENT SEIZURE MIGHT BE RECOMMENDED TO PRESIDENT TRUMAN IF THE TIEUP BECAME NATIONWIDE.
MEANWHILE, A BREAK IN THE STEEL-WAGE STALEMATE BECAME A POSSIBILITY WHEN THE CIO UNITED STEEL WORKERS UNION SLASHED ITS WAGE INCREASE DEMANDS FROM $2 TO $1.60 A DAY IN AN OFFER TO THE TIMKEN ROLLER BEARING COMPANY, WHICH EMPLOYES 12,000.
THERE WAS NO INDICATION IMMEDIATELY WHETHER SUCH A PROPOSAL WOULD BE ACCEPTABLE FROM THE INDUSTRY AS A WHOLE.
THE OFFER WAS MADE BY CIO PRESIDENT PHILIP MURRAY AFTER COMPANY PRESIDENT, WILLIAM E.UMSTATTD OF CANTON,O., HAD OFFERED TO HIKE THE WORKERS WAGES 17 1/2 PER CENT.
MURRAY, IN REPLYING, OFFERED TO SCALE ORIGINAL 25 CENTS AN HOUR BOOST DEMANDS DOWN TO 20 CENTS AND TOLD THE COMPANY THE UNION PREFERRED TO DEAL ON A DOLLAR AND CENTS BASIS.
A UNION SPOKESMAN ESTIMATED THE AVERAGE WAGE FOR TIMKEN WORKERS WAS $1.10 AND SAID THE 17 1/2 PER CENT OFFER WOULD "APPROXIMATE" THE 20 CENTS AN HOUR FIGURE OFFERED BY MURRAY. HE SAID TIMKEN'S CONTRACTS AND RATES HAD ALWAYS "FOLLOWED THE PATTERN" FOR THE INDUSTRY. THE 17 1/2 PER CENT OFFER WAS IDENTICAL TO THE PERCENTAGE BOOST RECOMMENDED YESTERDAY BY THE GENERAL MOTORS FACT-FINDING

SOME 3,000 CIO STEEL WORKERS HAVE CALLED A NATIONWIDE STRIKE FOR MONDAY IN SUPPORT OF WAGE INCREASE DEMANDS. THE UNION HEADS, MEANWHILE, CONTINUED WAGE DISCUSSIONS WITH U.S. STEEL CORPORATION OFFICIALS IN NEW YORK, BUT A UNION SPOKESMAN QUOTED MURRAY AS SAYING HE COULD "SEE NO HOPE IN THE SITUATION."

MEANWHILE, WILLIAM GREEN, PRESIDENT OF THE AMERICAN FEDERATION OF LABOR, ASSERTED THAT "ULTIMATELY" THE GENERAL MOTORS FACT-FINDING BOARD'S RECOMMENDATION FOR A 19 1/2 CENTS WAGE BOOST TO 175,000 STRIKING CIO UNITED AUTO WORKERS "MUST BE ACCEPTED." REITERATING HIS OPPOSITION TO FACT-FINDING PROCEDURES, GREEN CONTENDED "THE MORAL EFFECT" OF THE RECOMMENDATION "IS THAT ULTIMATELY IT MUST BE ACCEPTED."

ADMINISTRATION LABOR OFFICIALS EXPRESSED CONFIDENCE THE COMPANY AND UNION WOULD ACCEPT THE PROPOSED SETTLEMENT.

A GENERALLY MORE OPTIMISTIC SENTIMENT ON LABOR TROUBLES GAVE THE STOCK MARKET A BULLISH BOOST, WITH SHARES REACHING A NEW 15-YEAR AVERAGE HIGH.

THE UAW EXECUTIVE BOARD WAS CALLED TO A SPECIAL SESSION IN DETROIT TODAY AND THE UNION'S GENERAL MOTORS COUNCIL WILL MEET THERE SUNDAY. THE COUNCIL WOULD HAVE TO ACT FIRST ON ANY STRIKE SETTLEMENT.

THE COMPANY'S POSITION WAS STILL IN DOUBT, HOWEVER, AND GM OFFICIALS SAID NOTHING BEYOND A STATEMENT THE RECOMMENDATIONS ARE BEING STUDIED.

THE AMERICAN TELEPHONE AND TELEGRAPH COMPANY, THE NATION'S TOP LONG DISTANCE FACILITY, REPORTED THAT LONG DISTANCE COMMUNICATIONS OVER ITS NATIONWIDE LINES WAS ONLY FIVE PER CENT OF NORMAL AT NOON YESTERDAY. EFFECT OF THE ACTION ON TOLL CALLS--WHICH WITH MANUAL PHONE OPERATIONS WERE THE FIRST TO BE AFFECTED--VARIED.

IN OHIO, NORTHER CALIFORNIA AND NEVADA THE TELEPHONE UNIONS CALLED ALL THEIR MEMBERS OUT, REGARDLESS OF WHETHER EXCHANGES WERE BEING PICKETED.

A20CX

A. T. & T. SAID ONLY FIVE PER CENT OF THE NUMBER OF NORMAL LONG DISTANCE CALLS WENT THROUGH THERE BECAUSE OF INEXPERIENCE OF SUPERVISORS AND OTHER EMERGENCY OPERATORS. SOME 45 PER CENT OF ITS LONG DISTANCE BOARDS WERE MANNED, HOWEVER.

THE NUMBER OF BOARDS COVERED IN OTHER EXCHANGES RANGED FROM 9.3 PER CENT IN ST.LOUIS TO 71 PER CENT IN BUFFALO.

THE CORPORATION SAID 13 OF ITS 14 MAJOR TRAFFIC OFFICES WERE PICKETED. BOSTON WAS THE EXCEPTION WHERE INSTALLATION WORKERS ARE NOT AFFILIATED WITH THE WESTERN ELECTRIC EMPLOYES.

UNO Security Council Formed By Assembly

JAN 13 1946

Russian Effort To Postpone Vote Defeated—Group Can Invoke Armed Force

PARIS

LONDON, Jan. 12. — (AP) The vital Security council of the United Nations organization, invested with the power to invoke armed force for preservation of the peace, was formed today by the General Assembly, which overrode Soviet proposals to postpone election of six non-permanent members.

In a series of secret ballots the assembly elected Australia, Brazil and Poland to two-year terms on the all-powerful 11-member council, and named the Netherlands, Egypt and Mexico to one-year terms. The five major powers—the United States, [illegible] Soviet Union, France and China—are the permanent members.

There were indications the full Security council would meet early next week to arrange a meeting of chiefs of staff of the five major powers, and instruct them to draw up quotas of armed forces. Britain has been pressing for immediate organization of air, sea and land services which will provide the teeth in the United Nations organization's peace preservation powers.

The assembly also elected 17 members to the Economics and Social council of the United Nations organization. They are Chile, China, Norway, the United Kingdom, Peru, the Soviet Union, the United States, Canada, Lebanon, Colombia, France, India, Belgium, Czechoslovakia, the Ukrainian republic, Cuba and Greece.

Final Vote Delayed

New Zealand and Yugoslavia were tied for the final place, and voting to resolve the deadlock was deferred until Monday.

The Economic and Social council is a main body of the United Nations organization and has authority to investigate economic and social conditions throughout the world and recommend action. It also is permitted to make recommendations "for the purpose of promoting respect for and observance of human rights and fundamental freedoms for all." It is expected to play a large part in the maintenance of peace and security under the United Nations charter.

Looking ahead to next week, the delegates turned their attention to important resolutions, including one on control of atomic energy. A sub-committee will meet to decide at what stage these motions will be raised.

The Russian move for postponement of the vote on the Security council was opposed by U. S. Secretary of State James F. Byrnes, who said it would set a precedent that might cripple the assembly's work, and by British Foreign Secretary Ernest Bevin, who told the delegates to put an end to lobbying and get on with the vote."

It was a fresh defeat for the Soviet Union, which on the opening day of the assembly lost in its move to elect a Norwegian as president of the assembly. The Russians had sought a week-end deferment of action on the council to permit further consultations among the major powers.

Sought Consultations

It was a fresh defeat for the Soviet Union, which on the opening day of the Assembly lost in its move to elect a Norwegian as president of the Assembly. The Russians had sought a week-end deferment of action on the council to permit further consultations among the major powers.

"It would be expedient to postpone the elections until the beginning of next week," argued Andrei Gromyko, Soviet delegate. "We want to give more thought to this question . . . in order to choose the most appropriate candidates."

Five of the six nonpermanent members were elected on the first ballot. All ballots were secret. Then, after two indecisive ballots in which Australia and Canada contended for the seat, the Canadians proposed that Australia be chosen by acclamation.

Withdrawal In Effect

The procedure was ruled out of order, but in effect Canada had withdrawn and Australia received 46 votes on a final ballot, thirteen more than the required two-thirds majority of the 49 votes which were counted. Canada got three votes. Two were invalidated.

Commenting on the results, V. K. Wellington Koo, Chinese Ambassador to Britain, said he hoped the election would not be taken as a permanent pattern because "there were regions of the world which should be given consideration, and Asia was not sufficiently represented."

Agreeing with Koo, Georges Bidault, French Foreign Minister, said the French delegation felt it could not adopt a conception of geographical partition which might lead to privileges or exclusions.

To Rotate Presidency

It was expected that an Australian would become president of the security council for the first month. Under a proposed rule yet to be adopted the presidency of the council will rotate among member states each month, according to the English alphabetical order of their names.

It was the nations prepared to vote upon which of the six newly chosen council members would be given the two-year terms the Soviet delegation, backed by the Americans, favored a two-thirds vote, Britain, China and France, holding out for simple majority, won out in an assembly of 30 to 5.

Chosen On First Ballot

Brazil and Australia became two-year members on the first of these ballots. Brazil received 41 votes and Australia 31 out of a possible 47 each. In the second ballot, Poland and the Netherlands were tied with 25 votes each. Under assembly rules, President Paul-Henry Spaak broke the tie by lot, drawing the name of Poland from the ballot box.

Spaak indicated he was annoyed with repeatedly ineffectual balloting, and he said he would propose an amendment on procedure under which, after any ineffectual third ballot, election would be simple majority.

Security Council Members Are Chosen

JAN 13 1946

High Tower

London, Jan. 12 (AP)—Overriding Russian efforts to postpone the balloting, the United Nations Assembly today elected six nations to nonpermanent seats on the important Security Council along with a five-power permanent bloc.

Australia, Brazil, Egypt, Mexico, the Netherlands and Poland were chosen to nonpermanent membership on the council, which will control the proposed world police force. The United States, Britain, Russia, China and France are the permanent members of the eleven-nation body.

Canada Almost Wins

The election was completed after Canada and Australia went through two indecisive ballots in a run-off between the two members of the British Commonwealth.

Canada then proposed that Australia be chosen by acclamation. That procedure was ruled out of order, but Canada, having in effect withdrawn, Australia recevied 46 votes on the final tally.

The other five non-permanent members were elected on the first ballot. All ballots were secret.

U.S. Candidates Win

The five countries elected on the first ballot were Brazil (47 votes), Egypt (45), Mexico (45), Poland (39) and the Netherlands (37). The five elected states and Canada were on a slate which had been circulated by the United States delegation.

A Russian motion to delay formation of the Security Council was opposed on the floor by United States Secretary of State James F. Byrnes and British Foreign Secretary Ernest Bevin, who said the Soviet proposal would set a bad precedent. Russia had been reported critical of the candidacies of Mexico and the Netherlands.

Russ Support Changed

First, it was reported that the Russians favored Norway and Belgium for these two places, but at the last minute the Ukraine delegation proposed Norway and New Zealand instead.

On the first ballot Canada received 33 votes and Australia 28. On the second ballot—a runoff between these two dominions of the British Commonwealth—Australia got 27 and Canada 23.

Subsequently the Canadian press said "the indications were that Canada would not receive the sixth seat on the council which likely will be won by Australia."

Canada One Vote Short

Canada missed election on the first ballot by one vote and would have won but for an error by one of the 51 voting nations which put more than six nations on its ballot. The nation making the error was not announced, but it was reported that the ballot had been signed. The ballot, which listed Canada, was invalidated.

But for the invalidation Canada would have received 34 votes—the exact number necessary for election.

Other Votes

Other nations which received votes on the first ballot were Iran (6), Czechoslovakia (6), Norway (5), Denmark (2) and one vote each for Belgium, Ethiopia, Greece, Luxembourg, New Zealand, Turkey and Yugoslavia.

Prime Minister Peter Fraser of New Zealand backed the move to delay a vote. He virtually demanded a place for Australia on the council as a representative of the Scuthwest Pacific.

John Masaryk, chief of the Czechoslovakian delegation, also lined up with the Russians, contending that a delay would be useful in helping the Assembly make up its mind.

Lack Of Nominations Protested

Bevin, however, called upon the Assembly to "put an end to lobbying and get on with the vote, quite straight." He said he regarded the motion as "a very dangerous precedent."

After the vote, Assembly President Paul-Henri Spaak asked for nominations but none was offered. Spaak then asked the delegates to start voting.

Gromyko immediately protested. He said he could not understand a procedure in which votes could be cast without nominations being made and the merits of the nominees discussed.

Spaak reopened the nominations, and Dmitri Manielsky, Ukrainian delegate, proposed the election of Brazil, New Zeland and Poland for two years and Mexico, Egypt and Norway for one year.

Two Not Candidates

Norway and New Zealand, whose names had not appeared on the American list circulated among the delegates, immediately announced they were not candidates.

Then Spaak called again for votes, and the delegates started a procession to the gilt ballot box on the rostrum.

Disapprove Dutch Policy

Informed sources said Russian objections to the Netherlands might be based on privately-expressed Soviet displeasures with Dutch postwar policies in Indonesia.

It was said also that the Soviet delegates, at a closed conference of the five key powers last night, had asked postponement while they sought instructions from Moscow.

The overall atmosphere of last night's discussions was harmonious, despite the differences on the composition of the Security Council, informants said.

Agree On Economic Council

The conferees were reported to have reached agreement on sixteen nations for representation on the eighteen-nation Economic and Social Council, whose jobs will be to get at the basic economic causes of war.

The delegates actually agreed, it was said, that any one of seventeen nations—the five key powers themselves with Australia, Canada, Iraq, Turkey, Ukraine, Czechoslovakia, the Netherlands, Norway, Peru, Cuba, Chile and Colombia—would be acceptable.

The Russians said, however, that four Latin-American nations might be too many. They did not say which of the four should be dropped, informants said. If one of the seventeen approved nations should be dropped, there would be two places to fill. Yugoslavia and India were said to have been mentioned during the discussions, but no agreement was reached on either of them.

Atom Force Called Killer of Potency

Briton Says Radio-Activity Destroys Male Tissues

LONDON, Jan. 12 (AP).—The development of atomic energy is "fraught with biological danger" because its radio-active forces destroy male potency, a British biologist said today.

Dr. Kenneth Walker, author of many books on male infertility, asserted that radio-active forces are "known to have a profound influence on living tissues and more particularly on the cells responsible for continuation of the race." He advocated immediate research to protect the power of fatherhood.

In a letter printed in "The Lancet," British medical journal, Dr. Walker wrote: "The medical profession will have a heavy responsibility to bear if, with full knowledge of the danger ahead, it waits until the industrialists have completed their plans before it starts to investigate their biological consequences.

"There cannot be the slightest doubt that the energies about to be let loose on the earth will be fraught with biological danger."

Ammunition Ship Feared Lost In Gale

London, Jan. 12 (AP)—Fear was expressed today that an ammunition ship with a crew of ten was lost in gales which have been sweeping Britain's coast since Monday.

Searchers reported the finding on Winterbourne Beach of two bodies, believed to be crew members of the vessel, a landing craft loaded with explosives.

The Queen Mary, after standing off shore overnight, finally made port at Southampton on her last trip before being converted to carry GI brides and their children to the United States.

The storm blew three mines ashore at St. Leonards, Sussex, where the waterfront area was evacuated.

Hospital Equipment Will Be Sent To Poland

London, Jan. 12 (AP)—Complete equipment for thirteen hospitals will be sent to war-ravaged Poland and Yugoslavia by the end of this month, Lieutenant General Sir H. M. Gale, chief of the United Nations Relief and Rehabilitation Administration's European operations, announced today.

The first of the hospitals, purchased by UNRRA from the United States Army, will leave Newcastle for Poland Monday. The equipment had been packed for shipment to the Pacific before Japan's surrender. Eleven are 1,000-bed hospitals, one is a 750-bed evacuation unit and another is a 400-bed field hospital.

LASKI AGAIN RAPS U. S. 'BIG BUSINESS'

British Laborite Assails It as Reactionary—He Calls for 'Anglo-Russian Solidarity'

LEWES, England, Jan. 12 (AP)—Harold Laski, chairman of the British Labor Party Executive, said today that "the America of big business" was reactionary in international relations.

He urged Britain to cling to "Anglo-Russian solidarity as the key to world peace."

Addressing the Sussex Federation of Labor Parties, Professor Laski declared that for Britain "nothing is more urgent than the fullest and closest understanding with Russia." He said this was "perfectly compatible with friendship for America."

But, he added, "it is necessary to say quite clearly that the America of big business is not less reactionary in international relations than it is toward every progressive measure to benefit the workers of the United States."

Professor Laski's views have been dissociated from policies of Britain's Labor Government by several officials of that Government since the elections last July.

Professor Laski said he hoped Britain would "energetically support all efforts to get rid of [Generalissimo Francisco] Franco's poisonous regime and restore Spain, not to some Vatican-sponsored monarch, but to the common people whom Hitler and Mussolini combined to deprive of their freedom."

Continuing his discussion of international affairs, Professor Laski asserted: "We must be careful not to become the agents of Dutch imperialism in Indonesia or of that monarchical type of reaction so dear to Mr. Churchill's heart in Greece."

He said he hoped Britain also would cultivate the "closest friendship" with France and asserted that Prime Minister Attlee's Government must "get an agreement with India—after this summer it might be too late."

Peace Action Slated

Paris, Jan. 12 (AP)—Deputies of the five-power Foreign Ministers will begin the preliminary drafting of European peace treaties in London shortly, diplomatic quarters said today.

They will make a beginning on implementation of the decisions of the Big Three Foreign Ministers at Moscow with the drafting of Italian peace terms, it was reported.

They thus will resume the work that was interrupted by the breakdown of the Council of five Foreign Ministers meeting in London last fall.

By the Moscow agreement, France will be one of the signatories of the treaty with Italy. It is likely that Italy will be asked to send a delegation to London.

McNarney Asks G. I.'s in Germany To Stop Mass Demonstrations

McNarney Critical Of Draft Boards

FRANKFURT, Germany, Jan. 12 (AP) Gen. Joseph T. McNarney appealed to his troops tonight to cease public demonstrations, asserting that "what has happened recently has brought home to Congress that draft boards have not done as good a job as might have been done."

The European commander said such demonstrations were "harmful to our country" and "damaging" to its prestige in other countries.

Speaking to 55 representatives of 22,000 protesting G.I.'s, McNarney acknowledged that "we have not done as good a job as we should have" in redeployment, adding that "one of the mistakes of the War department has been that it has not been sufficiently demanding upon draft boards for replacements."

Replacements Needed

He told the soldiers their people back home should "bear down on the draft boards so the War department can send us the men to fill your places."

"Congressmen wanted to be re-elected," he said, reminding the men that Congress has been under pressure from mothers "who want Johnny home."

The general, whose name was hissed and booed by the grumbling soldiers during a recent demonstration in his absence, called the conference upon his return from the four-power meeting in Berlin.

"I would prefer not to see these demonstrations," he said.

"I believe they have awakened people at home to your problems which they might not understand. I think a continuation would be harmful to our country."

Questioned by G. I.'s

During the ninety-minute talk, McNarney was bombarded with question after question by the G. I. conferees.

Many of the soldiers contended there was a surplus of men in Europe.

Cpl. Lloyd C. Owen, Jr., Kansas City, Mo., charged there were men in McNarney's own secretariat "not knowing wha[illegible]." Another asserted that [illegible] of WACS on bicycles could "[illegible]ce 12 military policemen in jeeps guarding an installation.

"You find these surplus men for me," the commander then enjoined the troops, "and we will send them home."

New Demonstration Possible

McNarney said that he personally would like to get all the men home immediately, but that the United States has European commitments to which it must adhere.

McNarney told the soldiers that while he believed their three-night series of demonstrations were harmful to American prestige among the other occupying powers, he did not necessarily believe they had had any important effect as yet on the Germans.

Before the conference, there were indications the soldiers planned their fourth straight night of demonstrations. The protest wave already had reached 3d Army headquarters at Bad Toelz, where 400 GI's held an orderly meeting and voted to send petitions to Congress.

McNarney Studies Demobilization

Frankfurt, Germany, Jan. 12 (AP). Gen. Joseph T. McNarney, United States commander in Europe, took up personally the problem of demobilization with his troops' today and asked them to discontinue their demonstrations because he felt they were damaging American prestige in the eyes of other occupation powers in Germany.

Returning from a meeting of the four-power Allied Council in Berlin, the European commander in chief summoned representatives of all his army units to explain the reasons for the slowdown in shipments home.

Soldiers Booed His Name

During his absence GI's massed on three successive nights in front of his headquarters here, booing his name and that of Secretary of War Patterson.

The numbers attending the demonstrations dwindled last night, however, after 50 representatives of 22,000 soldiers in the Frankfurt area held a question-and-answer session with McNarney's chief of staff, Maj. Gen. Harold Bull.

The protest, however, spread last night to 3d Army headquarters at Bad Toelz, where 400 soldiers held an orderly meeting, aired their grievances and voted to send a petition to congressmen and others.

Senators Pledge Help.

London, Jan. 12 (A. P.).—Senators Connally (D.-Tex.) and Vandenberg (R.-Mich.) today pledged intervention in Washington when a dozen G. I.'s appealed to them for help in speeding redeployment of U. S. troops to the United States.

JAN 13 1946

Connally, who received the delegation in his room at Claridge's Hotel, declared "I see no need to maintain troops here, [illegible] may be a skeleton force," and added:

"I think they (the War Department) are going to be a little more liberal from here on out."

Vandenberg, waiting in the lobby, while Connally talked with the delegation for twenty minutes, promised he would send a message home today to help their cause.

"I've been amazed at half a dozen particular individual cases since I've been here," Vandenberg said.

" I don't think there is any justification for your not having a target date you can count on. I think the minimum demand you have a right to insist on is a reasonable date to go home," he added.

Received By Mrs. Roosevelt

The soldiers obtained appointments with the two Senators after having been received yesterday by Mrs. Eleanor Roosevelt, who is serving with them on the delegation to the United Nations General Assembly.

Shanghai G. I.s Join Protest on Demobilization

Act Just After Wedemeyer Praises Them for Not Holding Demonstrations

Shanghai, Jan. 12 (AP)—Lieut. Gen. Albert C. Wedemeyer today told his China theater troops he was proud that they had not held demobilization speedup demonstrations. A short time later, 600 men and a few officers did, voicing send-us-home demands.

"Your sense of fairness and decency and your determination to reflect credit upon yourselves and your country during war and after V-J Day have won the admiration and respect of everyone," Wedemeyer said in a special message.

Pleas Given Senators

He said Americans are not in China to do a job for the Chinese but "we are here to do a job for our country, a job deemed vital by our government."

A committee of four carried the soldiers' pleas to two touring United States senators.

Meantime, in Manila, two privates reported they had 113,341 signatures on a petition to be sent to Congress.

General MacArthur's Tokyo headquarters said 6,248 personnel, chiefly enlisted men, would be started home over the week end and Lieut. Gen. Robert C. Richardson, Jr., in Honolulu announced a speedup to release an additional 6,000 men this month.

600 Demonstrate

Six hundred soldiers and a scattering of officers in the Shanghai area demonstrated before the American Club and at the race course after Wedemeyer's message had been released. Spokesmen asserted the need for American troops in China no longer exists. They also asked that draftees be speeded to China to replace veterans.

Senators Knowland (R., Cal.) and Tunnel (D., Del.) on a war surplus inspection tour, promised to relay the complaints to Congress.

Meeting Arranged

Later, Wedemeyer arranged to meet demonstration leaders in his office "so we can talk this over, man to man." He said there would be no intimidation and that the men could demonstrate if they remained orderly.

The General told correspondents: "the vast majority of my men do want to go home, but their approach to the problem is somewhat disappointing, because I would like my officers and enlisted men to come to me and put their problems before me squarely as man to man and ask my assistance. I felt I had created such a feeling in my theater."

Soldiers committees in Manila also have requested an audience with the senators when they reach that city.

General Richardson announced a lowering of discharge points from 50 to 48 and said that would qualify more than 6,000 for immediate release.

In Tokyo, General MacArthur instructed field commanders to send home unneeded men regardless of point scores.

MACARTHUR CUTS DISCHARGE SCORE FOR PACIFIC UNITS

Enlisted Men with 48 Points, Officers with 68 to Be Shipped Home.

M'NARNEY ISSUES PLEA

European Commander Urges Men to End Demonstrations, Hits Draft Boards.

TOKYO, Sunday, Jan. 13 — (AP) General MacArthur today ordered the immediate lowering of the discharge point score for Army officers and enlisted men under his command.

The point score for enlisted men were cut from 50 to 48. Additionally, those with three years and two months of service were made eligible for return to the United States.

Officers' points were reduced from 70 to 68, or three years and 11 months service.

The order affects all Army personnel in the Pacific who are under MacArthur. The order reiterated his declaration that "if possible, no ship is to return to the United States with an empty berth.'

Eighth Army headquarters said it would be announced later how many occupation troops in Japan would be affected by the liberalized point score. Those who will qualify will be moved to disposition centers in the order of their point scores as shipping and replacement depot facilities become available.

Army Denies Gag.

Manila, Jan. 12 (A. P.).—A protest by the staff of the Army newspaper Daily Pacifican that "our hands are now bound" by new supervisory measures brought an explanation today from Army authorities that the new policy was aimed at building up the Army rather than undermining it — but does not constitute gag rule.

In Shanghai Lieut.-Gen. Albert C. Wedemeyer today told his China theater troops he was proud that they had not held demobilization speedup demonstrations. A short time later, 600 men and a few officers did, voicing send-us-home demands similar to those made by other Yanks throughout the world.

Gen. MacArthur's Tokyo headquarters said 6,248 personnel, chiefly enlisted men, would be started home over the week end and Lieut.-Gen. Robert C. Richardson Jr. in Honolulu announced a speedup to release an additional 6,000 men this month.

GI's At India Base To Aid Troop Protest

Calcutta, Jan. 12 (AP)—United States soldiers at Panagarh air depot, 90 miles from here, pledged their support today to troops in Calcutta and Manila who have demonstrated in protest against the Army's redeployment program.

Approximately 1,500 men, meeting at the base theater last night, collected funds to promote advertisements publicizing complaints.

Col. Ned B. Chase, depot commanding officer, told the mass meeting that air-force headquarters in the theater was "working night and day to arrange for the disposal of surplus property."

Soldiers complained that the Army was mismananging troop transportation and property disposal and said Indian civilians should be employed to perform the less technical jobs of salvage disposal.

Others said the Army had failed to develop an educational and recreational program promised overseas troops and had substituted instead drills in formations and instructions in military subjects.

UNREST OF TROOPS ORIGINATES IN U.S., SAYS EISENHOWER

TORONTO, Ont., Jan. 12.—(AP) The wave of "bring them home" public opinion in the United States is blinding American occupation troops to the importance of the Allies' "unfinished task" in Germany and Japan, General Dwight D. Eisenhower told a news conference today.

Blaming this condition for much of the current unrest in the European and Pacific theaters, the former supreme Allied commander in Europe said:

"This campaign to bring the boys home gets back to the soldier and has a very definite influence on his attitude and morale. He thinks 'Well, if everyone says bring us on home we must not have much to do over here.'

"It's extremely difficult for a commanding officer—in the face of this kind of thing—to convince the men of the real importance of their assignment.

"If the democratic Allies believe that a good solid occupation of hostile territory is necessary it's up to us to keep our forces at reasonable strength."

Eisenhower reiterated he was doing everything possible to give the men who have "borne the brunt of battle a chance to go home," but said he could not make miracles.

Responding to a question, the chief of staff said the U. S. Army was in the midst of a vigorous recruiting drive but that "disintegration must pause before the possibilities of recruitment are realized."

He said it would be possible to reduce the American occupation armies in Germany to a small force to be dispatched to "trouble spots" as the policy of reestablishing responsibility with German authorities proceeded.

Germany's ability to wage war has been smashed for the time being but a look at the history of the German people demonstrates that "one cannot differ to change the will to wage war," Eisenhower added.

"We all have to get a consciousness that war is the worst tragedy that can befall the human race," Eisenhower said. "With the atomic era war presents even greater possibilities of horror and destruction. Scientists put the limit of atomic power at the destruction of the human race itself.

"We must insist that man adopt an international viewpoint. The greatest patriot today is the greatest ally. Nationalism with its concomitant isolationism must go. We must help other nations and reduce those frictions which bring war."

come the center of American life."

And from Munich: "We want home quick with none of the damned excuses."

The War and Navy departments are so desirous of talking back that they requested the joint House-Senate session be arranged to hear Eisenhower and Nimitz. This information came from a congressional leader.

The session is tentatively set for Tuesday morning in the auditorium of the Congressional Library.

Training Time Cut

Meanwhile, the Army cut the training period for new recruits in order to step up the flow of replacements to relieve service men overseas. The period was reduced from 17 weeks to 13.

Eisenhower also was reported to have cautioned all commands against giving veteran troops any retakes in basic or other elemental training just to keep them busy.

GI Complaints Still Pouring In To Congressmen

Washington, Jan. 12 (AP)—GI heat kept Capitol Hill uncomfortably warm today, despite the promise of a speedy airing of the whole demobilization situation.

Announcement that Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower and Admiral Chester W. Nimitz would discuss the problem before a joint Congressional session next Tuesday brought no immediate halt in the flow of angry cables and radiograms from overseas personnel.

"When the blazes is a tuba player considered essential for a fighting army?" one GI cabled a senator.

Excuses Assailed

A message from another from Guam: "Don't let the Pentagon be-on his desk, he produced such samples as:

"Dogs, horses, Hitler's silverware and GI brides get rides home but high-point men wait for weeks and months"—a soldier in Germany. "Let's get eligible high pointers home for discharge"—a WAC in France.

"We small brass want out too."—a homesick second lieutenant.

Johnson said most of the cables protest the Army is welching on promises to release men at the end of two years service. Others complain because fathers are being released; because low-point men in the United States have been freed; because men who have not been overseas are being released.

Some Have Many Names

Some cables carry scores of names. Others are from single soldiers. Many soldiers list their point totals along with total and overseas service. Quite a few are from officers, he said.

Thirteen "GI voters in Tokyo" offered: "Don't forget us and we won't forget you."

A combat infantryman in Austria was less polite. He asked: "What is going on in Washington. Get your traveling papers in order. If I ever get home you better travel fast and far."

"Congress got us in, how about getting us out," asked an entire company from Germany.

Senator Johnson did not expect what Eisenhower and Nimitz say Tuesday to eliminate need for a thorough congressional probe. He told a reporter: "We are after a lot of details and will go ahead with our inquiry."

Berlin Refugees' Barracks Built

Berlin, Jan. 12 (AP)—The United States military government today installed 500 Polish Jewish refugees who have infiltrated into the American sector of Berlin into a temporary camp and rushed construction of two more barracks in anticipation of caring for perhaps 2,500 additional refugees.

The 500 were part of the 2,000 Jews who moved out of the Russian sector of the city when the Russians sought to evacuate them to the Soviet occupation zone. Frankly anticipating that the entire number and perhaps others would apply for admission to the new camp, the Americans immediately started preparing additional facilities.

Labeled "Illegally Entered"

Col. Frank Howley, director of military government here, said the Americans held to the view that the refugees were not "displaced persons but illegally entered persons."

"But we can't do anything but take care of them temporarily until a policy is fixed on higher levels," he added. "For the present they can't move westward and they refuse to go back East."

Army trucks hauled the 500 refugees from their old lodging in a rickety pavilion to a camp in the Wannsee borough administered by a team from the United Nations Rehabilitation and Relief Administration.

They were given physicial examinations, and four persons were placed in each steam-heated room. They were being fed the current 2,300-calory ration for displaced persons, which will be reduced to 1,600 later.

"They are guests and can do anything they please," Howley said.

NaziReport Hints at Doping

Gestapo Prevented Autopsy on Van der Lubbe

BERLIN, Jan. 12 (AP).—Reports that Marinus van der Lubbe, who was executed as the arsonist in the fateful Reichstag fire of 1933, had been drugged by the Nazis at his trial gained credence today with the disclosure that the Gestapo took extraordinary pains to prevent an autopsy on his body.

Van der Lubbe's body first was given to the Leipzig University for experimental purposes, but when relatives presented a claim the body was hastily buried, according to a newly-discovered report of a Gestapo section chief. The report said the grave "presently is being guarded day and night," and that the body later would be cremated, "quietly and secretly."

All G. I.'s in 80th Now Out of Europe

Frankfurt, Jan. 12 (A. P.).—The entire Eightieth Infantry Division has now cleared the European Continent, the Army announced today. The Forty-second Field Hospital and two units of the Eighty-fourth Infantry Division, forced to return to Le Havre after two days at sea, sailed today aboard the Costa Rica Victory.

Big Armored Units Urged in Infantry

Army Board Findings Are Based on War Experience

Frankfurt, Germany, Jan. 12 (AP). An army general board formerly headed by the late Gen. George S. Patton, Jr., has recommended to the War Department the addition of large armored units to divisions it believes were not big enough or powerful enough in the European war.

In evaluating the western European campaign, the board found that infantry divisions were limited in independent operations by the fact that only tank units were attached to them.

Would Reduce Losses

The board advocated that large armored units be added as integral parts of infantry divisions to spearhead infantry assaults and reduce losses in manpower. This would make the new infantry division a bigger, more mobile, more flexible and more efficient force, a commentary from United States headquarters in the European theater said.

The board recommended also that the infantry's rifles and machine guns should be made lighter and that artillery units be enlarged to include more 155-mm. howitzers.

The present 105-mm. cannon was found to be unsatisfactory and the best anti-tank weapon was declared to be another tank. The board recommended that anti-tank companies be abolished and replaced by more tank units.

2,000 Germans Held in Death Of U.S. Airmen

Await Trial for Killing or Maltreating Flyers Shot Down During War

MINDEN, Germany, Jan. 12 (AP).—At least 2,000 Germans have been rounded up to await trial on charges of murdering or mistreating captured American airmen, an officer of the British war crimes section in the British occupation zone said today.

He estimated that 700 cases, involving the slaying or mistreatment of 1,500 American airmen who fell into the hands of German civilians, would be ready for military courts in the American zone within a few months.

"Teams of investigators working in the American, British and French zones have been collecting evidence and rounding up witnesses since the war ended," he said.

"It was decided that when all the cases were completed a series of trials would be held in the American zone," he said.

"The bodies of 100 American airmen have been found in crude graves throughout Germany and in nearly every case the murderers have been tracked down."

Nuernberg Witnesses Freed

NUERNBERG, Jan. 12 (AP).—Allied prosecutors disclosed today that twenty-three prospective witnesses—including one of Adolf Hitler's former secretaries and the widow and daughter of Gestapo Chief Heinrich Himmler—were removed recently from the Nuernberg jail.

Still In Custody

All those removed have been turned over to the United States 3d Army, and there was no immediate information on whether they would be freed. Presumably, however, the prosecutors decided none was needed to testify before the international tribunal.

Johanna Wolf was the second of Hitler's former secretaries to be turned over to military authorities. Christa Schroeder previously was removed from prison but it still in military custody.

Himmler's widow, Margarete, and his daughter, Gundrun, had been in custody since early summer, when they were arrested in northern Italy.

The disclosure marked the first time that the disposition of prisoners held as witnesses had been officially announced.

The international war-crimes tribunal held a closed session this morning and will resume trial proceedings Monday morning.

Orthodox Czechs Seek Moscow Link

Moscow, Jan. 12 (A. P.).—A six-man commission from Prague, headed by Bishop Administrator Chestemir Krachmar, applied today for inclusion of the Czecho-Slovak Orthodox Church within the Moscow patriarchy. The most recent figures available here show 11,000,000 Roman Catholics in Czecho-Slovakia, 1,000,000 Protestants and 145,000 of the Orthodox faith.

Spain In Negotiations On Expelling Germans

Madrid, Jan. 12 (AP)—Alberto Martin Artajo, Foreign Minister, said today Spain was negotiating with the United States and Britain on the expulsion and repatriation of some Germans in this country and confirmed reports that Don Juan, pretender to the Spanish throne, would visit Portugal.

In his first conference with foreign correspondents since he assumed office last July, Martin Artajo said the Belgian Government had asked that Leon de Grelle, Rexist leader, be turned over to Belgium to answer criminal charges. The case was reported referred to the Spanish council of state for action.

Beating of Norwalk Flyer Described by Pretty Nazi

NAPLES, Jan. 13—(AP) A Nazi S.S. major's pretty private secretary testified today at the war crimes trial of four Nazi officers that she witnessed brutal beatings administered to allied prisoners of war.

The pert, 24-year-old brunette typist, Christa Roy, who testified her unofficial duties included sharing a villa with her boss and seven other Nazis, said she took notes during a "strong examination" in which an American office of strategic services (OSS) Captain, Roderick Hall of South Norwalk Conn., was whipped by Germans in an attempt to make him divulge secrets.

The girl's former boss, S.S. Maj. August Schiffer, and three other officers are being tried for the murder of Hall.

The girl said she was called into the "examination" after a blonde gestapo interpreter, Mariana Schiffereger, left the room "because Mariana disliked to see prisoners beaten." The secretary said she also had witnessed beatings administered to two British soldiers who were suspended from a bar in the torture room. She denied any knowledge of the murder of the Britons and the American to which the prosecution has announced Schiffer already has confessed.

Swedish Reforms Asked

King Gustav Submits New Social Program to Parliament

STOCKHOLM, Jan. 12 (AP).—A program for further "social reform work" upon Sweden's economy, already highly socialized was presented yesterday to the Riksdag (Parliament) by King Gustav V.

The King said the Riksdag would receive proposals for compulsory sickness insurance, increased old-age pensions, a substantial extension of public support for mothers and children, including holidays for housewives and free school meals, and extended state support of housing.

Vishinsky Leaves Sofia, Is Returning to Moscow

Is Said to Seek Instructions Before Going On to London

SOFIA, Jan. 12 (AP).—Soviet Vice-Foreign Commissar Andrei I. Vishinsky left Sofia today for Moscow to receive what the Bulgarian Foreign Ministry described as "further instructions on U. N. O. and Balkan questions" before proceeding to the United Nations Assembly in London.

The Big Three foreign ministers agreed at Moscow last month on a broadening of the Bulgarian government. Carrying out the decision has been complicated, however, by the demands of opposition parties for election of a new Parliament.

Bulgarian Foreign Minister Petko Stainov said that Vishinsky's visit had resulted as yet in no positive results as far as Bulgaria was concerned.

Iranian Police Repel Invasion Of Iraq Nomads

Report Khorramshahr Push Stopped; Azerbaijan Is Calm After New Flare-Up

TEHRAN, Iran, Jan. 12 (AP).—National gendarmerie headquarters announced tonight that armed nomads had invaded the Iranian city of Khorramshahr from Iraq, but were driven back across the frontier. The announcement identified the tribesmen as followers of the Sheik of Khazal and said they had "forced themselves into a Khorramshahr estate of which the sheik had claimed ownership."

Khorramshahr, generally regarded as being in the British sphere of influence, is situated about ten miles northwest of the Iranian oil port of Abadan, and is only thirty miles from the Persian Gulf. The joined Tigris and Euphrates Rivers, flowing out of Iraq, and the Karun River, which drains west-cental Iran, meet at Khorramshahr.

In northern Iran, calm apparently had been restored after new outbreaks of violence were reported yesterday.

The American Embassy announced formally that Robert Rossow jr., American Consul at Tabriz, capital of Azerbaijan Province, had denied a Russian report that he had "offered the support of his government" to the head of the insurgent Democratic party regime in Azerbaijan.

Mannerheim May Resign

HELSINKI, Jan. 12 (AP).—Informed sources said today that Field Marshal Baron Carl Gustav Mannerheim was expected to resign soon as President of Finland. Mannerheim has been hospitalized for ulcers.

TOWN ON FRONTIER OF IRAN ATTACKED BY ARMED NOMADS

TEHRAN, Jan. 12. — (AP) Armed nomads from the south have invaded the Iranian town of Khorramshahr on the Iraq frontier and have been driven back into Iraq, the government announced today.

The Iranian people, jarred recently by the revolt in the north-western province of Azerbaijan, which resulted in proclamation of an autonomous national government of Iranian Azerbaijan, heard from their government that tribesmen identified as followers of the Shiek of Khazal had struck into the border town about 10 miles northwest of the Iranian oil port of Abadan. The town is on the Persian gulf, at the confluence of the Tigris and Euphrates river, flowing out of Iraq.

The announcement said national gendarmerie met the tribesmen who had "forced themselves into a Khorramshahr estate of which the shiek had claimed ownership."

Calm has been restored in Azerbaijan. Meanwhile, the United States embassy here officially denied a Russian report that American aid had been offered to the insurgent forces in the north, scene of recent fresh disorders.

The embassy said Robert Rossow, Jr., United States consul at Tabriz, capital of Azerbaijan, had denied the Russian report that he had offered the support of his government to Jafar Pishehvari, head of the insurgent democratic separatist government in Azerbaijan.

The embassy said the announcement was made after an exchange of messages with Rossow.

The report in question was published by Russian language newspapers and credited to the Baku (Soviet) radio. It had said the consul had congratulated Pishehvari as "head of the new government" and offered him "aid and the moral support of the United States government."

No new information was available concerning recent outbreaks in Zenjan and Chalus earlier this week, in which two insurgents were reported killed and five wounded.

Clashes Reported Near Soerabaja

Batavia, Java, Jan. 12 (AP)—British authorities said today that two Indian soldiers were killed and two wounded in a series of clashes between British and Indonesian forces southwest of Soerabaja, Dutch naval base.

Another Indian soldier was wounded while on patrol duty at Bandoeng, Java's summer capital. The British said Indonesian forces had fired four mortar shells into southern Semarang but that there were no casualties.

END OF FIGHTING ORDERED TONIGHT BY CHINA LEADERS

CHUNGKING, Jan. 12 — (AP) The guns of China's civil conflict were ordered silenced throughout the nation by midnight Sunday, a government spokesman announced today.

The cease fire order, halting five months of sporadic gunplay since Japan's fall, was issued as the government shaped new compromise offers to lay before China's unity conference now in session.

Gen. Chang Chun, the government's truce negotiator, said Generalissimo Chiang Kai-Shek advised his armies Thursday they must cease fire before midnight Sunday, granting leeway so that the orders could reach the most remote points.

Chou En-Lai, the Communist negotiator, announced that similar orders had been issued by the Communist headquarters at Yenan.

General Chang made his announcement before the unity session, known as the political consultative conference, and said the three-man commission to enforce terms of the truce would reach Peiping Sunday.

Members are Walter Robertson, U. S. Charge d'affaires; Gen. Cheng Chieh-min, representing the government, and Gen. Yeh Chien-Ying, chief of staff of the Communist armies.

The unity conference unanimously adopted a resolution thanking Gen. George C. Marshall, special U. S. envoy to China, for his help in arranging the truce, then adjourned until Monday.

The conference selected a commission of eight to visit the former fronts to observe conditions. Madame Feng Yu-Hsiang, wife of China's "Christian General," was appointed after Madame Chou En-Lai, wife of the Communist leader, urged the inclusion of women on the commission.

[A Yenan broadcast, heard by Associated Press monitors in San Francisco, said the Emancipation Daily, central organ of the Communist party, headlined its leading editorial: "Peace Realized."

Compared To Jap Surrender

["The rejoicing with which the Chinese people receive the Kuomintang-Communist cease-fire order is no less than the Japanese surrender announcement," it added.

[John Roderick, Associated Press correspondent, in a dispatch from Yenan said many high officials there expressed the view "that finally China has come to her senses and after nearly two decades of internal bickering has set her feet on the path to unity and independence."]

The Government delegation to the unity conference was at work on its plan to broaden the present one-party government to include other parties.

Chou, who heads the Communist delegation, declined to comment on the plan until it was formally submitted to the conference.

Assembly Compromise Ready

The Government also had ready a compromise on the thorny question of calling the national assembly to draft a new constitution, Dr. Sun Fo, president of the Legislative Yuan (council) said.

Sun said the plan was for the assembly to meet as scheduled May 5, then dissolve later and be replaced by a new freely elected assembly within six months after dissolution.

The Communists have objected to convening of the assembly before an election, saying it would be packed by Government delegates chosen before the outbreak of the war with Japan.

Chou assured the unity conference that the Communists were ready to talk compromise on yet another knotty problem, the union of the government and Communist armies.

He said that if a concrete plan were worked out for reorganization and nationalization of the armies, the Communists would not press for more than twenty divisions allotted them under last October's pact.

Peiping Becomes Truce Site

Chungking, Jan. 12 (AP)—A three-member commission created to implement the truce in China's civil strife plans to fly to Peiping tomorrow to establish executive headquarters.

Gen. Chang Chun, Central Government representative who negotiated the truce with the Chinese Communists' Gen. Chou Enlai in the presence of General Marshall, announced the commission's plans at today's session of the Political Consultation Conference.

American In Charge

Truce commissioners are Gen. Cheng Chieh-min, of the National Government; Gen. Yeh Chien-ying, of the Communists, and Walter Robertson, United States charge d'affaires in Chungking.

Chang told the conference that Col. Henry A. Byroade, new American military attache, would be chief of staff at the headquarters in Peiping with authority to execute various orders and assign inspection groups at different points.

He said Generalissimo Chiang Kai-shek had ordered all government military units to cease fire before midnight tomorrow. This much leeway was given to enable the order to reach remote points. Chou said similar orders had been issued by the Communist high command at Ydnan.

200,000 Japs Still Armed

Chou urged that a time limit be set for disarmament of Japanese troops in China. He estimated that 200,000 are still armed, including a number "surrounded by Communists."

Measures for disbanding puppet troops and punishing those who stimulated civil war also were urged by the Communist general.

He assured the conference that if concrete plans for reorganization of the Chinese army were decided, the Communists would not press for more than the 20 divisions allotted them under an agreement with the National Government October 10.

Delegates Kept Informed

Both Chou and Chang told the 38 conference delegates, representing China's various political factions, of the negotiations leading to the truce agreement.

Formal plans for broadening the Chinese Government to include other parties are being drafted for submission to the Political Conference, said Dr. Sun Fo, president of the legislative council and son of the late Dr. Sun Yat-sen, founder of the Chinese Republic.

Yenan Satisfied

Yenan, Jan. 11 [AP—Delayed]—This Chinese Communist capital today received news of the civil strife truce and Chiang Kai-shek's pledge of freedom and democracy for China with quiet but apparently intense satisfaction.

There were no celebrations or demonstrations.

NEW APPOINTEES FILL VACANCIES IN JAPANESE CABINET

TOKYO, Jan. 12—(AP) The Kyodo news agency:

Sempachi Soejima, 64, agriculture and forestry minister. He formerly was chairman of the board of Tokyo's Stock exchange.

Chuzo Mitsuchi, 74, concurrently home minister and minister of transportation. He replaces the two ministers who resigned these portfolios.

Yoshishige Abe, 65, minister of education.

Wataru Narahashi, chief cabinet secretary.

Akiyochi Tajiri, 49, deputy chief cabinet secretary.

ter, Kyodo said. He also will serve as Tranportation Minister. He succeeds Zenjiro Horikiri as Home Minister and Takao Tanaka as transportation chief.

Yoshishige Abe, 65, one of Japan's outstanding students of philosophy, was reported named to the Education Ministry, and Wataru Narahashi, formerly president of the board of legislation, as chief Cabinet secretary. They succeed Tamon Maeda and Daisaburo Tsugita, respectively.

Matsumoto Reappointed

Kyodo said Dr. Joji Matsumoto was reappointed minister without portfolio. Presumably the Government plans to ask Allied permission for him to remain in office.

Mitsuchi, between 1927 and 1932, served variously as Minister of Finance, Communications, Railways and Education. He was elected to the House of Representatives eleven times and was appointed to the Privy Council in 1940.

Press Comment Caustic

Japan's press caustically greeted news of the resignations.

The newspaper Mainichi said the Cabinet should have resigned en bloc and added: "All the people think so too."

Shidehara, recalled from virtual obscurity to head the Government after Japan's fall, long has been out of touch with political affairs, Mainichi asserted, and "has failed because trying to rule on an old ideal."

By Cabinet decision, Shidehara is expected to remain in office pending efforts to form a Cabinet acceptable to General MacArthur.

Annamite Leader Reports Bribe Offer

French, Denying Any Such Move, Say They Know Chief of Indo-Chinese Rebels Is Incorruptible.

S. Swinton

Hanoi, Indo China, Jan. 11 (Delayed).—Ho Chi Minh, mystery man of the Annamite revolutionary movement and president of the unrecognized republic of Viet Nam, declared in an interview today that he had been offered a bribe of 2,000,000 piastres ($285,777) if he would give up his fight for Indo-Chinese independence. His revolutionary government is flourishing undisturbed by the Chinese occupation authorities. Ho declared that he had not only refused the bribe but that his people "are ready to fight."

The slight, bearded President, who also heads the powerful Left-wing Viet Minh party, did not say specifically on whose behalf the bribe had been offered, and an official French spokesman declared that if Ho was suggesting that the French had made the offer, his statement was absolutely false.

"We've known Ho Chi Minh as an opponent for ten years and he is not a man to be bribed," the spokesman commented.

Ho expressed the hope that the United Nations would intervene in Indo-China and stop bloodshed.

"We will fight as guerrillas with what we have," he declared. "When we fought the Japanese we used knives and native-made guns. Nobody will bring freedom to you. You must fight for it."

He admitted that the Viet Nam army was small and badly equipped and had no pilots for its air force of two small planes.

storm-tossed Shidehara cabinet lightened by the resignation of five ministers and a deputy chief cabinet secretary completed its reorganization tonight.

The six officials who walked the political plank in obedience to General MacArthur's directive purging ultra-nationalists from the government were replaced by new men, and the mended cabinet awaited only the return of ailing Premier Kijuro Shidehara to resume its delicate task of governing under foreign control.

Shidehara, aged 72, is recovering from pneumonia. He is expected to be at his desk again next Tuesday.

The Japanese press commented caustically on the developments. The newspaper Mainichi said the whole cabinet should have resigned, and declared that Shidehara "has failed because he is trying to rule on an old ideal." Asahi editorially accused the Shidehara regime of favoring the upper classes in its approach to the vital problem of the people's livelihood.

The consensus of the press was that the patched cabinet would continue the conservative, nonpartisan policies of the old setup.

Emphasizing one of the problems the reconstructed cabinet will have on its hands, several thousand municipal employes marched into Tokyo metropolitan headquarters today demanding a 300 per cent wage boost to keep up with the skyrocketing cost of living. Men in the municipal service currently receive 170 yen ($11.33) monthly, and women 50 yen ,$3.33).

The new men taken into the cabinet included, according to

Japs Complete Reorganizing Of Cabinet

Tokyo, Jan. 12 (AP)—Premier Kijuro Shidehara's Cabinet completed its reorganization tonight by filling six vacancies.

The Japanese press reported that the five new officials—one will serve in two Ministries—will perpetuate the Government's conservative, nonpartisan complexion.

Kyodo News Agency said the three new Ministers and two lesser Cabinet officials will be installed tomorrow at a ceremony within the imperial palace.

Seeking Allied Approval

First, however, approval will be obtained from Allied headquarters, the agency added.

The reorganization was completed with the appointment of Sempaichi Soejima, 64, as Agriculture and Forestry Minister to replace Kenzo Matsumura, Soejima formerly was chairman of the board of the Tokyo Stock Exchange and once held a high position in the Agriculture Ministry.

Director Of Board

Takeshige Ishguro, 48, former chief secretary of the Privy Council, was named director of the board of legislation.

Akiyochi Tajiri, identified by Kyodo as former Japanese minister to the Philippines, was named deputy chief cabinet secretary, succeeding Shigeo Miyoshi. Tajiri was counsellor in the Japanese Embassy in China in 1940.

Mitsuchi Is Home Minister

Chuzo Mitsuchi, 74, member of the Privy Council and veteran Government official, was named to the important post of Home Min-

Three Japanese Will Be Tried on Murder Charge

TOKYO, Jan. 12 (AP)—A sentry slain with his own bayonet on Dec. 19 was identified today by 8th Army Headquarters as Private First Class Robert C. Young, of Syracuse. Headquarters announced three Japanese would be tried soon on murder charges.

Young was killed while attempting to prevent a trio from raiding a government storehouse at Sapporo, on Hokkaido Island. Japanese police said one of the three suspects has confessed.

CHENNAULT IN CHINA

CHUNGKING, Jan. 12—(AP) Quietly and unobtrusively, Maj. Gen. Claire L. Chennault slipped into Chungking last night to become, it is rumored, adviser to Chiang Kai-Shek.

His arrival was so unobserved it could not be confirmed until today.

Chennault, as commander of the famed Flying Tigers and later the U. S. 14th air force, did much to protect free China from Japanese air raids. He returned to China as a private citizen.

PATTERSON VISITS KOREA

Soldiers There Raise a Protest Fund—New Military Governor

SEOUL, Korea, Jan. 12 (AP)—Secretary of War Robert P. Patterson arrived today from Tokyo by air and conferred with Lieut. Gen. John R. Hodge, Commander of United States Forces in Korea.

It was announced during the day that Maj. Gen. Archer L. Lerch has taken over the duties of Military Governor of Worea. He relieved Maj. Gen. A. V. Arnold, acting Governor, who returned to command of the Seventh Infantry Division.

United States soldiers in Korea have raised a fund of $2,100 to buy advertisements in The Washington Post protesting the slowness of demobilization. The fund committee was headed by Sergt. Alexander Roberts of New York, forme Acme photographer, now a combat cameraman, who won the bronze star on Ie Island last April for leading litter bearers under fire to the body of Ernie Pyle.

'Death March' Bodies Found

Manila, Jan. 12 (AP)—Bodies of Americans slain by the Japanese during the Death March from Bataan still are being recovered as testimony of the 1942 brutalities, a graves registration officer testified today at the trial of Lieut. Gen. Masaharu Homma.

Victoriano Alabado, Methodist minister who has been assisting in the task, testified that among bodies recovered was that of Major James N. Vaughn, who earlier witnesses said was brutally slain by Japanese guards.

Was Seeking His Son

Homma, former Japanese commander in the Philippines, is charged with responsibility for mass atrocities. Previous witnesses testified he personally ordered the slaying of Allied prisoners.

Alabado testified that he went along the route of the death march in 1942 seeking a son who was in the Philippine Army.

"I saw sights I do not like to remember," he said.

Rich Chinese Kidnapped

Manila, Jan. 12 (AP)—Kidnappings of wealthy Chinese are on the increase in Manila.

At least three rich merchants were carried away recently. One still is missing, military police records show. Families of the other two were forced to pay ransoms of 20,000 and 25,000 pesos ($10,000 and $12,500) respectively.

Chinese sources say other kidnappings are unreported for fear of reprisals.

Manila, Jan. 12 (AP)—Filipino military police today reported a clash with a lawless band in Nueva Ecija province. They said they killed four and arrested 60 of the gang.

Philippine army casualties were not disclosed.

ARGENTINA FACES BUSINESS HOLIDAY

All Industry, Commerce to Shut Down in Protest Against Wage Decree

BUENOS AIRES, Jan. 12.—(AP) A complete shutdown of all commerce and industry in Argentina for three days beginning Sunday midnight was announced by the permanent committee of manufacturers, industrialists and businessmen today in protest against the government's bonus and wage increase decree.

The announcement came after a cabinet meeting presided over by President Gen. Edelmiro Farrell postponed consideration of the employers' demand for a substantial modification of the decree, issued Dec. 30.

Bonus to All

Under the decree Christmas bonuses and pay increases, amounting generally to 25 per cent of payrolls, were ordered granted virtually all the workers in the country.

The shutdown was voted after businessmen, in conferences with government officials, failed to move Farrell's administration from its position that the decree must be carried out.

The number of firms affected was not immediately known. Spokesmen for the businessmen's committee said all 3,000 firms belonging to the industrial union, which is the Argentine Manufacturers' association, would close their doors.

Stores Will Close

Grocery stores also will be shut down, as will most restaurants and bars, it was said, and there will be a complete closing of the country's important meat packing industry.

A shutdown already existed in the principal stores and shops in Buenos Aires. Some had striking clerks inside protesting because the employers ignored the decree.

A stevedores' strike greatly reduced port activities in the capital.

Political opponents of Col. Juan Peron have described him as the chief beneficiary of the decree. There has been speculation that the Farrell regime issued the order in a bid for labor votes for Peron's candidacy for the presidency.

ARGENTINES CLOSE STORES IN PROTEST

Buenos Aires, Jan. 12 (A. P.).—A committee of manufacturers' industrialists and businessmen announced today that all commerce and industry in Argentina would be completely shut down for three days beginning on Sunday at midnight. The employers announced that they were taking the action in protest against the refusal of President Gen. Edelmiro Farrell's Government to modify its decree ordering year-end bonuses and wage increases for virtually all employees in the country.

The largest stores in Buenos Aires remained closed. Some had striking clerks inside protesting because the employers had ignored the decree.

Argentina Scores U.S. Pact Stand

Buenos Aires, Jan. 12 (AP)—Foreign Minister Juan Cooke, countering charges by Acting United States Secretary of State Dean Acheson, asserted today that United States refusal to join in a hemisphere military treaty with Argentina was "not democratic."

Cooke denied an assertion by Acheson that Argentina had done nothing to fulfill her pledges to deport "obnoxious" Germans to their fatherland.

The Minister said that Argentina was doing her utmost to get rid of such Germans and that 100 convicted Nazi spies and 700 former crew members of the German pocket battleship Graf Spree would be deported soon.

Declines To Give Data

The spies and sailors, he said, will be sent to Germany aboard a North American merchantman. He declined to give the exact date of their departure, but hinted that it might coincide with the arrival here of the British cruiser Ajax, now en route from Malta.

The Graf Spee was scuttled off Montevideo in December, 1939, and her crew has been in Argentina since that time.

In reference to a statement by Acheson at a press conference in Washington yesterday that the United States will not join any hemisphere military treaty if the present Argentine Government participates, Cooke said:

"Argentina is a member of the United Nations and if a defense pact is planned for this hemisphere it is necessary for all countries to sign."

Attending Rio Parley

The Foreign Minister added that Argentina planned to participate in the Rio de Janeiro conference March 15, but would not present a defense treaty.

Cooke said he would make a radio speech next week on Argentina's foreign policy, in what observers believe will be an answer to recent statements by Spruille Braden, fromer United States Ambassador to Buenos Aires and now Assistant Secretary of State for Latin-American affairs.

MILITARY CABINET WILL RULE HAITI

Junta Forms Six-Man Group —New Disorders Raise Death Toll

PORT-AU-PRINCE, Haiti, Jan. 12—(AP) The military junta tonight formed a six-man military cabinet to rule Haiti after four more persons had been killed in another day of the disorders which brought about the ouster of President Elie Lescot. The death toll since the uprising began a week ago was estimated at 25.

Mobs sacked and fired homes, stores and factories of Lescot supporters during the day while light tanks and armored scout cars patrolled the city attempting to restore order. The four were killed in a melee when a crowd broke into a jewelry store, smashed showcases and carried off loot.

Consult Several Factions

The three-man junta decided to form the cabinet after a lengthy consultation with numerous political factions seeking posts in the government. A decree issued shortly afterwards said the multicipli-city of parties made the formation of a national union cabinet "impossible" at this time.

Ominous portents of trouble emerged today with the appearance of a liberal civilian-led Committee of Public Safety which refused to accept the dominance of the three-man junta. New outbursts of violence were reported.

Crowds were said to have put the torch to the residence of the former minister of information and police, Gontran Rouzier.

Business houses which had reopened their doors warily closed them again as the swelling crowd resumed looting.

Lescot's hilltop mansion was empty. It was believed the President and his family either were aboard a ship which slipped quietly into port last night, or else had been hurried away by army men to a hideout where Lescot would await trial and probable exile.

Promise Free Elections

The junta, made up of Col. Frank Lavaud, Maj. Antoine Levelt and Maj. Paul E. Magloire, set itself up in the Haitian garde headquarters which adjoins the presidential palace. They promised a widely representative junta cabinet which would rule until free election could be held, guaranteed the safety of Haitian and foreign institutions, and pledged "all freedoms necessary for establishing an entirely democratic government."

The leftist front Democratique Unitie, the first political party to appear on the scene here in years, still withheld its support from the junta, but reports from the rest of this tiny, mountainous republic indicated a large popular majority favored the change.

Lescot failed yesterday to resolve the crisis brought on by four days of general strikes which paralyzed the nation. His promised broadcast at 1 p. m. failed to materialize. Troops wavered, then threw their support with the public, which swept unchecked through the streets roaring: "He is gone."

Three hours later Lescot resigned and the junta arrested some 200 of his supporters. The crowd, joined by scores of newly liberated political prisoners staged exuberant demonstrations.

Sporadic shooting echoed through the capital, sharply punctuating the incessant beat of native drums in the distance. The crowds tore branches from palm trees and shouted of liberty as they surged through moonlit streets.

To Frame New Constitution

One of the problems facing the new Government will be the framing of a new constitution. Under the present form of government the President was elected by the senators and deputies, who in turn had taken their orders from Lescot, who was elected in 1940 to a five-year term. In 1944 the legislators had extended Lescot's term another seven years, after he had served three.

Lescot's regime was looked upon by many as dictatorial. Two previous attempts to unseat him resulted in bloody purges. Hundreds of his political opponents were jailed during his regime, and Haitians suffered extreme shortages of food and other necessities.

Haiti Civilian Party Opposing Army Junta

Port-au-Prince, Jan. 12 (AP)—A liberal, civilian-led committee of public safety refused today to accept the rule of a three-man military junta which overthrew the dictatorial regime of President Elie Lescot and the celebrating Haitians engaged in new disorders and looting.

The leftist Democratique Unitie—the first political party to appear on the Haitian scene in years—withheld support of the junta, but reports from the rest of the French-speaking, mountainous republic indicated that a tremendous majority favored the overthrow of the Lescot government.

However the junta appeared to be in control of the Government for the time being.

General Strike Ended

Singing, drum-beating celebrants were reported to have set fire to the residence of the former Minister of Information and Police Gontran Rouzier. Some business houses again were closed after stores were looted. The four-day general strike which had paralyzed communications, transport and industry had ended, however.

This Caribbean capital's crippled police force strove to keep order as crowds in some sections of the city began taking apart frame houses. Donkey-riding citizens were seen carrying off doors, pieces of walls and roofs.

chants celebrated the overthrow of the old Government. An estimated 15 to 20 persons had been killed and 100 wounded.

Lescot had been in power nearly five years. His hilltop mansion was empty today and it was believed the former strong man and his family either were aboard a ship or else had been hustled away by the army to a hideout within the country to await trial and ultimate exile.

The junta, which seized power yesterday afternoon, had announced that Lescot was under house arrest. The ragged crowds which participated in the demonstrations had shouted: "Down with Lescot the tyrant!"

Son Out Of Power, Too

Going out of power with Lescot was his son, Gerard, who was Foreign Minister in the overthrown Cabinet.

In the rioting, 10,000 stormed police headquarters, demanding punishment of an army lieutenant charged with beating a group of women. When police asserted that the lieutenant was not in custody, the crowd demanded that another officer, accused of killing an unarmed man, be surrendered.

Junta Plans New Cabinet

The revolutionary junta, headed by Col. Frank Lavaud, Major Antoine Levelt and Major Paul Ma Gloire, said it planned to form a new cabinet today and would guarantee the "four freedoms." The present Congress, which supported Lescot, will be dissolved and new elections will be held.

Approximately 200 supporters of Lescot were reported arrested, replacing in the jails hundreds of freed political prisoners.

The revolutionary movement gained headway Monday, when 5,000 students stormed the Ministry of Information building demanding freedom of the press, following the closing January 4 of La Ruche, a youth organization weekly.

Troops Join Movement

Lescot's six-man cabinet resigned Thursday and his attempts to form a new one were unsuccessful. When he failed to make an announced radio speech yesterday, 5,000 Government troops, supported by five tanks, joined the revolutionary movement.

A former Haitian minister to Washington, Lescot succeeded Stenio Vincent as president May 15, 1941. He was reelected in 1944 by the National Assembly for a seven-year term. His opponents claimed that this action was unconstitutional, and that his legal mandate should expire May 15, 1946.

Steel Strike Postponed; Deadlock Holds in W-E Pay Talks

JAN 13 1946

NEW CONFERENCE CALLED FOR STUDY OF LATEST OFFERS

President's Entry Into Wage Fight Brings Swift Development.

MURRAY, FAIRLESS MEET

White House Session Comes After Breakdown of Discussions in New York.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 12. — (AP) Personal intervention by President Truman brought a one-week postponement today of the nationwide steel strike scheduled for 12:01 a. m. Monday.

It also produced new offers, of a nature not announced, from both United States Steel corporation, bellwether of the industry, and the C.I.O.-United Steelworkers who had planned to shut down the mills in support of their demand for higher pay.

Confident of Agreement

Mr. Truman expressed confidence that an agreement will be reached, and the White House announced that the parties will be brought together there again next Wednesday at 2 p. m. Eastern Standard Time.

Announcement of the delay came at the end of a four-hour closed-door session in the executive mansion, called by the President last night when wage negotiations broke down in New York. It also followed separate meetings by the President in his offices with Philip Murray, president of the steelworkers, and Benjamin F. Fairless, president of U. S. Steel. The general conference was held in the cabinet room across a corridor from the President's office.

Collective bargaining will continue next week under the supervision of the President.

Nathan P. Feinsinger, chairman of the President's steel fact finding board, announced that board hearings, originally planned for Tuesday, would be postponed until Thursday as the result of Murray's action.

The break in the strike threat came at 6:29 p. m.

Murray Announces Delay

Murray, showing the strain of the past few days of negotiations, announced to waiting reporters that he had agreed personally to postpone the walkout of 800,000 steel workers and would come back to the White House for more conferences Wednesday. He said he did it "at the request of the President."

As Murray made the announcement, Fairless stood tense at his side. He concurred in Murray's explanation of the development.

Minutes later Charles G. Ross, Presidential press secretary, read the Presidential statement, which had been approved by Murray and Fairless in advance.

Mr. Truman explained that the conference had been attended by Reconversion Director John W. Snyder, Secretary of Labor Schwellenbach and Dr. John R. Steelman, special assistant to the President.

The President disclosed that the corporation had made an offer, presumably better than the 15-cent hourly increase proposed prior to the breakdown of negotiations in New York. Murray, he said, then countered with a proposal on behalf of the union. One conferee suggested to reporters it would be fair to assume that Murray's proposition was "better" than the 19 1-2 cents an hour to which Murray had agreed in New York yesterday.

The union's original demand was for a $2 a day increase. Murray dropped this to $1.56 yesterday, compared to the company's counterproposal of $1.20 increase. Both Murray and Fairless, as well as Ross, declined to say what was offered today.

Seeks More Time

The President said Fairless had asked for more time to present the proposition to the steel companies, of which there are some 275 in the iron or steel producing end of the industry alone.

Mr. Truman in his statement said the president of the U. S. Steel corporation "could not speak definitely for his own company or the other companies on the counter-proposal of Mr. Murray," and had asked for more time.

Mr. Truman concluded his statement with the optimistic declaration that:

"It is my belief that an agreement will be reached."

The conference break came at about 6 o'clock. Ross explained, after which the president called in Fairless and Murray separately.

Ross said the President had told each that he "wanted this strike settled."

After the President's statement was drawn up he asked Murray and Fairless into his office again and read the statement to them, Ross said, and they agreed to it.

Arrange Wednesday Meeting

Ross added that the union and management chiefs then arranged between themselves for another meeting in the cabinet room at 2 p. m. Wednesday, with the same conferees participating for the union, industry, and government.

As the meeting began a highly placed official told a reporter that the price of steel overshadowed all other questions involved.

The official, who could not be quoted by name, said that as of that time there was "no sign of a break that would indicate a settlement."

He said the lineup was this as the administration put on pressure to head off a walkout that could gravely affect the nation's whole economy.

The steel companies demanding $7 a ton but talking amicably with government officials who were wishing to go as high as $4.50.

John W. Snyder, director of war mobilization and reconversion, and some others, favoring the $4.50 figure.

Chester Bowles, price administrator, with reported backing from John C. Collet, director of economic stabilization, contending that the limit is around $3 if inflation is to be avoided, and refusing to give an inch.

President Truman uncommitted so far.

Associates said Secretary of Labor Lewis B. Schwellenbach did not want to link prices to a wage increase at all, on account of the possible effect in future pay cases.

The anonymous official said heavy pressure was being put on Bowles and Collet, but he emphasized that there was no prospect they would resign to make way for the bigger price hike.

Collet and Bowles spent a part of the day in conference together, but neither had anything to say publicly on the nature of their conversations.

Some Steel Plants Cut Production

PITTSBURGH, Jan. 12—(AP) Formal orders for a one-week postponement of the steel strike were dispatched from here tonight by the C.I.O.-United Steel Workers as some steel officials expressed doubt that full production could be resumed Monday.

Several companies, however, said they expected normal operations. But a spokesman for U. S. Steel corporation, the world's largest producer, pointed out that the slow down of operations in anticipation of the walkout which had been scheduled tomorrow midnight could not be overcome by that time.

News of the postponement, announced in Washington by President Philip Murray of the union at the request of President Truman, brought mixed expression in the industry.

Pittsburgh Plants Curtailed

U. S. Steel said here that curtailment operations had gone so far in subsidiary plants in the Pittsburgh area, anticipating a strike at midnight tomorrow, that it was uncertain just how long it would take to restore production.

Representatives of some other companies expressed confidence operations would be resumed quickly.

Jones & Laughlin Steel Corp., at Pittsburgh, one of the country's largest producers, which had not curtailed despite the threat strike, was ready for full operations.

Spokesman for union and management in the Alabama steel field said they saw no reason why plants in that state could not operate normally Monday.

Republic Steel Corp., in Ohio, instructed all its plants to continue "nomal operations" but Youngstown Sheet and Tube Co., in the same area, said three or four days would be required to return to normal.

Strikes at four mills in scattered sections, called in advance of the scheduled nationwide strike because of local grievances, had kept several thousand workers from their jobs today.

A union representative indicated at least one of these would remain closed despite the postponement. This was the Bethlehem Steel corporation's works at Buffalo, N. Y., where 11,000 men quit last night in a dispute over maintenance plans for the walkout.

18 Pct. Pay Boost Favored By Oil Fact-Finding Panel

Board Trims Union Demand for 30 Per Cent Increase.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 12—(AP) A general wage increase of 18 per cent was recommended today by a Presidential fact-finding board, for some 25,000 C.I.O. oil workers.

Under the proposed boost, the average hourly pay of the workers would go from $1.20 to $1.40 per hour. The union had asked 30 per cent. The board said no compensating price in oil would be necessary.

• Most of the major refineries and pipelines in the nation are at present under Navy control, having been seized last October to avert a fuel shortage on Navy ships when Federal efforts at conciliation of the wage dispute broke down.

Agreements Reached Earlier

Some of the companies, in the meantime have reached private agreements with the union on the 18 per cent basis.

Today's recommendations came from a three-man fact-finding board, the first appointed under President Truman's plan to try to solve labor difficulties under that procedure.

Secretary of Labor Schwellenbach, who announced the finding, called it "sound and fair."

The board said the principal factors considered in arriving at its 18 per cent recommendation were increases in the cost of living; the reduction in take-home pay which will result in a return to the 40 hour week; the general financial condition of the industry, and the ability of the companies to pay the wage increases without a price boost.

"In the judgement of the panel," the group added, "the earnings of the workers must be as high as is consistent with both the maintenance of the stability of the price structure and the provision for reasonable returns to the owners of industry."

Navy Controls 33 Refineries

Of the 53 oil properties orginally taken over by the Navy under a Presidential directive, the Navy is in possession of 33 refineries and three pipe lines.

Members of the oil fact-finding board were Frank P. Graham, chairman; Paul Eliel, and Otto S. Beyer.

Schwellenbach commented in a statement that:

"The recommendations proposed by the panel provide a basis for the speedy conclusion of collective bargaining between the parties so that the plants and facilities may be released promptly to their owners by the Navy."

Summary of Oil Fact-Finding Report

WASHINGTON, Jan. 12 (AP)—The Labor Department today issued the following official summary of the Presidential fact-finding panel's report in the oil workers dispute:

An increase of 18 per cent in wages in the oil industry was recommended today to Secretary of Labor Schwellenbach by the oil panel appointed by him to investigate and report on the dispute over wage rates to be paid upon the resumption of the forty-hour work week.

The recommendation would increase average hourly pay of the employes affected from $1.20 per hour to $1.41 per hour. The Navy still is in control of plants of twenty-three companies.

Contracts providing for an 18 per cent increase have already been signed by the Sinclair Oil Company and several other companies with the Oil Workers International Union, CIO, to be effective upon the return to the forty-hour work week. Hearings before the panel composed of Frank P. Graham, chairman, Paul Eliel and Otto S. Beyer were concluded on Tuesday night, Jan. 8, 1946.

The principal factors considered by the panel in arriving at its 18 per cent recommendation were increases in the cost of living as compared with increases in average straight time hourly earnings between January, 1941, and July, 1945; the extent of reduction in take-home pay which will result from a reduction in the work week to forty hours and the general financial condition of the industry; and the ability of the oil companies to pay the recommended increase without a price increase.

The panel made the following findings of facts and recommendations:

1. The average straight-time hourly earnings of the workers in thirty-three seized petroleum plants for which data were available, were 119.6 cents.

2. The petroleum industry is admittedly a high wage industry. The average gross hourly earnings of all manufacturing industries in July, 1945, was 103.3 cents per hour. As of the same date the average gross hourly earnings of the petroleum industry was 128.1 cents per hour.

3. The actual work week as of July, 1945, averaged 45.4 hours, and, on the basis of a schedule work week of 40 hours, the hours actually to be worked, according to a reasonable estimate, will average 39.1.

4. To the worker, whose average straight-time hourly earnings were 119.6 cents, this decline in hours would mean a drop in average weekly earnings from $58.36 to $47.77 or 18.1 per cent.

5. To restore these earnings through a change in basic wage rates would require an increase of 22 per cent.

6. Between January, 1941, and July, 1945, the straight-time average hourly earnings in the oil establishments which reported to the Bureau of Labor Statistics increased 21.6 per cent.

7. The regulations of the Office of Stabilization Administrator state that, for wage stabilization purposes, the percentage increase in the cost of living since January, 1941, "shall be deemed to be 33 per cent."

8. An average wage increase of 9.5 per cent is required to compensate the workers in this dispute, as a group, for the difference between the increase in their straight-time average hourly earnings and the increase in the cost of living since January, 1941.

9. A combination of considerations—less premium overtime pay, higher productivity, and settlements already negotiated through collective bargaining—indicates that an amount in excess of that due because of the increase in the cost of living should be granted.

10. This additional increase which, in the judgment of the panel, will be just and reasonable, should be 8.5 per cent beyond the 9.5 per cent clearly due as a cost of living adjustment, thus making a total increase of 18 per cent in basic wage rates.

Based on these several factors an increase of 18 pe cent in the basic wage rate in effect at the time of seizure of the plants and facilities is found to be the increase to be put into effect at the time of the resumption of the 40-hour week.

In the judgment of the panel, the earnings of the workers must be as high as is consistent with both the maintenance of the stability of the price structure and the provision for reasonable returns to the owners of industry.

11. Several of the companies and the union in collective bargaining have determined the wage increase due on a percentage rather than on a cents per hour basis. The panel is not disposed to change this negotiated basis.

12. On the basis of the record the recommended increase of 18 per cent can be placed in effect without a price increase.

The report concluded with the following appeal to the parties:

"In making this report of our findings of fact and recommendations for the settlement of the disputes in the oil industry, we consider it not inappropriate to remind the workers, their union and the companies that oil is one of the most basic sources of power in the modern world.

"Upon them depends the full production of the oil industry. Upon the full production of the oil industry depends the full production of America. Upon the full production of America depend the economic recovery and the stable peace of the world.

"In response to the needs of the stricken people of the earth for food and freedom and of all the nations for justice and peace, may the Oil Workers International Union and the oil companies promptly compose, through collective bargaining, their remaining differences and help to win the peace as they helped to win the war.

"We are gratefully mindful of their magnificently successful cooperation against fascism's monstrous threat to human freedom. Our people again look to them to end those disputes and, through cooperation for full production in this strategic industry, help America now rise to the responsibility of her power and the opportunity of her greatness to lead the world to a fairer day for all people."

Secretary Schwellenbach, in announcing the panel's action, said:

"This report and the recommendations it contains are sound and fair. The recommendations proposed by the panel provide a basis for the speedy conclusion of collective bargaining between the parties so that the plants and facilities may be released promptly to their owners by the Navy.

"The oil panel was the first body appointed in the [illegible] President Truman's [illegible] Dec. 3, 1945, and it fac[illegible] of charting a course a[illegible] out a procedure as it [illegible] obstacles.

"Representatives of [illegible]sides have expressed appreci[illegible]on of the care, patience and fairness with which the procedures have been developed and the hearings conducted. I am sure that the procedural pattern which the board developed will prove helpful in the future to other fact-finding boards."

On Oct. 4 the Navy had seized fifty-two facilities of twenty-five companies, extending from the Atlantic to the Pacific, to end the strike and prevent the threatened spread throughout the entire petroleum industry.

Strikes had already closed the refineries and some pipelines. Sixteen companies participated in the initial meeting of the board on procedure and eighteen companies cooperated by supplying wage and all other requested data.

At the outset of the hearings it was announced that the board's recommendations would apply to all companies whose plants were under Navy control.

During the proceedings the panel repeatedly urged the resumption of direct negotiations. At the request of the parties a recess from Dec. 21 to Jan. 7 was taken to permit the parties to continue their negotiations.

UAW SILENT ABOUT PLANS

Executive Board In Lengthy Session On G.M. Crisis

Detroit, Jan. 12 (AP)—The executive board of the CIO's United Auto Workers adjourned a four-and-one-half-hour special session tonight without disclosing its immediate plans in the General Motors strike.

The union's top leadership, meeting in the new crisis of the prolonged walkout which has idled 175,000 production workers, was closeted in discussions presumably involving General Motors' rejections of recommendations by President Truman's fact-finding board.

As the meeting broke up, President R. J. Thomas of the CIO-UAW told reporters the board would issue no statement at this time and that any action on the union's part would be announced at tomorrow's conference of General Motors local unions.

Thomas Indicates Decision

Thomas indicated, however, that the executive board may have arrived at a policy. He said the board "will have a recommendation which it will make to the conference tomorrow."

General Motors yesterday rejected the recommendations of the fact-finders that the corporation pay a 19½ cents an hour wage increase, or approximately 17.5 per cent.

The union has been on strike since November 21 in an attempt to enforce its demand for 30 per cent unless G.M. can "prove" such an increase impossible without a rise in car prices.

Kaiser-Frazer Contract Signed

Thomas said tonight:

"There will be no statement made at this time. We intend to give our recommendations to the General Motors conference tomorrow."

The union chieftain added that the board action "will be known after the conference."

Thomas left today's meeting to go into an adjoining room where he placed his signature on the Kaiser-Frazer contract, which had been agreed upon and signed by other union officials earlier in the week. This is the contract which has the unprecedented bonus-wage clause providing for division of a workers' pool at the end of a calendar year, a setup unique in the auto industry.

UAW Veterans Parade

DETROIT, Jan. 12 (AP)—Developments in the General Motors strike today included a demonstration by 225 war veterans who are members of the UAW. In uniform and civilian attire they paraded around the big General Motors building. Similar demonstrations were called for in other cities.

Led by sound car playing military airs, the marchers carried American flags, union banners and placards. Included in the placard legends were: "No apple-selling this time," "Unite for justice," "Heroes yesterday, unwanted today."

Elsewhere, the Chrysler Corporation called 3,000 workers back to work Monday in its Dodge truck plant, [illegible] AFL Teamsters Union today withdrew a picket line which shut the plant Tuesday. The company had said the reason for the picket line was that "Chrysler Corporation will not demand its Dodge dealers employ only AFL drivers." Union spokesmen said the dispute was not settled, despite the pickets' withdrawal.

FEDERAL SEIZURE BELIEVED POSSIBLE IF PARLEY FAILS

Discussions to Be Resumed at 10 A.M. Today in Washington.

SOME OPERATORS STRIKE

Jersey Union Calls Out 3,000 Workers in Sympathy Move.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 12—(AP) Federal conciliators tonight were unable to break the deadlock in negotiations that might settle the nation's long distance telephone tieup.

Discussions will resume at 10 a.m. tomorrow. Government seizure of the industry is considered possible if the conference fails.

Nine hours of consultations between officials of the Western Electric company and the Association of Communications Equipment Workers today produced no settlement of the wage dispute.

Communications Disrupted

Telephone communications through manually operated switchboards has been curtailed as a result of picket lines thrown around telephone exchanges by the Equipment Workers union. Telephone operators in many localities have chosen to stay away from work rather than cross the picket lines.

Meanwhile the possibility of a formal strike of the 250,000 telephone operators who are members of the National Federation of Telephone Workers was mentioned by one federation official.

And he indicated that even if the government should take over the telephone industry, the operators might not resume their posts.

When the recess in the Western Electric-Equipment workers negotiations was called, Ernest Weaver, union president, informed newsmen that "very little" progress had been made during the day-long meeting.

Weaver indicated that the Equipment union had modified one of its wage demands, but that the company had not changed its position.

"A satisfactory counterproposal could settle the wage question," he said.

J. P. Lafferty, labor relations manager for Western Electric, told newsmen "nothing has been accomplished to speak of" but added "there's always hope."

Wage Issue is Complicated

The wage issue involved is complicated, and none of the conferees have made public the union's demands.

A spokesman for the Federation of Telephone Workers had said earlier that its executive board might decide upon a formal strike by the operators over wage demands. Such a walkout, he said, would mean a "total collapse" of the nation's communications system.

If the federation called out its 48 member locals, the spokesman added, newspaper wire service and radio broadcasting would be affected.

Previously the union had said it would strike only in sympathy with the 6,000 members of the equipment workers union. The union spokesman said 23,000 members of the federation in Missouri, Oklahoma, Texas, Arkansas and Kansas already have "voted overwhelmingly" for a sympathy strike. The federation and the equipment workers union are affiliated.

Meanwhile there was little change in the telephone situation over the nation. Long-distance service continued crippled with local service in most areas unaffected.

Picketing continued at most cities, except where they had been barred by injunctions. However, in New York and Chicago some operators went through the lines, set up by the Association of Communications Equipment Workers.

Jersey Strike Voted

In New Jersey, the 3,000-member Telephone Workers union (Ind.) went on strike "in sympathy with the Association of Communications Equipment Workers and the Western Electric Employes association," another telephone union striking against the Western Electric Co.

TWU President John J. Curtin said the union had decided on the strike action and on a demand for a $2 a day wage increase at a meeting yesterday. The workers have been observing picket lines set up by the two other striking unions.

In San Francisco, maintenance workers in San Francisco for dial system, long distance circuits, teletypes and remote control radio broadcasts voted to observe picket lines at telephone exchange buildings. Most are members of the C.I.O. American Communications association with 100 members in San Francisco and 700 along the Pacific coast.

Because of the lack of dial maintenance men, Police Chief Charles W. Dullea ordered the city's 350 police call boxes left unlocked for emergency use by the public to call doctors, ambulances and police.

In Kansas City, a spokesman for the Federation of Long-Lines Telephone Workers union said long distance workers in western Missouri and Kansas had voted to stage an immediate sympathy strike.

Pickets were ordered to the front of the main exchange in Kansas City immediately after the union meeting today. Earlier pickets of the communications equipment were disbanded after the telephone company obtained an injunction against them.

In St. Louis, D. L. McCowen, president of Southwestern Bell Telephone Workers union, said members in Missouri, Arkansas, Kansas, Oklahoma and Texas had voted overwhelmingly for a sympathy strike.

He said his union was awaiting a request for ACEW support, and has asked its members to stay away from their jobs at exchanges where picket lines have been withdrawn as a result of injunctions obtained by the Bell Telephone company.

Schwellenbach Joins Phone Conference

Washington, Jan. 12 (AP)—Secretary of Labor Schwellenbach today opened renewed Government conferences aimed at settlement of the nation-wide telephone tieup.

Entering a meeting of the disputants, Schwellenbach was noncommittal when asked about the probable outcome. Labor Department officials have said that Government seizure of telephone exchanges may be necessary if pickets are not withdrawn.

Aiding Schwellenbach in the session was Howard T. Colvin, assistant chief of the Federal Conciliation Service.

The outlook was uncertain, for Colvin reported that "no progress" was made in his three-hour session last night with the principals to the strike causing the telephone tieup.

Seizure Prospect

Meanwhile, it was learned from a high Government official that plans were still being formulated for seizing the telephone industry if the operators do not voluntarily return to their switchboards. One of the principal questions appeared to be, exactly when it would become necessary for the Government to step in.

The official declared that this stage would be reached only "if communications deteriorate to the point where such action becomes necessary."

Colvin said he saw no reason why the Western Electric Company and the Association of Communications Equipment Workers could not settle the Western Electric strike which brought on the phone tieup.

"Whether they will, of course, is another matter," he remarked.

Refusing To Cross Lines

The telephone operators, members of the National Federation of Telephone Workers, are refusing to cross picket lines thrown around exchanges by Western Electric strikers. Joseph Beirne, president of the federation, sat in on last night's meeting but did not take an active part.

Colvin said he had been informed again by Ernest Weaver, president of the Association of Communications Equipment Workers, that Weaver had made an effort to call off the picketing—as requested two days ago by Schwellenbach—but that the effort had been unsuccessful.

Both Weaver and Beirne told newsmen that the workers they represented would return to their jobs in event of Government seizure. Weaver, however, insisted there was little likelihood of a Western Electric seizure, declaring that there was "no specific basis for such action."

FCC Responsibility

Labor Department spokesmen asserted that if seizure were ordered, it would apply to telephone companies rather than to Western Electric. Execution of the seizure, it was understood, would be a responsibility of the Federal Communications Commission.

Schwellenbach's role in the telephone tieup has not been clear. Although he invited the union and the company to Washington, he did not take part in last night's meeting. A spokesman for the Secretary explained that Schwellenbach was temporarily "too involved" in efforts to avert a steel strike, a walkout of CIO meat-packing workers and developments in the General Motors strike.

N. Y. Operators On Job

New York, Jan. 12 (AP)—Paralysis gripped the nation's long-distance telephone system today, but in New York a continuation of local phone service was assured when members of two unions crossed picket lines to return to their jobs.

The New York Telephone Company reported at midmorning that all operators for the city exchanges reported for work despite picket lines thrown around 30 of the 38 exchanges by striking installation workers of the Western Electric Company.

The strikers had asked telephone workres not to cross the lines and in many sections of the nation the request was followed.

Long distance operators at the American Telephone and Telegraph building at 32 Avenue of the Americas—nerve center of all long line operations—continued to observe picket lines and supervisors and emergency employés were trying to handle urgent calls.

Vote Of Unions

The two independent unions, representing 13,700 local telephone operators and 2,500 commercial and headquarters workers of the New York Telephone Company—16,200 in all—voted last night not to honor the picket lines. Union officials declined to estimate how many returned to work this morning.

The two unions are the Traffic Employés Association, representing the operators, and the Union of Telephone Workers, representing employés in New York city, Long Island, Westchester and Rockland counties and Greenwich, Conn.

Several hours after the operators went through the picket lines, officials of the Association of Communications Equipment Workers (Ind.), which set up the lines, said pickets would be withdrawn from the local exchanges and concentrated on the Avenue of the Americas Buliding and the main office of the company, which also houses three local exchanges.

Can't Understand It

ACEW union officials said they could not understand why members of other unions violated the established lines.

The American Telephone and Telegraph Company reported at 10 A.M. that eight per cent of the normal 75,000 daily long-distance telephones originating in the New York area were being handled. That was an increase of three per cent over yesterday and the company said it was because operators and supervisors were becoming more accustomed to placing calls.

A company official said he sat in at a long-distance board and "the trade language threw me for a loss" until he caught on to the significance of abbreviated terms such as DA for "does not answer" and WH for "will hold."

A meeting last night in Washington between the ACEW and the Western Electric Company failed to halt the progressive tie-up. Another session was scheduled.

The installation union struck against Western Electric Wednesday in a wage dispute. Originally, the union asked an average $6 weekly wage increase, but later modified its demands to an undisclosed sum. The members install Western Electric Company equipment in Bell telephone exchanges.

Only Emergency Calls

From coast to coast, with the exception of some New England states, only emergency and priority long-distance calls were handled after the 8,000 ACEW workers set up picket lines at dawn yesterday around key exchanges.

Union spokesmen said the strike would spread with the picketing of 168 local phone exchanges throughout the nation on staggered schedules.

The American Telephone and Telegraph Company said that 10,000 of its 10,124 long-distance operators had respected picket lines yesterday or stayed idle in sympathy moves.

In addition, an undisclosed number of the nation's 148,000 local and toll operators, plus clerks and maintenance men, stayed away from their jobs.

Dial-Trouble Argument

Dial service—by which 65 per cent of America's telephones are operated automatcially—was not immediately affected by the strike. Union officials, however, predicted it would be only a matter of days before mechanical difficulties would disrupt the dial system.

Company spokesmen disagreed, declaring that "barring accident, dial equipment should be capable with minimum maintenance of serving many months without serious breakdown."

In San Francisco, telephone-maintenance men have voted to respect picket lines, John McBain, president of the United Brotherhood of Telephone Workers, representing maintenance men, said his union voted, 264 to 163, not to cross equipment workers' picket lines.

"Five minutes after we hit the street the dial system will collapse," McBain declared. Dial system equipment is so delicate that it requires constant attention of repairmen, he said.

Boston Not Picketed

Thirteen of the fourteen major long-distance exchanges in the country were picketed the A.T.& T. said. The exception was Boston, where installation workers are represented by another union.

Meanwhile, telephone company officials in many cities obtained court orders against picketing in an attempt to prevent further tieups.

A spokesman for the Southwestern Bell Telephone Company said: "The injunctions are one of a series of ways the company is considering to continue service." He declined to list any other method under consideration.

Union leaders called out 11,000 operators in northern California and Nevada and 7,500 in Ohio.

A.T.& T. said 200 cities were picketed, and of the 33 operating areas of the Bell system, there was at least some picketing in 29. The nonpicketed areas, the company said, were Long Island, North Dakota, Virginia and the New England area except Connecticut.

Western Union Strike Hitting GI's Abroad

New York, Jan. 12 (AP)—Normal communications between Americans in the armed forces overseas and their families were interrupted today when the telephone strike further complicated the limited operations of the strike-bound New York Western Union facilities.

Because of the tieup of long distance telephones, only emergency messages could be telephoned to cable terminals in New York, Washington and San Francisco from outside those cities.

Harold C. Taylor, a vice president of the American Communications Association (CIO), of which the striking Western Union employés are members, said union workers were handling "all Government, GI, press, UNRRA and other messages" from overseas that were considered essential, but not on Western Union lines.

"Otherwise, A Full Tieup"

He said international cable concerns were delivering those massages over routes other than Western Union, adding:

"Apart from the foregoing exceptions, no international cable or radio messages are being handled that are destined to, or originating in, any place in the United States except New York city, Washington and San Francisco, meaning there is a complete blackout on all international traffic except to and from the above three cities."

The Western Union employés in the New York area went on strike five days ago in a wage dispute, but the company's employés outside that area did not go out.

FIFTH CONFERENCE IN MEAT INDUSTRY ENDS IN DEADLOCK

CHICAGO, Jan. 12—(AP) Attempts to avert a nationwide packinghouse strike called for Jan. 16 were at a stalemate today when conferences closed between representatives of the C.I.O. United Packinghouse Workers and five major meat packing concerns.

The last of the conferences, between Wilson and company and union leaders, produced no agreement, Jesse E. Jacobson, federal conciliator reported. Jacobson said no further conferences were called. The meetings began Wednesday.

The strike would involve 200,000 C.I.O. workers and 135,000 members of the A.F.L. Amalgamated Meat Cutters and Butchers Union. The A.F.L. union officially has endorsed the proposed walkout.

A C.I.O. union spokesman said today that "we are not going to change the strike date even though negotiations continue."

Industry spokesmen have turned down as inadequate a government offer to pay 50 cents a hundred pounds more for government meat purchases.

Lewis J. Clark, president of the UPW, reiterated today that the immediate demand of his union was a 17 1-2 cent an hour wage increase "with the balance to be negotiated later when the national wage picture becomes clear."

The original request had been for a 25 cent an hour boost. Packers have countered with offers up to 7 1-2 cents an hour increase.

Government officials reported on their way to Chicago in another effort to prevent the strike include Edgar L. Warren, head of the U.S. Conciliation Service; John Gibson, assistant secretary of labor; John Dunlop of the Office of Economic Stabilization, and Orville Erickson, representing the Office of Price Administration.

Meanwhile the American Meat Institute, an organization of the meat packing industry, said that if the country's consumers had to rely on civilian stocks of meat now in storage as the sole source of supply, the quantity would last about seven days.

SEATTLE HAS PAPERS AGAIN

Printers Who Struck Nov. 18 Accept Compromise on Pay

SEATTLE, Jan. 12 (AP)—George Donlan, printers' strike committee spokesman, said the union voted late today to accept the wage increase agreement worked out with the publishers of the three Seattle dailies, strikebound since Nov. 18.

The vote was on a proposed increase of $2.65 a day for day shift workers and $2.90 for night shift. The printers originally asked $2.95 more in the day shift scale.

The new scale would run for a year, based on a seven-hour day, five-day week, and the increase would be retroactive from Sept. 1 to the day the printers walked out. It raised day shift pay from $10.35 to $13 and night shifts from $10.85 to $13.75.

The Times and Post-Intelligencer announced they would publish Sunday editions. The Star planned to resume publication Monday.

INVOKES FACT-FINDING IN HARVESTER DISPUTE

WASHINGTON, Jan. 12 (AP)—Secretary Schwellenbach appointed today a three-man fact-finding board to investigate a threatened strike of 30,000 workers of the International Harvester Company in Illinois, Indiana and New York. The walkout, called by the CIO Farm Equipment Workers Union, is set for Jan. 21 in support of union demands for a 30 per cent increase in wages.

Mr. Schwellenbach appointed Philip G. Marshall, an attorney of

JAN 13 1946

Milwaukee and former vice chairman of the Chicago Regional War Labor Board, as chairman of the board. His associates will be Federal Judge William H. Holly of Chicago and Dean William H. Spencer of the University of Chicago School of Commerce and Administration. The board will hold its first meeting here Tuesday.

The Labor Department said that both parties in the dispute had agreed to cooperate with the fact-finders.

GI, Gob Picket Strike Pickets

Charleston, W.Va., Jan. 12 (AP)—Until the provost marshal's office took a hand, a GI and a gob paraded with pickets in front of the Charleston telephone exchange today bearing placards which read: "This strike unfair to returning service men."

The marshal's office sent MP's to inform the two men in uniform they would have to desist or, if discharged, change their garb to civilian attire.

Four or five civilian ex-service men, wearing lapel discharge buttons, took over and marched with union pickets.

The men in uniform identified themselves as Pfc. James R. Mason and Seaman 1/c Hoople Heffernan, both of Charleston.

Mason walked with a limp. He said he lost a foot and part of his leg when he stepped on a land mine in Germany.

FOOD SUBSIDIES HIT BY FARM BUREAU

WASHINGTON, Jan. 12—(AP) Edward A. O'Neal, president of the American Farm Bureau federation, reiterated today his organization's opposition to government food subsidies as a means of keeping prices down and declared agriculture "sure will oppose any continuance beyond June 30."

OPA Administrator Chester Bowles has appealed to Stabilization Director John C. Collet for a slower-than-planned removal of subsidy payments to prevent price rises which he anticipates when they are abolished.

Collet announced a tentative schedule of subsidy discontinuances last November which would lift practically all of them by June 30. The $1,785,000,000 annual war-born subsidy program was designed to keep retail prices from rising.

O'Neal's organization opposed subsidies initially, and he told a reporter today that supplies would take care of any dangerous runaway of prices, adding, "our organization is on record against subsidies and I expect it to stay that way."

Kimmel Says He Got Orders Not To Scout Isles

Washington, Jan. 12 (AP)—Pre-Pearl Harbor plans of the Pacific Fleet for scouting an island chain where the Marines later had heavy losses were vetoed by the Navy Department, congressional investigators were informed today.

Admiral Husband E. Kimmel said he wanted to survey the Gilbert group, which includes Tarawa, but Washington instructed him not to take fleet units "anywhere near" those islands in prewar days.

Was A British Possession

Tarawa and other islands in the Gilberts were taken by United States amphibious forces in hard fighting during November, 1943, as the westward offensive across the Central Pacific was launched. A British possession, the Gilberts were seized by the Japanese after the outbreak of the war and strongly fortified.

Kimmel said the reason given by the Navy Department for vetoing the projected survey was "that we should not evince any interest in the Gilberts because the Japs might find out that we were interested."

The former Pacific fleet commander's recital came to light as Senate-House Committee members examined testimony given by Kimmel in three previous inquiries as a prelude to his personal appearance before the congressional group next Tuesday.

Testified In 1944

Kimmel's testimony about the Gilberts was before an army inquiry board in 1944. Three years earlier he had complained to the Roberts Commission that pre-Pearl Harbor intelligence he received from Washington was "ineffective and inaccurate."

In his testimony before the Roberts Commission, Kimmel rated Japanese espionage in Honolulu excellent in comparison with the information he said he received from the Navy Department.

He mentioned that on December 1, 1941, the director of Naval Intelligence (then Vice Admiral T. S. Wilkinson) had issued a bulletin saying there were strong indications of a Japanese attack on Thailand, but that "major (Japanese) capital ship strength remains in home waters."

Actually, the enemy task force was then at sea en route to attack Pearl Harbor, previous evidence shows.

Flow Of Messages

Kimmel said that from January 20, 1941, on he periodically received messages from Washington which indicated "a grave situation." The messages in the weeks just before the attack, he declared, appeared little different from earlier ones.

In his opinion, a study of correspondence would show the Navy Department did not expect an attack (on Hawaii) or that "hostilities were unduly imminent," he said, adding:

"If the President, the State Department and the Navy Department at any time . . . gathered a more alarming viewpoint regarding possible Japanese military action against this fleet I was never so informed."

JOINT SPY SERVICE FAVORED BY TWO ON PROBE GROUP

WASHINGTON, Jan. 12—(AP) A move to establish a joint Army-Navy intelligence service received endorsement today from two members of the Pearl Harbor investigating committee.

Senators George (D-Ga) and Ferguson (R-Mich) who as members of the committee have been hearing a lot about the functionings of intelligence before Japan's Dec. 7, 1941, attack, both called it a wise course.

"The Pearl Harbor investigation has convinced me there should be a central or joint intelligence service and a central or joint communications system so that all branches of the armed services have all the information available," George told a reporter.

That is true, he added, whether or not the Army and Navy are eventually placed under one government department.

Ferguson said there was no question in his mind that the hearings had demonstrated "that a joint intelligence service is desirable."

"You can't divorce one service from the other so far as intelligence is concerned," he said.

Secretary of the Navy Forrestal has announced that the Army and Navy propose to establish a joint intelligence system, irrespective of the outcome of the controversy over unification of the two services.

A possibility developed, meantime, that resumption of the Pearl Harbor inquiry, scheduled for Tuesday, may be delayed 24 hours because of conflict with arrangements for an informal joint Senate-House session to hear Army and Navy leaders on demobilization problems.

Members discussed the advisability of this step informally.

Ferguson and Senator Brewster (R-Maine) told reporters they personally would like to hear Gen Dwight D. Eisenhower, Army chief of staff, and Admiral Chester W. Nimitz, chief of naval operations, on the demobilization question.

"I see no reason why we need rush with these hearings," Ferguson commented.

But Senator Lucas (D-Ill) said he would object to any delay.

"We have informed Admiral Kimmel that he will be heard at 10 a.m. Tuesday and we ought to go ahead," he said. "Of course all of us are interested to hear General Eisenhower and Admiral Nimitz but we can get full information as to what they say even if we can't be there."

Dean Acheson Backs Proposed Loan to Britain

He Calls Economic War the Alternative; His Stand Is Supported by Vinson

WASHINGTON, Jan. 12 (AP).—The United States must give Britain financial assistance or the post-war world may be divided into "warring economic blocs," Acting Secretary of State Dean Acheson said tonight.

Appearing with Secretary of the Treasury Fred M. Vinson on a National Broadcasting Company network broadcast, Mr. Acheson said he regarded the proposed $3,750,000,000 loan to Britain as a good investment.

"All Britain needs is a chance to come back economically," Mr. Acheson declared. "If we don't give her that chance, then we might as well say good by to our aim of a world with an expanding trade and rising standards of living."

Mr. Vinson said Mr. Acheson was "absolutely right."

"The alternative to helping the British," Mr. Vinson said, "is to face an extension and tightening up of the whole series of trade and exchange controls that have been put into effect during the war.

"That would mean restricted trade, lower living standards; bitter rivalry and stored-up hatred for the United States as the richest nation in the world. That would be a dangerous course to take."

Mr. Acheson denied that the loan would amount to "financing socialism" in Britain. He said the British government would purchase the industries it expects to nationalize with pounds sterling, not the dollars it will borrow from the United States.

Mr. Vinson said the notion that by lending money to Britain the United States would be financing its competitor was based on "the mistaken idea that there is only so much trade to be had."

"That simply is not true," he said. "As trade increases, there is more for everybody."

Mr. Vinson quoted an editorial from "The Arkansas Democrat," which he said "puts the whole thing in perspective as well as anything I have seen."

The editorial said that without the multi-billion dollar credit "Britain would have to embark on a fight for world trade by every device she could invent."

"It would be sheer stupidity to force such a course on Britain," the editorial said.

"This loan isn't an act of charity. It's just good sense."

Hungary to Get $4,000,000 Relief

WASHINGTON, Jan. 12 (AP)—A "limited" $4,000,000 relief program will be undertaken by UNRRA in Hungary, headquarters announced today. UNRRA said the program was authorized after a request by Zoltan Tildy, Hungarian Prime Minister, and a recommendation by the Allied Control Commission in Budapest, saying help was needed to help check famine and disease this winter.

J.H.U. Man Gives Palestine View

Washington, Jan. 12 (AP)—A proposal for a multi-billion-dollar irrigation project in Palestine was laid before the Anglo-American Palestine Commission today.

It was advanced by Dr. Walter C. Lowdermilk, assistant chief of the United States Soil Conservation Service, with the contention that it would multiply productive land in Palestine by seven times and pay for itself within 50 years.

70,000 Acres Already Restored

The commission is studying the possibility of increasing Jewish immigration into Palestine. Dr. Lowdermilk said that Jewish agriculture colonists there already had restored nearly 70,000 acres of land productivity to provide a "significant" example of what must be done throughout the world in the way of land reclamation.

He suggested that future treaties drafted by the United Nations should take into consideration the question of balancing population with land productivity.

"Hungry people don't keep treaties," he said.

Wolman Discusses Project

Abel Wolman, of the Johns Hopkins University, chairman of the engineering consultant board of the commission on Palestine's surveys, told the Anglo-American commission that the total of productive land in Palestine could be increased from 100,000 to 750,000 acres through the hydroelectric project first conceived in 1942 by Dr. Lowdermilk.

The project would include development of a number of underground sources of water, construction of a network of canals and reservoirs and the tapping of the upper Jordan River.

Wolman suggested that it could be financed by a Government bond issue or the money raised jointly by the Government and private interests.

HOUSE POSTPONES ITS HEARINGS ON PEACETIME DRAFT

WASHINGTON, Jan. 12—(AP) The Army's current demobilization troubles are worrying congressional backers of universal military training legislation.

This became known today as House Military committee hearings on the peacetime draft advocated by President Truman were postponed temporarily, with no definite date set for their resumption.

The hearings, Chairman May (D-Ky) told reporters, will be reopened shortly. Originally, they were to have been resumed immediately after the congressional vacation ending Monday.

While May gave no reason for the sudden slowing down, other committee members said privately they did not believe "this is the opportune time to consider anything so staunchly backed by the Army."

"A few more blunders like that made on demobilization," one added in an interview, "and there won't be a chance to get a universal training bill out of the committee."

Even the most optimistic supporters of compulsory peacetime training have conceded all along that they were in a real fight because of the sharp division of opinion among congressmen.

They already have all but abandoned their original drive for one continuous year of training for all able-bodied male youths and are willing to settle for a shorter period, augmented by further training in home environment.

Such a proposal has been advanced by the American Legion.

In public hearings before the military committee late last year, the Army and the Navy held out for one full year, and President Truman backed them up in a special message to Congress.

Just what effect the demobilization controversy, which has led to mass demonstrations by thousands of soldiers, will have on the President's proposal to consolidate the Army and the Navy is unknown.

The Army has stoutly supported merger plans and the Navy has opposed them. Hearings are scheduled to get under way this month before the House Expenditures committee, but may be postponed.

China UNRRA Director Leaves For Shanghai

Washington, Jan. 12 (AP)—The United Nations Relief and Rehabilitation Administration announced today that Ralph Olmstead, UNRRA director of operations in China, will leave tomorrow for Shanghai.

Olmstead, a former deputy member of the combined food board, recently returned from a six-week tour of China with Roy F. Hendrickson, UNRRA deputy director general.

Congressional Medal For Patton Proposed

Washington, Jan. 12 (AP)—Legislation awarding the Congressional Medal of Honor posthumously to the late Gen. George S. Patton will be introduced in the House when it reconvenes Monday.

Representative Rankin (D., Miss.) announced today that he will sponsor the bill.

Hook Opposing Change In USES

Washington, Jan. 12 (AP)—Permanent retention of the United States Employment Service by the Federal Government was advocated today by Representative Hook (D.,Mich.), a member of the House Labor Committee.

Going beyond President Truman's recommendation that return of the USES to the states be delayed until June 1947, Hook said that "permanent Federal control is needed."

The labor committee will open hearings Thursday on legislation embodying the President's proposal. Mr. Truman recently vetoed a measure that would have returned the service to state control in 100 days.

"No Longer Local Problem"

"Employment and unemployment have long since ceased to be local problems, with local solutions," said Hook.

It is significant that "the Federal Government has had to be called in every time employment became critical," he asserted, adding that the nation now is confronted with its greatest employment crisis.

Calls on local USES offices have increased more than 100 per cent since V-J day, Hook said, and 8,000,000 war workers are in the process of changing jobs.

"To retreat from the responsibility by returning the USES to the states for piecemeal operation is nothing but capitulation to political opportunism."

Hook also asserted that "it is clearly unrealistic to suppose that anything but a national setup can take care of the needs of millions of war veterans."

One advantage of an integrated Federal system, he said, is that it is able to furnish veterans at hospitals and separation centers with information about employment opportunities throughout the nation.

Truman Talks With Byrnes

Washington, Jan. 12 (AP)—President Truman talked with Secretary of State Byrnes in London by international teletype from the White House this morning to obtain a report on developments at the UNO Assembly meetings.

No details were given out about the conversation, which was carried on with the aid of teletype operators handling a keyboard similar to a typewriter. The exchange began at 9.15 A.M. and lasted until 9.35.

Charles G. Ross, White House press secretary, said the President and Byrnes did not use the telephone for two reasons—"conditions were not good from the weather standpoint for radio telephoning, and greater security is obtained by the scrambler teletype."

Winant Made U.S. Aide On Economic Council

Washington, Jan. 12 (AP)—President Truman today designated John G. Winant, Ambassador to London, as the United States representative at the organization meetings of the United Nations Economic and Social Council.

Winant will continue to serve as Ambassador.

The President, in a letter to Winant, said:

"The prompt development and execution of plans for the effective organization of the Economic and Social Council is vital to the successful accomplishment of the many important tasks with which it will have to deal.

"I am confident that your contribution to the work of organizing the council wil lbe fully in accordance with your past achievements and I wish you all possible success in this new undertaking."

FORTAS RESIGNS

WASHINGTON, Jan. 12—(AP) President Truman has accepted the resignation of Abe Fortas as undersecretary of the Interior, effective Jan. 15.

Letters made public by the White House today disclosed that Fortas wished to end 12 years of government service and "participate in the work of readjustment as a private citizen."

Fortas was with the old Agriculture Adjustment Administration before going to the Interior department. President Truman congratulated him on having made a "real contribution" to the public service.

Fortas is 36 and a native of Memphis, Tenn. He was assistant professor of law at Yale at 23. He became undersecretary of Interior June, 1942.

ARMY TO HAVE 761 GENERALS

WASHINGTON, Jan. 12 —(AP) The War Department announced today it has ordered the number of generals reduced to 761 in line with the general demobilization of the army. The peak was 1,550.

Bradley Backs Insurance Bill

WASHINGTON, Jan. 12 (AP)—A measure permitting lump-sum payment of national service life insurance is on the calendar for study by a Senate finance subcommittee soon after Congress reconvenes. It has the endorsement of Gen. Omar Bradley and the Veterans Administration. Under present law if the beneficiary is under 30 years of age, the policy's amount is paid in monthly installments over twenty years; if the beneficiary is older than 30, over ten years.

Veterans Picket Job Aid Office

BUFFALO, Jan. 12 (AP).—Members of the Congress of Industrial Organizations Veterans' Committee seeking revision of the state unemployment insurance law and veterans' readjustment allowances picketed the offices of the State Division of Placement and Unemployment Insurance today. About a dozen pickets, several in uniform, bore placards, one of which said: "Non-vets get $21 after seven weeks—vets get nothing. Vets want insurance, too." Another read: "Vets in struck plants deserve unemployment pay, too, Mr. Dewey." The group also indicated its support of the General Motors strike by displaying a sign saying: "G. I.s support C. I. O. and G. M. strikers. Your demands are ours."

2-Family Unit Ceiling Set

Washington, Jan. 12 (AP)—The Civilian Production Administration yesterday set a top sales price of $17,000 for two-family dwellings built under the Government's new housing program.

Heretofore the program, which goes into effect next Tuesday, had provided only a rent ceiling of $80 a month for such dwellings. In the case of sale, there had to be an agreement that these units would be rented for not more than that amount. This provision is continued.

The new program, which channels about 50 per cent of all building materials to inexpensive homes, has a sales ceiling of $10,000 for one-family dwellings. The top rental on these is also $80.

NAVY TO PRESS OIL SEARCH

Lets Private Contracts for ploring of Alaska Reserve

WASHINGTON, Jan. 12 (AP) The Navy has awarded a $1,000,000 contract for continuing exploration of the naval petroleum reserve in Alaska this year. The contract was awarded jointly to Hoover, Curtice & Ruby, Inc., of New York, as mining and petroleum engineering construction managers, and to C. F. Lytle Company and the Green Construction Company of Des Moines, Iowa, general contractors.

Work on the Alaskan reserves was started by Navy Seabees in the spring of 1944. The end of the war and the demobilization program, the Navy indicated, made necessary the substitution of a civilian contract.

FOUNDRY EMPLOYMENT TO STAY AT WAR PEAK

WASHINGTON, Jan. 12—(AP) The Labor department predicted today that employment in the nations foundries during the next two years will average about 50 per cent above the 1939 level and approach the peak war year 1944 figure of about 425,000 workers.

The survey, made by the Bureau of Labor Statistics, said the foundry outlook is more favorable than that of many other metal working industries.

Heavy demand for certain types of castings will hold foundry employment high in the immediate postwar years, the bureau said. Mechanization of foundry work during the war will be more than offset by a probable return to a 40-hour work week, it predicted.

TAXES TOO MUCH FOR HIM

Major, Out of Army Six Weeks, Joins Up Again as Staff Sergeant

WASHINGTON, Jan. 12 (AP)—A discharged Army major, who sampled civilian life just six weeks has re-enlisted, and as a staff sergeant.

Clarence George, 29 years old, explained it thus:

"By the time I paid Social Security and withholding taxes on my civilian salary I wasn't as well off as I am in the Army. Besides, I missed Army ways."

His civilian post was with the Washington F[illegible]ment.

Anti-Flu Vaccine Cuts Incidence

Washington, Jan. 12 (AP)—The Army's new anti-flu "shots" are producing encouraging results, the surgeon general reported today.

Preliminary indications, he said, are that the wartime-developed vaccine has reduced the incidence of influenza among men in uniform.

At the same time, the United States Public Health Service reported that for the third successive week civilian influenza cases had declined from a peak of 148,688 in the week ended December 15.

7,000,000 Men Vaccinated

Early in the fall, the army began vaccinating 7,000,000 men with a war-developed vaccine made from killed viruses of influenza "A" and "B," the two most common types.

Officers said reports so far show that "the incidence has been lower than what we might ordinarily have expected during an outbreak."

They declined to give specific figures.

In tests conducted before the mass vaccination, the new material reduced the incidence of flu by about 75 per cent among those vaccinated with it, as compared with unvaccinated persons.

Down To 47,273 Cases

The United States Public Health Service announced that the number of cases reported throughout the nation for the week ended January 5 had dropped to 47,273.

"The indications are," declared an official of the health service, "that both the incidence and mortality of the disease in the current outbreak are on the decline and that while the total number of cases may prove eventually to be comparable to the number in the epidemic of 1943-44, the evidence is that the disease has not been so severe as it was then."

STILWELL NAMED HEAD OF WESTERN DEFENSE

SAN FRANCISCO, Jan. 12—(AP) General Joseph W. Stilwell has been designated to head the Western Defense command, with headquarters in San Francisco, area headquarters announced today.

General Stilwell formerly commanded the U. S. 10th army on Okinawa. He was in charge of U. S. Forces in the 1942 campaign when the Japanese drove through Burma.

The headquarters announcement said Maj. Gen. Frank D. Merrill, whose home is at Woodstock, N. H., and who headed the famed "Merrill's Marauders" in the Burma campaign, also has been assigned to the Western Defense command.

MINESWEEPERS HOME FROM DUTY IN PACIFIC

SAN DIEGO, Calif., Jan. 12.—(AP) The first large group of minesweepers to come home as a unit, Squadron 12, comprising 14 vessels and 1,200 officers and men, arrived in port from Pearl Harbor today.

The squadron, which includes three divisions—34th, 35th and 36th—is credited with sweeping more than 4,800 mines to clear the way for American men o'war in the Pacific. Comdr. Frederick Crane, Dalton, Mass., was squadron commander during operations in Japanese waters.

From here the squadron will sail to New Orleans for active duty with the Atlantic fleet.

MANAGING EDITORS PRAISE AP WAR AID

MIAMI, Fla., Jan. 12 (AP)—Managing editors of newspapers from all parts of the nation, in their first post-war meeting, voted thanks today to The Associated Press for war coverage and to war correspondents "for service far beyond the ordinary call of duty."

The group requested The Associated Press management to do these:

"Convey its grateful appreciation to the members of the AP foreign staff, whose courage, loyalty and untiring enterprise throughout the difficult war years made it possible for Associated Press members to present to their readers the most thorough and authoritative record of world conflict any nation has ever known."

In tribute, the group said: "To these—the living and the dead—this association acknowledges a debt for service far above and beyond the ordinary call of duty."

The editors, members of The Associated Press Managing Editors Association, ended their convention by electing W. R. Arnold of The Milwaukee Journal chairman of their executive committee; A. Y. Aronson of The Louisville Times vice chairman, and R. W. Simpson of The Tampa Tribune, secretary.

Los Angeles was selected for the meeting in November, 1946, the date to be named later.

The final session was given over to a discussion of problems and developments in photography.

Tom Howard of The Chicago Times declared he had learned that by keeping photographers informed they will give double the effort for good pictures.

Harold Davis of The Louisville Courier Journal, a newspaper among the foremost in color printing, reported that in case of necessity he could deliver a color print in fifteen minutes.

F. A. Resch, Associated Press executive newsphoto editor, disclosed that Eastman Kodak was developing a plan which would permit newspapers to develop color exposures in a routine way in their darkrooms.

Mr. Resch made known that The Associated Press was building up its staff of sixty photographers in the United States and thirty overseas, and that by the end of 1946 more than 300 newspapers in this country would be served by wirephoto as network points, the abbreviated service or expedited service.

Highlighting yesterday's session were discussions on foreign censorship in which China, Russia and Russian-dominated countries were cited as the princpial areas in which there still was a check on the free flow of news. The speakers included Basil Walters, executive editor of The Chicago Daily News; Alan Gould, assistant general manager of The Associated Press, and Glenn Babb, Associated Press foreign news editor.

Mr. Walters asserted that "in asking for freedom of the press, we're not asking a privilege for the newspapers. We're asking a safeguard for the public."

Mr. Gould said he was confident that censorship in Russia would be lifted eventually. He said Soviet observers in this country have told him there is more doubt in Russia about the Americans than there is in this country about the Russians.

Mr. Babb, in agreeing that there was Soviet censorship, said The Associated Press had been able to put correspondents in all capitals of Europe, including those in the Russian sphere. While censorship prevailed in China, Mr. Babb said, the controls were exercised more vigorously against the domestic Chinese newspapers than against foreign correspondents.

LAND IN JERSEY PUT ON UNO LIST

Princeton Tract Added to Five Others; Plan Stamford Visit Monday.

PRINCETON, N. J. Jan. 12—(AP) Two tracts of New Jersey farmland and plateau spread over 75 square miles north of Princeton were chosen today as a sixth possible site for world headquarters of the United Nations Organization.

For nearly a full day—more time than has been devoted to any other proposed location—a UNO site-seeking committee toured the New Jersey acres by auto, then went on to Atlantic City to see what that vicinity offers for interim facilities.

The committee chairman, Dr. Stoyan Gavrilovic, said that if the Princeton location eventually was chosen for UNO's permanent home, interim headquarters would be established either in Atlantic City or New York city.

Greeted by Governor

Gov. Walter E. Edge greeted the visiting diplomats at his Princeton home and joined other state officials in urging that the committee make Princeton the final choice. Harold W. Dodds, president of Princeton University, lunched with the visitors at Princeton Inn.

Today's 100-mile tour and subsequent journey to Atlantic City wound up the committee's initial four-day inspection of proposed sites in the New York area, which includes parts of New York state, Connecticut and New Jersey.

Sites picked for further consideration, in addition to the Princeton region, are one near Kingston, N. Y., at Hyde Park, N. Y., the Yorktown-Somers area in Westchester county, N. Y., and tracts near Ridgefield and Stamford, Conn.

Dr. Gavrilovic announced that two members of the committee would return to the Yorktown-Somers area Monday for further inspection, and that two other members would return to Stamford the same day for that purpose.

He said the committee's initial view of the Yorktown-Somers site was too hurried, and that the Stamford vicinity could not be examined closely because it was dark when the party reached that point on its trip into Connecticut yesterday.

The committee is scheduled to go to Boston Wednesday to look over several proposals there, and Dr. Gavrilovic said the six temporary selections in the New York area might be whittled down to three before the committee makes its final report.

The chairman said he expected to be able to announce, before returning to London, the six sites the committee will recommend to the Interim committee, which in turn will make recommendations to the UNO General Assembly.

After seeing the Boston sites, Dr. Gavrilovic said, the committee probably will employ architects, engineers and landscape and soil specialists to assist in evaluating the various offers.

GOP BANISHED TO 'REACTION' BY HANNEGAN

Can't Be 'Liberal' He Says, After Leaders Decline Truman Program

Boston, Jan. 12 (AP)—Robert E. Hannegan, Democratic national chairman, declared tonight that "the Republican party has taken its stand against a progressive postwar program for America."

In an address at a meeting of the Democratic State Committee of Massachusetts, Hannegan said Senator Taft (R., Ohio) had made that stand clear when the Senator replied to President Truman's appeal to the people to support the Administration's legislative program.

Mr. Truman and Taft both spoke on the radio last week.

Hannegan said the Senator actually had performed a service, had clarified issues, and "sharpened the battle lines for both 1946 and 1948."

"Policy Of Outright Reaction"

"The Republican party stamp of approval," the Democratic chairman said, "is once more on a policy of outright reaction. . . .

"Even the 'me-too' days are over. Senator Taft and his associates have dropped the pose of liberalism. They control the party, and so long as they continue to do so, there can be no more claims to liberalism under that party's banner.

"There can be no such thing as an accredited Republican liberal. Henceforth, by the party's own decree, Republican candidates for office cannot stand on liberal principles."

All the President did, Hannegan said, was to talk over the nation's problems with the man in the street. It is the policy of Republican leaders, he said, "never to take the people into their confidence."

Party Platform Promises

The Democratic chairman said Mr. Truman's legislative program was designed to carry out promises made by the Democratic party in its 1944 platform.

Noting that Taft had declared a large majority of the people disagree with the program and the President's political philosophy, Hannegan recommended to the Senator:

"A rereading of the Democratic party's platform of 1944 and of the election returns of November 7 of the same year."

After the Chief Executive announced his program last September, Hannegan said, Representative Martin, of Massachusetts, House Republican leader, appointed a committee to draw up a Republican program. He said the statement came out 87 days later, said nothing, and proposed not a single specific action to solve America's problems.

"I now predict," Hannegan said, "that the Republican party will produce no program at all. . . . Senator Taft and his colleagues . . . have made it clear that the Old Guard controls the party. And the Republican Old Guard never has had a program to offer this country and never will have one."

Hannegan said it was true that much of the President's program had not been enacted. Ordinarily, he added, a program of this magnitude would take more time than has elapsed.

Quick Action Held Needed

"President Truman," he said, "has asked the people to press for action now, not because he doubts the eventual acceptance of these proposals, but because he realizes the importance of enacting them as quickly as possible.

"He knows that in order to insure the continued public purchasing power which means good business and steady jobs, these things have to be done soon.

"Harry Truman has every reason to believe that the people of America—the great majority—approve of his objectives. They are part of a bigger program which the people have four times approved by direct expression at the ballot box."

BRICKER SAYS RED-TAPE STRANGLES HOUSING

COLUMBUS, Ohio, Jan. 12 (AP)—John W. Bricker, Republican Vice Presidential nominee in 1944, asserted today that "there must be less Government regulation and more Government encouragement if the housing problem is to be solved."

"Owners and builders are ready to proceed and will proceed as soon as released from the red-tape of Washington," said the former Governor in an address broadcast over the Columbia network from a station here.

Mr. Bricker described material and labor as the two problems which need solving to break the housing bottleneck.

"The greatest handicap that production has today is the restrictions and Government regulation which prevent the free flow of materials and rapid reconversion and promotion in production," he asserted. "There is sufficient Government power today to direct the flow of the available materials into the proper channels and there are enough home builders in America to do the job."

Mr. Bricker expressed belief that labor shortages in the building industry "will be taken care of" with the release of materials and the return of war veterans. He also advocated carrying out the building program "in every possible way" by private business.

The OPA, he said, was responsible for slowing home building.

"We must again encourage pride of production and release the full force of competition," he said. "In no other way can we secure full employment, retain individual freedom and foster the home-owning and home-loving instinct, the undergirders of the Republic."

Henry Ford 2d Is Named Young Man of the Year

Junior Chamber Praises His Interest in National Welfare

CHICAGO, Jan. 12 (AP).—Henry Ford 2d, twenty-eight-year-old president of the Ford Motor Company, was named the "nation's outstanding young man of the year" today in the annual selection made by the United States Junior Chamber of Commerce and its publication "Future" magazine.

Mr. Ford, the association said, was selected "because of his outstanding record in industry and his interest in community and national welfare." He will receive the title and the organization's diamond distinguished service award key at a banquet held by the Chicago Junior Association of Commerce Wednesday night.

Nine other men from twenty-one to thirty-five years old also were selected by the judges as outstanding men of the year and will receive plaques at the banquet. They are: J. Wes Gallagher, thirty-four, chief of The Associated Press Berlin Bureau; George C. Dade, thirty-three, president of Dade Brothers, a transport company; Abe Fortas, thirty-five, who has just resigned as Under Secretary of the Interior; Robert S. Ingersoll, thirty-one, executive of the Ingersoll Steel Division of the Borg-Warner Corporation.

Also James Linen, thirty-three, publisher of "Time" magazine; Charles Luckman, thirty-five, president of the Pepsodent Company; Frank McCarthy, thirty-three, Assistant Secretary of State; Dr. Van R. Potter, thirty-four, biochemist in the McArdle Laboratory in the Medical School of the University of Wisconsin, and Gene Root, thirty-five, chief of the aerodynamics section of the Douglas Aircraft Company.

Millions Roar Tribute to G.I.'s As 82nd Division Shows Its Might

NEW YORK, Jan. 12—(AP) Millions of New Yorkers, packed for four miles along Fifth avenue, roared tribute today to the nation's foot soldier as 13,000 men paraded through a blinding paper blizzard celebrating America's World War II victory.

Tall, slender, 38-year-old Major General James M. Gavin, youngest division commander in the Army, led the march in which his famed 82nd Airborne division had the place of honor.

Many New York policemen—there were 8,000 on duty along the avenue—said they could not recall an ovation to equal the one an estimated 4,000,000 persons gave the veterans. The parade was dedicated in Gavin's words "to all the guys who walked through the mud—the slogging G.I."

On display in the greatest parade since 1919, when General John J. Pershing led the First Division up the same avenue, were the tanks, the artillery, the vehicles and most of the combat equipment with which the Axis nations were crushed. And in the air were fighter planes and transport-towed gliders with which the Allies spearheaded their invasion of Hitler's European fortress.

Behind Gavin, who said he had "walked all over the damned earth," were the colors of the United States, Great Britain, Soviet Russia and France. Gavin strode briskly up the avenue with eyes front except when he saluted Gov. Thomas E. Dewey and other officials in the main reviewing stand and Cardinal-designate Francis J. Spellman on the steps of St. Patrick's Cathedral.

In the stand with Gov. Dewey were Mayor William O'Dwyer, Governor Walter E. Edge of New Jersey, acting Secretary of War Kenneth C. Royall, Admiral H. F. Leary, commander of the Eastern Sea frontier, and General Jonathan M. Wainwright, Corregidor hero and new Fourth Army commander.

At 42nd Street and Fifth avenue the storm of torn paper was so heavy it was difficult to see marchers half a block away. Near the corner a special reviewing stand held several hundred wounded veterans, some of them in wheel chairs.

Banners of the 82nd carried battle streamers of two wars and the men wore, in addition to their individual ribbons, the division-awarded Belgian fourragere and the Dutch lanyard. Marching with the 82nd were elements of the 13th, 17th and 101st Airborne divisions.

THE ARMY PLANS A FORCE OF 1,550,000 MEN BY NEXT JULY 1, OF WHICH 797,000 WILL BE OVERSEAS. WAR DEPARTMENT OFFICIALS SAID TONIGHT THAT ANY REQUIREMENTS UNDER UNO COMMITMENTS COULD BE MET OUT OF THIS FORCE.

IT IS ASSUMED THAT THE TWO AMERICAN OCCUPATION ARMIES IN GERMANY AND JAPAN IN THEMSELVES WILL CONSTITUTE PART OF THE SECURITY FORCE. IN ADDITION, THE PLANNED STRENGTH ORGANIZATION INCLUDES WHAT IS OFFICIALLY DESCRIBED AS A "SMALL STRATEGIC RESERVE." THIS WOULD BE MADE UP OF TROOPS--INFANTRY, AIRBORNE, ARMORED AND OTHERS--STATIONED IN THE UNITED STATES BUT READY FOR QUICK DEPLOYMENT IN AN EMERGENCY.

ARMY AIR FORCES HOPES TO HAVE A POSTWAR ORGANIZATION OF ABOUT 400,000 MEN AND ABOUT 70 GROUPS MADE UP OF APPROXIMATELY 6,500 PLANES. ELEMENTS OF THIS FORCE WILL BE STATIONED BOTH WITHIN AND OUTSIDE OF THE UNITED STATES. LIKE THE GROUND FORCE PLANNING, THE AIR FORCE FIGURES WERE DRAWN TO INCLUDE PROVISIONS FOR ANY UNO ACTIVITY.

BOTH GROUND AND AIR FORCES ARE LAYING EMPHASIS ON THE FAST-STRIKING, HIGHLY MOBILE FEATURES OF AIRBORNE OPERATIONS. COMPLEMENTING THE PROVISIONS FOR AIRBORNE DIVISIONS IN THE STRATEGIC RESERVE OF TROOPS ARE AIR FORCE PLANS FOR MAINTENANCE OF TROOP CARRIER PLANES AND GLIDERS.

BERLIN, JAN. 12-(AP)-BERLIN'S CENTRAL COMMITTEE ON VICTIMS OF FASCISM IS ASSEMBLING MATERIAL POINTING TO THE LIKELIHOOD THAT COMMANDER GUENTHER PRIEN, GERMANY'S TOP SUBMARINE ACE OF WORLD WAR II, WAS NOT DEAD AT THE TIME HIS U-BOAT WAS ANNOUNCED AS LOST BUT INSTEAD WAS INTERNED AT TORGAU CONCENTRATION CAMP IN SAXONY.

VARIOUS FORMER INMATES OF THE CAMP HAVE TESTIFIED THAT PRIEN, WHO DARINGLY SANK THE BRITISH BATTLESHIP ROYAL OAK IN THE HARBOR OF SCAPA FLOW IN OCTOBER, 1940, HAD BEEN SEEN, ALONG WITH A MAJORITY OF HIS CREW, AT TORGAU. THEY WERE ALSO REPORTED TO HAVE BEEN SEEN LATER AT ESTERWEGEN, POLITICS

BY JACK BELL

WASHINGTON, JAN 12-(AP)-CONGRESS COMES BACK TO WASHINGTON NEXT WEEK IN A POLITICAL QUANDARY THAT FINDS MANY MEMBERS EYEING THE NOVEMBER ELECTIONS WITHOUT KNOWING WHICH WAY TO JUMP ON AT LEAST FIVE MAJOR ISSUES.

A SAMPLING OF OPINION AMONG DEMOCRATS AND REPUBLICANS POINTED TO THESE AS CURRENT PUZZLERS:

STRIKES AND LABOR LEGISLATION, PARTICULARLY THE FACT-FINDING PROPOSAL WHICH PRESIDENT TRUMAN HAS MADE AND WHICH HE MAY URGE AGAIN IN HIS STATE OF THE NATION MESSAGE THURSDAY.

LOANS TO FOREIGN COUNTRIES, HEADED BY THE $3,375,000,000 PROPOSED ADVANCE TO GREAT BRITAIN.

PROJECTED MERGER OF THE ARMY AND NAVY INTO A SINGLE FIGHTING FORCE, A MOVE WHICH MR.TRUMAN HAS REQUESTED.

EXTENSION OF PRICE CONTROLS, ON WHICH MR.TRUMAN ALSO MAY BEAR DOWN IN HIS THURSDAY MESSAGE.

PEACETIME COMPULSORY MILITARY TRAINING, WHICH MR.TRUMAN HAS RECOMMENDED.

THESE ARE ISSUES ON WHICH MANY CONGRESS MEMBERS FRANKLY SAY THEY DON'T KNOW HOW THE WIND WILL BE BLOWING IN NOVEMBER, WHEN ALL THE HOUSE AND ONE-THIRD OF THE SENATE SEATS ARE TO BE FILLED. THEIR DECISIONS ON THESE ISSUES WILL AFFECT VITALLY MR.TRUMAN'S EFFORTS TO KEEP DEMOCRATIC CONTROL OF CONGRESS.

THE LEGISLATORS AREN'T SO WORRIED POLITICALLY ABOUT SOME OTHER PRESSING PROBLEMS SUCH AS DEMOBILIZATION, HOUSING, ATOMIC ENERGY CONTROL AND TAX ADJUSTMENTS. MOST OF THEM GUESS THAT IT WILL BE THE POPULAR THING TO GET THE BOYS OUT OF UNIFORM, BUILD HOUSES, KEEP THE BOMB SECRET AND REDUCE TAXES.

ON THE OTHER ISSUES LIKE THE FAIR EMPLOYMENT PRACTICES COMMISSION AND THE PROPOSED MINIMUM WAGE INCREASE MANY OF THEM ALREADY HAVE MADE THEIR RECORD OR KNOW EXACTLY HOW THEIR CONSTITUENCY WANTS THEM TO VOTE.

BUT THEY FIGURE THEY'LL HAVE TO GUESS RIGHT BEFORE THE PRIMARIES ON THE ISSUES THAT SPLIT THEIR MAIL DOWN THE MIDDLE, WITH GOOD POLITICAL FRIENDS ON BOTH SIDES.

A159WX

JUST NOW THE LABOR LEGISLATION PROBLEM OFFERS THE GREATEST MENACE TO THEIR PEACE OF MIND. THIS FLOWS ACROSS PARTY LINES, BUT WHAT THE PRESIDENT DOES IN THE NEXT FEW MONTHS MIGHT EASILY FORCE IT INTO A DEMOCRATIC-REPUBLICAN ISSUE.

ONE SOUTHERN DEMOCRATIC SENATOR SAID HE WANTS TO GO ALONG AS FAR AS HE CAN WITH PRESIDENT TRUMAN ON THE PROPOSAL TO SET UP LAW-BACKED FACT-FINDING BOARDS TO GIVE THE PUBLIC INFORMATION ABOUT LABOR AND MANAGEMENT CLAIMS. ANOTHER SOUTHERNER SAID IT WOULDN'T WORK, THAT 80 PER CENT OF THE PEOPLE WHO WROTE HIM ABOUT IT WERE AGAINST THE PRESIDENT'S SUGGESTIONS.

A REPUBLICAN SENATOR FROM A STATE THAT CAN SWING EITHER WAY POLITICALLY SAID BOTH SIDES SEEMED TO BE AGAINST IT, BUT THE PEOPLE WANT SOMETHING DONE TO STOP STRIKES AND GET CIVILIAN PRODUCTION GOING. HE CONFESSED HE DIDN'T KNOW WHAT TO PROPOSE.

A DEMOCRATIC HOUSE MEMBER PUT IT THIS WAY:

"MY DISTRICT IS POPULATED ALMOST ENTIRELY BY FARMERS. THEY GOT GOOD PRICES DURING THE WAR AND SAVED MONEY. THEY WANT NEW CARS, FARM MACHINERY AND TO FIX THEIR PLACES UP.

GOOD PRICES DURING THE WAR AND SAVED MONEY. THEY WANT NEW CARS, FARM MACHINERY AND TO FIX THEIR PLACES UP.

GOOD PRICES DURING THE WAR AND SAVED MONEY. THEY WANT NEW CARS, FARM MACHINERY AND TO FIX THEIR PLACES UP.
THEY BLAME THE FACT THAT THEY CAN'T GET WHAT THEY WANT ON STRIKES AND WANT CONGRESS TO ACT."

A DEMOCRAT WITH A CITY CONSTITUENCY NOTED THAT HE WAS ELECTED WITH ORGANIZED LABOR SUPPORT AND THE LABOR GROUPS ARE FIGHTING THE TRUMAN

FCT-FINDING PROPOSAL.

THE APPARENT BREAK-DOWN IN EFFORTS OF THE PRESIDENT'S FACT-FINDING BOARD IN THE GENERAL MOTORS CASE MAY MAKE THE SLEDDING ROUGH FOR HIS LEGISLATIVE PROPOSAL OF THE SAME NATURE. IT IS LIKELY TO SPAWN A RASH OF LABOR CONTROL BILLS.

PRICE CONTROLS ARE ALTERNATELY PRAISED AND BLASTED IN CONGRESSIONAL MAILS. CONGRESSMEN GENERALLY FEAR INFLATION, YET THEY GET THE BRUNT OF COMPLAINTS AGAINST GOVERNMENT RESTRICTIONS. MANY DON'T KNOW NOW WHETHER TO VOTE TO EXTEND OR WIPE OUT THE CONTROLS.

THE SAME SORT OF DILEMMA IS PRESENTED BY THE ARMY-NAVY MERGER PROPOSAL AND, IN A DIFFERENT WAY, BY THE PROPOSED LOANS TO FOREIGN COUNTRIES. PEACETIME CONSCRIPTION HAS STRONG ADVOCATES AND EQUALLY STRONG OPPONENTS.

AS THE LEGISLATORS VIEW IT NOW, THERE ARE A LOT OF POLITICAL BEAR TRAPS AHEAD IN THE FIRST FEW MONTHS OF 1946. THEY HOPE THEY PICK THE RIGHT TURN.

WASHINGTON,JAN 12-(AP)-CONGRESS HUSTLES BACK TO WORK MONDAY TO WRESTLE WITH ELECTION YEAR PROBLEMS PACKED WITH CONTROVERSY.

LABOR LEGISLATION AND DEMOBILIZATION TOP THE LIST.

BUT PLENTY OF OTHER ISSUES ARE ON TAP. NO SESSION IN YEARS HAS BEEN SO SURE OF SO MANY SCRAPS.

CONGRESSMEN, HOWEVER, ALREADY ARE AGREED ON TWO THINGS:

THE SECOND SESSION OF THE SEVENTY-NINTH CONGRESS WILL PUT PRESIDENT TRUMAN'S LEADERSHIP TO THE TEST. MR.TRUMAN HIMSELF THREW DOWN THE GAUNTLET. HE APPEALED STRAIGHT TO THE PEOPLE LAST WEEK TO TURN PRESSURE ON THE LAWMAKERS TO PRY LOOSE SOME OF HIS BOGGED-DOWN LEGISLATIVE PROGRAM.

EVERY ACTION AND EVERY SPEECH ON CAPITOL HILL WILL BE ASSAYED FOR POLITICAL CONTENT. A THIRD OF THE 96 SENATE SEATS AND ALL 435 IN THE HOUSE ARE AT STAKE IN THE NOVEMBER ELECTION.

FEW IMPORTANT BILLS ARE READY NOW FOR VOTES. MONDAY'S OPENING MEETINGS OF SENATE AND HOUSE ARE BILLED AS ROUTINE. THERE MAY BE MORE ROUTINE MEETINGS FOR A WHILE, EXCEPT FOR THOSE AT WHICH THE PRESIDENT'S ANNUAL MESSAGE AND ANOTHER BUDGETING GOVERNMENT EXPENSES WILL BE READ.

THE ANNUAL REPORT ON THE "STATE OF THE UNION" IS SET FOR JAN. 17; THE BUDGET GOES TO CONGRESS JAN. 21.

OFF THE SENATE AND HOUSE FLOORS IT WILL BE A DIFFERENT STORY. COMMITTEES HAVE PLENTY TO DO. AND FIRST THING TUESDAY MORNING AN INFORMAL SESSION OF SENATE AND HOUSE WILL TRY DOCTORING THE OLD DEMOBILIZATION HEADACHE IN THE SAME OLD WAY.

CONGRESSMEN WILL HEAR AND FIRE QUESTIONS AT GEN.DWIGHT D. EISENHOWER, ARMY CHIEF OF STAFF. THEY WANT TO FIND OUT WHY SO MANY SOLDIERS ARE COMPLAINING ABOUT THE RATE OF DISCHARGE AND WHAT WILL BE DONE ABOUT THE SITUATION.

THEY USED THE SAME PRESCRIPTION WITH TEMPORARILY BENEFICIAL RESULTS WHEN THEY LISTENED LAST FALL TO GEN.GEORGE C.MARSHALL, THEN CHIEF OF STAFF.

ADMIRAL CHESTER W.NIMITZ, CHIEF OF NAVAL OPERATIONS, WILL ATTEND TUESDAY'S CLINIC TO EXPLAIN THE NAVY'S CASE.

REGARDLESS OF WHAT HAPPENS THAT DAY, A SPECIAL SENATE SUBCOMMITTEE OPENS HEARINGS ON DEMOBILIZATION PROBLEMS THE NEXT MORNING. ACTING SECRETARY OF WAR KENNETH C.ROYALL WILL BE THE FIRST WITNESS.

BY ROBERT E.GEIGER

WASHINGTON,JAN.12-(AP)-AN AMERICAN LEGION REPORT TODAY SAID "SOME STATE GOVERNMENTAL AGENCIES AND CERTAIN PRIVATE ENTERPRISES ARE SABOTAGING HOME LOANS AND ON-THE-JOB-TRAINING OF VETERANS."

A REPORT WAS MADE ON THE STUDY BODY BY LEGION EXPERTS OF HOW THE GI BILL OF RIGHTS OPERATES IN VARIOUS STATES.

IT DEALT WITH PORTIONS OF THE BILL AUTHORIZING GOVERNMENT PAYMENT TO VETERANS WHILE THEY LEARN TRADES AND PERMITTING THE GOVERNMENT TO GUARANTEE LOANS, UP TO $4,000, FOR VETERANS TO BUY HOMES, FARMS OR SMALL BUSINESSES.

LEGION OFFICIALS DECLINED TO NAME THE STATES AND AGENCIES, AND T.O. KRAABEL, NATIONAL DIRECTOR OF REHABILITATION, TOLD A REPORTER "WE ARE NOT PREPARED TO MAKE ACCUSATIONS."

"THE REPORT IS ENTIRELY OBJECTIVE," HE SAID. "WE ARE CONCERNED WITH THE EFFECT OF THE OPERATIONS OF THE LAW IN VARIOUS STATES RATHER THAN WITH WHO IS RESPONSIBLE. THERE WILL BE A MORE DETAILED REPORT LATER."

LEGION INVESTIGATORS HAVE BEEN IN THE SOUTH AND NOW ARE IN NEW ENGLAND STATES, IN THE MIDWEST AND ON THE WEST COAST.

EACH STATE THEY HAVE VISITED KNOW ABOUT THEIR INVESTIGATIONS.

KRAABEL SAID INDENTURE APPRENTICESHIP LAWS RESTRICT THE TRADES OR BUSINESSES THAT A VETERAN MAY LEARN IN SOME STATES.

"A LEGION INVESTIGATOR FOUND THAT MEN ARE NOT PERMITTED TO EARN WHILE THEY LEARN; UNDER THE GI BILL, UNLESS THEIR TRAINING IS CONFINED AS TO WHAT ARE DEFINED BY THE STATE AS 'APPRENTICEABLE TRADES,'"

30.24-271

JAN 13 1946

THE REPORT SAID.

"IN ONE AREA OF THE STATE ONLY 2,500 APPRENTICESHIPS HAVE BEEN APPROVED FOR VETERANS AND NON-VETERANS ALIKE."

AT THE VETERANS ADMINISTRATION OFFICIALS SAID THAT IF A STATE AGENCY DECLINES TO APPROVE AN EMPLOYER'S JOB TRAINING PROGRAM THE EMPLOYER CAN APPEAL TO GEN.OMAR N.BRADLEY, VETERANS ADMINISTRATOR.

IN CONNECTION WITH HOME LOANS, COL.JOHN THOMAS TAYLOR, NATIONAL DIRECTOR OF LEGISLATION FOR THE LEGION, SAID REAL ESTATE MEN "ARE TURNING UP THEIR NOSES AT MENTION OF A GI LOAN DEAL AND TELLING VETERANS THE VETERANS ADMINISTRATION WON'T APPROVE APPRAISAL AT PRESENT PRICES."

TAYLOR SAID THAT UNDER THE AMENDED GI BILL A VETERAN WITH HIS LOAN INSURED THROUGH THE FEDERAL HOUSING ADMINISTRATION VIRTUALLY CAN OFFER CASH FOR A HOUSE.

AMENDMENTS TO THE GI BILL, APPROVED TWO WEEKS AGO, SIMPLIFY THE METHOD OF APPRAISING PROPERTY FOR VETERANS' LOAN AND PERMIT APPRAISAL AT PRESENT VALUATION.

ONLY YESTERDAY VETERANS' OFFICIALS PREDICTED "A FLOOD OF APPLICATIONS FOR LOANS" WHEN THE NEW RULES BECOME EFFECTIVE WITHIN 90 DAYS.

GENERAL BRADLEY SAID 46,836 LOANS HAVE BEEN APPROVED. OF THAT NUMBER 42,555 WERE FOR HOMES, 3,276 FOR SMALL BUSINESS AND 1,005 FOR FARMS.

(CX) REJECTION BY GENERAL MOTORS OF FACT-FINDING BOARD PROPOSALS, A BREAKDOWN IN NEGOTIATIONS IN THE STEEL INDUSTRY, AND HINTS THAT THE GOVERNMENT MIGHT SEIZE THE STRIKE-THREATENED STEEL AND MEAT PACKING INDUSTRIES AND THE STRIKE-CRIPPLED TELEPHONE SYSTEM, HIGHLIGHTED THE LABOR PICTURE THIS WEEKEND.

A LAST-MINUTE ATTEMPT TO HALT THE WALKOUT OF SOME 800,000 STEELWORKERS SET FOR MONDAY, CAME AS PRESIDENT TRUMAN SUMMONED TO WASHINGTON BENJAMIN F. FAIRLESS, U.S. STEEL PRESIDENT, AND PHILIP MURRAY, PRESIDENT OF THE CIO UNITED STEELWORKERS AND CIO CHIEF.

SOME STEEL PLANTS ALREADY WERE CLOSING DOWN IN ADVANCE OF THE STRIKE DEADLINE. VIRTUALLY ALL OPERATIONS AT BETHLEHEM STEEL COMPANY'S LACKAWANNA, N.Y., PLANT WERE SUSPENDED AS CIO-USA STAGED THE FIRST REPORTED WALKOUT. AT NEW KENSINGTON AND ARNOLD,PA., SOME 4,500 WALKED OUT.

THE NEGOTIATIONS BROKE DOWN FRIDAY AFTER THE UNION LOWERED ITS DEMAND FROM 25 CENTS AN HOUR TO 20 CENTS AND THE COMPANY COUNTERED WITH AN OFFER OF 15 CENTS.

IN THE THREE MONTH CIO DISPUTE WITH MOST OF THE OIL INDUSTRY A PRESIDENTIAL FACT-FINDING PANEL PROPOSED THAT WAGES GENERALLY BE INCREASED 18 PER CENT. ADOPTION OF THE PROPOSAL WOULD RAISE THE AVERAGE HOURLY PAY OF 25,000 WORKERS INVOLVED FROM $1.20 TO $1.40 AN HOUR. THIS HIKE WAS THE BASIS FOR SETTLEMENTS ALREADY REACHED BETWEEN THE OIL WORKERS UNION AND SEVERAL INDIVIDUAL COMPANIES. THE UNION HAD DEMANDED A 30 PER CENT INCREASE.

A PRESIDENTIAL FACT-FINDING BOARD'S RECOMMENDATION THAT GENERAL MOTORS CORPORATION GRANT A 19 1/2 CENT HOURLY INCREASE TO GM WORKERS, MEMBERS OF THE CIO UNITED AUTO WORKERS, WHO HAVE BEEN ON STRIKE FOR 53 DAYS, WAS UNCONDITIONALLY REJECTED BY THE CORPORATION.

A STATEMENT SIGNED BY C.E.WILSON, GM PRESIDENT, SAID THE RECOMMENDATION WAS REJECTED BECAUSE IT WAS BASED ON "THE UNSOUND PRINCIPLE THAT A SPECIFIC COMPANY SHOULD BE FORCED TO PAY HIGHER THAN COMPETITIVE WAGES BECAUSE OF ITS FINANCIAL ABILITY."

THE PROPOSED INCREASE AVERAGES ABOUT 17 1/2 PER CENT. THE UNION ORIGINALLY DEMANDED A 30 PER CENT BOOST, BUT IT HAD BEEN INDICATED THE UAW WOULD ACCEPT THE PRESIDENTIAL BOARD'S RECOMMENDATIONS. THE COMPANY HAS OFFERED A 13 1/2 CENT INCREASE.

UNLESS THE GOVERNMENT TAKES ACTION, THE WEEK IS DUE TO BEGIN WITH A "ONE-TWO-THREE" CIO BANG. THE 800,000 CIO STEELWORKERS HAVE ANNOUNCED THEY WILL WALK OUT MONDAY; ANOTHER 200,000 CIO ELECTRICAL WORKERS HAVE SLATED A STRIKE FOR TUESDAY, AND 200,000 CIO UNITED PACKINGHOUSE WORKERS, PLUS ANOTHER 135,000 AFL EMPLOYES, HAVE SET WEDNESDAY FOR THEIR WALKOUT. ALL THREE STRIKES ARE THE RESULT OF WAGE DISPUTES.

THESE IMPENDING WALKOUTS SHARED MAJOR ATTENTION YESTERDAY (SATURDAY) WITH THE NATIONWIDE WALKOUT OF TELEPHONE WORKERS WHICH BEGAN FRIDAY AFTER 8,000 WESTERN ELECTRIC TELEPHONE INSTALLATION WORKERS STRUCK EARLIER IN THE WEEK IN A WAGE DISPUTE.

NOT ALL TELEPHONE WORKERS OBSERVED PICKET LINES ESTABLISHED BY THE INSTALLATION WORKERS, BUT THE AMERICAN TELEPHONE AND TELEGRAPH COMPANY REPORTED THAT ONLY EIGHT PER CENT OF THE NORMAL 75,000 DAILY LONG DISTANCE CALLS ORIGINATING IN THE NEW YORK AREA WERE BEING HANDLED, BY EMERGENCY OPERATORS AND SUPERVISORS.

IN LOUISVILLE, ATTORNEYS FOR THE SOUTHERN BELL TELEPHONE CO., ANNOUNCED THEY WOULD SEEK A RESTRAINING ORDER AT ONCE TO HALT PICKETING OF THREE TELEPHONE EXCHANGES.

IN WASHINGTON, A GOVERNMENT OFFICIAL SAID SEIZURE OF THE TELEPHONE EXCHANGES MIGHT BE RECOMMENDED IF THE STRIKE SITUATION BECAME MORE ACUTE.

LIKEWISE, A FEDERAL CONCILIATOR IN CHICAGO SAID IF NEGOTIATIONS BREAK DOWN IN THE MEAT PACKING INDUSTRY, GOVERNMENT SEIZURE OF THE PLANTS INVOLVED IN THE WAGE DISPUTE OR APPOINTMENT OF A FACT FINDING BOARD WERE THE TWO POSSIBILITIES REMAINING FOR AVERTING A STRIKE JAN.16.

EDGAR L.WARREN, CHIEF OF THE U.S. CONCILIATION SERVICE, MADE THE COMMENT AFTER SWIFT AND ARMOUR REJECTED A GOVERNMENT OFFER OF PRICE RELIEF. SPOKESMEN FOR BOTH THE CIO AND AFL UNIONS INVOLVED AS WELL AS FOR THE MEAT INDUSTRY SAID THERE APPEARED LITTLE POSSIBILITY OF REACHING AN AGREEMENT ON THE WAGE ISSUE.

Byrnes Will Open U.N.O. Atom Talks

Plans 15-Minute Address on International Issues Today or Tomorrow

Britain Asks Speed On Military Set-Up

U.N.R.R.A. Gets Priority on Agenda; De Gaulle May Attend Sessions

By The Associated Press

LONDON, Jan. 13.—Secretary of State James F. Byrnes will open a general discussion of international issues, including atomic energy, in the United Nations Assembly either tomorrow or Tuesday, it was learned tonight.

The new peace agency's fourteen-member steering committee agreed in a three-and-a-half-hour session today to include the atomic energy question in the general discussion, which is expected to continue through Friday or Saturday.

Byrnes said he would open the discussion, and there was a possibility he might be selected to present to the Assembly the four-power plan for atomic energy control. He said he would speak for "about fifteen minutes."

Commission Plan Admitted

The steering committee also agreed that the resolution recommending establishment of a commission to deal with problems raised by atomic developments be presented from the Assembly floor. The resolution is sponsored by Russia, Great Britain, the United States, Canada, France and China.

Under the agreed procedure, suggested by Byrnes, the resolution would be referred to the U. N. O.'s political and security committee for consideration.

The steering committee placed a British proposal for facilitating the work of the United Nations Relief and Rehabilitation Administration on the agenda under matters of urgent importance for consideration at this session of the Assembly.

The committee decided against placing on the agenda a Cuban item asking for a declaration of the international duties and rights of man and nations. It was agreed this was covered in the United Nations Charter and the section of the Preparatory Commission report dealing with social questions.

Philippine Proposal Held Off

A Philippine proposal asking the Assembly to call an immediate international press conference under U. N. O. auspices "to formulate principles and adopt ways and means to insure and promote the establishment, operation and movement of a free press throughout the world" was held off the agenda.

The committee decided that the Philippine delegation should be asked to furnish further clarifying information, but agreed that once this had been done the proposal would be placed on the agenda for the next session of the Assembly.

Plans called for an Assembly meeting at 10 a. m. (5:30 a. m. Eastern standard time) tomorrow to elect the eighteenth member of the Economic and Social Council. There is a contest for the seat between New Zealand and Yugoslavia, neither of which attained the necessary two-thirds vote in yesterday's election, which chose seventeen members.

Delegations also were reported considering recommendations regarding the council's work, which many have described as the most important phase of UNO's operations, since it is designed to get at the causes of the war.

Delegates are to decide tomorrow which countries will be given three, two and one-year terms on the council. Six will be chosen for each period. Nations elected yesterday were Chile, China, Norway, the United Kingdom, Peru, Russia, the United States, Canada, Lebanon, Colombia, France, India, Belgium, Czechoslovakia, Ukraine, Cuba and Greece.

Two other matters shared the spotlight on the delegates' day off from assembly sessions—a probable early meeting, perhaps tomorrow, of the Security Council, and reports that the election of a UNO secretary-general might be postponed one or two weeks until the five major powers can agree on a nominee.

The council, empowered to control the international police force and call for world economic sanctions against aggressors, is expected to arrange an early meeting of the chiefs of staffs of the United States, Russia, Great Britain, France and China.

The military leaders will determine how many troops each of the 51 nations will contribute to the world police force.

The five major powers have permanent seats on the council, while the nonpermanent members are Australia, Brazil, Poland, Netherlands, Mexico and Egypt.

"Regrettable," Says Evatt

H. V. Evatt, Minister of External Affairs for Australia, commented today in Sydney that it was "very regrettable that Canada was not also selected" with Australia on the council. Evatt deprecated "the theory that only one British Dominion at a time can be included on the security council."

The name of Lester Pearson, Canadian Ambassador to the United States, continued to be most prominently mentioned for the $26,000 a year tax-free post as UNO secretary-general, but Russia was reported backing Sanoje Simic, Yugoslav Ambassador to the United States.

LONDON PAPER URGES UNO DRAFT EISENHOWER

LONDON, Jan. 13—(AP)—Lord Beaverbrook's Sunday Express urged today the drafting of Gen. Eisenhower as UNO secretary general, in an editorial terming a successful United Nations Organization "our last chance."

Coming after Secretary of State James F. Byrnes reported Gen. Eisenhower was unavailable for the post, the editorial said the general was "the man, the essential man, the only man" to become the "most powerful man in the world."

"General Eisenhower is reluctant to be thrust into any such eminence," the Express said. "If he were not, he would not be Eisenhower. But he will not refuse to be drafted. He would not be Eisenhower if he did."

2 Travel 10,000 Miles By Plane To Marry

London, Jan. 13 (AP)—Miss Louise McNeesh, of Dallas, Texas, and Flight Lieutenant James Fortieth, RAF officer, traveled more than 10,000 miles by plane for their wedding yesterday at Batley, Yorkshire, the Sunday Chronicle reported.

She came from Texas and he came from Burma. Both 22, the couple met in May, 1942, while he was training in an RAF school in the United States.

The bride will live at Batley while her husband returns to duty.

GI'S FORM 'LIBERATION COMMITTEE'

Ouster Of Patterson And Abolition Of Officers' Privileges Their Aim

Paris, Jan. 13 (AP)—A mass meeting of 500 American soldiers chose a "GI Committee of Liberation" today to present to the War Department demands for the ouster of Secretary Patterson and the abolition of special privileges for officers.

The GI's adopted the slogan: "We're in—help us out." Their program will be transmitted to a senatorial committee expected here this month to survey the demobilization situation.

Among Specific Demands

These were some of the specific demands:

1. Abolition of officers' messes, with all rations to be served in a common mess on a first-come-first-served basis.

2. The opening of all officers' clubs at all posts, camps and stations to officers and men alike.

3. Abolition of reserved sections for officers at recreational events.

4. Abolition of all special officers' quarters, and the requirement of all officers to serve at least one year as enlisted men except in time of war.

5. Reform of army courts-martial boards to include enlisted men.

Sergt. Raymond Redmond, Corpus Christi, Texas, chairman of the committee, said that if men were attracted to army service by such measures, the way would be cleared for the demobilization of those with sufficient points for discharge.

Roehm Staged Reichstag Fire, Hindenburg Told By Trooper

Munich, Jan. 13 (AP)—A copy of a letter written to Marshal von Hindenburg by a strom trooper fleeing the Hitler blood purge declares that Capt. Ernst Roehm, notorious head of the storm troopers, supervised setting fire to the Reichstag in February, 1933.

Allied intelligence officers, disclosing contents of the letter today, said it was written by Ernst Kruse, who described himself as the last survivor of 22 storm troopers who fired the Parliament Building.

Lubbe "Member Of Roehm's Staff"

Kruse wrote to von Hindenburg from Switzerland July 18, 1934, less than three weeks after the purge in which Roehm lost his life. He declared Marinus Van Der Lubbe, convicted of setting fire to the Reichstag, was actually a "madly ambitious" member of Roehm's staff.

The Nazis charged that Van Der Lubbe was a Communist, and he was beheaded January 10, 1934, on conviction of high treason and arson in connection with the fire.

"I am the last active member of the party who set the Reichstag on fire," Kruse told von Hindenburg. "For that reason I am meant no longer to be alive and probably like all my comrades would have been shot long ago if my chief of staff Roehm hadn't protected me and kept me in his personal entourage."

Allied intelligence officers who have searched vainly for Kruse point out that the Gestapo had ample time to run him down after he wrote.

Roehm's Role In The Fire

The letter declared Roehm ordered Van Der Lubbe to climb into the Reichstag alone and set fire to the anterooms. Without Van Der Lubbe's knowledge, the letter added, the main body of arsonists headed by Roehm was to set the main hall ablaze.

"We assembled in the cellar of the palace of the President of the Reichstag (Goering)," the letter said. Each member of the party had sacks containing a "light" powder and a roll of celluloid strips. The sacks were placed in designated places and the strips were unrolled toward the cellar's exit.

When the group returned to the cellar entrance, Roehm and another storm troop leader who headed the group ignited the strips. Roehm had made sure that Van Der Lubbe was still "jumping about in the adjoining hall," Kruse said.

Aim To Blackmail Communists

"Serpents of fire in all directions were encountered," said Kruse in describing the scene. "The air was full and everything was cloaked in a burning mist. We fled at once. The work was done."

The letter charged the purpose of the fire was to blackmail the Communists. Similar statements have been made repeatedly by Communists, who asserted at the time of Van Der Lubbe's trial that he was a Nazi "plant."

Kruse said Goebbels had wanted the fire as propaganda material against the Communists, and had ingratiated himself with storm troop leaders to gain his end.

When the SS (Elite Guard) gained the upper hand in a struggle with the storm troopers for dominance in German life, Roehm threatened to tell about the fire, and the stand cost him his life, the letter said.

Allied intelligence officers said they believe the letter is authentic but refused to disclose how they found it. No trace of the original has been discovered.

SECURITY STEPS TAKEN AT PASSAU

REGENSBURG, Germany, Jan. 13.—(AP) All U. S. troops in the Danube resort town of Passau were ordered today to carry guns at all times as new security precautions were enforced as the result of the death of three military government officers.

Army agents investigating the finding of the burned bodies of the three officers in a riverside cottage at Passau a week ago indicated they had uncovered a lead as to the origin of the fire.

"We are making satisfactory progress," an officer directing the investigation said.

One of the victims was identified as Lt. Stanley Rosewater of Omaha, Neb.

Meanwhile, the army doubled the guard around officers' billets. Officers who were living alone in requisitioned homes were moved into two hotels in the town.

Curfew regulations for German civilians were tightened and only those with special passes were permitted on the streets after 10:30 p. m.

McNARNEY RETAINING OLD RELEASE PLAN

FRANKFURT, Germany, Jan. 13—(AP) Gen. Joseph T. McNarney, U. S. commander in the European theater, has no new plans to speed redeployment or the discharge of men from duty in Europe, Brig. Gen. George S. Eyster, deployment chief in the theater, said today.

Eyster was advised of the announcement of army headquarters of the Mid-Pacific command revising discharge requirements so that enlisted men with 38 months service or 48 discharge points and officers with 47 months service or 65 discharge points were eligible for immediate discharge.

He replied that this evidently was a local order, and added:

"We are combing the theater in order to send home all surplus men. Otherwise our program stands and will do so until any new one is announced by the War department."

CONTI, HIGH NAZI, HANGS SELF IN NUERNBERG JAIL

NUERNBERG, Jan. 13—(AP)—Dr. Leonardo Conti, Nazi Germany's medical dictator who decreed the killing of hundreds of thousands of persons in his lust for "race purity," hanged himself in the Nuernberg jail three months ago, it was learned authoritatively today. U. S. Army authorities had kept his suicide a secret.

Conti garroted himself with his shirt 20 days before Dr. Robert Ley, Nazi labor boss, took his own life in a nearby cell block. Both were buried in the same cemetery. Conti's grave was marked erroneously, identifying him as an Italian and adding only his abbreviated name "L. Conti.

The stocky SS Gruppenfuehrer had served directly under Hermann Goering, Wilhelm Frick and Heinrich Himmler as chief of Reich health. He was to have been a prosecution witness against Frick in the war crimes trial.

Dr. Robert M. W. Kempner of Lansdowne, Pa., a German-born attorney who prepared the case against Frick, said he never had been informed by the American army's internal security guard of the manner of Conti's death. Kempner intended to announce in court when the Frick case was reached, probably tomorrow, that Conti was dead. This would have been the first public hint from any official source of the Nazi scientist's fate.

Conti, 45, left behind a written message to his wife and three children which never was delivered by American jail officials.

An American soldier serving in the jail last October said Conti, in a fit of despondency, climbed on a chair, tied a shirt sleeve around his neck, fastened the shirt to one of six metal spikes stuck in the wall around the window of his solitary cell and then slumped off the chair.

Autopsy Performed

On Oct. 5 Conti's name appeared for the last time on the roster of the "internee wing" of the jail submitted to higher army officers by Col. B. C. Andrus, commander of the internal security detachment. On Oct. 6 the body was delivered to a laboratory of the American 116th General Hospital. An autopsy performed there showed Conti expired from the effects of strangulation.

Conti advocated "guinea pig" experimentation with human beings. His career was a mixture of fanatical politics and weird scientific whims. Rightist radical while he was a college student in 1918, Conti established the anti-Semitic kampfbund and early joined Hitler's Nazi movement.

Born in Lugano, Switzerland of Italian-Swiss heredity, Conti spearheaded the medical wing of the cult of the so-called Nordic supermen and Aryan supremacy.

As state secretary for health in the Reich ministry of the interior he relentlessly pursued Jewish doctors, forcing them by stringent legislation to go abroad. In 1939 he helped promulgate secret decrees empowering German jails, insane asylums, homes for the aged and other institutions to kill inmates under the guise of "mercy."

He sponsored a variety of experiments in which humans were killed to determine the effects of bacteria and poisons and supported widescale sterilization of the "biologically unfit." In 1943 Conti assumed the task of liquidating foreign slave workers after they became broken physically.

No official comment was available on why his death was kept secret for three months.

U. S. Praised for Aid To Fleeing Polish Jews

Dr. Goldman Says Army Helps Those Reaching Zone

BAD TOELZ, Germany, Jan. 13 (AP).—Dr. Nahum Goldman, of New York, chairman of the executive committee of the World Jewish Congress, praised the United States Army today for it treatment of the Polish Jews who have been infiltrating into the American occupied zone.

"The United States Army has shown a remarkably sympethetic understanding of the reasons which are motivating these Jews to leave countries where life is intolerable for them and to try to reach the American zone, which has won a reputation as a haven for those suffering people," Dr. Goldman said.

Greek Factions Proclaim Unity In Athens Rally

Liberals and Conservatives Make Common Cause of Anti-Fascism, Right or Left

ATHENS, Jan. 13 (AP).—Six major conservative and liberal Greek parties, throwing aside political differences, proclaimed a program of unity at a rally attended by 75,000 persons in the Athens football stadium today.

The political groups met on common ground for the first time in thirty years. The monarchy-favoring Populists and the Liberals announced a coalition last week. The accord later was joined by four other parties. Continued harmony between the liberal and conservative factions would give them a powerful political organization for the March 31 elections.

Today's speakers included Panayotis Kanellopoulos, Unionist leader; former Premier George Papandreou, Social Democrat; Sophocles Venizelos, Liberal; Constantine Tsaldaris and Peter Mavromichalist, Populists; General Stylianos Gonatos, National Liberal, and Apostolos Alexandres, Reformist.

"We hate all Fascism," said Papandreou, "either left or right." He repudiated what he referred to as accusations by E. A. M.-K. K. E. leftists that the right and center parties were anti-Soviet.

He referred to proposed understandings with neighboring countries with the statement: "Our Balkan neighbors must settle their accounts of war before we can come to any terms with them." At this remark the throng shouted "Down with Bulgaria!"

Papandreou declared the conservative-liberal groups would demand return to Greece of the Dodecanese Islands and northern Epirus.

Venizelos, who led a segment of the liberal parties in a break with the present Premier Themistokles Sophoulis and was largely instrumental in arranging the coalition with the Populists, invited all parties seeking Greek unity to join the movement. He referred to the accord which stated that neither party would seek the return of King George II before the plebiscite scheduled for 1948.

PRESS CURBED IN BUDAPEST

Censorship On Foreign Affairs Articles Follows Criticism

Budapest, Jan. 13 (AP)—Official censorship was imposed today upon items in Budapest newspapers dealing with foreign policy, as an aftermath of an article in the Communist daily Free People which suggested that Americans and British in Hungary lived too well while Hungarians starved.

The article quoted a letter of an American soldier stationed in France to the Army newspaper Stars and Stripes, stating "I can't understand, when millions and millions of women and children, old and young, are on the verge of starvation why they insist upon stuffing us. Let them send me less food and more to needy European nations."

Yank Menu Cards Cited

The article then said "nobody expects American soldiers staying here . . . to starve for our sake, but where has a Hungarian worker seen such menu cards as published below?"

The article quoted the menu for meals on two days in October, but did not mention that the Americans supply their own food where feasible, including such critical items as coffee, tea, sugar and milk.

Ordered To Fire Author

The criticism drew sharp attacks from other Budapest dailies, and the official Hungarian agency said: "The Government disapproves most decidedly. It has ordered Free People immediately to discharge the author, and has addressed a serious warning to the paper that should it publish another similar article the Government would apply far more serious measures. In order to prevent the repetition of such cases, the Government introduces censorship of articles dealing with foreign policy, affecting all newspapers.

The Russians are senior members of the Allied commission here and the Government ordinarily would not take such steps without Soviet concurrence.

PAVELITCH IS ACCUSED

Croatian Puppet on Yugoslavs' List of 42 War Crimnals

BELGRADE, Yugoslavia, Jan. 13 (AP)—The Yugoslav war-crimes commission proclaimed twenty-seven German officials and fifteen Croatians war criminals today and charged that they were responsible for the death of more than 40,000 Yugoslavs.

The Croatians listed included Dr. Ante Pavelitch, head of the wartime Croatian Government, and top men in his Cabinet. The commission said the crimes for which the accused men were responsible included the slaying of 7,000 Jews in a concentration camp at Sajmishte, the former fair grounds on the outskirts of Belgrade.

'Pravda' Examines Spain

Asserts Serious Discussion Must Include All Great Powers

MOSCOW, Jan. 13 (AP).—The Communist party newspaper "Pravda" hinted today that Russia wants a chance to express its views if the major powers reexamine their relations with Franco Spain.

Commenting on the French proposal to the United States and Great Britain on reconsideration of relations with Spain, "Pravda's" international reviewer said: "It is clear that a serious discussion of this question is unthinkable without participation of all the great powers which bear the main responsibility for upholding the peace and universal security."

Russia and Spain do not maintain diplomatic relations.

Indonesians Kill Six British-India Troops

Batavia, Java, Jan. 13 (AP)—A British battery commander and five Indian troops were killed and six other British-Indian troops were wounded today in an ambush by Indonesians near Soerabaja.

Another Indian soldier was wounded by mortar fire in the East Java area, and an Indian patrolman was wounded by snipers at Bandoeng.

The Indonesian police chief of Buitenzorg, as a symbol of co-operation with the British, surrendered 29 Dutch carbines. The British returned the guns to the Indonesian police.

Brooklyn Soldier Released

CALCUTTA, India, Jan. 13 (AP)—Five thousand United States enlisted men in the India-Burma theatre, in the second mass protest meeting here in four days, heard charges today that the War Department and theatre authorities were confusing the demobilization issue and that non-essential items were being loaded for shipment home.

The soldiers adopted a resolution demanding that Congress "stimulate the demobilization of all military personnel and effect the immediate repatriation of all men not absolutely essential to the fulfillment of our overseas responsibilities."

The men demanded the opportunity to submit their charges to representatives of the Senate military subcommittee that has been appointed to review the redeployment situation.

A soldier-appointed group is compiling a list of what the soldiers claim are instances of "waste of manpower in this theatre."

Hospital Releases Soldier

Thunderous applause greeted the reappearance of Pvt. Norman Owen of 8618 Twenty-fourth Avenue, Brooklyn, who was released from the 142d General Hospital, where he had been taken for examination after having prepared and distributed handbills announcing last Thursday's meeting. Private Owen presented the new resolution, copies of which are being sent to the Senate and House Military Affairs Committees.

Violations Of Truce Pact Claimed As Chinese Cease-Fire Time Nears

Chungking, Jan. 13 (AP) — The Government and Communists charged each other today with violating China's truce agreement, but the flurry appeared subsiding as the midnight cease-firing deadline neared.

Chou En-lai, the Communist negotiator, lodged a formal protest against advances which he said Government forces had made in Jehol but was assured that the Government would cease all operation in the province by the deadline, as agreed in last Thursday's truce.

Later, however, a spokesman for the National Military Council alleged the Communists themselves had violated the truce.

Chou Expresses Uneasiness

Mao Tse-ting, Chinese Communist chairman, issuing his cease-fire order from Yenan, declared today China "has entered upon a new stage of peace and democracy."

Chou had expressed uneasiness over a Government advance in strategic Jehol, saying national troops were "very close" to Chihfeng, important railway city near the center of that northern province.

The Government disclosed Chou was assured that in no circumstances would Chihfeng be occupied. Chou admitted it was possible the advancing troops had not yet received orders to halt.

Commission In Peiping

A three-man commission, one of them representing the United States, arrived by plane in Peiping to establish executive headquarters and see that both sides live up to the agreement halting hostilities.

Before Chou laid his case before the Government, the Communist New China Daily News charged that national troops were but 80 miles from Chengteh (Jehol), provincial capital, and Saturday had "ferociously attacked" Communist positions near Kupehkow on Jehol's south border.

The military council spokesman declared the Communist charges were "absolutely unwarranted," and that the Communists themselves were continuing military operations in southern Shantung and western Honan.

Much Bustle Behind Scenes

He reiterated that the council had told all commanders to carry out the cease-fire order by midnight tonight at the latest, and said both sides recognized there might be delay in notifying remote fronts.

There was much bustle behind the scenes in Chungking as delegates to the Political Consultation (unity) Conference discussed and tried to settle some outstanding problems during today's recess.

Generalissimo Chiang Kai-shek was reported discussing today with Gen. George C. Marshall issues still to be met for the unification of China. Marshall was the generalis-

The Chinese leader's elder son, Chiang Chung-kuo, returned to Chungking from Moscow, where he was reported to have delivered a personal letter from his father to Generalissimo Stalin.

CHENNAULT BACK IN CHINA; HINTS OF AIR BUSINESS

CHUNGKING, Jan. 13 — (AP)— Maj. Gen. Claire L. Chennault hinted today that his return to China might be connected with commercial air transport development but declined to be specific about his quiet mission here.

Chennault, organizer of the famed Flying Tigers and wartime chief of the 14th U. S. Army Air Force, arrived in Chungking Friday from Shanghai but presence was disclosed only today. He said he already had seen Generalissimo Chiang Kai Shek and the government truce representative, Gen. Chang Chun, and intended to visit General Marshall soon.

While Chennault had comment on rumors that he might become personal advisor to Chiang Kai-Shek, he denied that he had any connection with the Chinese Air Force training program or that he had been asked to recruit Americans to work for China.

The airman said he had come to China in a "largely private" capacity. Asked if this might involve commerce, he said, "possibly."

China's inadequate ground communications enhance her need for air transport, he said, adding that China was anxious to go into the plane-manufacturing business and that she should use Chinese personnel for her air force but should employ foreigners in key positions in civilian transport.

Asked about his retirement from the army after the war, Chennault laughed and said he had retired "until the next war." He said his present visit was to be for three or four months, but pointed out, "the last time I came for three or four months I stayed eight years."

Marshall's Wardrobe And Houseboy Vanish

CHUNGKING, Jan. 13 (AP).—A large part of General George C. Marshall's wardrobe was missing today — along with a Chinese houseboy.

Chinese police search for the boy was stimulated greatly by fear of Generalissimo Chiang Kai-shek's ire when he hears of the incident.

Unless the clothes are returned, officers protecting the American envoy's home stand to lose "face"—a tragedy in dignity-conscious China.

Italians Paving Way For Envoy To China

Chungking, Jan. 13 (AP)—Three Italian officials have arrived in Chungking and are arranging for the arrival of Italy's first postwar ambassador to China.

China declared war on Italy and Germany immediately after the Japanese attack on Pearl Harbor.

The trio is headed by Enrico Anzialotti, counsellor, who is acting as charge d'affaires. Others are Baron Allesandro Farace di Villaforesta, who is going to Shanghai as consul after arrangements have been completed with the Chinese Government, and Filiberto Bonaventura, chancellor.

The three Italians have been in Chungking for five days. They expect their ambassador, Francesco Fransoni, to arrive in China in March or April. Fransoni is a career diplomat who started as vice consul in New York in 1913 and last was Italian minister at Lisbon.

MacArthur Gives Green Light To Ballot After March 15

Both Chinese factions claim violations of truce pact.... Page 4

Tokyo [Monday], Jan. 14 (AP)—Kyodo news agency said today that investiture of three new ministers in Premier Kijuro Shidehara's shuffled Cabinet took place last night in the imperial palace—a few hours after General MacArthur authorized holding of a national election any time after March 15.

The investiture, witnessed by the Emperor, came after an unexplained delay of more than twelve hours.

The three invested were Sempachi Soejima, Minister of Agriculture and Forestry; Chuzo Mitsuchi, Home Minister and temporarily also assuming the transportation portfolio, and Yoshishige Abe, Minister of Education.

Still Criticized By Press

The investiture report did not mention Wataru Narahashi, new chief Cabinet secretary, and Akiyochi Tajiri, his deputy.

All metropolitan newspapers bitterly criticized the new Cabinet. There were some reports that additional changes might be expected in the old Cabinet, including replacement of Sankuro Ogasawara, Minister of Commerce and Industry. Asahi Shimbun said there was a suspicion that he once held the position of councillor to the Imperial Rule Association and that he might be ineligible under MacArthur's purge directives.

The Far Eastern Commission today arranged a meeting January 24 with legal authorities of American military command to discuss war crimes. It also will confer Thursday with the American military government and import-export section officers following a two-day visit to factory areas, the Yokohama area and the Kamakura shrine.

The election had been tentatively scheduled for late this month, but Kyodo news agency had predicted the two-month postponement in order to give time to weed out candidates affected by MacArthur's recent orders purging ultra-Nationalists and warmakers from official positions.

The MacArthur directive authorizing the election said, "it is of the greatest importance that every step possible be taken looking toward a free and untrammeled expression of the people's will in this election. To such an end, you will give fullest publicity to penal provisions of the law and will take such steps as may be necessary to ensure their vigorous enforcement, to preserve inviolate the secrecy of the ballot and to further such safeguards as may from time to time be communicated to you by the supreme commander."

Meanwhile the swearing-in of the new members of Premier Kijuro Shidehara's cabinet was delayed without explanation.

It was assumed that the five new ministers in yesterday's reorganization had not yet been approved by MacArthur's headquarters.

The Tokyo press continued to assail the cabinet, saying that the new members were "old-time bureaucrats," that the change was "for the worse," and predicting another early shakeup.

GI Condemned As Killer Of 2 Japanese Men

Osaka, Japan, Jan. 13 (AP)—An American soldier has been condemned to death by a court-martial which convicted him of murder in the deaths of two Japanese on the eve of his departure for a replacement depot to return to the United States.

The soldier's name was withheld pending review of the case, believed to be the first in which death penalty has been imposed on an American for a crime against the Japanese.

Testimony was that the soldier killed the Japanese after drinking whisky, bear and sake at the ancient city of Nara on November 24.

Witnesses testified that the soldier was walking in the park with two friends when he saw two Japanese men also strolling there and shouted to his companions, "Come on, let's get 'em."

One Japanese escaped but the other was overtaken and fatally stabbed in the head, neck and shoulders before the soldier's friends could pull him away. A few minutes later another Japanese man was slain in identical fashion.

The soldier went on to Nagoya where he was arrested the following day while awaiting processing for return to the United States.

ORDER IS RESTORED BY HAITIAN TROOPS

Phillip CLARKE

Schools, Businesses to Reopen, Air Transport Flights Scheduled.

PORT-AU-PRINCE, Haiti, Jan. 13.—(AP) Haitian troops slowly restored order in Port-Au-Prince today after a wild night in which some natives celebrating the ouster of resident Elie Lescot looted and burned property.

The disorders continued despite an 8:30 p. m. curfew. Although there was sporadic shooting on the outskirts of the city and near the citadel hotel where a number of Americans were quartered, no additional casualties were reported. The death toll, since the uprising against Lescot's dictatorial regime began a week ago, was estimated at 25.

The capital was swept by rumors that "the Marines are coming" after four U. S. destroyers appeared in the outer harbor and a squadron of American Navy planes flew over the city. The ships disappeared after cruising about for two hours. A U. S. embassy source said the destroyers were only on maneuvers.

Radio stations continued to broadcast political speeches for and against the new military junta which seized the government. Most of the speakers, however, favored the junta, which now has formed a six-man military cabinet to rule this French-speaking Caribbean republic.

It was announced that schools and businesses would reopen tomorrow, and Pan American Airways said it would resume its flights here after a four-day suspension.

Army Goods Destroyed on Luzon, Sergeant Tells Senate Probers

JAN

MANILA, Jan. 13—(AP) A sergeant stood before a room full of generals today and told two senators investigating surplus property disposal that the Army had ordered good shoes, blankets and field jackets burned at Batangas base "R" on Luzon.

Col. Raymond R. Oxrieder, base commandant, advised of the charge, immediately issued a statemen asserting that the only Army clothing destroyed was mildewed and rotted beyond salvage.

The Army public relations office here reported that Senator Knowland (R-Calif.) had asked for plane transportation to Batangas Monday, presumably to make an investigation on the spot.

The sergeant, Emil Mazey of Detroit, Mich., told Knowland and Senator Tunnell (D-Del.) that they could get affidavits from hundreds of men at the base if the soldiers were assured protection against court martial.

At the outset, Tunnell told Mazey and eight other soldiers on a committee who had come to protest the War department's slowdown of demobilization that his sub-committee was not authorized to inquire into demobilization.

Mazey said, however, that he wanted to show that keeping large bodies of troops in the Philippines was wasting government funds and property and that the committee should recommend demobilization to stop it.

The sergeant then asserted that it was costing more than $3,000,000 a month to maintain 10,000 U. S. soldiers and 19,000 Filipino civilians to guard and service Army property which the soldier committee estimated had no more than $5,000,000 salvage value.

Lt. Gen. W. D. Styer, commander in the western Pacific, told the committee, however, that 5,000,000 tons of equipment and supplies with a book value of $5,000,000,000 still awaited classification and sale as surplus.

Colonel Oxrieder's denial of Mazey's charge said that any property destroyed was "through orderly and approved salvage procedures."

"There is some clothing being destroyed in salvage—some from New Guinea that was stored in the open," his statement declared. "Some is completely rotted.

"Every bale is opened and each piece is inspected. Every piece usable is laundered. Every piece that can be used is saved. That which is mildewed and rotted is burned."

Phone Union Votes Strike, Defers It 30 Days, Bids Mechanics Return Today, Call Off Pickets; G. M. Strikers Agree to Go Back for 17½% Rise

Nation-Wide Phone Strike Put Off a Month Under the Smith-Connally Act

Western Electric Men Told to Return

Government Had Already Drafted Legal Papers for Seizing Phone Lines

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON, Jan. 13.—The National Federation of Telephone Workers' executive board said tonight a strike of 250,000 telephone workers would be delayed thirty days and that it had requested withdrawal of pickets from telephone exchanges.

The action followed immediately on a decision to order a strike and was taken "on advice of counsel," the board announced.

A federation spokesman said it would adhere "strictly to provisions of the Smith-Connally act and has directed its member unions to file thirty-day strike notices."

Further, the spokesman said, the federation has requested striking Western Electric Company workers to withdraw the picket lines around telephone exchanges, the primary cause for the present telephone stoppage.

The federation requested the Association of Communications Equipment Workers, federation affiliate which struck Wednesday at the Western Electric Company, to "defer the strike, withdraw their pickets and turn the issues in dispute over to the N. F. T. W."

Expects Men to Return

Asked if this meant the Western Electric strike would be called off, the spokesman replied:

"I think they'll go back to work in the morning."

Joseph A. Beirne, president of the National Federation of Telephone Workers, earlier had announced that the federation's executive board had ordered a nation-wide strike.

Mr. Beirne, after a four-and-one-half-hour executive board conference, said the federation's forty-eight member locals would determine "just when and how and in what manner" the strike call would be carried out.

Announcing the action several hours after government efforts to avert such a strike had failed, Mr. Beirne declared it would affect radio stations, news printers and "many things serviced by leased lines in the telephone industry."

A Labor Department spokesman said legal papers necessary for government seizure of telephone systems already were drafted. Officials have made it clear that the government would be unwilling to permit a "total collapse" of communications such as was mentioned yesterday by a union spokesman in discussing strike prospects.

Question of Seizure

The Labor Department official, who asked that his name be not used, said the question of government seizure might hinge not on the actual calling of a general company strike but on how successful such a walkout proves.

He said the telephone company reported that its operations over the nation ran about 71 per cent of normal yesterday, despite picket lines of installation workers which some union operators refused to cross.

The nation-wide strike, originally threatened by the union as a walkout in sympathy with the strike of Western Electric Company employees, will embrace federation wage demands including a $2-a-day increase, Mr. Beirne said.

The union also is demanding a return to a forty-hour week and a minimum wage of 65 cents an hour.

Government conciliation efforts to avert the strike broke down during the day. Thereupon union officials went into conference on the strike decision.

[Late last night the A. C. E. W. local in New York showed no signs of compliance with the request of the national federation that it call off its strike and its pickets. James C. Johnson, vice-president of the local, said 800 pickets had been summoned to duty at 7:30 a. m. and "we are not withdrawing them" until more complete instructions were known.]

[In the New York area 1,000 long-distance operators were already out in sympathy with the A. C. E. W. Members of the Federation of Long Lines Telephone Workers, an N. F. T. W. affiliate, they stayed away from work for a third day rather than cross picket lines at the A. T. and T. central offices at 32 Avenue of the Americas.

[Employees of the New York Telephone Company, which maintains local and toll call service, are members of four independent unions not affiliated with the N. F. T. W. But it appeared highly doubtful that they would attempt, in the event of a national strike, to cross picket lines which would undoubtedly be established by other unions throughout the area.

[Mrs. Marion L. Horn, chairman of the executive committee of the Traffic Employees Association, representing 13,500 local operators employed by the telephone company, said if picketing were "complete and effective" at all of the more than 200 central offices in the area, they would not go to work.

[She asserted that the local operators have so far crossed A. C. E. W. picket lines because they were "thin" and non-existent at

Auto Union Accepts Panel's Report; NLRB Orders Hearing in G-M Dispute

Fact Finder's Proposal for 17 1-2 Pct. Increase Approved by Strikers.

DETROIT, Jan. 13—(AP)—Representatives of 175,000 striking auto workers today approved a government-sponsored wage compromise already rejected by General Motors Corp. as a basis for settlement of the 54-day-old walkout.

About 200 delegates of the C.I.O. United Auto Workers' GM council, shelving for the first time their 30 percent demands, agreed to accept a 17 1-2 percent wage boost endorsed by a Presidential fact-finding committee last week.

Seek Truman's Aid

They urged President Truman to persuade the corporation to reconsider its unqualified rejection of the compromise.

Meanwhile, in Washington, the National Labor Relations board intervened in the dispute by agreeing to hear union charges that General Motors, the industry's largest producer, has failed to bargain collectively on wages.

General Motors, through a spokesman, said its rejection of the proposed 17 1-2 per cent increase "still stands" despite the union's action. It offered no comment on the NLRB action.

The union council warned that, unless GM reconsidered this action and accepts the compromise by Jan. 21, The U.A.W.-C.I.O. will revert to its original 30 percent demand.

Will Delay G-M Work

The U.A.W.-C.I.O. also announced that 2,500 members in nearly 200 tool and die jobbing plants will be asked to put General Motors work "under the bench" for the duration of the strike.

The same request for cessation of work on GM material will be made of parts and accessory workers "if necessary," the statement added.

The council acted upon a recommendation of the union's executive board. There were only a score of dissenting votes from the 200 delegates.

The acceptance of the compromise will require ratification from locals at nearly 100 GM plants across the nation. However, support is usually given recommendations of the council by the rank and file.

"The position of the executive board should not be construed as evidence we are backing down on our 30 percent demand," William McAulay, a U.A.W.-C.I.O. regional director, told newsmen. "It is only a temporary stop-gap."

McAulay explained that the union is willing to settle the strike on a basis of 17 1-2 percent—or about 19 1-2 cents an hour—and seek additional raises later if production justifies it.

President Truman's fact-finding board, attempted to bring the two sides together in a series of recent hearings. However, the corporation halted the fact-finding sessions on the grounds that the government was taking into account its "ability to pay" as a basis for settlement of the wage issue.

Delegates to the national U. A. W.-C. I. O. General Motors conference, representing 300,000 workers on strike, have carefully considered the report of your fact-finding board in a special meeting in Detroit today.

We have voted to recommend to the General Motors workers that they accept the board's recommendations of a 19½-cent-an-hour wage increase and reinstatement of the 1945 contract on the following conditions: That you are successful in persuading the corporation to reconsider and accept the board's recommendations by Jan. 21, 1946. We are willing to postpone achievement of our full equity in the situation in the public interest. For that reason, and that alone, we make the above offer.

Unless the corporation changes its present position and accepts the recommendations, it must assume full responsibility for prolonging the strike and for forcing upon the General Motors strikers and the nation further hardship.

Will Withdraw Offer Jan. 21

In the event the corporation does not accept the board's recommendations by Jan. 21, we shall have no choice but to withdraw our offer to accept the board's recommendation of a 19½-cent-an-hour increase and insist upon our equitable demands.

If you are able to secure the corporation's acceptance of the 19½-cent increase and the reinstatement of the 1945 contract, and the corporation negotiates a satisfactory settlement of local issues, on that basis we are prepared to terminate the strike.

We welcome the clear statement in the fact-finding board's report that the wage increase will not require any price increase. We believe that this represents a smashing victory for the General Motors workers, for the policies of your administration, Mr. President, and for the American consumers as a whole.

We believe that the courage and sacrifice of the men and women who have manned the General Motors picket lines for nearly sixty days deserve the

G. M. Union's Letter to Truman

DETROIT, Jan. 13 (AP).—The following is the text of the letter which the General Motors Council of the Congress of Industrial Organizations United Auto Workers sent to President Truman today urging him to "persuade the corporation to reconsider and accept" a fact-finding board's decision on General Motors wage issues:

30.24 — 277

honor and respect of every American for the successful fight they have made to hold the price line. They have been and still are a bulwark against higher prices and inflation.

Our offer to you, to accept the board's recommendation for a 19½-cent-an-hour increase, is made as our contribution to the national interest and with a view to achieving full production and full employment at the earliest date. We are constrained to say that the 19½-cent-an-hour figure does not grant the G. M. workers the increase which the arithmetic of our case proved and justified.

The 19½-cent wage increase which the fact-finding board recommends represents a finding of fact for the volume of production achieved in 1941. The fact-finding board, in assuming that 1946 production levels would not exceed 1941 levels, departed seriously not only from the facts of the General Motors case but from the objectives of new high levels of production and employment without which the economic basis of peace cannot be achieved.

General Motors workers have more faith than your fact-finding board in America's ability to achieve record levels of production in 1946. The war demonstrated the productive ability of our tools of abundance. We want to use these tools of abundance in peace and we want to use them in full in 1946. Record volume of production in auto and other industries can be achieved i 1946. Maximum production is our most potent weapon against inflation; 1946 levels of auto production will far exceed the 1941 levels.

The board's report lays the basis on which the General Motors workers can in the future rightly claim additional compensation as we achieve these higher levels of production.

"We believe you should call to the attention of the American people the record of capricious irresponsibility displayed by General Motors in this dispute. The General Motors Corporation refused to bargain in good faith, refused government counciliation, rejected arbitration, scorned co-operation with your fact-finding board, and now, within twenty-four hours after its report was issued, and without giving it serious consideration, General Motors has rejected the board's recommendation.

"It is regrettable that in our democracy the managerial clique that rules this $2,000,000,000 corporation can be self-deluded into thinking of itself as a sovereign state, not subject to the same moral laws that regulate our other institutions and not responsible to the interests of the nation and its people.

"Since the corporation has rejected the board's recommendations, we are forced to intensify further our strike action.

"We are, therefore, informing you that we are requesting the U. A. W.-C. I. O. strike strategy committee to take steps to see that U. A. W. members in tool and die jobbing shops immediately cease work on all General Motors work. If necessary, we shall ask that the same action be taken in plants working on General Motors parts and accessories, in order to bring the full weight of the union's economic pressure to bear upon the corporation. This is an economic weapon whose use we had withheld thus far in the hope that a fair settlement could be reached without resorting to that action. But apparently economic force is the only language this insolent corporation understands."

ELECTRIC UNIT STRIKE CALLED FOR TOMORROW

JAN 14 1946

Westinghouse, G.E., G.M. Rejected Offers For Delay, Union Says

Washington, Jan. 13 (AP)—Neil Brant, Washington representative of the CIO-United Electrical Workers, said today that telegrams have been sent out advising the 200,000 union members that their strike scheduled for Tuesday will be carried out.

Brant said General Electric and Westinghouse companies and the electrical division of General Motors Corporation had rejected union proposals for postponing the strike.

Telegram To 124 Locals

Brant sent the following telegram to 124 locals and officers directing the strike preparations at the three companies, in the name of James J. Matles, director of organization:

"General Electric and Westinghouse yesterday rejected union proposal that strike be postponed on basis that both companies offer a 15-cent per hour wage increase and agree to negotiate the remainder of the $2 demand.

"General Motors rejected union demand that they abide by fact-finding board's recommendations of 19½ cents wage increase.

"In view this, strike goes on as scheduled Tuesday morning."

5 A.M. Stoppage Slated

Brant said the telegrams were sent from here instead of the union's headquarters in New York because of the strike tieup of Western Union facilities in the New York area.

The United Electrical Workers' representative said the strike was set to begin at all operations of the three electrical manufacturers one hour before the start of the day shift. This would time the stoppage at 5 A.M. Tuesday at most operations, Brant said.

Postponement Sought

The electrical workers had voted last Saturday, January 5, to strike in support of their $2 a day increase demand, and set their walkout to follow the scheduled steel workers' stoppage then set for Monday, January 14.

CIO President Philip Murray agreed to postpone the walkout of 800,000 CIO-steel workers after a White House conference last night.

Brant said the electrical workers sought a similar postponement after Murray's action, but imposed the conditions providing for company offers set forth in the telegram.

Labor, Industry Make Electrical Concessions

JAN 1 4 1946

New York, Jan. 13 (AP)—Local No. 3, AFL-International Brotherhood of Electrical Workers, announced today that labor-management concessions had resulted in the signing of a one-year agreement affecting 364 contractors employing 10,000 IBEW electricians.

The union said it had made "unprecedented" concessions in the use of labor-saving tools to help relieve the housing crisis, while the employers had agreed to take over the entire cost of a welfare setup which provides hospitalization for both electricians and their wives, and guarantees old age pensions of $100 monthly for electricians who retire at 65.

This will cost the employers about $250,000 yearly, the union said.

The agreement permits use of machine threaders for conduit pipes, air drills for breaking through walls, and other time-saving devices, according to the union. It declared it also made overtime pay concessions.

During the last five years the electricians have worded a sixhour day at $2 an hour, with time-and-a-half thereafter. Under the new agreement, contractors may employ men on two seven-hour shifts at $2 an hour straight, but they must be different crews.

Only on construction of family housing units will the contractors be allowed to hire double shifts and use labor-saving devices, the union said.

STEEL PLANS NORMAL WORK

Hopes Of Wage Settlement In Week Running High

Pittsburgh, Jan. 13 (AP)—The vast steel industry today started nursing stalled mills back to normal production in high hopes of a wage settlement with the CIO steelworkers.

A week's grace from a strike of 800,000 men, originally called for midnight tonight, came on order of Philip Murray, head of both the union and the CIO.

Murray acted at the personal request of President Truman, after White House conferences in Washington with Mr. Truman and Benjamin F. Fairless, president of the United States Steel Corporation.

Confidence Widespread

Confidence expressed by President Truman that a strike can be averted before the new deadline at midnight next Sunday was shared by many of both sides of the dispute. Their wage offers were closer together than ever.

Some segments of the industry had curtailed operations so much anticipating a strike tonight that it will take several days—in some cases as long as a week—to get production back into full swing.

Most companies said they expected normal operations tomorrow. An exception was United States Steel, the world's largest producer, where the process of emptying molten metal from blast furnaces and open hearths had been far along in many of its plants. To allow the metal to harden would ruin the costly output.

Elaborate Plans For Strike

District leaders of the union had made elaborate preparations for the strike under guidance of the headquarters office here. Murray in messages sent under his name from here to the district officials said compliance with his order not to strike for another week will "add to the strength of our union and assure the successful attainment of the union's wage objectives."

However, a union spokesman at Worcester, Mass., who declined use of his name, said workers at several plants in that area would strike tonight "anyway." He did not elaborate. At Schenectady, N.Y., a union local representing 3,000 American Locomotive factory employés called a meeting to decide what it would do.

Jones & Laughlin Ready

Reports of plans for resuming full operations came from many of the 30 States where the strike was to have occurred. These included Alabama, Missouri, Kentucky, West Virginia, Maryland, California, Texas, Oklahoma, Utah, Arkansas and Wisconsin.

Besides United States Steel some of the major companies anticipating delays in getting back into swing were Carnegie-Illinois and Youngstown Sheet and Tube. Jones & Laughlin Steel Corporation, here, played a hunch and had not curtailed despite the strike threat.

Worthington Strike Call Reported

Announcement that negotiations would be resumed tomorrow morning in the three-day strike of 11,000 Bethlehem Steel Company employés at Lackawanna, N.Y., came almost simultaneously tonight with a report that a walkout had been called for midnight at the Worthington Pump and Machinery Corporation, Buffalo.

Fairless Plans Talk

At New York, Benjamin F. Fairless, United States Steel president, said he intended to engage in talks covering the "whole situation" of the industry's labor-management problems "with my people and officials of other companies" before going to Washington for the scheduled White House conference then.

John Grecula, director of Union District No. 14 at McKeesport, Pa., said the workers in his area "definitely will go back."

"Murray Rates High"

"Mr. Murray rates high with the boys," Grecula told a reporter. "His word is law with them."

A walkout was in prospect at some Massachusetts plants. Roy H. Stevens, Jr., a union field representative, said approximately 1,000 workers at four Worcester plants and 3,000 in Whitinsville, Mass., will strike at 7 A.M. Monday.

Call Renewed On Capitol Hill For Anti-Strike Legislation

Washington, Jan. 13 (AP)—Renewed agitation developed on Capitol Hill today for speedy enactment of anti-strike legislation.

Several members of the House Military Committee said they favor such action because of continued and mounting labor-management strife.

Chairman May (D., Ky.) said that "now is the time" to pass a measure approved by the committee which would penalize unions heavily if they break "no-strike" contracts.

Two Committees Involved

Representative Harness (R., Ind.) said the committee will decide Tuesday whether to try to bring the legislation to the floor immediately or to await action by the Labor Committee.

The labor group's acting chairman, Representative Randolph (D., W.Va.), announced the committee would resume hearings "as soon as possible" on President Truman's proposal for fact-finding boards to recommend solutions of major labor disputes.

Temporary Law Suggested

He said he would try to get some type of legislation out of committee soon. Otherwise, he said, he fears "some vicious anti-labor measure might be passed."

Randolph said he thinks Mr. Truman's plan "might well reinforce voluntary mediation and sanctification of contracts."

He added, however, that "I can conceive that the law's operation should be for the recoversion emergency only." He said he would bring up the question of a temporary measure as a subject for discussion by the committee.

"If it worked well, labor, management and government might cooperatively desire its permanency," Randolph asserted.

USES Measure

He said that before the committee acts on these ideas, however, it wants to dispose of legislation dealing with the United States Employment Service. A bill before the group would return the USES to state control in Jun., 1947, as asked by President Truman. The President refused last month to sign legislation providing for the return in 100 days. Randolph said he thought action could be completed this week on the USES measure.

The Senate Labor Committee planned originally to hear representatives of the CIO United Auto Workers and the General Motors Corporation testify on the President's proposal, but the hearing has been postponed until later in the week.

SENATOR AWAITS DISCHARGE DATA

Hill Confident Eisenhower Will Give Demobilization Facts Tuesday.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 13—(AP) Senator Hill of Alabama, the Democratic whip, expressed assurance today that Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower will "lay the facts about demobilization on the line" in an informal appearance before Congress Tuesday.

The army staff chief's question and answer bee with Senate and

JAN 1 4 1946

JAN 14 1946

House members at the congressional library hold the center of attention as legislators return to Washington for what Senator Taft of Ohio, Republican steering committee chairman, said will be "one of the most controversial sessions on record."

Hill told a reporter he is confident that Eisenhower will be able to quote exact figures on the army's need for men, the number of volunteers who have enlisted and the rate at which discharges are going.

Many Divisions Cut From Army List

WASHINGTON, Jan. 13—(AP) Demobilization has knocked out more than half of the army's divisions and a third of its air forces.

A study of war department records today disclosed that of the 86 combat divisions when the army was at peak strength 46 have gone out of business. Six of the 17 air forces which attacked axis targets and supported advancing armies are gone—"de-activated," the army calls it.

Faster Rate Expected

The rate of demobilization of organizations is expected to accelerate as additional divisions and air forces return from the theaters.

Most of the remaining organizations, because of the loss of experienced key personnel, are far below effective condition.

The disappearance of organizations paces the lose of manpower. More than 5,000,000 of the 8,300,000 full-strength army have been discharged. The War department hopes it will have 1,550,000 men left by next July 1.

The structure of the peacetime army is yet to be announced. It will depend to considerable degree on international commitments, including the requirements of a security force under the United Nations organization. So far, the names of five divisions have been mentioned as part of the strategic reserve, the regular army organization—the 2nd, 4th and 5th Infantry, the 82nd Airborne and the 2nd Armored. It is assumed others will be designated as post-war planning progresses. Some of these continuing units will absorb elements of other disbanded groups. The 82nd Airborne is expected to take over the remainder of the 13th Airborne upon deactivation of that outfit.

The 20th Armored, which was assigned to occupation duty in Germany, probably will be inactivated in the near future and absorbed by the 2nd armored.

Army air forces presently uses a planning figure of 400,000 men and 70 groups (about 6,500 aircraft) in its post-war considerations.

Units Disbanded

Here are the infantry divisions disbanded: 8th, 10th, 28th, 30th, 31st, 34th, 35th, 36th, 37th, 38th, 41st, 43rd, 44th, 45th, 63rd, 65th, 66th, 69th, 70th, 75th, 76th, 79th, 85th, 87th, 91st, 92nd, 95th, 99th, 103rd, 104th, 106th, Americal.

Airborne divisions: 17th and 101st.

Armored: 3rd, 5th, 6th, 7th, 8th, 9th, 10th, 11th, 12th, 13th, 14th, 16th.

Six of the 17 air forces have closed down. The deactivated units include such famous organizations as the 9th, the fighter force which operated with the heavy bombers from England, and the 12th and 15th which fought the Mediterranean and Southern Europe air campaigns. Five of the famous Pacific organizations—the 5th, 7th, 13th, 8th and 20th, the latter two superfortress operators—have been merged into a new Pacific air command under General George C. Kenney. The list of deactivated units includes the 10th and 14th Air Forces which fought the war over the jungles, mountains and seas of China and Southeast Asia.

Rankin To Renew Move For Fast Demobilizing

Washington, Jan. 13 (AP)—Representative Rankin (D., Miss.) promised today that when Congress resumes tomorrow he will renew his efforts to speed demobilization.

Asserting Congress has "delayed this matter too long already," Rankin, in a statement, added:

"All the brass hats in Christendom could not convince me that it is necessary for us to keep five or six million men . . . in uniformed idleness while their personal affairs go to wrack, their educational opportunities vanish, or their wives and children cry for them to come home.

"The war is over (and) these brave men have a right to return to civilian life and enjoy some of that freedom for which they were fighting, before it is entirely destroyed by these arrogant, alien-minded racketeers who are now attempting to paralyze the country."

Navy to Speed Demobilization Of Its Idle Men

Will Free Those on Verge of Discharge for Whom No Duties Are Available

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON, Jan. 13.—The Navy announced plans today to expedite discharge of personnel nearing eligibility on points for whom suitable assignments are not available.

Vice-Admiral Louis E. Denfeld, chief of the Bureau of Personnel, told a news conference orders have gone out to commanding officers authorizing them to cut the time for releases in such cases by as much as forty-five days.

With some minor exceptions, he said, the plan will apply to any transient enlisted personnel "for whom suitable work cannot be found in the naval district or in the man's or woman's home naval district."

"This," he said, "will tend to meet complaints that men's time is not being used to advantage."

Admiral Denfeld said it is the Navy's intention "to continue to announce reductions in release scores in order that the Navy's previously announced schedule can be met and maintained. At this time we can foresee nothing that will interfere with the continued speed of Navy demobilization."

As of Jan. 8, he said, Navy demobilization had cut 1,316,299 officers and men from the peak strength of more than 3,300,000, which was slightly ahead of schedule. He said the goal of being half through by the end of January or early February would be met.

While carrying out the task of demobilization, Admiral Denfeld said, his office is also confronted with the task of building up the regular Navy to the planned peak of 500,000 men by the time demobilization is complete.

There are now, he said, 372,000 enlisted men and 14,000 officers in the regular Navy, and enlistments are proceeding satisfactorily, totaling 23,000 in November and 27,800 in December. An average of 23,000 monthly will be necessary to meet the goal, he said.

Application have already been received from some 20,000 reserve officers for transfer to the regular Navy, he said, and a board is now studying the applications. Fully 60 per cent of the applications, he said, are from "exceptionally good" officers.

Applications for transfer are still coming in at the rate of 600 to 1,000 weekly, and an additional 23,000 must be selected within the next six months to meet the goal.

NAVY PROMISES TESTS OF A-BOMBS ON WAR VESSELS

WASHINGTON, Jan. 13—(AP) The navy promised today that atomic bomb tests against warships definitely will be conducted some time this year, butnot before spring.

Vice Admiral W. H. P. Blandy, deputy chief of naval operations for special weapons, told a news conference the tests will be "comparable to a large amphibious operation which took months to plan," and will involve "quite a large force."

Admiral Blandy is the first officer to hold the assignment which was created in November to "coordinate all matters relating to research, development and tests of atomic energy, guided missiles and related matters."

He told reporters it is the duty of his office, consistent with national laws and international agreements, to reach as far into the future as possible," to find applications for new research, conduct tests, and assist all other divisions of hte navy in determining the impact of new weapons.

The forthcoming atomic tests he said, will be a "thoroughly joint effort" with the army and civilian scientists, from which "we hope to find out things of great importance to the national defense."

The navy, army ground and air, and civilian scientists are cooperating to the fullest, he said.

He added that "national and international angles' are also involved.

'HUFF DUFF' STORY IS TOLD BY NAVY

Secret Device Can Locate Ships ½ World Away

New York, Jan. 13 (AP)—The Navy disclosed today the wartime secret of "Huff Duff," an electronic long-distance detection device which played a major part in winning the battle of the Atlantic.

Technically called high frequency direction finder (the initials HF-DF rapidly became "Huff Duff" in service slang) the electrical "finger" can spot a ship or plane halfway around the world. It was used as a teammate of radar and sound devices which spot objectives at a much shorter distance only.

Broke Up U-Boat Packs

The Navy told how the device on board ships, planes and in a network of shore stations succeeded in breaking up U-boat wolf packs before they could assemble, and how at least one of the submarines which landed saboteurs on the Long Island and Florida coasts in 1942 was located and sunk before it could escape.

What the device does is pick up any voice or code radio signal transmitted on the international shortwave communications channels, and within a split second visually shows the direction of the signal's source. When two or more "Huff Duff" units ashore or afloat get such bearings, it is a simple mathematical exercise for a control center to determine where the lines of direction meet on the earth's surface.

Demonstration Given

This fix is accurate within a few miles when attained at long distance and can be refined by getting more or closer bearings.

In a press demonstration at the Great River, Long Island, laboratories of the Federal Telephone and Radio Corporation, which did a large part of the research, a Bermuda sending station was pinpointed on a giant electrical map within seconds after "line of direction" reports were received from several listening posts along the coast and from the local receiver.

The "line of direction" appears as an ellipse on the face of a cathode viewing tube which is marked off in the 360 degrees of a circle. And because the earth is a virtual circle, the direction of the ellipse on the tube is the direction from which the signal is coming.

Radio direction finders were in use before the war, but they were slow and subject to a multitude of errors.

Germans Crossed Up

"Huff Duff" overcame all the problems of correction and provided a device which automatically scans the entire circle twenty times a second. This speed completely crossed up the strategy of the German high command which believed the Allies only had old-fashioned types of manually turned detectors.

Nazi submarines felt they were safe in using "squirt" radio transmissions, in which lengthy reports could be compressed into a signal of not more than fifteen seconds. One example of what happened, however, was the sinking of the U-66 near the Cape Verde Islands in May, 1944. Her captain sent a report to Berlin which was on the air less than fifteen seconds, but 26 Allied DF stations in the Atlantic network obtained bearings on the boat.

From Iceland To Brazil

The Navy's DF network extended from Jan Mayan, a small island between Iceland and Spitzbergen, to Bahia, Brazil.

Although most of the wartime use of the direction finder was against submarines, it was equally effective in locating at long range airplanes in flight and surface ships. "Huff Duff" became a vital part of the Coast Guard air rescue system which during the war dispatched airplane-rescue boat teams to any scene of trouble at sea after receiving even a brief distress signal.

Postwar use of DF is expected to play a big role in increased safety of aviation. An airplane crossing the ocean can have its position determined immediately.

"Pin-Point" Location

Installations now being provided on both sides of the Atlantic will make available to a pilot, who might be having navigational dimculty, a service which will give him his exact position at any time he requests it.

Furthermore, these stations can immediately obtain a "pin-point" location of any plane in trouble and relay it to the nearest ships and shore rescue stations.

C.I.O. MAN CALLS FOR END OF PROBE ON PEARL HARBOR

WASHINGTON, Jan. 13—(AP) A C.I.O. spokesman, asserting that the Pearl Harbor inquiry has prevented Senate action on needed legislation, today called for an end to "this mockery of an investigation."

In a public letter to Senate Majority Leader Barkley (D-Ky.), Nathan Cowan, C.I.O. legislative director, called the investigation "an attempted smear" on the memory of the late President Roosevelt and a Republican "election campaign strategy."

"It is time," he declared, "this mockery of an investigation was stopped and the Senate encouraged to go to work on issues of concern to the people, rather than the politicians."

Barkley, who is chairman of the Pearl Harbor committee, was out of town but Senators Lucas (D-Ill.), Ferguson (R-Mich.) and Brewster (R-Maine), committee members, all commented immediately that the investigation had delayed no legislation.

"For anyone to say the Pearl Harbor investigation has delayed the Senate in carrying out its duty to legislate indicates definitely that he doesn't know what he is talking about," Lucas told a reporter.

Ferguson remarked that it was "not unusual at all" to have important hearings going on simultaneously with meetings of the Senate.

Both Lucas and Brewster noted that Rear Admiral Husband E. Kimmel and Maj. Gen. Walter C. Short, Navy and Army commanders at Hawaii when the Japanese attacked Dec. 7, 1941, are scheduled as the next witnesses when hearings are resumed this week.

"I don't believe the American people wish to deny a hearing to Admiral Kimmel and General Short who have been crucified for four years," Brewster said.

COURT MAY RULE TODAY ON PLEA OF GEN. YAMASHITA

WASHINGTON, Jan. 13—(AP) The Supreme Court may announce tomorrow its decision on appeals by Japanese General Yamashita, condemned to die as a war criminal.

Yamashita was convicted by an American military commission of condoning atrocities by his troops in the Philippines, causing the slaughter of uncounted thousands. The commission, sitting in Manila, sentenced the enemy general to hang.

The Supreme court last week listened to 5 1-2 hours of arguments on petitions submitted by U. S. Army attorneys who were appointed to defend "the Tiger of Malaya."

The petitions questioned the commission's authority to try Yamashita, asked that he be returned to the status of prisoner of war, instead of that of war criminal, and contended the Philippines Supreme Court should have granted a request for a writ of habeas corpus to take his case out of the hands of the military.

If the high court takes no action in the case tomorrow there likely will be no announcement until the next regular session for announcing opinions on Jan. 28—if then. Two other opinion sessions follow, on Feb. 4 and 11.

The court considered a somewhat similar case in July, 1942, when appeals were filed by the German saboteurs who landed here by submarine and were convicted by a military commission.

Two days after hearing arguments the court issued a simple order announcing rejection of the appeals. Several of the saboteurs then were executed. Three months after the order was issued the court handed down a 22-page opinion giving its legal reasoning for the order.

Some court attaches speculated that the justices might follow similar procedure in Yamashita's case, in order to hasten its disposition and to throw light on the legal path for other war criminal trials in the Pacific.

UNO COMMITTEE MOVES TO BOSTON AREA THIS WEEK

NEW YORK, Jan. 13—(AP) The seven men assigned to choose a permanent home for the United Nations Organization reached the half-way mark today in the task of hunting a site.

With their inspection of what Atlantic City had to offer, members of the UNO site committee finished their tour of the New York region and prepared to begin a survey of the Boston area on Wednesday. They have marked down for further consideration three proposed sites in lower New York state, including the ancestral estate of the late President Roosevelt at Hyde Park; three in New Jersey and two in Connecticut.

They have rejected the old site of the New York World's Fair as "too close to a big city." Their orders, they say, instruct them to pick a site no closer than 25 miles from a large city and no farther than 80 miles. But, they must stay within the regions of Boston and New York.

Sites picked for further consideration:

Dutchess County, N. Y.—The apple-growing countryside where "F.D.R." was born and buried, on the east bank of the Hudson river.

Ulster County, N. Y.—16 square miles of verdant fields and woodlands near Kingston, on the west side of the Hudson.

Westchester County, N. Y. — A $25,000,000 tract in the Somers-Yorktown section, 40 miles north of New York.

Two Connecticut Sites

Ridgefield, Conn.—3,000 acres of woods and fields, including the Cutten estate.

Greenwich-Stamford, Conn.—6,000 acres just across the New York State line.

Hopewell Valley, N. J.—A 42-square mile area near the former Charles E. Lindbergh home.

Rocky Hill, N. J.—A tract of 33 square miles near Princeton.

Brigantine, N. J. — An island three miles long, just north of Atlantic City.

One problem of the committee is finding a temporary headquarters until a permanent one can be built. Some 1,500 UNO delegates and functionaries will need living quarters, in addition to meeting rooms and recreation centers.

New York City is reported to have turned down offers to bring the temporary headquarters here since the UNO seems determined not to settle here permanently. A $1,000,000 county center in White Plains, N. Y., 15 miles north of here, has been offered, and the committee says it might accept it if a nearby site is chosen for the permanent home.

Atlantic City offered to turn over one of its choicest waterfront blocks to the UNO as a temporary headquarters and to close it off from both motor and pedestrian traffic if desired.

Bretton Woods Group Dissolves

New York, Jan. 13 (AP)—Dissolution of the Business and Industry Committee for Bretton Woods was announced today by Louis Sachar, treasurer.

In a letter to the membership, Sachar said that with the Bretton Woods proposals ratified by 35 nations "the essential purpose of Bretton Woods has been achieved."

"An effective monetary fund and bank," Sachar declared, "are assured as a result of the ratifications. More important, the principle of international economic co-operation has been moved from the realm of idealism to the level of work-a-day reality."

The Business and Industry Committee was formed early in May, 1945. Among the founders were Henry F. Bristol, president of Bristol-Myers Company of New York; Emmet J. McCormack, vice president of Moore-McCormack Lines of New York; Walter H. Wheeler, Jr., president of Pitney-Bowes Postage Meter Company, of Stamford, Conn., and Sachar, president of the Reliance Textile Company.

ESTIMATES UP ON 1946 INCOME

Agencies Informally Lift Old $130,000,000,000 Figure

Washington, Jan. 13 (AP)—Thriving business and many jobs during reconversion have led Government economists to raise sharply their estimates of the 1946 national income.

Even in the face of mounting labor difficulties, the consensus among Federal agencies now is that the figure will run between $140,000,000,000 and $150,000,000,000.

This would mean a drop from 1945's booming $160,000,000,000 only about half as severe as had been estimated officially after V-J day.

At that time economists felt the first full year of peace would produce only about $130,000,000,000 of national income.

Slash In War Spending

They reasoned that civilian demand and private production would be unable at once to take up much of the slack left by the big slash in Government war spending.

The new figures mean larger business profits than anticipated, better individual earnings, and higher revenues for the Government, which estimated its 1946 tax take on the $130,000,000,000 figures.

Most officials believe that the threatened wave of strikes will not affect the total income greatly. They concede that if the steel strike once scheduled for Monday and now postponed for a week, should actually go into effect and last a month the effect on metal-using industries would be tremendous. But many of them believe that the Government would have to seize the mills to keep them running.

Three Informal Estimates

While no agency has made an official forecast for 1946, these informal estimates were obtained from officials in close touch with economic trends.

At the Office of War Mobilization and Reconversion: "Not less than $140,000,000,000, probably not more than $150,000,000,000."

At the Commerce Department: "About ten per cent under the 1945 income." This works out at around $144,000,000,000.

At the Treasury: "Probably higher than the old $130,000,000,000 estimate, but we are not prepared to predict how much higher."

None of the officials would permit use of his name.

The OWMR guess was based on the assumption that consumer demand, which set new records for retail buying in 1945, would continue to press upon the supply of goods with a resulting strong increase in production.

DECLINE IN WORLD SUGAR FORECAST

400,000-Ton Drop Predicted In Beet And Cane Total

Washington, Jan. 13 (AP)—A 400,000-ton decline in world sugar production in the 1945-46 crop year as compared with last year was forecast today by the Agriculture Department.

The department's office of foreign agricultural relations predicted total world output of both cane and beet sugar at 27,800,000 short tons, raw value, compared with 28,200,000 tons in the 1944-45 year.

This estimate is 2,700,000 tons below the 1943-44 production and 6,500,000 tons under the 1935-39 average.

Low Beet-Sugar Production

Forecast at 7,300,000 short tons, the world production of beet sugar is expected to be the lowest since 1923, the report said, adding that while in North America the trend in the yield of beet sugar has been upward since 1943, that in Europe has been downward.

Cane-sugar production was predicted at 20,500,000 short tons—2,000,000 below the prewar average.

"Sharp production decreases in the Far East and in Africa, Australia and islands of the Pacific have more than offset increases in the Western Hemisphere," the report added.

Soviet Recovery "Substantial"

Sugar production in Europe, including the Soviet Union, was predicted by the department at 5,800,000 tons compared with 7,000,000 in 1944-45 and a prewar average of 10,200,000.

The report said Soviet production "has made substantial recovery since 1942 when wartime destruction reduced the sugar crop to one fourth of the prewar average."

North America, Central America and the West Indies are expected to have a crop of 10,200,000 short tons compared with 8,800,000 in 1944-45 and a prewar average of 8,700,000 tons.

Cuba Is Largest Exporter

The department forecast that Cuba, the largest producer of export sugar, would have a crop two per cent larger than in 1944-45 and 50 per cent above its prewar controlled production.

Far Eastern production, the report continued, probably will be seven per cent less than in 1944-45 and 42 per cent below prewar average as the sugar industry in the Philippines, Java and Formosa, disrupted by war, is only a "fraction of normal." However, the report said, fair production has been maintained in India and China.

A seven-per-cent drop was anticipated in the yield in Australia and New Zealand and an eleven-per-cent decline in Africa. South America's yield was expected to be about the same—2,600,000 short tons.

Purple Heart to Aid Vets Become Chicken Farmers

WASHINGTON, Jan. 13—(AP) Members of the Order of the Purple Heart have decided, after interviewing scores of combat veterans, that deep down in the heart of most of them is a desire to "get away from it all" and raise chickens. So they plan to give wounded veterans an opportunity to get in the chicken-raising business on a wholesale, nationwide scale:

Here's how:

First, they have sought the help of Gen. Omar N. Bradley, Veterans Administrator, in the purchase of some army and navy surplus airfields, cantonments or other military installations where there are good living quarters plus barracks.

They will turn the barracks into chicken "farms," raising thousands of birds for metropolitan meat markets.

This will be done by creating a giant food cooperative, with each veteran receiving shares. He will agree to tend up to 10,000 chickens. In return he has a chance "to make a profit of up to $4,000 a year" and in addition will get living quarters in one of the officers' buildings on the field.

Frank Haley, national director of the Military Order of the Purple Heart, told a reporter he has made arrangements "through New York sources" for the loan of sufficient money to start at least one experimental project. If it is successful, the plan will be extended to all parts of the nation.

"The cooperative will provide experts who will live at the site of the projects and will help and advise in the raising of the chickens," said Haley. "The veterans will do most of the work and will share in the profits according to how much they produce.

"We have arranged market outlets for all the chickens we can produce. The demand virtually is unlimited."

Haley said surplus military barracks of the temporary type would be ideal buildings in which to raise chickens. And officers' quarters would be ideal places in which a wounded veteran and his family might live.

The Purple Heart is one of the oldest of American decorations, given to men honorably wounded in combat.

Haley said his order, composed of men who have been awarded the decoration, has 10,000 active members with "a potential of 800,000 as a result of World War II."

The organization sought General Bradley's aid because Haley said he believed a federal agency would have a better chance of obtaining surplus buildings than a veterans organization. He said the general asked for a more detailed plan before giving his decision.

Preferably the first project would be located on Long Island, in Delaware or in Virginia, Haley said. He wants it to be near a large population area.

Commander Of Carrier Midway Wins Promotion

Portsmouth, Va., Jan. 13 (AP)—Capt. Joseph F. Bolger, first commanding officer of the super-carrier Midway, was detached yesterday and was relieved by Capt. H. S. Duckworth, who as commander of naval air activities in Tokyo Bay participated in the Japanese surrender of Tokyo.

The home town of both officers is Coronado, Calif.

Captain Bolger, who became a rear admiral upon his detachment, will soon assume duties as commander of a fleet air wing in the Central Pacific. Captain Duckworth's most recent assignment was that of commanding officer of the carrier Cowpens, first flat-top to enter Tokyo Bay.

The Midway returned from her shakedown cruise December 15 and since has been berthed at the Norfolk Naval Shipyard here. Her executive officer is Commander R. C. Bauer, of Jersey City, N.J.

HANNEGAN HITS STAND OF TAFT IN BOSTON SPEECH

BOSTON, Jan. 13 — (AP) Democratic National Chairman Robert E. Hannegan declared last night that "the Republican party has taken its stand against a progressive postwar program for America."

In an address at a meeting of the Democratic State committee of Massachusetts, Hannegan said Senator Taft (R-Ohio) had made that stand clear when the Senator replied to President Truman's appeal to the people to support the administration's legislative program.

Mr. Truman and Taft both spoke on the radio last week.

Hannegan said the Senator actually had performed a service, had clarified issues, and "sharpened the battle lines for both 1946 and 1948."

"The Republican party stamp of approval," the Democratic chairman said, "is once more on a policy of outright reaction."

"Even the 'me-too' days are over. Senator Taft and his associates have dropped the post of liberalism. They control the party, and so long as they continue to do so, there can be no more claims to liberalism under that party's banner.

"There can be no such thing as an accredited Republican liberal henceforth, by the party's own decree, Republican candidates for office cannot stand on liberal principles."

All the President did, Hannegan said, was to talk over the nation's problems with the man in the street. It is the policy of Republican leaders, he said, "never to take the people into their confidence."

Cites Party Platform

The Democratic chairman said Mr. Truman's legislative program was designed to carry out promises made by the Democratic party in its 1944 platform.

Noting that Taft had declared a large majority of the people disagree with the program and the President's political philosophy, Hannegan recommended to the Senator:

"A re-reading of the Democratic party's platform of 1944 and of the election returns of Nov. 7 of the same year."

After the Chief Executive announced his program last September, Hannegan said, House Republican Leader Martin of Massachusetts appointed a committee to draw up a Republican program. He said the statement came out 87 days later, said nothing, and proposed not a single specific action to solve America's problems.

"I now predict," Hannegan said, "that the Republican party will produce no program at all. Senator Taft and his colleagues have made it clear that the Old Guard controls the party. And the Republican Old Guard never has had a program to offer this country and never will have one."

Mrs. R. Foresees Success For UNO

New York, Jan. 13 (AP) — Mrs. Franklin D. Roosevelt, delegate to the United Nations Organization meeting in London, today held out high hopes for the success of the world group.

Speaking over NBC, Mrs. Roosevelt said: "So far, everything is going very smoothly. The feeling on the whole, I think, is very good.

"I think everyone has the sense that the Organization must succeed, the alternative is a chaotic world—and nobody wants to be in that kind of a world."

WASHINGTON, JAN 13-(AP)-SUMNER WELLES, FORMER UNDERSECRETARY OF STATE, SAID TONIGHT STATE DEPARTMENT POLICY IS "RADICALLY UNDERMINING" THE FRIENDSHIP OF THE BRAZILIAN AND AMERICAN PEOPLE.

WELLES, IN A BROADCAST OVER STATION WOL HERE, RECOUNTED THAT LAST AUTUMN A DISPUTE HAD ARISEN IN BRAZIL WHETHER ELECTIONS SCHEDULED FOR EARLY DECEMBER SHOULD BE LIMITED TO ELECTION OF DELEGATES TO A CONSTITUTIONAL ASSEMBLY, AND LATER ELECTIONS HELD FOR THE PRESIDENCY AND CONGRESS.

"FOR VARIOUS REASONS," WELLES SAID, "THE QUESTION BECAME A CLEARCUT ISSUE BETWEEN THE TWO MAJOR POLITICAL PARTIES. IT WAS AN ISSUE WHICH SOLELY AFFECTED THE BRAZILIANS THEMSELVES. IT WASA QUESTION WHICH AS A SOVEREIGN PEOPLE THEY SHOULD HAVE DETERMINED WITHOUT OUTSIDE INTERFERENCE.

"AND HE SUBSEQUENTLY ANNOUNCED THAT THE ADVICE WHICH HE HAD GIVEN THEM HAD BEEN GIVEN WITH THE FULL APPROVAL OF THE DEPARTMENT OF STATE IN WASHINGTON."

WELLES ASSERTED THIS WAS CONSTRUED BY BRAZILIAN PUBLIC OPINION AS AN INDICATION PRESIDENT GETULIO VARGAS NO LONGER HAD THE FRIENDSHIP AND CONFIDENCE OF THE UNITED STATES.

"IT WAS ALSO INTERPRETED AS A DIRECT INTERFERENCE BY THE UNITED STATES IN BRAZIL'S INTERNAL AFFAIRS," WELLES ADDED.

HE DECLARED THE EFFECT WAS IMMEDIATE, CAUSING VARGAS TO RESIGN. THE ELECTIONS, HE POINTED OUT, HAVE SINCE BEEN HELD AND GENERAL DUTRA, SUPPORTED BY VARGAS, WAS ELECTED PRESIDENT BY AN OVERWHELMING MAJORITY.

"WORST OF IT ALL IS THAT THE POLICY OUR DEPARTMENT OF STATE HAS FOLLOWED IN BRAZIL IS RADICALLY UNDERMINING THAT FRIENDSHIP BETWEEN THE AMERICAN AND BRAZILIAN PEOPLE WHICH HAS LASTED FOR SO LONG AND WHICH HAS PROVED OF SUCH GREAT VALUE TO THIS COUNTRY."

WELLES DECLARED THAT UNLESS THE AMERICAN PEOPLE DEMAND THAT THE STATE DEPARTMENT RETURN TO THE POLICY OF "STRICT NON-INTERFERENCE" WHICH HE SAID CHARACTERIZED THE ROOSEVELT ADMINISTRATION, "INTER-AMERICAN SOLIDARITY WILL RAPIDLY BECOME A THING OF THE PAST."

BYRNES CALLS FOR WORLD POLICE

BYRNES URGES UNO ACTION ON ATOM CONTROL

Pledges Full Co-operation of U. S. in World Peace Organization.

FIRST POLICY DEBATE IS ON

Assembly Completes Important Economic and Social Council With Election of Yugoslavia.

London, Jan. 14 (AP)—Secretary Byrnes called upon the United Nations Assembly today to "approve promptly" the creation of a special commission on control of atomic energy and to pledge land, sea and air forces to a world police force.

Shortly before Byrnes mounted the rostrum, the Assembly agreed it should take up the atomic-control proposal at this meeting.

Delay On Secretary Sought

Russia was reported seeking to delay selection of a secretary-general of the United Nations Organization, a choice scheduled to be made this week. The five permanent members of the Security Council—the United States, Britain, Russia, France and China—must agree on a choice. So far there was no evidence of unanimity among them.

Opening the first general policy debate in the Assembly, the Secretary of State pledged full co-operation of the United States in the new world organization. He spoke after the Assembly broke a deadlock over the eighteenth and final seat on its important Economic and Social Council and elected Yugoslavia.

Urges Immediate Action

Urging the Assembly to approve the formula for the atomic commission drafted at the Moscow Foreign Ministers' conference, Byrnes declared:

"We must not fail to devise the safeguards necessary to insure that this great discovery is used for human welfare and not for more deadly human warfare.

"We should begin upon this task immediately. The establishment of a commission to deal with the problems raised by the discovery of atomic energy is inseparably linked with the problem of security. It is a matter of primary concern to all nations."

Six Sponsor Resolution

The resolution to create the commission is jointly sponsored by the United States, Britain, Russia, Canada, France and China. In effect it would turn the atomic problem over to the Security Council for solution. Canada, which narrowly missed the election to the council Friday, would sit in with the council on all atomic discussions because she worked with Britain and the United States in the development of the atomic bomb.

Promising co-operation in the new peace organization, Byrnes said:

"Twenty-five years ago we in the United States were not fully aware of our responsibility. But with others, we have learned from experience. This time both the United States Government and its people are deeply conscious of their responsibility. This time, on their behalf, I pledge full and wholehearted co-operation."

UNO "Born Of Suffering"

The new peace organization, he said, has been born in the "indescribable pain and suffering of many peoples in many lands" and "must live because in this atomic age the common interest, which should unite free nations in maintaining a friendly, peaceful world, far outweighs any possible conflict in interest which might divide them."

"Great states as well as small states," he added, "must come to view their power as a sacred trust to be exercised not for selfish purposes but for the good of all peoples."

Byrnes warned against overburdening the organization, especially at the start, with all sorts of problems in expectation of "magic solutions."

"Beware Of Enthusiasts"

"Let us beware of the die-hard enthusiasts as well as the die-hard unbelievers," he said.

Yugoslavia was elected to the Economic and Social Council after New Zealand withdrew. Neither country had received the necessary two-thirds majority in the voting Saturday in which seventeen members were selected.

Later this week UNO will hear spokesmen of many others of the 51 member nations, including British Foreign Secretary Ernest Bevin.

May Have Trusteeship Plan

British sources said Bevin probably would offer to place Britain's mandated territories from the first World War—including Palestine—under a new United Nations trusteeship system.

Other United Nations' sources said, however, that the offer might be conditioned on similar action by other powers holding mandates.

The question of trusteeship, which is urgent for Britain, is not at the moment so important to the United States, whose chief aim is to make sure that it keeps control over strategic base areas captured in the Pacific. Russia holds no mandates but has indicated she wants a leading role in the supervision of trusteeships.

May Ask Security Parliament

[The New York Times said today in a dispatch from London that Britain would raise the question of "a World Security Parliament" at the Assembly this week.

[The main differences between the proposed parliament and the present UNO setup, the dispatch said, would be that (1) the Big Five would not be given any veto power and (2) the whole parliament—not merely the Security Council—would have authority to decide when action should be taken against a nation that had broken the law.

Favored By Bevin

[The dispatch recalled that Foreign Secretary Bevin already had said publicly that he favored such a security parliament. He now has authority from the Attlee Government to broach the matter to the General Assembly, though no attempt will be made to press the matter, it added.]

After electing Yugoslavia, the Assembly decided that China, Peru, France, Chile, Canada and Belgium will be the three-year members of the council.

Russia, Britain, India, Norway, Cuba and Czechoslovakia were elected to two-year terms. This left the Ukraine, Greece, Lebanon, the United States, Colombia and Yugoslavia to serve one-year terms.

Majority Based On Votes Cast

The Assembly then decided that henceforth in Assembly elections a majority should be counted on the total of votes deposited instead of on those considered valid. Two ballots have been nullified so far in Assembly elections.

The Assembly also agreed to consider at its second session in April a Philippine proposal for an international conference to promote a free world press.

The steering committee placed on the Assembly agenda a British proposal to facilitate the work of the United Nations Relief and Rehabilitation Administration. This subject was considered of urgent importance for action by the delegates at this session of the Assembly.

voted labor by the delegates on the executive committee and the Preparatory Commission.

This preparatory work has made it possible for the United Nations to begin its work at the very start of the first year of peace after six successive years of devastating war and less than five months after the surrender of Japan.

For this prompt beginning the world owes an immeasurable debt to many who are not here today. We are particularly indebted to Franklin Delano Roosevelt, Winston Churchill and Joseph Stalin.

It was they who four years ago this month, at one of the darkest moments of the war, joined with their allies to proclaim the United Nations Declaration. Even as they exerted every effort to mobilize and unite at that late and critical moment the forces of freedom for survival, they knew that military survival, military victory was not enough.

The vision of those nations large and small which joined in the United Nations Declaration was not restricted to a wartime alliance. Their determination was to bind together in peace the free nations of the world so that never again would they find themselves isolated in the face of tyranny and aggression. Their resolve was to see that military victory was not a mere armistice to allow time for aggressor nations to choose their victims and enslave them one by one.

Isolation Disavowed

The purpose of these nations which united in the defense of

Secretary Byrnes' Address Before UNO General Assembly

WASHINGTON, Jan. 14 (AP)—The prepared text of Secretary James F. Byrnes' address to the United Nations Assembly in London, as released today by the State Department:

We have met here today to consider the report of the Preparatory Commission. This report is the result of painstaking and de-their freedom was not to escape but to face the realities of the world in which we live. They recognized, as the peace-loving nations failed to recognize after the last war, that in this modern world nations, like individuals, cannot live with themselves alone.

They realized the lives and treasure which might have been saved if the free nations of the world had heeded in time the practical idealism of Woodrow Wilson, Lord Robert Cecil, Aristide Briand and Maxim Litvinoff.

They realized the lives and the treasure which might have been saved if the free nations of the world had united to preserve the peace before the peace of any of them was broken instead of waiting until aggression had engulfed the whole world in flames and compelled them to unite or perish.

So the nations which were compelled to unite in a war for survival resolved even before victory was attained that they would take steps to preserve a free and a united world. They resolved to keep faith with the millions who were fighting and dying to give the world the chance which it so tragically missed after the first World War.

At Moscow, in 1943, a start was made by Mr. Hull, Mr. Molotoff and Mr. Eden. On that occasion a pledge was undertaken by the United States, the United Kingdom and the Soviet Union, in which China joined, to work for the creation of an effective international organization. Then came the Dumbarton Oaks proposals, the Yalta decision to call the San Francisco Conference and finally the United Nations Charter, which fifty-one nations joined in writing.

The charter is now part of the law of nations. It has been ratified by all the countries which are represented here. The preparatory work has been completed. The Assembly of the United Nations is no longer a plan on paper. It is a living reality, the representatives are here in this hall. The Security Council and the Economic and Social Council have been elected.

The functioning of the United Nations will depend not merely upon the words of its Charter or the rules or procedures we adopt here or upon the individuals we elect to hold office. It will depend upon the support it receives from the Governments and the peoples of the nations which have created it and which must sustain it.

If the United Nations lives in the minds and the hearts of our peoples, it will be able to adapt itself to the changing needs of a changing world and it will endure. If it lacks broad popular support, no charter, however perfect, will save it.

I believe the United Nations will live. I believe it because it springs from the impelling necessities of the age in which we live. It has been born out of the indescribable pain and suffering of many peoples in many lands.

It must live because in this atomic age the common interests which should unite free nations in maintaining a friendly, peaceful world far outweigh any possible conflict in interest which might divide them.

The United Nations does not threaten any people. It comes into conflict with no real or vital interest of any of its members.

It is not interest, it is fear and suspicion, which in turn breed fear and suspicion, that cast a shadow upon the path of peace.

As the late President Roosevelt said, "We have nothing to fear but fear itself." We must dedicate ourselves to the task of exposing and eliminating blind and unreasoning fears and the unnecessary difficulties which they create.

Called No Mere Pact

Nothing can help dispel fear and suspicion so much as cooperation in common tasks and common problems. The opportunities afforded for working together within the United Nations can help to break down habits of thinking in national isolation and go far to bring about understanding and tolerance.

The United Nations is not a mere pact among its members, it is an institution or a series of institutions capable of life and growth.

Let us use the institutions that we have created to help one another rebuild a shattered world in which there can be real security. Let us not be unduly concerned about possible shortcomings of the Charter before we have even tried to operate under it.

No charter that must be acceptable to all of us can be regarded as perfect by any one of us. But it is a great tribute to the framers of the Charter that it has been accepted by all the United Nations, large and small.

It is argued that the great States may abuse the rights given them under the Charter. There are risks in any human undertaking. But I have confidence that the great States will respect their obligations. As President Truman stated in his opening address at the San Francisco Conference:

"While these great States have a special responsibility to enforce the peace, their responsibility is based upon the obligations resting upon all States, large and small, not to use force in international relations except in the defense of law. The responsibility of great States is to serve, and not to dominate, the world."

Great States as well as small States must come to view their power as a sacred trust to be exercised not for selfish purposes but for the good of all peoples.

Holds Remedies Available

If the United Nations becomes a working institution with broad popular support, devoted to the development of peace, security and human well-being, whatever defects there may be in its lettered provisions will not be beyond practical remedy. Institutions that come to live in the minds and the hearts of the people somehow manage to meet every crisis.

But I offer a word of warning. Let us not expect feats of magic overnight from the institutions we have created. Let us beware of the diehard enthusiasts as well as the diehard unbelievers. Let us not think that we can give over any and every problem to the United Nations and expect it to be solved. Let us avoid casting excessive burdens upon the institutions of the United Nations, especially in their infancy.

I recall to you the clear provisions of the Charter, which obligate member nations to make every effort to settle their disputes by peaceful means of their own choice before calling upon the United Nations to intervene. The primary responsibility of the United Nations is to build a lasting system of peace and security capable of meeting the stresses and strains of the future and to promote through more effective international cooperation the economic and social well-being of the peoples of the world.

In the months ahead we must concentrate upon these tasks. We have first to provide the Security Council with the force it needs to maintain peace. [In his spoken address Mr. Byrnes inserted "military" before "force."] This must be done by special agreements which remain to be worked out between the Security Council and the member States. We should begin upon this task immediately.

Atomic Energy Put First

We have another task of transcending importance. The establishment of a commission to deal with the problems raised by the discovery of atomic energy is inseparably linked with the problem of security. It is a matter of primary concern to all nations. We must not fail to devise the safeguards necessary to insure that this great discovery is used for human welfare and not for more deadly human warfare.

I hope that this Assembly will approve promptly the solution proposed by my Government in association with the United Kingdom, the Soviet Union, China, France and Canada so that this commission may begin its work without delay.

The United Nations must be a cooperative effort upon the part of all peace-loving nations. Our fighting men have given us this opportunity. A great responsibility now rests upon all of us. Upon the meeting of that responsibility depends the future of civilized humanity.

Twenty-five years ago we in the United States were not fully aware of our responsibility. But, with others, we have learned from experience. This time both the United States and its people are deeply conscious of their responsibility. This time, on their behalf, I pledge full and wholehearted cooperation.

UNO ASSEMBLY CHIEFS OF U.S. DEVELOP RIFT

JAN 15 1946

Split Is On Sovereignty Of Yank-Conquered Jap Islands

London, Tuesday, Jan. 15 (AP)—A split among American officials at the United Nations Assembly over whether American-conquered Japanese islands should be placed under United Nations' sovereignty was disclosed today as the Assembly looked toward consideration of trusteeship problims.

Some American officials, who asked anonymity, said the split in the United States ranks might have to be referred to President Truman for settlement.

Formation of over-all policies on trusteeship arrangements—under which one nation of a group of nations would administer any territories placed under UNO's control—was one of the major tasks awaiting the Assembly, which will not meet today until 4 P. M. (11 A. M. EST) to allow time for committee meetings.

Kenney's Views Carry Weight

American delegates said the delegation itself favored a trusteeship plan for Pacific isles, while its special military adviser, Gen. George C. Kenney, argued the United States should retain any islands of military value.

Kenney, chief of the Pacific Air Staff, could not be reached immediately for comment. American military opinion as previously expressed by others has been that, having won the islands with American blood, the United States should not run the risk of having to reconquer them.

Kenney was here in a purely advisory capacity but as representative of the War Department his views carry considerable weight. Delegates said if he held out, disagreement could be considered as tantamount to an issue between the State and War Departments and would require referral to the Chief Executive.

Disagree On Control

The State Department's position, it was said, was that United States officias agree dto preliminary trusteeship plans during the San Francisco conference and should not set a precedent for others by withholding the islands. The United Nations Charter does not make it compulsory that they be turned over.

There was some disagreement as to exactly how much control of the isles America would lose even if she agreed to UNO's sovereignty.

Some sources said it was unlikely America would propose a trusteeship arrangement without stipulating that she alone should be UNO's controlling agent.

Atom Plan Action Urged

James F. Byrnes, Secretary of State, asked cheering members of the Assembly yesterday for immediate action to insure that atomic energy shall be used "for human welfare and not for more deadly human warfare."

Byrnes urged "prompt approval" of a British-United States-Russian plan for an atomic commission—a proposal which the Assembly a few minutes earlier decided to consider at this first meeting.

Pledging his country's "wholehearted co-operation" with the 50 other United Nations, the chief United States delegate also urged that the powerful new Security Council begin "immediately" its task of building an international armed force to put down aggression.

"We have first," he declared, "to provide the Security Council with the military force it needs to retain peace."

The word "military" was inserted by Byrnes at the last minute. It did not appear in the prepared text of his 1,500-word speech.

Opening general debate on the preparatory commission's report, Byrnes spoke slowly. He said great as well as small nations "must come to view their power as a sacred trust"—the words President Truman used to describe America's possession of the atom bomb—and asserted "the future of humanity" depended upon the meeting of national responsibilities in this atomic age.

Press Freedom Urged

Another speaker, L. M. De Souza Dantas, former Foreign Minister of Brazil, told the Assembly the bomb secret might be kept for some time but added:

"As scientific discoveries are not the privilege of any people, there is no way out of the dangers of atomic energy but human fraternity through the world."

Earlier Pedro Lopez, Philippines delegate, asked for early action toward calling an international press conference to insure world freedom of the press. Lopez said "far greater monsters than the atomic bomb" must be feared unless "the heart and mind of man" are educated. "This education can only be accomplished through a free press," he declared.

Deadlock Broken

Lopez withdrew his proposal after United States Senator Arthur H. Vandenberg (R., Mich.), agreeing that the delegates should ask for the "widest possible exchange of international views and information," recommended that the convention discussion be deferred until the April meeting.

At a morning session, the United Nations broke a deadlock over the eighteenth member of the Economic and Social Council. New Zealand withdrew her candidacy in favor of Yugoslavia after, it was reliably reported, Britain and America had guaranteed her a three-year term on the Economic and Social Council at the next election in September.

Meanwhile, behind-the-scenes discussions centered on the post of secretary general composition of the Trusteeship Council.

URGES EUROPEAN PEACE TALKS NOW

F. LEWIS

London, Jan. 14 (A. P.).—A Foreign Office spokesman said today that Britain had launched a drive to get Big Five representatives at work on European peace treaties this week while top statesmen are here for the United Nations Conference. Britain has sent notes to Washington and Moscow with a suggestion for a three-Power reply to a French query on the foreign ministers decisions at Moscow, the spokesman said. The notes urged that this reply be speeded.

At the same time, the Foreign Office has asked Paris whether France would be willing to start work immediately on the Italian peace treaty before the Big Three have answered the French questions about negotiation of treaties with Germany's ex-satellites.

Andrei J. Vishinsky, the Russian Vice-Commissar for Foreign Affairs, is expected here in two or three days and French Foreign Minister Georges Bidault is expected from Paris on Wednesday. When these two arrive, it seems likely that they will have informal conversations with Secretary of State Byrnes, Foreign Secretary Bevin and the Chinese Ambassador, Wellington Koo, relative to speeding up the drafting of peace treaties so that a large peace conference may be held in May as scheduled.

WALLACE IS URGED TO HEAD UNO STAFF

Polish Delegate Lobbies for Commerce Chief for Post of Secretary General

LONDON, Jan. 14 (AP)—Secretary of Commerce Henry A. Wallace of the United States was suggested today for Secretary-General of the United Nations Organization.

Polish Delegate Jan Stanczyk toured the lobby of the UNO General Assembly asking other delegates how they felt about picking Mr. Wallace for UNO's biggest job. He said he intended to discuss with the Russian delegation the possible selection of Mr. Wallace.

The Russians have been supporting Stanoje Simitch, Yugoslav Ambassador to Washington, for the post. Part of the London press has carried on an enthusiastic campaign for Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower, who has asserted he would not take the job.

Behind-the-scenes discussions also centered on the composition of the Trusteeship Council.

Arab delegates said they were anxious to obtain representation on the Trusteeship Council. Uppermost in their minds, they said, was the question of Palestine, which they declared is ready for independence.

These sources said the Arab League considered Palestine "is in exactly the same position as Syria, the Lebanon and Iraq, whose mandates have expired."

"We consider that Palestine should become at the earliest possible moment an independent Arab States," said one Arab commentator. "If Palestine is to retain the status of an undeveloped country with the possibility of future self-government, obviously from the Arab point of view the best thing that can happen is that the responsibility should fall upon those who are most likely to grant us self-government in the shortest space of time."

However, Arthur Henderson, British Under-Secretary for India, said he doubted that the question of Palestine and Trans-Jordan would be brought up at present, explaining that the Anglo-American Committee of Inquiry on Palestine was only just beginning its investigation.

Reds See Understanding Solving U.N.O. Problems

But Talk of Small Powers' Rights Is Called Demagogic

LONDON, Jan. 14 (AP).—The Moscow radio, commenting on the United Nations meeting, said today that "certain difficulties before the General Assembly" could be "ironed out through mutual understanding and sincere willingness to fight for general peace and security."

"Now, as always, the Soviet people take their stand by the cause of peace," commentator Peter Orlov said in a broadcast in English, heard here.

"Discussion about the rights of small nations, so widespread just now in the foreign press and particularly in the newspapers of France, is purely demagogic discussion, which has nothing in common with the genuine defense of the rights of small nations."

Mrs. Roosevelt To Visit Russia

London, Jan. 14 (A. P.).—Mrs. Eleanor Roosevelt said today that she intends to visit Russia some time after the United Nations Assembly adjourns, but that she was undecided as to the time of her departure.

Her duties as a delegate to the assembly are expected to keep her in London for at least six weeks more.

Britain Cuts Warships To Add Merchantmen

London, Jan. 14 (AP)—The Admiralty disclosed today that Great Britain has cut back its warship building program to allow construction of more merchant vessels.

Work on some warships, including two superaircraft carriers—the Audacious and the Ark Royal II—will continue on a nonpriority basis so that the building of approximately 100 cargo ships now on the ways will no longer be slowed by diversion of men and material to naval construction.

The main casualty of the cutback was a third supercarrier, the Eagle.

LABORITE EXPLAINS

London, Jan. 14 (A. P.).—Ellis Smith, first to resign office since Britain's Laborite Government was formed last August, explained in a speech yesterday that he had quit as Parliamentary Secretary to the Board of Trade (Department of Commerce) because of "personal stings" and disagreements with his chief, Sir Stafford Cripps.

Among these disagreements, Smith said, were the Government's failure to nationalize the cotton industry and too much austerity at home while quantities of goods went abroad.

He said his resignation a week ago did not mean a break with the Labor party, and he added that he would continue as a member of Parliament.

Soviet Ratifies Polish Treaty

LONDON, Jan. 14 (AP)—Moscow Radio said tonight that the Presidium of the Supreme Council of the Soviet Union had ratified the Soviet-Polish treaty of Aug. 16, 1945, establishing the frontier between the U.S.S.R. and Poland.

Hungary to Get UNRRA Famine Aid

London, Jan. 14 (A. P.).—The central committee of the UNRRA announced today the authorization of limited aid to Hungary in an emergency effort to check famine and disease.

Demand Ouster of Patterson.

Paris, Jan. 14 (A. P.).—About 500 American soldiers, demanding the ouster of Secretary of War Patterson, are urging the reduction of officers' privileges in the hope of making voluntary enlistment more attractive.

The group formed a "committee of liberation" yesterday and today its chairman, Sgt. Raymond O. Redmond of Corpus Christi, Tex., declared that if men were attracted to Army service it would clear the way for the deployment of soldiers eligible for discharge. The committee demands that opening of all officers' clubs to officers and men alike, the abolition of separate officers' messess and special officers' sections at recreational events, a rule requiring all officers to serve at least one year as enlisted men except in time of war and the inclusion of enlisted men on Army courts martial. The G. I.'s plan to present these and other demands to a senatorial committee expected here this month.

2 More Killings In U.S. Berlin Zone Reported

Berlin, Jan. 14 (AP)—The American Provost Marshal's office said today the fatal shooting of British Pvt. George Young and the discovery of the body of a slain Russian soldier, bringing to ten the killings reported in the American sector of Berlin within three weeks.

The British soldier was slain last night by unidentified assailants he attempted to prevent from stealing his automobile. The body of the Russian soldier, shot through the head, was found near Anhalter railroad station. Investigators believed he had been killed elsewhere and his body dumped at the station.

Three of the ten slayings thus far have been solved.

War Trial Hears Order in Prosecution of Admiral Doenitz.

NAZIS HOPED TO SCARE CREWS

Hitler Directed Navy to Shoot Up Lifeboats After Allied Ships Were Sunk.

NUERNBERG

Nuernberg, Jan. 14 (A. P.).—An explicit directive of the German Navy forbidding any attempts to rescue or aid survivors of torpedoed ships was read into the record of the International War Crimes Tribunal today in the prosecution of Grand Admiral Karl Doenitz.

"No attempt of any kind must be made at rescuing members of ships sunk, and this included picking up persons in the water and putting them in lifeboats, righting capsized lifeboats and handing over food and water," read the order issued to all submarine commanders under Doenitz's command on September 17, 1942.

"Rescue runs counter to the rudimentary demands of warfare for the destruction of enemy ships and crews."

Tried to Kill Crews.

Earlier, evidence was introduced which disclosed that Adolf Hitler, in an effort to render American shipping construction useless by creating a shortage of seamen, directed German U-boats early in 1942 to kill or capture crews of torpedoed vessels.

British prosecutors produced also a secret wireless message to one U-boat commander who reported giving aid to women and children who survived a sinking. The message informed him that this action was "wrong" and bluntly reminded him his vessel was not sent to rescue "English and Poles."

The Fuehrer's orders were disclosed in notes on a conversation between Hitler and Japanese Ambassador Hiroshi Oshima in the presence of Foreign Minister Joachim von Ribbentrop on January 8, 1942. The notes were submitted to the International Tribunal.

The memorandum said Hitler told the Japanese Ambassador that he had recalled the entire Atlantic submarine fleet for reorganization, after which it would be posted outside United States ports. Later, he continued, they would congregate off Freetown, on the western bulge of Africa, and Capetown, South Africa.

Jap Envoy Agreed.

"The Fuehrer pointed out that, however many ships the United States built, one of their main problems would be the lack of personnel," the memorandum continued. "For that reason even merchant ships would be sunk without warning, with the intention of killing as many of the crew as possible. Once it gets around that most of the seamen are lost in the sinkings, the Americans would soon have difficulties in enlisting new people."

Hitler told Oshima that the German attitude could not be governed by "any humane feelings" and he therefore gave his order that "in case foreign seamen could not be taken prisoner, which is not always possible on the open sea, U-boats were to surface after torpedoing and shoot up the lifeboats."

"Oshima heartily agreed with the Fuehrer's comments and said the Japanese, too, are forced to follow these methods," the notes concluded.

DOENITZ ORDERED TOTAL SEA WAR, ARMY COURT TOLD

J. F. KING

NUERNBERG, Germany, Jan. 14—(AP) A German naval lieutenant testified before the international military tribunal trying 22 ranking Nazis today that Grand Admiral Karl Doenitz in the fall of 1942 ordered total sea war on crews as well as ships. The intent was to combat the gigantic American shipbuilding program by breaking the spirit of the U. S. Merchant Marine, he said.

Doenitz, whose devotion to the Nazi cause was so great that Adolf Hitler chose him as his successor in the role of Fuehrer, sat quietly as the evidence against him poured into the tribunal.

The naval lieutenant, Peter Joseph Heisig, said Doenitz's words to the graduating class of the German Naval College appeared to indicate clearly that rescue boats were to be destroyed.

Under cross examination by Doenitz's lawyer, Heisig said he never had seen a written order, but that the grand admiral's implication was unmistakable.

The British prosecution opened the case against Doenitz with presentation of documentary evidence that Doenitz was a rabid adherent to the Nazi creeds, and did his best to indoctrinate the navy with Nazi philosophy.

Hitler Orders Cited

Evidence was introduced disclosing that Hitler, in an effort to make American shipping construction useless by creating a shortage of shipping, directed U-Boats in 1942 to kill or capture crews of torpedoed vessels.

The British also produced a document by Doenitz dated Sept. 22, 1939, proposing night attacks on merchant ships found in British or French waters.

A secret order from Doenitz to U-Boats on Oct. 7, 1943, also was presented to the tribunal. It urged attacks on convoy rescue ships because "in view of the desired destruction of ships' crews, their sinking is of great value."

Doenitz is the first on the list of 10 defendants whose individual cases the United States and Britain hope to conclude this week. Thus they would clear the way for the French and Russian prosecutors to start their cases next week.

JACKSON TO RETURN

Nuernberg, Jan. 14 (A. P.).—Justice Robert H. Jackson, chief United States Prosecutor at the German war crimes trial, said today that he expects to leave the case and rejoin the Supreme Court of the United States "at some time during the latter part of the spring sessions."

Jackson's statement followed the departure for the United States yesterday of Col. Robert S. Storey of Dallas, Tex., chief of the documentation division; Col. Leonard Wheeler of Cambridge, Mass., who presented the case on church persecution to the International Military Tribunal, and Lieut.-Col. Thomas Hinkel of Washington, executive officer of the interrogation division.

Ralph G. Albrecht, New York attorney in charge of cases against individual defendants, is expected to leave at the end of this week.

DODD HEADS COUNSEL AT NUERNBERG TRIAL

NUERNBERG, Germany, Jan. 14—(AP) Thomas J. Dodd of Lebanon, Conn., was named executive chief of Justice Robert H. Jackson's war crimes trial counsel today, succeeding Col. Robert Storey of Dallas, Texas.

Storey returned to the United States yesterday because of personal business commitments.

Dodd, 38, previously had been appointed by Jackson to the special board of review and served on the planning committee which prepared the United States case against the 22 Nazis now on trial. He was formerly a special assistant to the U. S. attorney general.

Dodd presented the economic case against the defendants in early phases of the trial and then successfully pleaded accusations against the Nazis for using slave labor and concentration camps and for persecution of the Jews.

HITLER'S DOCTOR LEFT SUICIDE NOTE

Nuernberg, Jan. 14 (A. P.).—Dr. Leonardo Conti, Adolf Hitler's "mad doctor," whose suicide in the Nuernberg jail three months ago was kept secret by the United States Army authorities, wrote a farewell note to his family that he was taking his life because he had lied under American interrogation, it was learned today. The suicide of the former Nazi health leader—who decreed the killing of hundreds of thousands of persons in his lust for race purity—was revealed yesterday.

Apparently his suicide note was never delivered. Asked whether any notification was sent Mrs. Conti after his body was buried secretly last October, Col. B. C. Andrus, commander of the Internal Security Detachment guarding the jail, said: "As far as my records show, she was not."

Andrus declined to say why Conti's death was kept secret.

CLEW IS REPORTED IN AMG MURDERS

Nuernberg, Jan. 14 (A. P.).—United States Army criminal investigation agents indicated today that they had uncovered a lead in their inquiry into the death of three American Military Government officers in the eight-day-old mystery at Nassau near the Austrian border. They kept a tight censorship over the details, however. Even the names of two of the victims were being kept secret officially. They were reported unofficially to beMajor Everett S. Cofran of Washington, D. C., and Capt. Adrian Wessler of New Rochelle, N. Y. The third victim was identified as Lieut. Stanley Rosewater of Omaha.

NAZI ENVOY KILLED HIMSELF, ARMY SAYS

FRANKFURT, Germany, Jan. 14. —(AP) U. S. Seventh Army authorities said tonight that Dr. Otto Koecher, former German minister to Switzerland who previously was reported to have "died" in the American prison camp at Ludwigsberg, had committed suicide.

The 63-year-old diplomat hanged himself in the camp after being questioned concerning 200,000 reichsmarks missing from a gold transfer from the German embassy to the National Bank in Bern.

According to the report, Koecher asserted in his suicide note that he was being accused falsely of embezzlement and held little hope of convincing the Allies of his innocence.

Nazi Marriage Plan Begins to Backfire

Divorce Rate Declared Ten Times 1932 Figure

HANNOVER, Germany, Jan. 14 (AP).—German war-time marriages, encouraged by the Hitler state to produce more soldiers for Nazi armies, have begun to backfire. Divorce cases are flooding German courts at a rate described by a German judge as ten times higher than in 1932. In the last three months 1,443 divorce proceedings have been filed in the Hannover Circuit Courts, and of 737 civil cases heard here since November, 604 were concerned with divorces.

Doomed Nazi Gets Leniency

BAD ZWISCHENAHN, Germany, Jan. 14 (AP).—Canadian 3d Division headquarters announced today that the death sentence pronounced Dec. 28 on Nazi Major General Kurt Meyer, convicted of responsibility for the killing of Canadian prisoners of war, had been commuted to life imprisonment. A statement said the reviewing authority "considers Meyer's degree of responsibility not such as to warrant the extreme penalty." Meyer was tried by a Canadian military court. He will serve his life term in Canada.

Vienna Reports Divorce Rise Jump

Vienna, Jan. 14 (AP)—More than 8,000 divorce suits have been filed in the Vienna civil courts since July, most of them by Viennese women who want to shed their German husbands.

A German husband is a disadvantage now. The Austrian wife of a German is regarded as German, finds herself unable to hold a job, is forced to obtain a permit to live in her hometown and is faced with the possibility of being sent to Germany.

A complication, however, is that there is no contact between Austrian and German courts at the moment, and a divorce granted here might be disavowed in Germany. As a result no divorce proceedings involving Germans are being conducted here yet.

AIR LINE TO BERLIN PLANS EARLY START

Amsterdam, Jan. 14 (A. P.).—American Overseas Airways expects to start commercial service from New York to Berlin and Warsaw some time between February 15 and March 1, James Flynn, a company vice-president, told a press conference today. The service will be via Gander, Newfoundland; Shannon, Eire, and Amsterdam and Frankfurt, and will eventually be extended to Moscow, he said.

For the time being the service will be operated once a week on a mutual-aid basis with the Dutch KLM, which also is planning an Amsterdam-New York service, he declared, adding that the Dutch line will handle passenger and freight bookings plus the servicing of planes for the American line here while American will do the same for KLM in New York.

Hanoi Tension Acute; French Unarmed

S. Sunrise

Hanoi, Indo-China, Jan. 12 (Delayed) (AP)—An air of tension grips this city of 180,000, where 20,000 Frenchmen are forbidden by Chinese occupation forces to possess any weapons while fully armed Annamite soldiers of the Republic of Viet Nam circulate freely.

The latest major incident was the daylight assassination of Frenchman Jean Baylin, director of the Hanoi branch of the Bank of Indo-China, in a downtown street.

French figures charge 35 Frenchmen have been murdered in Hanoi since August.

Anarchy Prevails, He Says

"Anarchy prevails throughout the north, with no police in the city, no coal, no railroads in operation," a French spokesman said.

"We can restore order in a short time, if we get permission to bring troops in. Furthermore, we can do it without serious trouble, especially if the Chinese agree to joint occupation for a few weeks before their withdrawal."

At present, the Republic of Viet Nam, which was formed from the French protectorate of Annam and which ousted a Japanese puppet regime last August, operates the civil administration throughout the region. The government of President Ho Chi Minh officially frowns on the assaults on individual Frenchmen.

French Unarmed

It is estimated there are about 15,000 armed men in the Annamite army, with about 3,000 in the Hanoi area.

The French have 5,000 troops, including 800 men of the Foreign Legion, but their arms were seized by the Japanese last March 9 and they never were rearmed. Fifteen thousand French civilians live in Hanoi and another 5,000 elsewhere in Tonkin province.

The local Chinese press is strongly anti-French in tone, daily charging the French with atrocities against the Chinese in French-occupied Cochin China.

COLD, HUNGER TAKING HUGE TOLL IN INDO CHINA

HANOI, French Indo-China, Jan. 14—(AP) French and Annamite sources in this politically tense capital said today they believed between 600,000 and 2,000,000 persons in Northern Indo-China were loomed to die of starvation within the year.

Cold and Hunger already are taking a heavy toll, and the situation in this plagued capital was aggravated by the explosive atmosphere engendered by the bitter feeling between the French and the unrecognized republic of Viet Nam.

Chinese occupation forces have forbidden 20,000 Frenchmen to carry any weapons, although fully armed Annamite solders of the Viet Nam republic circulate freely. A French spokesman has claimed "anarchy prevails throughout the north, with no police in this city, no coal, no railroads in operation."

It has been estimated that there are about 15,000 armed men in the Annamite army, about 3,000 of them in the Hanoi area. The French here have 5,000 troops, unarmed since the Japanese seized their weapons last March, and there are some 15,000 French civilians here.

Thousands Die

This will be the second successive year of hunger for Northern Indo-China. Estimates of the dead last year range between 600,000 and 2,000,000 and the French and Annamites both fear this year will be no better. In two days this correspondent counted 400 dead in the environs of Hanoi alone.

At least seven provinces of Tonkin China, northernmost region of Indo-China, are under water. Dykes which protected the countryside from the Red River are broken in many places and mile after mile of rich rice land is inundated.

The French say the leaders of the unrecognized republic, to whom the Chinese have turned over administration, are utterly unable to meet the situation, but that they refuse to let the French repair the dykes. In reply President Ho Chi Minh of the Viet Nam republic blamed the French for not having taught the people during 80 years to care for the dykes themselves.

The situation is complicated by the necessity for feeding Chinese occupation armies and surrendered Japanese in the famine area. The French planned to bring in 5,000 tons of rice monthly for the Chinese troops and small rations for Annamite coal miners, but charged that the Annamites refused to let them bring in rice for the population. Ho Chi Minh replied that the Annamites believe distribution of the rice should be handled by the United States or some neutral.

French Charge Slayings

On the political scene in the capital the French charge that 35 Frenchmen were slain in Hanoi since last August. A French spokesman claimed the French could restore order in Indo-China in a short time if they were permitted to bring in troops, particularly if the Chinese agree to joint occupation for a few weeks before their withdrawal of occupation troops.

The chief French fear is that the Chinese will withdraw before French troops arrive, resulting in danger for the unarmed French from the violently anti-French Annamite revolutionaries.

The Chinese have not indicated when they will withdraw. At present the Viet Nam government, which ousted the Japanese puppet regime last August, operates the civil administration of the region.

The government frowns on assaults on individual Frenchmen, but the French claim little has been done about it.

REPULSE INDONESIANS

Batavia, Jan. 14 (A. P.).—A Nationalist assault on barracks in Batavia was repulsed by British troops supported by American-built Sherman tanks yesterday, as widespread violence flared in Java, a British communique said.

Reporting an increasing number of outbreaks, British authorities said casualties included one British Gurkha killed, one British officer, nine Indians and one Chinese wounded in the most recent fighting.

South of Semarang a British warship, trading shots with two Indonesian 75s, shelled roadblocks. British artillery also was reported participating in the duel. Clashes involving artillery also occurred in the Soerabaja area and British mobile columns encountered slight opposition near Buitenzorg. Near Bandoeng a company of Indian troops was reported attacked by Nationalists.

IRANIAN INSURGENTS SEIZE RAILWAY CARS

TEHERAN, Iran, Jan. 14 (AP)—An Iranian General Staff officer said today that armed Azerbaijan insurgents had halted railway traffic north of Kazvin, sixty-five miles northwest of Teheran. Army officers said they feared the trains might be used for a southward march on Teheran.

Reports from the staff officer and railway employes here said that six locomotives and seventy railroad cars were seized three days ago by "armed democrats" at Jinjan, about 120 miles northwest of Teheran. Jingan is in the Russian-occupied zone.

Government officials here suspended all northward movements of railway cars from the capital. Some believe the seized trains were being operated northward from Jenjan on behalf of the newly proclaimed Azerbaijan state.

The United States Embassy at Teheran said the Russian Embassy here had rejected a request of an Associated Press correspondent to travel into Azerbaijan. The Soviet Embassy was reported to have explained that the Soviet commandant in Iran considered the time of the proposed trip "inopportune."

Indian Bank Notes Off In Black-Market Fight

Bombay, Jan. 14 (AP)—Indian bank notes sold at discounts today following the Government's anti-black market order making large denomination currency illegal while financial circles hoped the reopening of banks tomorrow would return the panicky situation to normal.

Thousand rupee notes (about $300) sold for 400 to 600 rupees and there were reports of persons with large holdings of high denominations leaving British India for other Indian states not affected by the freeze order.

Jersey Man's Protest.

Calcutta, Jan. 14 (A. P.).—Five thousand G. I.'s in the India-Burma theater heard charges at a mass meeting here yesterday that the War Department at home and the Army authorities here were confusing the demobilization issue and that non-essential materials were being loaded for shipment home.

Technician Fifth Class George T. Heinamann of 55 Garden street, Teaneck, N. J., a crane operator at the King George Docks, said that ships were being loaded there with "rotten tent pegs, rusted stove pipes, candy declared unfit for human consumption" and similar articles. A resolution was adopted demanding that Congress "stimulate demobilization of all military personnel and effect the immediate repatriation of all men not absolutely essential to the fulfillment of our overseas responsibility.

143 KILLED IN INDIA

Calcutta, Jan. 14 (A. P.).—Police said today that 143 were killed and fifty injured in the collapse of two jetties at Diamond Harbor.

The jetties crumbled Saturday under the weight of thousands of persons awaiting transportation to Saugor Island for a Hindu festival. Authorities said whole families were wiped out and that an accurate count of casualties could not be made immediately.

Chinese Accusing Each Other

Nationalists and Communists Charge Cease Fire Order Was Violated After Midnight.

Chungking, Jan. 14 (A. P.).—The Chinese Nationalist Government and the Communists each charged the other today with violations of the truce in their undeclared civil war, which was supposed to have ended last midnight.

A spokesman for the Central Government's National Military Council asserted that despite the "cease fire" deadline at midnight, the Communists today increased rather than ceased their military operations.

The Yenan Communist forces were charged with burning villages all along the eastern section of the Lunghai railway, which cuts through northern Kiangsu Province to the Yellow Sea, and were accused of attacking Nationalist-held Anyang on the Peiping-Hankow railroad in northern Honan.

May Not Be Serious.

There were hopes, however, that the situation was not as serious as it appeared. Continued operations beyond the midnight deadline could be attributed to two causes: Failure of troops to receive cease fire orders in time, and a desire to derive the maximum possible advantage before the deadline. Both Government and Communist authorities had given assurances that all military operations would cease as agreed in Thursday's truce.

Meanwhile, Communists in Chungking were reported actively interested in the Government's proposal to enlarge the State Council, making it an all-party and nonpartisan body and investing it with supreme policy making and directive authority.

It was reported that the Communists intended that such a proposed reorganized State Council should be divided into three equal groups, one representing the Kuomintang, another the Communist party, and the third the other parties and nonpartisans.

At Yenan, Chinese Communist Chairman Mao Tse-tung declared that China has "entered upon a new stage of peace and democracy." He asserted in his "cease fire" order to Communist troops that "the efforts of the Chinese people following the Japanese war in building up peace and democracy already have been signaled by important achievements" and hoped that "all comrades in the party" would cooperate closely in the establishment of a "new, independent, free and strong China."

Truce Quieting Chinese Fronts

5, M005A

Chungking, Tuesday, Jan 15 (AP). Quiet is settling over China's erstwhile fighting fronts, an official dispatch said today.

At many points, fighting stopper immediately on receipt of the cease-fire order, designed to become effective Sunday night. On other fronts, firing subsided more gradually, the dispatch said.

The dispatch added that National Government forces, which had been rushed last month into coal mining areas of western Hopeh province, withdrew Saturday to their original positions.

Withdraw From Border

It also reported that Gen. Fu Tso-yi, commander of the 12th War Zone, Sunday had withdrawn his troops from the borders of Chahar province and that they were observing the truce strictly. Fu reportedly had distributed 100,000 copies of the truce order among his men, and had radioed the executive headquarters at Peiping to send investigators to the Inner Mongolian province of Suiyuan to observe the situation there.

Earlier, charges and counter-charges had followed in the wake of the truce.

Claims Villages Fired

A Chinese Government spokesman accused the Communists of "enlarging rather than ceasing their military operations" and of putting the torch to many villages in violation of the truce which became effective at midnight Sunday.

The Communists yesterday made similar charges against the Government forces, and added today that the Communist regions of North China still were under a doubled-ring blockade strengthened by hundreds of newly constructed Government blockhouses.

The Government has denied the specific accusation of continued advances into Jehof province.

It will be several days before the three-man truce commission, including an American, is in position to send inspection troops to strategic points.

Meanwhile, the unity conference formally received the Chiang Kai-shek plan to broaden the base of the Government by including all parties, then adjourned until Tuesday without acting on it.

SHANGHAI G. I.'S HAND PETITION TO PATTERSON

Demand for Clear-cut Policy on Army Discharges Is Presented Quietly.

OPEN MEETING IS FORECAST

Wedemeyer Helps Organize Men Who Serve Their Complaint as Secretary's Plane Lands.

Shanghai, Jan. 14 (A. P.).—A thousand American soldiers met Secretary of War Patterson as he stepped from his airplane here today and demanded of him a clear-cut policy of Army discharges.

Pfc. David M. Miller of Gulfport, Miss., a former school teacher, who has twenty-eight discharge points to his credit, presented the G. I. petition immediately after Patterson had been welcomed by Lieut.-Gen. Albert Wedemeyer, commander of United States forces in China; Lieut.-Gen. George E. Stratemeyer, Vice-Admiral Charles M. Cooke Jr., commander of the Seventh Fleet, and Chinese officials, including Mayor Chien Ta-chun.

There were indications that Patterson would confer with the soldier committee at an open meeting sometime tomorrow, at the request of Gen. Wedemeyer, who early today promised a G. I. delegation he would help them get a hearing with Patterson, and who then assisted them to frame the questions they wished to submit to the Secretary. Arriving at the Kiangwan airdrome more than an hour before Patterson, the General mingled freely wit hthe soldiers, discussing their "gripes" and assuring them over a public address system that he was not worried about any possible disorders.

Told Others Are Watching.

"I know you will conduct yourselves in an orderly manner," he said. "The eyes of various other nationals—the Russians, British and French—are watching what we are doing here in China."

Miller earlier had cautioned the soldiers against any catcalls or boos, declaring: "We are here because we think we have a legitimate complaint to make to Secretary Patterson. We are asking him for an open meeting later on."

The soldiers, mainly air corps men, remained quiet and undemonstrative behind a barrier of ropes as Patterson at 2:50 P. M. stepped from his plane, greeted the officials on hand and reviewed two crack Chinese platoons. Placards on a few Army trucks read: "Uncles Sanm's Forgotten Men Welcome You."

Patterson arrived from Korea.

He plans to remain here only a couple of days before continuing on to Manila, where other soldier demonstrations against the demobilization slow-down have been held.

Chinese Yell 'Go Home' To U.S. Troops

RC 1/15/46

Shanghai, Jan. 14 (AP)—Chinese students who shouted "Why don't you go home?" to American troops demonstrated in Shanghai streets today for establishment of a democratic China and withdrawal of United States forces.

Leaders of the several thousand students, who marched six abreast through the streets, said the demonstration was part of a nation-wide movement.

The demonstrations waved placards and banners and shouted their slogans for American withdrawal and democracy in both Chinese and English.

At a later mass meeting speakers urged a coalition government be formed to provide "freedom of speech and assembly" and demanded the removal of corrupt officials and prompt trial for Chinese traitors.

The speakers loudly criticized Nationalist troops for allegedly firing on a recent student demonstration in Kunming, where four students and a teacher were reported to have been killed.

The parade followed memorial services for Yu Cha, the teacher, in the jade Buddhist temple.

China Red Areas 'Blockaded'

J. RODERICK

Shanghai, Jan. 14 (AP)—The Red regions of China today are as much sealed off from the rest of the world as ever, despite the withdrawal of half a million Chinese Nationalist troops, Gen. Yen Kweiyao, Communist commander of the Shensi, Ningsia, Kansu province border region defense, asserted today.

Hundreds of hurriedly constructed block houses in the border area and a remaining force of 200,000 Central Government troops still prevent free entrance or exit between Nationalist and Communist China, Yen said.

At the end of the war with the Japanese, Mao Tse-tung, Chinese Communist chairman, charged that 700,000 of the Central Government's best troops had been held immobilized along the Red area borders during years of bitter fighting against Japanese in other areas.

Yen said the majority of troops moved from the border blockade had been shifted to fighting with the Communists in other areas in the northwest. The remainder, he asserted, are under the command of Gen. Hu Tsung-nan, northwest commander of Chiang Kai-shek.

4,611 U.S. Japs Return To Homeland

Yokohama, Jan. 14 (AP)—More repatriated Japanese are seeking to set up homes in Japan after returning 4,611 strong from the United States aboard the transport General Grant.

Nisei and native Japanese alike went through the drab Japanese-operated separation center at Uraga, south of Yokosuka. Once off ship, all responsibility for their welfare passed to the Japanese Government. They are men and women who, while living in the United States, voluntarily expressed a preference for Japan.

25 To 50 Years Jap Occupation Is Advocated

Tokyo, Jan. 14 (AP)—Allied occupation of Japan for as long as 50 years was advocated today by Tomas Confesor, chief Filipino delegate to the Far Eastern Commission.

"I believe we should keep troops here for from 25 to 50 years," Confesor said in the first statement by any commission member on the length of military occupation.

He told the Associated Press he favored stern policing of Japan and added, however, that the Allied attitude should be just and fair."

"If we let them have a free hand, I fear they will try to rise again in the next 25 years. We should take definite measures to insure that doesn't happen.

Urges Support Of MacArthur

"MacArthur is on the right track. He should be given all moral and political support of the Allied world."

The policy-making commission continued its investigation of the occupation scene, and scheduled a discussion of war-crime matters with Allied legal authorities on January 24.

Maj. Gen. Frank R. McCoy, chairman, said the commission—still meeting without Russian representation—had not decided whether it would make any recommendations on Allied occupation policies while in Tokyo. The commission is scheduled to leave Japan for Honolulu January 31, en route to Washington.

Hisatada Hirose, Governer of metropolitan Tokyo, resigned today in a compliance with General MacArthur's purge directive ordering all ultranationalists out of public office.

Hirose, whose resignation was reported by Kyodo news agency, was a director of the Imperial Rule Assistance Association during the war.

Meanwhile, a spokesman for the revamped Shidehara Cabinet announced a five-point program which would be the Cabinet's goal in helping to build a new Japan.

Narahashi's Aims

Wataru Narahashi, newly appointed chief Cabinet secretary, outlined these points in an interview with Kyodo:

Revision of the constitution, drastic reform of the House of Peers, stabilization of economic conditions, democratization of civil service and the carrying out of Japan's first postwar election.

Narahashi pledged that there would be "no discrimination whatever among various political parties in the coming election."

General MacArthur today rejected a Japanese Government proposal to lend 217,000,000 yen to three of its agencies, but approved a 43,000,000-yen loan to the Housing Bureau. (There are 15 yen in $1.)

agency, was a director of the Imperial Rule Assistance Association during the war.

Meanwhile, a spokesman for the revamped Shidehara Cabinet announced a five-point program which would be the Cabinet's goal in helping to build a new Japan.

Wataru Narahashi, newly appointed Chief Cabinet Secretary, outlined the following points in an interview with Kyodo: Revision of the Constitution, drastic reform of the House of Peers, stabilization of economic conditions, democratization of civil service and the carrying out of Japan's first post-war election.

Narahashi pledged that there would be no discrimination whatever among various political parties in the coming election."

Shidehara Kept Busy.

Premier Baron Shidehara had a busy day receiving visitors and consulting with Government officials at his sick bed. Justice Minister Iwata and the three new Cabinet ministers were among the callers at the aged Premier's home.

The swearing-in of the three new ministers was accomplished last night. The Tokyo press, far from being appeased, however, today leveled a new blast of criticism at the Premier.

The investiture, delayed without explanation for twelve hours, came shortly after MacArthur's announcement that he had authorized the holding of a national election any time after March 15.

Sempachi Soejima replaces Kenzo Matsumura as Minister of Agriculture and Forestry in the Cabinet; Chuzo Mitsuchi replaces both Home Minister Kenpiro Horikiri and Transportation Minister Takao Tanaka; and Yoshishige Abe succeeds Education Minister Tamon Maeda.

All metropolitan newspapers remained bitterly critical, and some said others of the old Cabinet may also be replaced, including Sankuro Ogasawara, Minister of Commerce and Industry.

The national election had been tentatively scheduled for late this month, but Kyodo news agency had forecast a two-month postponement in order to allow the weeding out beforehand of ultra-Nationalist politicians who were the targets of MacArthur's recent decrees.

JAP PREMIER BACK ON JOB

Shidehara Attends Meeting Of Reorganized Cabinet

Tokyo, Jan. 14 (AP)—Premier Shidehara returned today to his office following an illness of twenty days and attended the first meeting of his newly-reorganized cabinet.

The aged Premier, aides said, has recovered from pneumonia.

Meanwhile, the Japanese press said the Government already was encountering major difficulties in applying General MacArthur's "purge" directives.

The status of the majority of the 47 prefectural governors under the latest order ousting ultranationalists from public office was one of several basic problems before the Cabinet.

Clean Up Nazis In Japan

Another new MacArthur directive was designed to weed out suspected Nazis among German civilians employed by American forces.

Latest important figure to resign under terms of General MacArthur's order for removal of ultranationalists and war advocates was Hisatada Hirose, governor of metropolitan Tokyo and a wartime director of the Fascistic Imperial Rule Assistance Association.

Disclosure that American forces were employing numerous Germans as interpreters or technical specialists came in an announcement by Col. G. A. A. Jones 8th Army intelligence officer, that a second purge of Nazis was under way.

Reborn Program Outlined

Jones said that "early in the occupancy it was found necessary to hire many German nationals residing in Japan," but that any who were found to be pro-Nazi were being fired immediately. He gave no estimate of the numbers involved.

Meanwhile, Allied headquarters approved a Japanese Government proposal that the Government lend 43,000,000 yen ($2,860,000) to its housing bureau, but rejected requests to lend 217,000,000 yen ($14,400,000) to merchant shipping, overseas relief and insurance agencies.

Wataru Narahashi, new chief cabinet secretary of the reorganized Japanese Cabinet, outlined a Government reform prgoram calling for democratization of civil service, stabilization of economic conditions, and conducting the general election scheduled for some time after March 15.

Stern Occupation Favored

The Communist party, in a statement carried by the Jiji News Service, reiterated its demand for abdication of the emperor system but proposed to let the people decide the ultimate fate of the imperial household. The statement coincided with the return of Sanni Nosaka, Communist leader, from sixteen years of self-exile in Russia and China.

MacArthur Names Two New Aides

Tokyo, Jan. 14 (AP)—Appointment of two new aides to General MacArthur has been announced.

Col. Herbert B. Wheeler, of West Newton, Mass., will serve as senior aide and as military secretary.

Lieut. William P. Hogan, of Fairmont, W.Va., also was appointed an aide.

2 Mongols To Be Quizzed

Tokyo, Jan. 14 (AP)—Two Mongols living at the Hokkaido Imperial University were ordered today by Allied headquarters to be here before January 20 for "general question" by the counterintelligence section. Their names were listed incompletely as Richijamso and Kurelo in the headquarters memorandum to the Japanese Government ordering they be escorted here.

Ruling On Jap Swords

Tokyo, Jan. 14 (AP)—Allied headquarters told the Japanese Government today that bona fide Japanese civilians may retain swords that are objects of art.

War Dog Units Coming Home

Yokohama, Jan. 14 (AP)—The 25th and 26th Infantry Scout War Dog platoons will be shipped to the United States about January 25.

Jersey GI Faces Death

For Slaying Of 2 Japs

Osaka, Jan. 14 (AP)—Pfc. Joseph E. Hicswa, 20, Wallington, N.J., has been condemned to death by an Army court martial for the murder of two Japanese 98th Division officers disclosed today.

Hicswa's death sentence, believed the first imposed on an American soldier for a crime against Japanese, must be reviewed by two higher authorities before it can be carried out.

He was inducted into the Army June 14, 1943, at Fort Dixon, N.J., and joined the 98th Division at Camp Rucker, Ala., the next December. Division records show he is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Hicswa, of Wallington.

Due To Come Home

Hicswa re-enlisted in the regular Army November 22 and was scheduled to return to the United States on re-enlistment furlough when the crimes were committed, it was testified at the court-martial.

He was taken into custody at Nagoya November 25, when he reported for processing and return to America, it was testified. The killings took place the night of November 24.

Protests From N.J.

Wallington, N.J., Jan. 14 (AP)—The mayors of the two communities where Pfc. Joseph E. Hicswa lived and went to school began joint campaigns today to fight the death sentence imposed on the Wallington soldier by an Army court-martial in Japan.

The parents of the youth were stunned at the news he had been convicted of the murder of two Japanese. The family had expected the soldier home shortly and kept a Christmas tree still decorated with present for him beneath it.

"It can't be true. I can't be true. Joseph is a good boy," his mother, Mrs. Bertha Hicswa, said.

Joseph, oldest of seven children, volunteered for the Army in June, 1943, after he was turned down when he tried to enlist in the Navy.

Mayor Anthony Gajewski, of Wallington, sent protest telegrams to United States Senators from New Jersey asking that the United States Supreme Court review the court-martial findings.

If the Japanese General Yamashita could have his conviction of war crimes reviewed by this nation's highest court "then certainly an American boy is entitled to the same privilege," the Mayor said.

Mayor Joseph Luna of Lodi said he would ask schools, veterans' groups and civic bodies to join in the protest.

U. S.-RUSSIAN BOARD ON KOREA TO MEET SOON

SEOUL, Korea, Jan. 14—(Delayed)—(AP) Lt. Gen. John R. Hodge, commandant of the 24th U. S. Army Corps, announced today that the joint American-Soviet commission on Korea would hold its first session here within a few days.

Maj. Gen. A. V. Arnold, until recently governor of the U. S.-occupied southern half of Korea, has been designated head of the American delegation.

Russians attending are to include Col. Gen. Shtikov, Maj. Gen. Andrei Alexeivitch Romanyenko, Maj. Gen. Gregory Ivanovitch, and Ambassador Simeon Constantinovitch Tsarapkin. Date of their arrival and of the first meeting have not been disclosed.

Demilitarized Jap Ships To Repatriate Troops

Melbourne, Jan. 14 (AP)—Japan's first aircraft carrier, the demilitarized Hosho, is among the seven Japanese vessels which will repatriate Japanese troops from Wewak to their homeland this month, Australian naval sources said today.

The Hosho has a passenger capacity of 2,300. The demilitarized cruiser Katsuragi, one of Nippon's latest, will carry 5,000. Others of the seven have a total capacity of 17,100.

Angry exchanges took place between Senator Tunnell, elderly Delaware Democrat, and Sgt. Emil Mazey of Detroit, who asserted the senatorial committee had given him insufficient time to assemble witnesses to prove his contention that troops were "burning and destroying shoes, blankets, field jackets, fatigue suits and other clothing."

Mazey, chairman of the Subbase "R" Demobilization Committee, and former leader of the United Auto Workers Union Local 212, flew down from Manila with the sub-committee members.

At one point recriminations became so bitter that Tunnell, who had objected during the hearing to Mazey's speaking directly to his own witnesses, turned to a group of high-ranking officers and asked:

"Colonel, don't you have any control over this man?"

The colonel stepped toward Mazey and said:

"Sergeant, I have requested you to remain silent."

Tunnell and Senator Knowland (R.-Cal.), conducted the hearing in Sub Base R headquarters in the presence of Major-Gen. Ewart Plank of Washington, D. C., commander of Base X in Manila, of which Base R is a subdivision. Col. R. B. Oxrieder of Granville, Ohio, is commander of Base R.

Fail to Back Charges.

Seven of eight witnesses hurriedly named by Mazey failed to corroborate his charges. They testified they had no personal knowledge of wanton destruction of Army property. They appeared after the committee had questioned a number of surplus disposal personnel.

Lieut. Samuel J. Butcher of Atlantic City, base salvage officer, testified that in the week ending January 5 he had ordered burned only 526 items of clothing of 14,273 items examined. He said that in the week ending December 8 it had been necessary to burn 56 per cent of 16,244 clothing items examined, including 2,630 pairs of wool sox and 2,100 handkerchiefs.

The Post Exchange officer, Major John K. McDonald of Kenmore, N. Y., was called after Mazey said he personally knew that "Valpak" luggage marred only by tarnished leather was destroyed "although it could easily have been sold." McDonald was not asked to comment on this charge. He testified that the Post Exchange did $1,900,000 monthly business and that from $16,000 to $28,000 worth of goods was destroyed each month, mostly candy in bad condition.

Others Testify.

"I've seen Army goods in bad shape—rotted—that comes in from other islands, but I don't know of any usable clothing being destroyed," said M/Sgt. Arthur R. Elledge of Blackwell, Okla. Similar testimony was given by T/4 Robert M. Freeman of Valley Stream, N. Y.; Sgt. Tranquilino Gipres Jr. of Los Angeles, and Corporal Luis Virgil Overbea, Negro, of Chicago.

The committee then drove to the depot to inspect the burning of surplus stores. At Knowland's suggestion, Mazey quickly called four more witnesses from depot workers surrounding the official cars.

Sgt. James E. Webb of Chicago, said he had seen blankets in useable condition burned "by the truckload" last October and that salvage officers had refused to permit his men to take some blankets for themselves.

He Ate the Crackers.

"Last Saturday I also took a package of crackers from some boxes of 10-in-1 ration they were burning," he said. Five other sergeants and I ate them that night and we are still in good shape. They weren't spoiled.

The other three witnesses said they had seen no useable property destroyed. They were Cpl. William R Lewis of Lansing, Mazey protested that the men were unaware of the importance of their testimony and were afraid of future discrimination. Oxrieder assured them there would be no discrimination and Knowland said if any developed to notify him in Washington and he would report it to the War Department.

The committee didn't go into Mazey's assertion that the Government was spending $3,000,000 monthly to handle and guard surplus property stored at the depot and valued at only $5,000,000.

Mrs. Homma Set To Testify For Her Husband

J. GROUER

Manila, Jan. 14 (AP)—Mrs. Masaharu Homma arrived by plane from Japan this morning to testify for her husband, Lieutenant General Homma, who is on trial for his life on the charge of being a war criminal.

Clad in the traditional kimono, the 44-year-old aristocrat posed for photographers in the nurses' quarters of the Philippine General Hospital, where she is staying.

In the courtroom today her husband heard witnesses testify to atrocities in Camp O'Donnell, where literally thousands of Americans and Filipinos died of beriberi, dysentery, malnutrition and brutal treatment.

Says 30 To 40 Died Daily

Col. John H. Ball, of Williamsport, Pa., said 30 to 40 Americans perished daily for lack of medical treatment. Men died faster than they could be buried, Ball stated.

A Col. Ralph Hirsch was taken from the camp and never returned, Ball said, when Japanese guards found yen in his possession. Inquiries of the Japanese prison commandant brought the reply that Hirsch never had been held at O'Donnell.

Mast. Sergt. James Baldasarre, veteran of 21 years' service in the Philippines, refuted defense inferences that O'Donnell inmates were given similar food to that issued Japanese prison guards. Baldasarre said he had seen chicken, pork, potatoes, coffee, milk, tea and sugar in the kitchens of the Japanese camp guards. At the time, he said, American and Filipino prisoners were barely existing on rice.

Claims Yanks Sold Medicine

Corporal Humphrey O'Leary, part-Filipino soldier, caused a flurry in the courtroom when he testified that captured United States Medical Corps officers and men at O'Donnell sold medicine to their fellow prisoners.

Closely questioned by the court, O'Leary said American doctors and medical personnel obtained some medicine from their Japanese captors and sold pills to the prisoners for 1 to 5 pesos each (50 cents to $2.50). The medical personnel prisoners intercepted one box of medicine sent by the Dominican Order to an interned priest and sold the contents to prisoners, O'Leary said.

American Brig. Gens. Clifford Blumel and James Weaver testified by depositions that the Japanese commandant at Camp O'Donnell informed prisoners they were not "prisoners of war, but captives with no rank."

Barge In Manila Explodes; Crew Safe

Manila, Jan. 14 (AP)—A spectacular series of explosions of liquid oxygen and pyrotechnic equipment aboard the giant sea-going army barge BCL 2569 shook Manila harbor tonight, but the barge's twelve-man crew escaped almost miraculously with minor burns.

First reports to the harbor master from crash boats said a tanker had exploded, but the tanker, moored near the barge, was apparently not damaged.

The barge, which was of concrete and with a cargo capacity of a Liberty ship, was anchored inside the Manila breakwater, 2,000 yards from the downtown waterfront district. The first of the series of explosions occurred at 9:45 P.M.

BUSINESS GOES OUT ON STRIKE IN ARGENTINA

Commerce and Industry Virtually Blacked Out All Over Nation.

72-HOUR PROTEST UNDER WAY

General Tie-up Aimed at Farrell Government's Decree Ordering Pay Rises for Labor.

Buenos Aires, Jan. 14 (A. P.).—A virtual blackout of commerce and industry covered Argentina today at the start of a seventy-two - hour close-down called by the nation's business leaders in protest against the Military Government's refusal to modify a decree ordering wage increases and year-end bonuses for workers.

Although transportation services within the city of Buenos Aires and suburban trains of the British railways operated normally, other activities were at a virtual standstill.

There were no deliveries of bread or groceries. The butchers' association announced that shops were open today but would close tomorrow. Milk was delivered.

The Government promised that no one would be deprived of "articles of prime necessity."

Satisfied With Progress.

Representatives of the manufacturers, industrialists and business men expressed satisfaction with first reports of the lockout, saying that only milk and ice were being delivered and that a number of drugstores were operating on an emergency basis.

Whether bread and meat deliveries would be permitted tomorrow and Wednesday was questionable, although President Farrell's Government may order the deliveries resumed on the ground that the public health is menaced.

Only factories where twenty-four-hour processing was necessary permitted workers to enter and these limited staffs to skeleton maintenance crews. The great parking houses were idle. The large amount of construction going on in Buenos Aires was halted. Many taxis, most of which are owned individually, remained off the street. Only a few restaurants and bars were operating.

Passenger traffic was not heavy and could be accommodated by buses, trolleys and subways which maintained normal schedules.

Reports from the large interior cities of Rosario, Mendoza, Parana, Corrientes, La Plata, Cordoba, San Juan, Tucuman and Santiago del Estero were that all business and industry were halted there. The situation in Cordoba was further complicated by a continuing transport strike.

In Buenos Aires, the port strike continued, although representatives of the employers expressed hope that an agreement would be arrived at with the stevedores before the end of the week. The streets of the capital were practically deserted except for some curious passersby and heavy police details.

Banks remained open because they are dependent upon the Central Bank of the Republic and cannot close unless the Government authorizes an official bank holiday. The Stock Market and commodity exchanges were closed, however.

In Mar del Plata, the country's largest seaside resort, most patrons abandoned the roulette and other gaming tables in the Government-operated gambling casino at 9:30 o'clock last night. So few remained within the casino that the place closed. The gamblers formed a parade in the shape of an L, for Liberty, in front of the casino, and the police dispersed them with tear gas. Later there was a shooting in front of the casino between two unidentified groups and two persons were wounded slightly.

A spokesman for the business leaders said an extension of the lockout would be considered if no solution were reached by Wednesday.

Workers' Threat

Workers last week had threatened a general strike in Argentina in protest against refusal of employers to pay bonuses and wage increases. Numerous places were closed and sitdown strikes were common.

Opponents of Col. Juan Peron, candidate for the presidency in the election next month, said the Government decree was chiefly for his benefit and an open bid for labor votes.

The permanent committee that ordered the lockout disclosed that in its negotiations with the Government it had proposed a 90-day postponement in the wage-bonus decree to permit the situation to be studied without its becoming an issue in the election campaign. The Government rejected a postponement and the industrialists and business men ordered the close-down.

ARGENTINA MAY SEIZE STORES

Government Threatens Action In Business Blackout

Buenos Aires, Jan. 14 (AP)—Argentina's military Government said tonight it would invoke a wartime law to assure the population sufficient food, as the nation's business and commercial leaders clamped a blackout on business activity in defiance of the regime's labor policies.

Not a wheel turned in any factory throughout Argentina and scarcely any store of importance opened its doors as small merchants, including grocers and bakers, joined industrial firms in the three-day lockout protesting wage increases and year-end bonuses decreed by the Government of Gen. Edelmiro Farrell.

Store Seizure Threatened

Government agents swore out warrants against some retail store owners, and the Ministry of Industry and Commerce warned in a formal statement that "the Government from this moment is taking steps necessary to assure a supply of needed articles to the people."

The ministry said the wartime law against speculation was broad enough to make refusal to sell goods a crime, and that warrants already were being sworn out under that law.

It said that if owners persisted in their refusal to sell, the Government would take possession of their stores. The Government was determined, the statement added, that the combined action of employers in closing their business should not deprive the population, "particularly the humble classes," of necessary articles.

Their Proposal Rejected

The Permanent Committee of Business Men, Industrialists and Manufacturers who called the lockout disclosed that they first had asked the Government to suspend for 90 days the execution of the Government decree.

This proposal was made, a committee spokesman said, so that the issue could be discussed after the election of February 24. It has been charged that the Government's decree was an outright bid for labor votes on behalf of the presidential candidacy of Juan Domingo Perón, Argentine strong man and former vice president. The Government rejected the business men's proposal.

Political observers said the lockout was 90 per cent effective throughout the nation of 14,000,000 people. The streets of Buenos Aires, usually jammed with shoppers, were virtually deserted.

Butchers To Join Lockout Today

Only ice, milk and meat deliveries continued. Butchers said they would join the lockout tomorrow. Open restaurants were a rarity, and taxi service was reduced to a minimum. Some drugstores functioned on an emergency basis.

The Government, which may order some services resumed on the grounds that public health is menaced, has assured the public that no one would be deprived of "articles of prime necessity."

Only those factories which must have 24 hours maintenance service permitted entry of workers, and in those cases only skeleton crews were on hand. Packing houses were idle. Large construction projects were halted.

Theaters, Night Clubs Close

A few small neighborhood shops remained open and there were some hucksters in the streets, but apparently most workers stayed at home, content to make the most of a three-day midsumer holiday with pay.

Their amusement schedule was limited. Theaters, motion picture houses, night clubs and other amusement places joined with the commercial interests in the show of peaceful defiance to the Government. Banks remained open, as did Government offices.

Transportation, chiefly Government controlled, functioned on a reduced scale with few passengers.

The Government remained unmoved in its determination to demand compliance with its decree. President Farrell received various union delegations during the day who reaffirmed support of the Government.

Lescot Goes Into Seclusion, Says He Hasn't Slept for 2 Days; Plans Uncertain

MIAMI, Fla., Jan. 14 (AP).—Elie Lescot, President of strife-torn Haiti until last week, arrived unheralded here today by Pan American Clipper. He was accompanied by his wife and family.

The former President's immediate plans were not made known. Friends disclosed, however, that Lescot would go eventually to Canada and that he had no definite expectation of returning to Haiti.

Haggard for lack of sleep, Lescot went into seclusion upon his arrival and pledged friends to secrecy as to his whereabouts. He said he had not slept for two days, but did not explain why.

Lescot declared he was in "full accord" with the military junta which has taken over control of Haiti, and added that he received permission to leave the country.

200,000 INVOLVED IN WALKOUT

Maryland Is Among 16 States Which Would Be Affected

New York, Jan. 14 (AP)—Two hundred thousand electrical workers throughout the nation were ready tonight to leave their jobs at dawn tomorrow in General Electric, General Motors and Westinghouse plants to support demands for a $2-a-day wage increase.

The strike is scheduled to begin between 5 A.M. and 7 A.M. in 75 industrial centers in sixteen states. Pickets have been ordered to report in some places and plans are being made to set up soup kitchens to feed them.

Involved are 100,000 General Electric Company employés, 75,000 Westinghouse workers and 25,000 employés in the electrical division of General Motors Corporation.

States Involved

States which have either G.E., General Motors or Westinghouse plants are California, Connecticut, Illinois, Indiana, Massachusetts, Michigan, Missouri, New Jersey, New York, Ohio, Pennsylvania, Rhode Island, Wisconsin, Maryland, West Virginia and Kentucky.

Members of the CIO-UEW, the third largest union in the country, voted five to one for the strike December 13. UEW officials said it would go on as scheduled, although a similar walkout planned for today by steel workers was postponed a week at President Truman's request, and telephone workers agreed to a 30-day delay in their strike.

Albert J. Fitzgerald, CIO-UEW general president, said the union would call off the strike if General Electric and Westinghouse would meet United States Steel's offer of a 15-cent-an-hour increase, and General Motors would give its electrical workers the 17½ per cent increase proposed by the President's fact-finding committee for automobile workers.

Contingent Offer Made

C. E. Wilson, G.E. president, said the union made the offer contingent upon the companies' increasing wages further in the future to meet amounts set in the steel and automobile workers' disputes.

All three firms, however, stood on their original offers. General Electric offered a 10-cents-an-hour raise for employés earning less than $1 an hour, and a 10 per cent increase for those earning more than $1. General Motors offered 13½ cents an hour and Westinghouse offered to increase the work week from 40 to 45 hours with no change in wage rates.

Electrical Workers' Strike Set For Today

CIO United Electric Workers here prepared to go on strike today in six local plants of the Westinghouse Electric Corporation.

John Green, president of Local 130, United Electrical, Radio and Machine Workers of America, said last night that picket lines will be set up before the Westinghouse establishments at 6 A.M. today, an hour before day-shift workers report for duty.

Picket Locations

The locations before which the pickets will march are the two main plants of the X-ray and electronics divisions of Westinghouse in the 2500 block Wilkens avenue and the Lansdowne (Washington boulevard) plants; North Monroe street branch; South Monroe street branch; maintenance and repair shop, Foster avenue, and office division, Baltimore and Liberty streets.

Approximately 1,500 factory workers, including those on the production line, in toolrooms, maintenance crews, boiler-room operators and factory guards are expected to heed the strike call here, said Mr. Green.

Special Crews To Work

Under a special agreement between the management and Local 130, designated plant protective workers and members of maintenance crews will continue at their posts.

Lawrence Dawson, field organizer for UERMW here, said: "The strike is aimed at the electrical divisions of the 'Big Three'—General Motors, General Electric and Westinghouse. Therefore, no effort will be made at other plants in the same field of operations here."

The strike of electrical workers, growing out of a demand for a $2-a-day wage increase, was originally planned to follow a walkout yesterday of 20,000 steelworkers here, but Philip Murray, CIO president, after a White House conference on Saturday, ordered a one-week postponement.

Steel Output Nearly Normal As Week's Truce Is Called

Closed Furnaces Put Back in Operation While Company and Union Heads Prepare to Resume Talks Wednesday.

JAN 15 1946

Pittsburgh, Jan. 14 (A. P.).—The nation's steel production climbed steadily back toward normal today after a week-end sag caused by the threatened—then postponed—strike of 800,000 steel workers.

The United States Steel Corporation, the industry's largest producer, which had virtually shut down thirty-one blast furnaces Saturday announced that sixteen were returning to operation today. The corporation was also starting up fifty-nine of its open hearths.

About 25,000 steel workers were idle either because of strike fever or issues connected with the strike. In New York State, 12,100 were idle; Pennsylvania, 5,000; Massachusetts, 5,000; Indiana, 3,500.

The Ambridge, Pa., plant of the American Bridge Company, United States Steel subsidiary, employing more than 2,000, and the Buffalo plant of the Worthington Pump & Machinery Corporation, employing 1,100, were picketed.

But steel-making was either normal or returning to normal in Chicago, Cleveland, St. Louis, Los Angeles, Salt Lake City, Kansas City, Dallas and Pueblo, Colo.

Five thousand members of the C. I. O. United Steel Workers returned to work at Aluminum Company of Amedica plants in the New Kensington, Pa., area.

The big strike, originally called by the union for Sunday midnight in support of its wage increase demand, was postponed for a week on Saturday. Philip Murray, president of the Steel Workers Union and the C. I. O., delayed it at the behest of President Truman after he and Benjamin F. Fairless, president of United Sates Steel, conferred at Washington.

To Confer on Wednesday.

Murray and Fairless arranged to resume on Wednesday, again at the White House, discussion of the latest wage offer by the steel firm and a counter-proposal from the union. Neither of these offers has been made public, but when President Truman intervened to summon the two leaders for the Saturday White House conference they were only a few cents apart.

United States Steel had offered a $1.20 per day boost and the union, which orginally asked $2, said it stood ready to accept $1.56.

Following that session, which ended in Murray's announcement of the one-week truce and a statement in which President Truman expressed the belief that an agreement will be reached, it was suggested to reporters that both offer and counter-proposal were better than those previously made.

Also unsettled, and figuring prominently in the wage discussion, was the projected steel price increase. The industry, advocating $7 a ton, found some Government officials who thought $4.50 might be approved. Price and stabilization authorities reportedly were contending that $3 would be the limit if inflation is to be prevented.

From such widely scattered steel centers as Birmingham, Ala.; Kansas City, Mo.; Baltimore, Md.; Canton, Ohio, and Chicago came reports of workers trudging amicably into the mills and management striving to restore production facilities.

Bethlehem Strike Continues.

Buffalo, Jan. 14 (A. P.).—While picketing began at another Buffalo area plant today, representatives of the Bethlehem Steel Company and the C. I. O. United Steel Workers of America resumed negotiations in an attempt to end a four-day strike which has made idle 11,000 at Bethlehem's Lackawanna plant.

The Bethlehem strike continues despite a week's postponement of a nationwide steel walkout set to begin at 12:01 today, and a new walkout was called last midnight at the Worthington Pump & Machinery Corporation, Buffalo.

A C. I. O. United Steel Workers' spokesman said almost all of Worthington's 1,100 employees had joined the picket lines about the Buffalo plant and that all production was at a standstill there.

"If the strike starts at 12:01 a.m. next Monday, we can have the orders out at 2:02, Small told an interviewer.

Among those continuing to receive steel would be electric and gas companies, streetcar systems, railroad and bus lines, hospitals, food processing plants, and such public safety users as fire and police organizations.

The plan calls for suspension of all "MM", or military, priorities as well as the "CC" ratings which have been granted to break bottlenecks in the reconversion of peacetime industries.

Only the emergency "AAA" ratings would be honored, and any military orders of dire importance would be converted to AAA status.

Small said the automobile, refrigerator, washing machine and other steel-using industries would feel the effect instantly, since each would have to cut down its orders for other parts and materials until it became clear how long steel would be bottled up. Thus even those companies with good supplies of steel on hand would have to curtail operations.

Besides the warehouse stocks, some steel would be caught in mill yards, awaiting shipment. Small said he believed arrangements could be made with the steelworkers union to permit the shipment of such supplies for the emergency uses contemplated.

Priorities to Be Cancelled If Steel Workers Walk Out

WASHINGTON, Jan. 14—(AP) The government is ready at a moment's notice to cancel all priorities on steel—military as well as civilian—if there is a steel strike.

Civilian Production Administrator John D. Small said today that in such an event new priorities would be granted to channel steel products only to public utilities and emergency uses.

Officials, who have been consulting with operators of steel sales warehouses in the last few days, said the warehouse stocks could last "probably for months" if the supplies were cut off from all reconverting industry and were doled out for emergency and public utility use only.

Orders to accomplish this were ready for issuance Friday night when negotiations between the C.I.O.-United Steelworkers and U.S. Steel Corporation broke down in New York.

Orders Ready

time the U. A. W.-C. I. O. had shelved, even temporarily, its 30 per cent wage demands.

The corporation's first reaction last night was to repeat its rejection of the proposal. However, the 200-man G. M. Council of the U. A. W.-C. I. O. gave the corporation until January 21 to reconsider, warning that after that date the union will revert to the original 30 per cent demand.

Labor Board Intervenes.

Meanwhile, the National Labor Relations Board, through its regional offices here, issued a complaint today against the General Motors Corporation, charging it with refusing "to bargain collectively in good faith" with the United Automobile Workers.

Hearing on the complaint was set for January 28 in Detroit.

The complaint was issued on the basis of charges filed against the corporation by the union on November 8 and November 27. The charges were made while across-the-table conferences were under way between General Motors and the union on the U. A. W.-C. I. O. demands for a 30 per cent wage rate increase. At that time the union claimed the company declined to discuss the wage issue with it. The management maintained the union was attempting to inject into the negoiations matters outside the collective bargaining realm.

The complaint specifically charges the corporation with bad faith in refusal to bargain with the union concerning its financial ability to pay the proposed wage increase or to disclose its books and records of any information contained in them relevant to the

G. M. Considering Union's Offer To End Strike for 17.5 P. C. Rise

Firm Gets Jan. 21 Deadline on Compromise Plan Based on U. S. Report—NLRB Sets Hearing on Bargaining Charge.

JAN 15 1946

Detroit, Jan. 14 (A. P.).—General Motors Corporation had for consideration today a once-rejected proposal to settle the fifty-five-day-old C. I. O. United Automobile Workers strike for a Government-backed wage increase of 17½ per cent.

The compromise, approved by the union's General Motors Council on Sunday, marked the first question of its ability to pay. The management has maintained its ability to pay was not properly a subject for collective bargaining. The complaint also alleges the corporation's refusal to bargain in good faith caused, and has prolonged, the strike and that all strikers are entitled to reinstatement to their former positions upon application.

Ability to Pay No Issue.

The NLRB in a statement issued Sunday said the extent to which General Motors' financial position may or may not justify a wage increase will not be tested by the NLRB, but that "one of the several relevant questions may be whether the company has fulfilled its obligations under the act by declining even to discuss its ability to pay."

In a long and stormy meeting yesterday in a downtown Detroit Hotel, the U. A. W.-C. I. O.'s G. M. council decided to ask the 3,500 employees of 200 tool and die jobbing plants to put "under the bench" for the duration of the strike any work being done for G. M. They threatened to make the same request of an unestimated number of U. A. W.-C. I. O. employees in parts and supply factories upon which G. M. normally depends.

The G. M. Council drafted a long letter to President Truman urging him to "persuade" the corporation to reconsider and accept the proposal by a presidential fact-finding board for a 17½ per cent increase, amounting to a wage boost of about 19½ cents per hour.

Answer Still Stands.

Even as they telegraphed this three-page document to the White House, a General Motors spokesman said the corporation's answer of last Friday "still stands." At that time, C. E. Wilson, president of General Motors, turned down without qualification the fact-finding proposal and repeated a long-standing offer to raise wages by about twelve per cent.

The action of the G. M. Council will not require any immediate ratification by locals, Union officials explained. However, the locals must approve any strike-settling agreement when it is reached.

While General Motors held the spotlight, interest also mounted in the Tuesday wage session between the U.A.W.-C.I.O. and the Ford Motor Company. The two sides have indicated they are nearing a wage agreement, the last step prior to signing a renewed contract.

U. A. W. Willing To Take 17.5% Rise From Ford

Would Settle Deadlock on Basis of Fact-Finders' Proposal in G. M. Case

DETROIT, Jan. 14 (AP).—Richard Leonard, of the Congress of Industrial Organizations United Automobile Workers, said tonight that the union would be willing to settle its wage deadlock with the Ford Motor Company on the basis of a government-asked increase of 17½ per cent.

Mr. Leonard, the union's national Ford director, said he will propose such a settlement to the Ford company when negotiations resume tomorrow.

"The Presidential fact-finding board set the pattern for the entire industry when they recommended 17½ per cent in the General Motors strike," Mr. Leonard told newsmen as he emerged from a session with the U. A. W. executive board.

Ford has offered the union an increase of about 12 per cent. Until today, the U. A. W. stood firm on its demand for 30 per cent, although indicating that it was open to a compromise offer.

The executive board, of which Mr. Leonard is a member, also approved today the recently-negotiated contract with the Kaiser-Frazer Corporation, calling for a bonus plan, an average wage of about $1.19 per hour, and an increase matching in percentage any granted by General Motors.

The National Labor Relations Board today summoned the General Motors Corporation to a hearing on charges by the U. A. W. that the company had failed to bargain in good faith in the current wage dispute that has idled 175,000 production workers for more than seven weeks.

At the same time, the union, which Saturday announced acceptance of a government proposed 17½ per cent wage increase after General Motors had rejected it, announced it will reinstate its original 30 per cent increase demand if the corporation does not reconsider its rejection by next Monday.

The union also threatened to ask its strike strategy committee to order an estimated 10,000 union members in independent tool and die shops and parts and accessories plants to refuse to work on material being manufactured for General Motors.

The question of General Motors' ability to pay a wage increase may be injected into the N. L. R. B. hearing to be held here on Jan. 28. This was the issue on which General Motors walked out on hearings by the fact-finding commission. Throughout negotiations with the union, General Motors has maintained that its "ability to pay" was not properly a subject for collective bargaining with worker representatives.

Refusal to bargain concerning its ability to pay is a specific allegation in the union charges against General Motors.

"Whether the duty to bargain is as broad as asserted in this complaint will be ultimately determined by the courts, in the event the board sustains this allegation," the N. L. R. B. said.

The complaint also charged General Motors with bad faith in delaying negotiating meetings with the union; in distributing through the press and radio what the union termed "inaccurate, misleading and untrue statements" concerning the proposals of the union; in rejecting arbitration "on any terms," and also alleged that the corporation's refusal to bargain "in good faith caused, and has prolonged the strike."

The corporation, served with a copy of the N. L. R. B. order, made no immediate comment. Neither did the company comment on the union action in fixing next Monday as the deadline for management acceptance of the government's proposal for a 17½ per cent wage rate increase.

Nation-Wide Strike Put Off At Least Thirty Days

JAN 15 1946

Washington, Jan. 14 (AP)—The threat of a nation-wide telephone strike was put off for at least 30 days today and striking communications equipment workers began returning to their jobs.

The Association of Communications Equipment Workers, which went on strike last week against the Western Electric Company, was directed by telegraph today to get all members back on the job by 4 P.M., local time, at each place they have been on strike.

This action was announced by association officials after a telephone poll of their locals on a request of the executive board of the National Federation of Telephone Workers that they defer their strike.

Strike Deferred

The Association of Communications Equipment Workers also called off for 30 days its strike against the Western Electric Company.

By 10 A.M. (E.S.T.) telephone service was back on a normal basis in most cities.

The federation, an independent organization, yesterday ordered a national telephone strike but quickly postponed it for at least 30 days to permit its locals to file strike notices as required under the Smith-Connally Act.

Telephone operators and other members of the independent federation have in many instances refused to cross picket lines established by the ACEW last week, causing a partial tieup in telephone service throughout the country.

National Picture

In New York a spokesman for American Telephone and Telegraph Company, parent firm of Western Electric, said this was the picture across the nation at 10 A.M. (Eastern Standard Time):

Operations normal in New York city, Boston, Buffalo, Louisville, Kansas City, Memphis, Minneapolis and Philadelphia, and "rapidly approaching" normal in Cincinnati. Workers returning in Cleveland and some long-distance operators crossing picket lines in Pittsburgh and Detroit.

Pickets withdrawn from 21 of the Bell system's 33 national areas. Picketing continuing at four points on Long Island, seven communities in western Pennsylvania, including Newcastle, Seewickley, Rochester, New Kensington, Erie, McKeesport and Pittsburgh and in Detroit.

Will Not Be Paid

The A.T.&T. spokesman said long-distance operators who refused to cross picket lines and did not report to work Friday, Saturday and Sunday would not be paid for those days. The union, he added, had not demanded such pay.

Service at St. Louis was still on an emergency basis at 10 A.M. (E.S.T.). The company spokesman said at New York, however, that union officials were attempting to get the St. Louis operators back to work.

ACEW workers were still picketing the Michigan Bell building at Detroit at 10.30 A. M. asserting they had received no orders up to that time to withdraw.

Local Issue In D.C.

At Washington, D.C., pickets were withdrawn, but local service there remained disrupted due to a dispute involving local operators and local issues.

Most workers had returned to work in Texas by 12.30 P.M. The Southwestern Bell Telephone Company withdrew its request for a court injunction against the ACEW to prevent picketing of its exchanges.

In Little Rock, Ark., some Southwestern Bell Telephone Company business office and maintenance workers returned to their jobs, but operators remained out.

Postponement of the threatened nation-wide strike of telephone workers plus CIO acceptance of the Government-sponsored wage compromise for General Motors workers had served earlier to brighten the labor picture.

Hopes Raised

These developments, coupled with the earlier one-week delay in the steel strike originally set for today, raised hope in some Government circles that tension over post-war industrial strife soon might slacken.

Behind this hope was the feeling that a "breather" in telephones and steel and further pressure on General Motors Corporation for settlement of the 55-day-old auto strike would improve chances for settling all three disputes. A steel settlement, particularly, could provide a wage pattern for other industries.

On the less hopeful side, however, was the absence of any indication that tomorrow's scheduled strike in the electrical industry or Wednesday's in the meat-packing industry could be averted.

The telephone strike, affecting some 250,000 workers throughout the nation, was ordered last night by the executive board of the National Federation of Telephone Workers.

30-Day Notice

Within minutes after the strike call was announced by Federation President J. A. Beirne, however, the board ordered it delayed to permit member locals to file 30-day strike notices. The board at that time also asked Western Electric Company strikers to withdraw pickets from telephone exchanges.

Ernest Weaver, president of the Association of Communications Equipment Workers, whose members are on strike against the Western Electric firm, began an immediate poll of fifteen ACEW locals on the federation request.

Shortly after 5 A.M., however, Weaver's office announced that not enough acceptances had been received to call off the picketing. A two-thirds majority, or ten locals, was required to defer the Western Electric strike, a spokesman for the union president said, adding that the poll was being discontinued for the night.

The status of the poll at that hour was not announced.

"The only thing we can say now," the spokesman said at 5 A.M., "is that this union (the equipment workers) is still on strike. We may have something else to say later in the morning."

In a radio interview later last night, Beirne said the strike would not be held if the Government seized the telephone industry, as it was reportedly ready to do in the event of a nation-wide tieup. He voiced the hope, too, that the wage issues could be settled without resort to a strike.

The decision did not affect 21 Western Electric plants in New Jersey and New York, where another union affiliated with the federation has been on strike for eleven days in support of demands for a 30 per cent wage increase.

"Merit" Wage Rates

In the national Western Electric dispute, issues now center around the union's demand that wage rates based on "merit" be eliminated in favor of completely automatic pay progression. Automatic wage rates now run from 60 cents an hour minimum to $1.28 after eight years. "Merit" rates continue up to $1.64.

The telephone federation is demanding a wage increase of $2 a day, a return to the 40-hour week, and a 65-cent-an-hour minimum wage.

Beirne in his radio appearance said negotiations between the company and local unions are still in progress and declared that "our plan is to settle the dispute without any strike."

Pickets "Run Down"

Huntington, W.Va., Jan. 14 (AP)—F. A. Hegmann, representative of the Association of Communications Workers Union in West Virginia, said today that two members of the union were run down by an automobile last night on the driveway to the Chesapeake and Potomac Telephone Company's garage in the rear of the exchange building here.

Hegmann identified the men as D. V. Maroney and a man named McDaniels. C.&P. officials were not available for comment.

Profit-Sharing Benefit Study Proposed

JAN 15 1946

Washington, Jan. 14 (AP)—Legislation calling for a congressional study of profit sharing between employers and employés as a means of avoiding labor strife was introduced today by Representative Clare Booth Luce (R., Conn).

Mrs. Luce's measure would direct the House Ways and Means Committee to complete studies on the subject which were started several years ago.

Senator Eastland announced he will ask for immediate action in that chamber on President Truman's request for legislation for fact-finding boards in labor disputes.

The Luce bill calls on the Ways and Means Committee to report to the House upon all existing profit-sharing systems with a special view to:

1. The completion of an authentic record of experience;

2. The consideration of what advisable contribution, if any, may be made to the encouragement of profit-sharing by the Federal government, including the grant of compensatory tax exemptions and tax rewards;

3. The consideration of any other recommendations which may prove desirable.

JAN 15 1946

Mrs. Luce's bill declared that "the prevalence, persistence and intensity of strikes and labor disputes are symptoms indicating that the establishment of a new principle of relationship between labor and capital . . . is urgent if industrial peace is to be restored and maintained." It added:

"A fair and equitable distribution of the fruits of industry is a basic condition of a just and healthy capitalism."

Calls For Check On Unions

Senator Wiley (R., Wis.) asserted in a statement that while Congress was in recess "the nation has been bumbled and fumbled into the worst strike chaos in a quarter of a century." He called for legislation to "make unions responsible for illegal acts" and to set up "compulsory arbitration machinery to be used as a last resort to forestall strikes in vital industries."

Wiley said the Administration by its actions has "prepared the way for its own suicide—for its own elimination from the national scene." He predicted election of a Republican House next fall and election of a Republican President and Senate in 1948.

Eastland said:

"We've either got to get out some strike legislation or surrender the country to the CIO," the Mississippi Senator told a reporter.

Eastland said he would ask the Senate to discharge its Labor Committee from consideration of a fact-finding bill introduced by Senator Ellender (D., La.).

Ellender's bill was introduced to carry out President Truman's request and the Senate Labor Committee has held hearings on the measure. The committee had scheduled a resumption of hearings today but abandoned these when witnesses were unable to appear.

Eastland's move would require unanimous Senate consent for action today and it appeared certain this would be blocked. Later, however, a simple majority vote could discharge the Senate committee.

$6,000,000,000 CUTS PROPOSED

Slashes Asked By President Go Beyond Rescission Bill

Washington, Jan. 14 (AP)—President Truman greeted Congress at its reopening today with a proposal to slash more than $6,000,000,000 from projected Government spending in the current fiscal year.

As he whipped into shape a "state of the union" message to be sent to Capitol Hill Thursday, the Chief Executive recommended repeal of appropriations aggregating $5,751,428,483. He also asked repeal of contract authorizations for the Maritime Commission amounting to $420,079,000 and the return to the Treasury of $346,890 from three corporations now being liquidated.

Actual Reduction Diminished

A White House statement said the actual reduction in the authority to obligate was $5,021,887,483 because $1,149,620,000 of the appropriations, while not needed this fiscal year, will have to be reappropriated later to liquidate contract authority still on the books.

The suggested economies, the White House asserted, are in addition to net rescissions aggregating $50,345,409,169 approved by Congress near the close of the last session.

The last rescission bill ($51,800,000,000 less duplication between cash and contract authority of $1,500,000,000) was vetoed by the President because of a legislative rider. The White House said, however, that its objectives were accomplished by a presidential directive to the Budget Bureau placing the amount involved in reserve.

Major Proposed Reductions

The major proposed reductions include:

1. Cutbacks of $1,420,576,472 in appropriations for the military establishment "made possible by further reductions in war-production requirements."

2. A reduction of $2,826,880,536 in appropriations for the Navy, $1,677,260,536 of which is mainly the result of cutbacks in procurement and shipbuilding, and $1,149,620,000 representing appropriations not needed this fiscal year "but which will have to be restored in subsequent years to liquidate contract authorizations."

War Shipping Administration

3. A reduction of $383,766,000 in War Shipping Administration appropriations "due to revision of military shipping expenses and of claims against the war-risk insurance fund."

4. A reduction of $260,068,000 in Martime Commission appropriations and repeal of contract authorizations of the commission amounting to $420,079,000, both made possible by revisions of the martime program.

5. A reduction of $850,000,000 in lend-lease appropriations which the statement said were made possible "by progress in liquidation of the program."

6. A reduction of $3,100,000 in Federal Works Agency appropriations for community facilities in addition to small items for guarding public buildings and construction of flight strips.

Agriculture Department

7. A reduction of $2,500,000 in Agriculture Department appropriations "for emergency supplies for use by island possessions in case of enemy isolation."

8. A reduction of $1,391,143 in Interior Department funds made available to provide for civilian defense in the Hawaiian Islands.

9. A reduction of $1,600,000 in Department of Labor appropriations for the old War Labor Board.

The $346,890 he proposed to be returned to the Treasury in corporate funds, the statement asserted, is from three corporations which are now being liquidated and "which were part of the Office of Inter-American Affairs."

Presidency Bill Coming

Washington, Jan. 14 (AP)—A study of the presidential succession question by a joint congressional committee was proposed today by Chairman Green (D., R.I.) of the Privileges and Elections Committee.

Green came to the Senate's opening session with a resolution for appointment of the ten-member committee, but at the suggestion of Majority Leader Barkley (D., Ky.) agreed to defer its formal introduction until Thursday.

The study would be made by five Senators and five Representatives.

The committee would consider "all matters connected with the succession to the presidency and the election of the President and Vice President" from the time of their nomination until the end of their elected terms.

Truman's Plan

President Truman last June asked Congress to amend the succession law to make the Speaker of the House next in line to him, rather than the Secretary of State.

The House quickly passed such a bill, but it never came to a vote in the Senate.

Under Green's proposal, the joint committee would recommend, among other things:

"Whether or not the President and Vice President should be elected by the electoral college, as at present; and, if so, whether or not the members should be legally bound to vote in accordance with their instructions.

Presidential Candidates

"Whether or not provision should be made for the case where . . . a candidate for the presidency or for the vice presidency dies, declines to run, or is found ineligible to take office if elected. . . .

"How it shall be determined whether the President or individual acting as President is unable to execute the powers and duties of the office, and how the duration of such inability shall be determined.

Remote Contingency

"Whether or not provision should be made for an individual to execute the office of President in case of removal, death, resignation, or inability, both of the President and Vice President, including provision for selecting an individual to execute such office in cases where by reason of removal, death, resignation or inability there is no individual upon whom the powers and duties of such office would otherwise automatically devolve.

"Whether there are, or should be, any differences between the status, powers, duties and privileges of an elected President and any other individual executing the office of President."

M'Mahon Proposes Truman Confer With Atomic Energy Committee

WASHINGTON, Jan. 14—(AP) Senator McMahon (D-Conn.) proposed today that President Truman consult with a special senate committee before he makes any final decision on international policy regarding atomic energy.

McMahon told a reporter that the committee, which he heads, will resume hearings next Monday in an effort to speed recommendations on domestic control legislation.

But he made it plain the 11-member group wants to make its ideas known to Mr. Truman before this nation is committed to any course that involves sharing the secrets of atomic energy production and manufacture.

"I think the President will want to sit down and talk with us about it," McMahon said. "I think it is perfectly all right for him to name an advisory committee to make recommendations on international policy, but he is going to have to come back to Congress to put any decision into effect."

An advisory group headed by Undersecretary of State Acheson was named recently, but Mr. Truman said at a subsequent news conference that this action did not foreclose the senate group from making recommendations on foreign, as well as domestic, controls.

The McMahon committee has held five weeks of hearings, and has visited at least one manufacturing center. The senator said he believed it has become about as familiar with the atomic energy problem as any group of non-scientists could.

In the international field, he said the group has two objectives: First, to recommend to the senate how much of the secret shall be shared with other nations and under what conditions and, second, to seek to cooperate with the President on forming policy.

He expressed hope that group can agree soon on domestic legislation although he conceded that Congress is not likely to act finally on controls at home until it knows definitely what sort of international controls are to be set up.

Appointment of a commission by the United Nations organization to study this question is expected, but its recommendations may be delayed for some months.

Meantime, the chairman said hearings will be resumed next week. Beardsley Rumi, New York financier and an early advocate of the pay-as-you-go tax plan, may be the first witness.

Demobilization, Strikes Get Congress Calendar Priority

WASHINGTON, Jan. 14—(AP) The 79th Congress opened its election-year second session today and put demobilization and strikes one-two on a crowded calendar.

While Congress was home for Christmas, GI distontent came to a head in demonstrations, and labor strife spread. Many senators and representatives sought to wade right into both of these matters, even though the opening sessions were brief and no major business will be done on the floors until the President's "State of the Union" message is read Thursday.

On demobilization, leaders announced arrangements for a joint meeting in the Congressional library tomorrow morning to hear General Dwight D. Eisenhower and Admiral Chester W. Nimitz, the top Army and Navy commanders. Rep. Andresen (R-Minn.) demanded an inquiry by the House Military committee; the Senate Military committee already has named a subcommittee to investigate.

On strikes, Senators Byrd (D-Va.) and Wiley (R-Wis.) urged legislation to increase the legal responsibility of unions, Senator Bailey (D-N.C.) suggested changing the Wagner Act to give employers more rights, and Rep. Luce (R-Conn.) propcsed a study of industry profit-sharing.

The strongest words came from Senators Eastland (D-Miss.) and O'Daniel (D-Tex.). They declared in a joint statement that "the present wave of strikes is inspired and engineered from Moscow" as "a deliberate effort to take over the American government x x x. We must not surrender our country to the C.I.O."

Eastland was going to move that the President's fact-finding bill be taken from the Senate labor committee and brought directly to the floor for action. But Majority Leader Barkley of Kentucky ruled that it is customary for legislative business to wait until the State of the Union message is received.

Barkley's statement also caused Chairman Green (D-R.I.) of the Senate Elections committee to put off until Thursday a resolution for a joint committee to study the question of who should succeed the President and Vice-President in case both die. This matter, like the fact-finding bill, is one on which President Truman has requested action.

O'Daniel later joined Eastland in the plan to press for action on the fact-finding bill Thursday. But Senator Ellender (D-La.), who is official sponsor of the measure, announced that he wants "extensive hearings" and will fight any move to take the measure from the committee now. Committee hearings will resume tomorrow.

The House Labor committee put off until late next week a resumption of its hearings on the fact-finding bill. First it plans to deal with a bill disposing of the U. S. Employment Service. Mr. Truman wants Federal control retained until mid-1947. During the recess he vetoed a bill which would have returned the service to state control within 100 days.

Tied up with this was a cutback of $50,345,409,169 in appropriations due to the end of the war, which the President had to veto at the same time. Today he sent Congress a message recommending additional cutbacks of $5,751,428,483 in appropriations and $420,089,000 in contract authorizations.

The President's detailed fiscal recommendations will be laid before Congress in the annual budget message next week.

Meanwhile Mr. Truman appealed again for action on his fact-finding bill and other legislative proposals as Senator McKellar (D-Tenn), president pro tempore of the Senate, and House Majority Leader McCormack of Massachusetts called at the White House. McCormack, who was elected acting speaker in the absence of Speaker Rayburn in Texas, told reporters Mr. Truman was "very anxious" for speedy action.

Congressmen heard that one item in the President's message Thursday will be a request for a full year's extension of the price control act which expires June 30. Comment of senators indicated the extension will be voted but possibly with modifications.

The top congressional investigation, into the Pearl Harbor attack, will be resumed tomorrow with Rear Admiral Husband E. Kimmel as the witness.

The Senate atomic Energy committee resumes hearings Monday. Chairman McMahon (D-Conn.) told a reporter that it wants Mr. Truman to consult it before he makes any final decision on international policy on the subject.

OPA Extension Plea Forecast

Washington, Jan. 14 (AP)—Word went out to Congress today that President Truman will ask a full year's extension of price control. That would carry the act to June 30, 1947, and first reaction among senators is that Mr. Truman will get his request, possibly in modified form.

In his radio address January 3, the President declared that price and rent controls would have to be maintained "for many months to come." He added that he wants the law renewed well in advance of its expiration date.

Ceiling On Cotton Proposed By OPA

Washington, Jan. 14 (AP) — The OPA today announced its proposed ceiling prices for the 1946 cotton crop.

Issuing formal notice of its control plan to meet legal requirements of advance notice, the agency said it may not be necessary to put it into effect if the price becomes stabilized before the harvesting season.

Southern legislators were quick to criticize the proposal. They questioned its necessity. Chester Bowles, price administrator, said the present advance in cotton prices creates pressure along the line for increases in ceilings of cotton goods.

OPA said the advance notice simply puts the agency in a position "legally to impose ceilings if necessary."

Proposed Ceiling

For 15-16-inch middling American upland cotton, the basic grade upon which prices for all other grades and staples are based, the proposed growers' ceiling is 24.09 cents a pound for Area One, which includes the western parts of North and South Carolina.

OPA said that in general this represents the current parity price, with an allowance for transportation, plus a "cushion' to allow for possible subsequent advances in parity between now and the end of the year, when most of the 1946 crop will be marketed.

Premiums and discounts established for other grades and staples are based on actual Government-reported differentials on sales of cotton between August 1, 1945, and December 31, 1945.

Calls It Outrageous

Senator Eastland (D., Miss.) said, regarding the OPA action, "I think it's outrageous."

Eastland called it "a punitive measure against the South put on because of wage increases in textiles, which are the reason for high clothing prices." He promised to elaborate in a formal Senate speech next week, but in the meantime, he added: "I am against extending OPA."

Army Building Stoppage Ended

Washington, Jan. 14 (AP)—Work on eight Government projects will be resumed tomorrow by 4,000 AFL construction workers following War Department assurances that it will call for outside bids on the electrical work.

Announcement of the settlement was made by Clement F. Miller, president of the AFL-Building Trades conference.

The work stoppage developed earlier in the day. It stemmed from a walkout by 54 AFL members in protest against the employment of seventeen nonunion electricians by the Army Engineers.

Projects affected included $5,000,000 in work at near-by Andrews Field, a $5,000,000 army map service project and lesser projects at Fort Belvoir, Va., and Walter Reed Hospital.

The War Department said the seventeen men were of its staff and were used only after it had been unable to reach agreement with a union contractor to complete one of the jobs.

Complaints Just, Senator Asserts

Washington, Jan. 14 (AP)—Senator Johnson (D., Col.) declared tonight that GI complaints against the demobilization slowdown "are fully justified."

"The Pentagon generals suddenly realized there were only 4,000,000 men left in their drafted army and their own fat jobs would dissolve," he said in a broadcast address. "The generals became hysterical and demobilization was slowed down."

Johnson is chairman of a Senate military subcommittee appointed to investigate demobilization.

The only excuse given for the demobilization slowdown, Johnson said, is "commitments, but everyone knows and wants to keep our commitments in Germany and Japan. What others are there?"

High Court Fails To Act On Plea Of Yamashita

Washington, Jan. 14 (AP)—The Supreme Court took no action today on Japanese General Yamashita's request for intervention in military-trial proceedings which sentenced him to death.

The court has under consideration petitions from Yamashita's defense attorneys challenging the authority of the American Military Commission, which tried the enemy General in Manila.

Arguments were heard last week. The tribunal's next session for announcement of decisions will be held Monday, January 28.

Yamashita was convicted of condoning atrocities by his troops in the Philippines.

Turns Down Plea

The tribunal refused to review conviction of Earl J. McFarland in the killing of Dorothy Berrum, 18, in a park here.

McFarland, member of the Marine Corps at the time of his arrest, was scheduled to die in the electric chair last August but the execution was postponed to November 15 pending the Supreme Court's decision on his petition asking for a review.

The girl came here from Chippewa Falls, Wis., to work in a government office during the war. She was raped and slain the night of October 4, 1944. McFarland based his petition on a contention that errors had been made in the trial.

States Held Not Immune

The court ruled, 6-2, that a state and its agencies are not immune from Federal excise taxes on minera land table waters which they bottle and sell.

New York State and two of its agencies, the Saratoga Springs Commission and the Saratoga Springs Authority, asked the court to declare them exempt from the Federal tax of 2 cents a gallon on such bottled waters.

Attorneys general of 45 states and city solicitors of twelve cities filed briefs with the court in support of New York's request.

War Probers Hear Kimmel Tomorrow

Washington, Jan. 14 (AP)—Chairman Barkley (D., Ky.) said today the Pearl Harbor Investigating Committee will hear Admiral Husband E. Kimmel tomorrow as scheduled.

Barkley told the Senate that committee members had decided to go ahead with the hearing, which will give Kimmel his first opportunity for public testimony since the Japanese attack, despite arrangements for Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower and Fleet Admiral Chester W. Nimitz to address legislators informally on demobilization at 10 A.M. tomorrow.

An end to the investigation in February was envisioned by members with the possibility that Gov. Thomas E. Dewey of New York may not be called.

Dewey was one of 48 prospective witnesses listed when hearings began November 15. Of this group, only nine have testified thus far. William D. Mitchell, former counsel, said that about twenty additional witnesses not named among the 48 would be called to tell about the so-called "winds message."

Got Letter From Marshall

During the 1944 presidential campaign Dewey received letters from Gen. George C. Marshall, then army chief of staff, urging him not to reveal that the United States had broken the Japanese code and was continuing to read the enemy's messages.

Senator Lucas (D., Ill.) said Dewey's statements to Marshall's representative, who delivered the letters, indicated that the New York governor already knew the code was broken.

Lucas has said he wants to know who told Dewey about this military secret. But the Illinois senator said today he would not insist upon Dewey's being called if the committee decides to shorten the hearings.

"Winds" Message

Lucas and Senator Ferguson (R., Mich.) agreed that the committee must clear up evidence about the "winds" message.

Before December 7, 1941, the Japanese set up arrangements, in messages that were intercepted and decoded by this country, to let their diplomatic consuls know when relations with the United States, Great Britain or Russia were at the breaking point.

In the case of a break with the United States, the Tokyo radio was to broadcast in its noon news report the words "east wind rain." The Senate-House inquiry thus far has received conflicting evidence about whether the signal ever was broadcast, although Mitchell declared his investigation showed there was no such impiementing message.

"Would Judge For Ourselves"

Ferguson said he is not satisfied with the statement of Mitchell, who since has been succeeded as counsel by Seth Richardson, a Washington attorney.

"I think we ought to hear the evidence on the 'winds' message and then judge for ourselves whether there was any implementing broadcast before December 7," Ferguson said. He added that with this and the testimony of Kimmel and Maj. Gen. Walter C. Short, he would be willing to end the hearings.

Lucas said he thinks there will be little else to inquire into after the committee has heard Kimmel, the 1941 commander of the Pacific Fleet, and Short, then Hawaiian Army commander, and the "winds" testimony.

Both Lucas and Ferguson said they hope the hearings can be concluded next month. Congress has set a February 15 deadline, but there is little doubt that if the committee asks for more time to conclude its inquiry an extension will be granted.

Leahy To Keep Present Post, White House Says

Washington, Jan. 14 (AP)—The White House said today that Fleet Admiral William D. Leahy will continue at his post as chief of staff to President Truman.

Press Secretary Charles G. Ross told a news conference that a report that Leahy plans to leave his job soon "isn't true."

"He has no such plans," Ross said.

New Air Pact Discussed

WASHINGTON, Jan. 14 (AP)—The Bermuda negotiations for a new Anglo-American commercial aviation agreement are an extension of the six-week effort at Chicago in 1944 to work out a plan for regulated competition in the air. Other important aviation agreements, particularly one with France, hang on the success of the Bermuda meeting.

The major problems will be regulation of fares and flight frequencies and the right of one country to carry traffic between two other countries—the "fifth freedom."

Admiral Waesche Gets D. S. M.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 14 (AP).—Admiral Russell R. Waesche, Coast Guard commandant for ten years until his retirement Jan. 1, today was presented the Distinguished Service Medal for services in that assignment. The presentation was made by James Forrestal, Secretary of the Navy, in ceremonies at the Navy Department. Admiral Waesche lives in Chevy Chase, Md.

Half Of Army Officers Demoted Or Retired

Washington, Jan. 14 (AP)—More than half of the 1,550 generals in the wartime army are being demoted, retired or relieved from active duty.

The War Department said today orders had been issued reducing general officer strength to 761, conforming to the demobilization of the armed forces from their wartime peak. Orders had been issued demoting 469 generals, the others being relieved or retired. Names were withheld here but may be announced in the field. Of the remainder, approximately 500 are scheduled to remain after July 1, and of these 204 will be demoted.

Commander Acquitted In Loss Of Destroyer

Washington, Jan. 14 (AP)—The Navy announced today Commander Samuel F. Quarles, of Nathalie, Va., was "fully acquitted" by a court-martial, which tried him on charges of "Culpable inefficiency" in the loss of the destroyer Warrington.

The ship foundered in a hurricane off the East Coast, September 13, 1944, with a loss of 251 officers and men. Only 68 were rescued. She was en route from Chesapeake Bay to Trinidad, British West Indies, escorting the refrigerator ship Hyades.

Commander Quarles was released from arrest and restored to duty August 13, 1945, the Navy said.

British Leader Expects UNO To Consider Palestine Issue

JAN 15 1946

WASHINGTON, Jan. 14—(AP) Sir John Singleton, British co-chairman of the Anglo-American Palestine Committee, indicated today that he expects the United Nations Organization eventually will consider the Palestine problem.

The committee concluded its hearings in this country and will sit next in London.

"I am presupposing that since the League of Nations has passed on, the UNO in time will consider all these matters of mandates," Sir John remarked. Britain administers Palestine under a league mandate.

At the final session the Rev. T. F. Summerhayes of Toronto, social service chaplain of the Church of England in Canada, expressed his personal opinion that Zionism is leading to civil war in Palestine.

He quoted the Balfour Declaration as specifying that nothing be done to prejudice the civil and religious rights of existing non-Jewish communities in Palestine.

Wants Pledge Kept

He held that whatever the British government has promised the Jews as to Palestine should be granted and likewise what has been promised the Arabs should be secured to them.

The Zionists want unlimited immigration into Palestine, he said and if the Arabs resist as firmly as they say they will, "an explosion in the whole Middle East" is threatened.

He asked the committee to consider whose military force will expel the Arabs and maintain order in Palestine when chiefly occupied by the Jews.

"Will the Canadians be asked to share?" he inquired. "If they are, it will then become the duty of the church to examine into the moral justification for this use of force, and to advise our members whether their participation therein or even consent to it, is Christian and justifiable."

Arab Gives View

M. S. Massoud, secretary-treasurer of the Canadian-Arab Friendship League, asked the committee if Britain's pledges to the Arabs are to be ignored because the Zionists claim political influence in the United States.

"The intent of the Zionists has come into the open," he said. "It is not a humanitarian project but a political scene." The cry is, "save the 100,000. Why the 100,000? There are 3,000,000 Jews. Why be careless about the rest?"

He said the average Jew and the average Arab want peace.

"Ambitious leaders have declared the Jew on the Palestine issue and are today creating confusion among English-speaking people," he continued.

"We, the Arabs, make a clear distinction between the Jew who is a follower of the Hebraic faith, and the political Zionist who aims to establish a kingdom or republic on charity (deducted from American and English taxes), to arm and equip it at the expense of world Jewry and expand it from the Nile to Euphrates."

Prof. Frank W. Notestein of

30.24 — 293

Princeton, an expert on population trends, said he could not foresee how the Jews could achieve or hold a majority unless immigration sharply increased because, he declared, the Arabs multiply faster than the Jews.

CHURCHILL, WIFE ARRIVE ON QUEEN

Board Train For Florida And 6-Week Vacation

New York, Jan. 14 (AP)—Winston Churchill, former Prime Minister of Great Britain, arrived in the United States on the Queen Elizabeth tonight.

The big cigar as usual was in his mouth. Attired in the uniform of the Royal Yacht Squadron, he appeared rested and in fine spirits as he talked with newsmen. Mrs. Churchill was with him.

Churchill said he hoped to see President Truman on March 5 in Fulton, Md., where Churchill will speak at Westminister College.

At a news conference shortly after he stepped off the big British liner, Churchill said he had no immediate thought of retiring from politics or ceasing "to lead the Conservative party until they can make arrangements for other leadership."

The wartime premier said he thought the problem of a national Jewish home in Palestine was "too difficult to be handled by one single nation alone."

"I am strongly in favor of a joint inquiry by the United States and Great Britain," he said, "adding "As you probably know, I am a Zionist from the beginning."

Atomic-Bomb Control

Questioned about the atomic bomb, Churchill said "I think it would be a great mistake to share the secret of the atomic bomb unless proper controls are established."

He declined to discuss British politics, commenting:

"I very rarely like to criticize the British Government aborad."

As cheers rose from the crowd at the pier, Churchill gave his historic V-for-victory sign.

Boards Train For Miami

The ruddy-cheeked Briton and his wife arrived with 12,385 Canadian service personnel from the European war theater who were on their way home. He was in high good humor, and said he believed he was "very well indeed."

After the news conference, the Churchills boarded a train for Miami, where they plan to spend six weeks with friends.

Discussing the United Nations Organization, he said "as to its chances, you are as good a judge as I am. As to the need for it, there is little question."

"On the whole, I have the feeling the winter is not going to be so bad as some fear." Churchill said when asked about conditions in Germany. "It isn't going to be a very lamentable trial. I think the Allies are doing the best they can under the circumstances."

To Paint In Florida

He did not confirm reports that he planned to work on his memoirs during his visit here.

"I don't know if I wrote them whether they'd be published," he parried.

The former Prime Minister carried a silver-headed walking stick. Mrs. Churchill wore a black Persian lamb hat and a black-cloth coat trimmed with black Persian lamb and touched off with a gay scarf.

It was the ninth visit Churchill had made to the United States, and the first since the end of the war. He has said he planned to spend part of his time in Florida painting.

WAC's Home After Serving As Ballast In Atlantic Gale

New York, Jan. 14 (AP)—Two hundred and twelve WACs who served as human ballast in an attempt to prevent the transport Athos II from sinking in an Atlantic gale were among the 3,557 passengers aboard the carrier Enterprise when it docked here today.

The "Big E," seven days out of Ponta Delgada in the Azores and two days late because of rough weather, also brought in 566 troops from the Liberty ship John S. Hood, which lost a propeller in a storm on New Year's Eve about 300 miles southwest of the Azores.

Darlings Of The Enterprise

The WACs were the darlings of the Enterprise not only because it was the first time the ship had carried females as passengers but also because of their bravery aboard the Athos II.

The Athos II left Le Havre last December 14, bound for New York. She ran into a terrific storm on December 21. The passengers said the French captain gave up the ship for lost.

WAC Major Katherine L. St. John, a native of Frankfort, Ky., was the senior officer in charge of the WACs. She formerly served as Staff Director of WACs assigned to the 9th Air Force. She said she had been married last August at Wurzburg, Germany, to Major James H. Atkinson, of the 9th Air Force, a resident of Georgetown, Texas.

Storm Hits During "Date Hours"

"The storm hit us December 21 at 1.30 P.M., while we were having our date hour in the officers' lounge," Major St. John said. She explained the date hour was a four-hour period held each day for WACs and Army enlisted personnel.

"Soldiers and WACs and furniture were thrown all over the place," she continued. "There was no hysteria at all when the WACs were ordered below as ballast. One girl fainted and one suffered a broken bone. Another had all her front teeth knocked out. Orange juice and eggs and mashed potatoes were all over the place and much of our food was ruined."

Major St. John said the WAC's remained aboard the crippled Athos II for eleven days after they reached the Azores because the near-by small town of Horta could not accommodate so many people. When finally transferred to the Enterprise they were quartered in admirals' and officers' lounges aboard the carrier.

WAC Sergt. Mickey Mahoney, 22, of Brooklyn, N.Y., said that "at the peak of the storm the Athos rolled 52 degrees every time she was hit by a wave." She said a French officer told her the wind velocity reached 124 miles an hour.

15 Litter Cases

The Enterprise carried fifteen litter cases and eighteen walking patients from the Athos II and the Hood.

Officers said the Enterprise would no longer be used as a troopship but would be laid up to become a shrine "for American naval power in this war."

Other ships scheduled to arrive here today were the John E. Schmeltzer, 637; Vincent Harrington, 33; Charles Crocker, 28; Marcus Tracy, 24; Thomas Jefferson, 24; U.S.S. Ariel, 3, and George M. Bibb, 464 prisoners with escort.

UNO Committee Members View Two Estates in Greenwich

STAMFORD, Jan. 14. — (AP) Two members of the United Nations Organization site committee today toured areas in southwestern Connecticut and nearby sections of New York state which the full committee did not reach until after dark when it was here three days ago viewing likely spots for UNO's permanent headquarters.

Francois Briere and Georgii Saksin, the French and Russian members of the group, made no formal comment on what they saw today, pending their report to the full committee.

Escorted by a committee composed of First Selectman George T. Barrett, Kingsley Gillespie, publisher of the Stamford Advocate, and Richard Childs, like Gillespie a representative of the Stamford Chamber of Commerce, Briere and Saksin toured the Mianus River Gorge area here, two estates in Greenwich, including one owned by sportsman Dan Topping, the Yale Farms area in North Castle, N. Y., and the William L. Ward estate at Pound Ridge, N. Y.

Both committee members, who went into the Mianus Gorge area itself and then had a view of the entire region from ex-heavyweight champion Gene Tunney's estate which overlooks it, were impressed by the landscape and by the recreational facilities afforded by Long Island Sound, Barrett said.

Among the advantages of this area which were cited to the investigators were its relative nearness to the airport at Rye, N. Y., and the private airport on the Ward estate at Pound Ridge which is big enough, Barrett said, to land a B-29.

New Meat Row Talks Fail, U.S. Aide Says

Chicago, Jan. 14 (AP)—Edgar L. Warren, United States Conciliation Service director, reports no progress in talks with union and company representatives in the meat industry dispute, which threatens to erupt Wednesday into a strike of 335,000 AFL and CIO workers.

"While there is no direct progress to report," he said last night, "... I am hopeful that a settlement will be reached."

Conferred Yesterday

Warren held a series of separate conferences yesterday with John E. Wilson, general superintendent of Swift & Co., and officers of the CIO United Packing House Workers and the AFL Meat Cutters and Butcher Workmen unions.

The CIO demands an immediate increase of 17½ cents hourly for its 200,000 workers, and the AFL unions ask a similar adjustment. The packers have offered 7½ cents.

Warren said conferences would be held with other packing firms today while direct negotiations between Swift and the unions continue.

20 Contract Measles In 45-Day Trip From New Zealand

San Francisco, Jan. 14 (AP)—Crowded into a converted freighter on a 45-day voyage from New Zealand, 75 babies — 20 of them just recovering from the measles—reached San Francisco today at last.

All of them children of American service men, they suffered from food shortages and overcrowded conditions, their war-bride mothers complained upon docking from Auckland aboard the S.S. Permanente.

With some 600 diapers needing a daily wash, laundering was limited to one washroom, one small tub and a small pantry equipped with two electric plates on which to boil water, said Mrs. Brenda Murphy, wife of a former Rhode Island corporal, and mother of a 9-month-old son.

No Special 'Infants' Food

She added she had no idea the trip would be of 45 days' duration.

"The women hadn't been told what conditions to expect," she declared. "No special food was provided for the infants aboard."

When the ship docked at Noumea, she said, the women were not allowed to go ashore until the vessel was shifted from navy to French piers after two days.

Measles started breaking out at Noumea, New Caledonia, she said, with twenty cases reported during the trip.

The war brides slept six to a cabin, with the only ventilation coming from a passageway leading to the deck, she reported. Three mothers, each with her infant, shared one cabin.

Milk Lasted 21 Days

Ensign Howard R. Davis, second steward, said fresh milk was available for 21 days and that despite his efforts to obtain more at each port, "it was impossible because of local health conditions to obtain a supply."

Mrs. Patricia Ghormley, 21, of Wellington, Australia, said the food aboard was "excellent—for adults, but for children—no."

Steamship company officials conceded living conditions aboard the ship, built in 1902 and used as a cement carrier before the war, were "not up to peacetime standards."

But they said that, while not surprised at hearing there were "complaints," the mothers should consider that if they had not embarked aboard the Permanente "it might have been months before the women could have been brought to this country."

Guam-Capturing Marine Division Is Disbanded

Camp Pendleton, Cal., Jan. 14 (AP) — Disbanding of the famed Guam-capturing 3d Marine Division which first saw action at Bougainville in September, 1943, has been completed at this camp, Marine officials announced today.

A portion of the division prevoiusly was inactivated at Guam.

Formed at Camp Elliott, Cal., under command of Maj. Gen. Allan H. Turnage, the 3d trained in New Zealand before smashing at Bougainville. It recaptured Guam in July, 1943, then moved to the battle of Iwo Jima. Its command had meanwhile been shifted to Maj. Gen. Graves B. Irskine.

Some Troops Due At New Orleans

[By the Associated Press]

Nineteen thousand service men, heading home from duty around the world, were expected to reach ports on the East West and Gulf coasts today aboard 28 troopships.

The vessels were scheduled to dock at New York, New, Orleans, Los Angeles, San Francisco, San Diego, Seattle and Tacoma, Wash.

PMS BUDGET
UNO (500)
BY JOHN A. PARRIS

LONDON, JAN. 14-(AP)-THE UNITED NATIONS GENERALY ASSEMBLY CLEARED THE PATH TODAY FOR ITS INITIAL DISCUSSION OF ATOMIC ENERGY, PLACED OFFICIALLY ON THE AGENDA LAST NIGHT BY A DECISION OF THE PEACE AGENCY'S 14-MEMBER STEERING COMMITTEE.

THE ASSEMBLY ALSO SOUGHT TO BREAK A DEADLOCK BETWEEN NEW ZEALAND AND YUGOSLAVIA OVER THE 18TH SEAT ON THE CONOMIC AND SOCIAL COUNCIL. NEITHER COUNTRY RECEIVED THE NECESSARY TWO-THIRDS MAJORITY IN VOTING SATURDAY, IN WHICH 17 MEMBERS WERE SELECTED.

U.S. SECRETARY OF STATE JAMES F. BYRNES SAID HE WOULD OPEN A GENERAL DISCUSSION ON INTERNATIONAL ISSUES, INCLUDING ATOMIC ENERGY, EITHER LATE TODAY OR TOMORROW --- DEPENDING ON HOW RAPIDLY THE ASSEMBLY COMPLETES DISCUSSION OF THE STEERING COMMITTEE'S REPORT.

BYRNES ALSO MAY BE SELECTED TO PRESENT TO THE ASSEMBLY A SIX-POWER PROPOSAL RECOMMENDING THE ESTABLISHMENT OF A COMMISSION TO SUPERVISE ATOMIC CONTROLS. THE PROPOSAL IS SPONSORED BY RUSSIA, GREAT BRITAIN, THE UNITED STATES, CANADA, FRANCE AND CHINA.

BYRNES SAID THAT NO DEFINITE DECISION HAD BEEN REACHED ON WHO WOULD MAKE THE PRESENTATION, BUT THAT THE MATTER PROBABLY WOULD BE DECIDED TODAY AT A MEETING OF THE MAJOR POWERS.

THE STEERING COMMITTEE RULED THAT ONE OF THE SPONSORING NATIONS WOULD PRESENT THE RESOLUTION. UNDER THE AGREED PROCEDURE, SUGGESTED BY BYRNES, THE RESOLUTION THEN WOULD BE REFERRED TO THE ASSEMBLY'S POLITICAL AND SECURITY COMMITTEE FOR CONSIDERATION.

DEBATE ON ATOMIC CONTROLS MAY CONTINUE THROUGH FRIDAY OR SATURDAY. OTHER SPEAKERS ARE EXPECTED TO INCLUDE BRITISH FOREIGN SECRETARY ERNEST BEVIN, FRENCH FOREIGN MINISTER GEORGES BIDAULT AND ANDREI J. VISHINSKY, RUSSIAN VICE COMMISSAR FOR FOREIGN AFFAIRS.

PAUL HENRI SPAAK OF BELGIUM, ASSEMBLY PRESIDENT, SAID ANYONE WISHING TO SPEAK COULD DO SO.

THE STEERING COMMITTEE ALSO PLACED ON THE ASSEMBLY AGENDA A BRITISH PROPOSAL TO FACILITATE THE WORK OF THE UNITED NATIONS RELIEF AND REHABILITATION ADMINISTRATION. THIS SUBJECT WAS CONSIDERED OF URGENT IMPORTANCE FOR ACTION BY THE DELEGATES AT THIS SESSION OF THE ASSEMBLY.

A11

TWO CUBAN PROPOSALS, HOWEVER, FAILED TO REACH THE AGENDA. ONE, PROPOSING THE BROADENING OF THE STEERING COMMITTEE, WAS REFERRED TO THE ASSEMBLY'S LEGAL COMMITTEE. THE OTHER, ASKING FOR A DECLARATION OF THE INTERNATIONAL DUTIES AND RIGHTS OF MAN AND NATIONS, WAS RULED UNNECESSARY ON THE GROUND THAT IT WAS COVERED IN THE UNITED NATIONS CHARTER.

A PHILIPPINE REQUEST THAT THE GENERAL ASSEMBLY CALL IMMEDIATELY AN INTERNATIONAL PRESS CONFERENCE TO CONSIDER GUARANTEES OF A FREE PRESS THROUGHOUT THE WORLD WAS KEPT OFF THE AGENDA PENDING CLARIFICATION.

MEANWHILE, PLANS WERE MADE TO CALL THE FIRST MEETING OF THE NEWLY CREATED SECURITY COUNCIL EITHER WEDNESDAY OR THURSDAY. THE 11-MEMBER COUNCIL, EMPOWERED TO CONTROL THE INTERNATIONAL POLICE FORCE AND CALL FOR WORLD ECONOMIC SANCTIONS AGAINST AGGRESSORS, IS EXPECTED TO ARRANGE A MEETING OF CHIEFS OF STAFF OF THE UNITED STATES, RUSSIA, GREAT BRITAIN, FRANCE AND CHINA TO DETERMINE THE NUMBER OF TROOPS EACH OF THE 51 NATIONS WILL CONTRIBUTE TO THE WORLD POLICE FORCE.

THE COUNCIL IS COMPOSED OF THE FIVE MAJOR POWERS, AS PERMANENT MEMBERS, AND AUSTRALIA, BRAZIL, EGYPT, MEXICO, THE NETHERLANDS AND POLAND, AS NON-PERMANENT MEMBERS.

LONDON,JAN.14--(AP)--A U.S.ARMY PROSECUTOR ASKED DURING COURT MARTIAL PROCEEDINGS TODAY THAT COL.JAMES A.KILIAN, FORMER COMMANDING OFFICER OF THE 10TH REINFORCEMENT DEPOT AT LICHFIELD, ENGLAND, BE PLACED IN CUSTODY OR IN PHYSICAL SECLUSION TO PREVENT HIM FROM INFLUENCING WITNESSES.

THE REQUEST WAS MADE BY CAPT.EARL J.CARROLL OF SAN BRUNO, CALIF., DURING THE TRIAL OF A SERGEANT ACCUSED OF BRUTALITY TO MILITARY PRISONERS AT THE DEPOT. THE COURT ADJOURNED WITHOUT RULING ON THE MOTION.

KILIAN, A RESIDENT OF OAK PARK, ILL., IS NOT A DEFENDANT.

"IF THIS WERE IN ORDINARY COURT I'D ASK FOR A BENCH WARRANT TO BE SWORN OUT IMMEDIATELY FOR HIS (KILIAN'S) ARREST," SAID CARROLL, WHO EARLIER RECOMMENDED SUCCESSFULLY THAT LT.LEONARD W.ENNIS OF PEEKSKILL, N.Y., BE CONFINED ON THE SAME GROUNDS.

THE PROSECUTION'S CHARGES OF ATTEMPTS TO INFLUENCE TESTIMONY CAME DURING A CROSS EXAMINATION OF LT.GRANVILLE CUBAGE OF OKLAHOMA CITY, OKLA., A DEFENSE WITNESS, WHO TESTIFIED HE HAD SIX CONVERSATIONS WITH COL.KILIAN SINCE THE TRIAL OPENED, AND THAT KILIAN HAD SAID HE "WASN'T SUCH A BAD GUARDHOUSE LAWYER HIMSELF" AND WAS HOPING FOR A MISTRIAL.

CURRENTLY ON TRIAL IS SGT.JUDSON H.SMITH OF CUMBERLAND, KY., ONE OF NINE GUARDS AND TWO OFFICERS CHARGED WITH MISTREATING AMERICAN MILITARY PRISONERS.

ASSISTANT SECRETARY OF STATE JAMES CLEMENT DUNN, WHO ACCOMPANIED BYRNES TO LONDON, IS THE UNITED STATES REPRESENTATIVE ON THE FOREIGN MINISTERS DEPUTIES' COUNCIL.

THE DEPUTIES ORIGINALLY WERE SCHEDULED TO BEGIN WORK TODAY, BUT ARE BEING HELD UP BECAUSE THUS FAR THE FRENCH HAVE REFUSED TO PARTICIPATE UNTIL THEY GET AN ANSWER TO THEIR QUESTIONS ABOUT THE MOSCOW CONFERENCE.

FRANCE ASKED THE BIG THREE POWERS WHAT HER ROLE WOULD BE IN THE BALKAN PEACE ARRANGEMENTS IN VIEW OF THE MOSCOW DECISION TO DRAFT BALKAN TREATIES WITHOUT FRANCE AND CHINA.

IT IS NOT EXPECTED THE REPLY WILL ALTER THE MOSCOW DECISION TO DRAFT TREATIES ON THE BASIS OF THREE POWERS ONLY, BUT THERE PROBABLY WILL BE REASSURANCE TO THE FRENCH -- AND INDIRECTLY TO OTHER COUNTRIES -- THAT THEY WILL HAVE AMPLE OPPORTUNITY TO PUT FORWARD THEIR VIEWS AT THE SCHEDULED MAY CONFERENCE, PROBABLY IN PARIS, INFORMED QUARTERS SAID.

PARIS, JAN. 14-(AP)-SECRETARY OF STATE JAMES F. BYRNES HAS ASSURED FRANCE THAT THE UNITED STATES, BRITAIN AND RUSSIA WOULD ACCORD A DEFINITE WEIGHT TO ANY RECOMMENDATIONS BY THE OTHER 18 POWERS INTERESTED IN DRAFTING EUROPEAN PEACE PACTS, IT WAS LEARNED TONIGHT.

BYRNES ALSO SAID THAT THE THREE MAJOR POWERS HAVE NO OBJECTION TO FORMER ENEMY NATIONS BEING HEARD ON TREATIES THEY MUST SIGN.

REPLYING TO A QUERY BY THE FRENCH ON THE STATUS OF THE POTSDAM DECISION THAT THE UNITED NATIONS ORGANIZATION WOULD BE THE FINAL RATIFYING BODY FOR PEACE TREATIES, BYRNES EXPLAINED THE INTENTION OF THAT DECISION WAS TO INCLUDE ONLY THOSE 21 NATIONS WHICH WERE ACTIVELY AT WAR WITH THE AXIS.

THE SECRETARY SENT HIS NOTE TO ANSWER A REQUEST BY FRANCE FOR CLARIFICATION OF THE RECENT MOSCOW DISCUSSIONS CONCERNING PEACE TREATIES, AND THE 21 NATION CONFERENCE TO BE HELD IN PARIS NOT LATER THAN MAY.

HE SAID THE THREE MAJOR POWERS ACCEPTED THE PRINCIPLE OF PERMITTING INTERESTED COUNTRIES TO BE HEARD FROM ON ALL PHASES OF TREATY-MAKING,

JAN 15 1946

INTERESTED COUNTRIES TO BE HEARD FROM ON ALL PHASES OF TREATY-MAKING, INCLUDING THE PRELIMINARY DRAFT, THE CONFERENCE DEBATE AT PARIS AND THE FINAL WRITING.

THIS WOULD MEAN THAT COUNTRIES SUCH AS YUGOSLAVIA AND GREECE WOULD HAVE A VOICE IN THE ITALIAN PEACE TREATY.

FRANCE ALSO WAS ASSURED THAT THE DEPUTIES OF THE FIVE BIG POWERS--UNITED STATES, BRITAIN, RUSSIA, CHINA AND FRANCE--WOULD CONTINUE TO MEET REGULARLY AS WAS DECIDED AT POTSDAM, AND FURTHER THAT THE BIG FIVE DEPUTIES WOULD UNDERTAKE IMMEDIATELY THE PRELIMINARY DRAFTING OF THE ITALIAN PEACE PACT.

WASHINGTON, JAN.14-(AP)-THE BIG FOUR ALLIES IN EUROPE ARE FAR BEHIND SCHEDULE IN DETERMINING THE AMOUNT OF GERMAN INDUSTRIAL EQUIPMENT TO BE TAKEN AS REPARATIONS FROM THE AMERICAN, BRITISH, AND FRENCH OCCUPATION ZONES, IT WAS LEARNED TODAY.

OFFICIALS CLOSE TO THE QUESTION, WHO ASKED TO REMAIN ANONYMOUS, SAID THE ALLIED CONTROL COUNCIL'S AGREEMENT IN BERLIN LAST FRIDAY ON THE AMOUNT OF

SAID THE ALLIED CONTROL COUNCIL'S AGREEMENT IN BERLIN LAST FRIDAY ON THE AMOUNT OF STEEL PRODUCTION TO BE ALLOWED GERMANY BRIGHTENED PROSPECTS FOR ACCORD ON OTHER BASIC PRODUCTS.

THEY ADDED, HOWEVER, THAT THERE IS NO CHANCE OF REACHING FINAL AGREEMENT BY THE FEB. 2 DEADLINE ON THE AMOUNT OF REPARATIONS TO BE TAKEN FROM THE THREE ZONES. THE POTSDAM BIG THREE COMMUNIQUE HAD FIXED THAT DATE.

HOPES NOW ARE THAT THE AGREEMENT MAY BE REACHED ANYWHERE FROM A MONTH TO TWO MONTHS FROM THEN, THE OFFICIALS SAID.

REVELATION THAT THE BIG FOUR WOULD NOT BE ABLE TO MEET THE FEB. 2

JAN 15 1946

DEADLINE CAME AFTER THE STATE DEPARTMENT HAD MADE PUBLIC THE TEXT OF THE AGREEMENT REACHED DEC. 21 AT A PARIS REPARATIONS CONFERENCE ATTENDED BY 18 NATIONS.

MAJOR POINTS IN THE PARIS AGREEMENT WERE ANNOUNCED AT THE CLOSE OF THE CONFERENCE. THESE INCLUDED:

1. A DECISION ON THE PERCENTAGE SHARES OF REPARATIONS WHICH EACH OF THE 18 COUNTRIES WILL GET FROM WESTERN GERMANY.

2. ESTABLISHMENT OF AN INTER-ALLIED REPARATION AGENCY WITH HEADQUARTERS IN BRUSSELS TO ALLOCATE REPARATIONS MATERIALS AMONG THE MEMBER GOVERNMENTS.

3. AGREEMENT TO POOL ALL GOLD MONEY FOUND IN GERMANY AND GIVE IT TO THE COUNTRIES FROM WHICH GERMANY TOOK GOLD IN PROPORTION TO THEIR RESPECTIVE LOSSES.

RUSSIA AND POLAND WERE NOT REPRESENTED AT PARIS. THE POTSDAM AGREEMENT PROVIDED THAT RUSSIA WOULD TAKE ITS REPARATIONS FROM ITS OWN OCCUPATION ZONE, RECEIVE AN ADDITIONAL 25 PER CENT OF THE AVAILABLE INDUSTRIAL EQUIPMENT FROM THE WESTERN ZONES, THEN SHOULD SATISFY POLISH REPARATIONS CLAIMS FROM ITS OWN ALLOCATION.

A60WX

AT PARIS, INDUSTRIL AND OTHER CAPITAL EQUIPMENT WERE PUT INTO ONE REPARATIONS CATEGORY, AND EVERYTHING ELSE INTO ANOTHER. THE UNITED STATES ORIGINALLY WAS ASSIGNED 28 PER CENT OF BOTH CATEGORIES.

BECAUSE MOST GERMAN INDUSTRIAL EQUIPMENT COULD BE USED TO GREATER ADVANTAGE IN LIBERATED EUROPE, THE U.S. RENOUNCED ITS RIGHT TO 16.2 PER CENT OF ITS ALLOCATED INDUSTRIAL PERCENTAGE.

THE BIGGEST SHARES OF REPARATIONS FOR THE COUNTRIES ATTENDING THE PARIS CONFERENCE WILL GO TO BRITAIN, WHICH GETS 27.8 PER CENT IN THE INDUSTRIAL CATEGORY AND 28 PER CENT IN THE OTHER.

ALL 18 COUNTRIES ATTENDING THE PARIS CONFERENCE NOW HAVE INDICATED A WILLINGNESS TO ACCEPT THE SHARES DECIDED ON EXCEPT GREECE, WHICH GOT 4.35 PER CENT OF THE INDUSTRIAL REPARATIONS AND 2.7 PER CENT IN THE NON-INDUSTRIAL CATEGORY.

THE PARIS CONFERENCE ALSO AGREED TO ALLOCATE A SHARE OF THE REPARATIONS TO HELP REHABILITATE VICTIMS OF GERMAN AGGRESSION OR PERSECUTION, WHO, FOR ONE REASON OR ANOTHER, CANNOT BE REPATRIATED TO THE COUNTRIES WHERE THEY LIVED BEFORE THE WAR.

THIS FUND WILL CONSIST OF ALL GOLD, EXCEPT GOLD MONEY, WHICH WAS FOUND BY THE ALLIED FORCES IN GERMANY, AND AN ADDITIONAL SUM OF $25,000,000 FROM GERMAN ASSETS IN NEUTRAL COUNTRIES WHICH ARE MADE

JAN 15 1946

AVAILABLE FOR REPARATION.
GOVERNMENT OFFICIALS HAVE ESTIMATED THAT GERMANY LOOTED WELL OVER $700,000,000 IN GOLD FROM VICTIM COUNTRIES IN PRE-WAR AND WAR YEARS.
THE TOTAL UNCOVERED THUS FAR SINCE GERMANY'S DEFEAT IS ONLY BETWEEN $200,000,000 AND $300,000,000.
OFFICIALS SAID THE BRUSSELS INTER-ALLIED REPARATIONS COMMITTEE WOULD MEET FOR THE FIRST TIME EARLY IN FEBRUARY, WITH DUDLEY M.PHELPS AS U.S. REPRESENTATIVE.

Kenney Opposes U.S. Delegates On Trustees

J. SMITH

London, Jan. 15 (AP)—Official sources disclosed today that American civilian and military officials at the United Nations General Assembly were split over whether American-conquered Japanese islands should be placed under UNO sovereignty.

While the American delegation sought solution to this question, it was disclosed that the newly elected security council, confronted with the twin tasks of controlling atomic energy and preventing another world war, had been summoned to hold its first meeting Thursday.

Byrnes, Bevin To Speak

Indications were that United States Secretary of State James F. Byrnes, British Foreign Secretary Ernest Bevin and Soviet Vice Commissar of Foreign Affairs Andrei Vishinsky would speak at the opening session, which will be devoted primarily to organization.

Bevin is also expected to address the Assembly tomorrow. The British Cabinet today heard an outline of his speech.

Reports from the Cabinet meeting said Bevin would offer the British mandates of Tanganyika, the Cameroons and Togoland to the UNO's trusteeship council, but would reserve the mandates over Palestine and Trans-Jordan.

Reservations Explained

The reservations, it was said, would be made on the grounds that Trans-Jordan is ready for independence and that action on Palestine should await the report of the British-American commission now studying problems of that country.

The disagreement over the trusteeship question, meanwhile, held the attention of the American officials.

The delegates themselves were said to favor a trusteeship plan for the Pacific islands, while their special military adviser, Gen. George C. Kenney, argued that the United States should retain any islands of military value.

May Go To Truman

Delegeates said that if Kenney held out the disagreement could be considered as tantamount to an issue between the State and War departments and would have to be referred to President Truman for settlement.

Kenney, chief of the Pacific air staff, could not be reached immediately for comment. Previously expressed American military opinion, however, was that the United States should not run the risk of having to reconquer islands won with American blood.

On the other hand, officials said that the State Department argued that the United States had agreed to preliminary trusteeship plans during the San Francisco conference and should not set a precedent for others by withholding the islands.

One Of Major Tasks

Formation of trusteeship policies was one of the major tasks awaiting the assembly, which remained adjourned today until 4 P.M. to allow time for committee meetings. Under the trusteeship plan, one nation or a group of nations would administer territories placed under UNO control.

A call for quick action on the trusteeship question was expected to be made by British Foreign Secretary Ernest Bevin on the floor of the assembly this week during the general policy debate.

There was some disagreement among the American delegation as to exactly how much control the United States would lose if she agreed to United Nations sovereignty over the Pacific islands. Some sources said it was unlikely that the delegation would propose a trusteeship arrangement without stipulating that the United States alone should act as controlling agent for the UNO.

UNO Sovereignty, U.S. Control

Under an agreement such as that, the United Nations would have soverignty over the islands and the United States would have immediate control over them.

Delegates said the State Department could be expected to adhere to the policy of not asking for the United States any special commercial privileges in trustee territories she controlled.

Meanwhile, Secretary Byrnes's opening speech in the debate yesterday was warmly hailed in the London press. Byrnes asked early action to establish a UNO atomic-energy commission and said the United States was "conscious of its responsibility" in world affairs.

As the Assembly's sterring committee charted the Assembly's course this morning and the legal committee met to consider a Cuban proposal that the steering committee be enlarged, the five major powers remained unable to agree on a nominee for secretary-general.

LONDON, Jan. 15 (AP)—The use of atomic weapons to keep the peace was suggested to United Nations General Assembly delegates today as world statesmen pleaded for the rapid establishment of a commission to control atomic energy.

J. SMITH

Australian Navy Minister N. J. O. Makin, destined to become the first president of the Security Council, which will control the world police force, said in a statement that there was "nothing in the nature of atomic weapons which excludes them" from the police force arsenal.

The suggestion brought a quick reply during the general policy debate from Netherlands Premier Schermerhorn, who asserted that a peaceful world must be built upon "moral principles" and cautioned against attempting to achieve international cooperation through fear.

Plan Urged To Scatter Forces Supplied To UNO

London, Jan. 15 (AP)—A plan that United States forces assigned to the United Nations "world police force" be scattered geographically has been brought to London by American representatives, informed sources said today.

American troops thus would be within reach of any spot where the world force might be called on to put down aggression.

Many details of the plan still are under consideration, these sources said, with the work being kept secret pending negotiations with other members of the United Nations military staff committee—Russia, Britain, France and China.

Plan Balanced Contingents

Tentatively principles on which the Americans were reported working included:

1. Each geographical unit should contain balanced contingents on air and sea power.

2. The size of the forces should be determined by two factors—the job they might be required to tackle and the power required to give UNO the same prestige militarily that it is acquiring politically. Officers working on the plans say the second factor will probably mean a larger contingent than military necessity alone would dictate.

3. Quotas of countries would be worked out on a basis of their resources. For example, the United States and Britain probably would contribute the lion's share of naval and strategic air power. Russia presumably would be asked for a higher proportion of ground forces.

Agreement's Real Teeth

Under the charter each of the United Nations must negotiate an agreement setting forth the power and facilities it will make available toward keeping the peace.

These agreements will be the real teeth of the agency and officials working on them say it is unlikely that any will be concluded for six months to a year.

Congress will have to approve the American agreement.

The military staff committee, which works under the Security Council, is expected to meet for the first time early next week.

UNO DELEGATES GIVEN BANQUET BY ATTLEE

LONDON, Jan. 15.—(AP) Prime Minister Clement Attlee gave the chief delegates to the United Nations Assembly a banquet tonight in the historic hall of Greenwich Naval College, and the American delegation made the only faux pas by turning up in tuxedos instead of ordinary suits.

The meal consisted of only three courses, but they included mushroom soup, chicken, ham, braised and mashed potatoes, peas, cauliflower and fluffy dessert. British restaurants are allowed to serve, after the soup, only one main dish, one kind of potatoes and one vegetable.

U. S. Secretary of State James F. Byrnes, Senator Tom Connally and Senator Arthur Vandenberg were embarrassed about having misunderstood the request to wear "uniform or lounge suit," but Connally joked: "We always wear dinner jackets for lounging."

Mrs. Eleanor Roosevelt came in a black dress and wore a fur cape in the huge, chilly hall.

FEW WOMEN IN UNO ASSEMBLY

London, Jan. 15 (A. P.).—It's not a woman's show in Central Hall. Of the 185 United Nations Organization delegates representing fifty-one nations meeting in the big assembly hall, only five are women—Mrs. Franklin D. Roosevelt, Miss Ellen Wilkinson, British Minister of Education; Miss Jean R. McKenzie of New Zealand, Miss Minerva Bernardino of the Dominican Republic and Mrs. Evdokia Uralova, Peoples Commissioner for Education in White Russia.

The star attraction is still Mrs. Roosevelt. Crowds gather daily to watch her arrive and depart. Even British newsmen can be seen getting her autograph.

BEVIN'S UNO SPEECH HEARD BY CABINET

London, Jan. 15 (A. P.).—The British Cabinet heard today an outline of the speech Foreign Secretary Bevin is expected to make to the United Nations Assembly tomorrow.

Reports from the Cabinet meeting were that Bevin would offer the British mandates of Tanganyika, the Cameroons and Togoland to the UNO Trusteeship Council, but would reserve the mandates over Palestine and Trans-Jordan. The reservations, it was said, would be made on the ground that Trans-Jordan is ready for independence and that action on Palestine should await the report of the Anglo-American commission now studying the problems of that country.

LONDON, Jan. 15 (AP)—Mrs. Eleanor Roosevelt said today she felt Nazi satelite nations such as Italy should be admitted to the UNO "as soon as they are qualified."

Lichfield Commandant May Face Army Court

London, Jan. 15 (AP)—Charges of subornation of perjury, conspiracy, intimidation of witnesses and dereliction of duty against Col. James A. Kilian, of Highland Park, Ill., commandant of an American Army detention camp at Lichfield, were ordered prepared today for consideration by a United States court-martial.

The court, trying nine enlisted men and two officers for alleged ill-treatment of American military prisoners at the camp, also recommended Kilian's removal from the London area, but that he remain in the United Kingdom, available for recall as a witness.

The court's order was decided upon in a private session after Capt. Earl J. Carroll of San Bruno, Cal., of the prosecution staff, declared Kilian had instructed witnesses how to testify.

RUSSIANS OPEN TRIAL OF 18

Extermination of 2,200,000 Is Laid to Germans at Minsk

LONDON, Jan. 15 (AP)—The Moscow radio reported today that the war crimes trial of eighteen German army officers accused of directing the extermination of 2,200,000 White Russian civilians and prisoners of war opened today at Minsk.

Heading the group of accused officers was Lieut. Gen. Johann George Richert, former commander of the Thirty-fifth Infantry and 286th Security Division, the broadcast said, and added that others on trial included Maj. Gen. Gottfried Sdorf, former commander of the Mogilev area.

Russian prosecutors accused the group of responsibility for the destruction of 209 towns, 10,000 collective farms and 1,150 hospitals, clinics and laboratories, according to the report.

German Heavy Cruiser Arrives Off Britain

London, Jan. 15 [Reuter]—The 10,000-ton German heavy cruiser Prinz Eugen today arrived off Spithead, Britain's south coast. It is understood she is bound for the United States as a naval prize.

It was recently announced by the United States Navy Department that the cruiser was to be taken from Bremen to Boston "to become the subject of study and experimentation."

28 Nazi Plane Plants Razed

London, Jan. 15 (AP) — The Munich radio said tonight that 28 aircraft factories in Bavaria, including 22 Dornier plants and 6 Messerschmitt, have been destroyed by order of the American military government.

U. S. Scientists Enter Red Zone

BERLIN, Jan. 15 (AP).—An authoritative source said today that Soviet authorities, relaxing travel restrictions in the Red Army zone in Germany, had permitted an American mission of scientists to visit chemical plants northeast of Berlin. This source said the Russians gave the Americans every help, showing them on request many chemical formulas of the giant I. G. Farben works which the Russians had ordered the Farben workers to compile.

Athenia Sunk By U-Boat, Doenitz Paper Reveals

Nuernberg, Germany, Jan. 15 (AP)—An affidavit by Grand Admiral Karl Doenitz introduced before the International Military Tribunal today exploded the German myth that the British liner Athenia was sunk by the British themselves in 1939 in a plot to push the United States into the war.

Great Britain demanded the conviction of Doenitz, successor to Adolf Hitler as Führer of Germany, as a "murderer" for U-boat attacks on helpless sailors in lifeboats and for ordering the ruthless shooting of Commandos.

Americans On Board

Col. H. J. Phillimore, a British prosecutor, told the tribunal trying Doenitz and 21 other top Nazis he was criminals that Doenitz was "no plain sailor" and was a key cog behind Nazi preparations for aggressive war.

The affidavit, signed by Doenitz on November 17, 1945, said the Athenia was sunk by the German submarine U-30 on the day Britain entered the war. On board were 1,500 passengers, some of them Americans. German propaganda at the time tried to lay the blame on Winston Churchill.

Bolstering the case against Doenitz, Lieut.-Com. Karl-Heinz Moehle, a German submarine commander who sank twenty Allied ships, testified against the Admiral, asserting that he did not want to be blamed for his former chief's order to shoot up lifeboats.

As the prosecution denounced Doenitz, the cold, aloof Admiral dropped his pose of indifference for the first time and cursed and defended himself in mutterings with other defendants in the dock.

"1944 Ideal Year"

The British, also prosecuting Grand Admiral Erich Raeder, predecessor of Doenitz as commander of the German Navy, introduced a captured Nazi document in which Raeder asserted that Hitler's ideal year for attacking England was 1944 and the German Navy, which took his word for everything, was caught short by the outbreak of the war in 1939.

The Raeder document said:

"The Führer hoped until the last moment to be able to put off the threatening conflict with England until 1944-45. It was planned by leaders of the National Socialist Reich to give the Navy such strength that it would be possible to strike at vital British arteries in the Atlanic with sufficient ships, fighting power and range. The development of events forced the Navy, contrary to expectations even of the Führer, into a war it had to accept while still in the initial stage of its rearmament."

Doenitz's affidavit said the German high command ordered the sinking of the Athenia "to be kept a total secret." Thirty Americans were among the 113 persons who perished. The German idea was that the loss of American lives might excite the United States as did the sinking of the Lusitania in the first World War. It was the German scheme to turn American ire on the British and away from Germany.

Pretrial Statement

"I had no part whatsoever in the political events in which the Führer claimed that no U-boat had sunk the Athenia," Doenitz asserted in his pretrial statement. The Admiral related that the submarine U-30 returned to Wilhelmshaven in mid-September and its commander, Oberlieutenant Lemp, asked to speak to him privately. The affidavit said: "He told me at once he thought he was responsible for the sinking of the Athenia in the North Channel area." He explained that he "had torpedoed a ship he afterwards identified as the Athenia under the impression that she was an armed merchant cruiser on patrol."

Secrecy Order

Doenitz at the time commanded the German submarine arm. He said he received a verbal order saying:

"1. The (Athenia) affair was to be kept a total secret. 2. The naval high command considered that court-martial was not necessary, as they were satisfied that the captain acted in good faith. 3. Political explanations would be handled by the naval high command."

Adolf Schmidt, a member of the U-30 crew, who was wounded in a plane attack eleven days after the Athenia went down, informed Allied questioners that Lemp made him sign a pledge of secrecy about the sinking before he put him ashore at Reykjavik, Iceland, on September 19, 1939.

"Without Warning"

Schmidt's affidavit was given at Calgary, Alberta, Canada, on August 9, 1945, and British prosecutors introduced it at the trial today. Schmidt declared that the Athenia was torpedoed without warning.

As a reminder that the Nazi command made efforts to disclaim blame for the destruction of the liner, the prosecution introduced an extract from Hitler's newspaper, the Volkischer Beobachter, on October 23, 1939, charging that "Winston Churchill attempted to sink the ship through explosion of an infernal machine."

The British prosecutor charged that Raeder, a few months before he was replaced by Doenitz, asked the German supreme command for permission to attack Brazilian sea and air forces in "another Pearl Harbor" three months before Germany went to war against the South American republic in 1942.

A Willing Witness

Moehle said that he was a willing witness, explaining:

"When I was taken prisoner it was claimed I was the author of these orders. I'm here because I don't want this charge connected with my name."

Moehle, who commanded the fifth U-boat flotilla from Kiel during the last four years of the war, admitted that he passed along to individual U-boat commanders naval high command orders to destroy rescue boats.

"I was wont to pass on this controversial order with more or less the following words," he said, "I have now to inform you of a high-command order concerning conduct toward survivors. It is a very ticklish matter.'"

Conscience Disagreed

He pleaded that his "innermost conscience" was in disagreement with this order.

"I was very glad that in most cases commanding officers raised no queries and I, therefore, was relieved of any further discussion on this point," said Moehle, holder of the highest German decorations.

"I can only stress that the order of September, 1942 (to destroy survivors and crews) appeared to me personally to go too far and I am totally in disagreement with it at heart," he said in an affidavit submitted as evidence. "As serving officer, I had, however, to carry out the command to pass on this order to commanding officers.

"During the long time that I was senior officer of the flotilla, no single commanding officer mentioned to me that he could not reconcile obedience to this order with his conscience and that he therefore was unable to carry it out," Moehle concluded.

Suicide Confirmed

Meanwhile, after more than a day of conferences between the office of Justice Robert H. Jackson and United States Army authorities, an official statement today confirmed the suicide three months ago of Nazi Health Leader Dr. Leonardo Conti while an American prisoner in the Nuernberg jail.

The statement did not explain why stringent secrecy had been maintained by American officials until after an investigation by correspondents last week end disclosed the death.

Conti declared in a suicide note that he was taking his life because he had lied under American interrogation.

NAZIS DISCLOSE ATHENIA SUNK BY GERMAN U-BOAT

NUERNBERG, Germany, Jan. 15—(AP) The mystery of the sinking of the British liner Athenia with the loss of 30 Americans at the start of the war was solved publicly today before the international military tribunal by Nazi admissions that a German submarine torpedoed the ship.

The story of the Athenia came from two sources—a pre-trial affidavit by Grand Adm. Karl Doenitz, one of 22 ranking Nazis on trial before the tribunal, and the official German naval diary. The affidavit and portions of the diary were placed in the tribunal record.

On Nov. 17, 1945, Doenitz swore that the Athenia was sunk by the German submarine U-30 on the day that Britain entered the war. Of the 1,500 passengers on the liner, 113 died.

The Nazis charged immediately after the sinking that the Athenia was destroyed by the British themselves in a plot to push the United States into the war on Britain's side.

Doenitz's affidavit told of interviews with the commander of the U-30; how the officer was sent on to higher headquarters in Berlin and how Doenitz, then commander of Germany's U-Boats, received a verbal order saying the Athenia affair was to be kept secret and that the naval high command would take care of political explanations.

The Athenia story was rounded out during the day when the British prosecutors, ending their [illegible] against Doenitz with a dema[illegible] his conviction as a "murderer" for U-Boat attacks on helpless sailors in lifeboats, turned to Grand Adm. Erich Raeder, commander-in-chief of the German navy at the time and Doenitz's superior.

The official German navy diary showed that the naval command under Raeder's direction had gone to the extent of forging the log of the U-30 to conceal the U-Boat sinking of the Athenia.

The diary also said that the German naval command had expressed pleasure at Russian cooperation in the Arctic in the first months of the war.

Further, the diary showed, the naval command had urged the conquest of Suez and the Middle East in 1941 but was overruled because of Hitler's obsession that the Soviet Union must first be destroyed. Raeder, according to the diary, obtained Hitler's agreement in September, 1940, for a future attack against Suez which would be followed by an advance through Palestine and Syria.

However, the Fuehrer apparently was subjected to different influences later, because by November that decision was reversed and Germany was committed to the invasion of Russia.

Other portions of the diary, which were not read in court and therefore were not part of the evidence, said Russia offered the Germans a base near Murmansk in October, 1939, and the Nazi naval command, which was pleased also with Russian economic support, urged "Generous reciprocation" by Germany.

The case against Raeder was finished shortly before the end of the day's session. The prosecution turned immediately to the evidence against Baldur Von Schirach, Hitlet Youth leader.

NAZIS LET BABIES DIE OF NEGLECT, BRITISH CHARGE

C. C HAMBERLAIN

BRUNSWICK, Germany, Jan. 15. —(AP) Four hundred and sixty-two infants died from "wilful neglect" at two German "baby farms" and 16 men and three women connected with the camps have been arrested for war crimes trial, British investigators said today.

The children were born to slave laborers working on farms and in a factory near Brunswick, and were considered illegitimate by the Nazis, the investigators said.

Separated from their mothers at ages of 10 days to three months, the children were taken to two "farms" or "clinics" in the villages of Velpke and Ruehen. Out of 114 placed in wooden huts at Velpke, 92 died, and all of the 370 placed in corrugated iron sheds at Ruehen succumbed.

Their bodies were wrapped in toilet paper and stacked in the lavatory until cardboard boxes arrived in which the children were buried in unmarked graves, the British said. The bodies were packed three or four to the box.

Cause of the deaths, the report said, was wilful neglect, incorrect feeding, premature sparation from mothers and generally filthy conditions of the "clinics." Diarrhea as given as a general cause, occasioned by improper diets.

The report said the babies were kept in crude cribs which were seldom if ever cleaned. Mattresses were described as so dirty many of them had rotted to pieces, and insects covered the ward walls as well as the babies themselves.

"The baby farms were staffed by civilians of the local Nazi party and labor organizations," a British investigating officer said. "The person ultimately thought to be responsible is the notorious gauleiter of Hannover, Hartmann Lauterbacher, who has not been located.

"So acute was fear of these farms that it is alleged most of the women workers who were pregnant signed forms agreeing to abortion as an alternative to sending their child to the clinic."

The Velpke "clinic" operated from May to December, 1944, and Ruehen was open during the last 12 months before German capitulation. Mothers were permitted to visit their children once a month on Sundays. Later they were forbidden to enter the "clinics" after several of them had frantically attempted to grab their children from the filthy cribs and escape.

Dr. Conti's Suicide Confirmed

NUERNBERG, Jan. 15 (AP).—After more than a day of conferences between the office of Justice Robert H. Jackson and United States Army authorities, an official statment today confirmed the suicide three months ago of Dr. Leonardo Conti, Nazi health leader, while an American prisoner in the Nuernberg jail. The statement did not explain why stringent secrecy had been maintained by American officials.

YANKS QUESTIONED IN AMG MURDER

Frankfurt, Jan. 15 (A. P.).—High United States Army officers said today that many persons, including Americans, are being questioned in connection with the inquiry into the recent torch murder of three American Military Government officers at Passau.

The officers added that no evidence had been uncovered of German resistance activity in connection with the case. One investigator said that no definite motive had been determined and denied reports of extensive black market activities in the area. There was no doubt that the officers were murdered before their isolated billet near the Austro-German border was drenched with gasoline and set afire, the informants further stated.

The victims have been identified as Major Everett S. Cofran of Washington, D. C.; Capt. Adrian Wesseler of New Rochelle, N. Y., and Lieut. Stanley Rosewater of Omaha.

NITTI BACKS FRENCH TIES

Ex-Italian Premier Supports Bonomi on Collaboration

ROME, Jan. 15 (AP)—Fransesco S. Nitti, 77-year-old former Italian Premier, today urged the Consultative Assembly to advocate a foreign policy based upon strict collaboration with France.

Signor Nitti echoed the sentiments of Ivanoe Bonomi, another former Premier, who yesterday told the Assembly that union with France was essential to both countries.

Signor Nitti urged the Government to seek a labor treaty with the neighboring country, declaring that Italy could provide France with 4,000,000 workers.

Curfew Is Ordered For 4 Italian Towns

Rome, Jan. 15 (A. P.).—The Italian news agency Ansa said tonight that a curfew from 7 P. M. to 7 A. M. has been ordered for four towns in Palermo Province, with troops being used to reinforce Carabinieri, in efforts to end disorders. The measure was taken several hours after two Carabinieri were killed, the agency added. Two other Carabinieri and two soldiers were wounded.

Italian Queen Loses Use of Right Eye

Rome, Jan. 15 (A. P.).—Queen Elena of Italy has lost the use of her right eye as a result of shock brought about by the death of her daughter, the Princess Mafalda of Hesse, in a German concentration camp, the Monarchist newspaper Italia Nuova reported today.

The 73-year-old queen lives in Naples with King Victor Emmanuel. The newspaper said that Princess Mafalda was injured in an Allied air raid on the camp where she was interned, and died after the amputation of an arm.

Vatican Paper Answers Charge Of Soviet Press

Vatican City, Jan. 15 (AP)—The Vatican newspaper Osservatore Romano, replying to a Moscow broadcast of January 12 which allegedly quoted the Soviet newspaper Pravda to the effect that the Vatican had supported Fascist reactionaries, declared today that the Russian charges were "lies and mystification."

In an outspoken statement against the Soviet press, Osservatore said:

"We shall defend the Holy See against the campaign which is objectively, morally and journalistically unworthy and which under the excuse of the defense of democracy aims at libeling the Catholic Church and the Holy See with the purpose of undermining and neutralizing the work they are doing for a peaceful and just Christian settlement of the world."

Three Gestapo Officers Will Hang For Murders

Naples, Jan. 15 (AP)—An American Military Commission sentenced three German Gestapo officers today to be hanged for the murder of seven Allied soldiers.

The commission condemned SS Major August Schiffer, former Berlin house painter; SS Under Officer Albert Storz, and SS Lieut. Heinrich Andergassen specifically for murdering Capt. Roderick Hall, of South Norwalk, Conn., in Schiffer's torture chamber at Bolzano.

A fourth defendant, German Gendarme Hans Butz, was convicted of the same crime and sentenced to life imprisonment. He had asserted that he did not participate actively in the murder.

Schiffer, who described himself as a "persuaded" Nazi, and the two SS officers who served as his triggermen also were convicted of murdering four American flyers and two British soldiers. The Americans were Lieut. Charles Parker, Milldale, Conn.; Lieut. George W. Hammond, Lieut. Hardy D. Narron, of Kenly, N.C., and Sergt. Medard D. Tofoya, of Yola, Cal. The flyers first were tortured in an attempt to learn secrets of American bombing by radar.

Goering's Nephew Arrested

Prague, Jan. 15 (AP)—Czechoslovakian security police disclosed today that Heinrich Goering, who identified himself as a nephew of former Reichsmarshal Hermann Goering, had been arrested in Moravia. The 33-year-old German escaped January 1 in Poland.

Greeks Seek To Curb Terrorist Activities

Athens, Jan. 15 (AP)—Police and national guards were sent to the Thessaly region of Greece today under orders to stamp out Communist and Royalist bands which, the Government said, had been terrorizing remote mountain villages and causing widespread disorders.

A Salonika dispatch to Vima said that an unidentified band raided a village in Macedonia, seized one resident, sprayed him with gasoline and forced his wife to set him afire.

Greek Dockers Strike, Tying Up UNRRA Ships

Athens, Jan. 15 (AP)—More than 3,000 Greek dock workers in Piraeus struck today for higher wages, suspending the unloading of several ships laden with UNRRA relief supplies.

Theodore Havinis, Minister of Public Works, said the strike was unjustified because the dockers were the best paid workers in Greece, getting as much as 212,500 drachmas (about $425 under the prewar scale) per week for about five hours work a day. Under present inflation, however, the pay is equal to about one and a half gold sovereigns—$12.36.

SLAVE LABORERS' BODIES FOUND IN HUNGARY

BUDAPEST, Jan. 15—(AP) More than 200 bodies of slave laborers and Jews—some bearing marks of burning and others of live burial—have been discovered in two Hungarian mass graves, Second Lieut. George Gerbner, former San Francisco Chronicle newspaperman, said in a report to the U. S. Military mission today.

Gerbner said a lone survivor of the massacre by Hungarian Nazis led investigators to the mass grave in Pestszentimre, Southern Budapest suburban. The other grave was found in Kiskunhalas, about 100 miles south of the capital.

Newsman Leigh White's Wife Freed In Spain

Madrid, Jan. 15 (AP)—The United States Embassy said tonight that Spanish authorities had released Mrs. Maria Cruz White, the wife of Leigh White, Chicago Daily News correspondent.

Mrs. White, a native of Spain but an American citizen, was arrested recently in a village near Oviedo where she was visiting her parents. The United States Embassy said it understood her arrest was caused by a complaint that she had spoken against the Government of Generalissimo Francisco Franco.

Mrs. White said she plans to join her husband in Italy.

Invited To Russian War Trials

Moscow, Jan. 15 (AP)—The Russian Government extended today to foreign correspondents in the Soviet Union an invitation to attend war crimes trials of Germans to be held in Minsk and Kiev.

Soviet Official Resigns Posts

Moscow, Jan. 15 (AP)—Soviet officials said today that Lavrenti Pavlovich Beria had been relieved at his own request as Commissar of Internal Affairs and would be succeeded by his assistant, Vice Commissar Sergei Nikiforovich Kurglov.

The announcement said Beria had also resigned as head of the NKVD (Secret Police) "in view of being overloaded with other central work."

Danes Refuse U.S. Offer Of Damages

Copenhagen, Jan. 15 (AP)—Danish shipowners have refused an American offer of $23,000,000 damages for 40 Danish vessels taken over by the United States during the war and are ready to submit the matter to arbitration or to the American courts, a spokesman for the shipowners said today.

Palestine Jews Protest

Conference of All Communities Assails Immigration Ban

JERUSALEM, Jan. 15 (AP).—A conference here representing all Jewish communities in Palestine protested today the stoppage of Jewish immigration.

The protest, which will be submitted to Lieutenant General Sir Alan Cunningham, British High Commissioner, called on Britain to "open the gates of the country for the immediate rescue of our remnants." It reiterated a desire to "live as a nation in our own home and state, respecting the rights of Arabs who live with us in this country."

Also requested were revocation of the land laws and the granting of authority to the Jewish agency for Palestine to develop immigration and settlement plans.

IRAN PREMIER ASSAILS ALLIED OCCUPATION

TEHERAN, Jan. 15 — (AP) Premier Ibrahim Hakimi told the Iranian parliament today that Russia and Britain were hesitating about the evacuation of their troops from the country, scheduled for March 2, and offered to resign because he said his foreign policy had failed.

JAN 16 1946

He declared that direct talks with Russia over the autonomy revolt in Azerbaijan were fruitless.

The parliament adjourned without taking action on the premier's proferred resignation.

Hakimi charged that Britain and Russia were "interferring in the affairs of Iran."

His government has informed the United States and Britain of willingness to accept a Big Three commission to hasten the evacuation of occupation troops and supervise elections, but has received no answer to the proposal, Hakimi said.

UNO Seen As Key To Indonese Solution

Batavia, Jan. 15 (AP)—Prime Minister Sutan A. Sjahrir of the unrecognized Indonesian republic expressed hope today that Java's troublesome problems, marked by new outbursts of violence, would be settled by the United Nations Organization.

His declaration coincided with a Dutch announcement that Netherlands army and navy personnel had been landed at Koemai, on the southcoast of Borneo, to investigate the reported arrival of Javanese Nationalists.

A British announcement said a newly organized civil police force, consisting of 300 Indonesians, 300 Dutch and 20 Chinese, and attired in "American Army type" uniforms, would take office in Batavia this week.

BIG TAX DRIVE IN INDIA

Bombay, Jan. 15 (A. P.)—Holders of billions of rupees worth of large denomination notes filed into Federal Reserve banks in Bombay and other cities today as one of the biggest tax drives in Indian history got under way. Some persons carried trunks and others carried bulging brief cases. Many were legitimate holders, but others were reported to have hidden large earnings after black market operations.

A Government order that these notes be surrendered was designed to compel a report on how they were earned, for tax purposes. All notes of 500 rupees and higher must be surrendered within ten days or be invalidated.

The exact amount of big bills outstanding is an official secret. Bank officials said the total currency outstanding was 12,180,000,000 rupees and unofficial estimates placed the amount of money hiding out in big notes at two to three billion rupees. (A rupee is worth about thirty cents).

Chinese Red Seeks Talk With Marshall

Chungking, Jan. 15 (AP)—Chou En-lai, No. 2 Chinese Communist, today sought a meeting with General Marshall. He was reported ready to complain against alleged Government violations of the recent civil strife truce agreement.

Chou's move followed a Communist charge that on Monday Government forces "ferociously attacked" Kwangshan, Communist-held highway center in southeastern Honan province. A Government spokesman denied the charge and reported that Federal forces everywhere had halted military operations at the Sunday midnight deadline, "except where they were forced to fight in self-defense."

Submits New Program

A few hours earlier the Communist party demanded reorganization of national and provincial governments and nationalization of the armed forces in a sweeping program submitted to the political consultation conference through Tung Pi-wu, its elder statesman.

The main proposals were:

1. That Kuomintang (Chiang Kai-shek's Nationalist) party membership in the projected reorganized state council should be limited to one third of the number of seats.

2. That coalition governments, representing all parties, should be established in different provinces.

3. That the National Military Council and its subordinate bureaus should be reorganized to enable participation of all parties, with a view of achieving unification of military command and nationalization of the armed forces.

Tung States Aims

Tung advocated permanent cooperation of all political parties, settlement of all domestic disputes by peaceful means, realiaztion of Sun Yat-sen's three principles and a united China under leadership of Chiang.

He said the bill of rights should include freedom to strike and freedom to demonstrate and parade.

He proposed the immediate release of all political prisoners except traitors, a drastic decrease in the numerical strength of the armed forces, disbandment of all puppet armies, severe punishment of Japanese war criminals, immediate discontinuance of conscription, abolition of all unnecessary taxes, stabilization of currency, a general reduction of rent by 25 per cent, development of economic and cultural relations with other countries, protection of legal interests of foreign residents in China, and protection of Chinese interests overseas.

Many of Tung's demands were promised last week by Chiang as he opened the conference.

Tung urged that a time limit be set for disarmament and repatriation of Japanese troops in China and said Allied forces should withdraw immediately upon completion of their mission.

The Communist New China Daily News reported that fighting continued in Kwangshan after the Sunday deadline and there were other indications that skirmishes still were in progress at several points.

The Government spokesman who repudiated the Communist charge of an attack on Kwangshan said Federal troops had moved into that place before the deadline.

Peace Effort Claimed

He further said that in some instances, although provoked, Government troops retired to avoid an engagement. He cited as an example Loshan, near Kwangshan, where he said Government soldiers suffered "heavy casualties" in a Communist attack.

He also charged that Communists were attacking at several points in Shansi province, were assailing Government positions on the Tsing-Tao-Tsinan railroad in Shantung province, and were continuing to burn villages and destroy tracks on the eastern section of the Lunghai railroad in northern Kiangsu.

Chinese Reds Urge Curb on Chiang's Role

Would Make State Council Supreme; Both Factions Charge Truce Violations

CHUNGKING, Jan. 15 (AP). — A plan for curtailing drastically the powers of China's President, now Generalissimo Chiang Kai-shek, was laid before the Political Consultation Conference today by Tung Pi-wu, elder statesman of Chinese Communism.

Tung presented the Communist reply to the Nationalist delegation's program for reorganizing a peace-time government as both sides renewed charges of violating the truce.

Chou En-lai, the Communist truce negotiator, also met with General George C. Marshall, American special envoy. It was reported he had protested against the alleged violations, which a government spokesman denied had occurred.

Tung proposed to the Unity Conference that all orders of the president, emergency or otherwise — be subject to the approval of the reorganized State Council.

The government plan provides that the council, now largely advisory, be reorganized to represent all parties, be the supreme policy-making body of the nation and be empowered to override the President by a two-thirds vote.

[Tung did not say what size vote would be needed to over-rule the President, but his plan to make all orders subject to review went much farther than the government plan.]

Tung also asserted that the Kuomintang (Nationalist party) should have no more than one-third of the members of the council.

He made these other main proposals:

1. Coalition governments representing all parties should be established in various provinces.

2. The National Military Council should be broadened to include all other parties as a step toward nationalization of the armed forces.

3. The organic law of the National Assembly, scheduled to meet May 5 to draft a new constitution, should be revised, presumably to allow election of new delegates. The Communists charge that the Kuomintang has packed the present delegation.

Tung advocated permanent cooperation of all political parties, settlement of all domestic disputes by peaceful means, realization of Sun Yat-sen' three principles, and a united China under the leadership of Chiang.

[Sun Yat-sen, known as the "Father of the Chinese Republic," adopted in 1893 what he termed the three fundamental principles —nationalism, democracy and socialism. He died in 1925.]

Tung said the bill of rights should include freedom to strike and freedom to demonstrate and parade.

He propoed the immediate release of all political prisoners except traitors, a drastic decrease in the numerical strength of the armed forces, disbandment of all puppet armies, severe punishment of Japanese war criminals, immediate discontinuance of conscription, abolition of all unnecessary taxes, stabilization of currency, a general reduction of rent by 25 per cent, development of economic and cultural relations with other countries, protection of legal interests of foreign residents in China and protection of Chinese interests overseas.

Many of Tung's demands were promised last week by Chiang as he opened the conference.

Tung urged that a time limit be set for disarmament and repatriation of Japanese troops in China, and said Allied forces should withdraw immediately upon completion of their mission.

The conference appointed committees to study the government reorganization plan, military affairs, the National Assembly and a common political program, then adjourned until tomorrow.

Chou's move followed a Communist charge that on Monday government forces "ferociously attacked" Kwangshan, Communist-held highway center in southeastern Honan Province. A government spokesman denied the charge and reported that federal forces everywhere had halted military operations at the Sunday midnight deadline, "except where they were forced to fight in self-defense."

The Communist "New China Daily" reported that fighting continued in Kwangshan after the Sunday deadline, and there were other indications that skirmishes still were in progress at several points.

PLENTY OF BRASS IN CHINA AREA

Shanghai, Jan. 15 (A. P.).—The Army newspaper Stars and Stripes said today:

"Washington's Pentagon Building has no corner on brass. China Theater Headquarters (in Shanghai) has one general for each private—six of each."

The newspaper added that headquarters has sixty-nine colonels, or more than the number of technical sergeants; sixty-three lieutenant-colonels, seventy-five majors, 110 captains, 145 first lieutenants and eighty-seven second lieutenants.

Patterson Sees Shanghai G. I.s On Discharges

Will Consider Protests; Korea Men Hear Sailing Dates for All Will Be Set

SHANGHAI, Jan. 15 (AP).—Robert P. Patterson, Secretary of War, conferred today for an hour with a twelve-man soldier delegation, and promised to give official consideration to their complaints against the "slow-down in demobilization and inadequacies in the point system for Army discharges."

Soldiers in an open letter to Patterson suggested a twelve-month limit on overseas service. The letter said, "It is our belief that the policy of obliging men to remain overseas for purposes of training foreign armies does not have the cognizance or support of the American people."

Patterson was told by the delegation that 8,000 to 10,000 American troops in this theater have been inactive for three months.

U.S.-Born Man In Truce Unit

Yenan, Jan. 15 (AP)—An American-born physician who has traveled 30,000 miles afoot and by horseback and has visited some 300,000 patients is a member of the Chinese Communist truce commission staff.

He is Dr. Ma Hai-teh, 35, a native of Buffalo, N.Y., who came to the Communist section of China in 1936 —the first foreign doctor to work among the party.

Dr. Ma isn't his American name. He said he prefers to use the Chinese name because the Kuomintang (National) party might make it difficult for him to carry out his avowed intention of spending the rest of his life in China.

He has gone to Peiping to act as medical adviser to the truce commission.

Easing Of Purge Order Sought By Japan

Tokyo, Jan. 15 (AP)—Chuzo Mitsuchi, Japan's new Home Minister, said today he intended to ask for modification of General MacArthur's political purge order, then went to the palace and reported to Emperor Hirohito on the order.

Mitsuchi, key Minister in Premier Shidehara's reorganized Cabinet, said he would suggest modification of the directive to "make it more applicable to the situation." He said it disqualified some members of the Diet "who were actually opposed to war," while "failing to touch a lot of groups responsible for war propaganda."

Cabinet Holds Meeting

He declined to discuss his report to the throne. It followed by a few hours the first meeting of the reorganized Cabinet and presumably covered the Ministers' discussion of the Government's major immediate problems.

Mitsuchi said it had not been determined how many officials might be dropped from office as a result of MacArthur's purge order, but "if applied broadly, it will affect a large number."

30,24-309

To Change All Governors

A few hours earlier, he said he intended to change Japan's 47 prefectural governors "as early as possible."

The status of the governors was one of several basic problems before the reorganized Cabinet as Premier Shidehara, recovered from his twenty-day illness, attended its first full meeting today.

General MacArthur's January 4 directives ordered the Government purged of leading officials of local branches of Japan's wartime Imperial Rule Assistance Association and similar totalitarian parties. Prefectural governors served as chiefs of local branches of the association.

"Early As Possible"

The newspaper Asahi said the Government, anxious to avoid reshuffling all local governments, had originally decided that the directives applied only to local chief secretaries of the association.

Mitsuchi, however, said "I wouldn't interpret the directive only to suit our convenience," and "I plan to carry out a reshuffle of the prefectual governors as early as possible."

Asahi noted that if Mitsuchi's views prevail the majority of the governors will be dismissed. The governor of metropolitan Tokyo, Hisatada Hirose has already resigned.

Governors To Be Elected

Prefectural governors have been appointed by the Home Minister and were responsible to the central government for their regimes, which they conducted with the aid of elected assemblies. Henceforth governors will be elected, Mitsuchi said.

The Cabinet also confronted the problem of deciding the fate of literally hundreds of other government employés possibly embraced by the MacArthur directives.

Other Cabinet Tasks

In addition to food, transportation, coal and other pressing problems, Shidehara's interim government also faced this unfinished business:

Final preparations for a national election after March 15; completion of a plan to eliminate military pensions; completion of whatever social security program it intends to present to the Allied command for approval; constitutional reform; reform of the House of Peers; the annual budget, and war-profit taxes.

This is the program with which Shidehara—an old man who says he wants to return to his library in peace—came back today to wrestle.

RIGHTISTS FORM FRONT IN JAPAN

JAN 16 1946

TOKYO, Jan. 15—(AP) Fourteen Japanese Rightist parties were reported today to have formed a "common front," as Communists stepped up their efforts to achieve a "United People's Front" among Leftist political groups.

Kyodo news agency said the Rightists had adopted a platform for "revision of the emperor system and democratization of Japan's economic and financial world." It called the move a challenge to the proposed Leftist front urged by the Communists.

Tokyo newspapers reported that the Communists, in their drive for a United Left, had retreated from their earlier insistence on elimination of the emperor system.

While battle lines for the forthcoming parliamentary election thus began to take shape, Japan's new home minister, Chuzo Mitsuchi, said he intended to ask for modification of General MacArthur's political purge directive. He then went to the palace to report to Emperor Hironito on the house-cleaning order.

Earlier in the day the home ministers announced he planned to change Japan's 47 prefectural governors "as soon as possible."

The status of these governors was one of several problems before the reshuffled cabinet as Premier Shidehara, recovered from a 20-day illness, presided at its first full meeting today.

"Little Glass Eye" An Example

Sugamo's lesser prisoners, Otaki said, base their hopes on the fact that Tatsuo Tsuchiya, a former prison-camp guard known as "Little Glass Eye," was given life imprisonment instead of the gallows for beating to death an American soldier, Pfc. Robert Gordon Teas.

Otaki said the prisoners calculate that if Tsuchiya escaped the gallows "those who only beat and did not kill will perhaps get only five years."

Otaki was released after an investigation failed to substantiate charges against him.

He told Japanese newsmen that before Lieut. Gen. Masaharu Homma was sent to Manila for trial he told other prisoners: "I don't care what happens to me if I can become a sacrifice for a new Japan."

Otaki cited that as "a typical example."

He said he frequently saw former Premier Hideki Tojo "walking spiritlessly, facing the ground. I saw him once reading the Manoshu, a book of ancient poems."

Matsuzaka's Reaction

He quoted Hiromasa Matsuzaka, former Minister of Justice who was in office when Sugamo Prison was built: "If I knew I should be in this prison I should have built it better."

Regarding prison life, Otak said that when the military police unlock cell doors at 6 o'clock the morning, they shout:

"Hey, Tojo, get up."

ditional information about the balloons, said the record flight was made in January, 1945 — across the ocean in 1.38 days. It was recorded in Tokyo by radio signaling equipment carried by the balloon.

The slowest trip required 3.09 days and was made in November, 1944. Atmospheric conditions caused the time differences.

Prison Guard To Be Tried

Tokyo, Jan. 15 (AP)—A Japanese prison guard whom Americans called "the Emperor," accused of the torture killing of Private E. L. Tyler, of Glen Easton, W.Va., and of a second prisoner known only as "Johnston," will be tried as a war criminal, Allied headquarters announced today.

He is Tsunesuke Tsuda, a civilian guard, accused of beating 48 American prisoners. Listed among his victims were Pfc. Charles F. Tramposch, of Omaha, Neb.; Private Joseph Dell Amalva, Jersey City, N.J., and Boatswain Mate Ralph J. Crocker, Spartansburg, S.C.

Work Of Army Unit In Japan Described

Tokyo, Jan. 15 (AP)—The Far Eastern Commission today was given a description of the operations, functions and other activities of the Allied command's civil intelligence section.

High-ranking officers told the commission that the section monitors all Japanese radio broadcasters from Radio Tokyo, supervises Japanese postal and telegraph communications and press operations and watches over the Japanese police, fire and prison systems.

Col. Crawford H. Sams, chief of the public health and welfare section, said most of the better-known diseases increased gradually among Japanese during the war but had declined since the occupation. He said he is trying to get Japanese firms to produce medical supplies at prewar levels.

Japan Cannot Build New Ships

Tokyo, Jan. 15 (AP)—General MacArthur today denied the Japanese Government permission to construct 65 new steel ships.

Japs Hurt In Ginza Brawl

Tokyo, Jan. 15 (AP)—One Japanese was slightly injured and half a dozen others were struck in fist-fighting which climaxed a parade by 2,000 Chinese in the crowded Ginza mercantile section today. The cause was not reported.

Jap-Camp Freezing Deaths Revealed

Yokohama, Jan. 15 (AP)—Testimony of eight British soldiers that two of their men died "horrible deaths from gangrenous, frozen legs, suffered in a guardhouse," was introduced today in the war-crimes trial of Capt. Kaichi Hirate, accused of responsibility for at least four deaths in Muroran prison camp near Hakodate, Hokkaido.

A long list of affidavits from British prisoners was read. Defense Counsel Maj. Harold Emmons, Jr., of Grosse Point, Mich., succeeded in excluding four other affidavits on the grounds that they were accumulative hearsay.

The affidavits said the British, captured at hot, steaming Singapore, were transported to frigid Hokkaido, where the prisoners lived in quarters "rotten with lice; worked from 6.30 A.M. until 5 P.M., in weather 20 to 30 degrees below zero; ate rotten, stinking food for a long time and some had to walk as long as an hour and a half to reach their work."

They asserted that Pfc. Raymond Shuttle, of Hadleigh, Suffolk, and Sapper Ernest Groves, of Hemsworth, York, died "horrible deaths."

A. J. Ford, of Stoke Park, Ipswich, Suffolk, testified that Shuttle's legs were "frozen stiff" and that when delayed massaging was attempted it was too late. Shuttle died a few hours later.

Balloon Attacks On U.S. Planned In '33 By Japs

JAN 16 1946

Citing 'Little Glass Eye', Japs Hope For Light Terms

Tokyo, Jan. 15 (AP)—Many Japanese awaiting trial for maltreatment of Allied war prisoners now hope for light sentences, Navy Lieut. Norio Otaki said today following his release.

However, "resignation controls the minds of the once important men who now are war-criminal suspects," he added.

Koki Hirota, twice foreign minister, premier in the late 1930's and member of the Cabinet Advisory Council in 1940, surrendered today at Sugamo Prison. Sugamo now holds 408 Japanese and 48 non-Japanese war-criminal suspects.

Tokyo, Jan. 15 (AP)—Japan began, as early as 1933, experimenting on wind-borne balloons to attack the United States, Allied headquarters announced today.

The Japanese planned originally to release the balloons from submarines off the west coast of the American mainland. Headquarters added, but by the time they became practical Japan lacked sufficient seapower to penetrate deep into the eastern Pacific, so homeland launching sites were used.

Headquarters, in a review of additional information about the balloons, said the record flight was made in January, 1945 — across the ocean in 1.38 days. It was recorded in Tokyo by radio signaling equipment carried by the balloon.

The slowest trip required 3.09 days and was made in November, 1944. Atmospheric conditions caused the time differences.

'Wildcat' Yanks Coming Home

Yokohama, Jan. 15 (AP)—The 81st Infantry Division—the "wildcats" who helped win the battle of Bloody Nose Ridge on Peleliu Island—is going home.

Eighth Army headquarters announced today that the division would be inactivated January 20, with its low-point personnel assigned to other units in Japan. The outfit is now at Amori, in northern Honshu. Maj. Gen. Paul J. Mueller is its commander.

The 81st was activated in June, 1942, at Camp Rucker, Ala., and trained in Arizona. Amphibious tactics were taught the "wildcats" at Camp San Luis Obispo, Cal. Camp Beale, at Marysville, Cal., was the division's last stop before it went overseas in the summer of 1944.

The division made its first combat landing on Anguar Island on September 17, 1944, and later joined the Marines in overcoming fierce Japanese resistance on Peleliu. Last May it went to Leyte, in the Philippines, for mopping-up operations.

The 81st was also a World War I outfit. It was the first division to adopt shoulder-patch insignia.

Tokyo Admiral Given Death Sentence

Sydney, Jan. 15 (AP)—Rear Admiral Hamanaka, convicted of ordering the execution of some Australian prisoners and mistreating others, was sentenced today to be shot but an Australian military court recommended mercy for him.

The court accepted Hamanaka's plea that he would not have carried out the executions without orders from a superior authority.

The admiral, who said he studied at an American naval acamedy and was assistant naval attache in Washington and Mexico City, shouted in his defense, "Show me where I'm guilty. Not one of the witnesses has said anything against me."

Second Cleared, Third To Die

Commander Baron Takasaki was acquitted of a similar charge. He was reported to have been the only Japanese member of the European Golf Club in Tokyo.

Captain Kato was convicted of murdering an Australian prisoner near Merauke, Dutch New Guinea, in March of 1945, and was sentenced to be shot.

Heroism Of GI Before Jap Firing Squad Is Told At Trial

J. GROVER

Manila, Jan. 15 (AP)—American Sergt. Isaac Landy died an unsung hero's death when he and nine comrades were executed as a wanton reprisal for the escape of another prisoner of war, an eyewitness testified today at the war-crime trial of Lieut. Gen. Masaharu Homma.

Landy was one of ten Yanks singled out for a "lesson" to 140 Americans who were forced to build bridges at Lumbang, in Laguna province, according to Mayor Moses Paraiso and Police Chief Guadencio Anonuevo, of Lumbang. The ten were lined up and shot by firing squads in a school yard.

Rises To His Feet

The volley failed to kill Landy. Struggling to his feet, the badly-wounded Yank pointed to his heart and defied the Japanese:

"Come on! Come on! Hit me here. Long live America!"

Successive volleys killed Landy. His and the other nine bodies were exhumed last month and reinterred with military honors.

The doctrine of command responsibility, which Homma invoked against ranking officer prisoners of war, returned to haunt him at his trial.

Col. Nemesio Catalan, liberated Filipino, testified that the camp commandant, on orders from Homma, told ranking United States officers they would be held responsible with their lives for conduct of the men if camp rules were violated. It made no difference whether the officers knew of violations.

It is precisely this point which the prosecution seeks to establish, that an officer is responsible for the actions of his men.

As evidence of wholesale brutalities and calculated murders at Camp O'Donnel, the prosecution introduced camp records which showed 27,169 Filipinos died there in the four months between April 13 and August 5, 1942.

Supplies Withheld

Witnesses testified the Japanese deliberately withheld plentiful captured medical supplies from the POW's and weakened them with a starvation diet of 1½ ounces of rice daily.

They said hundreds succumbed daily to beriberi, dysentery, malaria and malnutrition.

American Defied Jap Firing Squad

JAN 16

Manila, Jan. 15 (AP)—This is the story of an unsung sergeant, mortally wounded by a Japanese firing squad, who cried a defiant "long live America" before a second volley killed him.

It was told today at the war-crimes trial of Lieut. Gen. Masaharu Homma because it happened when he was boss of the Philippines after Corregidor fell.

The hero was identified only as Sergt. Isaac Landy. The narrators were the mayor and police chief of Lumbang, a village south of Manila where 140 American prisoners of war were building bridges under prodding bayonets of Japanese guards.

One of the prisoners got away, they related, and Landy and nine others were marched out before a firing squad to teach the rest of the prisoners "a lesson."

The ten were stood up in a school yard, rifles blazed, and all ten fell.

Then the mayor and the police chief said they saw an amazing thing, Landy struggling to his feet, the blood flowing.

"Come on," they said he shouted, indicating his heart, "come on, hit me here. Long live America!"

Manila Soldiers Call Plan Disappointment

Manila, Wednesday, Jan. 16 (AP). Harold Schiffrin, technician (4/g), of Rochester, N.Y., chairman of a nine-man soldiers' committee, today termed General Eisenhower's announcement before Congress on demobilization plans "a big disappointment" to soldiers in the Philippine area.

Schriffrin asserted the discharge dates given by Eisenhower were particularly unsatisfactory because the soldiers in the Philippines "still don't understand why it is necessary to keep so many in a friendly country."

The soldiers' committee will continue to seek revision of demobilization procedure, Schiffrin said. He added it hopes to arrange a meeting Thursday with Robert P. Patterson, Secretary of War, scheduled to arrive in Manila late today.

Applies Strict Point Rule

Honolulu, Jan. 15 (AP)—The mid-Pacific Army Command will "release men strictly according to seniority of points and service as rapidly as ships become available," Gen. Robert C. Richardson said today following receipt from General Eisenhower, chief of staff, detailing procedure.

Steps To Insure Food Taken In Argentina

1946 JAN 16

by STUNTZ

Buenos Aires, Jan. 15 (AP)—The Government took measures today to insure an adequate food supply for the populace as a 72-hour lockout proclaimed by Argentine business men in protest against the labor policies of the military regime moved into its second day.

Following a Ministry of Industry and Commerce announcement that "the Government is taking steps necessary to assure a supply of needed articles to the people," Government agents began swearing out warrants against business men under a wartime law banning speculation.

Arrest In San Luis

None of the warrants was served immediately, however, and the only police action occurred in the provincial capital of San Luis, where the president of the Chamber of Commerce was arrested a few hours after members refused a police request to open the stores. He was later released without charges being made.

Representatives of the business men later issued a statement declaring the closures did not violate any law and asserting that the Government would be overstepping its official powers if it attempted to take any action. They asked the Government to explain extension of the wartime law that the Ministry of Industry and Commerce had said it would invoke.

Milk Delivered

Housewives of Buenos Aires' half-million homes lived on stored food or walked the streets in search of a few small stores which were willing to open and supply new customers. Milk deliveries continued, as did transportation and public services, but food, department and neighborhood stores were closed.

Anti-Government papers said the closure was 95 per cent effective, but pro-Government publications declared the lockout a failure. The fact remained, however, that it was virtually impossible to get a meal in the heart of the capital.

Stale Bread—Or None

Butchers remained open the first day of the lockout in order to sell meat previously purchased. One large bakery remained open to supply hospitals and prisons, but in the remainder of the city only stale bread, or none at all, was available.

Employers, in order to emphasize that their action was directed against the Government decree ordering year-end bonuses and salary increases and not against the workers, generally promised to pay wages for the three days of the closure.

Broad Powers Of Act

The Ministry of Industry and Commerce said the wartime legislation that was being invoked was broad enough to make refusal to sell goods a crime, punishable by fine or imprisonment. The ministry said shop owners would be warned first and that if they then refused to open the Government would take possession.

The Government slaughter house remained open and the Government announced that public markets would remain open all day for vegetables and meat. There are few of these in the capital, however, and none in most provincial cities, where the closure is also in force.

Riot Marks Argentine Lockout

WALLACE

Buenos Aires, Jan. 15 (AP)—The first outbreak of violence in the three-day lockout by Argentina's industry and commerce protesting the Government's labor policies was reported tonight from Mercedes, a small town 60 miles west of Buenos Aires, where several thousand persons attacked a warehouse and a number of stores.

The crowd looted the warehouse and then burned it. Troops stationed near by were called to check the rioting. Among the loot was a large amount of liquor. Seven small stores near the warehouse were sacked.

Some Stores Reopened

Earlier the military government had forced the opening of a number of food stores.

Gen. Filomeno Velazco, chief of the federal police, said 13,000 of Buenos Aires's 36,000 business establishments had been reopened. He said the sale of food was "normal" in the capital and that other business firms would be opened gradually.

However, the second day of the 72-hour lockout was marked by long lines of persons in front of grocery stores and bakery shops, and a majority of the capital's stores remained shuttered.

Follows Government Threat

Opening of the food stores followed a Government threat to take action, under the flexible provisions of the wartime law, against firms which joined the closing.

In reply, the executive board of Argentine business men declared the closure was not infringing any law and asserted that any action against stores and factories would be "overstepping official powers."

The lockout was directed against the Government's decree ordering a year-end bonus to workers equivalent to a month's pay and salary increases, employers' spokesmen said.

Peron Labor Party Nominee

Buenos Aires, Jan. 15 (AP)—Col. Juan Perón, who has been campaigning actively for the presidency of Argentina since he left the Government last October, officially became a candidate today when the Labor party nominated him to head its ticket for the national elections February 24.

Strike Against Six Major Firms.

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

C.I.O. and A.F.L. Packinghouse Workers began a nationwide strike today (Wednesday) at 12:07 a. m. Eastern Standard time, against six major packing firms and some independents, a walkout expected to shut off most of the nation's meat supply.

The strike, effective at 12:01 a. m., local time affected Eastern plants first, an hour ahead of the packing houses in the Mid-West's Central Time zone.

Walkout Called

With last minute negotiations ended in failure, union leaders called upon some 268,000 C.I.O. and A.F.L. packinghouse workers to quit their jobs in support of their demands for a 17 1-2 cent an hour wage increase. The original demand was for a 25 cent an hour pay raise.

Union leaders said the strike call was no prospect of settling the dispute before the strike starts.

A government official, who declined to be named, said he saw little chance of the disputants reaching an agreement before midnight.

Warren told reporters here: That "during the course of the negotiations, the Swift and Company offer was increased to 10 cents an hour (previous offer was 7 1-2 cents). This offer was turned down by both unions."

In response to a question, Warren said the Swift offer "was the highest from the packers we have been dealing with."

Officials of the C.I.O. United Packinghouse Workers announced they were going ahead with plans for a strike of 193,000 at the same time against nine big packers and several independents.

In Washington, President Truman told a news conference there were no plans for seizing the meat industry to avert the strike.

The C.I.O. demand for a 25 cents an hour wage boost, later scaled down to 17 1-2 cents with further negotiations on the remainder, led to the strike threat. The A.F.L. way for settlement of the issue on an industry-wide basis.

Of the total C.I.O. Packinghouse membership of 200,000, about 193,000 were set to strike, the other 9,000 being employes of firms not included in the general strike. The A.F.L. membership was given by a spokesman as 135,000, some 45,000 of whom were scheduled to go out the first day and another 30,000 later if the situation indicates. The remaining 60,000 of A.F.L. membership either were butchers in retail shops or employed by smaller independents not affected by the strike call.

Both unions have called the strike against Armour, Swift, Cudahy, Wilson, Kingan and Morrell packing companies. The C.I.O. also threatened to walkout at Tobin Packing Co., Fort Dodge, Ia.; Rath Packing Co., Waterloo, Ia., Cudahy Brothers Co., Cudahy, Wis., and at some independents. These companies and their branches extend from coast to coast.

The A.F.L. Meat workers are engaged in slaughtering and processing activities and the C.I.O. do herding jobs as well.

MEAT WORKERS BEGIN NATIONWIDE WALKOUT

JAN 16 1946

NATION'S SUPPLY OF MEAT WILL BE CUT BY WALKOUT

Eastern Plants First Affected as Last Minute Negotiations Fail.

REPORT NEW U. S. OFFER

About 193,000 Involved in involved 193,000 members of the C.I.O. Packinghouse Workers of America and 75,000 members of the A.F.L. Amalgamated Meat Cutters and Butcher Workmen's Union.

At Washington, President Truman told a news conference yesterday (Tuesday) there were no plans for seizing the meat industry.

An industry source estimated that the nine big packing companies on the C.I.O. and A.F.L. strike list produce about 60 per cent of the nation's meat.

Eleventh hour negotiations of Federal conciliators, meat packers and union leaders failed last (Tuesday) night. Edgar L. Warren, chief of the Federal Conciliation Service, said the final pre-strike conferences "have not resulted in settlement of the dispute."

Conciliation Fails

From Washington officials in close touch with the negotiations here came word also that they is seeking hourly increases ranging from 15 to 35 cents, a 90 cents an hour minimum and $36 for a 40 hour work week. The packers best offer has been for a 7 1-2 cents hourly boost. This was reported to have been increased to 10 cents today.

New U. S. Offer Reported

There were reports from Washington, meanwhile, that the government had offered additional price relief in an effort to permit packers to make an acceptable offer. The packers previously rejected as "inadequate" a government offer to increase by 50 cents per hundredweight the price of meat it purchased for the armed forces and foreign relief.

Warren, expressed hope an agreement reached by nine smaller packing houses for a 15 cents an hour wage increase might lead the way.

Two large packers, Hormel of Austin, Minn., and Hygrade Food Products Corp., Chicago, have signed wage increases and are not involved in the strike threat.

In its strike call to the membership, the A.F.L. union said offers of the major packers were "grossly inadequate" and "cannot possibly be accepted."

"Our international union is obligated that there shall be no spoilage of perishable products," the telegrams said. "All such perishables must be cared for and the premises as well as the departments must be left in a sanitary condition."

Receipts Reduced

The strike threat was reflected in livestock receipts at the stock yards which were less than 50 per cent of a week ago.

The C.I.O. union said late today in a statement that "responsibility for the strike" was with the packers.

30.24-311

Swift officials, however, declared in a statement that "at no time have government officials suggested a formula of price relief that would be sufficient to offset our offer to the union."

"Our offer was submitted with the full intention of requesting commensurate price relief," the Swift statement said. "So far the relief proposed by government officials is totally inadequate and impractical."

A spokesman for Armour said "the only hope for averting a strike is in Warren's hands."

Armour President George A. Eastwood asserted in a statement that "in view of the union's demand and the further fact that all our employes must be considered and not just those in meat packing plants, the relief contained in the conciliator's offer x x x is so insufficient as to be utterly absurd and we have no choice but to reject it."

Schwellenbach Fails to Avert Meat Walk-Out

Telegraphs Unions Before Midnight, but Strike Is Too Far Gone by Then

CHICAGO, Jan. 15 (AP).—A union spokesman said tonight that Lewis J. Clark, international president of the Congress of Industrial Organizations United Packinghouse Workers of America, shortly before midnight received the following telegram from Secretary of Labor Lewis B. Schwellenbach:

"In acknowledgment that discussions have been proceeding continuously between the unions and the companies in the meat packing industry with a view to reaching a settlement of the outstanding wage issue, the government has refrained from the appointment of a fact-finding panel.

"In view of the critical importance of maintaining a supply of meat both for domestic consumption and to fill our export commitments and in view of the undesirability of halting the movement of livestock to market, a work stoppage in the meat packing industry would be disastrous at this time.

"After consultation with the President of the United States, I invite you to come here (to Washington) Thursday to continue your negotiations and to confer with me, and I urge you meanwhile to postpone the work stoppage in the conviction that a settlement can be reached."

Patrick E. Gorman, secretary-treasurer of the A. F. of L. Amalgamated Meat Cutters and Butcher Workmen, announced also the receipt of a telegram from Secretary Schwellenbach.

Mr. Gorman, in a telegram to Mr. Clark, said "the President of the United States, through Secretary of Labor Schwellenbach, has requested in a telegram which we have just received to postpone the strike in the meat packing industry and that we be in Washington on Thursday, January 17, to continue our negotiations with the packers in the hope of reaching an agreement on the existing wage controversy."

Mr. Gorman's telegram concluded: "While we cannot postpone the strike because of the late arrival of the telegram . . . we feel that when the President, speaking through one of his Cabinet members, makes a direct request upon us, that as loyal Americans we should postpone a continuation of the strike and be in Washington on Thursday as he, the President, desires."

Mr. Gorman told the C. I. O. leader he had not yet replied to Secretary Schwellenbach and asked Mr. Clark to announce his decision not later than 11 a. m. Wednesday.

Eisenhower Reveals New Point Slash

Men with 45 Score or Two and a Half Years Service to Be Out Soon.

DEFENDS PROGRAM

Would Have Run Out of Soldiers if Discharges Not Slowed, He Says.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 15 — (AP) General Dwight D. Eisenhower told Congress today the Army demobilized so fast after V-J day that "we would literally have run out of army" if discharges hadn't been slowed down.

A cross section of the national legislature, which is instituting a committee investigation of why troops are demonstrating and constituents are writing letters, crowded into an auditorium to hear the Army chief of staff give the War department's views.

The reaction of the Senate and House members was mixed. Some thought the explanation satisfactory, providing something to calm what Eisenhower had called "near-hysteria." Others weren't satisfied, thought Congress should try its hand in demobilization.

Facts Cited

With a manuscript and charts, Eisenhower made these salient points in his hour-long talk:

The War department has ordered that by April 30 all enlisted men with 45 points or two and a half years service either be discharged or aboard ship returning home. By June 30, all men with 40 points or two years of service must be out or on the way out. (The present score is 50 points or three and a half years service.)

The Army found it impossible to live up to what Eisenhower said was the "hope" of former Chief of Staff George C. Marshall that two-year men would be out by March 20. "We simply cannot do it," said Eisenhower.

The "causes of confusion" about demobilization are two: "the nation's release from the urgency of war started an emotional wave to get men out of the Army" which has reached the "proportions of near-hysteria." The Army moved with "almost incredible speed" in bringing home men between V-J day and the end of the year, releasing 5,000,000 men or 80 per cent of the Army strength on V-E day.

Foreign commitments, including maintenance of armies of occupation, and the guarding and disposal of equipment (property valued at $7,000,000,000 is in the European theater) now require 622,000 troops in Europe and 865,000 in the Pacific. By July 1 these requirements will be cut to 307,000 in Europe and 375,000 in the Pacific. These figures are "pared down to the bone x x x we can function with no less." The replacement program is dragging.

Demonstrations Hit

In light of this "there will no longer be any useful purpose in such demonstrations as our troops conducted during the past week in various areas of the world. Unfortunately such meetings are always subject to mis-interpretation. No disorders accompanied them. They were occasioned by homesickness."

"In no question involving the GI will I ever appear except as his friend and his advocate, although I may be of the 'brass.'"

Eisenhower's law-making audience listened attentively, then heard the Navy state its case through Admiral Chester W. Nimitz, chief of naval operations, and Vice Admiral Louis E. Denfeld, chief of the bureau of personnel.

The Navy, subject to no where near the heat applied to the Army, presented its record briefly, saying it had promised to release one out of every three men by the end of 1945 and had more than met that schedule.

"At this time, said Denfeld after a brief introductory by Nimitz, "the Navy can foresee nothing that will interfere with the continued speed of its demobilization program."

Congressmen React

The Congress members then slapped on their hats and trooped back across a park to the capitol. Their reaction ran something like this:

Senator Edwin C. Johnson (D-Colo), chairman of the Senate military subcommittee investigating demobilization: "the Navy stole the show. The Navy presentation was not on the defensive."

Senator Revercomb (R-W.Va.), a member of the subcommittee: "There was nothing new in the Army presentation for those who had studied its demobilization plan before. It was a clear statement of the war department position which we are going to look into in detail."

Chairman Vinson (D-Ga.) of the House naval committee: "The speakers did a fine job. Their explanation ought to hush up the critics."

Rep. Rankin (D-Miss.) was "thoroughly convinced that Congress is going to have to take a hand in demobilization." He urged immediate action on his bill to discharge anyone in the armed forces with 18 months service with dependents or who desires to complete his education.

Rep. Miller (R-Neb.) said it is time for Congress to set the size of the Army and "speak out plainly" about demobilization.

Acting Speaker John W. McCormack of Massachusetts: "When men of that type speak, the country has got to listen."

Rep. Bulwinkle (D-NC), addressing the House: "I say to you if you had confidence in General Eisenhower in time of war, pray tell me what he has done to merit your disbelief now."

Rep. Michener (R-Mich): "I commend their statements and hope they will get to the people because many of the complaints and questions from constituents can only be answered by such statements."

Eisenhower said the order to release the two and a half year men by the end of April would mean the release of 2,200,000 by that date.

"It takes," he said in detailing the figure, "500,000 men now in the Pacific, 400,000 in Europe, 400,000 from other areas overseas or already enroute home, 900,000 now on duty in this country."

Stern Warning Given

He gave a stern warning on the risks involved in paring manpower to the bone, saying:

"It certainly will indicate to you that should we fail to obtain the 1,500,000 men we require on July 1, something would hav to break in the tight little net which we have now woven to perform our job in this country and discharge the nation's overseas commitments.

"If we are not relieved of the still huge supplies of government property entrusted to our custody overseas, we shall have no choice but to abandon them where they lie."

(Rep. Case (R-SD) in a House speech commenting on the surplus property phase of the problem, asserted: "Let's hurry up and get rid of it either in exchange for money, services, bases or other rights, so many of these boys now detailed guarding this property can be brought home.")

Eisenhower emphasized that men who do not need replacements when their jobs are done, the surplus men, are being brought home promptly, so far as possible on the basis of point score and length of service.

The replacement situation is causing trouble, he explained. A lag in replacements is due to the "shortage of selective service men and the volunteers" in the last six months of 1945. The Army's induction requirements for the last quarter of last year averaged 50,000 a month, but the total of inducted men for any month was well below that figure. By January 1, the Army's recruiting program had brought in a trifle less than 400,000 men, but 44 per cent of these were short-term enlistments.

Training and other factors contribute to the difficulties, Eisenhower said, adding that men drafted or enlisted between now and next July will not be available for replacement use in time to solve the problem.

General Explains

The general sought to dispel what he termed "confusion" about the peacetime military establishment. The 1,500,000-man army foreseen for next July has no connection with that establishment, he said. Its duty is to do the "job now in hand."

The 8,300,000-man army that fought the war, "the finest military organization the world has ever seen," no longer exists, the general said.

"What we have today is the remnant of that combat army in a state of reorganization and reduction to an interim army assigned an entirely different mission or task," Eisenhower asserted. "It is still a World War II task."

The chief of staff said the War department would recommend the immediate termination of the draft "as soon as it is assured of a steady flow of replacements adequate to maintain the size of force required to perform the tasks assigned to us."

JAN 16 1946

OCCUPYING TROOPS ARE LIKE FIREMEN

Washington, Jan. 15 (A. P.). —Gen. Eisenhower today likened the Army's occupation forces to firemen. Talking to Congress about demobilization he said:

"You see firemen playing checkers some times, but that doesn't mean you fire them and send them home. They may be vitally needed a few minutes later.

It's the same way with our occupation forces. We must maintain them at a safe level, because we may need them, even though we don't have full work for all of them all the time."

Statement to Congress

Gen. Eisenhower's

WASHINGTON, Jan. 15—Following is the prepared text of General Eisenhower's statement on demobilization before a special meeting of members of Congress:

I have come here this morning because a very human desire to get soldiers home in a hurry has clashed with the Army's manpower needs to do the job which has been assigned to us by the Government.

It is a big job. Even with the fighting over it takes a great many men to carry out our mission. Overseas requirements in manpower for the long-term occupation job and for the temporary, but still unfinished, business of winding up the affairs of our great war establishment in both Europe and the Pacific are matters of cold, hard fact.

They cannot be obscured by emotion and near hysteria. Evidently, the relation of demobilization to these tasks which remain to be done is understood only partially by some and not understood at all by others. I believe the thing needed now is the fullest clarification.

There is no mystery in demobilization. There are no hidden ball plays. Long before our victory in Europe General Marshall approved a master plan which has served and still serves as the basis of establishing priority of men for discharge. In any job as big as this one there are bound to be modifications made in the light of experience. But I assure you that I have made and intend to make no changes in the basic plan. The plan was simply this:

To discharge men as quickly as possible and to the limit of available shipping with priority on those with the longest and hardest service—that is, with the most points. These criteria were to govern until we reached the point where minimum personnel requirements to do the jobs in hand were threatened by the rate of discharge. We have been in the business of discharging veterans from the Army under the point system for eight months, with the system at full blast for the past four months since V-J Day. Men have been discharged so fast that the five millionth passed through one of the separation centers last week.

We used shipping to the utmost and secured the complete cooperation of the Navy in our zeal to get every man and woman back from overseas who could be spared. There is no longer any shortage of transports, and the shipping people assure me they will have vessels where and when we need them to bring troops home. The fact is that we worked so fast that about ten days ago we had to slow the pace so that the work of our forces in Europe and the Pacific would not suffer too much from lack of manpower. The announcement of that slowdown was what touched off the fireworks.

If there has been any confusion in the minds of the soldiers overseas or their families at home, I propose to clear it up now.

Causes of Confusion

Primarily, two underlying causes are responsible for the present confusion, which for a time has quite evidently exceeded the power of any information program to control. The first is that the nation's release from the urgency of war started an emotional wave to get men out of the Army. This is wholly understandable. It was to be expected. But I am frank to say that I had never anticipated this emotional wave would reach proportions of near-hysteria.

I am confident that members of the Congress are as anxious as I that straight thinking be substituted for emotion in this matter which strikes close to the firesides of several million families. The second cause of our present discontent rises, I believe, from the almost incredible speed with which the War Department moved in bringing men home from V-J Day to the close of the year.

Including discharged men and women who were already in this country, more than 5,000,000 members of our V-E Day Army, 80 per cent of them veterans of foreign service, have now returned to civilian life. While the vast majority of the combat men are home, there still remain some who have not been returned. These men are our greatest concern, and every effort will be made to return them as soon as possible.

All sorts of emergency measures were devised by the War Department to step up the speed of its demobilization processes. Performance has far exceeded the most optimistic schedules announced by our planners at the time Japan surrendered.

War Department Estimates and Performance

Between the close of hostilities in Germany and the collapse of Japan, we had discharged just under 600,000. When General Marshall addressed a joint meeting of the Congress last September he told you that estimates then called for the release in September of 450,000; in October of 550,000, and during each month thereafter of between 700,000 and 800,000.

But compare performance with prediction! In September, instead of 450,000, the number actually released was 597,000; in October, we more than doubled our estimate, releasing 1,270,000 instead of the 550,000 predicted. In November, instead of between 700,000 and 800,000 we discharged 1,186,000; in December, the number was 1,112,000. So that, with the estimates for those months fixed at about 2,5000,000, we actually exceeded our prediction by 1,665,000.

This means that 1,665,000 men and women who had no expectation, in September, of coming home so soon, were already reunited with their families by the close of the year. That is the extent to which the War Department has exceeded any so-called commitment to the men.

The very stepping up of these returning shipments undoubtedly helped to create confusion by stimulating optimism among service men and their families. But in addition, during this same period a great many misleading statements were made by individuals, some of whom were in the Army itself, that served to cloud the issue.

All this time, which was long before I came to Washington, the War Department was doing a job which I believe must be considered as one of its greatest achievements. Certainly, there has never been such a planned movement of men over great distances in the history of any nation. Yet, in the face of this unprecedented performance, criticisms based largely on individual cases were deliberately confusing matters further. The presence of a high-point man still in service at some one station, because of some special need at that station, came to be interpreted, loudly, as a failure of the entire demobilization program.

We must admit that there have been irregularities caused by the immensity of the problem, by the fact that the Army has been spread all over the world and that we could not have a perfectly uniform application of the point score system. Discovery of the fact that a man had been released as surplus with fewer than the critical number of points raised cries of injustice.

While these criticisms were being aired ships poured the combat veterans of long service into home ports in schedule-breaking numbers. The War Department and overseas commanders made every effort to get as many men home for Christmas with their families as was humanly possible.

The Incompatibles

But in this spectacular success of demobilization between V-J Day and the first of the year the Army was rapidly approaching the foreseen juncture of two incompatibles: the speed of demobilization and our duties at home and overseas—the occupation mission delegated to us by higher authority and the protection and disposal of millions of tons of Government property throughout the world representing billions of dollars of American taxpayers' money.

When General Marshall spoke to you last September the War Department planners estimated that the point of definite interference between these objectives would be reached some time in the coming spring. The simple fact is that the speed-up in demobilization during the fall and early winter advanced that situation to the present. That is the crux of the whole matter.

If we were to continue shipping men home at the rate we reached during the past few months, about April we would have nothing left but a woefully inadequate number of volunteers—we would literally have "run out of Army." That is the reason for the slowdown. There is no change in policy—there is no change in plan. We have merely reached a point in the pursuance of our plans and policies which we knew we must face when the time came. That time is now.

We took all possible steps to meet inescapable needs without slowing the pace of demobilization. We pressed the recruiting campaign to the utmost in order to bring volunteers into the Army who could take the place of those overseas. We urged that positive steps be taken to provide us our full quotas of 50,000 men monthly through the Selective Service system.

We required all theatre commanders overseas to institute the most searching drive to cut down their estimates in manpower needed for occupation duties, for supply and for the extensive personnel required to close up overseas depots, ports, warehouses, bases. We had also to cooperate with the designated disposal agencies in disposing of Government property as expeditiously as possible while still taking all necessary precautions to protect it. Similar instructions were issued to all commanders at home.

Pursuant to the instructions, both General MacArthur in the Pacific and General McNarney in Europe have made extensive economies. The training of recruits in this country was recently cut from seventeen to thirteen weeks so that these men would be available sooner for overseas. We have taken every measure we could think of, and by no system of mathematics or slide rule magic is it possible to make the flow of available replacements equal all the men we should like to bring home now but who must be replaced if we are to do our job.

Now, understand this—the men who do not need replacement when their jobs are finished will come home immediately. So far as possible this will be in the order of their point scores and length of service. These will be the "surplus" men—the men "available for discharge." But if we are not to disintegrate our occupation forces certain men must be kept until trained replacements are available or their job finished.

Now, whenever there are individual exceptions to a general rule, bitterness is sure to arise—especially in the hearts of homesick boys. I realize that fully and it is absolutely essential that the immediate commanding officer of every man so affected realizes it also. He must personally explain to him how he fits into the big picture and what his duty is.

Surely, where remaining on foreign duty for one, two, or three months longer—that is the most involved here—makes the difference between our Army's doing its job or failing to do its job—I believe I know the American soldier well enough to be certain what he will do—if he understands the need. He will stick here and do a good job—and gripe!

Lag in Replacement System

One thing right here on this matter of replacements which I believe is generally misunderstood is why, if we recruit 5,000 men today, we cannot release 5,000 men from the Army tomorrow or next week or next month. The answer is quite simple when you analyze the problem. So far as essential jobs in the theatre are concerned, the recruits become available, not when they enlist but only when they arrive overseas, trained to take over their assignments. If an 18-year-old enlists or is inducted through selective service in this country, he goes off to a camp for three months to learn the rudiments of being a soldier.

If a trained man already in the Army chooses to volunteer for regular enlistment, he is entitled to a furlough in the United States which will make him useless as a replacement until he returns. Any way you work it, there is bound to be a lag of three to six months in this replacement business. It cannot be avoided. The men who enlist or are drafted between now and next July will not be available in time to solve the immediate problem before us, even if there were enough of them. They are the effective replacements for men to be discharged three to six months from now.

The lack of replacements facing the Army now is due to the shortage of selective service men and the volunteers of the last six months in 1945. Because they did not come in fast enough we must slow down our discharge rate now.

Our Job Overseas

The people at home must understand this too. Acceptance of the need for keeping large numbers of men overseas at the present time lies, I believe, in an understanding of all the necessary tasks they must perform. I was a theatre commander myself, you will remember, until I was brought back here.

I am thoroughly familiar with the problems which General McNarney, the present theatre commander, faces in Germany. From my personal knowledge of conditions in Europe it is easy to project in my mind the comparable—and in a geographical sense—far more difficult problems which General MacArthur faces in the Pacific.

Europe

Perhaps we sometimes speak in too general terms of what our troops are doing in Europe, obscuring the manifold tasks to which men are assigned. We speak of "commitments" and "obligations." Let me translate such words into a picture of their meaning as an army of occupation goes about the daily task of policing an enemy country and disposing of the prodigious stores assembled to fight the war.

Start with our primary and continuing mission of occupation duties. Troops assigned to this work supervise the German and Austrian Governments. It is a complex job. We are going through the throes of reconversion in this country. No one is more familiar than you gentlemen with the problems and the difficulties encountered even in this peaceful land.

Germany and Austria are going through reconversion, too. In our zones in those two unhappy countries the Army is responsible for supervising all the headaches of a changeover from war to peace, with the added directive that we must make certain these people are so disarmed, both economically and in a military sense, that they cannot make war again. Reconversion measures in those two countries are enormously complicated by devastation. Normal facilities of living have been destroyed in all the cities and there is scarcity of even the barest essentials in consumer goods which Americans expect to find in any corner store.

It requires a great many men to supervise the local governments in our zone in Germany and Austria with a civilian population of over 15,000,000. However much you may delegate local work to Germans, you still have the responsibility for policing these people, their industry, trade and commerce, food and agriculture, education, finance, telephone and telegraph and transportation.

On Jan. 1 there were 622,000 American soldiers assigned to the European theatre. General McNarney estimates that this number will be cut to 400,000 by April 1 and to 307,000 by the first of July. In the Mediterranean theatre on Jan. 1 we had 51,000 American troops, a number which will be gradually reduced to 28,000 by July. The sum of the July figures for both European and Mediterranean theatres—335,000—is the total number of American troops who will remain stationed in those areas at the end of the first half of 1946.

Let me tell you in some detail what our men are doing in Germany and Austria. Demilitarization of Germany, for example, means demolition of her fortifications and other installations, including industrial plants selected for destruction under our economic program. Approximately 3,000 enemy military installations will be destroyed under the supervision of American soldiers in Germany.

The total area of our zone is about 60,000 square miles and contains fifty-five major centers of population and much rural territory. We have turned over the job of maintaining law and order to local police forces, but they have to be supervised and reinforced by a mechanized constabulary force of American soldiers. Two thousand miles of international or interzonal boundaries must be patrolled. If this is not done effectively thousands of refugees from other sections of Europe infiltrate into our zone, adding to our burden of feeding, housing and extending medical care to these victims of war. Military stores, telephone exchanges, electrical plants, road and railroad bridges and other points which might be targets of enemy sabotage must be guarded.

Then there is the extensive intelligence and counter-intelligence work required to carry out the work of denazification and pacification. This includes a constant watch for subversive activities, evaluation and processing of Nazi documents, supervision of civilian censorship, and the conduct of counter-intelligence which alone is expected to result in the arrest of an over-all total of 500,000 persons. Unquestionably, many prominent Nazis are still at large because of a shortage of trained counter-intelligence personnel.

I must remind you that we are operating in an enemy country where the most constant surveillance must be maintained over the civilian population to make certain that no elements are allowed to develop organized opposition. In addition to this, serious crime, minor thievery and pilferage are a constant concern of our military police. Post exchanges, railroad trains and supply depots are frequent targets and vehicles are stolen. In most cases the thieves are quickly taken, but happenings of this sort are so frequent that we can never relax our alertness.

Discipline in this respect has a wider significance than the simple protection of the lives of American soldiers and of Government stores. Our example in maintaining law and order throughout the conquered countries will have the most far-reaching effect in hastening the pacification of the German people. If, through curtailment of manpower, lawlessness and contempt for the American brand of justice should be permitted to develop, it would not only hurt our progress in Germany but would weaken our prestige throughout Europe. Quickly, our commanders and forces would be in an impossible position.

In addition to these operations, recruits from this country, who have already had their basic training as soldiers, must be further trained in occupation duties after arrival. This means that experienced men from the occupation force must be detailed to instruct them—another drain on the over-all manpower assigned to this work.

These duties have taken no account of the men who must be assigned to the procurement, storage and distribution of supplies. Besides the normal function of suplying the military forces, General McNarney's theatre has the responsibility of providing for such agencies as United Nations Relief and Rehabilitation Administration and the Foreign Liquidation Commission. The problem is complicated by the limited amount of rail transportation.

Although civilians are employed as much as possible, there are limits to the effectiveness of their use. In order to reduce stealing in a land where goods are very scarce, civilians are usually worked in depot areas where they can be closely supervised. To give you an idea of the economies in military manpower obtained by the use of civilian labor, the theatre engineer employs 59 per cent German prisoners of war, 20 per cent German civilians and only 21 per cent American soldiers.

The task of providing communications throughout the United States zone was greatly hampered by the damaged and chaotic condition in which the established lines of communication were found when we took over. These facilities must provide not only for the occupational forces but for the minimum needs of the civilian population. Considerable construction of bridges and, to a lesser extent, of highways and waterways is necessary.

Civilian labor under military supervision is utilized in construction, but because of the technical nature of the work, our own Signal Corps troops are required to perform maintenance on signal communication facilities. German civilians are operating such ground transport as exists, under our Army's supervision. The system of air transport must be operated entirely by our troops.

Government Property Disposal

Of considerable importance is the disposal of United States property remaining in the theatre, as well as the storage and orderly destruction of captured enemy material. The size of this latter part of the task is indicated by the fact that 100 depots and dumps are in operation for storage of material captured from the enemy. One such depot alone contains over 400,000 tons of ammunition.

At the present time United States property valued at more than $7,000,000,000 is being stored, guarded and maintained by troops in the European theatre. A great deal of effort has gone into the roll-up and concentration of this property, but there still remains a vast amount to be done.

Regardless of whether this property is stored for the use of our occupation forces, returned to the United States for current and future needs of the Army, in process of being declared surplus, or already declared surplus but not disposed of by the disposal agencies, the Army has the complete responsibility for care, maintenance, protection, delivery and fiscal accounting for such property.

These responsibilities also apply to captured enemy property. All of these vast stores require a large force of men not only to inventory, pack and supervise their disposal but to guard them. This is property belonging to the United States Government, its care entrusted to the Army. Some of it is machinery or instruments requiring special maintenance for protection from deterioration.

That is a very brief and a very rough summary of the present duties of troops engaged on the strictly military duties incident to occupation. This work now requires the assignment of some 298,000 American troops. General McNarney's estimate is that by next July 1 their number may be cut to 171,000, of which 98,000 will be performing the duties of supervising the German Government and population and 73,000 will be performing the direct supply requirements of this force. The figure includes the considerable number who carry on constant occupational negotiations with British, Russian and French members of Allied control councils.

Supervision of Enemy Personnel

Another of our duties is the guarding, screening, supervision, administration and eventual release of enemy personnel held by United States forces. In addition to persons in this category already in the theatre, a large number of enemy prisoners of war are being returned from the United States to Germany. General McNarney estimates that 735,000 will be under detention in the United States zone in May, 1946. We are now operating about 150 camps, enclosures and hospitals for various classes of enemy personnel.

The care of displaced persons has been an enormous problem from the time of our entry into Germany. The repatriation of millions of these individuals has already been carried out with sympathy and high regard for the humanitarian nature of the problem involved. Estimates are that some 462,622 displaced persons still remained in our zone in Germany on the first of January and that this number might be cut to 200,000 by June.

We are now operating 365 installations for these tragic victims of Nazi brutality. But despite our sympathy for them they do add tremendously to our responsibility for police security, housing and medical care. In the United States zone in Austria there were on Jan. 1 an additional 150,000 displaced persons housed in eighty-six camps. Their number is expected to decrease to 109,000 by June 1 with UNRRA and the Austrian Central Government administering many camps.

Numbers of our troops are also engaged in the emergency program of providing supplies in Germany and Austria to minimize starvation, disease and disorder among the civilian population. In Austria we are also helping to sustain vital economic projects on a minimum scale. Before the winter is over the distribution of emergency food supplies will undoubtedly become necessary.

At the present time some 50,000 of our men are directly concerned in control and direction of prisoners of war and displaced persons. By July 1, 1946, their number will have been reduced by half—to 25,000.

Some 111,000 service troops are now assigned to the European theatre to take care of the needs of the occupation force and troops engaged in winding up our surplus property installations. They included medical department personnel—doctors, nurses, technicians—Signal Corps, ordnance and engineer troops. These men staff the camps, run the railroads and truck routes, man the hospitals and lines of communications, see that roads are kept repaired, run the exchanges, the Army postal service and furnish all the customary services which must be provided to men in the field.

Our troops are scattered over a wide area. Lack of the usual civilian facilities has placed unusual burdens on the service units. These service units must also carry on a limited amount of construction and considerable maintenance work. This includes airfields, laundries, American Red Cross installations for the recreation of the troops, winterized billets and hospitals. Maintenance is constantly necessary in all the ports. Prisoners of war and local civilian labor are largely used in this work under our military supervision, but the problems are so extensive that thousands of Americans are required for these jobs.

Last in this category I mention the Graves Registration Service which involves the location, identification, concentration, care and disposition of the remains of our heroic dead. There are still many unlocated graves and bodies to be moved to established military cemeteries. We have thirty-seven United States cemeteries requiring administration of records, supervision of construction, reburials and the general upkeep of graves. According to present plans, the graves registration project will be completed by May, 1946.

At present, as I have said, some 111,000 troops are assigned to these various service missions. By July 1, 1946, General McNarney expects to have cut this total to 61,000.

There is a final manpower category for the theatre consisting of men temporarily unavailable for duty which the Army calls "ineffectives," for want of a better word. This lumps together individuals who may be charged against the theatre roster but are actually not, for one reason or another, performing any part of its duties.

In this category are troops who are being moved in order to be discharged or to replace those troops; men on sick leave, pass and recreation; men in schools, in confinement or in transit to station; men absent from the theatre on rest, recuperation and rehabilitation; men on furlough in the United States after reenlisting in the theatre. The total number of these individuals on Jan. 1 was about 163,000. This number will be cut to 50,000 by July 1.

I have gone into this description in some detail because I wanted to show you how ramified are the duties on which our troops must engage to carry out their mission overseas. And I wanted to put some flesh on the bones of those two words "commitments" and "obligations." They are something more than high-sounding generalities.

I can assure you that they are very real to the men in Europe and to their commander who is responsible for discharging them.

Within the broad categories I have indicated I believe you may imagine the thousands of daily tasks which must be performed by thousands of men. I know, and you know, that many of them are homesick men.

But there is a job to be finished. Although our Allies are carrying a heavy load, Americans have assumed the definite commitment and the responsibility of carrying out their own share. To the Army has been delegated the principal job in performing this work. The work cannot be done without men. Remember, this is your Army—not the War Department's Army and not the generals' Army.

It belongs to the country—to the Congress and the people.

It carries out their wishes and their orders.

Pacific

Let's turn now to the Pacific, where similar heavy responsibilities are being carried out by troops under command of General MacArthur.

In addition to occupation duties, closing up supply bases, ports, dumps, etc., and the disposal of great stores of property assembled for the invasion of Japan, this theatre has an additional duty in occupying bases which our troops seized in the island campaigns during the advance toward the home islands. The build-up of supply, concentrated in Hawaii and in the Philippines, was well along when the Japs gave up.

As a matter of fact our tonnage of supplies in the Philippines actually increased after the close of hostilities in the Pacific, due to the great number of ships nearing port and our uncertainty at that time of what our needs would be when we landed in Japan. While the majority of these ships were coming from the United States, many others of them carried supplies redeployed from Europe and other inactive theatres to support the invasion of Japan scheduled for November, 1945.

General MacArthur has reported 7,000,000 tons of supplies as being on hand Jan. 1 in the Pacific theatre. The duties our troops are performing out there are almost exactly similar to those I have described for the European theatre. Our occupation functions involve most of the islands captured from the Japanese as well as Japan proper. We have a force in Korea. We are still accepting the surrender of Japanese troops in the Philippines, Ryukyus and other localities, long after their nation has surrendered.

In Japan our forces are engaged in the destruction of enemy fortifications as well as in the numerous other tasks growing out of enforcement of the surrender terms. Law and order must be maintained. There is considerable work to the disposal of great quantities of enemy property seized in the home islands, some of which is destroyed, some salvaged, some shipped to the United States and our allies. The remainder is disposed of according to the most practical use that can be made of it. All this requires the services of a considerable force.

The supply system, operating over thousands of miles, is a formidable problem in the Pacific. The Army is exerting every effort to maintain a never-ending flow of fresh foods to all bases and areas where our forces are located, but transport by air, water and land is made difficult by great distances.

I should like to speak in some detail of the care of Government property in the Pacific, because the direct connection between its efficient handling and the availability of competent manpower is so obvious.

It takes expert officers, experianced in the handling of supplies—men qualified to direct the dismantling of a hospital, a power plant, or a laundry, for example. Of course, a great many of such officers are being taken off the job constantly by the operation of the point system.

A great part of the work our men are now doing on many of those small Pacific islands, whose conquest made savage headlines for a brief spell two and three years ago, is concerned with the disposition of property.

Once these islands were battlegrounds, hard-won steps in the progress of our troops through the Southwest Pacific. Then they were forward bases, with perhaps an airstrip from which the dogged Japs on other islands just ahead were bombed. Their development for military use required engineers with bulldozers and other heavy equipment to widen and lengthen the airstrip and clear the jungle for buildings and supply dumps.

When islands were big enough, docks were constructed so that ships could come in to unload their cargoes instead of having them brought to the beaches by landing craft and "ducks." Such islands became the springboards for furthur progress—overwater hops to other islands, which left many as rear supply areas in the backwash of war.

Then the war itself ended, and all need for these bases ceased. The business of "closing out" these bits of temporary American soil began. Our troops commenced to "roll them up," in the phrase the soldiers use.

This process of rolling up our bases occupies the time of a great many soldiers in the Pacific. These islands have been piled high with American goods, brought in to push our soldiers along the seaway to Tokyo. This is Government property, and now these things which the Army no longer needs must be disposed of through the proper disposal agency. They must be inventoried, inspected, packed and guarded until the Army's responsibility is discharged.

But out in the Pacific there is an enemy of property far more dangerous than thieves. It is the tropical elements which mildew and rot and destroy unless the utmost precaution is used. Trained and disciplined soldiers are needed for this work, men who know their jobs and who feel a sense of responsibility for the preservation of this property while it remains in the hands of the Army.

All too often these men are veterans of long service through these islands. Many of them went home with the first loads of high-point troops who returned from the Pacific. More are leaving every day. For each one who departs without a trained replacement the danger is increased that the roll-up will not be accomplished efficiently and speedily. There is no question but that the normal operation of the point system is slowing us up in this process. It was bound to.

With the veterans gone and garrisons reduced, the task of preparing for the disposal of the infinitely varied items which our troops used in the Pacific is made more difficult. The danger of deterioration is likewise enormously increased. The machinery rusts, the planking of docks and buildings rots, the dampness destroys delicate instruments. It is this aspect of the task and the tremendous distances involved which govern demobolization in the Pacific.

The property-disposal problem is a definite part of this nation's mission in the Pacific. It is my responsibility, it is the soldier's responsibility out there—in the end, it is your responsibility, as members of the Congress, to the American people. Except where necessary for health, safety or security, we do not have the authority to abandon this property; it must be taken off our hands by properly constituted civil authority. It is one of the incompatibles defying unrestricted rate of demobilization. It will continue to be a charge against our military manpower until it is liquidated.

Rolling Up Bases

Don't let me give the impression that, in spite of difficulties, we haven't been making progress in rolling up bases and rear areas which were once battlefields or great forward points of supply. As an example, there were 44,000 troops and 314,000 tons of supplies on New Guiena Sept. 1, 1945, when the Japs signed the terms of surrender. These figures were reduced to 7,000 troops and 42,000 tons of supplies by Jan. 1, 1946. All troops and supplies are expected to be completely evacuated from these bases by April 1, 1946.

In Australia, our first great Far-Pacific base, about 104,000 long tons of supplies remain on hand. The theatre expects them to be finally disposed of and all Army activities there completely closed up by April 15, 1946.

In Okinawa a garrison of approximately 33,000 air and service force troops will be permanently stationed. In this strategic location our heavier occupational air strength remains secure against potential civil uprising but yet in position to strike a deadly retaliatory blow against any section of the Japanese homeland.

Philippines

I will not go into the service functions of our Pacific troops in detail, since in most particulars they parallel those I described for the European Theatre, complicated by long supply lines, the tropical enemy, and difficulties of transport within many areas.

But I should like to say a special word about the mission of our troops in the Philippines. You are familiar with the tragic destruction perpetrated by the Japanese during the final days of fighting. Their unwarranted and bestial acts of savagery destroyed not only lives and property but much of the functioning of orderly government and its agencies. There is no effective Philippine agency now in existence to maintain law and order.

As a result of the war the Philippines were left without an effective police force and the splendid Philippine Scout organizations were practically destroyed. Now armed bands of guerrillas roam the hills, bent on pilferage which only our active presence controls. We are now engaged in recruiting a force of 50,000 Filipinos to replace a comparable number of our men in the Philippines and elsewhere in the Pacific, but it will be many months before this force becomes effective enough to accept the responsibility of policing the islands. It is our clear obligation to assist until that time arrives.

In addition to this activity, American troops have here also the familiar task of liquidating the bases and immense stores of Government property which were assembled at a time when these islands were our principal forward base for the planned assault on Japan's home islands. With the exception of air and supply bases on Luzon and Leyte, our Philippine bases and supply points will be progressively reduced and closed out by July 1, 1946. On Jan. 1 we had approximately 279,000 troops in the Philippines. These will be reduced as rapidly as possible to a garrison of approximately 79,000, which will be needed on July 1 to carry out our continuing responsibilities there.

There are now 865,000 American troops engaged in carrying out our over-all mission in the Pacific. General MacArthur has made a careful re-study of his requirements and assures me that he can operate with a total of 375,000 as of July 1, 1946. This number will later be gradually reduced.

Other Theatres

In India-Burma, our strength has been rapidly withdrawn since the end of August. From a figure of 166,600 on V-J Day it was reduced to 55,000 on Jan. 1. It is being further cut by large slices until on July 1, 1946, only 4,000 soldiers are expected to remain in the theatre. Their mission is entirely concerned in guarding surplus property or in providing services and supply for those who are doing so.

Last Aug. 1 we had some 63,000 troops in the China theatre under command of General Wedemeyer. Following the Japanese surrender, the great majority was withdrawn. By Jan. 1 the Army we had was but 9,000, a figure which will be reduced to 6,000 on July 1. While there may be some reduction in this number later on, General Wedemeyer has informed the War Department that he will require this small force of Army air force and ground troops. As part of our Potsdam commitment, this Government assumed responsibility of assisting and advising the Chinese in repatriation of Japanese nationals to the home islands.

We have no considerable amount of supplies in China. Most of what we have is designed for the use of our smaller number of troops. While our airmen flew thousands of combat missions against the Japs in China, our ground support of the Chinese Army was confined to training and liaison work. We had no Army combat ground units in the China theatre.

What I have said of the Pacific and of Europe applies to all the other areas overseas where we have American troops and property. The same problems exist in varying degrees in all theatres and, in the last analysis, we must rely on the professional judgment and ability of our theatre commanders to find the solutions. I have the utmost confidence in them.

I have spoken to you thus fully of the situation and the mission of our forces overseas because only in the light of all these jobs, which complete the "commitments and obligations" placed on the Army by higher authority, is it possible to understand the continuing necessity of adjusting the demobilization program to the job in hand.

The Job at Home

These foreign "commitments and obligations" cannot be met, our demobilization cannot continue in an orderly fashion, we cannot carry on the business of our far-flung forces unless we keep a proportionate force on duty in the United States during this interim period. In this respect we are like a snake swallowing his tail. We are trying to gobble ourselves up as fast as we can but we must take care to keep the head big enough to absorb the body passing through it. The head of the snake is the force in this country. This force varies as the gobbling-up process goes on.

As of January 1 there were 2,100,000 on our rolls in the United States, including over 100,000 officers already on terminal leave. Of the 2,000,000 men of the ground, air and service forces in this country nearly 1,000,000 are operating personnel administering our posts, camps, stations, ports — generally engaged in housekeeping and supply activities, and caring for the sick and wounded.

For example, 100,000 of these alone are engaged in what we call "processing duties," i.e., they are operating the separation centers through which 7,750,000 individuals will have passed between VE-day and next July. They also operate induction centers and handle the selectees and volunteers as fast as they are brought into the Army.

Another 100,000 of the 1,000,000 are engaged in the care of the 150,000 sick and wounded in our hospitals on the first of the year. Approximately 350,000 are engaged in the administration and training of individuals for air crews and the maintenance of our planes, transports and ferrying activities. A total of 150,000 trainers are required for ground and service troops, including some housekeepers at schools and depots.

Another 50,000 are guarding prisoners, both our own and enemy prisoners of war. Finally some 50,000 others are at ports and staging areas taking care of the flow of personnel in and out of the country. The rest (200,000) are engaged at posts, camps and stations, and in manufacture and storage of supplies, in special activities, such as the USMA, care of returnees, housekeeping details, proving and demonstration activities, and other home-front jobs.

Aside from the 1,000,000 of the operating personnel there are the 150,000 that I mentioned in hospitals, at least 350,000 actually in process of separation, 200,000 or more on furlough and in transit, 200,000 students in training and a balance of 100,000 in units and miscellaneous activities.

This is a rough summary only, the detail of which will be brought out no doubt in the subcommittee hearings which will be held these coming days. What I have endeavored to show here in a general way is merely what the head of the snake is doing and why it must be kept as large as it is. By July 1, 1946, it is estimated that our forces in this country will be cut to 654,000. This figure is divided between 360,000 operating personnel and the balance to cover men in training or en route overseas and to provide a small reserve of combat air and ground troops.

The question may well be asked—and it has been—if you have 2,000,000 men in this country now and are cutting these to 654,000 by next July, why not send some of the difference overseas to replace veterans who might then come home? That is exactly what we are doing. All of the replacements going overseas are carried as strength in this country until they arrive at a foreign port.

But there is no economy in sending a man overseas if he is so close to eligibility for discharge that we should have to turn him right around and send him back. Nor is there any sound reason for keeping him in the Army if we no longer have a job for him here. So we discharge him. I realize that it is a source of irritation to veterans overseas to have a man discharged in this country with fewer points than the veteran over there. From his angle, it is rank injustice. But from the point of view of the country the only realistic and practical decision is to let him out. We can't make an omelet the size of this demobilization job without breaking a few eggs.

The Scope of the Problem

I have described for you the composition and duties of our Jan. 1 Army of 4,200,000 and of our Army of 1,500,000 as it will be next July 1. Our present problem lies wholly between these two figures.

Between now and the first of July, based on the best estimates of the performance of selective service and the Army recruiting service, we expect that 400,000 men will enter the Army from civil life. Three million more soldiers will return to civilian life. A million of these individuals are in the separation process already. They should be civilians again no later than early February. This leaves 2,000,000 men to be discharged in late February, March, April, May and June.

Many of these would not have been discharged in any case until May or June. They will still be discharged by that time. Many others will be discharged in February, March and April just as they expected. The soldiers who are actually affected by this necessary readjustment over the next few months are approximately 700,000 two-year men who hoped for discharge in March and April and who, because no replacements are available for them, will not now get out until May or June. Of these 700,000 an estimated 300,000 are now overseas.

Two-Year Men

These two-year men looked for discharge in March because of the statement which General Marshall made in his talk before you last September. I should like to refresh your memories on the text of his statement. General Marshall said:

"We hope by late winter we shall have reached a stage in carrying out the point system—which is now governing policy and which we must not emasculate unless we want a morale situation almost chaotic to develop—when, in effect, the point system may be relaxed and two years of service will govern. That will mean that men of two years service will be eligible for demobilization."

Later on, a War Department spokesman set the date for the expected discharge of two-year men as March 20.

Now, this estimate was based on all the facts available at that time. As was stated at the same time, the initial discharge rate was not geared to any definite Army strength which might be required to complete our duties in the war, but to shipping facilities. In discussing this point, General Marshall said:

"There has been no relationship whatsoever between the rate of demobilization and any future plans of the Army. I mean by that that all the facilities available in transportation and in personnel trained to handle demobilization have been devoted to release from the service as rapidly as possible the largest number of men. It will be next spring, presumably—and if the estimates in occupation forces now forecast are accurate, it will be even later than early spring—before we shall reach a point where the rate of demobilization will be influenced in any way by consideration of the strength of occupation forces."

General Marshall based his statement on the best forecast that could be made at the time. Factors governing the entire demobilization picture have changed frequently in the five intervening months, all but one resulting in an acceleration of the rate of return from overseas and discharge.

It gave me a great deal of satisfaction to consider the happiness of the 1,665,000 men and women who returned to their homes long before they expected because of the speed-up in demobilization. I am equally sorry that the failure of the replacement rate to meet our continuing obligations overseas has now forced a much smaller number of individuals to wait one, two or three months longer for discharge.

Unfortunately, the War Department has no choice in this matter. I repeat that every feasible measure was taken before our announcement was made on January 4. We had no alternative. To declare every soldier with two years' service eligible for discharge on March 20 would mean that, in addition to the 1,000,000 now in process of discharge, another 2,000,000 would have gone out by that date.

The results would have been catastrophic. Our operating forces in this country would be far short of the numbers required. Among other casualties, it would mean the complete collapse of the Army Airways Communication System. Without technicians, there would have been a consequent grounding of our air forces all over the world. It would mean the practical abandonment of billions of dollars in American equipment. It would mean such a complete rescramble of our occupational forces as to jeopardize the results of months of work in bringing order out of chaos!

Believes Soldiers Know Him

It would mean such a collapse of military organization in this country as to impair gravely our ability to care for our hospitalized veterans or to supply the soldiers remaining overseas. In a final burst of irony, it would delay these very veterans for days and possibly weeks in the ports and the separation centers because the technicians who ran the centers would themselves have left the Army.

If there were any possible way to discharge all two-year men on March 20 without disrupting the Army, it would be done. We simply cannot do it.

I have the utmost respect and a most profound affection for the American soldier, and I believe that he knows me well enough to have confidence that I will always deal justly with him.

I believe I am doing that now when I say—to him and to you—that we cannot discharge all two-year men on March 20 and that this is dictated solely by the necessity of adjusting our discharge rate to our replacement rate and to the continuing job which the Army must do, both in this country and overseas.

I state categorically that he is not being held in the Army to get a universal military training bill or any other legislation through the Congress. It should be unnecessary to say that, but the point has been raised, so I draw attention to the fact that the President's program of universal military training stipulates training only and does not provide for any service. No trainee would replace a single soldier.

In this same connection I have seen the point made several times that the Army is deliberately being kept at greater strength than is need so that the generals could keep their stars. I believe a single statement will answer that. The Army is proceeding with dispatch to retire or reduce or relieve from active duty its temporary general officers in the Army. To date, 789—more than half the 1,550 general officers of the V-E Day army will have been either reduced, separated, or are now under orders for such action and by June 30 261 more will have been processed.

The Present Plan

To each man who expected to be discharged in March or April and who will not be out until May or June, I say as I say to you—that the War Department is taking every possible measure to insure that he is not held in the service one day longer than is absolutely necessary. In order to insure this and to make clear to every man in the Army exactly where he stands, the War Department has issued an order to all major commanders. It is appended in full to the statement. The salient points affecting enlisted men are:

By April 30, 1946, all enlisted men (except volunteers) with forty-five points as of Sept. 2, 1945, or with thirty months service as of April 30, 1946, will be separated from the Army or aboard ship returning home.

By June 30, 1946, all enlisted men (except volunteers) with forty points as of Sept. 2, 1945, or with twenty-four months service as of June 30, 1946, will be separated from the Army or aboard ship returning home.

Whether or not these criteria can continue to be observed after July 1 depends directly upon the rate of inflow. Failing the necessary monthly intake either these criteria will have to be abandoned or competent authority—I presume the Congress itself—will have to relieve the Army of its vitally important missions. None of us can escape the realization that this will be a most fateful decision—therefore—let me repeat at once that the commitment I now make is limited to July 1, 1946.

Analysis of Replacements

Now let me talk of the replacement rate itself. Present estimates are based on past performance of selective service and our recruiting service. Only if future rates keep pace can the Army's rock-bottom requirements of 1,500,000 men in the service on July 1 be met. Let me examine these data for you.

First, as to selective service: In July the Army received 88,000 men through induction. In August, with the capitulation of Japan at hand and with the consequent easing of pressure by local boards, this figure fell to 55,000. Beginning with September, the Army arbitrarily reduced its monthly call to a total of 50,000. In September we actually received through selective service 41,000; in October, 37,000; in November, 35,000; and in December only 21,000.

As to enlistments, the personnel procurement service, consisting of over 10,000 officers and men, is exclusively concerned with obtaining the maximum number of enlistments from every source—men in the service, those who have had previous service and now discharged, and from the vast number of men in civilian life who are eligible to serve.

The most stringent orders are in effect to stress to the utmost all the inducements for enlistment which the Congress so recently authorized. Through the press and radio, a most comprehensive program of advertising has been launched. In November, when this program actually got into full swing, all previous records were broken when the Army enlisted 185,000. In December this number dropped off to 131,000. By Jan. 1, our enlistments totaled slightly less than 400,000, but of this number approximately 44 per cent are men who have enlisted for the minimum periods of one year or eighteen months' service.

A great many in this latter group are men who have been discharged from the Army shortly after their induction who enlist for the purpose of determining their own date of release, or are men who enlisted for the minimum period rather than await induction. Of those who have enlisted for three years, a large number are old Regular Army soldiers whose previous enlistments had run out and who have re-enlisted to protect their seniority and retirement privileges.

Our enlistment record has been good, but, taken together with selective service, it has not been high enough to provide required replacements. We shall continue to push this enlistment program, but only if selective service is able to provide the 50,000 men per month we are asking for will the 1,500,000-man Army be guaranteed under our present discharge policy.

The "Post-War Army"

Let me make clear that the basic figure of 1,500,000 has no connection with the permanent peacetime military establishment. In this regard I should like to dispel once and for all the confusion which apparently exists in the minds of many in the meaning of the term, "post-war Army."

The Army that won the war needs no definition, apology or justification by me or anyone else. Its record speaks for it. It was the finest military organization the world has ever seen. It was perfectly adapted in quantity and quality to the tasks assigned it. In the accomplishment of these tasks it covered itself with everlasting glory.

But that Army no longer exists! Most of the long-service combat veterans are already back in civilian life. They are largely among the 5,000,000 who have already been discharged. As I said before, we are particularly concerned about the combat man still in service.

What we have today is the remnant of that combat Army in a state of reorganization and reduction to an interim Army assigned an entirely different mission or task. It is still a World War II task. But it is not yet a task for permanent peacetime regular Army. It is the task of reconversion and of "securing the peace."

When we have secured the peace, and liquidated our emergency tasks, we shall then have a third task—to preserve the peace. This is the long-term, continuing peacetime mission of the Army. It will be the job of our permanent peacetime military establishment. The size and composition of that establishment are, of course, up to you.

But that is not the issue here.

We are not talking about our permanent peacetime military establishment, but the establishment to do the job now in hand. I know of no responsible officer who would not infinitely prefer to have both our present interim Army as well as our future Regular Army on a 100 per cent voluntary basis at the earliest possible moment.

The War Department will recommend the immediate termination of Selective Service as soon as it is assured of a steady flow of replacements adequate to maintain the size of force required to perform the tasks assigned to us. But we cannot escape the simple fact that Selective Service and voluntary recruiting together have been unable to furnish an adequate flow of replacements to compensate for the rate of discharge under our demobilization policy until the rate was necessarily changed on Jan. 4.

Effect of Present Demobilization

Now just where does this leave us? On V-E Day we had 3,300,000 troops. We have already discharged 5,000,000 and by July 1 we shall have discharged another 2,750,000 men who were in the Army the day Germany collapsed. This leaves but 500,000 or so of the V-E Day men. Except for veteran volunteers, this is all that will be left of our own V-E Day Army on July 1, 1946, less than fourteen months after the last shot was fired in Europe. All the rest will be recruits. It is with this relatively untrained Army in the throes of reconversion that we must undertake the grave tasks still ahead.

This has been the most rapid and broad-scale demobilization in history. I consider our July 1 figure to be almost without a safety factor. It is a risk which, under any other circumstance than the vastly appealing one of reuniting men with their families, I should be unwilling to take.

The order on 2½-year men means the release of 2,200,000 by the end of April. It takes an estimated 500,000 men now in the Pacific, 400,000 in Europe, 400,000 from othe areas overseas or already en route home, 900,000 now on duty in this country. This order has not been issued without the gravest consideration.

As an example of how close this pares manpower by the end of April, General McNarney has just informed me that to continue performance of duty in his theatre it will be necessary to eliminate the present rest and recuperation programs and drastically curtail leaves and furloughs, to suspend all military training except on-the-job training, to abandon or transfer to liberated countries certain types of Government property surplus to his needs, and to scrutinize more closely all requests for emergency returns to this country.

From these measures you will appreciate how close the margin is between the efficient performance of duties and virtual abandonment of them.

The Risks

It certainly will indicate to you that should we fail to obtain the 1,500,000 men we require on July 1, something would have to break in the tight little net which we have now woven to perform our job in this country and discharge the nation's overseas commitments.

If we are not relieved of the still huge supplies of Government property entrusted to our custody overseas, we shall have no choice but to abandon them where they lie. But even if you gentlemen should approve such action on the choice between two evils, I know you would not tolerate the reduction of occupational forces below the levels required by General MacArthur and General McNarney to carry out their duties. There is no possible doubling up of work load which could enable us to accomplish that part of our present mission with fewer men. If that situation should develop, you gentlemen will have to decide what we must do.

Other functions would have to be abandoned, too, with tragic results. Pared down to the bone, the Army air, ground and service troops are still just able to discharge the duties I have outlined to you. We can function with no less. For my part, I can assure you that the Army will continue to carry out faithfully its planned reduction through the coming months, in accordance with the directive I have read to you. In the light of its terms, there will no longer be any useful purpose in such demonstrations as our troops have conducted during the past week in various areas around the world.

Unfortunately such meetings are always subject to misinterpretation. No disorders accompanied them. They were occasioned by homesickness. I sympathize with the depth of that longing for home and loved ones. For three and one-half years in Great Britain, in North Africa, in Italy and on the Continent of Europe, I shared the feeling of every soldier in wanting to come home.

Conclusion

During the war in Europe, I had the heavy responsibility of sending into action the gallant sons of America, knowing full well that many would not come back alive. That is a commander's responsibility in a time of impelling need to defeat a menacing enemy.

I did everything in my power to insure a sound plan of action and to implement this plan with the necessary troops and matériel to keep our losses at a minimum. Throughout this campaign the welfare and best interests of our men were always close to the hearts of their commanders of every grade. I regard the responsibility placed upon me in the current situation as a continuation of what I bore during the war.

Along with that responsibility, I carry the same vital interest in the welfare of our men and the same determination to see that their interests are fully weighed and protected. In no question involving the GI will I ever appear except as his friend and his advocate, although I may be of the "brass."

I feel confident that when the reasons for the change in pace in the demobilization program are recognized by our soldiers and they have full knowledge of their outlook for the next six months, they will accept, with that mature judgment Americans always show, their own responsibility for finishing the job. The time has now arrived to replace hysteria with calm judgment and sound discipline.

The War Department is prepared to answer any further questions which you gentlemen may have to propose. The acting Secretary of War is appearing before the special subcommittee designated by the chairman of the Senate Military Affairs Committee for this purpose. I have placed myself at the disposal of this same committee.

One last thought I should like to leave with you. The War Department has no intention of abandoning the mission assigned to it by the Government, the Congress and the people of the United States, so long as we have the troops to accomplish it.

For myself, I feel it as a personal trust. I should be unworthy of those who gave their lives to gain the victory if I failed now to do everything in my power to protect it.

We want to bring home quickly any man that has borne the brunt of battle and replace him, when necessary, by a man who has not.

My sole purpose, which I am certain you share, is that the Army which did so much to win the victory will be left fit to preserve it.

The Directive

As a first attachment to his statement General Eisenhower presented the demobilization directive of Jan. 15, 1946, which reads as follows:

To
CG USFET, Main Frankfurt, Germany.
CINCAFPAC advance Tokyo, Japan.
CG IBT, New Delhi, India.
CG USF China Theatre, Shanghai, China (pass to Secretary of War).
CG USF Middle East, Cairo, Egypt.
CG MTO, Caserta, Italy.

1. Effective immediately, the following will govern the demobilization of the Army until June 30, 1946:

A. By April 30, 1946, the following will be separated from the Army or aboard ship returning home:

1. All enlisted men (except volunteers) with forty-five points as of Sept. 2, 1945, or with thirty months service as of April 30, 1946.
2. All enlisted Wac (except volunteers) with twenty-four months service as of April 30, 1946.
3. All male officers (except Regular Army, volunteers, and medical department officers) with sixty-seven points as of Sept. 2, 1945, or forty-five months service as of April 30, 1946.
4. All Wac officers (except volunteers) with thirty-six months length of service as of April 30, 1946.

B. By June 30, 1946, the following will be separated from the Army or aboard ship returning home:

1. All enlisted men (except volunteers) with forty points as of Sept. 2, 1945, or with twenty-four months service as of June 30, 1946.
2. All male officers (except Regular Army, volunteers, and medical department officers) with sixty-five points as of Sept. 2, 1945, or with forty-two months service as of June 30, 1945.
3. Separate instructions covering the discharge of Wac personnel, officer and enlisted, for the period after April 30 will be issued by the War Department.

C. Medical Corps officers will be demobilized by separate criteria established by the War Department.

D. As soon as the tabulation of the desires of officers according to category as prescribed in War Department circular 366, 1945, has been made further instructions on their separation will follow.

E. It is emphasized, repeat emphasized, that release of all personnel will follow the principle of priority of release for those with highest points and longest length of service, particularly combat.

2. Computation of length of service will include total active commissions and enlisted honorable service, continuous or interrupted, since Sept. 16, 1940. Time lost under AW 107 will not be included.

3. Eligibility for separation of personnel made eligible by previously published criteria is not affected by this message. Such personnel will be given priority for separation over personnel demobilized in accordance with Paragraph 1 above.

4. The term "volunteers" as used herein includes enlisted personnel who have volunteered under provisions of Change 2 of RR 1-1 or who have enlisted in the Regular Army. Officer volunteers are those who sign certificates under War Department Circular 366, 1945, as Category I, II, or III, or Category IV until date specified in the certificate.

5. Scarce category personnel who appear in Circular 321, WD, 1945, and in Circular 382, WD, 1945, may be retained in the service until replaced provided they are utilized in their specialty, but in no case longer than six months beyond date upon which they would be discharged under these instructions.

6. The above constitutes the War Department program of demobilization for the period until June 30, 1946. Z/I (Zone of the Interior) and theatre commanders are responsible for the immediate release of every individual for whom there is no military need, and for releasing officers and men in sufficient time to carry out these instructions.

However, no individual will be discharged under this directive with less service or smaller scores than set forth herein. The bulk of the men made eligible for discharge by this order should be discharged in the early part of the periods January to April and May to June, respectively. Theatre commanders will notify War Department without delay of revised shipping requirements by month through June.

GI JOE STILL BIT SKEPTICAL

JAN 16 1946

"Sounds O.K., But—" Reaction To Ike On Mobilization

Washington, Jan. 15 (AP)—The guy who is going to be hardest to convince, GI Joe, greeted Gen. Dwight Eisenhower's demobilization speech today with:

"Well, it sounds O.K., but."

About 200 soldiers collected in Whitehall Pavilion, next door to the Library of Congress auditorium where General Ike spoke to Congress members. They listened to their boss over loud-speakers.

Of the more than a score interviewed, nearly all agreed that the high light of the speech, from a strictly GI standpoint, was Eisenhower's promise that all men with two and a half years' service will be out of the Army by April 30.

Anyhow "Something Definite"

Tech. 5/g Morton Koor, of Indianapolis; Tech. 4/g Marvin Adler, of Toledo, and Staff Sergeant Marvin Tucker, of New York city, got up and left the minute Eisenhower made this statement.

Koor, speaking for the three, said:

"For us, it wasn't good news and it wasn't bad. But at least it was something definite. I'm fed up with all these rumors."

Melvin Simonette, of San Francisco, a brand new civilian who still is wearing his army uniform with its sergeant's stripes, said:

"The plan sounds all right, if a bunch of soreheads down below him don't change it. The trouble with the Army is that somebody says something—and then nothing happens."

"If They Just Stick To It"

Rotund Staff Sergeant Darrell Elliott, of Sheboygan, Wis., and quiet-spoken Staff Sergeant Sam Murdock, of Kirksville, Mo., dropped in to hear Eisenhower while on their way to a separation center.

"If they just stick to this, they'll be all right," said Elliott. "Always before, the minute something was agreed upon, they threw it out the window and started on something else."

"That's right," chimed in Murdock. "Sure, the guys'll gripe. But having a definite demobilization date will help."

A sergeant from Arlington, Va., who said he was too near a separation center to risk giving his name, wasn't impressed with Eisenhower's explanation of why men were needed to guard surplus property.

Reaction Of The Gobs

"I've been in the South Pacific," he said, "and the stuff's just mildewing. We ought to get rid of it, quick, and get the guys back."

The Navy had only a dozen representatives around. Ned Primack, pharmacist's mate 2/c, of Chicago, said that was because the Navy was doing a better job, "probably because it doesn't have as big a problem."

"But there still are plenty of people in the Navy," he added, "who are just sitting around wasting time."

Nimitz on Demobilization

WASHINGTON, Jan. 15 (AP)—The complete text of Fleet Admiral Chester W. Nimitz's statement on Navy demobilization today before members of Congress:

The principal tasks of the Navy at this time are those connected with support of the foreign policy of the United States, the support of the occupation forces overseas, the demobilization of the Navy and assistance in the demobilization of the Army, and the training and preparation of the post-war naval establishment afloat and ashore.

The first two tasks involve keeping in the western Pacific sufficient combat forces to support fully the demilitarization of Japan, the disarmament and repatriation of Japanese troops now outside Japan and the general support of the policies of General MacArthur, General Marshall and General Wedemeyer. They also involve the employment of considerable numbers of transports, landing craft, supply ships and other auxiliaries of various sizes.

As a factor in the support of our occupation forces in the western Pacific we are carrying on the very important task of sweeping for mines in waters that must be daily traversed by our own ships. These mines are those laid during hostilities by both our own and enemy forces. The Japanese are being required to assist in this clearance with every means available to them.

The return of troops to the United States requires the use of naval vessels in addition to the available merchant vessels. There are still many ships so employed in the so-called "Magic Carpet" operation including auxiliary carriers, hospital transports, transports and auxiliaries. Only recently, battleships, cruisers and large carriers which were employed in this task were taken out of the "Magic Carpet" task force because adequate lift in the more efficient types was available.

Some vessels of all types are engaged in shake-down activities and in training for whatever operation the future might require. When demobilization is completed, our combatant ships numbering between 1,000 and 1,100 (carriers, battleships, cruisers, destroyers, destroyer escorts and submarines) will be divided about as follows:

Active (70 per cent crews) 30 per cent.

Reserve (33 per cent crews) 7 per cent.

Inactive (ship keepers only) 63 per cent.

As rapidly as ships can be spared from the western Pacific, they are being returned to the United States for inactivation or for assignment to the post-war active and reserve fleets. As they are so assigned the training of their new personnel and the repair and maintenance of material become important. The Navy's post-war training program will be adapted to the employment of new weapons and will emphasize amphibious operations in co-operation with ground troops, submarine and anti-submarine warfare and joint operations of sea and air forces.

Vice-Admiral Denfield, chief of naval personnel, will now explain to you the status of the Navy's demobilization.

ity placed upon me in the current situation as a continuation of what I bore during the war. Along with that responsibility, I carry the same vital interest in the welfare of our men and the same determination to see that their interests are fully weighed and protected. In no question involving the G. I. will I ever appear except as his friend and his advocate, although I may be of the "brass," I feel confident that when the reasons for the change in pace in the demobilization program are recognized by our soldiers and they have full knowledge of their outlook for the next six months, they will accept, with that mature judgment Americans always show, their own responsibility for finishing the job. The time has now arrived to replace hysteria with calm judgment and sound discipline. . . .

One last thought I should like to leave with you. The War Department has no intention of abandoning the mission assigned to it by the government, the Congress and the people of the United States, so long as we have the troops to accomplish it. For myself, I feel it as a personal trust. I should be unworthy of those who gave their lives to gain the victory if I failed now to do anything in my power to protect it. We want to bring home quickly any man that has borne the brunt of battle and replace him, when necessary, by a man who has not.

My sole purpose, which I am certain you share, is that the Army which did so much to win the victory will be left fit to preserve it.

200,000 Workers Are Out In 79 Electrical Plants

Utility Industry Hard Hit by Walkout, G-E President Says.

NEW YORK, Jan. 15 — (AP) A strike by 200,000 electrical workers—the largest single walkout of the reconversion period — today closed 79 plants of three companies manufacturing most of the nation's electrical appliances.

The strike—at General Electric, Westinghouse and General Motors Electrical Division—stopped work on hundreds of devices unobtainable for the home or industry during the war. The government called for voluntary rationing of electrical equipment during the strike.

Walkout Starts

The walkout began at dawn after the companies refused to meet a $2 a day wage increase demanded by the United Electrical, Radio and Machine Workers of America, third largest C.I.O. union in the nation.

Charles E. Wilson, president of General Electric, said effects of the walkout would be felt heavily by the electric utility industry, which "is badly in need of electric generating and distribution equipment."

Civilian Production Administrator John D. Small urged industry to spread available supplies "to the greatest extent possible to meet emergency needs as they arise."

He asked utilities and individual companies to cooperate with each other in lending repair parts to meet emergency situations.

The firms involved manufacture refrigerators, vacuum cleaners, electric stoves and other electrical devices.

The strike affected 100,000 General Electric, 75,000 Westinghouse and 25,000 General Motors employes in 16 states. In addition, many thousands of white collar workers, not affiliated with the union, were kept away from work by the picket lines.

States Affected

States in which the three companies have plants are California, Connecticut, Illinois, Indiana, Massachusetts, Michigan, Missouri, New Jersey, New York, Ohio, Pennsylvania, Rhode Island, Wisconsin, Maryland, West Virginia and Kentucky.

General Electric's biggest plant is at Schenectady, N. Y., where 16,000 are employed; Westinghouse at East Pittsburgh, Pa., with 12,000 and, General Motors, two plants at Dayton, O., where 19,000 persons work.

Mass pickets — Police reported 10,000 at Bridgeport, Conn., alone—milled outside plants in 69 communities. Picketing was peaceful except at Chicago where 33 strikers were seized by a police labor detail outside a Westinghouse plant for purportedly interfering with entrance of office workers to the plant.

The union said more women—57,000—walked out than in "any strike called nationally in recent years."

Women strikers at Bloomfield, N. J., wore rainbow-colored head scarves in a demonstration at the town green. Bands played, banners waved and six pickets on horseback led the strikers to a meeting which Mayor John A. Reed opened with a prayer asking God's blessing on labor, industry and the general public so that "out of all this may come a greater common good for all."

General Electric President Wilson said "because electric power is so necessarily the keystone of most reconversion and modernization programs, any enforced delay suffered by electric service companies is bound to have endless ramifications in the American business scene."

At Washington, Civilian Production Administrator Small said if emergencies occurred where electrical equipment or parts were not available from local stocks, unions would be asked to permit required shipments from producers or warehouses and that he would certify the shipments as essential.

Contract Ended

PITTSBURGH, Jan. 15 — (AP) The Westinghouse Electric corporation, hit by a strike of the C.I.O. United Electrical, Radio and Machine Workers today, notified the union tonight that it is terminating its wage contract, covering 57,000 of 90,000 Westinghouse employes.

The company notified the union by letter that it would terminate the contract on its normal expiration date, next March 31. The one-year agreement, covering 65 local bargaining units, was signed last April 1.

In New York, the national office of the union said it had not yet received notice of termination of the wage contract, and would have no immediate comment.

STEEL, G-M PEACE, TRUMAN'S HOPE

President Seeks to Avert Strikes — Congressmen Demand Labor Curbs.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 15 — (AP) President Truman expressed the twin hopes today that the steel wage dispute will be settled without a strike and that General Motors later will accept the fact-finding board's proposals it now rejects.

Showing no signs of discouragement over the failure of his fact-finding formula to settle a strike in its initial test, Mr. Truman told his news conference he has no proposals for going beyond that in dealing with the current situation.

Congress Renews Demands

In Congress, meanwhile, there were renewed demands for action to stop the strikes. And William H. Davis, who was a top man in the wartime labor setup as chairman of the War Labor board, expressed outright opposition to the fact-finding bill.

A reporter asked the President how legislation on this subject would do any good in view of General Motors' refusal to accept the fact-finding recommendation for a 19.5-cent an hour wage hike. The proposed bill would give legal powers to such boards but would not require disputants to accept their findings.

Mr. Truman's reply was a firm statement that if the fact-finding bill had been enacted, he thought the General Motors strike would have been settled now. He did not amplify his views.

Earlier in the conference he had observed that the company did not take much interest in the fact-finding report, and he hopes it will at a later date.

The President's expression of hope that a White House conference tomorrow between company and union representatives will produce a settlement in the steel dispute likewise was made without amplification.

Mr. Truman's answer to reporters questions indicated that an offer made at the initial White House conference Saturday by Benjamin F. Fairless, president of U. S. Steel constituted nothing new. The White House had announced on Saturday that Fairless had made an offer and that President Philip Murray of the C.I.O. United Steel Workers had made a counter-offer.

FORD, UNION NEAR WAGE AGREEMENT

Company, Workers Only Two Cents Apart in Pay Boost Negotiations.

DETROIT, Jan. 15—(AP) The Ford Motor Company and the C.I.O. United Auto Workers were only two cents an hour apart tonight in their efforts to settle wage increase issues affecting 109,000 Ford workers.

The company disclosed today that it had offered the union a 17 1-2 cent an hour increase—about 14.5 per cent—while the union countered with demands for a 19 1-2 cent boost, equivalent to 16.1

30.24-317

per cent over Ford's average pay of $1.21 an hour.

Recess Taken

The negotiators have recessed until Thursday.

A Ford statement revealed that the U.A.W. has receded from its original demands for a 30 per cent wage rate increase, from Ford the same figure originally asked of General Motors and Chrysler Corporation.

The union, in announcing willingness to accept the 19 1-2 cent boost, followed the recommendations which President Truman's fact-finding board laid down Thursday in the case of 175,000 striking General Motors workers.

There the board suggested a 19 1-2 cent boost, equivalent to 17.2 per cent, but the corporation rejected the proposal Friday. The union's GM council Sunday voted to accept the compromise "in the public interest" and called on President Truman to obtain corporation acceptance of the compromise.

It said that if such acceptance is not forthcoming by January 21 the union will revert to its original demands for a 30 per cent boost.

The President, at his press conference today, expressed hope that GM will accept the fact finding proposal.

He told newsmen that if his fact-finding legislation had been accepted, the General Motors strike would have been settled now. He did not amplify his views.

General Motors spokesmen said they had "absolutely no comment" on the President's statement.

First Break Disclosed

Today's disclosure of the counter proposals in the Ford case marked the first break in wage negotiations since Dec. 18 when Ford offered a 15 cent an hour boost, which it said was equivalent to 12.4 per cent.

The Ford statement was released late today by John S. Bugas, director of industrial relations for the company.

Last month's offer was turned down by the union, which asserted that it was based on condition that certain production levels be reached before the increases were to go into effect. A union spokesman said then the offer "was full of jokers."

The Ford Company, in making the offer of a 17 1-2 cent increase, emphasized that "it is of course contingent upon a workable agreement between the union and company on company security, worker productivity and representation."

The Pay Strikers Got And The Pay They Seek

Washington, Jan. 15 (AP)—President Truman today appointed John W. Gibson, of Michigan, as Second Assistant Secretary of Labor.

JAN 16 1945

[By the Associated Press]

Wages are the chief issue in the country's major strikes and threatened strikes.

AUTOMOTIVE — General Motors, basic hourly earnings, $1.13; Chrysler, $1.14; Ford, $1.19; union demand, 30 per cent wage increase. G.M. offer about 11 per cent (13½ cents an hour). Ford offer 15 cents an hour. Fact-finding board that studied General Motors dispute recommended 19½ cents (17½ per cent); G.M. rejected recommendations, union accepted. On strike since November 21, 175,000.

STEEL—Average base pay $8.96 a day. Union demand, scaled down from $2-a-day increase to $1.56. Industry offered $1.20. Strike call January 14 postponed to January 21, involving 800,000 CIO workers.

Oil, Electric Devices

OIL—Average hourly wage $1.20. Union demand, 30 per cent increase, lowered to 18 per cent as basis for reaching agreements with refineries. Oil fact-finding board recommends 18 per cent (21 cents an hour) raise. Some oil companies have agreed on 18 per cent figure.

ELECTRICAL WORKERS—Wages in General Electric, Westinghouse and General Motors electrical division average $35 a week, says CIO union. Union originally asked $2 a day raise; said committee rejected revised union offer of 15 cents an hour raise at G.E. and Westinghouse, with remainder to be negotiated and a 19½-cent raise at General Motors. Strike of 200,000 workers began today.

Packers, Telegraphers

MEAT PACKING—American Meat Institute, a trade-research organization, estimated packing-house workers averaged 95.8 cents hourly last September. CIO union claims two thirds of its 200,000 members made less than 87 cents hourly. Union first asked 25-cent-an-hour raise; reduced demand to 17½ cents and rest negotiated. Major packers offered 7½ cents hourly raise.

TELEGRAPH—CIO American Communications Association says 7,000 members on strike at Western Union in New York were earning $28.80 weekly. Company offered 12-cent hourly wage increase in compliance with revised WLB decision but strike was called January 8 because union said this was less than pervious regional board award.

Telephones

TELEPHONE EQUIPMENT MANUFACTURING—Union employés involved in Western Electric strike earned peak of $53.53 during war, says company. Union demands 30 per cent raise and company offers 15 per cent, saying it would boost weekly average to $56.16.

TELEPHONE MAINTENANCE AND INSTALLATION—Workers on strike against Western Electric earned from $24 to $51.80 weekly, the union says. The striking union demanded $6 weekly raise, or 14 per cent raise, which it says it later modified to an undisclosed figure.

TELEPHONE—Telephone operators and other workers affiliated with the independent National Federation of Telephone Workers had average weekly earnings of $40.54 last October. The union seeks $2-a-day raise, 65-cent hourly wage minimum and return to 40-hour work week.

FARM EQUIPMENT—The CIO union says wages average $1.14 hourly at eleven International Harvester Company plants; ask a 30 per cent raise.

Strikes Press on Congress

Calls for Speedy Action Continue—Senator Taft Wants Fact-finding Report.

Washington, Jan. 15 (A. P.).—Congress, back in harness only a day after a holiday recess, heard fresh calls today for speedy action on legislation to curb strikes.

These were the developments:

1. Senator Taft (R.-Ohio) demanded speed in considering the administration's labor fact-finding bill and deceived assurance from Senator Murray (D.-Mon.), Chairman of the Senate Labor Committee, that hearings would be expedited.

2. Representative Rankin, (D.-Miss), in a House speech, urged legislation to curtail what he termed "inspired strikes" and afford protection against "a wave of lawlessness sweeping this country."

3. Representative Rich (R.-Pa.) told the House it is "up to Congress to see that people who want to work can do so without paying tribute to any racketeer."

4. William H. Davis, former War Labor Board Chairman, opposed the fact-finding bill but urged legislation to bolster conciliation and mediation machinery in the Labor Department.

5. Representative Howard W. Smith (D.-Va.), co-author of the Smith-Connally act, told the House there is danger that "a handful of irresponsible, selfish and power-seeking labor leaders will clamp upon the nation the labor dictatorship they have so long sought" unless Congress acts on the labor dispute question or industry has "the courage to stand up and fight unreasonable demands to the bitter end and forgets about profits for a while."

Before hearing Davis, Murray read the labor committee a statement outlining plans for the renewed hearings, which started before the Christmas holidays.

Long Hearings Feared.

Taft protested that Murray's outline sounded as if the hearings might last three months. Murray retorted that nobody was trying to delay the hearings and that he personally was willing to set a two-weeks deadline. Taft suggested February 1 as a target date.

Murray said a sub-committee would try to whittle down the witness list and morning and afternoon sessions would be held when possible.

The committee is considering two bills. One, introduced by Senator Ellender (D.-La.), incorporates President Truman's recommendations for fact-finding boards with power to examine corporation's books and would provide a thirty-day cooling-off period before a strike could take effect.

The other, in the form of a substitute amendment, was proposed by Senators Ball (R.-Minn.) and Hatch (D.-N. M.). It provides for establishment of Federal industrial relations boards for the settlement of management-labor controversies, applying the principle of voluntary arbitration.

Davis said he thought it would be "a mistake for Congress to adopt, or for this committee to recommend," either bill.

The committee is going to lay aside the labor bills Friday to consider legislation raising the statutory minimum hourly wage from 40 cents to 65 and eventually to 75 cents. As a result, the labor hearings may be delayed until the following Tuesday.

Before the hearing opened two committee members forecast quick action.

Kimmel Accuses Navy Chiefs In Washington

JAN 16 1945

Washington, Jan. 15 (AP)—Rear Admiral Husband E. Kimmel asserted today he was "misled" by a prewar warning into believing that the Navy Department thought no attack on Pearl Harbor was "imminent or probable."

A crowd of 200 spectators gathered as the former Pacific Fleet commander appeared before a Senate-House committee to tell publicly for the first time his story of the disastrous Japanese attack on Pearl Harbor December 7, 1941.

Attired in a dark suit with a bright blue tie, the 63-year-old retired naval officer began reading a 25,000-word statement in which he asserted that Washington officials had denied him information he said might have made Pearl Harbor an ambush for the Japanese.

Roberts Sends Letters

Before Kimmel took the stand, Committee Counsel Seth Richardson placed in the record a letter from former Associate Justice Owen J. Roberts, who headed a commission which investigated the attack. Roberts said the full report of the commission had been published after it was turned over to President Roosevelt January 24, 1942.

Senator Ferguson (R., Mich.) has asked for the original copy of the Roberts report, but Miss Grace Tully, secretary, informed the committee by letter that it could not be found in the White House files.

"Didn't Get Messages"

Reading in a strong voice, Kimmel contended before the committee:

1. He was not supplied information available in Washington from intercepted messages "which told when and where Japan would probably strike."

Would Have Changed Plans

2. That, withholding this information, the Navy should have instructed him specifically to "be on the alert against a hostile overseas raid."

3. If he had had Washington's knowledge of intercepted Japanese messages, he would have considered revising war plans to provide "an opportunity to ambush the Japanese striking force as it ventured to Hawaii."

4. Orders he received the same day he got the November 27 "war warning" message to transport army planes and troops to Midway and Wake, "indicated to me that responsible authorities in Washington did not consider an air-raid on Pearl Harbor either imminent or probable."

5. The War and Navy Departments knew that long-range reconnaisance from Oahu was to be flown "only when a carrier strike against the islands was probable within narrow time limits."

Disagrees With Stark

6. He would have ordered the fleet to sea if he had known what Washington knew on successive dates from November 27 to December 7, but without this information he kept his battleships in harbor where he thought them safer against air attack than at sea without carrier support.

Kimmel's testimony placed him in direct opposition to much the committee heard from Admiral Stark, the last witness before it recessed January 5 until today. Stark said he considered the "war warning" message sufficient to alert the fleet to a war basis.

When Kimmel's testimony is completed, possibly late this week, Maj. Gen. Walter C. Short, Hawaiian army commander at the time of the attack, is expected to follow him to the stand.

Attack Not Suggested

Kimmel told the committee that "no reasonable man" could have been expected to consider that Stark's November 27 "war warning" message "was intended to suggest the likelihood of an attack in the Hawaiian area."

The message said diplomatic negotiations had ceased and "an aggressive move by Japan is expected within the next few days." It said there were indications of "an amphibious expedition against either the Philippines, Thai or Kra peninsula or possibly Borneo," advising Kimmel to "execute an appropriate defensive deployment. . ."

Earlier Stand Not Changed

This did not warn the fleet of an attack in the Hawaiian area, Kimmel said, adding:

"It did not state expressly or by implication that an attack on the Hawaiian area was imminent or probable. It did not repeal or modify the advice previously given me by the Navy Department that no move against Pearl Harbor was imminent or planned by Japan. The phrase 'war warning' cannot be made a catch-all for all the contingencies hindsight may suggest."

The information he continued to get from various sources up through December 6 all pointed at a Japanese strike in Southeast Asia, Kimmel said.

Thought U.S. Attack Was Feared

He added that even the information on December 3 that Japanese consuls had been ordered to destroy most of their codes meant to him that the Japanese were taking precautions in case the United States and Britain declared war because of Japanese attacks in Southeast Asia..

He also contended it was not unusual that radio calls on Japanese carriers were not identified after December 1. During the six months preceding Pearl Harbor, he said that twelve times in periods ranging from nine to 22 days there was no radio trace of the Japanese carriers.

Kimmel recalled that Stark had written him October 17 saying that

"Personally I do not believe the Japanese are going to sail into us and the message I sent you merely stated that possibility."

Believed "Not Probable"

"This letter made it clear to me that when Admiral Stark stated certain Japanese action to be 'possible,' he meant that it was not probable," Kimmel said.

It was one thing, he said, to warn a commander of "the probable outbreak of war in theaters thousands of miles away" and "it is quite another thing to warn commanders at a particular base of an attack to be expected in their own locality."

Kimmel said it was his conviction that if he had known by November 28 everything known by the Navy Department in Washington, he would not have sent carriers to Wake and to Midway to deliver planes.

"I would have gone to sea with the fleet and endeavored to keep it in an intercepting position at sea," he said.

Blames Navy Department

Even early in the morning of December 7, he said that if he had received the "significant information" the Navy Department had, he would have moved all light forces out of Pearl Harbor and put the remainder on a "general quarters" battle-readiness alert.

"It is my conviction that action by the Navy Department at any one of these significant dates in furnishing me the information from the intercepted messages would have altered the events of December 7, 1941," he testified.

On the important question of why he didn't have scouting planes searching the ocean around Pearl Harbor, Kimmel told the committee that he had been instructed to get the fleet ready for war and couldn't afford to wear out his planes and crews on a partial reconnaissance.

Only 49 Patrol Planes

He had only 49 flyable patrol planes available on Oahu, without spare parts or spare crews, at the time of the attack, he said. Proper reconnaissance, he claimed, would have required a pool of 250 planes for protracted operations.

Kimmel said that the "war warning" message had told him to get ready to carry out War Plan 46. Under that, he said, he had to keep his planes in readiness to carry out raids on the Japanese-held Marshall Islands.

He was not without reconnaissance however, he maintained, citing carrier-based patrols and search planes operating "from Midway, Wake and Johnson Islands.

Tells Of Scouting

He disclosed that in the week preceding the attack, patrol planes from Oahu had scouted a sector north and northwest of Oahu for 400 miles on Monday, Tuesday, Wednesday and Thursday. The Japanese came in from the north on Sunday.

Kimmel said he kept the battleships in Pearl Harbor because it would have been "a dangerous course" to send his battleships to sea without the air cover provided by carriers. By keeping the battleships in the harbor, he said he gave them protection from land anti-aircraft guns they would have lacked at sea.

After he got the "war warning" message, Kimmel said, he instructed the fleet to depth-bomb all foreign submarines they encountered in their operating areas. He had been instructed previously, he said, not to bomb submarines except within the three-mile limit of American territory.

Tells Of Reports On Subs

Kimmel told of several unverified reports after November 28 of the presence of Japanese submarines. Then came the report from the destroyer Ward on the morning of December 7 that it had depth-charged a submarine near the harbor.

He got the information of the Ward's report about 7.30 A. M., Kimmel said, adding that efforts already had been started to confirm the reported contact.

"I was waiting such verification at the time of the attack," he said. "In my judgment, the effort to obtain confirmation of the reported submarine attack off Pearl Harbor was a proper preliminary to more drastic action in view of the number of such contacts which had not been verified in the past."

Never Told Of Decision

Kimmel told the committee that he never was informed of the decision other witnesses have said was made in August, 1941, to discontinue sending Army and Navy field commanders the full information obtained by intercepting Japanese messages. In July, Kimmel said he had received the verbatim text of at least seven messages.

"I had asked for all vital information. I had been assured that I would have it. I appeared to be receiving it. My current estimate of the situation was formed on this basis.

"Yet, in fact, the most vital information from the intercepted Japanese messages was not sent to me. This failure not only deprived me of essential facts. It misled me."

Not Told Of Jap Action

Kimmel said he was not supplied with any information on a message intercepted October 9, showing that Tokyo had divided Pearl Harbor into five sub-areas and was seeking details about the berthing of ships of the fleet in those areas.

Witnesses have said that hindsight indicates this information was needed to prepare a bomb plot of Pearl Harbor.

Kimmel maintained this was significant, for "no other harbor or base in American territory was divided into sub areas by Japan."

"No one had a greater right than I to know," he asserted, "that Japan had carved up Pearl Harbor into sub areas and was seeking and receiving reports as to the precise berthings in that harbor of the ships of the fleet," Kimmel declared.

Told Attack Not Planned

He recalled that he was told earlier in the year that no attack on Pearl Harbor appeared "imminent or planned for in the foreseeable future."

"Certainly," Kimmel said, 'I was entitled to know when information in the Navy Department completely altered the information and advice previously given to me."

He summed up the intercepted Japanese diplomatic dispatches as showing that after November 29, "A Japanese plan of action automatically went into effect; that the plan was of such importance that it involved the fate of the empire; and that Japan urgently wanted the United States to believe that negotiations were continuing after the deadline date to prevent suspicion as to the nature of the plan."

"Point To Pearl Harbor"

Kimmel said that these messages, taken together with those seeking information about Hawaii "pointed to Pearl Harbor as a probable objective" of attack. But he didn't know about the messages and thus was denied the right to make his own deductions, the witness said.

The former fleet commander said the first thirteen parts of the final diplomatic reply, received in Washington, December 6, would have meant only one thing to him—that the Japanese felt "war with the United States was imminent."

"Not a word of these supremely critical developments of Saturday, December 6, was sent to me," Kimmel reminded the committee.

Note Decoded Early

He noted that the dispatch fixing the hour for the delivery of the Japanese reply to the United States at 1 P.M., Washington time, was intercepted and decoded by the Navy Department on the morning of December 7 at 7 A.M., Washington time, 1.30 A.M. Hawaiian time—"nearly 6½ hours before the attack."

"The translation of this short message from the Japanese was a two-minute job," he said. "Not later than 10.30 A.M. the chief of naval operations was informed of it. This information was not supplied to me prior to the attack."

Kimmel said that technical information he received from Stark convinced him and his staff that "the danger of successful airplane torpedo attack in Pearl Harbor was negligible."

Torpedo News Withheld

Witnesses have testified that torpedoes launched by the Japanese planes in the 30-to-40-foot-deep harbor, which supposedly was too shallow for their use, did more damage to ships than bombs.

Kimmel noted that the Secretary of the Navy had said that naval officials knew that torpedoes had been launched successfully in 42 feet of water in 1940, but added: "Such information was never supplied me."

Kimmel said in his statement that his appointment as commander in chief of the fleet came as a "complete surprise" to him. When he saw President Roosevelt in June, 1941, six months after his appointment it was the first time he had any conversation or communication with Mr. Roosevelt since 1918, the Admiral said.

Fleet Known To Be Inferior

"My appointment was in no wise contingent upon any acquiescence on my part in a decision already made months before to keep the fleet in Hawaiian waters," he declared.

Kimmel asserted that in the week before the Pearl Harbor attack he received two messages from the Navy Department which referred directly to intercepts of coded Japanese messages. However, he stressed, other intercepts in this period never were sent him.

"The Navy Department thus engaged in a course of conduct calculated to give me the impression that intelligence from important intercepted Japanese messages was being furnished to me," Kimmel declared.

"Under these circumstances a failure to send to me important information of this character was not merely a withholding of intelligence. It partook of the nature of an affirmative misrepresentation."

"Fleet Deserved Chance"

"The Pacific fleet deserved a fighting chance," he asserted. "It was entitled to receive from the Navy Department the best information available. Such information had been urgently requested, I had been assured that it would be furnished to me. We faced our problems in the Pacific confident that such assurance would be faithfully carried out."

Kimmel noted that the warning message he received from Stark said "you will take precautions including such preparatory deployment as will not disclose strategic intention nor constitute provocative action against Japan." He noted that a similar message to Short, transmited to him for information, said that the United States "desires that Japan commit the first overt act," and directed that all measures be carried out so as not to "alarm civil population or disclose intentions."

Told To Take Precautions

Kimmel then observed: "In effect I was told:

"Do take precautions."

"Do not alarm civilians."

"Do take a preparatory deployment."

"Do not disclose intent."

"Do take a defensive deployment."

"Do not commit the first overt act."

Kimmel mentioned orders he had received from Washington to transport 25 Army pursuit planes to Midway and a similar number to Wake by carrier, as well as instructions about reinforcing Marine battalions on the same islands with Army troops.

He then declared these orders "indicated that responsible authorities in Washington did not consider an air-raid on Pearl Harbor either imminent or probable."

Referring again to the war warning message of November 27, Kimmel observed he noted that while it said negotiations with Japan had ceased, press and radio carried information that they were continuing.

"I was not informed that the Japanese were continuing their negotiations after November 26 only as a device to cover up their plans," he declared. "The Navy Department knew this to be a fact."

Nor was he informed, he said, that the Japanese—as shown by intercepted messages not forwarded from Washington—considered their relations with the United States ruptured.

Message Called Misleading

He said the November 27 message that negotiations had ceased was "a pale reflection of actual events" and "misleading."

"The parties had not merely stopped talking," he said. "They were at swordspoints. It was a Japanese strategem to conceal a blow which Japan was preparing to deliver. . . . The Navy Department knew the scheme. The Pacific fleet was exposed to this strategem because the Navy Department did not pass on its knowledge of the Japanese trick."

With the Navy Department having decided in August, 1941, that he and other field commanders should not receive all of the information in the intercepts, Kimmel said the Navy should have taken other steps.

Could Have Issued Order

"Another course of action then remained," he said. "That was to issue an order which would have directed dispositions of the fleet to guard against an attack on Hawaii."

That sort of order from the War Department brought an all-out Hawaii alert on June 17, 1940, he recalled, adding: "It would have had the same effect in December of 1941 as it had in June of 1940. Such an order was not given."

When he got Stark's October 16, 1941, message telling of the fall of the Japanese Cabinet and suggesting that he take "preparatory deployments," Kimmel said he took immediate action.

Orders Sub Patrols

"I ordered submarines to assume a war patrol off both Wake and Midway," he recounted. "I reinforced Johnston and Wake with additional Marines, ammunition and stores and also sent additional Marines to Palmyra Island. I ordered the commandant of the Fourteenth Naval District to direct an alert status in the outlying islands. He did so and reported his action to me.

"I placed on twelve hours' notice certain vessels of the fleet which were in West Coast ports, held six submarines in readiness to depart for Japan, delayed the sailing of one battleship which was scheduled to visit a West Coast navy yard. I dispatched twelve patrol planes to Midway with orders to carry out daily patrols within 100 miles of the island, and placed in effect additional security measures in the fleet operating areas."

He said that in a letter November 7, Stark specifically approved these dispositions.

Distant Flights Impossible

Discussing another phase of Hawaii's preparedness problems, Kimmel said:

"The local defense plan against air attack, submitted to the War and Navy Departments, clearly provided that effective distant air reconnaissance from Oahu could not be made as a routine matter.

"It was only to be instituted when there was information from other sources that a carrier strike against the islands was probable within narrow time limits, this was a makeshift plan, but none better was possible with the means at hand.

"Had I directed their use for intensive distant searches from Oahu I faced the peril of having those planes grounded when the fleet needed them and when the war plan was executed."

Refers To Plan 46

The war plan he referred to was No. 46, which called, among other things, for United States air attacks on the Japanese-held Marshall Islands in event of war. Kimmel had been alerted by the war warning message to get ready to execute this plan.

Kimmel maintained that even if the Navy Department had waited until December 5 before forwarding him all of the information he claims he never received, the picture would have been different.

He said he now thinks he would have ordered the fleet to sea to a rendezvous with Admiral William Halsey's task force which then was returning from Wake, and "been ready to intercept the Japanese force by the time fixed for the outbreak of war."

Truman Combines Messages To Be Sent to Congress Monday

WASHINGTON, Jan. 15. — (AP) President Truman announced to a surprised news conference today that he is combining his messages on the State of the Union and the budget and will send the one document to Congress on Monday.

The White House previously had said that the State of the Union message would be sent to the Capitol on Thursday. Reporters who pressed Mr. Truman as to the reason for the change in plans got only the statement that he had concluded, after a great deal of study, that one message would serve just as well as two.

3024 — 319

President Queried

The President was asked whether the strike situation had contributed to his decision. He said it had not.

The delay in submitting the State of the Union message apparently means that the Senate and House will transact no business on the floor this week.

It has been customary for the Presidential message on the State of the Union, covering a wide range of executive recommendations to Congress, to be submitted in the first two or three days of a new session. The budget message, containing detailed fiscal recommendations for the year, usually has followed about a week later.

There is no legal requirement in the matter, however. The Constitution says merely that the President "shall from time to time give to the Congress information of the State of the Union, and recommend to their consideration such measures as he shall judge necessary and expedient."

Business Delayed

Senators who sought to transact business on the floor immediately Congress reconvened yesterday after its Christmas vacation were remided by Majority Leader Barkley of Kentucky that it was customary to wait until the State of the Union message has been read. One item thus delayed was a move by Senator Eastland (D-Miss) to take the President's fact-finding bill from the Labor committee and bring it direct to the floor for action.

A reporter reminded the President of Barkley's statement and asked whether Congress was "released" to go ahead. Mr. Truman replied that Congress always had been released.

In reply to another question, the Chief Executive said he will send a separate message to Congress asking approval of the proposed $3,750,000,000 loan to Britain some time after his Monday message.

CONGRESS GROUP VOTES TO PROBE HOUSING PLAN

WASHINGTON, Jan. 15. — (AP) The administration's national housing plan today faced a Congressional inquiry as one administration supporter declared: "It won't get the job done."

The House Banking committee, now studying proposed bills to remedy the current housing shortage, decided to investigate the price and priority program set up by reconversion officials. The program went into effect today.

Rep. Patman (D-Tex.), usually on the administration side, told newspapermen:

"The housing situation is becoming a national scandal. The program the administration has worked out is insufficient—it won't get the job done. It must be strengthened."

JAN 16 1945

Banking Chairman Spence (D-Ky.) said he is inviting John W. Snyder, reconversion director; John C. Collet, stabilization administrator, and Wilson W. Wyatt Jr., the new housing expediter, to appear before his committee.

Meantime, leaders of the United States Conference of Mayors and the American Municipal Association pledged support to the housing plan in a conference with Wyatt.

Wyatt said in a statement that the meeting "laid the groundwork for the sort of close cooperation between the Federal government and the communities which is necessary in this emergency."

Plan Outlined

The plan for local participation includes:

1. Revision of restrictive building codes and local ordinances, and local measures to boost the supply of building materials and labor.

2. Establishment of veterans' referral centers, where all available dwelling space would be listed.

3. Exploration of remodeling and other measures to expand the occupancy of present structures.

4. Using to the fullest extent the temporary war housing made available by a recent $190,000,000 appropriation.

The delegations were led by Mayors E. J. Kelly of Chicago and John Burns of Burlington, Vt., president and trustee, respectively, of the U. S. conference; and Mayors Earl Riley of Portland, Ore., and Woodall, Rogers of Dallas, Tex., president and vice-president of the Municipal Association.

Technically, the banking committee will call the Federal officials as witnesses on a bill by Patman intended to restore rigid channeling of scarce faterials into the construction of medium and low cost housing. However, members of the committee indicated the officials will be called upon to answer widespread criticisms against the program they have devised.

OPA Cotton Plan Stirs Threats From South

Washington, Jan. 15 (AP)—Cotton states senators, angry at the OPA's notice of proposed price ceilings on the raw fiber, said today this may mean the end of the whole Office of Price Administration.

The OPA will expire June 30 unless Congress votes its continuance.

"I told them," Senator Johnston (D., S.C.) said, "that I doubt very much that OPA will be in existence after June 30 if they put a price ceiling on cotton."

Senator Ellender (D., La.) expressed a similar view, saying: "Well, OPA expires June 30. The cotton crop in Louisiana is not gathered until August, so it doesn't matter very much what they say."

"May Not Be Necessary"

The OPA's announcement last night said the agency's advance notice simply puts it in a position to impose the controls if it finds them necessary. The announcement added that "it may not be actually necessary to put the ceilings into effect."

At Scott, Miss., Oscar Johnson, president of the National Cotton Council, described the OPA action as a "precautionary measure not likely to be carried into operation." He termed cotton ceilings "unworkable and unenforceable."

Southern senators blame the present high clothing prices on manufacturers and distributors rather than on the cost of raw materials.

"A Punitive Measure"

Senator Eastland (D., Miss.) called the OPA action "a punitive measure against the South put on because of wage increases."

Senator McClellan (D., Ark.) said: "In doing this they are jeopardizing the extension of the Price Control Act. If they are going to single out the cotton farmer to squeeze down on him, we might just as well wipe out OPA."

"Threatens Stabilization"

Last night's notice by OPA fulfills a legal requirement that growers be notified of planned price schedules at least fifteen days before the normal planting season.

In announcing it, Price Chief Chester Bowles said the rise of cotton prices "threatens the whole stabilization program in the cotton textile field."

Saying continued increases would mean higher prices for clothing, Bowles added that the OPA "intends to do everything in its power" to prevent this.

He said fabric manufacturers are already demanding higher ceilings "because they say the high cost of cotton is wiping out their profits."

The Ceiling Plan

Bowles said the price at Memphis three days ago for base-grade cotton was 24.45 cents a pound, or 1¼ cents above parity and 2.18 cents above the market price last August.

Under the proposed schedule, the base grade—15-16-inch middling American upland cotton—would have a ceiling of 24.09 cents a pound in Area 1, which includes the western parts of North and South Carolina.

This, the OPA said, takes into account today's parity price, with an allowance for transportation costs, plus a "cushion" to provide for possible increases in parity between now and the end of the year, when most of the 1946 crop will be marketed.

$12.50 for the 1945 crop.

This guaranteed return includes Government subsidy payments—those authorized by the Sugar Act of 1936 and special price-support payments—and prices which processors of sugar beets pay for the crop. Prices that processors pay are limited by ceilings.

Payments under the Sugar Act average $2.50 a ton. The additional price-support payments will average about $4 a ton under present ceilings.

Funds are yet to be appropriated for both the Sugar Act and the price-support payments. They will be requested of Congress in connection with the regular Agriculture Department appropriation bill expected to be acted upon by June 30.

Although there is considerable opposition in Congress to price-subsidies—especially those offered as a substitute for an increase in consumer prices—agriculture Department officials say they feel confident that Congress will vote the necessary funds.

This confidence is based largely upon the fact, they said, that the 1946 support program was announced, under congressional and industry pressure before V-J day to help meet a critical sugar shortage.

Officials note that Congress has already appropriated funds to support a Government farm-labor program for 1946. Such funds can be used to help import foreign labor for the sugar-beet program.

Increase In Beet Sugar Output In '46 Expected

JAN 16 19

Washington, Jan. 15 (AP)—Agriculture Department officials expressed confidence today that the Government's sugar-production program for 1946 will encourage a greater output of beet sugar in this country.

They said recent reports on planting intentions of mid-Western and Western growers indicate that the Government's national goal of 1,025,000 acres of sugar beets will be reached. Plantings for the 1945 crop were only 779,000.

Guarantee To Growers

Officials said they believe a "more favorable" price-support program and prospects for an improved farm-labor supply will encourage beet growers to "go all out."

The 1946 support program guarantees growers a national average return of not less than $13.50 a ton of beets of the average quality of recent years. This compares with

WHITE HOUSE CHANGES DEFENDED BY TRUMAN

WASHINGTON, Jan. 15. — (AP) President Truman hit back today at critics of proposed architectural changes at the White House.

He told his news conference that these people just want something to talk about. Asserting that he himself wants no radical changes in the executive mansion, he pointed out that the proposed large addition will add only to the executive offices and not the White House proper.

In response to questions, Mr. Truman said all the architects he had talked with favored the changes. He added with a smile that the enlargement was principally for the benefit of the press since future news conferences would be held in a large auditorium to be built on the west wing.

VA Dropping War Titles

Washington, Jan. 15 (AP) — The Veterans Administration is casting aside some of its nonessential reminders of the war.

Henceforth, employés who formerly served in the armed forces may no longer use their military titles "in official publications, correspondence, telephone directories, desk name plates, signs on doors, and so forth."

The ban was posted by Veterans Administrator Omar N. Bradley, a four-star general himself, who said use of military titles "presents practical difficulties such as in the preparation of official publications and correspondence."

Bradley added, however, that "this instruction will not be construed to prohibit use of titles in conversation or in introductions."

CHURCHILL ON TRAIN BOUND FOR MIAMI

WASHINGTON, Jan. 15—(AP) Winston Churchill travelled toward Miami by train tonight with only one official engagement on his six-week American holiday.

The British wartime prime minister plans to spend most of his time here in Florida, resting. He told reporters in New York, where he arrived aboard the Queen Elizabeth last night, that he will visit the late President Roosevelt's grave at Hyde Park before he returns to England.

Churchill's only speaking date is at Westminster college, Fulton, Mo., on March 5. He said he hopes to see President Truman there.

At a news conference before leaving New York, the Conservative party leader said he had no intention of retiring from politics until he is "convinced that they have found someone to take my place, and I hope that will occur."

In Washington this morning, Churchill's private car was attached to a section of the Atlantic Coast Lines Havana Special, due ated for the lifetime treatment of soldiers who have survived paralyzing injuries of the type that killed Gen. George S. Patton, Jr., the Veterans Administration announced today.

Chief administrator of the plan, described as an entirely new idea in medical treatment, will be Col. R. G. Spurling, who flew to Germany to treat General Patton. Colonies will be in five hospitals now administered by the Army and three under the Veterans Administration.

Army Hospitals

The army hospitals are Cushing General, Framingham, Mass., which is to be relinquished by the Army at the end of this year; Kennedy, at Memphis, Tenn., to be relinquished June 30; Vaughn at Chicago, and McGuire at Richmond, Va., to be relinquished March 31, and Birmingham General at Van Nuyes, Cal., also March 31.

The VA hospitals are the Bronx, New York; Hines, Chicago; Aspinwall, Pittsburgh.

In addition to veterans who suffere spinal injuries that were fatal in nearly all instances in World War I, the new colonies will be open to totally blind, deaf or otherwise helpless veterans.

Want To Do More

"We want to do more than save the lives of these men," said Brig. Gen. Elliott C. Cutler, chief of Veterans Administration consultants, who introduced Colonel Spurling at a news conference.

"We want to instill in them the will to live, to do things and to get well.

"The way to do this is to assure them of the best medical care in the world; to give them a chance to study to learn how to do things and to earn money, and how to adjust themselves to an invalid's life."

There are approximately 2,000 men from World War II who survived paralyzing spinal injuries.

Reich Setup

Washington, Jan. 15 (AP) — The Allied Control Council in Berlin has begun to arrange a new Germany much like that envisaged in this country's policy declaration of December 10.

Supporting that view, American officials pointed today to the council's decision that Germany should be allowed to produce 5,800,000 tons of steel annually and retain capacity to produce 7,500,000 tons.

The officials said this country recommended a 7,800,000-ton capacity—far closer to the final council figure than 4,600,000 tons suggested by Russia and the approximate 11,000,000 tons urged by Britain.

Allies To Get Excess Plants

Steel plants and equipment in excess of that needed for the 7,500,000-ton capacity will be removed from Germany and given to the various Allies as war reparations.

The 5,800,000-ton allowance, officials say, will permit Germany probably by 1948 to have an industrial capacity great enough to produce a standard of living comparable to the European average.

This was envisioned in the United States policy declaration last month.

Consequently, Government officials concerned with German problems are jubilant over the steel agreement, reached after extended dickering.

May Speed More Decisions

They say it should pave the way for prompt decisions on the amounts of other basic products that Germany will be allowed to produce—and thus on quantities of other types of industrial equipment available for reparations.

It is acknowledged, however, that the Berlin council will miss by a long way the reparations goal set for it by the Potsdam Big Three communiqué last August. That document said the amount of equipment to be removed for reparations from the American, British and French zones of Germany "must be determined within six months from now at the latest."

The six months will be up February 2. Indications now are that the final determinations may be completed anywhere from a month to two months late.

Reparations Apportioned

In another reparations development yesterday the State Department made public the full text of an agreement reached December 21 at a Paris reparations conference. Much of the information had been published previously.

Russia and Poland did not attend, because the Potsdam agreement put them in a different reparations category. The eighteen who did attend were assigned percentage shares of the reparations to be made available from western Germany and from German assets abroad.

Britain Gets Most

The reparations were divided into two main catetgories—industrial and others. Britain came out with the biggest aggregate share—27.8 per cent of the industrial reparations and 28 per cent of the other category. The United States got 28 per cent of the nonindustrial reparations and originally was assigned the same percentage in the other group.

Because German industrial equipment is not needed by this country, however, the United States waived all but 11.8 per cent of its allotted industrial quota.

U.S. Acts To Curb GI Souvenir Guns

Washington, Jan. 15 (AP)—President Truman told his news conference today steps are being taken to prevent machine guns and small arms now being brought into this country by returning GI's from falling into the wrong hands.

The President made this comment soon after discussing the situation with Mayor Edward J. Kelly, of Chicago.

Kelly told White House reporters after his presidential talk that Postmaster General Hannegan was going to prevent the shipment of such arms through the mails.

Kelly said a "tremendous amount" of small weapons are being brought into the country as souvenirs and some are falling into the hands of criminals.

When he was asked about Kelly's statements, the President replied that he and the Chicago Mayor had talked about the gun importations and had been doing so for some time.

U. S. Fifth Fleet To Come Home Soon

San Diego, Cal., Jan. 15 (A. P.).—The Fifth Fleet will return to the United States from Japan within three months, Vice-Admiral Frederick C. Sherman disclosed before leaving by plane to assume command of the fleet at Tokyo.

Sherman, who will relieve Admiral John H. Towers, said San Diego would be the home base for the Fifth Fleet's aircraft carriers. Towers will command the Pacific Fleet.

LONDON, JAN. 15 (AP)—THE ITALIAN GOVERNMENT'S APPEAL TO THE UNITED NATIONS ORGANIZATION THAT ITS PEOPLE MAY "AGAIN TAKE THEIR PLACE IN THE INTERNATIONAL " WILL BE ACKNOWLEDGED IN "SYMPATHETIC TERMS" THE UNO'S GENERAL COMMITTEE DECIDED TODAY.

JAN 16 1946

THE APPEAL WAS CONTAINED IN A TELEGRAM TO PAUL HENRI SPAAK, PRESIDENT OF THE GENERAL ASSEMBLY, BY ITALIAN PREMIER ALCIDES DE GASPERI.

BRITISH D LEGATE PHILLIP NOEL BAKER IN ANSWER TO A QUESTION BY SOVIET AMBASSADOR ANDREI GROMYKO SAID HE DID NOT BELIEVE THE TELEGRAM WAS FORMAL APLLICATION BY ITALY FOR ADMISSION TO UNO.

THE COMMITTEE FOLLOWED A SUGGESTION BY PETER FRASER, NEW ZEALAND PRIME MINISTER, WHO POINTED OUT THE QUESTION OF ITALY'S STATUS AND ELIGIBILITY TO UNO PROBABLY WOULD COME UP AT THE PEACE CONFERENCE AND A SYMPATHETIC ACKNOWLEDGEMENT OF THE TELEGRAM SHOULD BE SENT.

LONDON, JAN. 15-(AP)-THE MOSCOW RADIO SAID TONIGHT THAT THE SOVIET AMBASSADOR IN BRUSSELS HAD PROTESTED THAT THE BELGIAN GOVERNMENT WAS NOT CARRYING OUT ITS AGREEMENT RELATING TO THE REPATRIATION OF RUSSIAN CITIZENS FROM BELGIUM.

A STATEMENT ON THE PURPORTED SITUATION ACCOMPANIED THE REGULAR NEWSCAST AND SAID IN PART:

"THESE PEOPLE WERE DEPORTED FROM RUSSIA BY GERMANS AND BROUGHT TO BELGIUM AS SLAVE LABOR. AFTER THE TERMINATION OF THE WAR, BELGIUM AND THE SOVIET UNION SIGNED AN AGREEMENT IN WHICH BELGIUM UNDERTOOK TO REPATRIATE ALL SOVIET CITIZENS TO RUSSIA.

2 ADD=ATOMIC WEAPONS XXX PEAR

"THERE ARE MANY WHO SEEM TO BELIEVE THAT THE FRIGHTFUL PROSPECT OF MASS ANNI NTUTION OE MEANS OF THE EXPLOSIVE RELEASE OF ATOMIC ENERGY IS THE TRUE STIMULUS FOR MAKING THE UNITED NATIONS A SUCCESS," HE SAID. "IT SEEMS TO ME THAT THOSE WHO REASON ALONG THOSE LINES ARE ALLOWING THEMSELVES TO BE LED BY FEAR, AND THAT THIS SPIRIT WILL NOT BE FOUND CAPABLE OF PRODUCING THE ENERGY WHICH IS NEEDED TO CREATE OR RESTORE HEALTHY INTERNATIONAL RELATIONS."

AN IRANIAN DELEGATE, MEANWHILE, TOLD THE ASSEMBLY THAT IRAN HAD "REFRAINED RATHER RELUCTANTLY" FROM ASKING THE ASSEMBLY NOW TO CONSIDER CONDITIONS IN THAT COUNTRY WHICH, HE SAID, COULD TEST THE PEACE AGENCY'S ABILITY TO MAINTAIN FRIENDLY RELATIONS AMONG NATIONS.

SEYED HASSAN TAQIZADEH, IRANIAN AMBASSADOR TO BRITAIN, WHO PRESENTED THE CASE, TOLD A NEWS CONFERENCE LATER HE FEARED THAT "IF WE WAIT UNTIL THE NEXT SESSION OF THE ASSEMBLY TO BRING UP THE CASE BEFORE THE UNITED NATIONS, IT AY BE TOO LATE FOR THEM TO TAKE EFFECTIVE ACTION."

THE IRANIANS HAVE CHARGED THE SOVIET UNION WITH FOSTERING THE AUTONOMY MOVEMENT IN THE NORTHERN IRANIAN PROVINCE OF AZERBAIJAN, WHERE INSURGENTS HAVE PROCLAIMED AN AUTONOMOUS GOVERNMENT WITHIN THE IRANIAN STATE.

MEMBERS OF THE SOVIET DELEGATION DENIED THAT THE RUSSIANS HAD "INFLUENCED THE AZERBAIJAN DISTURBANCES."

THE SECURITY COUNCIL, FACED WITH THE TASKS OF SETTING UP ATOMIC ENERGY CONTROLS AND PREVENTING ANOTHER WAR, WILL HOLD ITS FIRST MEETI ON THURSDAY. ITS AGENDA PROVIDES THAT IT SHALL ISSUE A DIRECTIVE TO THE MILITARY STAFF COMMITTEE INSTRUCTING IT OT ORGANIZE THE INTERNATIONAL POLICE FORCE.

AN AMERICAN SOURCE SAID U.S.SECRETARY OF STATE JAMES F.BYRNES HAD ADVISED EDWARD R.STETTINIUS, JR., NAMED AMERICAN REPRESENTATIVE ON THE COUNCIL, TO REPRESENT THE UNITED STATES FROM THE START. EARLIER IT HAD BEEN EXPECTED THAT BYRNES HIMSELF WOULD ATTEND THE FIRST MEETING.

THE ATOMIC BOMB WAS MENTIONED REPEATEDLY DURING THE GENERAL POLICY DEBATE.

SCHERMERHORN, IN HIS REPLY TO MAKIN, SAID THERE WAS "LITTLE TIME LEFT" TO ORGANIZE THE WORLD FOR PEACE, BECAUSE, WHILE ATOMIC SECRETS NOW WERE KNOWN ONLY BY A FEW POWERS, IT WAS "CERTAIN THAT WITHIN A SHORT TIME MANY OTHER POWERS, SMALLER POWERS INCLUDED, WILL BE MASTERS OF THE SAME--AND PERHAPS WORSE--POSSIBILITIES."

DR.V.K.WELLINGTON KOO, JUST NAMED CHINA'S REPRESENTATIVE ON THE SECURITY COUNCIL, EXPRESSED THE VIEW THAT IN AN ATOMIC AGE OF INCREASINGLY FEARFUL WEAPONS IT IS "IMPERATIVE THAT RESORT TO WAR SHOULD BE MADE IMPOSSIBLE."

THE DELEGATES STILL WRESTLED WITH THE PROBLEM OF THE SECRETARY-GENERALSHIP OF THE PEACE ORGANIZATION.

THE SOVIET EMBASSY ANNOUNCED THAT ANDREI VISHINSKY, SOVIET MEMBER OF THE SECURITY COUNCIL, HAD LEFT MOSCOW BY PLANE FOR LONDON, AND THERE WAS SPECULATION HE MIGHT BRING ORDERS IN CONNECTION WITH THE SECRETARY-GENERAL'S POST.

SOME MENTIONED WINSTON CHURCHILL AS A POSSIBLE CHOICE, BUT MRS. ELEANOR ROOSEVELT SAID AT A NEWS CONFERENCE SHE WOULD BE SURPRISED IF HE WELCOMED THE SUGGESTION. AN AMERICAN SOURCE SAID HE GATHERED THE IMPRESSION FROM A LUNCHEON MEETING OF BYRNES, PRIME MINISTER ATTLEE AND SOVIET DELEGATE ANDREI GROMYKO, THAT DUTCH FOREIGN MINISTE E.N.VAN KLEFFENS WAS A CANDIDATE, AND THE LATTER SAID HE COULD NOT DENY THE REPORT. ALSO MENTIONED INFORMALLY WAS FORMER BRITISH FOREIGN SECRETARY ANTHONY EDEN.

THE AMERICAN DELEGATION REPORTEDLY FAVORS LESTER PEARSON, CANADA'S AMBASSADOR TO THE UNITED STATES. THE SOVIET DELEGATION IS UNDERSTOOD TO FAVOR STAOJE SIMIC, YUGOSLAVIAN AMBASSADOR TO THE UNITED STATES.

NUERNBERG, JAN 15-(AP)-A GERMAN U-BOAT COMMANDER WHO SANK 20 ALLIED SHIPS DURING THE WAR DENOUNCED GRAND ADMIRAL KARL DOENITZ BEFORE THE INTERNATIONAL WAR CRIMES TRIBUNAL TODAY WITH THEASSERTION HE DID NOT WANT TO BE BALMED FOR HIS FORMER CHIEF'S ORDER TO SHOOT UP LIFEBOATS.

LT. COMMANDER KARL-HEINZ MOEHLE SAID THAT HE WAS A WILLING WITNESS, EXPLAINING:

"WHEN I WAS TAKEN PRISONER IT WAS CLAIMED I WAS THE AUTHOR OF THESE ORDERS. I'M HERE BECAUSE I DON'T WANT THIS CHARGE CONNECTED WITH MY NAME."

FOR ALMOST THE FIRST TIME SINCE THE TRIALS BEGAN, DOENITZ DISPLAYED HIS ANGER OUTWARDLY.

MOEHLE, WHO COMMANDED THE FIFTH U-BOAT FLOTILLA FROM KIEL DURING THE LAST FOUR YEARS OF THE WAR, ADMITTED THAT HE PASSED ALONG TO INDIVIDUAL U-BOAT COMMANDERS NAVAL HIGH COMMAND ORDERS TO DESTROY RESCUE BOATS.

"I WAS WONT TO PASS ON THIS CONTROVERSIAL ORDER WITH MORE OR LESS THE FOLLOWING WORDS," HE SAID, "'I HAVE NOW TO INFORM YOU OF A HIGH COMMAND ORDER CONCERNING CONDUCT TOWARDS SURVIVORS. IT IS A VERY TICKLISH MATTER XXX.'"

HE PLEADED THAT HIS "INNERMOST CONSCIENCE" WAS IN DISAGREEMENT WITH THIS ORDER.

"I WAS VERY GLAD THAT IN MOST CASES COMMANDING OFFICERS RAISED NO QUERIES AND I THEREFORE WAS RELIEVED OF ANY FURTHER DISCUSSION ON THIS POINT," SAID MOEHLE, HOLDER OF THE HIGHEST GERMAN DECORATIONS.

"I CAN ONLY STRESS THAT THE ORDER OF SEPTEMBER, 1942, (TO DESTROY SURVIVORS AND CREWS) APPEARED TO ME PERSONALLY TO GO TOO FAR AND I AM TOTALLY IN DISAGREEMENT WITH IT AT HEART," HE SAID IN AN AFFIDAVIT SUBMITTED AS EVIDENCE. "AS SERVING OFFICER I HAD, HOWEVER, TO CARRY OUT THE COMMAND TO PASS ON THIS ORDER TO COMMANDING OFFICERS.

"DURING THE LONG TIME THAT I WAS SENIOR OFFICER OF THE FLOTILLA, NO SINGLE COMMANDING OFFICER MENTIONED TO ME THAT HE COULD NOT RECONCILE OBEDIENCE TO THIS ORDER WITH HIS CONSCIENCE AND THAT HE THEREFORE WAS UNABLE TO CARRY IT OUT," MOEHLE CONCLUDED.

NUERNBERG, JAN. 15-(AP)-A WAR DIARY KEPT BY GRAND ADM. ERICH RAEDER SAYS THAT RUSSIA SUPPORTED GERMAN NAVAL WARFARE IN THE OPENING MONTHS OF THE SECOND WORLD WAR BY AUTHORIZING GERMAN USE OF A SPECIAL ARCTIC CIRCLE BASE NEAR MURMANSK AND SIBERIAN SEALANES.

THE DIARY WAS AMONG PAPERS OF THE FORMER COMMANDER IN CHIEF OF THE GERMAN NAVY INTRODUCED IN PART AT THE WAR CRIMES TRIAL TODAY.

"VALUABLE RUSSIAN ASSISTANCE" WAS GIVEN IN THE RETURN TO GERMANY OF THE 51,731-TON LINER BREMEN, WHICH FOUND A HAVEN AT MURMANSK IN THE FIRST DAYS OF THE WAR, ACCORDING TO A NOTATION SET DOWN FOR DEC. 12, 1939. SHE HAD BEEN "SOMEWHERE AT SEA" ENROUTE HOME FROM NEW YORK WHEN GERMANY INVADED POLAND.

OTHER ENTRIES, NONE READ IN COURT, INCLUDED:

JAN 16 1946

"OCT. 10, 1939--RUSSIA HAS OFFERED A WELL SITUATED BASE NEAR MURMANSK. ONE AUXILIARY CRUISER IN MURMANSK FOR OUTFITTING. X X X

"OCT. 17, 1939--PREPARATIONS FOR 'BASE NORTH' ARE IN PROGRESS. X X X

"NOV. 2, 1939--BEHAVIOR OF RUSSIAN NAVAL COMMAND IS GENERALLY CORDIAL, COOPERATIVE. X X X

"APRIL 5, 1940--TEMPORARY LIMITATIONS IN USE OF 'BASE NORTH' AND MOLOTOV'S ATTITUDE OF REFUSAL IN THE QUESTION OF THE USE OF A FAR EASTERN BASE ARE TO BE TRACED BACK TO THE PRESENT RUSSIAN NERVOUSNESS BECAUSE OF THE FUTURE POSITION OF ENGLAND AND FRANCE TOWARD RUSSIA."

NUERNBERG, JAN. 15-(AP)-GERMANS WILL BE GIVEN INCREASING RESPONSIBILITY FOR OPERATING THEIR OWN NEWS AND INFORMATION SERVICES DURING THE NEXT SIX MONTHS, BRIG. GEN. ROBERT A. MCCLURE, DIRECTOR OF THE INFORMATION CONTROL DIVISION OF THE U.S. MILITARY GOVERNMENT, SAID TONIGHT.

AFTER JUNE 30 THE CHIEF JOB OF THE INFORMATION CONTROL DIVISION WILL BE TO OUTLINE POLICIES AND EXERCISE OVERALL SUPERVISION OF GERMAN-OPERATED INFORMATION SERVICES, GUARDING AGAINST NAZI OR ANTI-DEMOCRATIC PROPAGANDA OR ARTICLES TENDING TO CREATE DISSENSION AMONG THE ALLIES.

THE NEWS AGENCY DANA, NOW CONTROLLED BY THE AMERICANS, WILL BE LICENSED TO GERMANS ABOUT MARCH 31.

MCCLURE SAID EVERY EFFORT WAS BEING MADE TO OPEN THE GERMAN PRESS AND RADIO IN THE AMERICAN ZONE TO ALL ALLIED NEWS SERVICES DESIRING

TO SERVICE THEM. ALTHOUGH THE TRADING WITH THE ENEMY ACT PREVENTS SERVICE DIRECTLY, HE SAID, INTERIM ARRANGEMENTS ARE PERMISSIBLE FOR THE EXCHANGE OF NEWS, AS HAS ALREADY BEEN MADE WITH DANA BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS, THE UNITED PRESS, INTERNATIONAL NEWS SERVICE AND THE OVERSEAS EDITION OF THE NEW YORK TIMES.

MCCLURE SAID THAT AS "SOON AS LEGAL RESTRICTIONS ARE OVERCOME" ARRANGEMENTS MAY BE MADE AS "INDIVIDUALLY PREFERRED BY NEWS SERVICES. THE PROBLEMS OF TAKING OVER DANA WERE DISCUSSED BY 24 GERMAN PUBLISHERS IN A WEEKEND MEETING AT HEIDELBERG, WHERE A PROVISIONAL BOARD OF DIRECTORS WAS CHOSEN. THE BOARD WILL RESUME THE STUDY AT HEIDELBERG FEB. 2.

FRANKFURT, GERMANY, JAN. 15-(AP)-U.S.OFFICERS AND SOLDIERS ALIKE IN THE FRANKFURT AREA TONIGHT GREETED GEN.EISENHOWER'S STATEMENT ON ARMY DEMOBILIZATION PLANS ENTHUSIASTICALLY, AND SOME SHOUTED, "YOO HOO, WE ARE GONNA GO HOME."

BRIG.GEN.GEORGE S.EYSTER, REDEPLOYMENT CHIEF FOR THE U.S.FORCES IN THE EORPEAN THEATER, TOLD A NEWS CONFERENCE THAT THE DEMOBILIZATION SPEED-UP MEANT THE EUROPEAN THEATER WOULD SEND HOME 55,300 MORE MEN THAN PLANNED IN THE NEXT FOUR MONTHS, BUT THAT THE OCCUPATION OF GERMANY WOULD NOT BE SO EFFICIENT.

EYSTER SAID THE SPEED-UP WOULD HIT TRANSPORTATION, COMMUNICATION AND MEDICAL SERVICES HARD.

"WE MAY BE FORCED TO ACCEPT A LOWER STANDARD OF PERFORMANCE IN THE OCCUPATION MISSION," THE GENERAL ADDED.

WHILE THE EISENHOWER PLAN MEANS A SIZEABLE ACCELERATION IN THE SHIPMENT OF SOLDIERS OUT OF THIS THEATER, EYSTER SAID, IT WAS HOPED THAT THE REDUCTION WOULD BE MET BY INCREASED INFLOW OF REPLACEMENTS FROM THE UNITED STATES.

PROGRAMS OF REST, LEAVE AND EDUCATION WOULD BE CUT DOWN, EYSTER SAID, AND MORE GERMAN CIVILIANS WOULD BE USED TO DO TASKS PRESENTLY DONE BY AMERICAN SOLDIERS.

THE NEW PLANS, HOWEVER, WILL NOT AFFECT THE PLANNED STRENGTH OF 300,000 MEN FOR THE OCCUPATION FORCES IN EUROPE BY JUNE 30, EYSTER SAID.

EYSTER GAVE THIS ESTIMATE OF THE TIME WHEN TROOPS IN THE EUROPEAN THEATER COULD EXPECT TO BE ON THE WATER ON THE WAY BACK TO THE UNITED STATES: 55 POINT MEN WOULD BE WATER-BORNE BY MID-FEBRUARY; 53 POINTS BY THE END OF FEBRUARY; 50 POINTS AND 3 1/2 YEARS OF SERVICE BY MID-MARCH; 47 POINTS BY MID-APRIL; 45 POINTS AND 2 1/2 YEARS OF SERVICE BY THE END OF APRIL; 43 POINTS END OF MAY, AND 40 POINTS AND TWO YEARS SERVICE BY THE END OF JUNE.

THE NEWSPAPER SAID STEPS ALREADY HAVE BEEN TAKEN TO FINANCE MANUFACTURE OF THE NEW PRODUCT AND THAT IT MAY BE MADE AFTER RECONVERSION OF A PLANT NOW MAKING ARTIFICIAL WOOL FOR MEN'S SUITS.

THE NEW FOODSTUFF, WHICH IS SAID TO COME OUT IN THE FORM OF AN ARTIFICIAL MEAT EXTRACT SUITABLE FOR SOUPS AND GRAVIES, IS REPORTED TO HAVE THE CALORIES AS MEAT, TO BE CHEMICALLY THE SAME AND TO HAVE THE SAME FAT AND ALBUMEN CONTENT. PRODUCTION IS EXPECTED TO START IN MARCH ON ABOUT 100 TONS MONTHLY.

WARSAW, JAN. 15-(AP)-UNOFFICIAL ESTIMATES TODAY PLACED THE AMOUNT OF AMERICAN INTERESTS INVOLVED IN POLAND'S NATIONALIZATION OF INDUSTRIES AT $50,000,000.

THE ANACONDA COPPER COMPANY WAS REPORTED BY AN AUTHORITATIVE SOURCE TO BE THE HEAVIEST INVESTOR. AMERICAN CAPITAL WAS INVESTED PRINCIPALLY IN THE GIESCHE WORKS, NEAR KATOWICE, WHICH INCLUDES COLLIERIES FOUNDRIES AND CHEMICAL AND ZINC-MELTING PLANTS.

BRITISH INVESTMENTS WERE ESTIMATED AT 7,000,000 POUNDS ($28,000,000).

POLISH MINISTER OF INDUSTRY HILARY MINC SAID THAT TOTAL FOREIGN INVESTMENTS IN POLAND'S INDUSTRIES AS OF 1939 WERE APPROXIMATELY $260,000,000 ONE-THIRD OF THIS TOTAL, HE SAID, WAS GERMAN CAPITAL AND WILL NOT BE PAID BACK. A PLAN IS NOW BEING DRAFTED TO COMPENSATE OTHER FOREIGN OWNERS FOR PROPERTIES NATIONALIZED.

AN AMERICAN EMBASSY OFFICIAL SAID A RECENT STATEMENT BY U.S. AMBASSADOR ARTHUR BLISS LANE THAT HE WOULD OPPOSE THE GRANTING OF FUNDS TO POLAND "AS LONG AS PRESENT CONDITIONS PREVAIL" WAS NOT A PROTEST AGAINST THE NATIONALIZATION OF INDUSTRIES. THE OFFICIAL SAID THAT

LANE'S PROTEST WAS "MADE IN CONNECTION WITH RIGHTS THE UNITED STATES HAS UNDER EXISTING TREATIES."

IRAN PLANNING APPEAL TO UNO AGAINST RUSSIA

Dispute to Be Submitted to Security Council Immediately.

FIRST TEST FACING AGENCY

Soviet's Attitude Over Azerbaijan Revolt Will Be Basis of Tehran's Protest.

London, Jan. 16 (A. P.).—Nasrullah Entezam, Iran delegate to the United Nations Assembly, said today that his country planned to appeal immediately to the new World Security Council to resolve its dispute with Russia and prevent the movement of further Red Army reinforcements into Iran. The delegate, former Iran Foreign Minister, said the issue would be taken to the Security Council as soon as it is in operation.

The eleven-nation council, of which Russia is one of the five powers with a veto capable of preventing council action on any issue, is scheduled to hold its first meeting tomorrow and the appeal threatened to confront the new peace organization with the first test of its powers.

The controversy springs from the Russian occupation of Azerbaijan, northwestern province of Iran where a government has been set up with self-proclaimed autonomous powers.

Seyed Hassan Taquizadeh, Iranian Ambassador to London, said he had received new instructions from Tehran last night after his speech before the General Assembly.

Exactly what approach will be made has not yet been worked out, Entezam said. Cases may be taken to the Security Council by direct petition or through the Secretary-General of the UNO—who has not yet been selected.

May Be Critical Test.

The Iranian developments, shaping up as a critical test case for the peace agency, overshadowed all other UNO activities and confronted Andrei Vishinsky, Soviet Vice-Commissar of Foreign Affairs and chief Russian delegate, with a difficult situation to tackle upon his expected arrival tomorrow. Entezam said that the Iranian Government would build much of its case against Russia on Chapter 1, Article 2, Paragraph 4 of the United Nations Charter, which declares:

"All members (of the United Nations) shall refrain in their international relations from the threat or use of force against the territorial integrity or political independence of any State, or in any other manner inconsistent with the purposes of the United Nations."

Entezam said, in explaining Iran opposition to newsmen, that his government had been prevented by Russia from moving troops throughout its own territory. He said that this impaired Iran's political independence and territorial integrity. He emphasized that the technical procedures for presenting the case had not yet been decided.

Premier Ibrahim Hakimi told the Iranian Parliament yesterday that:

1. Direct talks with Russia over the autonomy revolt in Soviet-occupied Azerbaijan province had failed.

2. Great Britain and Russia, who still have troops in Iran, were hesitating about evacuation by the scheduled deadline of March 2, and were "interfering in the affairs of Iran."

3. He had instructed Iran's delegation in London to approach the security council with his country's problems.

Caused a Flurry.

His statement caused a stir of excitement among the delegates. Yesterday Taquizadeh told the delegates the Iranians had "refrained rather reluctantly" from asking the Assembly to intervene at the moment because they hope that negotiations with Russia or "an agreement among the three major Powers" would bring a solution. He left the way open, however, for asking intervention at a later date.

"If this problem comes before you," he told the Assembly, "it would undoubtedly constitute a test case of the most explicit kind for the organization to manifest its fair spirit in dealing with it and protecting the vital rights of its members."

Taquizadeh told newsmen later that he was "afraid that if we wait until the next session of the Assembly to bring our case before the United Nations, it may be too late for them to take effective action."

Hakimi's reference to British interference in the affairs of Iran caused speculation here that Iran, if it goes before the UNO, might enter a complaint against Britain as well as Russia.

Three United States citizens are among the seventy-eight jurists of forty countries nominated for the fifteen-member International Court of Justice to be elected at the current session of the United Nations Assembly and the Security Council. They are legal adviser to the Secretary of State Green H. Hackworth of Chevy Chase, Md., nominated by the United States, Nicaragua and Turkey; Judge Manley O. Hudson of Harvard University, proposed by Argentina, Canada, Chile, the Dominican Republic, Ethiopia and Panama, and Dr. Charles G. Fenwick of Bryn Mawr, Pa., suggested by Venezuela.

A candidate must obtain a majority of the votes in the 54-nation Assembly and also in the eleven-nation Security Council. If more than one national from the same country gets such a majority, however, only the eldest can become a member of the court. Dr. Fenwick is 65 years old, Justice Hackworth is 62 and Judge Hudson is 59.

IRAN TO SEEK UNO AID AGAINST REDS

Will Ask Council to End Soviet Interference in Northern Province.

LONDON, Jan. 16—(AP) The United Nations Security council was confronted tonight with an international dispute before it had even taken a first step toward organizing for its task of keeping the peace.

Iran served notice it would ask the 11-member body, which meets for the first time tomorrow, for protection against what it termed "Russian interference" in northern Iran, where a self-government movement already has been marked by armed conflict.

Other Problems Loom

Simultaneously, delegates to the six-day-old General Assembly of the United Nations learned of two other international problems they might be called upon to consider.

The Hilversum radio said that the premier of the self-proclaimed Indonesian republic planned a direct appeal to the United Nations to resolve its conflict with the Dutch. The Netherlands Foreign Minister Eelco N. Van Kleffens, said however that such an appeal "would not be considered."

Poland threatened, through its foreign minister, to bring before the Security council a protest against the maintenance of a Polish army in Great Britain and Italy, unless the British response to an earlier protest is satisfactory.

All three disputes came to the fore despite pleas of Secretary of State James F. Byrnes and other assembly leaders not—as one delegate phrased it—to "put ice skates on the international baby before it has learned to walk."

Iran's grievance brought the Middle East nation into direct conflict with Russia, which has declared through its delegates that "there is no problem" in northern Iran.

Soviet has Veto Power

Russia is one of the five powers that can veto action by the Security council, the United Nations body which has authority to create and use an international armed force to quell aggression.

The Iranian delegate, Nasrullah Entezam, who said he planned to attend tomorrow's first meeting of the Security council as a spectator, explained the council would be asked specifically to halt the movement of additional Red troops into Iran.

"The Iranian case," he told the Associated Press, "is that Russia, by refusing passage to our troops int oAzerbaijan (northern province in the Russian-occupied zone) prevented our quelling the separatist movement there at the outset."

Moscow has attributed outbreaks of violence to reactionary forces trying to suppress a democratic movement in the agricultural province.

Entezam, a former foreign minister, said there were 700,000 Russians in the northern part of the country now "and the numbers are being increased every day."

He declared it was "essential in our view" that foreign troops on Iranian soil "should not be allowed to increase" before March 2, the date by which the Russians—as well as the British who occupy southern Iran — have agreed to leave.

UNO Unity Held Less Than That Of League

London, Jan. 16 (AP)—Arthur Sweetser, adviser to the American delegation to the United Nations Assembly, expressed the opinion today that the UNO had not yet achieved the unanimity of the League of Nations because it was divided into "two big groups, the Russian and the non-Russian."

Sweetser spent 23 years as an observer with the League of Nations. He said in an interview that the first difference he noticed between the two world organizaions was "a little feeling of uncomfortableness" here.

All "Pals" Then

"It occurred to me that the reason was that after the last war the victorious powers were all of the same ideology, members of the same club, pals more or less," he said. "This time the Russians have a little different conception from the others, and the point is not which is the better conception, the point is that they differ, and this makes for uneasiness."

Sweetser—who started with the League drafting the peace covenant in Paris in 1919, went to London for the first Secretariat and remained with the League in Geneva until 1942—said he "thought more of the League" than the rest of his delegation.

Big-Power Support

"Of course," the State Department man said, "the really great difference between the two is in having the new faces of Russia and the United States present.

"If the League had started off with the whole-hearted support of the two greatest powers in the world, it would have had a reasonable chance of success. Let's hope this works out better."

Ir. 'Lorna Doone' Is Photographed

London, Jan. 16 (AP)—Former Senator John C. Townsend of Delaware and Senator Arthur Vandenberg (R., Mich.), alternate and delegate, respectively, in the United States delegation to the United Nations Organization, were seated together at the special UNO showing of "Caesar and Cleopatra."

A British photographer took their picture, then said to Townsend:

"I beg your pardon, sir, are you Senator Townsend?" Townsend nodded, and the photographer asked Vandenberg, "and how are you, sir?"

Replied the Michigan Senator, "I'm Lorna Doone."

The photographer jotted down his caption notes, "Senator Townsend, Mr. Lorna Doone."

Sheik Hafiz Qahba, like the rest of the Arabian delegation a stickler for promptness at the sessions, appeared at one meeting in a dark suit, heavy dark overcoat and Trilby hat. He explained that he was "in too much the hurry" for robe-wrapping. And, making motions around his ears, he added that the native headdress sometimes "makes the head too hot."

He submitted to being photographed in the garb of the dapper diplomat on one condition: "Tomorrow with the robe."

New Yorker Named To UNRRA Mission

London, Jan. 16 (A. P.).—Milton Winn of New York city has been appointed senior deputy chief of the UNRRA mission in Czechoslovakia. He formerly was chief of the United States mission for the Foreign Economic Administration in Turkey.

Crash Kills 22 Ex-Prisoners

MARSEILLE, France, Jan. 16 (AP)—At least twenty-two persons were killed last night when a British transport plane carrying former British war prisoners from Singapore crashed into the hills near here during a snowstorm.

Berlin Gets Authority To Borrow 10 Million

Berlin, Jan. 16 (AP)—The Allied Kommandantur today authorized the city of Berlin to borrow 100,000,000 marks ($10,000,000) from the Berliner Stadt Kontor Bank, but with the warning that "credits in future will be greatly limited and steps must be taken to reduce the budget deficit to an absolute minimum."

The city originally had requested permission to borrow 150,000,000 marks.

The Kommandantur also granted the request of Berlin's civilian administration for establishment of a teacher training institute to be operated at the city's expense. The mayor's office estimated that 2,325 teachers are needed in the city's schools—more than half of them in the Russian sector.

ALLIES ARMING POLICE IN BERLIN WITH GUNS

BERLIN, Jan. 16. — (AP) Allied occupation authorities today began arming Berlin's German police with guns under the limited rearming program adopted to combat the crime wave.

Only pistols, revolvers and truncheons were issued. No completely automatic weapons are allowed and all police guns must have been manufactured outside Germany.

NAZIS BLAMED COMMUNISTS

Reichstag Fire Linked To Them At Hitler's Direction

Nuernberg, Germany, Jan. 16 (AP). A German democrat once exiled by the Nazis told the international military tribunal today Hermann Goering had admitted that Communists were blamed for the Reichstag fire in 1933 without an investigation because "the Führer wanted it this way."

"You must take into account that at that time Communist activity was extremely strong and that our new Government, as such, was not very secure," the former Reichsmarshal was quoted.

The statements were presented by Robert N. W. Kempner, who found refuge in Philadelphia from the Nazis and appeared as an assistant United States prosecutor before the international military tribunal trying Goering and 21 other top Nazis. Kempner questioned Goering at the Nuernberg jail October 13.

30.24 — 32

Reichstag Fire In 1933

[Fire destroyed the central part of the Reichstag building in Berlin February 27, 1933. The Nazis used it as a pretext for the wholesale arrest of Communists and suppression of Communist newspapers. This, with other strong-arm methods, helped give the Nazis victory in elections March 5 of a new Reichstag. Actual responsibility for the fire never has been definitely fixed.]

Kempner introduced the interrogation report as evidence against Wilhelm Frick, who as Minister of the Interior signed the Nazi announcement blaming Communists for the fire and later became "protector" of Bohemia-Moravia.

He charged that Frick was one of the originators and chief administrator of the secret 1940 Nazi decree under which many thousands of aged and infirm Germans were put to death.

Americans Wind Up Cases

The British and the United States wound up their cases today in the sixty-eighth session of the tribunal. The French and Russians now take over the presentation of evidence.

In the prosecution of Martin Bormann, Hitler's aide being tried in absentia, the prosecutors read the record of a secret meeting of Fritz Sauckel with officials of the ministry for occupied eastern territories and the Nazi Labor Front on September 4, 1942.

This record showed that Hitler wanted 500,000 women of from 15 to 35 years of age imported as domestics from the Ukraine in furtherance of his dream of creating a nation of 250,000,000 German-speaking people within 100 years.

as war criminals, received this evidence in the record of a secret meeting of Fritz Sauckel with officials of the Ministry for Occupied Eastern Territories and the Nazi Labor Front September 4, 1942.

Sauckel, who was in charge of foreign labor, was in the prisoners' box as the report was read in prosecution of Martin Bormann, Hitler's aide who is being tried in absentia, although many believed he died in the battle of Berlin.

Suitable For Assimilation

The record showed that Hitler wanted the imported women to be from 15 to 35 years old and of appearance suitable for their assimilation by the Germans.

To further the scheme, Hitler ordered the suspension of a decree forbidding the "illegal bringing of female housekeepers into the Reich by members of the armed forces."

Lieut. Henry V. Atherton, of Boston, an American prosecutor, accused another defendant, Arthur Seyss-Inquart, former commissioner for Austria and later for the Netherlands, of deporting at least 117,000 Jews from Holland, most of them to Nazi murder camps. He was also accused of sending 431,500 Dutch to slave labor in Germany.

"Most Detested"

Describing Seyss-Inquart as one of the "most detested" defendants, the prosecutor swiftly introduced evidence that Seyss-Inquart possessed absolute power and therefore could not escape blame for his deeds. He called Seyss-Inquart the first of Hitler's quislings or traitors.

The prosecutor quoted one of Seyss-Inquart's speeches in The Hague in 1943:

"We remain human because we do not torture our opponents. We have to remain tough because we have to annihilate them."

Bormann Attitude

The British prosecution offered this declaration of Bormann as illustrative of the Nazi attitude toward conquered peoples:

"The Slavs are to work for us. In so far as we don't want them, they may die. Therefore, compulsory vaccination and German health measures are superfluous. The fertility of Slavs is undesirable. They may use contraceptives or practice abortion, the more the better. Education is dangerous. It is enough that they can count up to 100. Every educated person is a future enemy. Religion we leave to them as a means of diversion. As for food, they won't get any more than is necessary. We are the masters. We are the first."

Case Against Schirach

The prosecution completed its case against Baldur von Schirach, who was leader of the Hitler Youth Movement and Gauleiter of Vienna, blaming him for the deportation to Poland of 60,000 Vienna Jews, many destined for Nazi murder mills.

Robert M. W. Kempner, German-born member of the American prosecution staff, presented the record of an interrogation of Hermann Goering, in which the latter admitted that Communists were blamed for the firing of the Reichstag in 1933 before there was any evidence, "because the Führer wanted it that way."

Kempner, of Lansdowne, Pa., was thrown into a Nazi concentration camp for his part in attempting to outlaw the Nazi party before its rise to power. He was later thrown out of Germany.

Evidence Against Frick

Kempner also introduced an interrogation report as evidence against Wilhelm Frick, former Interior Minister, who was disclosed to have obtained German citizenship in 1932 for Hitler, then regarded by Prussian police as an "undesirable alien."

American Assistant Prosecutor Captain Drexel A. Sprecher, of Independence, Wis., read to the court Schirach's own declaration that as Nazi district leader of Vienna he had driven "tens of thousands upon tens of thousands of Jews into the Ghetto of the East."

Schirach was also linked with the confiscation of church properties in Vienna by documents showing that he even engaged in a dispute with other Nazi leaders over the disposition of the seized properties, insisting that he be permitted to keep the loot rather than turn it over to the Reich.

"Approved Of Abetted"

"Schirach must be held guilty specifically of all crimes of Nazi conspirators in Vienna on the ground that he either initiated, approved, executed or abetted them," the prosecutor declared.

Earlier, the tribunal was given details of agreements under which Schirach provided a flow of well-indoctrinated young Nazis from his youth movement into the ranks of both the SS (Elite Guard) and the Wehrmacht.

"It was the task of Schirach to prepetuate the Nazi regime through generations by poisoning the minds of youth and preparing youth for aggressive wars," the court was told. "This poison will long outlive the defendants."

French Case Ready

French prosecutors, meanwhile, put the finishing touches to their case and were ready to begin presentations of evidence against the 22 defendants tomorrow.

Britain and the United States wound up their cases against the 22 defendants today. The French and Russians now take over the case.

Naval Lieutenant Thomas F. Lambert, Jr., former attorney for the Board of Economic Warfare in Washington, presented the case against Bormann.

Lambert said Bormann was sentenced to prison in 1925 for participating in a political assassination, but soon gained his freedom.

When the attorney said Bormann in 1933 gained the "No. 3 position in the party organization, that of chief of staff to Rudolf Hess," Hess turned to Hermann Goering with eyebrows raised.

Nation Of 250,000,000 In Century Hitler Dream

N. VORGAARD

Nuernberg, Germany, Jan. 16 (AP). The International Military Tribunal heard today that Hitler dreamed of creating a nation of 250,000,000 German-speaking people within 100 years and ordered 500,000 young women domestics brought from the Ukraine as a step toward that goal.

JACKSON PRAISES TRIAL REPORTING

Nuernberg, Jan. 16 (A. P.)—Supreme Court Justice Robert H. Jackson, chief prosecutor for the United States, today praised newspaper reporting of the Nuernberg trials as "exceptionally intelligent." The British acting chief prosecutor, Sir David Maxwell Fyfe, said he seconded Jackson's tribute.

"All reports I get from the United States indicate the people have been given a pretty clear picture of what we have been trying to do," said Jackson at a press conference. "Much more has been involved than the fate of the men in the dock. You have made a very obscure and difficult subject plainer."

Jackson said that the United States was not yet participating in any Allied preparations for a second trial after Nuernberg.

"Some one else will have to carry it on," he said, since he plans to return to his place on the Supreme Court bench in Washington in the spring.

DEMONSTRATIONS BY GI'S BANNED IN EUROPEAN AREA

D. DOANE

FRANKFURT, Germany, Jan. 16 —(AP) Gen. Joseph T. McNarney today banned all unauthorized GI mass demonstrations in Europe and warned that such meetings might be "exploited by some individuals or elements" to the injury of Army discipline.

"A tendency has been noted on some occasions to use the meetings for purposes other than urging more rapid redeployment," said the theater commander's order, directed to all major commanders in Europe.

The soldier demonstrations have served their purpose, McNarney said.

Commanders Ordered

He told the commanders to "guard against the relatively harmless practice of mass protests for informational purposes from degenerating into an opportunity that may be exploited by some individuals or elements to the extent of becoming definitely injurious to the discipline and good name of the Army."

McNarney said permission for mass meetings in the future should be given by commanders only when they were certain the purpose was a worthy one. But he placed upon the officers the responsibility for speedy transmission to the proper authorities of all legitimate soldier complaints.

Theater staff officers said they understood similar orders were planned by the War department to halt the recent wave of demonstrations which spread to every combat theater in Europe and the Pacific as soldiers pressed demands for speedier demobilization.

Gen. Eisenhower, chief of staff, yesterday told Congress that "the time has now arrived to replace hysteria with calm judgment and sound discipline."

'Intra-Army Scandal' Rumored In Slayings

R. O'REAGAN

Frankfurt, Germany, Jan. 16 (AP). The ten-day-old investigation into the mysterious torch murder of three United States Military Government officers at Passau has been classified as "top secret."

A high officer closely associated with the case said he was unable to explain why reports on the slaying flowing into theater headquarters had been given the United States Army's highest security classification.

CLAY

Rumors circulated that an arrest had been made, but high officers refused to comment. Instead, the secrecy surrounding the case was intensified.

One officer unofficially volunteered the statement that he believed the case might be an "intra-army scandal." A report said an American officer was under suspicion.

Wrapped In Secrecy

Army investigators have wrapped the entire case in such secrecy that so far not even the names and home towns of the victims have been officially announced. However, they have been unofficially identified as Major Everett S. Cofran, of Washington, D.C.; Capt. Adrian I. Wesseler, of New Rochelle, N.Y., and Lieut. Stanley Rosewater, of Omaha, Neb.

Every attempt by reporters to obtain information about the progress of the investigation was met either by a rebuff or by reference to some other military office, which in turn said it had no details.

Sent Back And Forth

The head of one army investigating body called in reporters to say that neither he nor his subordinates could release any information and referred the matter back to investigators in the 3d Army area. Third Army headquarters two days ago had referred questions to him.

The hush-hush attitude extended all along the line. Investigators said they had several leads and that the case was "narrowing," but refused even to hint at a positive motive. Intelligence officers, however, reiterated that there was no evidence of German resistance activity.

U. S. ORDER MAY FREE OVER 20,000 GERMANS

FRANKFURT, Germany, Jan. 16 —(AP) More than 20,000 Germans now in an automatic arrest category may be released from jail in the American occupation zone under a new order by the War department, Lt. Gen. Lucius D. Clay, U. S. Deputy Military Governor of Germany, said today.

The new order—which Clay said was recommended by the U. S. Office of Military Government—prescribes release of internees arrested only because of their membership in German organizations, providing their organizations are not to be indicted before the international tribunal as war criminal organizations.

Clay declined to name the groups affected until he has ascertained definitely which will not be indicted, but suggested it might affect such internees as high police and governmental officials or possibly the lower ranks of SA (Storm Troops) members against whom no individual charges have been made.

He estimated the order might free "as many as 20 per cent" of the 117,000 Germans now interned in the American zone.

Reports No Black Market

Frankfurt, Germany, Jan. 16 (AP). Brig. Gen. Edwin L. Sibert, United States Army intelligence chief in Europe, said today there was no evidence of an organized German black market anywhere in the American occupation zone.

Army's Top Security Rating Given Officers' Death Probe

LEGAL

Frankfurt, Germany, Jan. 16 (AP). Investigation of the cremation slaying of three American military government officers at Passau has been classified "top secret," it was learned today. Correspondents were unable to obtain confirmation of rumors that an arrest had been made.

INSIGHT

A high officer closely identified with the investigation said such a classification, the Army's highest security rating, restricts reports on a case to officers directly concerned, and normally is imposed when secrecy affects "the direct success of a mission."

No Reason For Classification

He offered no explanation why the classification was applied to reports on the slaying now flowing into theater headquarters.

So secret has the investigation been that thus far there has been no official announcement of the names or addresses of the three officers who were hacked to death before their billet was burned almost to the ground ten days ago.

The Army newspaper Stars and Stripes reported in Neurnberg that it learned one of the victims, identified unofficially as Lieut. Stanley Rosewater, of Omaha, Neb., apparently still was alive, although his head had been smashed repeatedly with an ax, when the slayer put the torch to his body.

No Hint On Motives

The newspaper said the other victims, identified unofficially as Major Everett S. Cofran, of Washington, D.C., and Capt. Adrian I. Wexler, of New Rochelle, N.Y., also had been hacked before the fire was started. Their skulls each showed marks of one vicious blow and many lighter cuts inflicted with sadistic savagery, the newspaper said.

The army newspaper said investigators were hot on a trail which might lead to the arrest of an American officer.

There has been no hint from official quarters of motives which might have caused the slayings.

Investigators would say only that they had several leads, and that the case was narrowing down.

POISON GAS EXPERTS ARRESTED IN GERMANY

HERFORD, Germany, Jan. 16.—(AP) The British have arrested three German poison gas experts and are holding them for trial as war criminals.

They are Dr. Brunn Tesch, president of Oesch and Stebenow of Hamburg, and his two co-directors, Karl Weinbacher and Joachim Drosihn.

The British war crimes section said the three were alleged to have been implicated in supplying a prussic acid gas known as Zyklon B to concentration camps where inmates were gassed.

Fighting In Sicily

Rome, Jan. 16 (AP)—Italian news dispatches from Sicily reported continued sporadic fighting today as Italian troops and Carabinieri sought to mop up roving bands of bandits and Sicilian separatists.

This Daniel in Lion's Den Takes Typewriter Along

MILAN—(AP) Giorgio Crosti, feature writer for the Milan Corriere Lombardo, is one interviewer who literally beards lions in their den.

A traveling circus came to Milan, and Crosti took a portable typewriter into the lion's cage to interview the lion-tamer.

Obviously nervous at the start as four lions padded about him, roaring at photographers' flashbulbs, Crosti gained confidence as he went along and at the end had his typewriter clicking merrily.

A crowd listening in tense silence as he fired questions at the trainer, cheered the journalist as he came out of the cage.

British Financial Aid To Greece Estimated

Athens, Jan. 16 (AP)—Premier Themistokles Sophoulis told a press conference today that British financial assistance to Greece would total either £15,000,000 ($60,000,000) or 3,500,000 gold sovereigns ($28,840,000), enough to stabilize the inflated drachma.

He added, however, that Greece must not rely upon outside help entirely, but must do everything possible to relieve the country's troubled economic situation.

[In London, a Foreign Office spokesman said Greek financial talks were continuing. "When they are over," he said, "we shall issue a statement. Pending that, no details are authentic."]

Russian Writer Hits 'Use' Of Little Powers In UNO

Moscow, Jan. 16 (AP)—The Russian Army newspaper Red Star in an article by its international observer, I. Yermashov, declared today that attempts within the United Nations Organization to "turn the little powers into political weapons of some great powers can have fatal consequences for the cause of peace."

Commenting on the opening of the UNO Assembly, Yermashov wrote that the old "League of Nations in reality became an arena of struggle between the great powers, and a depository of the most different groupings which least of all were able to prevent Fascist aggression."

Great-Power Responsibility

Although in the new organization all members have equal rights, Yermashov wrote, "it is only natural that the most responsible obligations rest on the great powers."

Although some plans have now arisen to oppose the "little powers" against the great powers inside the United Nations Organization, the article continued, these "attempts to turn the little powers into political weapons of some big powers can have fatal consequences for the cause of peace."

Events In Italy

Internal events in Italy demand the vigilance of freedom-loving people, Yermashov said.

"The explosion of a bomb December 24 in the building housing the leadership of the Communist party in Rome" and a threat to kill the head of the Communist party are "especially revealing," the article added.

ACCUSED IN DEATH OF 2,200,000 REDS

Moscow, Jan. 16 (A. P.).—Eighteen Germans, including three generals, were accused of exterminating 2,200,000 civilians and war prisoners in Russia in a war crimes trial which began yesterday at Minsk. The first day's evidence also charged the defendants with shipping 38,000 persons into Germany and with enormous destruction and plunder.

The accused include Lieut.-Gen. Johann Richert, former commander of 256 guard and thirty-five infantry divisions; Major-Gen. Edward Herff of the police and brigadenfuehrer of Storm Troops, and Major-Gen. Gotfried Ermansdorff, former commandant of the city of Mogilev and the Mogilev fortified district. The other defendants were lower-ranking officers and soldiers.

In Nikolaev, in the Ukraine, the State prosecutor demanded death by hanging for nine other Germans on trial for war crimes.

Travelers Halted In Palestine Hunt

Jerusalem, Jan. 16 (AP)—Police halted travelers between Jerusalem, Tel Aviv and Haifa today in a search for hidden arms used in recent terroristic outbreaks between Arabs and Jews.

In Tel Aviv leaflets posted on walls of buildings during the night and signed by the Jewish terrorist organization, Irgun Zvai Leumi, proclaimed that the organization was responsible for the wrecking of a railroad train and the theft of a $140,000 pay roll last Saturday near Hadera.

Police and soldiers seeking unlicensed weapons stopped busses traveling between Jerusalem and Tel Aviv and between Tel Aviv and Haifa. Baggage was searched and the passengers' identity papers were examined.

One observer said the Arab boycott on Jewish goods in towns and cities had been tightened but that in the agricultural regions the relations between the two groups generally were friendly.

2 Kings Say Palestine 'Must Remain Arab'

Cairo, Jan. 16 (AP)—King Ibn Saud of Saudi Arabia and King Farouk of Egypt issued a joint statement today declaring "Palestine must remain an Arab country."

The two monarchs made the declaration as a British-American joint commission wound up Washington hearings and prepared to go to England and the Middle East for further study of Jewish claims to a homeland in Palestine.

Their statement was read by Egyptian Premier Mahmoud Fahmy Nokrashi Pasha at a luncheon given in honor of the two Kings by the Pan-Arab League. The Arabian ruler is here on a twelve-day visit in which Arab unity has been stressed.

British Artillery Opens On Last-Ditch Indonesians

Shells Bridge Position Near Soerabaja; Batavia Quiet

BATAVIA, Java, Jan. 16 (AP).—British artillery shelled hold-out Indonesian Nationalist positions in eastern and west central Java today.

Artillery and motars in the east Java port of Soerabaja hammered at a bridge southwest of the city held by Indonesian forces. To the west of the city, Indonesians fired on a patrolling aircraft and mined a staff car, a British communique said.

At Bandoeng, in west central Java, British guns shelled the Isola Hotel, headquarters of a Nationalist force, silencing machine guns and rifles and forcing thirty Indonesians to flee, the bulletin said.

Batavia was quiet. Five of the city's six main markets opened yesterday.

The Dutch news agency, Aneta, quoted Premier Sutan Sjahrir of the unrecognized Indonesian republic as saying he planned to appeal directly "to the United Nations as a whole to settle the dispute over the Indonesian demand for independence from the Netherlands."

ATC Waste in India Is Denied

CALCUTTA, India, Jan. 16 (AP)—United States Army officers denied today before a Senate subcommittee investigating the sale of surplus military supplies that useful Army property had been destroyed at the Tesgaon Air Transport Command installation near Calcutta. Members of the subcommittee, headed by Senator James M. Tunnell, Democrat, of Delaware, told a delegation of enlisted men the Army hoped to have all American troops out of Burma by Feb. 1.

Singapore Chinese Seek Yamashita Extradition

Singapore, Jan. 16 (AP)—Chinese here plan to demand the extradition of Japanese Lieut. Gen. Tomoyuki Yamashita to Singapore for trial on war-crimes charges.

They have expressed the belief that such a trial would throw more light on crimes committed by Japanese forces during the early days of the occupation, when 50,000 Chinese were rounded up in Singapore and massacred.

A United States military commission in Manila has imposed a death sentence on Yamashita for permitting atrocities in the Philippines. His case now is before the United States Supreme Court.

New Clashes Reported in China

Political Conference Told of Violations of Truce—Both Factions Worried.

Chungking, Jan. 16 (A. P.).—New reports of armed clashes in North China, in violation of the recently reached Nationalist-Communist truce, were heard today by the Political Consultation Conference.

The reports were made by Gen. Chang Chun, governor of Szechwan Province and the Government representative on the truce committee which, with Gen. George C. Marshall's aid, last week formally arrived at a peace pact. Chou En-lai, Communist representative on the committee, said that both Chang and he "are worried by reports of continued fighting."

Chang announced that a three-man committee, projected under an October 10 Kuomintang Communist agreement to reorganize the Chinese army, had been formed and held its first meeting yesterday. The members are Chang and Gen. Chang Chih-Chung, representing the Government, and Chou, for the Communists. Chang Chun said he hoped the committee would achieve reorganization of the Communist armies within three months.

Would Cut Size of Army.

Gen. Lin Wei, Vice Minister of War, said plans call for reduction of the present strength of the Chinese Army from 4,830,000 to 1,800,000 within six months. A large number of demobilized troops would be employed to build railways and highways and on water conservancy and other projects.

Chou expressed hope that nationalization of the armed forces could be carried out simultaneously with democratization of the Government. He said the Communists would adhere to their October 10 pledge to reduce their armies to twenty divisions but contended this program should be co-ordinated with reorganization of Government forces.

He proposed that during the interim period a Minister of War who is a member of neither the Kuomintang nor Communist parties should be appointed. He also proposed that any foreign loans to China should be used for rehabilitation and reconstruction and not to maintain military forces.

Representatives of the Government, the Communists and the Democratic League all advocated that the Army should be divorced completely from politics and belong to the State instead of to individual parties.

Later, Minister of Information K. C. Wu "deeply deplored" the Communist charges of Government violations of the military truce and charged that the Communists were placing propaganda above national interests.

CLASHES STILL OCCUR IN CHINA

U.S. Planes Dump Cease-Fire Leaflets Over Provinces

Chungking, Jan. 16 (AP)—Gen. Chang Chun, Government truce negotiator, told China's unity conference today that armed clashes still were reported in the north—the Communists said in seven strategic provinces.

a special commission in Peiping strove to check the clashes, Olen Clements, Associated Press correspondent, reported.]

Three Specific Charges

The National Military Council charged the Communists with three specific violations of the truce, including attacks on Government troops on trains bound for Mukden in Manchuria.

The council asserted the Communists also were attacking near Miyun, 35 miles northeast of Peiping, and were massing six divisions near Kupenkow on the Great Wall 65 miles northeast of Peiping.

Army Reorganizing Studied

Chou En-lai, the Communist negotiator, said both he and General Chang were "worried by reports of continued fighting."

A Communist dispatch alleged the clashes occurred after Sunday's midnight deadline in Shansi, Jehol, Kiangsu, Honan, Hopeh, Suiyuan and Shantung provinces.

General Chang also announced that a three-man committee, set up under a Kuomintang-Communist agreement October 10, met yesterday to consider reorganization of China's army. Under the proposed plan Communist divisions would become a part of the national armies for the first time.

Representatives of the Government, the Communists and the Democratic League all agreed that the armies should be divorced from politics and belong to the state instead of individual parties as now.

Gen. Lin Wei, Vice Minister of War, said demobilization plans called for cutting the army from 4,830,000 to 1,800,000 within six months.

Mukden Ban On Writers

Chinsien, Manchuria, Jan. 11 [Delayed] (AP)—A spokesman for Gen. Tu Li-ming, commanding Government forces in Manchuria, told American correspondents tonight they wold not be permitted to enter Mukden while Soviet troops were there because the Russians regarded them as "enemies."

The spokesman said that was the substance of a message sent from Mukden by the leader of a Chinese advance party, Maj. Gen. Peng Sheng.

Because of this, the latest obstacle to eyewitness reporting of Manchurian operations for American readers, correspondents asked their home offices to protest to President Truman and his special envoy to China, General Marshall, now in Chungking.

Shanghai French Assailed

Shanghai, Jan. 16 (AP)—Seven hundred Annamite members of the French police today proclaimed termination of relations with "oppressive and irresponsible French authorities in Shanghai" and announced allegiance to the Viet Minh government at Hanoi.

Furloughs To Help Empty 'Dog House'

Peiping, Jan. 16 (AP)—Two men of Maj. Gen. Louis E. Wood's North China 1st Marine Air Wing have been given furloughs home to convince their wives they didn't really ask to remain in China.

The General made this disclosure after a "gripe session" at which men of his command were invited to air any complaints.

Woods said that at a similar session at Tsingtao two men showed him stateside newspaper clippings saying that all Marines remaining in North China had volunteered for the assignments. Both complained their wives were threatening to divorce them if they liked North China better than their homes. He did not identify the frantic husbands, but said both were granted emergency furloughs.

Ishiwata Ousted By M'Arthur Directive

Tokyo, Jan. 16 (AP)—General MacArthur's political purge directive today forced the resignation of Sotaro Ishiwata, Imperial Household Minister, who controlled the Emperor's purse.

Ishiwata, 53, formerly was Finance Minister under ex-Premier Hideki Tojo and was reported to have been active in the Imperial Rule Assistance Association. He was appointed Household Minister in 1944.

He was the first member of the Emperor's staff forced to resign by MacArthur's January 4 order for the ouster of all ultranationalists from the Government.

Succeeded Ishiwata

Viscount Yoshitami Matsudaira, formerly grand master of ceremonies at the palace, succeeded Ishiwata.

Meantime, Nosei Abe, new Education Minister, said the Japanese Government should make clear to the nation its attitude on the controversial emperor system.

In the first interview since his investiture, Abe told the Japanese press he deplored the fact the Japanese leadership has failed to express positively its view on the future relationship that should exist between democracy and the framework of the Japanese Government.

Clarity Held Lacking

Abe, one of the five new Ministers in Premier Kijuro Shidehara's reshuffled Cabinet, said that while the Japanese are talking about democracy they do not understand its real meaning.

The Minister said "no clear answer has been made by the Government on how to interpret and understand the true relationship between the national policy and democracy. This is particularly true in regard to the question of the emperor system. It is urgent that the Government announce its definite view.

Rightists' "Common Front"

Kyodo News Agency said the rightist parties, reported to have formed a "common front," had adopted a platform for "revision of the emperor system and democratization of Japan's economic and financial world."

Imperial Household Minister Quits Under Japanese Purge

Tokyo, Jan. 16 (AP)—The man who held the Emperor's purse-strings quit his job today, resigning under the pressure of General MacArthur's political purge directive.

He was Sotaro Ishiwata, Imperial Household Minister and one of the last remaining top-flight Japanese linked with Hideki Tojo's wartime regime.

Matudaira As Successor

Ishiwata became Tojo's Finance Minister in 1943. He became Household Minister in 1945 with the task of supervising the Emperor's accounts and generally handling the affairs of the imperial family.

Appointed today to succeed him was Viscount Yoshitmai Matudaira, 63, Oxford-educated veteran court official recently president of the peerage bureau and before that grand master of ceremonies.

Ishiwata was the first court official to quit as a direct result of the January 4 purge directive. Several weeks ago Marquis Koichi Kido, Lord Keeper of the Privy Seal, resigned his post when he learned that his arrest as a war criminal suspect was imminent.

Congressmen Astonished

Yoshishige Abe, the newly appointed Minister of Education, urged official clarification of the government's attitude toward the controversial emperor system. He said that while Japanese were currently talking a lot about democracy they did not understand the meaning of it.

Members of the House naval affairs subcommittee touring the Orient meanwhile declared themselves "astonished" by the co-operative attitude of the Japanese.

Representative G. J. Bates (R., Mass.), in a statement issued after the subcommittee conferred with General MacArthur, said the congressmen were "quite astonished to not the wholehearted co-operation of all the Japanese people" with the Supreme Commander's handling of occupation problems.

CHARTER O.K.'D FOR JAP TRIAL

MacArthur Decides American On Court Will Be Civilian

Tokyo, Thursday, Jan. 17 (AP)—General MacArthur has approved a charter under whic han international tribunal will try such top-flight Japanese as Hideki Tojo as war criminals and has decided the American on the tribunal will be a civilian, it was learned at Allied headquarters today.

MacArthur plans to select an outstanding lawyer, no necessarily with judicial experience but representing the higher levels of the bar.

Names of the Chinese and British Empire nominees will not be announced until final decision on the American choice.

Russian Silence Unbroken

It further was learned that Russia has not broken its silence on the approaching trials and has made no efforts to participate in formation of the tribunal.

The Charter under which the tribunal will conduct the trials will be issued within a few days, together with MacArthur's official promulgation creating the court.

The tribunal is expected to meet the first week in February. Indictments aainst the ranking Japanese held in Sugamo prison probably will be returned about February 15. Tojo, wartime Japanese Premier, and fifteen or twenty others will be named for the first joint trial.

Some of the more optimistic members of the prosecution believe the trials can get under way by March 1, but most informed persons at headquarters feel the date will be a week or so later.

Defendants Retain Lawyers

Formation of the tribunal is of global scope and has taken more time than expected. Even when the court is complete it must meet and appoint counsel for the defendants. It will require several weeks for these attorneys to consult with the prisoners and prepare their cases.

Some defendants already have retained Japanese lawyers. Others have asked to be represented by German attorneys living in Japan. Such requests will be granted if investigation shows the Germans are not personally objectionable to Allied governments.

The defendants cannot, however, be represented both by American counsel, probably military officers, and Japanese German lawyers.

GI's Reaction To New Discharge Bases Vary

Tokyo, Jan. 16 (AP)—Soldier reaction to General Eisenhower's discharge plan ranged today from indorsement of the War Department demobilization policy by a 21-pointer to strong criticism of "army lethargy" by a man with 47 points.

The cut in points—Eisenhower said everyone with 40 will be released by June 30—was called slight in view of General MacArthur's action of a few days ago in cutting the current point minimum here to 48.

Baltimore Voice

On the whole, said Tech. 4/g Salvatore Cammarata, of Baltimore, occupation troops were disappointed. "We were hoping for some specific date for going home. This doesn't give it to those like myself with seventeen points."

Tech. Sergt. Thomas M. Dalton, of Carbon, Ind., with twelve points and thirteen months' service, figured he would have to remain overseas another year.

Tech. 5/g George D. Stewart, counting 21 points, said he would like to go home to San Jose, Costa Rica, "but I agree with the War Department that we are demobilizing too fast." He added, however, that there are twice as many troops in the Pacific as originally estimated for a postwar garrison.

"Pusillanimous Policy"

Calling himself "a very disgruntled soldier that is fed up with pusillanimous Army policy," a 5th Air Force sergeant, Robert Wolf, of Detroit, demanded: "Where are the nebulous replacements? The draft hasn't stopped. The re-enlistment campaign went over the top and there are many men in the States that never have seen overseas service."

Wolf has 47 points. He has been overseas 17 of his 28 months in the service.

Tech. 4/g Vernon Crouse, of Hagerstown, who also has 47 points, said: "I don't like the new plan. According to that schedule, it means delay in our getting home. I have been figuring all along to be back in the United States in February. Now it'll be some time in May."

Tech. 5/g Frank A. Blanchard, of Blanks, La., inquired simply, "What about ten points?"

Parents Feel Same Way

Parents of both Cammarata and Crouse echoed the dissatisfaction of their sons.

Mrs. John A. Cammarata, of 625 North Duncan street, Baltimore, said that her son was only 19 years old and that he needed only five months more at Loyola College before getting his B.S. degree when he was drafted in December of 1944. He went overseas last June.

"I think if only the boys knew how long they would have to stay away—if the Army would tell them two years or a year and a half or however long—then they would be happier. I don't want to complain because I know lots of boys have spent more time overseas than my son, but it would be nice if we only knew how much longer," she said.

Another Son In Service

Mr. and Mrs. Cammarata have another son, Pfc. Vincent Cammarata, 23, who is still in the Army after three years. He is back in the States now after serving for fifteen months in Italy, Africa and Sicily.

Mrs. Vernon A. Crouse, Sr., of Hagerstown, said her son, who is now 22, was in his second year at Virginia Polytechnic Institute when he was called into the Army. He went overseas last January and the family had been looking forward to his return next month.

"We're terribly disappointed, of course," she said. "It doesn't seem quite fair that some boys must give up so much of their lives while others are released after a year and a half or two years without ever going overseas."

Mr. and Mrs. Crouse have another son, who is 17 years old. They are hoping the Army "won't get him."

Jap Repatriation Edict

Tokyo, Jan. 16 (AP)—Allied headquarters ordered the Japanese Government to keep repatriation reception centers filled with Koreans, Formosans and residents of the Ryukyus. Headquarters said some repatriation ships had been sailing half full because centers were not at capacity.

Japanese to Resume Dividends

TOKYO, Jan. 16 (AP).—Resumption of dividend payments by the larger Japanese corporations was approved by Allied headquarters today, provided payments are made from current earnings and not from reserves. Companies named in headquarters' list of restricted firms or those holding war indemnity claims against the government were limited to marimum payments of 5 per cent annually.

Jap Farm-Plan Lags

Tokyo, Jan. 16 (AP)—Kyodo news agency reported today that only about 30 per cent of the increased agricultural production planned for this year had been started by the Japanese Government in the past four months. More han 3,000,000 acres of reclaimed land is scheduled for cultivation under a five-year plan, and about 24 per cent, or some 700,000 acres, is due for planting this year.

Fish Meal Seen Aiding Japan's Food Problem

Toyko, Jan. 16 (AP)—Fish meal,

similar to that fed poultry and live stock in the United States, may prove an important part of the solution to Japan's food shortage.

Fish meal is highly regarded as food in Japan and is valuable as a protein and mineral supplement in the Japanese diet," said Lieut. Col. R. H. Fielder, of Seattle, chief of the fisheries division of Allied headquarters.

Fish meal will be used to enrich a mixture of wheat flour and a special meal, which is a mixture of ground silk worms, locusts and thirteen varieties of roots, leaves and plants.

The supplemental fish meal will be made from sardines, cod, herring and mackerel.

Jap-Trial Witness Contradicts Himself

Yokohama, Jan. 16 (AP)—United States Military Commissioners took over questioning of a prosecution witness in a war-crimes case today after complaining that his answers were contradictory.

Mitsuo Michikawa, an interpreter at the Muroran prison camp commanded by the defendant, Kaichi Hirate, told the commission he saw Hirate strike a prisoner only once, and then with the palm of his hand.

The witness testified previously that Hirate struck a Dutch internee with his scabbard.

Four Deaths Charged

Hirate is charged with responsibility for the deaths of four Allied prisoners, including that of Pfc. Raymond Suttle, of Hadleigh, Suffolk.

A defense witness, Second Lieutenant Henry T. Omachi, of Minneapolis, identified the camp record card and death certificate issued for Suttle. Omachi, who was assigned to the Japanese prisoner-of-war information bureau as custodian of records, said the death certificate had not been altered or erased. Hirate was accused of erasing incriminating statements from the certificate.

"Spirit Of Affection"

An affidavit by Lieut. Morris Wynd, of Edinburgh, Scotland, a British intelligence corpsman who was a camp prisoner, said Guard Asadi Gunso told the victims of his beatings that he was "merely correcting them in a spirit of affection of a blood relation."

Wynd's affidavit said Gunso "savagely beat" a Dutch captain who refused to shave his mustache and cleaved the head of an RAF sergeant with a shovel for an unstated reason.

U.S.-Russian Unit Discussing Korea

RUYERS

Seoul, Korea, Jan. 16 (AP)—The United States-Russian commission launched discussions today to lead Korea up the road to independence, spurred by a Soviet general's assertion that co-operation born in war could endure in peace.

Lieut. Gen. John R. Hodge, commander in the United States occupation zone in southern Korea, shook hands with Col. Gen. Terentyi Shtikov, head of the Russian delegation, in the flag-draped conference room.

"It is my hope," Hodge said, "and that of my Government that these present conversations will result in an agreement which will, in the administrative and economic spheres, bring to an end the trials and difficulties of the Korean nation brought about by over 35 years of Japanese oppression and misrule."

In reply, Shtikov pledged the same Russian co-operation as during the war and added:

"This will be our first joint step for the establishment in the administrative-economic realm of lasting co-ordination between the American command in southern Korea and the Soviet command in northern Korea, so essential to the restoration of the normal economic life of Korea."

Only communiqués will be issued at unsettled intervals at the request of the Russian delegation, which arrived yesterday.

Japanese Convicted in Borneo

SYDNEY, Australia, Jan. 16 (AP)—The Australian war crimes court at Labuan, Borneo, has passed death sentences on twenty-eight Japanese convicted as war criminals, sentenced twenty-nine others to long prison terms and acquitted eight, a dispatch from Labuan to The Sydney Sun reported today. The death sentences are yet to be passed upon by the Governor General.

Royal Navy To Dump 300 Obsolete Planes

Sydney, Australia, Jan. 16 (AP)—Some 300 surplus and obsolete Royal Navy planes will be dumped into the ocean off Sydney within two weeks by order of the British Admiralty. Their normal wartime value was $30,000,000. Others will be dumped later.

Useful parts will be stripped. Most of the condemned planes are single-seat fighters of no use for civilian purposes. Among them are American-type Avengers, Hellcats and Corsairs and Britsh-type Barracudas.

SIRENS GREET POWS

BRISBANE, Australia — (AP) Brisbane, the first capital port of call for prisoners of war from Singapore, and fighting men receiving preference in discharge, now sounds air-raid sirens—a warning that the men are home and it is time to welcome them.

RIOTING FLARES IN ARGENTINA

Industry's Three-day Tie-up Is Nearing End.

Buenos Aires, Jan. 16 (A. P.).—Industry's three-day lockout, punctuated by rioting in the provincial city of Mercedes, entered its final hours today with no indication that the Government might change labor policies which led to the protest.

Several thousand persons looted a warehouse and seven small stores last night in Mercedes, a city of about 11,000 some sixty miles west of Buenos Aires—the first outbreak of violence reported in the lockout, scheduled to end tonight at midnight. The warehouse was burned before troops called from nearby stations could check the outburst.

Argentina's military government, whose decree ordering year-end bonuses of a month's pay to all employees in addition to salary increases is being protested by industrial, commercial and business firms, forced the opening yesterday of more than a third of Buenos Aires retail stores. The chief of the Federal police, Gen. Filomeno Velazco, said that 13,000 of the capital's 36,000 business houses had been reopened and declared that the distribution of food in the city was normal.

Mercante Nominated.

Meanwhile, the Labor Party's slate for the forthcoming national elections on February 24 was completed today with the nomination of Col. Domingo Mercante as the vice-presidential candidate, giving the ticket an all-military caste which political observers believed would provide the opposition with new ammunition.

Opponents of Col. Juan D. Peron, presidential nominee who founded the Labor Party on the nucleus of the General Workers Federation, already have been charging that his election would mean continuation of the present military regime.

Some observers expressed belief that Mercante's nomination as Peron's running mate might have sufficient weight to cause the Conservative Party—which opened its national convention yesterday—to join forces with the Democratic Union in an effort to insure the Labor ticket's defeat.

The Democratic Union, a coalition of the Radicals, Socialists, Communists and Progressive Democrats, is backing a slate headed by Jose Tamborini for President and Enrique Mosca for Vice-President.

Argentine Lockout Extended To Gambling

Mar. Del Plata, Argentina, Jan. 16 (AP)Vacationers in this resort made a demonstration protest against Argentina's present military Government last night by refusing to play roulette at tables operated by the Government.

In a prearranged demonstration, all players halted their betting at 6.30 P.M. and started to leave the Casino. They re-entered the place when police fired tear gas into the retiring crowd, but did not resume play. When the gas cleared, they left.

IRKED MANILA G. I.'S PLAN NEW MEETING

Manila, Jan. 16 (A. P.).—American soldiers, disappointed over terms of Gen. Eisenhower's demobilization plan, announced today a mass meeting and demonstration for tomorrow night.

T/Sgt. Harold Schiffrin, chairman of a nine-man protest committee, said that he would have a report for the mass meeting on results of a Thursday morning conference with Secretary of War Patterson, who arrived from Shanghai today. Patterson said he had no comment and would schedule a press conference later. He was invited to address the mass meeting, but has not given his answer.

Gen. Arnold Goes To Peru

Army Now Bans Gambling At Oahu Center in Hawaii

By The Associated Press.

HONOLULU, Jan. 16—Lieut. Gen. Robert C. Richardson Jr., Mid-Pacific Army commander, issued an order today banning all gambling at the Oahu Army Personnel Center after the Army publication Stars and Stripes reported small groups of soldiers were "making a small fortune at dice, at the expense of State-side-bound GI's."

Col. William Saffarrans, commandant at the center, denied dice games were "organized," as Stars and Stripes had reported. The paper said about fifteen men took a share of all money passing across the dice tables.

"There were dice tables provided for the men at the center," Colonel Saffarrans said, "and gambling was authorized, but it is not true that the games were 'cut.' I have had some forty military police watching the tables to see that no percentage of money was taken."

Stars and Stripes said S/Sgt. Buck Buchwach of Portland, Ore., investigated complaints of service men and found that most of the money ends up in the hands of a few people who run the dice games for transient gamblers."

Buchwach, said Stars and Stripes, estimated the take amounted to "a net of approximately $100 per night per table." Ten tables were operating full blast, Buchwach said.

The newspaper quoted Buchwach as saying that the commanding officer of the camp had approved the gambling but forbidden anyone "cutting the pot" or taking a percentage of money changing hands.

FIVE JAPS SURRENDER, UNAWARE OF WAR'S END

HONOLULU, Jan. 16—(AP) The Navy News reported today that five more Japanese who said they didn't know the war was over came out of the jungles of Guam Monday and surrendered.

More than five months after Japan's surrender, American military personnel on Guam still is being warned to stay out of the jungles, the paper said.

Sugar For Navy Stocks Seen Helping Civilians

Pearl Harbor, Jan. 16 (AP)—The Navy said today more than 21,000,000 pounds of surplus sugar from Pacific Ocean areas are on their way to the United States to replenish naval stocks and "it is expected this will indirectly ease the civilian scarcity."

The S.S. Jonathan Peter and the S.S. Sword Knot are en route to Oakland, Cal., with cargoes of 15,630,860 and 5,587,702 pounds of sugar, respectively.

Chief Executive Hints He May Act if No Settlement Is Reached.

'STILL NEGOTIATING'

Fairless and Murray Called to White House in Plea to Avert Strike.

Truman Warns Steel Co., Union To Settle Wage Dispute Today; Meat Workers Cut Pay Demand

JAN 17 1946

PRESIDENT TELLS RIVAL SPOKESMEN AGREEMENT VITAL

30.24 — 333

WASHINGTON, Jan. 16.—(AP) President Truman tonight told C.I.O. President Philip Murray and President of the U. S. Steel corporation, Benjamin F. Fairless, to settle their wage dispute by tomorrow afternoon or he will make a proposal himself "in the public interest."

Press Secretary Charles G. Ross told newsmen, after the principals recessed their conversations until 2 p. m. tomorrow that the President asked for an agreement when they return then or within a "reasonable time thereafter" during the afternoon.

Ross said, in response to questions, that seizure of the vital steel industry "has not entered into the discussions" up to now.

Murray and Fairless, called to the White House by Mr. Truman in an effort to avoid a strike of 800,000 CIO steel workers set for Monday, had no comment on today's session when they left the White House.

Mr. Truman urged them, Ross said, to "sleep over it and pray over it and do their utmost to get together and come back again at 2 o'clock tomorrow afternoon."

Ross told a news conference that each principal was "very strongly of the opinion that he had the right side of the argument." But he added that "they're still negotiating."

Fairless, upon leaving the conference, similarly said that "the negotiations are still on." But neither he nor Murray would say what progress, if any, had been made.

Meet at 2 Today

Ross said he knew of no plans for Fairless and Murray to meet in the interim before reconvening at 2 p.m. tomorrow.

Ross said that except for brief personal appeals at the start of the afternoon and evening conferences, Mr. Truman had remained available in his own office but had not participated in the talks.

The President declared that a settlement was "vital to the interest of the country," Ross reported.

The secretary related that Murray and Fairless had opened today's discussions by referring to the wage proposals previously made.

Ross did not say what they were, explaining that "I am not in on the negotiations."

However, Fairless is known to have offered to increase the pay of the steel workers 15 cents an hour, while Murray has shaved his original demand of 25 cents an hour to 19 1-2 cents increase.

The President called Murray and Fairless in after tonights conversations, asked them if they had reached agreement and received a negative reply.

When he asked them to sleep and pray over a settlement and come back at 2 p.m. tomorrow they said they "would do that," Ross said.

"The President said if they did not reach agreement he would have a proposal to make to them, though he hoped very much they would do so entirely on their own," Ross continued.

"If they have not reached agreement by that time or after a reasonable time thereafter, then the President will himself make a proposal to them in the public interest."

Ross observed that of course the parties could accept or reject the President's proposal. It was then he said that seizure of the industry was not at the moment under consideration.

Both Murray and Fairless appeared to be in good spirits when they left the White House.

The afternoon meeting between Fairless and Murray broke up at 6:42 p.m. Charles G. Ross, presidential secretary, told waiting reporters: "There is no comment."

The President called the conferees into his office soon after they arrived and urged them anew to reach an agreement which would avert the paralyzing steel strike set for Monday.

At the start of their night session, Mr. Truman called the principals into his office and urged them, "in very vigorous terms," Ross reported, to reach an agreement which would avert the strikes set for Monday. He had made a similar plea to them at the start of their afternoon session.

Then he sent them back to the cabinet room, along with three government officials. These were in and out of the conference the rest of the afternoon, Ross said, and they reported to Mr. Truman at intervals.

The President also conferred with Chester Bowles, OPA administrator, presumably on the steel discussions, although Ross would not say as to this. Bowles has been represented as opposing any steel price increase exceeding $2.50 a ton, while other officials reportedly would sanction a $4 rise. The steel companies have linked their demands for higher prices directly with the union's request for a wage increase.

Mr. Truman took time off during the afternoon for his daily swim in the White House pool. But he cancelled plans to attend a symphony concert at Constitution hall tonight with his family to be on hand for the second session at 8 p.m.

The conference followed an initial White House meeting Saturday which left the situation, so far as reported, with the union demanding a general wage boost of 19 1-2 cents an hour and the company offering 15 cents increase.

Meeting with the company and union presidents were Secretary of Labor Schwellenbach, Reconversion Director Snyder and Dr. John R. Steelman, presidential assistant.

A crippling strike of some 800,000 steelworkers, originally set for last Monday, had been postponed until next Monday pending the conference. Reports from Pittsburgh during the day showed production continuing to climb following the confusion of last weekend although 30,000 workers remained idle in six states.

U.S. MOVES TO END STRIKE AS SUPPLY OF MEAT DWINDLES

Government Officials Arrange Conference in Washington Today.

WALKOUT SPREADS

AFL Drops Wage Demand to 15 Cents an Hour, CIO Withholds Comment.

CHICAGO, Jan. 16. — (AP) Government officials tonight arranged a hurried conference in Washington aimed at cutting short a nationwide packing house strike and one of the two striking unions modified its wage demands.

The nation faced a famine in fresh meat within two to ten days unless the Government peace efforts, centering in the Capitol tomorrow, succeed in halting the widespread walkout that started this morning.

Earl W. Jimerson, president, and Patrick E. Gorman, secretary-treasurer of the A.F.L. Meat Cutters and Butcher Workmen, announced their organization dropped its demand for a wage increase, cause of the dispute, to 15 cents an hour and asked the C.I.O. union to go along with that demand.

Representatives of the A.F.L. union and the C.I.O. United Packinghouse Workers, and of the four major packers, Armour, Cudahy, Swift and Wilson, agreed to attend tomorrow's Washington conference with Secretary of Labor Schwellenbach.

The C.I.O. withheld comment on the A.F.L. wage modification but earlier in the day said it was standing on its demand of a 17 1-2 cents boost immediately, with later negotiations on an additional 7 1-2 cents. The C.I.O. originally demanded a 25 cents an hour hike and the A.F.L. the equivalent of that amount. Both said the average hourly straight-time rate in the industry now was 81 1-2 cents.

A statement by Jimerson and Gorman said the packers offer of 10 cents an hour was "very inadequate" but that if the packers offered 15 cents "we shall accept it and normal operations in all plants where our membership is involved will begin on Monday, Jan. 21."

This statement said the 15-cent boost would be 17.2 per cent or "slightly less than the formula established by the several fact-finding boards appointed by the President in other labor disputes."

The C.I.O. claimed all its 193,000 members were on strike and the A.F.L. estimated about 70,000 of its men were out, a total of 263,000. Spokesman for the four big packers estimated the total out in their plants was about 70,000. Several smaller companies also were struck.

Secretary Schwellenbach's plea last night for postponement of the strike failed, the union said, because it came too late, too close to the midnight deadline previously set. The C.I.O. union president, Lewis J. Clark, said today he "regretted" inability to postpone but the secretary's telegram arrived after the strike was in effect.

May Appoint Board

In Washington Edgar L. Warren, chief federal conciliator, said appointment of a fact-finding board was under consideration.

Effects of the strike in sharply curtailed supplies of fresh meat became immediately apparent all across the nation. Hog receipts at 12 leading midwest markets today were 17,700, compared with 118,849 a week ago.

Picket lines formed, even before midnight in some cases, and as police departments assigned details in city after city violence appeared to be at a minimum. In Kansas City, Kan., however, Swift's general manager, E. W. Phelps, told reporters he was hauled out of his car by pickets, beaten and forced to get a union pass to enter his plant.

Two thousand pickets marched at Chicago's stockyards, world's largest, many of them being in jovial mood like they were on a holiday. Capt. George Barnes of the police labor detail, with 300 policemen stationed about the yards, said no arrests had been made and he expected no violence.

Generally, according to previously announced union plans, maintenance workers were permitted to pass through picket lines to operate refrigeration machinery, lest dressed, stored meat spoil. Handlers were permitted to care for live animals on hand when the strike began. Trucks designated for hospitals and similar institutions were permitted to proceed.

Across the nation many independent packing companies were not affected by the walkout. In some places, too, A.F.L. and C.I.O. workers decided not to leave the job. But reports of curtailment and short supplies on hand came from every side.

Virtually every major packing plant in Minnesota except George A. Hormel and Co., Austin, which reached agreement with the C.I.O., shut down. New York City calculated there was only a four days' meat supply on hand. Housewives rushed to buy retailers' stocks in many places. Livestock producers cut the supply of live animals going to market. Supplies of cold storage meat were abnormally low.

Washington merchants figured they would be out of fresh meat tomorrow or Friday, while packers representatives there calculated it would be two to 10 days. Pittsburgh meat supplies were cut 50 per cent. Philadelphia reported 60 to 75 per cent of its normal supply cut off. Cleveland packers guessed supplies would last a week. Detroit dealers reported a 5-day supply on hand.

Supplies in some Minneapolis-St. Paul markets were exhausted now and will be in most places by the weekend. Indianapolis dealers figured stocks wouldn't last a week. Kansas City, with a 3-day supply on hand, hoped small packers could provide one or two meat-days a week.

A Chicago retail dealer official estimated supplies would last less than a week. Boston hoped to stretch its stocks 10 days. Denver said workers processing 50 per cent of its beef and 85 per cent of its pork were off the job. San Francisco's fresh meat supply was cut 35 per cent and processed, smoked meats 80 per cent. Los Angeles and Southern California also was curtailed about 35 per cent.

Government and industry spokesman said the strike would not immediately affect meat exports but would if it continued any length of time, depending on the extent of cold storage stocks.

Threats Of Death Are Revealed By Kimmel

Washington, Jan. 16 (AP)—Rear Admiral Husband E. Kimmel, Pacific Fleet commander when the Japanese struck Pearl Harbor, disclosed today he had received letters threatening his life after he returned to this country.

Telling his story of the disaster at the first public hearing he has been afforded, Kimmel gave a Senate-House investigating committee correspondence in which he related that such letters reached him daily early in 1942. He felt then, that his "crucifixion before the public has about reached the limit."

Stresses Co-Operation

He also told the committee:

1. The Army and Navy in Hawaii co-operated to a "higher degree" than in many other areas.

2. But, he didn't know that the Army had alerted only against sagotabe just before the December 7, 1941, attack.

3. He futilely opposed the pre-war transfer of a battleship division from the Pacific to the Atlantic, and carried to President Roosevelt a protest against the proposed shifting of a second division.

4. The Navy recommended throwing Japanese spies in Hawaii "in the jug," but the army objected.

Kimmel told the committee he thought that Lieut. Gen. Walter Short, army chief in Hawaii, had only "one kind of an alert."

"What kind did you think he had?" asked Seth Richardson, committee counsel.

"To put his people on the alert," Kimmel replied shortly.

Refers To War Warning

He explained that on November 27, 1941, after Short had received a war-warning message from Washington, he had been told the Army had gone on the alert. Prior to November 5, he said, the Army simply had an "alert or nonalert status."

"When they said they were on the alert, I thought they knew their business," he added. "I had every reason to believe so."

On November 28, he continued, he and Short discussed "the possibility of an air attack on Pearl Harbor." He said he understood then that Short had ordered an alert against sabotage "among other things," but could not recall details.

Copy Of Letter To Stark

He gave the committee a copy of a letter he wrote to Admiral Harold R. Stark on February 22, 1942, protesting that "in all justice the (Navy) department should do nothing further to inflame the public against me." Stark was chief of naval operations.

Kimmel wrote that he had just received notification from Secretary of the Navy Knox that he would be retired March 1, 1942, "without condonation of any offense or prejudice to future disciplinary action."

"Can't Understand Paragraph"

"I do not understand this paragraph unless it is to be published to the country as a promise that I will be disciplined at some future time," the letter added.

"I stand ready at any time to accept the consequences of my acts. I do not wish to embarrass the Government in the conduct of the war.

"I do feel, however, that my crucifixion before the public has about reached the limit. I am in daily receipt of letters from irresponsible people over the country taking me to task and even threatening to kill me. I am not particularly concerned except as it shows the effect on the public of articles published about me."

Questioned On Retirement

Kimmel brought out the letter during questioning by Richardson about circumstances of his retirement from the Navy.

Prior to questioning Kimmel, the committee decided to call former Supreme Court Justice Owen J. Roberts as a witness at a future date.

Senator Ferguson (R., Mich.) had insisted that Roberts be questioned about the report made by a Pearl Harbor investigating commission which the jurist headed. Ferguson questioned the completeness of the published report, the only one the committee received.

Went To Frisco

When Richardson raised the question of Kimmel's retirement, the Admiral related that he went to San Francisco after he was relieved as fleet commander.

On March 25, 1942, he said, Rear Admiral John Greenslade, commandant of the naval district embracing San Francisco, advised him that the Navy Department had telephone that General Short was applying for retirement.

Until then, Kimmel said, "it never entered my head" to make similar application. After thinking it over, Kimmel went on, he decided that "if that was the way the Navy Department wanted to arrange this affair, I would not stand in its way."

So he, too, applied for retirement."

Requested Duty

After he was retired, Kimmel said, he made a formal request on April 21, 1942, "for any duty to which the Navy Department may see fit to assign me." He was never called to active duty.

Kimmel gave the committee a letter Stark wrote him, dated February 21, 1942, saying that "for the time being at least you will just be continued on leave."

"I know that from your standpoint this is terribly indefinite, but I believe that if you knew all the crosscurrents you would concur with this decision and that it is made with much thought regarding your own interest," Stark's letter added.

"Pending something definite, there is no reason why you should not settle yourself in a quiet nook somewhere and let old Father Time help this entire situation, which I feel he will if for no other reason than that he always has.

Quotes Knox Remark

"I would like you to know the remark the Secretary (Knox) made a day or two ago and that was:

"'As for Kimmel, he has conducted himself in an exemplary fashion since this thing happened.' And to which I believe the entire Navy would give a hearty aye, aye."

Richardson asked Kimmel about his relationship with Stark. Kimmel replied that he had known him since Ananpolis days, trusted him, and felt that he was one of his best friends. Then, hesitating a second, he said:

"But I can't forget the fact that —well, events that have occurred since then."

On Friendly Terms With Knox

He said he also was on friendly terms with Secretary Knox, and knew of no reason why there should be any liaison difficulties between his office, Star's and the Secretary's.

Under further questioning, Kimmel said that all war plans in the Pacific that he knew about were pointed toward a possible conflict with Japan, and that many naval officers felt that such a war was inevitable sooner or later.

There were some officers, he added, who felt that Japan and the United States had no real reason to fight—"principally because they believed that if Japan started anything she would be wiped off the map."

"Tried To Keep Strong Fleet"

Kimmel acknowledged that the probability of a Pacific war increased in 1941 when "a shooting war" already was on in the Atlantic. He told of his efforts to keep a relatively strong fleet in the Pacific as a deterrent to Japan. A weak one, he said, might furnish only a temptation.

He also told of opposing the transfer of a full battleship division from the Pacific to the Atlantic. It included, he said, three of the most powerful battleships, one carrier, eighteen destroyers and four of the most modern and effective light cruisers.

Richardson asked who recommended the transfer.

"I don't know," Kimmel answered. "I certainly didn't."

Conferred With Roosevelt

Kimmel said he was in Washington when he heard of a move to transfer a second division to the Atlantic, and was "very much concerned' about the development.

"I felt that we should make every effort to keep Japan out of the war, and that the way to do it was to keep a fleet out there to deter them from doing anything," he testified.

"Subsequently, when I had an interview with President Roosevelt I told him just that. He said "they told me in the Navy Department that it would be all right.' I told him that whoever told him that was just crazy—it was just ridiculous."

The second transfer was not made, he added.

Discusses Plane Shortage

Kimmel discussed the island's shortage of airplanes. He said the War Department had allocated 180 B-17 bombers and the Navy had allocated 160 patrol planes.

He commented that the allocation was all right, but what the island actually received "was wrong."

Kimmel told Richardson that the navy plan before Pearl Harbor was, in event of war, to draw away Japanese strength from Malaya by raiding the Marshalls, "to east the pressure on the British."

He also related that the Army and Navy in Hawaii got together in co-operation in early February, 1941, and that he found General Short "a very likable gentleman and subsequently a very able army officer."

Policy On Air Fields

He said "the co-ordination betwixt the two services was of a higher degree than in any other areas I had seen prior to that time."

For example, he said, Army air forces used naval fields, and vice versa, to acquaint the airmen with ammunition-loading practices and the like.

In response to questions about Japanese espionage activities in Hawaii, Kimmel recalled that in the summer of 1941 quite a few Japanese consular agents appeared in the islands. He said Rear Admiral Claude C. Bloch, 14th Naval District commandant, "recommended in effect that they all be put in the jub."

"Opposed By Army"

"The Army," Kimmel said, "didn't think that was a very good idea and recommended against it."

He said he had been told since that the decision not to take the Japanes into custody was made by former Secretary of War Stimson.

Army to List Goods It Guards

JAN 17 1946

Royall Agrees to Do So After Saying Quick Discharges Force Abandonment.

Washington, Jan. 16 (A. P.).—The reduction of the Army's strength to 1,500,000 men by July 1 as now planned may force the abandonment of billions of dollars worth of overseas supplies, Senators were told today.

Acting Secretary of War Kenneth C. Royall gave this report to a special Senate military subcommittee studying the slowdown in Army demobilization. He said the slowdown was caused to some extent because the Army had the job of protecting the property.

This prompted the committee to request a complete listing of the goods. Royall agreed to furnish it.

Committee Chairman Edwin C. Johnson (D.-Col.) remarked that he had been told that the Army had declared surplus "less than 5 per cent" of the property and "is holding onto it for dear life."

Royall said, however, much property has been declared surplus, but the Army did not handle sales. The Army, he said, must continue to guard it until "it is moved."

Sales Being Pressed.

Royall said attempts were under way now for "lump sales" of Army surpluses in France and Belgium. All property in "West China," he added, has been sold for $25,000,000.

Johnson asked about a cable received from Senator Connally (D.-Tex.), a United Nations delegate in London, that soldiers are being kept in England to service civilian aircraft. Royall said the complaint would be investigated, adding that in some instances soldiers had serviced such American aircraft with proper charges being made.

However, he said, a similar complaint that soldiers were detained in the Mediterranean theater to work on civilian aircraft only had been investigated and found untrue.

Royall assured the committee the War Department was "anxious" to get soldiers home as quickly as the Army's obligations permit. As he put it, this is the department's position:

"We have two general objectives in mind. First to perform such duties and jobs that are assigned to us, and second to get the boys out as quickly as we can, consistent with performance of our duties."

Only 500,000 Left.

Royall said that Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower, Army Chief of Staff, had completely outlined the demobilization program at an informal session of senators and representatives yesterday.

On July 1 when the Army drops to a strength of 1,500,000 Royall said, there will be in service only 500,000 men who were in the Army on VE day.

"We consider this remarkable in view of the fact that there were 8,300,000 on duty," Royall said.

The War Department reported that 5,123,000 soldiers were mustered out betwen V-E Day and last Friday. Of this number, 4,525,000 were released after V-J Day. During the week ended Friday, 261,000 were discharged.

Simultaneously, Gen. Jacob L. Devers, commander of Army ground forces, reported he had telegraphed all AGF installations in the United States to report immediately the names of enlisted men with forty-five points or thirty months' service, who will be eligible for discharge under the latest demobilization orders.

Calls Reduction Necessary.

Royall emphasized that 1,600,000 soldiers already had been released ahead of schedule. This, he said, was the main reason for the so-called "slowdown" of demobilization.

"If we had continued that rate there would not have been a man left in the Army July 1, not a one," he said. "It was absolutely essential that the rate be reduced."

The plan to reduce the Army to 1,500,000 by July 1 is dependent on two factors, Royall said.

1. Continuation of voluntary enlistments and present rates of inductions under Selective Service.

2. Elimination of huge supplies of war surpluses in both the Pacific and Atlantic theatters.

Draft Law May Die.

The uncertain life of the present draft law posed a new complication today in the already difficult task of finding demobilization replacements for the Army.

Influential members of the House Military Committee disclosed that they are ready to let Selective Service die on May 15—the day the existing law is to expire unless Congress again extends it.

The Army has been relying largely upon the draft for recruits to replace the clamoring long-service G. I.'s overseas, but in recent months, it has been falling short of meeting the average monthly induction requirements of 50,000 men.

Hope to Salvage Youth Training.

The abrupt termination of the draft law on May 15 would eliminate the major source of replacements, leaving them dependent on the success of the regular Army's enlistment program.

The reason members of the House Military Committee are ready to let the draft law die is that they hope thereby to salvage the bogged-down universal training legislation requested by President Truman.

Although Mr. Truman's military training proposals preclude the use of trainees as overseas replacements, the House members told a reporter they believe the well-trained reserve created by the program would reduce necessity for the large standing Army now planned.

PHONE GROUPS' SESSION HINTS AT NEW TIEUP

Six Unions To Consider Sympathy Strike Against Western Electric

Washington, Jan. 16 (AP)—Negotiations failed again today and a strike of the Capital's 3,000 telephone operators will enter its eighth day tomorrow.

New York, Jan. 16 (AP)—Frank J. Fitzsimmons, president of the striking Western Electric Employés Association, an independent union, said today six unions would confer here tomorrow on possible action by their 58,000 members which he declared might tie up the nation's telephones again.

Henry Mayer, association attorney, said the unions, all independent affiliates of the National Federation of Telephone Workers, would decide whether to walk out in sympathy with the Western Electric Employés, now on strike for wage increases at 21 Western Electric plants in the metropolitan area.

Equipment Group Included

At the meeting, Mayer said, would be representatives of the Association of Communications Equipment Workers which disrupted long-distance and nondial telephone service last Friday when it struck in a dispute with the American Telephone and Telegraph Company. Western Electric is the company's chief manufacturing subsidiary.

A spokesman for A.T.&T. said the company had no comment on the development.

The communication equipment workers' 8,000 members returned to their jobs Monday at the request of the national federation which has called a nation-wide strike of telephone workers effective after a 30-day period of delay.

Mayer said if the six unions vote to strike "there is always the possibility that they will decide to mark time for 30 days" under provisions of the Smith-Connally Act.

Bradley Bars Pay to Veterans Idle in Strikes

Rules Bill of Rights Does Not Apply; V. F. W. Will Ask for Amendment

WASHINGTON, Jan. 16 (AP).—General Omar N. Bradley, Veterans Administrator, ruled today that war veterans are not entitled to unemployment compensation under the G. I. bill of rights when deprived of work by a strike.

Omar B. Ketchum, national legislation representative of the Veterans of Foreign Wars, announced immediately that his organization will attempt to have the bill amended so that veterans who do not vote for strikes may draw compensation. He estimated about 13,000 veterans are involved in the General Motors strike alone.

General Bradley upheld a decision of the Michigan Unemployment Commission in the case of John Cody, a veteran employed by the A-C Spark Plug plant at Flint, Mich., subsidiary of General Motors. A strike occurred Oct. 15, 1945, and Mr. Cody was thrown out of work.

30.24 — 335

The G. I. bill provides $20 a week unemployment compensation for veterans for a maximum of fifty-two weeks. It says, however, that it shall not be paid if a veteran is out of work because of a strike in which he participates or in which he is "directly interested."

Mr. Cody said he was not a union member and had nothing to do with the strike.

General Bradley ruled that Mr. Cody was "directly interested" because if the strikers won a wage increase it would interest him. He also held that the union acted as bargaining agent for all employees, including Mr. Cody.

Mr. Ketchum said this interpretation could be applied to almost all veterans out of work because of strikes, regardless of whether they took any part or interest in the strike.

pluses, scattered over many Pacific islands and in Europe and Africa, arose as Acting Secretary of War Kenneth C. Royall testified. He said many soldiers are required to handle and guard these supplies.

By next July 1 when the Army plans to cut down from a present 4,200,000 to 1,500,000, Royall said, it may be necessary to abandon millions of dollars worth of surplus property to get men home.

Johnson and Senator Revercomb (R.-W. Va.) asked for a complete inventory of this property. Royall agreed to supply it.

He estimated that some $14,000,000,000 of army property, excluding airplanes, is now scattered around the world. Of this, Royall said, some $1,800,000,000 has been declared surplus and about $166,000,000 sold. His figures were based on the cost of the material.

Royall declared the War department is just as anxious as Congress to "get boys out of the Army and back home as quickly as possible." He added that already 1,600,000 soldiers are home ahead of schedule.

"You have made a great record," Johnson told Royall. "It surprised everybody. We would like to have you continue it into the new year. We are not trying to convict anybody. We are trying to clarify the facts of demobilization."

Eisenhower to Testify

Johnson said General Eisenhower will testify tomorrow and Major General Lewis B. Hershey, Selective Service head, will be called later.

Army and service ground forces installations in this country were ordered today to get started at once on discharging all men with 45 points or two and a half years service.

They will be released "as fast as the separation centers can handle them," the announcement said.

The action was in line with the War department order yesterday that by April 30 all enlisted men with 45 points or two and a half years service be discharged or be aboard ship en route home.

The ground forces said that "many eligible men will be out weeks and months earlier than the deadline."

Calling of Older Men and 4-Fs Urged to End Draft in May

WASHINGTON, Jan. 16 — (AP) Senator Johnson (D.-Colo.) proposed today that single men up to 45 and "lots" of 4-Fs be drafted to provide army replacements overseas.

The War department announced, meanwhile, that General Dwight D. Eisenhower will address the nation by radio on the demobilization problem. The chief of staff will make a 15-minute broadcast at 9 p.m. (Eastern Standard Time) Friday over CBS and possibly other networks.

If the draft is greatly expanded until May 15 and voluntary enlistments are increased, Johnson said, "then there will be no need to continue selective service beyond May 15, when it will expire."

He also expressed belief that the Army's plan for a force of 1,500,000 by July 1 "can be cut down by at least 500,000 men."

Johnson, chairman of a Senate military sub-committee assigned to look into demobilization, outlined his views to reporters after its initial hearing.

MORE NEW-CAR PRICES GIVEN

Ceilings Set On Plymouth, De Soto, Dodge, Chrysler

Washington, Jan. 16 (AP)—Retail prices for new Plymouth, Dodge, De Soto and Chrysler autos will average about 1.8 per cent above prices for 1942 models, plus additions for engineering changes.

The OPA announced this today and also fixed retail price ceilings for four additional models of Fords. These average two per cent higher than 1942 prices, plus from $18.10 to $47.29 for engineering modifications.

Th increase for 1946 Plymouths is "around one per cent," OPA said, plus $70 to $121 for engineering improvements; for Dodge cars the increase is 3.5 per cent, with from $59 to $68 for engineering improvements.

Dealers' Discount Cut

For De Soto cars the increase is 1.8 per cent, plus $59 to $66, and for Chryslers the price is up "less than one-half of one per cent," plus $90 to $104.

Increases for Ford models priced today are about the same as those announced last November for other Ford models.

In line with pricing policy for all new cars, dealers' discount margins will be trimmed two and one half per cent. This is to prevent the full amount of increases granted to manufacturers from being passed on to the public.

New Retail Ceilings

Here are the new retail ceilings—exclusive of Federal tax, transportation and preparation and handling charges—as compared with 1942 prices:

Plymouth De Luxe—Four-door sedan, $999 as compared with $882; two-door sedan, $949 and $843; three-passenger coupé, $912 and $805; club coupé, $990 and $878. Plymouth Special De Luxe—Four-door sedan $1,013 and $928; two-door sedan, $973 and $888; three-passenger coupé, $939 and $848; club coupé, $1,015 and $921.

Dodge De Luxe—Four-door sedan, $1,086 and $991; two-door sedan, $1,043 and $951; three-passenger coupé, $910 and $838. Dodge Custom—four-door sedan, $1,145 and $1,041; club coupé, $1,136 and $1,038.

De Soto De Luxe—Four-door sedan, $1,168 and $1,093; two-door sedan, $1,138 and $1,065; three-passenger coupé, $1,060 and $1,000; club coupé, $1,160 and $1,082. De Soto Custom—Four-door sedan, $1,229 and $1,142; two-door sedan, $1,203 and $1,132; club coupé, $1,219 and $1,132.

Chrysler Royal — Four-door sedan, $1,264 and $1,167; two-door sedan, $1,236 and $1,144; three-passenger coupé, $1,142 and $1,065; club coupé, $1,261 and $1,158. Chrysler Windsor—Four-door sedan, $1,352 and $1,244; two-door sedan, $1,301 and $1,209; three-passenger coupé, $1,204 and $1,129; club coupé, $1,316 and $1,217.

Ford De Luxe Eight-Cylinder—Chassis with open or closed end, $676 and $633. Ford Super De Luxe Eight-Cylinder — Convertible coupé, $1,124 and $1,083; station wagon, $1,170 and $1,118; chassis with open or closed front end, $744 and $888.

Net Wholesale Ceilings

OPA announced these net wholesale ceiling prices for the Chrysler-built cars:

Plymouth De Luxe—Four-door sedan, $802.13, two-door sedan, $761.86; three-passenger coupé, $731.35; club coupé, $793.70. Plymouth Special De Luxe—Four door sedan, $813.47; two-door sedan, $781.79; three passenger coupé, $753.98; club coupé, $814.08.

Dodge De Luxe — Four-door sedan, $851.20; two-door sedan, $817.56; three-passenger coupé, $767.89. Dodge Custom—Four-door sedan, $897.50; clud coupé, $890.42.

De Soto De Luxe—Four-door sedan, $915.11; two-door sedan, $892.04; three-passenger coupé, $830.59; club coupé, $909.05; De Soto Custom—Four-door sedan, $962.92; two-door sedan, $942.36; club coupé, $955.23.

Chrysler Royal—Four-door sedan, $983.238; two-door sedan, $961.45; three-passenger coupé, $888.61; club coupe, $981.14. Chrysler Windsor—Four-door sedan, $1,052.34; two-door sedan, $1,012.55; three-passenger coupé, $936.51; club coupe, $1,024.44.

OPA also announced that the ceiling price for Ford cars sold on "knocked down" basis for export is the factory net wholesale price, f.o.b., Dearborn, Mich., less amounts ranging from $46.97 to $115.89, according to model.

OPA Prepares to Curb Black Market in Meat

WASHINGTON, Jan. 16—(AP) OPA fearing "tremendous pressure" on meat price ceilings as a result of the packing house workers strike, today promised swift action against any black markets.

The agency strengthened its enforcement staff as a retail meat dealers' spokesman warned that if the stoppage is in effect a week or ten days it will make wartime black markets "look like a Sunday school picnic."

An OPA official said the agency's offices throughout the country had been alerted in advance of the strike, and that OPA meat price enforcement staff already has been enlarged to cope with any emergency.

Butter Wholesalers' Direct Selling Banned

Washington, Jan. 16 (AP)—OPA today banned the sale of butter by wholesalers at retail ceiling prices.

The agency said it had learned that during the current butter shortage "some wholesalers have been selling direct to consumers and charging retail prices."

OPA said this practice was never intended under the butter-price regulation.

Anti-Petrillo Bill Before Committee

Washington, Jan. 17 (AP)—A bill aimed at James C. Petrillo, head of the American Federation of Musicians (AFL) was set today for committee consideration in the House.

Chairman Lea (D., Cal.) of the Commerce Committee introduced it and scheduled a committee session on it tomorrow. Representative Brown (R., Ohio) of the committee predicted passage.

"The country is pretty well fed up with Petrillo," Brown said. "He has gone too far."

Lea said Petrillo has made demands upon broadcasters which "a self-respecting Government cannot afford to permit."

The bill would outlaw force or threats to compel a radio station:

1. To "pay tribute" for the privilege of producing or using records, transcriptions or mechanical, chemical or electrical reproductions.

2. To employ more persons than it wants.

3. To refrain from broadcasting a noncommercial educational or cultural program where the participants receive no pay.

4. To refrain from broadcasting programs originating abroad.

One of Petrillo's demands, Lea said, would "compel the broadcaster to pay a financial tribute to the American Federation of Musicians for broadcasting transcriptions where no service whatsoever is performed by members of that organization."

MESSAGE OF TRUMAN TO TOP 20,000 WORDS

WASHINGTON, Jan. 16 (AP)—The combined budget-state-of-the-Union message which President Truman plans to send to Congress on Mo...y will probably run 20,000 to 25,000 words.

Charles G. Ross, White House secretary, made this estimate today and said of the departure from tradition represented by the combination document:

"Two messages would mean a lot of overlapping. It's a wonder no one has thought of it before. As the President said, the budget is part of the state of the Union."

Later Representative Brown, Republican, of Ohio, said in the House that the President, by not delivering his state of the Union message to Congress until Monday, was responsible for delay in action on the Administration's legislative plans.

"By that time Congress will have been in session eight days," Mr. Brown said, "and we'll just have been marking time waiting for his message."

Representative Brown recalled that the President recently "criticized Congress and its committees" for delay in acting on White House recommendations, "particularly labor legislation."

Russia Gets Truman Books

President Contributes Writings of George Washington

WASHINGTON, Jan. 16 (AP).—President Truman has contributed about forty volumes of George Washington's writings for distribution among the Russians.

Eben Ayers, assistant White House press secretary, said today the volumes were contributed to the books-for-Russia campaign, through a local committee. He said the Russians were anxious to have historical and classical books from this country, written in English.

President Truman's set comprised state papers and other writings of the first President.

JAPS TO MAN U.S. LSTS EVACUATING NIPPONESE

WASHINGTON, Jan. 16. — (AP) The navy disclosed today that Japanese crews will man about 100 tank landing ships, (LSTS) to help evacuate Nipponese troops and other nationals from China.

The navy said the step was taken to bring about the transfer of Japanese to their homeland with the minimum use of United States navy manpower.

The LSTS will be decommissioned and demilitarized for the task. They will be operated under supervision of Rear Admiral C. B. Momsen, shipping control administrator for Japan.

The vessels, which will be "loaned" to Momsen, are now located in the Japan-Marianas area.

They will fly a special flag.

U.S. Expects Siam To Give Up War Gains

Washington, Jan. 16 (AP) — The United States gave notice today that it expects Siam to return to French Indo-China certain territories acquired May 9, 1941, "in the course of Japanese aggression."

A State Department official said the United States had informed the French, Siamese and British governments that it does not recognize the validity of the transfer of a part of southern Cambodia province and a part of Laos west of the Mekong River.

The American view, the official said, is that the territories transferred "should be restored by Siam."

NAVY SEEKS FLYERS

Washington, Jan. 16 (A. P.).—The Navy announced today reopening of its flight training program, giving qualified enlisted men a chance for commissions as naval aviators.

Candidates applying for admittance to the pre-flight stage of the program, which had been closed since shortly after the war ended, must be under 23. They must be unmarried and agree to remain so until commissioned.

Requirements include completion of at least four academic semesters in an accredited college.

GI's Abroad Get Priority On Surplus

Washington, Jan. 16 (AP)—Service men and veterans abroad were granted priority today to buy army and navy surplus goods overseas.

Liquidation Commissioner Thomas B. McCabe announced that the veterans and service men would get preference over all purchases except Government agencies, on goods either for personal use or for establishment and operation of their own businesses abroad.

Members of the armed forces may bring their purchases back to this country for their personal use, but not for resale. Discharged veterans may not bring the goods back even for their personal use.

GI, Sentenced to Death Denies Slaying 2 Japs

WALLINGTON, N. J., Jan. 16.—(AP) From a stockade in Japan, Pfc. Joseph E. Hicswa penned a letter to a girl friend back home, telling in confused, almost boyish words the story of a street fight in which two Japanese civilians were stabbed to death.

He wrote that he had a fight "with a few of them," but, the 20-year-old Wallington youth insisted, he could not have murdered them because he did not have a knife.

Girl Releases Letter

The girl, 18-year-old Sonia Andreyk of the neighboring Clifton, released the letter today. She had kept the secret to herself—before the family knew that Joe had been court martialled and sentenced to die. She had not mentioned it for two days even while the parents were still receiving letters in which Joe was writing about having "a room to myself now and living like a king."

Finally, after the news of his sentence had attracted much attention and city, state and national officials had protested the death penalty, Sonia told the family. An uncle of the youth, Adam Hicswa, released the letter.

Humor and sadness were mingled in the story Joe told from his cell on Dec. 15.

In the letter, which he had signed, "Love, Joe," Hicswa had even found time to write about the weather and how cold it was and how the frost covered the Japanese mountainsides when the sun came up at the prisoner's dawn.

Hardships Told

The letter follows:

"I am in the stockade. They think I murdered a couple of Japs. I had a fight with a few of them the night of the murder, so they got the impression that I murdered them. They were stabbed to death. That leaves me out right there, for I didn't have a knife.

"When they told me I murdered the Jap. I got excited. I didn't think I hit him that hard. They were still moaning and moving when I left them. I guess they have to blame somebody, so I guess I am the loser. They say that if they don't find a rope strong enough to hang the person, they'll shoot him. I believe that is just a rumor.

"Today, they had me on the rockpile from 7:30 this morning until 5 this afternoon. They get me up at 4:45 in the morning and we're busy until we go to bed, usually about 7 or 8.

"Well, how are you. I hope you're fine. As for me, I'm a little sore. Boy, does it get cold here at night. We wake up in the morning and just hate to get out of sacks. Later, when the sun comes up, you can see the frost on the treetops on the mountainside. We had a little snow already. x x x

"I was planning on being home for Christmas and surprise you. But I guess I'll have to wait for about 20 or 30 years. Well, so long for a while, keep your chin up and fingers crossed. Love.

(signed) "Joe."

Liner All Set For Baby Run

New York, Jan. 16 (AP)—The 20,614-ton liner Argentina, its hold filled with thousands of diapers, dozens of cribs and bassinets and stacks of pink and blue blankets, is scheduled to leave for Southampton, England, today to bring back 550 brides of American service men and their babies.

Army officials said yesterday that 30 per cent of the vessel's return-trip passengers would be children, most of them infants. The ship's four diet kitchens will fix special baby food and formulas and the medical department is equipped with laundry facilities to handle the diaper problem.

UNO SITE SEEKERS ARRIVE IN BOSTON

Boston, Jan. 16 (A. P.).—The United Nations Organization site committee came to New England today to study the qualifications of communities in this region as possible locations for the permanent and interim UNO headquarters.

The party, after a flight from New York, landed at Boston's Logan International Airport and was met by Gov. Maurice J. Tobin and his committee as well as Henry Sullivan, a State department attache.

Dr. Stoyan Gavrilovic, chairman, said just before the plane's departure that Mayor O'Dwyer's suggestion for the use of the Sperry Gyroscope Company's plant at Lake Success, L. I., near Great Neck as an interim headquarters was welcome.

"We intend to look it over as soon as we return from Boston," he said, adding that his group would recommend finally to the interim committee the names of six cities which would be submitted to the general assembly.

The inspection group had a six-hour conference yesterday sorting out information on various cities they have visited so far, Dr. Gavrilovic said.

"Our minds are still open," he said. "This is a thing on which a city of our own must be built. This is to be a world capital and not a city within a city. We have got to think in terms not of five years, but of fifty years.

Mayor O'Dwyer suggested the Sperry plant at Lake Success in a letter to Gavrilovic in reply to a communication from the committee listing requirements for the temporary headquarters. The Mayor's letter expressed regret that Flushing Meadow har been ruled out as a permanent site. The Mayor said the Sperry plant had all the facilities described as requirements for temporary office quarters, that it was in first class condition, was about to close and belonged to the Reconstruction Finance Corporation.

CHURCHILL SAYS LOAN NEEDED TO 'PUT US ON FEET'

By E. V. W. JONES

MIAMI BEACH, Fla., Jan. 16.—(AP) Winston Churchill, here on a victory vacation but his mind full of world affairs, today defended the proposed $3,750,000,000 loan to Britain by declaring it was vital "to give us time to get on our feet again."

"We have suffered financially more than any other country," said the war leader who is now leader of his majesty's loyal opposition.

"Now we face the extraordinary situation of buying food and raw materials with a very heavy adverse balance of trade against us.

Loan Vital

"I think his majesty's government would never desire to raise the social and economic standards of the British people at the expense of other people, but unless we are given a chance to regain our stride we may not again be able to take our place as a producing nation."

His shirt collar open, his hat off most of the time, puffing his usual big cigar, Churchill was pink and apparently happy as a score of newspaper reporters and cameramen crowded around for his first press conference shortly after he arrived with Mrs. Churchill at the home of Col. Frank Clarke, Canadian shipping and pulp paper magnate.

He stepped down from the train that brought him from New York at a spot where the late President Roosevelt alighted while on his way to Casablanca for a fateful meeting of the Big Three. Churchill was cheery and several times flashed his V-for-Victory sign.

The former prime minister, seated with his wife and host in the trim sunlit patio outside Col. Clarke's home, smiled impishly as he answered questions at the news conference. At times his expression was stern.

Buying Time

"Really, we are buying time now," he commented. "We are the only great nation that came through the war from start to finish."

He saw a "definite and permanent move toward world collectivism" and added "we must be careful that it does not strangle and baffle free enterprise."

Churchill expressed the hope that United States troops "are not all going home because we are not numerous enough to handle post-war Europe alone."

"The armies have to be kept in the field in order that all the work we have done to achieve victory will not be destroyed."

Sees Move to Destroy Unions

Thomas Says 'Big Money' Considers All-out War Involving Whole Nation.

Detroit, Jan. 16 (A. P.).—R. J. Thomas, president of the C. I. O. United Automobile Workers, charged today that an important section of industrial management regards this as the time to make their greatest effort to destroy labor unions.

The automobile union's chief said administration fact-finding boards are following a pattern of wage increases of 17½ to 18 per cent but that "the big money" has not yet decided "whether to accept or declare all-out war that would involve the entire nation."

Thomas, whose union is locked in wage battles with the automobile industry, made his remarks in a statement prepared for publication in this week's issue of the Automobile Worker, the U. A. W.-C. I. O.'s publication.

"The recommendations of the various fact-finding boards in wage disputes seem to follow a pattern of wage increase at around 17½ to 18 per cent," Thomas asserted.

The steel industry and General Motors in the automobile industry, he said, "are making up their minds whether to accept the administration's policy before Monday, January 21, or refuse and force the steel workers to go on strike."

A strike in steel, originally set for last Monday, was postponed a week at the urging of President Truman. The General Motors strike, in which 175,000 production workers walked out in an original demand for a 30 per cent wage increase, passed its fifty-seventh day today.

General Motors has rejected a fact-finders' recommendation for a 19½-cents-an-hour increase, or 17½ per cent. The U. A. W.-C. I. O. has given G. M. until next Monday to accept or face a renewed demand for the 30 per cent. The company has offered 13½ cents, approximately 11 per cent of its wage rate.

At the same time the Ford Motor Company and the U. A. W.-C. I. O. have been drawing closer to an agreement in wage negotiations. Ford's offer now stands at 17½ cents, or about 14½ per cent of its average pay. The union demands 19½ cents as proposed by the fact-finders for General Motors.

'Baby Ships' Will Bring War Brides to America

SAN FRANCISCO, Jan. 16.—(AP) Specially-equipped "baby ships" henceforth will transport war brides and babies of American servicemen from Australia and New Zealand to the United States, the War Shipping administration announced today.

The announcement followed protests from war brides arriving Jan. 14 from New Zealand. They complained of accommodations aboard the freighter Permanente.

The "baby ships" will provide the following facilities, the WSA announcement said: Diaper laundries, baby baths, playrooms, nurseries, sterilization kitchens, baby foods, talcum powder, absorbent cotton, soaps, and baby oils.

IMMEDIATELY AFTER NEWS OF THE IRANIAN PREMIER'S STATEMENT REACHED LONDON, THE DAILY EXPRESS SAID, BRITISH CABINET MEMBERS MET TO CONSIDER THE NEW TURN OF EVENTS.

HAKIMI'S REFERENCE TO BRITISH INTERFERENCE IN THE AFFAIRS OF IRAN

BY JACK SMITH

LONDON, JAN.16-(AP)-DELEGATES TO THE UNITED NATIONS GENERAL ASSEMBLY TODAY VIEWED NEW DEVELOPMENTS IN IRAN AS A DEFINITE INDICATION THAT THE IRANIAN GOVERNMENT MIGHT PROVIDE THE PEACE AGENCY WITH ITS FIRST REAL TEST BY TOSSING INTO ITS LAP THE EXPLOSIVE AZERBAIJAN PROBLEM.

PREMIER IBRAHIM HAKIMI TOLD THE IRANIAN PARLIAMENT YESTERDAY THAT:

1. "DIRECT TALKS" WITH RUSSIA OVER THE AUTONOMY REVOLT IN SOVIET-OCCUPIED AZERBAIJAN PROVINCE HAD FAILED.

2. GREAT BRITAIN AND RUSSIA, WHO STILL HAVE TROOPS IN IRAN, WERE "HESITATING" ABOUT EVACUATION BY THE SCHEDULED DEADLINE OF MARCH 2 AND WERE "INTERFERING IN THE AFFAIRS OF IRAN."

3. HE HAD INSTRUCTED IRAN'S DELEGATION IN LONDON TO APPROACH THE SECURITY COUNCIL WITH HIS COUNTRY'S PROBLEMS.

HIS STATEMENT CAUSED A STIR OF EXCITEMENT AMONG THE DELEGATES, WHO YESTERDAY HEARD IRAN'S CHIEF DELEGATE, SEYED HASSAN TAQUIZADEH, CALL TO THE ATTENTION OF THE ASSEMBLY "THE DISTURBING SITUATION" IN IRAN.

TAQUIZADEH TOLD THE DELEGATES THE IRANIANS HAD "REFRAINED RATHER RELUCTANTLY" FROM ASKING THE ASSEMBLY TO INTERVENE AT THE MOMENT BECAUSE THEY HOPED THAT NEGOTIATIONS WITH RUSSIA OR "AN AGREEMENT AMONG THE THREE MAJOR POWERS" WOULD BRING A SOLUTION.

HE LEFT THE WAY OPEN, HOWEVER, FOR ASKING INTERVENTION AT A LATER DATE.

"IF THIS PROBLEM COMES BEFORE YOU," HE TOLD THE ASSEMBLY, "IT WOULD UNDOUBTEDLY CONSTITUTE A TEST CASE OF THE MOST EXPLICIT KIND FOR THE ORGANIZATION TO MANIFEST ITS FAIR SPIRIT IN DEALING WITH IT AND PROTECTING THE VITAL RIGHTS OF ITS MEMBERS."

TAQUIZADEH TOLD NEWSMEN LATER THAT HE WAS "AFRAID THAT IF WE WAIT UNTIL THE NEXT SESSION OF THE ASSEMBLY TO BRING OUR CASE BEFORE THE UNITED NATIONS IT MAY BE TOO LATE FOR THEM TO TAKE EFFECTIVE ACTION."

SOME SOURCES SPECULATED THAT THE IRANIAN DELEGATES MIGHT HAVE COME TO LONDON UNDER INSTRUCTIONS TO RAISE THE ISSUE AND THEN YIELDED TO ARGUMENTS FOR POSTPONING IT. AMERICAN OFFICIALS HAVE SAID PRIVATELY THAT THE MAJOR POWERS WERE ANXIOUS TO AVOID HAVING ANY CRITICAL PROBLEMS BROUGHT BEFORE THE UNO WHILE IT WAS IN THE FORMATIVE STAGE.

THE CRUX OF IRAN'S CHARGES HAS BEEN THAT THE RUSSIANS WERE ENCOURAGING THE REVOLT IN AZERBAIJAN PROVINCE, WHICH BORDERS ON T.E SOVIET UNION, AND THAT THE RUSSIANS HAVE REFUSED TO PERMIT IRANIAN FORCES TO MTVE INTO THE PROVINCE TO QUELL THE REVOLT.

SOVIET DELEGATES TOLD NEWSMEN THAT IRAN'S TROUBLES WERE NOT CAUSED SPECULATION HERE THAT IRAN, IF IT GOES BEFORE THE UNO, MIGHT ENTER A COMPLAINT AGAINST BRITAIN AS WELL AS RUSSIA.

THE IRANIAN PREMIER SAID HE HAD INFORMED THE UNITED STATES AND BRITAIN THAT IRAN WAS READY TO ACCEPT A BRITISH-AMERICAN PROPOSAL FOR A "BIG-THREE" COMMISSION TO SUPERVISE AZERBAIMAN ELECTIONS AND SPEED THE EVACUATION OF OCCUPYING TROOPS.-BUT HAD RECEIVED NO REPLY.

THE IRANIAN PROBLEM OVERSHADOWED ALL OTHER SUBJECTS AS THE DELEGATES RECONVENED TO CONTINUE A GENERAL POLICY DEBATE IN WHICH ECUADOR, SALVADOR, ARGENTINA, NORWAY AND POLAND WERE SCHEDULED TO TAKE THE FLOOR.

BRITISH FOREIGN SECRETARY ERNEST BEVIN IS EXPECTED TO MAKE AN IMPORTANT SPEECH TOMORROW. THE DRAFT OF HIS ADDRESS WAS APPROVED AT A CABINET MEETING YESTERDAY.

INFORMED SOURCES SAID HE WOULD DECLARE BRITAIN'E INTENTION TO TURN OVER BRITISH MANDATED TERRITORIES TO THE UNITED NATIONS UNDER A TRUSTEESHIP ARRANGEMENT, PROBABLY WITH BRITAIN ACTING AS THE UNO TRUSTEE.

PALESTINE, WHICH BRITAIN HOLDS UNDER A LEAGUE OF NATIONS MANDATE, WILL NOT BE TURNED OVER TO THE UNO IMMEDIATELY, IT WAS SAID, SINCE A BRITISH-AMERICAN COMMISSION ALREADY HAS BEGUN WORK ON PALESTINE PROBLEMS.

COLONIAL OFFICE SOURCES SAID WORK ALREADY HAD BEEN BEGUN ON AGREEMENTS FOR THE TRANSFER OF THE OTHER BRITISH MANDATES, SUCH AS TANGANYIKA, TOGOLAND, THE CAMEROONS AND TRANS-JORDAN.

LONDON, JAN.16-(AP)-POLISH FOREIGN MINISTER WINCENTY RYZMOWSKI HAS PROTESTED TO THE BRITISH FOREIGN OFFICE AGAINST THE MAINTENANCE OF THE POLISH ARMY RAISED HERE BY THE FORMER GOVERNMENT-IN-EXILE, AN OFFICIAL OF THE POLISH UNO DELEGATION SAID TODAY.

THE INFORMANT ADDED THAT IF THE PROBLEM COULD NOT BE SOLVED, POLAND MIGHT FIND IT NECESSARY TO BRING IT BEFORE THE UNITED NATIONS SECURITY COUNCIL AS A SITUATION LIKELY TO MENACE PEACEFUL INTERNATIONAL RELATIONS.

THE PROTEST NOTE, IT WAS UNDERSTOOD, OBJECTED TO THE MAINTENANCE OF POLISH FORCES UNDER "FOREIGN CONTROL" AND UNDER POLISH OFFICERS NOT RECOGNIZED BY THE PRESENT WARSAW GOVERNMENT. IT REFERRED PRIMARILY TO THE ARMY OF LT.GEN.WALDISLAW ANDERS IN ITALY, ESTIMATED

B

PRIMARILY TO THE ARMY OF LT.&3,.

PRIMARILY TO THE ARMY OF LT.GEN.WALDISLAW ANDERS IN ITALY, ESTIMATED BY POLES AT ABOUT 100,000 MEN.

POLAND IS ASKING THAT COMMAND OF THESE FORCES, WHICH WERE SUPPLIED AND EQUIPPED BY GREAT BRITAIN, BE TURNED OVER TO WARSAW.

UNDER A POINT NOT INCLUDED IN THE NOTE, THE POLISH OFFICIAL

SAID. SOLDIERS WHO DO NOT WISH TO RETURN TO POLAND WOULD BE DEMOBILIZED AND LEFT WHERE THEY ARE.

THE SUBJECT WILL BE DISCUSSED INDIRECTLY DURING CONFERENCE CONSIDERATION OF A BRITISH RESOLUTION TO ESTABLISH A UNITED NATIONS REFUGEE COMMISSION.

POLAND, YUGOSLAVIA AND RUSSIA HAVE OPPOSED BRITISH MOVES TO CONTINUE INTERNATIONAL CARE FOR REFUGEES BEYOND IMMEDIATE POSTWAR NEEDS ON THE GROUND THAT SUCH AID WOULD ENCOURAGE THE FORMATION ABROAD OF HOSTILE GROUPS OF CITIZENS OF THE THREE COUNTRIES.

PARIS, JAN. 16-(AP)-FORMER PREMIER EDOUARD HERRIOT, DECLARING FRANCE'S WHOLE FOREIGN POLICY WAS BASED ON ACHIEVING SECURITY AGAINST GERMAN AGGRESSION, CALLED UPON TODAY THE UNITED STATES, RUSSIA AND ENGLAND TO REGULATE THE FUTURE STATUS OF THE RUHR VALLEY.

"BASICALLY, THE PROBLEM IS THAT OF COAL AND IF THE QUESTIONS OF THE RUHR AND THE SAAR ARE NOT RESOLVED, THAT WILL THREATEN THE PEACE," THE RADICAL-SOCIALIST DEPUTY TOLD THE CONSTI-UENT ASSEMBLY during a foreign affairs debate.

JAN 17 1946

"THE UNITED STATES, ENGLAND AND RUSSIA MUST TAKE COGNIZANCE OF THAT SITUATION AND REGULATE IT ON AN INTERNATIONAL PLAN."

FRANCE HAS PROPOSED INTERNATIONALIZATION OF THE INDUSTRIAL RUHR AND DETACHMENT OF THE RHINELAND FROM GERMANY.

FOREIGN MINISTER GEORGES BIDAULT WAS SCHEDULED TO PARTI-CIPATE IN THE FOREIGN MINISTERS DEBATE TOMORROW BEFORE RETURNING TO LONDON FOR THE UNITED NATIONS CONFERENCE.

RADICAL SOCIALIST DEPUTY PIERRE COT, FORMER MINISTER OF AVIATION, ASKED A "MORE DARING AND REALISTIC" FOREIGN POLICY," ASSERTING THAT "THE FRANCO-SOVIET PACT IS THE CORNERSTONE OF OUR SECURITY." HE DECLARED HIS OPPOSITION ON ANY WESTERN BLOC OF NATIONS AND CONTENDED THAT THE "ENTENTE" OF AMERICAN, ENGLAND AND RUSSIA WAS THE KEYSTONE TO PEACE.

COT REMARKED THAT "AT PRESENT THERE IS ON FRENCH TERRITORY A MILITARY MISSION OF THE FORMER POLISH GOVERNMENT OF LONDON THAT WE DEMAND BE NO LONGER TOLERATED."

JAN 17 1946

DEPUTY ANDRE MUTTER OF THE UNITED REPUBLICAN PARTY TOLD THE ASSEMBLY FRANCE PERHAPS WOULD LOSE TONKIN, NORTHERN INDOCHINA PROVINCE, DECLARING ELECTIONS WERE TAKING PLACE THERE IN THE ABSENCE OF FRENCH OFFICIALS.

FROM HIS SEAT BIDAULT REPLIED, "NO."

MUTTER CALLED FOR A RAPID CONCLUSION OF A PACT WITH ENGLAND AND A CLARIFICATION OF AMERICAN-FRENCH RELATIONS.

PARIS, JAN. 16-(AP)-SS GEN. KARL OBERG, OF THE SS WARTIME GESTAPO CHIEF FOR THE WEST, WAS BACK TODAY IN THE CITY WHERE HE WON THE NICKNAME "THE BUTCHER OF PARIS," BUT THIS TIME AS A PRISONER AT SURETE POLICE HEADQUARTERS.

URGES CONTROL BY UNO OF ALL ARMS MAKING

Masaryk Calls on Assembly for Action on World Munition Industry.

REVEALS TRUSTEESHIP PLAN

Bevin Says Britain Has Already Taken Steps to Convert Three African Mandates.

London, Jan. 17 (A. P.).—United Nations control of the entire world armament industry, including atomic bomb factories, was proposed to the UNO Assembly today by Jan G. Masaryk, Foreign Minister of Czecho-Slovakia.

Masaryk said in his address that, in order to safeguard humanity against the latest scientific inventions, the world arms industry, together with the latest devastating inventions, should be put under the control of the United Nations. Delegates applauded him loudly several times, especially when he said he hoped that not one particle of uranium produced in Czecho-Slovakia will ever be used for wholesale destruction and annihilation." Uranium is a source of material for atomic energy and the atomic bomb.

Tells Trusteeship Plan.

Jobs and problems piled up for the Assembly as it began the second week of its existence with a sobering speech by Foreign Secretary Bevin, who said that Great Britain is already negotiating to convert three of her five League of Nations mandates—Tanganyika, Togoland and the Cameroons—into United Nations trusteeships. Action on Palestine is being withheld, pending the outcome of an Anglo-American inquiry into the Jewish-Arab issue there, and the fifth mandate, Trans-Jordan, he said, is eventually to be made independent and therefore will not be turned over.

Belgian officials said they would announce similar intentions for their two mandates Ruanda and Urandi, in East Africa.

Bevin, launching into the controversial trusteeship question, was the first speaker at the Assembly meeting to disclose concrete steps by any nation to start placing mandated and conquered enemy territories under the sovereignty of the United Nations. The United States is primarily concerned in the trusteeship question because of the numerous American-conquered Japanese islands in the Pacific.

The only restriction which Bevin attached to the proposed conversion of the African mandates into trusteeships was that the terms of the trusteeships should be "in our view generally satisfactory." He cited the fact that the British had administered these areas for more than twenty-five years and would not now be willing to put them under an administration which Britain considers undesirable.

Security Council Meets.

Meanwhile today the UNO Security Council met for the first time and was declared duly constituted to begin the task of maintaining peace in the world, with force if necessary. The eleven members were grouped around a horseshoe table, J. N. O. Makin of Australia presiding.

Edward R. Stettinius, the American member, declared that whether the council succeeds or not depends upon the manner in which the members "discharge the special obligations which they have assumed," including the "obligation to agree" so that the Council may act and act effectively.

Bevin attended for Britain, Ambassador Andrei Gromyko for Russia, Ambassador Wellington Koo for China and Minister of State V. Auriol for France. The six smaller nations represented, in addition to Australia, were Poland, Brazil, Egypt, Mexico and the Netherlands.

Near by was Nasrullah Entezam, representing Iran, whose dispute with Russia may furnish the first test of the Council's effectiveness. Entezam said that Iran's appeal for help may be formally presented to the Council tomorrow.

Recalling the protracted controversy over veto powers at San Francisco, UNO delegates expressed the view it was unlikely that Russia could prevent an airing of the controversy. Many also expressed the opinion that under the UNO Charter Russia would have to refrain from voting on any recommendation the Council might make for a peaceful settlement. However, should the controversy reach a point where it came to deciding on the use of force or some kind of sanctions to compel a settlement, Russia would have a veto.

SECURITY COUNCIL ORGANIZED BY UNO

Group Formally Consituted to Preserve World Peace.

LONDON, Jan. 17.—(AP) The United Nations Security Council — proposed as the custodian of atom bomb factories and all the other arms plants in the world—was formally organized today for its task of preserving the peace, using force if necessary.

The 11-nation council was constituted at 10:10 a. m., E.S.T., around a "good luck" horseshoe table in Church House, Westminster, and members declared at the historic opening session that upon the council primarily rested the world's hope of lasting peace.

Iran May Appeal

Near the table sat Iranian delegate Nasrulla Entezam, whose country may appeal to the council as early as tomorrow for aid in settling its dispute with Soviet Russia over political conditions in Northern Iran.

Earlier to cheering general assembly delegates in Central Hall, Foreign Minister Jan Masaryk of Czechoslovakia, one of Europe's great arms producing countries, called for United Nations global control of armament industries, including atomic bomb factories.

"War should be stopped by controlling all means to war," Masaryk said. To safeguard humanity, he added, international controls should be set up for "the latest devastating inventions."

Delegates applauded as Masaryk expressed the hope that "not one particle of uranium produced in Czechoslovakia will ever be used for wholesale destruction and annihilation."

The second week in the life of the new world peace organization opened with an announcement by British Foreign Secretary Ernest Bevin that his country was negotiating to place three of her five league of nations mandates under the projected United Nations trusteeship system. They are Tanganyika, Cameroons and Togoland, all in Africa.

But Palestine, Bevin added, was being withheld pending results of a British-American inquiry into the Jewish-Arab issue. Trans-Jordan was excluded because it eventually will be made independent, he said.

First Move Made

Bevin's statement was the first concrete move by any nation to start UNO trusteeship working. At least three countries must agree to turn over their mandates before the UNO trusteeship council can be constituted.

Belgian officials said they soon would announce similar intentions for their two mandates in the Belgian Congo, Ruanda and Ufundi, formerly in German East Africa. South African delegate Heaton Nicholls, however, told the assembly his country was reserving its position on the future of its mandate over Southwest Africa.

South African delegates have said privately that the sparsely populated German colony wanted to be incorporated into the Union of South Africa.

The one-hour inaugural session of the security council included brief speeches by each of the 11 members. It was convened during a recess between plenary sessions.

The council was "duly constituted" by J. N. O. Makin, chief Australian delegate and provisional council president.

Edward R. Stettinius, Jr., represented the United States. Bevin attended for Great Britain, Soviet Ambassador Andrei Gromyko for Russia, Ambassador V. K. Wellington Koo for China, and Minister of State V. Auriol for France.

The six smaller nations represented in addition to Australia were Poland, Brazil, Egypt, Mexico, and the Netherlands.

Stettinius Speaks

Stettinius, replying to a speech by Makin, said that whether the council "succeeds or not depends upon the manner in which the members of the security council discharge the special obligations they have assumed. This is the obligation to agree so that the council may be able to act, and act effectively."

Stettinius said that while the assembly, the economic and social council, and the trusteeship council must build a world "in which lasting peace will be possible," the security council "must make this possibility a certainty."

The next item of business on the council's agenda is the recommendation of a candidate to the general assembly for the post of UNO secretary general. Most prominently mentioned for the job is Lester Pearson, Canadian ambassador to the United States.

A "public welcome" to UNO delegates was given tonight by the United Nations Associations of Britain and Northern Ireland. Field Marshal Lord Harold Alexander presided. The Archbishop of Canterbury was among the speakers.

In a reply Mrs. Eleanor Roosevelt said that Woodrow Wilson, "who believed so wholeheartedly that an association of nations could be successfully formed and could keep the peace of the world, is being vindicated today."

PEACE, IT SEEMS, IS MUCH CHEAPER

London, Jan. 17 (A. P.).—Foreign Secretary Bevin told the UNO Assembly today that the yearly cost of the United Nations Organization to all fifty-one member countries would be less than half the amount of money spent by the United Kingdom in a single day during the war just ended. He did not give any specific figures.

65,000 SEE 7 GERMANS HANG

Russians Sentence Two Other Nazis To 20 Years Each

London, Jan. 17 (AP)—The Russian war crimes trial at Nikolayev ended today with the hanging of seven Germans before 65,000 Soviet citizens, the Moscow radio said tonight. Two other Nazi defendants were sentenced to twenty years' imprisonment.

The Germans, who included Lieut. Gen. Herman Winkler, former Nazi commandant of the Black Sea city of Nikolayev, were accused of killing 105,000 Russians. Simultaneously another trial opened at Kiev for fifteen German army men including three generals, who are accused of atrocities in the Ukraine. They will be defended by counsel assigned by the Russian military tribunal.

The Kiev defendants are charged with participating in the killing and torturing of more than 4,000,000 Soviet citizens and abducting 2,000,000 to Germany for slave labor, the broadcast said.

The radio added that the indictment against these lists the burning of 647,000 dwellings, destruction of thousands of universities, churches and theaters, and the looting of nearly 3,000,000 horses, more than 7,000,000 head of cattle and 9,000,000 hogs.

Burma Puppet Surrenders

LONDON, Jan. 17 (AP).—A Reuters dispatch from Tokyo today reported that Dr. Ba Maw, puppet Premier of Burma during the Japanese occupation, had surrendered to Allied authorities in Tokyo.

PARIS, Friday, Jan. 18 — (AP) The Constituent Assembly voted early today that France "prepare its own rupture" with the Franco government of Spain and enter in to contact with leaders of the exiled Spanish Republican government.

The vote, completing three days of debate on foreign affairs, was unanimous despite an earlier declaration by Foreign Minister Georges Bidault that France would not act alone against Spain.

France has proposed to the United States and Britain a re-examination of their diplomatic relations with Spain.

Peace Parley Agreed

Earlier, the government agreed to proposals of the United States, Russia and Great Britain for a European peace conference in Paris in May.

Bidault informed the cabinet that besides the big three the other 18 nations at the conference would have a definite say on the texts of treaties with Italy, Romania, Bulgaria, Hungary and Finland. He said he had received assurances to that effect from U. S. Secretary of State James F. Byrnes on behalf of the Big Three foreign ministers who met at Moscow in December.

At Moscow, it had been decided that France would be signatory only of the Italian peace treaty. France then asked the three powers if countries like Greece and Yugoslavia, victims of Italians aggression, would not also be at least heard on such a treaty.

Bidault told the cabinet he had also been assured the council of five deputy foreign ministers—the United States, Russia, Britain, France and China—would continue to function. It was learned last week that this council would begin preliminary work on the Italian peace pact during the United Nations conference in London.

FRENCH ASSEMBLY VOTES FOR BREAK IN SPANISH TIES

France Supports Big 3 Peace Conference Plan

Paris, Jan. 17 (AP)—France announced today her adherence to proposals of the United States, Russia and Britain for a European peace conference in Paris in May after receiving assurance that small nations would have a voice in the treaties.

The Cabinet decided to agree to the decisions of the recent conference of the Big Three foreign ministers in Moscow after Foreign Minister Georges Bidault presented the response of the United States, Russia and Britain to the French request for clarification.

Bidault told the ministers of state that the United States Secretary of State, James F. Byrnes, had indicated on behalf of the United States, the Soviet Union and Britain that the other eighteen nations at the conference would have a definite say on the texts of treaties with Italy, Romania, Bulgaria, Hungary and Finland.

HYDE PARK CALLED PROBABLE UNO SITE

Paris, Jan. 17 (A. P.).—Foreign Minister Georges Bidault told a French Cabinet meeting today it appeared likely the permanent home of the United Nations would be at Hyde Park, N. Y.

Gov. Dewey today offered all of the State's services to the inspection group of the Interim Committee on Headquarters of the United Nations and extended an invitation to the members to luncheon or dinner at the Executive Mansion in Albany at their convenience.

The Governor sent a letter to Dr. Stoyan Gavrilovic, chairman of the group, at the Waldorf-Astoria, assuring the inspection committee of his interest and cooperation.

"As you know, I some time ago designated Hon. M. P. Catherwood, commissioner of commerce of the State of New York, to extend the facilities of the State to the Inspection Group of the Interim Committee on Headquarters of the United Nations, and he reports to me that he has conferred with the committee and has made available all the conveniences and services at the command of the State," Dewey wrote.

Further along in the letter, Dewey stated: "As you know, there are a large number of communities in the State of New York eager to be selected as the permanent site of the headquarters of the United Nations and I am sure that you will find each of them has great advantages. If I can be of any service personally I should consider it a pleasure if you would advise me and I should be more than happy to respond to any request."

Mayor O'Dwyer has been sent specifications of office and auditorium space needed for the interim headquarters while the permanent buildings are under construction.

Swiss Buy Plane Parts

Paris, Jan. 17 (AP)—The Swiss Government and Swiss Air Traffic Company, Inc., have purchased $68,333 worth of surplus plane parts and supplies salvaged from United States aircraft forced to land in Switzerland during the war, the United States Foreign Liquidation Commissioner announced today.

Leghorn, Jan. 17 (AP)—American military authorities said today that foreign-born wives of United States military personnel in Italy would be provided with transportation to the United States henceforth. The arrangements will not interfere with troop shipments.

21 FARBEN PLANTS DESTROYED BY U. S.

Berlin, Jan. 17 (A. P.).—Liquidation of the I. G. Farben Industrie, Germany's greatest monopoly, is nearing completion in the American zone of occupation, the American military government has announced.

Brig.-Gen. William Draper, director of the AMG economic division, last night told a meeting of the committee of control officers for the Farben combine that the huge trust "has ceased to exist in the American zone and is now a name only." He said twenty-one of the forty-two major Farben plants in the American zone had been destroyed or designated for reparations, and that all of Farben's cartel arrangements had been terminated.

In addition, Draper said American authorities had arrested eleven Farben directors found in the United States zone and dismissed 1,100 employees who were found to have Nazi connections.

The Farben plants which are still operating, he declared, were permitted to produce only essential items such as medicines, camera equipment and articles for sale to occupation troops. The American zone contains only 10 per cent of the trust's plants. Fifty-eight and one-half per cent are in the Russian zone, 20 per cent in the French zone and 11.5 per cent in the British.

SOVIET TO REOPEN BERLIN UNIVERSITY

Berlin, Jan. 17 (A. P.).—Soviet announcement that the Russians will reopen the University of Berlin in their sector on January 20 under their own control brought protests today from three other occupying powers that the University should be under four-power control, education officers in the American Military Government said.

The Russians went ahead on their own after a deadlock on the issue. American, British and French representatives had taken the stand that the university shoudl be controlled by the Kommandantur, as are other Berlin educational institutions, an American officer said, adding: "There's nothing we can do about it now if the Russians reopen the university in their sector of the city and finance it with funds from their zone instead of through the Kommandantunr's budget for the city. But Americans can and will refuse to let the university operate a dozen of its installations in our sector of the city. But frankly I think the Russians have stolen a march on us. They have got a policy, and they are carrying it out."

This officer, speaking of the Russian policy for the university, said that there was evidence of a political approach which conflicts with American views on liberal education.

DISPOSAL OF NAZI FLEET DECIDED BY BIG THREE

BERLIN, Jan. 17—(AP) A special three-power naval commission has reached an agreement on the disposal of ships and other equipment of the Germany navy and merchant fleet, a reliable source revealed tonight.

Announcement of the terms of the agreement was expected to be made in Washington, Moscow and London shortly.

It was understood that except for a few ships to be used in experiments by the United States, there was little demand for the German war vessels. Differences in construction, difficulty in obtaining spare parts and special caliber ammunition for the guns would make the ships economic liabilities to the United States and Great Britain.

Ex-Storm Trooper Loses Job

BERLIN, Jan. 17 (AP).—Herman Meistegel Meister, director of the Berliner Stadt Kontor (Central Bank), was ordered dismissed from his post today in the Allied Kommandatura's intensified de-Nazification drive. Examination of Meister's record disclosed he was a four-year member of the S. A. (Storm Troops), an active supporters of the Nazi Flying Corps and Reichsbank director from 1939 to 1945.

Nominal Nazis Banned From Training Courses

Berlin, Jan. 17 (AP)—The Allied Control Council's co-ordinating committee today banned from teacher training courses even nominal Nazis and any person who had applied for membership in the National Socialist party. Former officers in the German Army also were barred.

Refusing to compromise its long-range search for "persons capable of training German youth in the democratic spirit," the committee also banned "active members" of associated Nazi organizations such as the Hitler Youth.

France Asks Death For 22 Top Nazis At Nuernberg

Nuernberg, Jan. 17 (AP)—France asked death today for the 22 ringleaders of the Nazi regime and for punishment of hundfeds of thousands of members of German terror organizations.

Francois de Menthon, wounded war veteran who is the French prosecutor, denounced Hitlerism and all it stands for with a fervor that brought fear to the faces of Hermann Goering and other prisoners before the International Military Tribunal.

"Civilization requires from you after this unleashing of barbarism a verdict which will be a sort of supreme warning," de Menthon said.

"Rein Of Justice"

"Justice must strike those guilty of the enterprise of barbarism from which we have just escaped. The rein of justice is the most exact expression of great human hope. Your decision can mark a decisive state in its difficult pursuit."

The chief French prosecutor said that perhaps the punishment of hundreds of thousands of men who belonged to such terror organizations as the SS, the SD, the SA and Gestapo "awakens some objections," but warned:

"Without the existence of these organizations, without the spirit that animated them, one would not succeed in understanding how so many atrocities could have been perpetrated. The systematic war of criminality could not have been carried out by Nazi Germany without these organizations and without the men who composed them.

Carried Out Orders

"The major Nazi culprits had their orders carried out in divers Nazi organizations which we ask you to declare criminal in order that each of their members may be apprehended and punished."

De Menthon told the court that death sentences for the leaders and verdicts of guilty for the Nazi organizations "can serve as a foundation for the moral uplift of the German people and the first stage in their integration into a community of free countries."

His accusation ran the gamut of German crimes. He said that of 250,000 persons deported from France only 35,000 returned.

"At Osciewin concentration camp, the most beautiful women were set apart, artificially fertilized and then gassed," he declared.

One of the biggest crowds since the trials opened packed the courtroom as the chief prosecutor for the French declared that diplomatic maneuvering alone could not assure peace—that firm justice must be meted out by the tribunal.

For Martyred Peoples

De Menthon said his country was acting as spokesman for the martyred peace-loving peoples of western Europe—Norway, Denmark, the Netherlands, Belgium and Luxemburg.

"A tortured people's craving for justice is the basic foundation of France's call to your hig. tribunal," he said. "This work of justice is equally indispensable for the future of the German people.

"These people have been for many years intoxicated by Nazism; certain of their eternal and deep-seated aspirations under the Hitler regime have found monstrous expressions; their entire responsibility is involved not only by their general acceptance but by the effective participation of a great number of them.

Necessary Re-Education

"Their re-education is indispensible," de Menthon continued. "The efforts that free peoples will have made to reintegrate Germany into the international community cannot succeed in the end if this re-education is not carried out.

"The initial condemnation of Nazi Germany by your high tribunal will be the first lesson for these peoples and will constitute the best starting point for the work by revision of values and of re-education which must be its great concern during the coming years."

The Americans and British completed their cases yesterday, except for those against some individual defendants—including Rudolf Hess and Franz von Papen—which will probably be sandwiched in later. The French case is expected to take about three weeks, after which the Russian prosecutors will take over.

Economic-Ruin Data

In his opening statement to the court, de Menthon detailed German pillaging of occupied countries in the economic field as follows:

DENMARK—Nearly nine billion crowns. (The crown was last quoted at about 21 cents.)

THE NETHERLANDS—German pillage was effected to such an extent that although Holland was one of the richest countries in the world in relation to its population, it is today almost completely ruined and financial charges imposed by the occupant exceed 20,000,000,000 guilders. (Last quoted at about 38 cents.)

BELGIUM—More than 6,000,000,000 belgas. (Last quoted at about 11 cents.)

FRANCE—Seizures on means of payments reached a total of 745,000,000,000 francs (now pegged at 119 to the dollar).

FRENCH LEADER DEMANDS DEATH FOR NAZI CHIEFS

NUERNBERG, Germany, Jan. 17—(AP)—A wartime French resistance chieftain today charged 22 top Nazis with torture, lootings and persecution and demanded the "supreme penalty" for them as an essential first step in re-educating Germany.

It was the first time that the prosecution had called directly for death sentences for the Nazis on trial before the International Military Tribunal. The demand was voiced by a former Minister of Justice of France, Francois De Menthon, 46-year-old philosophy professor at Nancy, who began France's case against the Nazis.

Courtroom Tense

The courtroom was packed and tense. The defendants plainly felt the full impact of the death penalty demand. With long, sad faces, they sat limply, listening in silence and looking straight at the prosecutor. Reichsmarshal Goering, suffering a head cold, appeared in court bundled up in a polka-dot scarf.

De Menthon asserted that the Germans must be shown that organized brutality as embodied in National Socialism and its doctrines is the "crime of crimes" leading only to "material and moral perdition."

30.24-353

The wounded war veteran said that the German people for many years have been "intoxicated by Nazism" and that their re-education is indispensable.

Lesson Needed

He declared the "initial condemnation of Nazi Germany by your high tribunal" would be the first lesson for the Germans.

He said that "some objection" might arise at the punishment of hundreds of thousands of men who belonged to such terror organizations as the SS, the SD, the SA and the Gestapo, but declared that "the systematic war of criminality could not have been carried out by Nazi Germany without these organizations and without the men who composed them."

"The major Nazi culprits had their orders carried out in divers Nazi organizations which we ask you to declare criminal in order that each of their members may be apprehended and punished," the prosecutor said.

The French chief prosecutor concluded his opening statement in time for Edgar Faure, of his staff, to begin presentation of details on charges of economic pillage and drafts of forced labor.

Accusing the Nazi hierarchy of the deliberate breach of the peace in violation of international treaties, De Menthon declared that this sprang from a "crime against the spirit" which unless punished would reappear another day under another group of like-minded leaders.

The prosecutor said that National Socialism was not a phenomenon of the current era but had its roots deep in German history and philosophy. He warned that new Pan-Germanists might soon say to the Germans:

"Hitler and his companions were wrong because they finally failed but we must begin again some day on other foundations the extraordinary adventure of Germanism."

Agreement Cited

De Menthon cited the international agreement of 1919 incorporated into the treaty of Versailles and enumerated 32 war acts specifically forbidden as war crimes. He said many of these were knowingly violated by the Nazis in the course of this war.

He listed specific charges which would be pressed against each defendant, repeatedly citing Fritz Sauckel, in charge of foreign labor during the Nazi regime, as chiefly responsible for drafting forced labor; Wilhelm Frick, former minister of the interior, as director of the policy in the occupied territories; Field Marshal Wilhelm Keitel and Col. Gen. Alfred Jodl as responsible military chiefs.

De Menthon declared that the occupation atrocities as exemplified in the wholesale massacre of the inhabitants of the Southern French village of Oradour-Sur-Glane, concentration camp tortures, and the premeditated and drawn-out murders of French, Dutch, Danish and Belgian patriots must be punished.

SECOND ARMORED READY TO SAIL FROM FRANCE

FRANKFURT, Jan. 17—(AP) The Second Armored "Hell On Wheels," Division will begin embarking at Marseille tomorrow for the voyage home, army headquarters announced today.

The division is expected to clear the port by Jan. 22. Some of its veterans have reenlisted and after a 45-day home furlough will go to Camp Hood, Texas, as the padre for the division which will be retained as a regular army unit.

The 493th Field Artillery and Second and Third Battalions of the 94th Infantry division went aboard the S. S. Thomas Barry, preparing to sail tomorrow from Le Havre. Most of the 94th division is still awaiting shipment at Camp Philip Morris.

Most of the 100th Infantry Division was on the high seas with the rest of the division awaiting shipment in the Calais staging area.

Also enroute home were the 42nd 51st and 60th Field Hospitals, 80th and 84th Infantry Divisions, 94th and 196th General Hospitals, 602nd Anti-Aircraft Battalion and 244th Engineers combat battalion.

YANKS CLEAR IN 3 MURDERS

Hungarian Girl Questioned On

Slayings In Germany

Bad Toelz, Germany, Jan. 17 (AP). Third Army intelligence headquarters announced tonight that no American officers were implicated in the mysterious murder of three United States Government officers whose burned and battered bodies were found at Passau eleven days ago.

Intelligence officers at theater headquarters at Frankfurt said no evidence of German resistance activity had been uncovered. The official statement still left a possibity that the slayings might ultimately be laid to individual Germans who might have had a grudge against military government officials.

Col. E. M. Fickett, chief of military intelligence for the 3d Army, said no murder weapon had been found following the discovery of the bodies in the fire-swept billet on the Danube near the Austrian-German border.

Fourth Officer Escapes

Unofficial sources said a Hungarian girl employed in the military government office of one of the victims had been questioned in an effort to uncover a possible motive.

Fickett said the investigation was continuing, but that the case remained a "top secret."

The victims were identified officially as Major Everett C. Cofran, Washington, D.C.; Capt. Adrian I. Wessler, New Rochelle, N.Y.; Lieut. Stanley Rosewater, Omaha, Neb. Cofran, an officer of the Passau military administration, had Wesseler and Rosewater as week-end guests from Regensburg.

A fourth officer in the cottage escaped. He was sleeping on the first floor and was reported to have said he was unable to reach the upper floors, where the victims were sleeping, because of the flames.

80,000 War Prisoners Dead In Lower Silesia

Warsaw, Jan. 10 [AP—Delayed]. More than 80,000 American, Greek, British, Russian, Polish, French and New Zealand prisoners of war were killed or died of starvation in a Nazi concentration camp at Lambinowice, near Niemodlin in Lower Silesia, an official commission reported today.

Authorities said they had found a cemetery stretching many miles and deep ditches with many layers of bodies.

[The Polish Press Agency said the bodies of 40,000 had been unearthed in one mass grave.]

FERDINAND RICHTER QUITS CZECH COURT

PRAGUE, Jan. 17—(AP) Ferdinand Richter has resigned as president of the National Court, Czechoslovakia's highest judicial post, for a reason now world-wide in its application-he couldn't find a place to live.

Richter said he had resigned in the midst of the treason trial of three high Czech army officers and returned to his home in another part of the country "so I could have a bed."

SICILIANS WALK OUT AND STAY OUT

Rome, Jan. 17 (A. P.).—The General Confederation of Labor called out Government workers throughout Italy in a token strike today, protesting the Government's refusal to pay a 1945 bonus equal to one month's salary.

The strike lasted an hour except in Sicily, where the workers decided to stay out three days.

Bishop Of Pinsk Ousted, Report Says

Vatican City, Jan. 17 (AP)—Msgr. Pucci's news service said today the Vatican had received information that Msgr. Casimir Bukraba, bishop of Pinsk, had been ousted from his diocese.

Pinsk, formerly in Poland, now is part of Soviet White Russia. Bukraba was the last of seventeen bishops in the eastern Polish belt occupied by the Russians, the news service said, as the other sixteen already had been removed.

Black Marketeers Meeting All Ships

By FRANK BRUTTO

NAPLES—(AP) Where a foreign ship drops anchor in this once beautiful port—whether half a mile or a mile from shore—that's where Italy's black market begins.

With cries of "Johnee, bizniz," the ragged, swearing, smiling and imprecating "fishermen" of Naples paddle out from the war-littered shore, shaking fistfuls of lire towards crews and passengers of any ships that drop anchor while waiting for one of the few berths that is not encumbered with a rusting, shattered hulk of a once-Axis ship.

First cries are always for "cigarets," then for "shooz, cloze . . . something . . . Johnee you speak."

Only minutes after the Liberty ship that was carrying 8,000 tons of wheat for the hungry people of Italy let down its anchors the black marketeers paddled out of an early morning fog and to the side o fthe ship. Soon a score of them—some barefoot—had clambered aboard.

Fire Hose for Defense

They darted through the ship, bickering, offering ten to fifteen dollars in lire for sixty-cent cartons of tax-free cigarets. Haggling became so intense that they were finally driven off ship with fire hoses. They took it stoically, paddling to just out of reach of the nozzles and scurrying away momentarily when a police boat churned onto the scene. Then, slowly, they edged back.

The business is well organized and has a code of its own. When two "non buono" boys tried to get away without paying for three cartons of cigarets, paddling madly in the direction of Vesuvius, two stalwart "buono" boys took after them and almost dumped them into the sea.

Dodging the Cops

Boats are deployed in deep formation. Only part of them do the buying. When one boat has a load it quickly pushes out to a second line boat that relays it to shore. Second and third line boats do this part of the job and also watch for the police launch so that by the time it arrives none of the "fish"—they carry a few minor items for alibi—are in the immediate vicinity of the ship. If they carry it is because they have got rid of the goods to another boat.

After the police departure the boats swarm back and business begins in earnest. Cigarets, shoes, clothes, food, soap and other items are sold.

Officers, as well as crewmen, who were looking forward to shore leave after an 18-day crossing ransacked their quarters for stuff. Ropes were tossed aboard, pails hauled up with lire and returned with goods. One of the best deals was made by a seaman who sold two cartons of cigarets for 3,500 lire then turned around and bought a suit from another seaman that would bring 40,000 lire or $400 ashore.

An hour's work exhausted the lire but not the energy of the black marketeers. As they paddled

2 GREEK LEADERS ATTACKED BY MOB

ATHENS, Jan. 17—(AP) Two members of the leftist EAM's central committee, one of them a former cabinet minister, were attacked and slightly injured in Corinth today, and dispatches to the Ministry of Public Order told of seven deaths in political disorders in other parts of Greece.

John Zevgos, minister of agriculture under former Premier George Papandreou, and George Proimakis were assaulted with sticks and stones before Corinth police dispersed the assailants by firing in the air.

Minister of Public Order Stamatis Mercouris announced that 11 of the attackers were arrested. He ordered the city's police chief suspended pending an investigation.

Earlier, the ministry was informed that a monarchist leader, his young son and two other persons had been killed by an armed band which dragged them from a bus near Sparta in southern Peloponnesus. At Astako in northwestern Greece, dispatches said, kinesmen of victims of the December revolution killed three brothers of a Communist executioner.

Meanwhile, the KKE, Greek Communist party, criticized a recent statement by Hector McNeil, British undersecretary for foreign affairs, and charged the Briton wanted to make Greece a "colonial dependent."

The KKE's political bureau said McNeil's statement that the "KKE has not yet abandoned its political mentality" was "open intervention in Greek domestic affairs and an attempt to exclude the party from the political movement in Greece."

The country's labor unrest spread to domestic telegraph workers, who joined the strike of government employes seeking more pay to meet living costs, and to linotype operators, who struck for 100 per cent wage increases. The printers' walkout prevented publication of all newspapers except those of the KKE-EAM left wing coalition.

SWEDEN TO DEPORT BALTS

167 Who Resisted Transfer to Russia to Be Turned Over

STOCKHOLM, Sweden, Jan. 17 (AP)—Premier Per Albin Hansson told Parliament today that the Swedish Government would turn over to Russia the 167 Baltic military internees who resisted deportation to Russia last November by staging a two-week hunger strike.

Russia had requested that the Balts, all Lithuanians, Latvians and Estonians who were accused by Russia of being deserters from the German Army, be returned to Russia. The internees now are recovering from the effects of the hunger strike and are expected to be extradited soon.

There has been widespread sentiment among the Swedes against releasing the Balts to the Russians. The newspaper Aftonbladet said Dr. Elmars Eichfuss-Atvars, leader of the internees, had smuggled an appeal to King Gustav from a hospital, asking that the cases be referred to the United Nations Assembly.

SHIP HELD OFF HAIFA

British Halt Vessel Bearing Illegal Immigrants

JERUSALEM, Jan. 17 (AP)—Reliable sources said tonight that the British had quarantined a ship that had attempted to land illegally about 1,000 Jewish immigrants from Europe on the Palestine coast near Haifa today.

It was learned that the vessel had been trailed from the open sea to Palestine territorial waters by British planes and a destroyer and was being held in custody offshore pending a decision of Palestine officials on the disposition of the immigrants.

King Would Extend Saudi Arabian Pipeline

Cairo, Jan. 17 (AP)—An Arab source said today that King Ibn Saudi of Saudi Arabia now desires that the Saudi Arabian oil pipeline, originally intended to terminate in Palestine near Haifa, be continued to Alexandria.

This informant said that a huge refinery was planned at Alexandria.

3 Britons Killed In Java Battle

Batavia, Jan. 17 (AP)—The British announced today that clashes between Indonesian nationalists and British forces in the Soerabaja sector on the East Java coast yesterday had cost the British three killed and 21 wounded.

The British said they used artillery and mortars in the fighting. Seven Indians were reported wounded when two vehicles struck mines.

Mrs. Berge "Arrested"

Meanwhile, Tetarii Dupont Berge, whose Swedish husband says she is an American citizen, was reported under arrest by the Indonesians in East Java today for suspected collaboration with the Dutch.

Her pearl-diving, author husband, Victor Berge, said he had been told by the Indonesian department of information that his Tahiti-born, Hollywood-reared wife was being held in the Malang sector.

Agent Investigating

Security Minister Amir Sjarifuddin of the unrecognized Indonesian Government reported that he had sent an agent to Malang to investigate the case and assured Berge of the safety of his wife and 6-year-old daughter, who had been missing since October.

Mrs. Berge is the daughter of Frank Dupont, noted for his Hollywood color film inventions.

SHIP'S CA[illegible] LOOTED

Batavia, Jan. [illegible] P.).—Louis Guillemette of W[illegible]socket, R. I., captain of the A[illegible]rican Liberty ship Frank R. Ke[illegible]g, said today that looting was [illegible] bad in Tandjong Priok that one-third of his ship's 4,200-ton cargo will have been stolen from the docks by the time the vessel is unloaded.

Aaron Gutwirth, chairman of the Batavia Red Cross, said "almost 30 per cent" of the supplies ordered by the Red Cross are disappearing at the dockside.

Baboons Turn Burglars Invading African Towns

JOHANNESBURG, South Africa—(AP) Wandering tribes of baboons, driven from their usual haunts by drought, have been roaming through Simonstown and other Cape communities, breaking into homes and parked automobiles, and endangering children.

Parents have been warned not to allow young children to run about alone and local authorities have been asked to organize shooting parties.

The baboons breaking into dwellings have torn upholstery and clothing to shreds, smashed windows, dishes and crockery, and have left home interiors masses of wreckage.

The beasts also have taken delight in ripping windshield wipers from parked cars and in tearing up seat cushions and floor coverings.

More Truce Violations Are Charged In China

Shanghai, Jan. 17 (AP)—Several key Japanese accused of complicity in a mock court-martial and execution of three of Gen. James A. Doolittle's Tokyo raiders have been rounded up and will face war-crimes trials here, the Army reported today. The trials may begin before the end of January.

Chungking, Jan. 17 (AP)—The National Military Council today charged the Communists with several new violations of the Sunday midnight truce which theoretically ended China's civil war. It detailed each.

[In Yenan, Communist 8th Route Army headquarters charged that Generalissimo Chiang Kai-shek personally and secretly had ordered the commander of the 11th War Zone on Saturday to seize strategic Communist strongpoints before the cease-fire order became effective.]

Correspondents Protest

Foreign correspondents here protested to the Government, through Minister of Information K. C. Wu, against refusal of Chinese authorities to allow American newsmen to accompany Chinese troops into any Manchurian cities until all Soviet forces are withdrawn.

Meantime, the first contingent of about 1,100 Chinese troops of the new 6th Army left Shanghai for Manchuria aboard six American LST's diverted from the Japanese repatriation program. The Chinese are to be landed at Hulutao and presumably are to be used in the Mukden area, Associated Press Correspondent Richard Cushing reported. They are fully equipped for the vigorous Manchurian weather.

Claim Order Was Seized

[From Henan, Associated Press Correspondent John Roderick radioed in a delayed dispatch dated yesterday that Communist headquarters claimed to have come into possession of an order issued in January directing Government forces to occupy a favorable position before the armistice was effective.

[Party headquarters instructed Chou En-lai, Communist representative in Chungking, to protest strongly to the Government, contending that fighting which continued between the signing of the armistice and its effective date was due to a direct order of Chiang rather than to faulty communications.]

Port Seizure Charged

The National Military Council here asserted that 5,000 Communists on Monday seized control of the Manchurian port of Yingkow after a seven-hour fight in which it overwhelmed a small Government garrison.

It said further that on Tuesday 40,000 Communists attacked Taian and Shangtung on the Tientsin-Pukow railroad and other points on the railroad in Hopeh and Kiangsu provinces.

The council also charged that 15,000 Communists attacked points north of Yangchow on the Grand Canal, northeast of Nanking; that in eastern Suiyuan, 5,000 attacked Tsining on the Peiping-Suiyuan railroad, and that in southeastern Honan, Communists attacked a Government village near Loshan after formally notifying it of their intention.

The Communist party and the Democratic League demanded an open general election for the Chinese National Assembly at today's session of the Political Consultation Conference.

The assembly is scheduled to meet May 5 in Nanking.

Arguments against the assembly as now constituted included:

1. Delegates were elected or appointed before the Sino-Japanese war at a time when there was one-party rule.

2. All members of the Kuomintang (Nationalist) party's Central Executive Committee, which numbered 460 before the war, are exofficio members.

3. The assembly includes representatives of Outer Mongolia, no longer part of the republic, and none from Formosa, now part of China.

A Government delegate said the work of the Assembly was solely to draft a constitution and promised that an open general election would be held within six months after that was done.

The conference adjourned without a decision after a four-hour discussion.

Purported Chiang Order

[At Yenan, Communist headquarters released this purported text of the order they said Chiang sent to Sun Lein-sung, commander of the 11th War zone:

["Marshall (Gen. George Marshall, President Truman's envoy to China), Chang Chun (Government representative) and Chou En-lai (Communist representative), a three-man committee, have come to agreement for complete cessation of hostilities before holding of the Political Consultative Council. The cease-fire order will reach units the night of January 10. All units should as swiftly as possible seize strategic points, especially in Jehol province. It would be best to occupy Chengteh before issuing of the cease-fire order, failing which Kupeikow, Chienping and Lingyuan should be swiftly seized."

Other Alleged Order

[The Communists said the text of the January 7 order was:

["The Political Consultative Council will be convened within a few days. Our forces should occupy favorable positions before issuing of cease-fire orders. Forces that have not reached designated positions should hasten forward by night marches. Orders should be issued swiftly to troops garrisoning areas where disarming has not yet been carried out to hasten disarming so that traitor armies may not take advantage of the situation. Movements should be swift and secret, giving no grounds which might be used as pretext by Communists."

[The Communists said that Government troops, obeying orders, had taken 12 towns from the 8th Route and new 4th Army troops. They said the towns were in Jehol, East Suiyuan, East Hopeh, North Shansi, South Shansi, North Honan and North Kiangsu provinces.

[Headquarters said both purported Government orders were captured by Communist soldiers and their texts radioed to Yenan.]

REDS REPORTED URGED TO RETAIN MANCHURIA FORCE

CHUNGKING, Jan. 17—(AP) The Chinese government, its troops finally in Mukden and more en route by sea, was understood today to be urging the Russians to delay their withdrawal from Manchuria.

The Russians are slated to clear out of Manchuria by Feb. 3 but the Chinese have been unable to move fast enough to take effective control and apparently fear the Communists will reach strategic points first.

Clash Reported

The National Military Council today charged that 5,000 Communist troops overwhelmed a small government garrison Monday at the Southern Manchurian port of Yingkow in violation of China's truce.

Under terms of the truce, the Communists agreed to halt all troop movements and operations in Manchuria at midnight Sunday.

The first contingent of the crack Chinese Sixth Army, largely American - equipped and trained, left Shanghai aboard six U. S. LST's (landing ship tank) for the Manchurian port of Hulutao west of Yingkow.

Warmly dressed against rigorous weather, the Sixth expected to land 26,000 men in Manchuria by Jan. 22 to assist in the occupation of the vast and rich territory.

A Central News Agency dispatch from Mukden said the temperature stood at five degrees below zero when National troops marched into that largest city of Manchuria yesterday.

The agency asserted that the Mukden arsenal, one of the world's largest, had been stripped of heavy machinery and "not even a single rifle can be found."

Newsmen Protest

American newsmen still have not been permitted to enter Mukden and correspondents here have protested to Chinese authorities.

Meanwhile, the Communist party and the Democratic League carried their demands for an open general election for the National Assembly to the Political Consultation (Unity) Conference.

They argued that the assembly, now scheduled to convene May 5 under government call, would be packed with Kuomintang (National Party) delegates.

A government delegate replied that the assembly's sole job was to prepare a draft of a proposed constitution—not write one—and promised an open general election within six months after that was done.

The conference recessed without making a decision after four hours of discussion.

Charges Continue.

China Getting Warships From U.S. and Britain

Nanking Officials Say 21 Are on the Way, With 8 Coming From America

CHUNGKING, Jan. 17 (AP).—Chinese authorities in Nanking announced today that twenty-one warships were being turned over to China by the United States and Great Britain—eight by the former. The announcement said the warships included a 7,000-ton cruiser and two submarines.

[The Navy said in Washington that it had turned over no ships to China recently, although eight small craft, including patrol craft, submarine chasers and motor mine sweepers, were transferred to China under lend-lease about two years ago. On Dec. 17, at the suggestion of James Forrestal, Secretary of the Navy, Congress was asked to authorize the transfer of enough surplus American warships to China to assist that nation in maintaining a navy "at a strength which will make possible a substantial contribution toward the maintenance of peace in the Pacific."]

With the assistance of the American Navy, the announcement said, the Chinese will train 500 officers and 3,000 men in the next fifteen months.

The Chinese government, its troops finally in Mukden and more en route by sea, was understood today to be urging the Russians to delay their withdrawal from Manchuria. The Russians are scheduled to clear out by Feb. 3, but the Nationalists have been unable to move fast enough to take effective control and apparently fear that the Communists will reach strategic points first.

A Central News Agency dispatch from Mukden asserted that the Mukden arsenal, one of the world's largest, had been stripped of heavy machinery and "not even a single rifle can be found."

Meanwhile, the Communist party and the Democratic League carried their demands for an open general election of a National Assembly to the Political Consultation Conference. They argued that the Assembly, now scheduled to convene May 5 under government call, would be packed with Kuomintang delegates.

CHINESE MOVE INTO MUKDEN

Find Vast Arsenal Has Been Stripped.

Shanghai, Jan. 17 (A. P.).—A Chinese Central News Agency correspondent reported today that advance elements of Government forces had moved into the Manchurian city of Mukden and found the arsenal there, once one of the largest in the world, only "an empty shell."

All of the vast plant's heavy equipment had been hauled away, the correspondent reported, and not even a single rifle could be found. Under management of the Japanese, who occupied Mukden for fourteen years, the big plant expanded to produce all the latest type weapons.

American correspondents have not yet been permitted to enter the city.

Argentina Has Envoy to China

SHANGHAI, Jan. 17 (AP).—Argentina has opened diplomatic relations with China for the first time, its Ambasador a genial sixty-four-year-old surgeon, who envisions expanding cultural and commercial intercourse between the two countries. He is Dr. Jose Arce, smartly dressed former professor of medicine at the University of Buenos Aires and four times member of the Argentine Lower House.

3 Flying Teams To Assist Peace

Peiping, Jan. 17 (AP) — Three cease-fire teams were flown to vital points in North China and Manchuria today in an effort to forestall further violence.

After two conferences of the truce commissioners—Walter Robertson, of the United States; Communist Yen Chien-ying, and Cheng Chieh-min, National Government representative — teams were dispatched to Chihfeng, railroad junction in northern Jehol province; to Changteh, capitol of Jehol, and to Tsinan, in Shantung province.

The situation at Chihfeng was not clear. In Manchuria there were reports that the Soviet garrison at Chihfeng had been increased from 2,000 to 4,000 men, although earlier it was announced all Russians had been withdrawn from Jehol province.

The teams will meet commanders of opposing Chinese Communist and Government forces, investigate conditions in the areas, and report back to the three representatives in Peiping. Five other teams are being assembled. Among points to be visited soon are Kalgan, Communist stronghold on the borders of Hopeh and Chahar provinces, and Chining in the inner Mongolian province of Suiyuan.

Violation Reports Persist

Armistice headquarters in Peiping were in an organizational flurry, setting up officers in the Union Medical College buildings of the Rockefeller-endowed Medical Institute, which is due to reopen this spring.

There still were unconfirmed reports of violations of the cease-fire order which United States Marine planes have been scattering over affected areas.

The local newspaper Social Welfare said that Gen. Fu Tso-yih, governor of Suiyuan, radioed National headquarters that Communists still were making violent attacks there. Fu asked the Executive (truce) Commission to call a halt. He also asserted that two railroads in Suiyuan still were being sabotaged.

7th Division CG Gets First Leave In 4 Years

Seoul, Korea, Jan. 17 (AP)—Brig. Gen. Joseph Ready, commander of the 7th Division, this week takes his first leave in four years—a 45-day vacation with his wife and family at Oakland, Maine.

Brig. Gen. Leroy Stewart, the division's artillery commander and provost marshal here, will command the outfit in Ready's absence.

U.S.-Red Korea Group Holds Second Parley

Seoul, Korea, Jan. 17 (AP)—The American-Russian Joint Commission on Restoration of Independence for Korea held its second meeting behind closed doors in the Governor General's building today but a hoped-for communique on results failed to materialize.

Col. Gen. Terentyi Shtikov and Maj. Gen. A. V. Arnold presided as cochairmen. There was no indication when the press would be given news of developments.

Tonight the Russian delegates were guests of Lieut. Gen. John R. Hodge, American occupation commander, at a colorful formal banquet.

JAP WAR GUILT TRIALS TO GET STRICT RULES

MacArthur Insists Positive Act Be Pinned on Each Man Separately.

GROUP RESPONSIBILITY OUT

Negligence Also Barred as Crime Under Charter to Be Laid Down by Commander.

Tokyo, Jan. 17 (A. P.).—Gen. MacArthur's charter for the war crime trials of Hideki Tojo, Japan's Pearl Harbor Premier, and other top suspects will require the prosecution to prove each defendant guilty of a criminal act, a spokesman at headquarters said today. It will not be sufficient to prove that a defendant was a member of some malevolent organization or warmaking cabinet, and neither will the defendants, he added, be tried on charges of negligence—that as officers they failed to take certain steps that would have helped prevent the Pacific conflict.

Instead, the spokesman said, the trials will seek to bring home to the Japanese people the personal guilt of each man facing the tribunal—personal affirmation of acts that constitute a crime against humanity committed by him as an individual.

To Protect Society.

Legal spokesmen pointed out that MacArthur must set up in the charter a simple international procedure which will enable the law to "catch up with momentous events of our times and all of their consequences." They said that civilized law is nothing but the requirement of organized society to continue to exist and that the charter must allow society to get a fair deal. The trials are expected to begin early in March.

Tojo and his compatriots will appear before an international tribunal, now in the process of formation. Announcement of the Chinese and British Empire nominees to the tribunal will be delayed pending selection of the American member. Russia has remained silent on the approaching trials and has not aided in formation of the tribunal, headquarters said.

Japanese lawyers have been retained by some defendants. Others, at their own request, will be represented by German attorneys living in Japan—provided the Germans are not personally objectionable to Allied governments. American counsel, probably military men, will be assigned to those defendants who do not have Japanese or German lawyers.

Big School Job.

Meanwhile today the Kyodo News Agency said that Akiyoshi Tajiri, appointed Vice-Chief Secretary of the Japanese Cabinet in the recent purge, resigned and that Naokai Murase declined the position of Chief Secretary of the Privy Council. No explanation was offered, but it was recalled that Tajiri was formerly Ambassador to the puppet Philippines government and probably failed to receive MacArthur's approval. Murase was director of the Legislation Board under the Konoye and Suzuki cabinets.

Japanese school children will be told for the first time of the reasons for their nation's defeat when they return to classes within the next few days, after the holiday recess. Instead of the temporarily banned courses in history, geography and morals, the pupils will receive lessons based upon an American-prepared expose of the war and its foreshadowing events. This was announced today by the Ministry of Education after consultation with American education officers.

The task of winnowing ultranationalistic teachings from the heavily propagandized textbooks is encountering many problems. The latest such problem was supplied by the Emperor Hirohito when he acknowledged that he is not divine. The textbooks refer to him by many terms, the most common being "Tenno"—which means "Heavenly One." Others include "the Great One" and "the Only One in the World." The job of fully rewriting history texts, being done entirely by Japanese, may take years. All of Japan's complicated mythology, including the story of the founding of the nation by the Sun Goddess, will be dropped.

Capt. John D. Barnard, formerly of Colorado State College, is supervising the preparation of a new guidebook for an estimated 300,000 Japanese teachers. It will contain suggestions for substituting current events and other subjects for the three courses banned.

ARREST OF 100 JAPS ORDERED

Seven Generals Included In War Criminal Suspects

Tokyo, Friday, Jan. 18 (AP)—General MacArthur's headquarters today ordered the arrest of 100 more suspected war criminals, including seven generals, as well as prison-camp officers and attendants from camps throughout Asia.

Gen. Takeji Wachi, former chief of staff of Japanese general headquarters, tops the latest list.

Others include: Gen. Kyotake Kawaguchi, who served in the Philippines in 1942; Lieut. Gen. Takashi Sakai, one-time commander of the 23d Army; Lieut. Gen. Rensuke Isogava, former commander of the 10th Division; Lieut. Gen. Shizao Tani, once commander of the 6th Division; Lieut. Gen. Sadaki Kagesa, former commander of the 38th Division, and Maj. Gen Saburo Watanabe, who served at Singapore in 1945.

Japs' Trials To Be Apart

Kishiro Yasuda, civilian captain of the "Tachibana Maru," which some released American prisoners named as one of the "hell ships" carrying them to Japan, also was ordered arrested.

Meanwhile, General MacArthur's headquarters disclosed yesterday that proof of individual guilt rather than group responsibility will be the requirements for conviction in the war crimes trials of top Japanese. The trials are expected to get under way early in March.

MacArthur, it was learned, will issue a charter for the trials within the next few days, holding that acts of omission or membership in a warmaking cabinet or a malevolent organization are in themselves insufficient evidence of guilt.

Russia Remains Aloof

The rules thus will not follow the broad pattern established at the Nuernberg trials of top German war leaders. They will rather seek to impress upon the Japanese public the personal guilt of each dependent by his specific acts.

The international tribunal to try warmaking Premier Hideki Tojo and a group of fifteen or twenty other leading Japanese militarists is now in the process of formation, with American, Chinese and British Empire members. Russia has remained aloof.

Capt. Manuel A. Newman, of the United States Navy, who has returned to Japan to testify against former administrators now being tried by American military courts, in an interview declared that Japanese guards were under orders to kill all war prisoners in case of an Allied invasion of Japan.

U.S. Mission Ready To Leave

Newman may be the first liberated prisoner to testify in person. In trials thus far, such evidence has been deposition. Newman said he was the last American officer to surrender on Guam in 1941.

Col. John J. O'Brien, of Seattle, law member of the commission which tried the first two atrocity cases, was named today as judge advocate general of the United States 8th Army.

Meanwhile, the American reparations mission here was due to leave by plane tomorrow for Washington to prepare a report for President Truman. Mission members, who came here November 7, applauded MacArthur and his staff for cooperation in assembling data on Japanese industry.

Issuance Of Bonds Approved

On the Japanese civilian front, Akiyoshi Tajiri, Vice Chief Secretary of the Cabinet, resigned as a result of MacArthur's directive purging ultranationalists from official life. He had been appointed in the recent Cabinet shakeup, but apparently Allied headquarters refused to approve him. He was formerly Ambassador to the Japanese puppet government of the Philippines.

Headquarters approved issuances of bonds totaling 815,660,000 yen (about $55,000,000) to cover payments already made or contracted by Japan's city and town governments, but rejected others totaling 684,340,000 yen (about $45,000,000) with orders to reduce and resubmit them.

Expected to Die in Jap Camp

U. S. Navy Captain Says Guards Had Orders to Kill All Prisoners if Allies Invaded.

Tokyo, Jan. 17 (A. P.).—A United States Navy captain said today that Japanese guards had orders to kill all Allied prisoners of war in event of Allied amphibious or skyborne landings in Japan.

Capt. Manuel L. Newman, who said he was the last American officer to surrender on Guam December 11, 1941, told of the extermination plans as he arrived to testify against former prison administrators.

"When I read of the war trials," said the 47-year-old Texas-born captain, "I didn't think convicted Japanese were getting heavy enough penalties. I thought I'd come back and do what I could to see some of them punished."

Expected to Die.

Of three Japanese tried to date in Japan, one was sentenced to death and two were given life prison sentences. Evidence submitted by former prisoners was through affidavits. Newman may be the first Allied witness to testify in atrocity cases in Japan.

Newman, tall and erect, said in an interview that a fellow prisoner in a Tokyo area camp overheard the execution orders read in Japanese to a group of guards. Later, Newman related, his guard confirmed the fate in store for the prisoners when Allied troops invaded Japan.

"We all expected to be knocked off, but by golly if it was necessary to win the war, we would have been willing to give our lives," he said.

Newman told of being beaten and of seeing others knocked insensible for petty violations, of two men forced to stand shoeless and coatless in snow all night, of a 6-foot, 200-pound American whoseweight dropped to 57 pounds before he died.

Before going into active service in February, 1941, Newman was an executive of the Gulf Oil Company in Pittsburgh. His wife lives at 2440 Sixth street, Washington, D. C. He was shipped to a Shikoku prison camp a month after his capture. Later, he was senior Allied officer at two Tokyo area camps. He was liberated by occupation forces.

Frequently Beaten.

Newman said prisoners worked ten hours daily, seven days a week, in factories near the prisons. They had little food and Japanese subjected them to more and more slappings as the war progressed "but it was a grand sight" when Superforts began firing Tokyo.

Twice his camp was threatened by fires B-29s started, but each time the wind shifted and it was saved. Of one night, he said:

"Not a prisoner was hurt but thousands of Japanese were burned to death. The next day prison officials complimented us on our coolness and issued each of us a package of cigarettes."

Newman said he was beaten with bamboo swords and slapped by the camp commandant. After that, he was considered fair game by guards who had respected his rank and "once was worked over with a bamboo sword for not blowing the whistle for exercise." He described numerous deaths due to neglect or mistreatment. One victim was a Pvt. Trotter of Ames, Ia., "who literally starved to death while Japanese guards ate Red Cross supplies."

Americans Take BaMaw, Puppet Chief of Burma

His Arrest Is Announced in Tokyo; Served British

Before Aiding Japanese

TOKYO, Jan. 18. (Friday) (AP).—American counter-intelligence agents today arrested Ba Maw, Premier of Burma under two regimes, whose whereabouts had been a mystery since the end of the war.

Brigadier General E. R. Thorpe, head of counter-intelligence, confirmed that Maw is in custody but declined to say where or whether he had given himself up.

"He will be placed incommunicado as to other prisoners." Thorpe added. Presumably Maw will be subject to trial as a war criminal suspect.

Maw once was premier of Burma under the Brtish. He subsequently was imprisoned for alleged anti-war statements at the outbreak of Pacific hostilities. When the Japanese overran Burma, he became premier of their puppet "independent" government. By the time Burma was reoccupied, Maw had disappeared. Until today, his whereabouts were unknown.

He becomes the second pup ruler of Japan's overseas em to be arrested by Americans. other was Jose P. Laurel, pu president of the Philippines.

Japanese Scho To Explain Defea

U. S. Prepared Lessons on War To Be Given in Schools

TOKYO, Jan. 17 (AP).—Japanese school children will be told for the first time of the reasons for their nation's defeat when they return to classes within the next few days, after the holiday recess.

Instead of the temporarily banned courses in history, geography and morals, the pupils will be given lessons based upon an American-prepared expose of the war and its foreshadowing events. This was announced today by the Ministry of Education after consultation with American education officers.

Commander H. J. Wunderlich, of Moscow, Idaho, who is supervising Japanese revision of history textbooks, said the elimination of the divinity concept probably will mean rephrasing all current terms for the emperor.

Smallpox Outbreak In Japan

Tokyo, Jan. 17 (AP)—Increasing prevalence of smallpox among Japanese civilians has resulted in a general headquarters order to the Government to vaccinate all civilians employed by the occupation forces in any capacity and to vaccinate all civilians in smallpox areas.

Army Depot Gets Plaque

Yokohama, Jan. 17 (AP)—A meritorious service plaque was presented the 8th Army's 4th Replacement Depot today as Staff Sergeant John E. Hartman, of Lebanon, Pa., became the one hundred thousandth man to be processed en route home.

Huge Trade Profit With Yanks Told

Sydney, Jan. 17 (AP)—An RAAF group captain testified today at the court-martial of another group captain, accused of having illegally sold liquor to American troops, that RAAF men made $6,500 a week trading with Americans at Morotai late in 1944.

Group Captain Clive R. Caldwell, officially credited with the destruction of 27½ enemy airplanes, nine probables and thirteen damaged, is being tried on the first of four charges involving sale of whisky to Yanks.

"Impossible To Check It"

Group Captain Gerald Packer, who was senior administrative staff officer at Morotai, said he and his officers were aware of the trading but it was impossible to check it.

Packer told the court that transactions with Americans included gambling, the manufacture and trade of trinkets and sale of liquor. Later, he said, there was trading in stolen cigarettes.

He testified that at one time troops in the area had £100,000 ($325,000) or more in their possession. An order that caps must be removed from the two bottles of beer issued weekly to each airman at Morotai greatly reduced trading in beer.

Praised Discipline

Packer said he had inspected Caldwell's wing and had a high opinion of his discipline, good order and extraordinary ability as and administrator.

Group Captain W. N. Gibson, senior air staff officer at Morotai, said two flights of Kittyhawks to Darwin brought back loads of liquor. He denied, however, that the flights were organized to get liquor—as the court was told yesterday—stating that the planes had to go to Darwin and carried liquors for canteen stores rather than return empty.

Duke's Aide Blacklisted By Aussie Union

Canberra, Australia, Jan. 17 (AP). The Canberra Trades and Labor Council blacklisted Brig. Gen. Derek Schreiber, chief of staff to the Duke of Gloucester, and demanded tonight that a hotel reinstate Schreiber's former valet as a barkeep under penalty of strike.

The hotel was given until noon Friday to act. The union council asserted that the valet, Ernest Cyril Field, was discharged from the hotel job at the insistence of Schreiber.

"All union labor in three hotels will be called out, no service will be given Schreiber or his wife, and tradespeople will boycott the residence," the labor council said in a statement.

Recall Urged

The council also requested that Prime Minister J. B. Chifley, a Labor party member, expedite the brigadier's return to England because of his "anti-Australian attitude."

The Duke is a brother of King George VI and is Governor General of Australia. Mrs. Schreiber was formerly Viscountess Clive.

A union spokesman said Schreiber influenced the brewery controlling the hotel license to discharge Field and also applied pressure to keep Mrs. Field, formerly the Duke's chef, from obtaining a job. The union said that when Schreiber married Lady Clive, Field asked for more pay or additional help and "there were words" and Field left.

Bomb Blast After Lockout

Buenos Aires, Jan. 17 (AP) — A bomb exploded at the entrance of the Stock Exchange today two hours after the end of the 72-hour nation-wide lockout by which business leaders protested a military government decree raising wages and granting year-end bonuses.

The exchange, meeting place of the Permanent Assembly of Commerce, Industry and Production, which called the lockout, opened the regular time. A heavy police detail that guarded the building after the 2 A.M. explosion was withdrawn.

The blast shattered glass windows within a radius of a block. A policeman was slightly injured by flying glass, but he was the only casualty. The explosion was the only reported violence in the capital.

The lockout started at midnight Sunday and ended last midnight.

Cab Driver Questioned

A taxi driver who said he discharged two men from his cab near the Stock Exchange shortly before the explosion was being questioned. At the time of the blast the building was guarded by two policemen.

At Mar del Plata, a resort, vacationers refused to play roulette at Government-operated tables. Police fired tear gas into the crowd as it left the casino.

Representatives of the Department Stores Association asked Interior Minister Felipe Urdapilleta last night to order extra precautions in order to prevent violence. Urdapilleta promised that all necessary steps would be taken to [illegible] order.

ARGENTINE PARTY FAILS TO NAME CANDIDATE

BUENOS AIRES, Jan. 17—(AP) The convention of the National Democrat (Conservative) Party adjourned today without naming a presidential candidate in the Feb 24 election.

Some observers predicted the action would strengthen the chances of Jose P. Tamborini, Democratic Union candidate, who is running against Col. Juan D. Peron, "strong man" of the Argentine military regime.

The Conservatives' failure to name a candidate left their provincial leaders free to support the Democratic Union, representing a coalition of Radicals, Socialists and Progressive Democrats.

Gaspar Dutra Pledges Brazilian Free Press

Rio de Janeiro, Jan. 17. (AP)—President-Elect Enrico Gaspar Dutra said in an interview today that the Brazilian press would be completely free under his administration, with a full right to criticize the Government.

"A free press will be a welcome factor to help orientate the administration," General Gaspar Dutra said.

Former President Getulio Vargas during his long administration removed some shackles before his overthrow last October 29. President Jose Linhares, who succeeded Vargas, approved various measures strengthening and extending the freedom of the press. He issued a decree January 11 removing customs duties on newsprint and newspaper machinery.

Patterson Gives Release Views

30.24-357

GROUER

Manila, Jan. 17 (AP)—Secretary of War Patterson said today it was necessary to slow down the October-December rate of discharge or the United States would have no army at all by June 1.

Patterson at a press conference stated that nearly 3,500,000 men had been demobilzed the last three months of 1945 and, had the rate been maintained, the American Army would have been only a memory.

The Secretary said the United States has definite, world-wide commitments and it is necessary to maintain an army establishment and agreed entirely with General Eisenhower's demobilization policy.

Confers With GI Committee

He reported that the question of giving overseas veterans extra points in addition to those they had gained before the September 2 freeze "is under consideration." There are no present plans for further consideration of married men or those with less than three children, so far as he knows.

The Secretary conferred two hours in a closed meeting with a nine-man GI committee which bombarded him with questions on why they were in the Philippines. Patterson replied that they were supporting occupation armies in Japan and Korea and that their work was necessary. The United States has vast stores of supplies in the islands which must be serviced pending disposition by surplus property agencies, he added.

May Keep Manila Garrison

Patterson said a final decision on maintaining an American garrison here had not been reached, but "it is pretty well established that there will be a garrison here after (the Philippines are granted) independence."

Asked if United States Army troops here would be used in event of internal disturbances in the tense agrarian area of Central Luzon, the Secretary replied: "I never heard of such a problem" and declined to elaborate.

He also was noncommittal on the question of troop morale in the Pacific except that "it is better in some places than others."

Mass Meeting Postponed

A mass meeting called by Luzon soldiers to protest Eisenhower's demobilization policy was postponed, meantime, on request of Lieut. Gen. W. D. Styer, commander of army forces in the Western Pacific.

The GI committee said Styer requested the postponement on the grounds a meeting would be premature as the full import of Eisenhower's policy was not understood. The committee agreed to wait until all units receive official copies of Eisenhower's directive.

HAWAII G. I.'S ORDERED TO END ALL AGITATION

Richardson Warns Troops Protesters Face Court-martial.

THREE SOLDIERS CONFINED

Their Actions Since Eisenhower's Explanation Are Under Army Investigations.

Honolulu, Jan. 17 (A. P.).—Lieut.-Gen. Robert C. Richardson Jr. today ordered court-martial for any soldier or officer in his mid-Pacific command who continues agitation on the demobilization program.

Three enlisted men were confined to quarters pending investigation. Col. Wilson Gaddis, public relations officer, said that no charges have been placed against the trio but their actions since Gen. Eisenhower explained demobilization policy Tuesday are under investigation.

Gaddis named the three as Sgt. Joseph Nahem of Brooklyn, Sgt. David Livingston of New York and Cpl. Herbert Freeman, whose home address was not immediately available. He said Nahem and Livingston had been the principal leaders in rallies protesting the demobilization slowdown.

A directive which Richardson sent to commanders in the mid-Pacific theater stated:

"It has come to my attention that there are certain leaders of enlisted men in this command that are continuing agitation on the demobilization program despite the announcement by Gen. Eisenhower, chief of staff of the Army.

"It is directed that you take full and complete measures to instruct these leaders, both officers and enlisted men, and all under your command that further agitation will not be tolerated.

Enlisted men have had an opportunity to present their grievances which have been met by Eisenhower's announcement and no further mass meetings, agitations or like actions will be permitted. Commanding officers will be held responsible for enforce-court - martial offenders for disobedience of orders."

Copies were sent to Eisenhower and MacArthur.

Met At Labor Canteen.

A headquarters spokesman said the three confined to quarters were restricted "pending investigation of remarks and actions" at a Tuesday night meeting of demobilization protest committee members at the Honolulu labor canteen. He said Eisenhower's speech to Congress was assailed bitterly and plans tentatively were made for a mass meeting to signify dissatisfaction.

Eighty members of the Oahu service men's committee for speedier demobilization met Wednesday night at the labor canteen and unanimously went on record in support of "the forthright and democratic leadership" given by two restricted leaders. They also expressed concern at Richardson's action in restricting the pair.

A cablegram signed by 6,000 soldiers was cabled by the committee to Chairman Johnson of the Senate Military Affairs subcommittee studying demobilization. It expressed dissatisfaction with demobilization policies.

G. I. Gambling Room Closed

Oahu Personnel Commander Denies Games Were 'Cut' as Army Paper Reported.

Honolulu, Jan. 17 (A. P.).—A story in the Army newspaper Stars and Stripes that a small group of soldiers was "making a small fortune" at dice from homeward-bound G. I.'s at the Oahu Army Personnel Center has brought an official Army ban on all forms of gambling there.

Lieut.-Gen. Robert C. Richardson Jr., mid-Pacific Army commander, issued the ban late yesterday after Stars and Stripes reported "organized gambling goes on nightly with thousands of dollars changing hands."

"Now the men can't even play pinochle," said Col. William Saffarrans, commandant of the center. "I authorized controlled gambling in order to give the men a decent place where they could meet," he told interviewers.

He asserted they formerly gambled in latrines, in barracks and in other places, and: "They are going to gamble regardless of what any one says, and I provided a place where they never had the slightest trouble. Everything was open and aboveboard."

He denied that any one was taking a "cut" from the dice tables.

"It is not true that the games were 'cut.' I had some forty military police watching the tables to see that no percentage was taken."

S/Sgt. Buck Buckwach of Portland, Ore., Stars aand Stripes reporter, said in his published story that each of ten tables had a G. I. taking a cut of the money when he watched games Monday night. He said he figured that about $1,000 was taken from the dice games during the night.

Saffarrans said he would ask the paper to prove its statements that the games were organized.

"Once we caught four airmen who were taking a cut from the game," he added. "They were arrested and reported to their units. That's the last I heard of any one taking a percentage, and I've taken precautions to see that no one did."

The personnel center handles thousands of troops on their way home for discharge, and currently is housing approximately 7,000.

SO HE PASSED UP TEN BIG POINTS

Honolulu, Jan. 17 (A. P.).—The Navy News tells of a certain unnamed sailor who asked George Giokas, yeoman 2/c, of Chicopee Falls, Mass., to help him figure out discharge points.

Giokas obliged and together they listed his qualifications for discharge. The sailor had a dependent, but not knowing a dependent counted ten big points, failed to mention it. He should have been home months ago.

Truman Asks for Decision by Noon On Proposal to End Steel Pay Row; U-E President Offers to Arbitrate

REPORT TRUMAN PROPOSED BOOST OF 18 1-2 CENTS

Steel Union President Expected to Accept Proposal Today.

CONFER EIGHT HOURS

Fairless, Murray Fail to Reach Agreement at Parley in White House.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 17.—(AP) President Truman wants labor and management's decision by noon Friday on his proposal for settling the steel wage dispute.

It was indicated by one source close to the negotiations, who could not be identified, that the President had suggested a pay boost of 18 1[illegible] cents an hour for the 800,000 CI[illegible] steelworkers poised to strike Mon[illegible]y.

That figure would be a compromise between the 15 cents the United States Steel Corporation has offered, and the 19 1-2 cents the union has been asking.

Acceptance Believed

Those close to the situation tonight expressed belief the union, through its president, Philip Murray, would accept.

The corporation's decision was still a matter for conjecture.

Murray and Benjamin F. Fairless, president of the corporation sought in an eight hour conference at the White House today to achieve agreement.

They were unable to bring their viewpoints into line, whereupon Mr. Truman submitted his proposal.

There was a possibility that the President's proposal included some provision for a steel price increase. Reconversion Director John W. Snyder, who sat in on the conferences, has been represented as ready to approve an increase of $4 a ton, but Chester Bowles, OPA administrator, who conferred with the President yesterday, reportedly was unwilling to sanction a rise of more than $2.50.

The Murray-Fairless negotiations ended after more than eight hours of discussions at the White House yesterday afternoon, last night and this afternoon. These followed an initial White House session last Saturday.

President's Proposal

Charles G. Ross, the President's secretary, gave the following statement to waiting newsmen:

"Mr. Murray and Mr. Fairless came back at 2 p.m. to resume negotiations. At 4 p.m. they were asked to come into the President's office and did.

"They reported they were still in disagreement, whereupon the President, as he said he would do last night in that event, made a proposal.

"They promised to take it under advisement and discuss it with their respective organizations. Mr. Fairless with his board of directors and Mr. Murray with his associates, and report their answer to the President by noon tomorrow."

Ross said that he could not divulge a "word about the proposal" which the President had made.

Fairless and Murray left the White House by different exits. Murray told a reporter he was "not coming back."

The C.I.O. chief, who appeared to be in all ill humor, did not explain whether he meant that he was not coming back today or that the White House discussions were definitely finished.

He had postponed the threatened strike of 800,000 steelworkers, which could cripple reconversion, until 12:01 a.m. on Monday at the President's request pending the negotations. It was originally set for last Monday, and last weekend saw some stoppage of steel production as a consequence.

As Murray and Fairless entered their final discussions today in the cabinet room with Snyder, Secretary of Labor Schwellenbach and Dr. John R. Steelman, presidential assistant, Mr. Truman called his steel-fact-finding board into his own office.

Data Asked

Chairman Nathan P. Feinsinger of the three-man panel told reporters after a half-hour conference with the President that Mr. Truman had asked for whatever information the board had collected to date.

Feinsinger said he had informed the President that the only data at the board's disposal now is the public records of the industry, records of the old 1944 steel wage case before the War Labor board, and Bureau of Labor Statistics figures on earnings and hours.

The board is scheduled to report its findings and recommendations by Feb. 10, but had delayed hearings during the negotiations.

Fairless left for New York City to report to the board of the steel corporation on the President's proposal. It was indicated that the corporation's reply would be made by letter.

Murray meanwhile called leaders of the General Motors strike and the electrical workers strike at General Motors, General Electric and Westinghouse, as well as the top men in his own steelworkers union to a strategy meeting tomorrow morning.

Murray has held several such conferences in preparation for concerted action by the C.I.O.'s three biggest unions.

The strategy session was in addition to his scheduled conferences with members of the steelworkers' executive board.

Electrical Strikers Offer To Arbitrate Pay Dispute

Union Chief's Proposal May Open Way to Settlement as Strike Paralysis Grips Entire Industry.

Washington, Jan. 17 (A. P.).—Albert J. Fitzgerald, head of the C. I. O. Electrical Workers, offered today to submit to arbitration the wage issue in the three-day-old strike of 200,000 workers against three electrical manufacturing firms.

Fitzgerald made the offer before the Senate Labor Committee, where he was appearing as a witness on President Truman's proposal to establish fact-finding boards in labor disputes. Replying to a question by Senator Morse (R.-Ore.), Fitzgerald said that his union never had refused arbitration on its demand for a $2-a-day wage increase. He added that he was willing to have arbitration start from scratch, without regard for prevailing wage increase offers in other industries and the amount requested by the union.

The union offer may possibly open the way for settlement of the strike which has shut down seventy-nine plants of the General Electric Company, Westinghouse Electric Company and the Electrical Division of General Motors Corporation.

Accuses Companies.

Fitzgerald said that his union had attempted for four months to engage in "bona fide collective bargaining" on its wage demand, but the three companies refused to negotiate. Every conference, he said, was held at the union's request.

Fitzgerald contended that the union was driven to strike "because these companies have combined their forces to prevent a substantial wage increase for their employees and to undermine and destroy their freely chosen collective bargaining agent."

One of the prospective witnesses before the committee is C. E. Wilson, president of General Electric Company. He will be called when the group resumes hearings on the fact-finding bill January 24.

Meanwhile, the paralysis of a major part of the nation's electrical appliance production continued today.

A spokesman for the striking union — the United Electrical, Radio and Machine Workers of America, C. I. O.—said today that the strike "remained 100 per cent effective and was gathering community support throughout the nation." The walkout, called in support of the union's demands for a $2 a day wage increase, has shut down operations in seventy-nine plants of General Electric, Westinghouse and the electrical division of General Motors in sixteen States.

There was nothing to indicate that negotiations between the three firms and the union might be resumed, a spokesman for the General Electric Company said today. He stated that he knew of no plans for Federal conciliation of the dispute.

In Pittsburgh, T. I. Phillips, vice-president in charge of the giant East Pittsburgh plant of the Westinghouse Corporation, said that at least two months might be required to restore normal production there after the strike ended unless adequate maintenance and supervisory personnel is permitted to pass through picket lines. He charged that the union was "out to wreck both plants of the company and the future jobs of its own members by preventing adequate maintenance and protection for the tools of production."

AUTO UNION HEADS CALLED TO CAPITAL

Murray to Confer with Strategy Committee in Washington.

DETROIT, Jan. 17—(AP) The C.I.O. United Auto Workers' six-man strategy committee, which is directing the union's strike against General Motors corporation, was summoned to Washington tonight by C.I.O. President Philip Murray in a surprise move.

U.A.W. spokesmen said the summons arrived here late today shortly after announcement at Washington that negotiations between the C.I.O. and United States Steel corporation had failed to produce a settlement of the wage dispute.

President Truman immediately submitted to the C.I.O. and steel company a plan for averting a nation-wide steel strike and both sides promised to report their answers to him by tomorrow noon.

The Detroit unionists professed ignorance of the nature of the unexpected parley as their offices hurriedly attempted to make plane reservations for the delegation.

Thomas Heads Group

U.A.W. President R. J. Thomas headed the group, but Walter P. Reuther, U.A.W. vice-president and director of the union's GM division was unable to make the trip because of an eye infection.

T. A. Johnston, assistant director of the union's GM section, replaced him.

A union spokesman pointed out that Murray called a similar meeting of many C.I.O. leaders at Washington on Jan. 3 and that this session preceded the Jan. 10 announcement of a presidential fact-finding board's recommendations in the GM strike.

U.A.W. officials said they did not know if any other C.I.O. leader had been summoned to the Washington meeting.

Richard T. Leonard, director of the U.A.W.'s Ford division, said he hoped to be back here tomorrow in time for a scheduled 2 p.m. (EST) resumption of wage negotiations with that company.

George F. Addes, U.A.W. vice-president, said he would be unable to join his colleagues of the strike strategy committee in the Washington trip because of other union engagements here.

In addition to Thomas, Johnston and Leonard, those making the trip are Richard T. Frankensteen, U.A.W. vice-president and Norman Matthews, director of the union's Chrysler division.

Rumors Spread

The unexpected summons came after a day of rumors of impending development in wage negotiations between the Ford company and the union, whose representatives held another brief meeting today.

The rumors stemmed from the remark of a union participant in the bargaining session that the U.A.W.-C.I.O. group had held a caucus over a "top drawer secret pertaining to wages."

What the secret was, however, was carefully guarded both by the union and management representatives.

The union, which originally demanded a 30 per cent wage rate increase from Ford, General Motors and Chrysler Corp. has asserted a willingness to settle the entire industry dispute on the basis of the 19 1-2 cents an hour increase recommended by the presidential fact-finding board. This would be an average of 17 per cent for workers of the three companies.

Ford Makes Offer

Ford, however, has countered with an offer of a 17 1-2 cents an hour, or about 14 1-2 per cent above its present hourly rate; GM has rejected the fact-finding board proposal and renewed an offer of 13 1-2 cents or about 11 per cent. There have been no negotiations between the union and Chrysler for several weeks. So far as could be determined today there have been no further contacts between GM and the U.A.W.-C.I.O. since the corporation rejected the fact-finding panel's recommendations last week. The union has announced it will revert to its 30 per cent increase demand if C[illegible] does not reconsider its rejection by next Monday.

Speculation regarding the "secret" injected into the Ford wage negotiations ranged all the way from the possibility of wage recessions on both sides to conjecture that company demands for "security" may have been satisfied.

Fact Finding Board to Study Pay Fight in Meat Industry

Labor Secretary to Meet Again Today with Union Leaders.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 17 — (AP) Secretary of Labor Schwellenbach, seeking to settle the meat strike, conferred jointly and separately with the disputants today and asked them to return for further meetings tomorrow morning.

The conferences, which Federal officials had hoped earlier might produce an agreement in the two-day-old strike, developed instead into "exploratory sessions."

Both A. F. L. and C. I. O. representatives reported afterward that nothing new had developed and that Schwellenbach appeared to be seeking information. They said the secretary had not asked a return to work while government fact-finding proceeds.

Names Committee of Three

Schwellenbach appointed a three-man fact-finding board this afternoon to investigate the wage dispute and report in 30 days.

The big five meat packing companies — Swift, Armour, Cudahy, Wilson and Morrell — apparently joined in informing Schwellenbach that they would be unable to grant the union's wage demands without a price increase. All agreed, however, to cooperate with the fact-finders.

The fact-finders are Edwin E.

30.24-359

Witte, chairman, former public member of the War Labor board and head of its Detroit regional board; Clark Kerr, chairman of the WLB meat-packing commission, and Chief Justice Raymond W. Starr of the Michigan Supreme court.

The conferences got off to a quarrelsome start when the C. I. O. and A. F. L. representatives objected to the presence of an unaffiliated union.

Patrick E. Gorman, general secretary of the A. F. L. Meatcutters and Butchers Workmen, told Schwellenbach that officials of the National Brotherhood of Packinghouse Workers had no right to attend.

Gorman said members of the brotherhood are not on strike. His position was supported by representatives of the C. I. O. United Packinghouse Workers.

Will File Strike Notice

Don Mahon, president of the brotherhood, said his organization represents 50,000 packinghouse workers and plans to file a 30-day strike notice if Schwellenbach fails to reconcile the wage dispute.

Meanwhile Rep. Jenkins of Ohio, chairman of the Republican Congressional Food Study committee, blamed the OPA for the strike.

"Both management and labor know that the single point at issue is an adjustment of meat prices so that the industry can afford to pay its employes higher wages," Jenkins told the House.

"The price of all meat products is rigidly controlled by OPA and is held down virtually to the 1936 level. The responsibility for this situation and the responsibility for correcting it is squarely up to the government."

Complicating the situation were the differing demands of the unions.

The C.I.O. United Packinghouse Workers, claiming 193,000 members on strike, held out for a general wage increase of 17 1-2 cents an hour immediately to be followed by negotiations on demands for an additional 7 1-2 cents.

A.F.L. Ready to Settle

The A.F.L. Amalgamated Meat cutters and Butchers Workmen, representing 70,000 strikers, has agreed to settle for a 15-cent hike. It urged the C.I.O. union to do likewise but received no reply.

Both of these stands represented a scaling-down of the unions' original demands for a 25-cent rise.

The packinghouses, however, offered no more than a 10-cent increase. Earl W. Jimedson, president of the A.F.L. union, said this was "very inadequate."

The unions also failed to get together on the strike itself in Los Angeles. There the C.I.O. struck the four major packers who handle 35 to 40 per cent of the meat supply. But the A.F.L. union announced that its members in 26 independent packinghouses will work longer hours to increase production in what it called an "emergency."

There were empty pens, however, in most of the country's stockyards, and reports indicated meat supplies probably will be exhausted within two to 10 days. Production slumped as much as 75 per cent in the big Chicago yards. Livestock arrivals at 12 leading midwest markets yesterday totalled 17,700 head compared to 118,849 a week ago.

CONGRESS SPURS ACTION ON LABOR

House Committee to Have Scheduled Bill Ready on Tuesday.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 17—(AP) Spurred on by mounting industrial strife, Congress took the first steps today toward speedy action on strike control laws.

Amid cries that "the heat is on" from President Truman and the voters, the legislators made these moves:

1. The House Labor Committee decided to complete action before next Tuesday on some type of labor legislation.

2. Senator Eastland (D-Miss) subsubmitted a motion that the Senate discharge its labor committee from further consideration of Mr. Truman's proposal for fact-finding boards to settle major industrial disputes. The motion is to be voted on at the next Senate session.

Surprise Move

But a surprise move that brought a bill for a permanent Fair Employment Practices Committee before the Senate threatened to delay action on fact-finding.

Eastland told a reporter he would make his motion tomorrow. But even if the Senate votes to take the fact-finding measure from the labor committee, he said it must wait until FEPC is disposed of. Southern opponents have said they will filibuster FEPC to death.

Acting Chairman Randolph (D-WVa) of the House group declared that it will vote either Monday or Tuesday on Mr. Truman's propo-committee hopes to send some type sal, or on substitutes or enlargements of it.

Randolph told the House that the of labor dispute measure to the floor next week, so "Congress can make a decision."

Before agreeing by a voice vote to complete action by Tuesday, the committee defeated by a 7 to 7 tie vote a substitute for the President's plan.

Under Mr. Truman's proposal the fact-finding boards would be given legal authority to make recommendations for settlement of disputes. The boards would have power of subpoena and during 30 days of their deliberations strikes would be declared illegal.

Under the substitute, which was offered by Rep. Landis (R-Ind), the subpoena authority and the "no-strike" ban would be removed from the bill.

Rep. Hoffman (R-Mich), speaking in support of the Landis motion, said it would be acceptable to labor leaders and management alike with the two most controversial sections stricken out.

Hoffman declared "the heat is on for action and I'm getting tired of being kicked around."

Landis Wants Speed

Landis added that "they're writing my office to do something" and said "The President has called on us to act."

The committee vote came by surprise during a hearing on legislation dealing with the U. S. Employment Service. Several members protested that Landis' motion was "highly irregular" and attempted to have it ruled out of order. Randolph asserted, however, that it was the committee's duty to vote.

The agreement to speed up action was a reversal of a committee decision in December to continue fact-finding legislation hearings on "a broader and more extensive basis."

The Senate Labor committee made a similar decision and it went ahead today with its hearings with no reference to the Eastland motion.

Randolph told the House that members of his group "feel very deeply it is our individual and collective responsibility to act courageously on these problems."

Previously he has announced his support of the fact-finding policy, but has suggested that the President's plan be employed only as an emergency device during the reconversion crisis.

Flood of Debate

Meanwhile, a flood of debate on the strike question continued to rage.

Rep. Church (R-Ill.) told the House "I regard these fact-finding suggestions as socialistic."

Rep. Savage (D-Wash.) warned that new legislation should "not crush labor or it will lead to Communism."

Rep. Howard Smith (D-Va.) asserted "It is time the House quit stalling and acted."

Smith added:

"We have reached a crisis that will determine whether the government is to be run by and for all of the people, or by and for a handful of ambitious, power-drunk labor leaders.

"Will Congress act courageously to correct the abuses which have grown up under the labor laws it has created? Or will it cringe and crouch under the tongue-lashings and intemperate abuses of such blustering, blundering bullies as Philip Murray, Walter Reuther, James Caesar Petrillo and the like?"

Ford Contract Still Pending

Detroit, Jan. 17 (AP)—The Ford Motor Company and the CIO United Auto Workers, 2 cents an hour apart in their wage dispute, failed to break their deadlock in another bargaining session today, but will meet again tomorrow.

Today's session, second of the three previously scheduled for this week, was described as "friendly" by participants. They agreed to meet tomorrow at 2 P.M.

After about an hour's discussions with Ford representatives today, the union group held a caucus over what a spokesman called "a top-drawer secret pertaining to wages." He declined to give any details.

Shortly thereafter the bargaining session was adjourned.

The company, whose offer of a 17½-cent-an-hour raise was rejected by the union, was believed to have no intention of increasing the amount to 19½ cents as suggested by President Truman's fact-finding board in the General Motors Corporation wage dispute. A similar amount was demanded by the union's Ford negotiators.

Company Security Issue

Instead, informed sources agreed, the company would try to get some definite pledges from the union on company security. Its latest wage offer last Friday linked the proposed raise to "workable agreements with the union" on company security and worker productivity.

Meanwhile, in Washington, National Labor Relations Board officials termed "unfounded" UAW-CIO objections to the appointment of Gerald D. Reilly as trial examiner in the union's charges against G.M. under the National Labor Relations Act. NLRB Chairman Paul M. Herzog said, "The hearing will proceed with Mr. Reilly presiding."

Ford-G.M. Dispute

G.M. President C. E. Wilson denied a statement by John S. Bugas, Ford industrial relations director, that Ford's average pay was 9 cents an hour higher than G.M.'s.

Wilson said General Motors paid an average hourly rate of $1.20 in September, 1945, to its automotive production worker in the Detroit area. He said Bugas estimated the G.M. rate at $1.12 compared to $1.21 which he said Ford paid.

Wilson said the $1.12 figure included plants engaged in non-automotive work.

Bugas, in a statement explaining Ford's 17½-cent raise offer, had estimated that raise would put Ford workers' pay seven cents an hour over that of G.M. workers even if G.M. gave the raise recommended by the fact-finding board.

MACARTHUR WARNS AGAINST SLASHES IN PACIFIC FORCES

Says Contemplated Cuts Would Weaken Controls in Japan and Korea.

Washington, Jan. 17 (A. P.).—Congress received from Gen. Douglas MacArthur today a warning that any attempt to cut Pacific forces below the 400,000 strength contemplated by July 1 would "weaken to a dangerous degree" military controls over Japan and Korea.

A cable from the Supreme Allied Commander in the Pacific, containing this warning, was laid before a Senate committee by Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower, Army Chief of Staff.

Eisenhower appeared before the special Senate Military subcommittee to explain further the Army's demobilization policies, which he had outlined to an informal session of Representatives and Senators on Tuesday.

Eisenhower told the committee the telegram from MacArthur had come in code and for this reason his exact words were rearranged.

MacArthur reported there were 1,168,000 soldiers under his command in December, that this will be reduced to 660,000 by January 20 and then gradually cut to 400,000 on July 1. This would include the 200,000 in Japan and Korea.

Johnson Notes Difference.

Committee Chairman Edwin C. Johnson (D.-Colo.) interjected that Eisenhower had told the meeting Tuesday that Army forces in the Pacific Theater would be cut to 375,000 by July 1, or 25,000 less than MacArthur's estimate.

Eisenhower said this represented an adjustment in air force totals, adding that MacArthur's command covered all troops for Japan, Korea, the Philippines, the Marianas, and Hawaii.

The MacArthur message gave assurance that his command would follow Eisenhower's new order for return of men with 45 points or thirty months service by April 30, and of those with 40 points and twenty-four months by June 30.

Loss of key men, MacArthur added, already has hindered such operations as signal communications.

In outlining additional demobilization steps, Eisenhower told the committee he had:

Directed all theater commanders to "get down to rock bottom" by releasing every possible surplus man and officer.

Ordered a halt to all mass demonstrations by soldiers against demobilization delays.

Directed Army inspector generals to visit all Army installations and listen to individual complaints of all "junior officers and men" who believe they are not essential and being retained."

Eisenhower's return to Capitol Hill coincided with a demand for slashing the Army close to its 1919 size.

A Tip to Eisenhower.

Senator Revercomb (R.-W. Va.) noted that 285,000 men would be released under the MacArthur schedule between January 20 and July 1 and asked if these men are needed now.

Eisenhower said they are busy handling billions of dollars' worth of surplus goods and closing out bases. Then, Eisenhower reminded Senators that if the flow of volunteers and drafted men into service is reduced the Army may simply have to "walk away from this" surplus property at some points.

Johnson asked about the possible effect of expanding the present draft to older men and lowering physical qualifications for both volunteers and selective service men.

Eisenhower said he had nothing to do with fixing the top draft age at 25 years or any other "change in standards under selective service."

"It is your responsibility, General, if I may say so," Johnson told Eisenhower and then read extracts of the selective service act.

Johnson said that Major-Gen. Lewis B. Hershey, selective service director, was in "Army uniform" and thus under Eisenhower's orders.

Eisenhower commented that he recently had taken over the post as Chief of Staff and remarked "You may be advising me of some authority I didn't know I had."

Johnson, urging the irreducible minimum in Army strength, said he thought it could get along July 1 with a million men. This compares with 931,422 in the ranks on the same date in 1919.

The Army has been planning for 1,500,000 men by July, but Johnson told reporters he considers that figure about 500,000 too high. Eisenhower informed Congress Tuesday that the Army's strength on January 1 was 4,200,000, compared with the V-E Day peak of 8,300,000.

Eisenhower is scheduled to deliver a radio address on the subject of demobilization at 9 P. M. (Eastern standard time) tomorrow.

Eisenhower Wants 1,500,000.

Johnson's proposal for a postwar Army close to the 1919 size ran counter to Eisenhower's statement Tuesday. The general said then that the War Department was taking a big chance in lowering Army strength to 1,500,000.

However, the subcommittee of which Johnson is chairman entertained hopes of selling the chief of staff some different idea both on the Army's size and demobilization.

He suggested that both selective service and the Army liberalize physical standards and accept thousands of men previously rejected because of minor physical disabilities, such as flat feet. "Men with flat feet make good policemen," he commented jokingly.

INSPECTORS SENT TO SPUR ARMY

RELEASE PROGRAM

WASHIIGTON, Jan. 17—(AP) General Dwight D. Eisenhower disclosed today he has banned any further GI demonstrations but ordered inspectors to "every camp and post" to see that his latest demobilization order is followed.

The chief of staff, appearing before a Senate Military Subcommittee investigating demobilization, said there was no use in further demonstrations by soldiers demanding immediate release.

"I have advised all commanders that the time for that is past," he declared.

Inspectors Sent

Eisenhower told the committee he had ordered representatives of the inspector generals department to visit each installation to observe the progress of demobilization. These men also have been told to make themselves available for questioning or complaints.

Commanders have been advised to be certain that the way is open for all complaints or requests from soldiers to go up through channels to their commanders, he added.

Eisenhower read to the committee a message from General Douglas MacArthur in answer to a request by Eisenhower in December that troop requirements be pared to the bone.

MacArthur expressed complete agreement and gave this summary of his situation: troop strength in the Pacific Ocean area, including occupation forces, was 1,168,000 on December 1; it will be about 660,000 on January 20; a steady reduction is planned to bring it down to about 400,000 on July 1.

This 400,000 figure was higher than the recently announced total of 375,000 planned strength for July 1 in the Pacific. It was explained later at the War department that MacArthur had prepared his figures before the departments announcement of the 375,000 troop strength for July 1 and that the latter figure will prevail.

Any speed-up beyond that rate of demobiliaztion said MacArthur would retard the roll up of bases and "weaken to a dangerous degree our control over Japan and Korea" during the critical spring months.

Eisenhower's second appearance on Capitol Hill in three days evoked a discussion as to who is responsible for fixing draft policies. It was touched off by an assertion of Chairman Johnson (D.-Colo.) of the sub-committee that "it wasn't necessary for General McNarney to criticize Congress." The commander of the American zone of occupation in Germany mentioned Congress last week in connection with the failure of draft boards to provide sufficient replacements.

"Congress has nothing to do with it," Johnson told Eisenhower.

The general contended he had nothing to do with determining changes in draft standards, including age limits.

"It is your responsibility, general, if I may say so," Johnson replied.

Aide Questioned

The committee questioned Eisenhower and his personnel chief, Maj. Gen. Willard Paul, regarding the recruiting campaign and why more civilians could not be used in closing out army installations.

Senator Revercomb (R.-W. Va.) asked why the Army did not use civilians instead of combat troops in some of its demobilization activities. For the only time during the day, the former Allied supreme commander bristled.

"If there's anyone in this world who has got the undying interest of the combat soldier at heart, I'm that man," Eisenhower said, leaning forward as he spoke. "I've commanded more American soldiers than any other man. I'm working for them now."

Then he sat back, grinned, and asked the committee to "forgive me for making a speech."

ARMY COURT INQUIRY URGED

Hawaii Martial Law Study Also Proposed In Senate

Washington, Jan. 17 (AP)—A Senate investigation of the Army and Navy courts-martial systems and the administartion of wartime martial law in Hawaii was proposed today.

Chairman McCarran (D., Nev.) of the Senate Judiciary Committee introduced a resolution in the Senate calling for the inquiry by his committee. The resolution was referred to the Judicial Committee for consideration and will be taken up Monday, McCarran said.

The resolution directs "a full and complete study and investigation of the operation of the courst-martial systems of the Army and Navy both within the United States and abroad, and of the prisons, jails and other places of incarcerationor confinement of Army and Navy prisoners."

Emphasis On Six Points

Particular emphasis, McCarran said, would be placed on:

1. Alleged miscarirages of justice.

2. Whether vairations in courts-martial systems in different theaters of operations constitute "denial of due process or of equal protection of law in violation or derogation o fthe Constitution of the United States."

3. Whether punishments "are unduly excessive."

4. Alleged lack of uniformity in punishments.

5. Whether present court-martial pr[illegible]ures are desirable and proper.

6. Any desirable improvements in the systems.

The Hawaiian investigation would include inquiry into "suspension of the writ of habeas corpus, peonage, involuntary servitude and other infringement of constitutional rights of civilians."

Sentence Called Severe

McCarran said in an interview he and other committee members have received many complaints about courts-martial and conditions in Hawaii under martial law.

He said he was particularly disturbed by reports that young officers with no legal experience had bee nassigned as defense, counsel for soldiers accused of crimes punishable by death.

"Sentences for minor offenses have been exceedingly severe," he continued. "The sentence to 30 years imprisonment recurrs over and over again. Those who impose sentences seem wedded to the expression '30 years.'"

"Cigar Clerk" Defense Lawyer

One complaint, he said, is that "a soldier accused of murder is defended by a lieutenant whose only vocation prior to entering the service was cigar clerk."

"That same cigar clerk was counsel for several soldiers convicted and executed," McCarran asserted.

The chairman said the committee probably will not review individual cases, but will "review processes and procedure in courts-martial by which these conditions were brought about."

Approval by the Senate is needed before the inquiry can begin.

FERGUSON ASKS CHURCHILL FACE HAWAII INQUIRY

Republican Member Wants More Information on British Agreement.

KIMMEL ON STAND THIRD DAY

Says He Felt Pacific Fleet's Duty Was to Lead Attack, Not Defend Islands.

Washington, Jan. 17 (A. P.).—Senator Ferguson (R.-Mich.) proposed today that former Prime Minister Churchill of Great Britain, who arrived in Florida this week on vacation, be asked to appear as a witness before the Pearl Harbor Investigating Committee.

Ferguson, a member of the committee, told his colleagues he was not satisfied with the information that had been received concerning the Atlantic Charter conference. This was a meeting of President Roosevelt and Church at sea in August, 1941, after which they issued the so-called Atlantic Charter.

Ferguson said there had been testimony that an agreement was reached at the conference that the United States and Britain would take parallel action and warn Japan against further aggression.

Kimmel States Views.

Meanwhile Rear Admiral Husband E. Kimmel said today that he had never felt that the Pacific Fleet was based at Pearl Harbor to defend Hawaii, but was there to conduct offensive operations in the event of war with Japan.

The 1941 fleet commander made the statement in telling investigators about the "war warning" he received from the Navy Department on November 27, 1941, ten days before the Japanese struck the base. The warning, he said, added little, if anything, to previous messages.

This was no warning of a surprise attack by the Japanese on Pearl Harbor, he contended, adding: "This cure-all for every deficiency that might have accrued to Washington in this matter did not have that effect on me."

When Kimmel said that he had never seen the term "war warning" used in a naval message before, Committee Counsel Seth Richardson asked why Kimmel didn't ask Admiral Harold R. Stark, then chief of naval operations, what was meant by the "extraordinary term."

"That is the trouble," Kimmel replied, "I did not consider it an extraordinary term."

Lacked Submarines.

Because of this, he said he was not influenced to order the fleet to drop all training and to go on an all-out security basis.

Why didn't he ask Stark to help him make the decision as to when to drop training and put security measures into effect, Richardson asked.

Kimmel replied that Stark had testified that he had not intended for the fleet commander to halt his training program. It was a serious decision to make, Kimmel said, adding: "I never conceived that the Pacific fleet was placed in Hawaii to defend Hawaii. I thought it was placed there to conduct offensive operations if there was war with Japan."

Kimmel told the committee that he had insufficient submarines to conduct a patrol in all directions from the Hawaiian island of Oahu and felt that he could not afford to place surface units on patrol in an arc to the north and west of Pearl Harbor. The Japanese struck from the north.

"We had no unimportant surface units that we could afford to sacrifice," he said. "If they had been put out, they would have been destroyed by the attacking force."

Japs Used Wooden Fins.

Earlier Kimmel revealed how the Japanese succeeded in launching aerial torpedoes in the shallow waters of Pearl Harbor, a feat which Navy experts in 1941 considered impossible.

Detailing his own account of the disastrous Japanese raid against the naval base, he said that the Nipponese simply attached wooden fins to old-style torpedoes to do the job.

"That was the device the Japanese used," Kimmel said, "a device that all the brains of our Navy Department who had been working on the problem had been unable to discover."

He added dryly: "The solution to any problem seems easy after you have the answer."

Previous testimony had disclosed that the officials intrusted with the defense of the naval base had felt relatively secure against aerial torpedo attacks since they knew of none that would operate successfully in the shallow water there. The average depth of that anchorage is 30 feet, with 40-foot channels.

Third Day on Stand.

Kimmel has testified that damage against ships at the base probably would have been slight if the Japanese hadn't been able to use the torpedoes.

In Kimmel's third day on the stand, Richardson asked whether he had ever complained about "the plethora of warnings and forebodings" which came out of Washington relative to the possibility of an attack in the Pacific.

Kimmel said he was glad to have them, but did not understand them to mean he was to go on an all-out alert basis and jettison his fleet training program. He said he tried to visualize all possibilities, not just probabilities.

He said that while he did not make any formal protest against retaining the fleet at Pearl Harbor, he did point out the vulnerability of the base. He said he once told President Roosevelt that the only defense against an air attack there was not to have the fleet in port when enemy planes came over.

Richardson cited a dispatch from Naval Operations to all district Naval commanders pointing out that the Axis powers frequently began attacks on Saturdays and Sundays. Kimmel said he never saw the communication until some time after the attack.

Call Signals Changed.

Richardson turned to the fact that the Japanese changed the radio call signals for their warships on November 1 and again on December 1, 1941. Navy witnesses have testified that because of these changes, American naval intelligence, which monitored Japanese calls, was uncertain prior to December 7, 1941, of the whereabouts of many major Japanese ships.

Richardson said he had received from the Navy an intelligence report submitted to Kimmel on December 1 and had found this sentence underlined with red: "The fact that service calls lasted only one month indicates an additional progressive step in preparing for active operations on a large scale."

The Admiral said he did not recall whether he had underlined the sentence, but that he certainly had seen the report.

'Fleet Offensive, Not Defensive,' Kimmel View

Washington, Jan. 17 (AP)—Rear Admiral Husband E. Kimmel said today he had never felt that the Pacific Fleet was based at Pearl Harbor to defend Hawaii but was there to conduct offensive operations in the event of war with Japan.

The 1941 fleet commander made the statement in telling a Senate-House inquiry committee about the "war warning" he received from the Navy Department on November 27, 1941, ten days before the Japanese struck Pearl Harbor. The warning, he said, added little, if anything, to previous messages.

"Didn't Warn Against Surprise"

This was no warning of a surprise attack by the Japanese on Pearl Harbor, he contended, adding:

"This cure-all for every deficiency that might have accrued to Washington in this matter did not have that effect on me."

When Kimmel said that he had never seen the term "war warning" used in a naval message before, Committee Counsel Seth Richardson asked why Kimmel didn't ask Admiral Harold R. Stark, then chief of naval operations, what was meant by the "extraordinary term."

"Not Extraordinary," He Says

"That is the trouble," Kimmel replied. "I did not consider it an extraordinary term."

Because of this, he said, he was not influenced to order the fleet to drop all training and to go on an all-out security basis.

Why didn't he ask Stark to help him make the decision when to drop training and put security measures into effect, Richardson asked.

Kimmel replied that Stark had testified that he had not intended for the fleet commander to halt his training program. It was a serious decision to make, Kimmel said.

Reports He Lacked Subs

"I never conceived that the Pacific Fleet was placed in Hawaii to defend Hawaii," he said. "I thought it was placed there to conduct offensive operations if there was war with Japan."

Kimmel told the committee that he had insufficient submarines to conduct a patrol in all directions from the Hawaiian island of Oahu and felt that he could not afford to place surface units on patrol in an arc to the north and west of Pearl Harbor. The Japanese struck from the north on December 7, 1941.

"We had no unimportant surface units that we could afford to sacrifice," he said. "If they had been put out, they would have been destroyed by the attacking force."

Wooden Fins On Torpedoes

Earlier, Kimmel told the committee how the Japanese succeeded in launching aerial torpedoes in the shallow waters of Pearl Harbor, a feat which navy experts in 1941 considered impossible.

Detailing his own account of the Japanese attack, he said the Nipponese simply attached wooden fins to old-style torpedoes to do the job.

"That was the device the Japanese used," Kimmel said, "a device that all the brains of our Navy Department who had been working on the problem had been unable to discover."

An Afterthought

He added dryly:

"The solution to any problem seems easy after you have the answer."

Previous testimony had disclosed that the officials intrusted with the defense of the base had felt relatively secure against aerial torpedo attacks since they knew of none that would operate successfully in the shallow waters there. The average depth of that anchorage is 30 feet, with 40-foot channel

Kimmel has testified age against ships at th ably would have been Japanese hadn't been able to use the torpedoes.

Questioned About Warnings

In Kimmel's third day on the stand, Richardson asked whether he had ever complained about "the plethora of warnings and forebodings" which came out of Washington relative to the possibility of an attack in the Pacific.

Kimmel said he was glad to have them, but did not understand them to mean he was to go on an all-out alert basis and jettison his fleet-training program. He said he tried to visualize all possibilities, not just probabilities.

He said that while he did not make any formal protest against retaining the fleet at Pearl Harbor, he did point out the vulnerability of the base. He said he once told President Roosevelt that the only defense against an air attack there was not to have the fleet in port when enemy planes came over.

Refers To Dispatch

Richardson cited a dispatch from Naval Operations to all district naval commanders pointing out that the Axis powers frequently began attacks on Saturdays and Sundays. Kimmel said he never saw the communication until sometime after the attack.

Richardson turned to the fact that the Japanese changed the radio call signals for their warships on November 1 and again on December 1, 1941.

Navy witnesses have testified that because of these changes American Naval Intelligence, which monitored Japanese calls, was uncertain, prior to December 7, 1941, of the whereabouts of many major Japanese ships.

Sentence Underlined

Richardson said he had received from the Navy an intelligence report submitted to Kimmel on December 1 and had found this sentence underlined with red:

"The fact that service calls lasted only one month indicates an additional progressive step in preparing for active operations on a large scale."

The Admiral said he did not recall whether he had underlined the sentence, but that he certainly had seen the report.

When Richardson referred to the unlocated Japanese ships as a "lost fleet," Kimmel protested.

"So far as I was concerned there was no lost fleet," he said. "There were ships we were unable to identify."

FILIBUSTER HALTS SENATE WORK ON IMPORTANT BILLS

Breaks Out After Surprise Motion to Take Up FEPC Measure.

ASSAILED BY GEORGE

Southerners Stand Ready for Long Debate Against Measure.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 17. — (AP) A full-fledged filibuster of unforeseeable duration broke out in the Senate today following the adoption of a surprise motion to take up the controversy-packed FEPC bill.

These were some of the results:

1. All other legislation was hobbled.

2. Senator Walter George of Georgia asserted that "free men" on the Democratic side of the aisle would refuse to follow the administration in the matter.

3. Senator Eastland (D-Miss) — starting to talk for "two years if necessary," — questioned whether President Truman is "competent" to handle his job if he "has the idea this is the most important bill to take up at this time."

The measure which has been endorsed repeatedly by Mr. Truman, would establish a permanent Fair Employment Practice Commission to police industry, labor unions and the government against discriminations on account of race, color or creed.

Bilbo to Speak

Senator Bilbo (D-Miss), an old hand at filibustering, told a reporter:

"This bill is so vitally against the interests of the people of the United States and so manifestly unconstitutional and unAmerican that I propose to exercise my right to speak twice on the bill"—he paused —"30 days at a time."

Senator Overton (D-La) predicted without elaboration that the FEPC bill itself would not be discussed "tomorrow—or tomorrow—or tomorrow." He forecast that some "entirely new subject matter" would be on tap when the Senate meets again.

The bill cannot be displaced by a minority, but the discussions of the speakers do not have to have any particular connection with the matter at hand.

Under the parliamentary situation, the FEPC bill is due to come up again tomorrow after the expiration of the "morning hour"—no later than 2 p. m. Meanwhile Eastland is expected to take advantage of the general business period just after the Senate reconvenes to call for a vote on his motion to discharge the labor committee from further consideration of the fact-finding bill for labor disputes. But the labor bill itself will have to wait on the FEPC matter.

Senator Chavez (D-NM) had served notice before Christmas that he intended to call up the measure. A similar bill now is tied up in the House Rules committee.

When Chavez actually made the motion, less than a third of the senators were present. Senator Hill of Alabama, the Democratic whip, jumped to his feet to observe that it was his understanding that the New Mexico senator intended to discuss the bill today, but that he would delay his motion until later.

Flareup Occurs

"The senator is mistaken," Chavez replied coldly, "the motion stands."

Senator LaFollette (Prog-Wis) then was on his feet calling attention of the presiding officer to the fact that when a motion is made under the conditions which prevailed, it is not debatable.

LaFollette said that because the motion was made before 2 p. m. in what is called the Senate's "morning hour" for the consideration of new business, it could not be debated. This interpretation was sustained and the roll was called.

Two Republicans, Senators Bushfield of South Dakota and Millikin of Colorado, voted with 15 Southern Democrats against the motion. Twenty-two Democrats, 26 Republicans and LaFollette favored it.

Then the Southerners exploded.

George protested that there had been an understanding that no controversial matters would be brought up until Congress receives President Truman's State of the Union message, now delayed until next Monday. Democratic Leader Barkley (Ky), headed off the introduction of bills last Monday with that plea.

"I criticize the Democratic party for bringing this up under explicit conditions that no controversial matter was to be brought up at this time," George declared.

"My party can take any course it will," the Georgian continued, "but there are men on my (Democratic) side who are free men. They will not follow the party on this."

George said he thought the "very life of the nation" now is at stake because of industrial strife brought about by strikes. Congress ought to be doing something about that, he said, adding:

"This is notice to the American people that the Senate has no concept of the responsibility resting on it."

Chavez replied, "God help the Democratic party unless some of its members support this measure."

Senator Olin Johnston (D-S.C.) then arose to express the belief that the Senate action "will cause trouble and probably will cause riots here in Washington and other cities."

Crowd Hisses

Eastland called attention to the crowd in the galleries, asserting that "a bunch of fanatics and Communists are down here from New York city trying to stampede the Senate into an unconstitutional measure."

Spectators hissed as Eastland referred to "Communists."

That led Eastland into discussion of the effect of the FEPC move on strike control legislation.

"At least half of the organizations supporting this," Eastland said, "are Communist Front organizations. The American people should know they are strong enough to sidetrack anti-strike legislation in Senate and bring up FEPC."

Eastland did not get a full test of his staying powers today.

The Senate quit for the night on motion of Senator McKellar (D-Tenn.) while he was in full swing, but he said the adjournment resolution automatically gave him the floor when the issue comes up again tomorrow.

While the uproar sounded in the Senate a group of FEPC supporters visited Federal officials and congressmen in an attempt to force action on the measure.

A group paraded up and down in front of the Capitol Towers apartment building where Senator Bilbo lives.

Bilbo was not at home.

Reached at his Senate office, the Mississippian commented, "I'm used to it. I've been picketed every afternoon since the 14th of October."

Martin Criticized

A delegation from organization claiming to represent 709,000 members sought unsuccessfully to confer with Rep. Martin (R-Mass.) in an effort to promote permanent Fair Employment Practices legislation.

Muriel Hall, New York, a member of the 32-member delegation, said Martin, minority leader of the House, refused to grant the group a five-minute audience.

After waiting in a corridor adjoining Martin's office for two and one-half hours, the group, through Miss Hall, issued a statement.

In it, the Republicans were accused of blocking a discharge petition which, if signed by a majority of the House, would force consideration of FEPC legislation.

"By failing to act on this petition Rep. Martin and the Republican party stand exposed as supporting discriminating practices in employment," the statement said.

The delegation was part of a group of 500, who appeared at the Capitol in a demonstration for FEPC action. Leaders said they represented organizations from Missouri, Kansas, Illinois, Indiana, Wisconsin, Ohio, Pennsylvania, New Jersey, New York, Massachusetts, Connecticut and Puert Rico.

One group representing the National Negro congress called o Acting Secretary of State Dea Acheson in the interest of an anti discrimination clause in the chai ter of the United Nations.

100% MARGIN FOR SECURITY DEALS RULED

Act Aimed At 'Primary Source Of Inflation Danger,' Says Eccles

Washington, Jan. 17 (AP)—The Federal Reserve Board today raised th margin requirements for stock exchange trading to 100 per cent, effective Monday.

The drastic step, designed to check speculation and curb inflation, will have the effect of halting any more dealings by the public "on margin" on the stock exchanges.

Persons who want to buy or sell listed securities will now have to post 100 per cent of their market value with the brokers. The requirement has been 75 per cent since last July 5, when it was raised from 50 per cent.

50% For "Specialists"

The order also means that where dealers heretofore could lend customers 25 per cent of the value of the securities in their accounts for further trading, after Monday there can be no more such loans.

The order likewise affects any loans made by banks where securities are collateral and the proceeds are to be used for trading. But loans for other purposes are not affected.

The margin requirement for "specialists"—the men on the exchange floors who do the actual buying and selling of certain securities in executing brokers' orders—was set at 50 per cent.

In the case of persons who have existing margin accounts with brokers, the new ruling requires tha whenever securities held as collateral are sold the proceeds must be applied on the indebtedness. Otherwise existing accounts and loans are not affected.

Expressions Of Concern

The measure follows several expressions of concern by Chester Bowles, OPA administrator, and other officials over widespread market activities by small traders which the officials termed speculative.

Emil Schram, president of the New York Stock Exchange, called at the White House recently to discuss the market with President Truman. The President told reporters that Schram had said there was no inflationary danger on the exchange.

Comment By Brokers Here

Representatives of local stock-brokerage houses last night predicted that putting security dealings on a cash basis would not "break" stock market prices, but would instead drive much "venture" money to other fields, notably for the purchase of real estate and merchandise.

C. T. Williams, Jr., of C. T. Williams & Co., Inc., said:

"There is no mistaking the purpose of the move—it is an anti-inflation step. Likely it will have a temporary psychological effect. The best that can be said for it is that it represents affirmative action.

Move 'To Talk Market Down'

"At the same time the mere taking of the step indicates high authorities believe the market will go higher. It is a move to 'talk the market down.'

"The intelligent speculator may hereafter act more carefully, and in the long run the run-of-mine buyer may be frozen out, but buying by the latter class has been in negligible volume."

George Mackubin, of Mackubin, Legg & Co., said:

"This action was not unexpected. Those who have striven to control inflation by regulation have raised the margin successively from 2 to 50 to 75 per cent and now to 100 per cent. With each control measure the stock market swept to higher levels.

"A Big Mistake"

"What we now will have is that money will be driven into other forms of speculation. Therefore, I feel the move to be a big mistake.

"What has happened is that so many regulations have been drafted that the natural laws of supply and demand are no longer permitted to function.

"What must be done is to stimulate production at a profit. Profits have been knocked out by regulations which have not pegged rising labor costs; therefore, producers have stopped producing. The scarcity of material proves that, and the mad scramble for materials in short supply simply adds to the vicious circle of inflation."

Tax Matter, Cahn Says

Frank B. Cahn, of Frank B. Cahn & Co., agreed with observers in the financial world here that "so far as local houses are concerned the results fo eliminating margin buying altogether will be negligible."

In the case of the house he heads, Mr. Cahn declared "margin accounts are one and a half per cent of what they were in 1933."

Mr. Cahn declared: "The market has climbed largely because of the workings of the capital gains tax and the cut in excess profits taxes.

"Speculation in real estate is already rife. This action will increase it, and in many localities it is on a scale comparable to that in Florida real estate in 1926."

"Measure Won't Avail Much"

Claude W. Wilhide, of Baker, Watts & Co., expressed the belief:

There is so much idle money that people want to put to work that the new measure won't avail much. Every step taken so far to curb inflation has lessened the supply of stocks on the market. Most houses have been on a cash basis for months. I can't see that this latest move wil help curb speculation."

Harry M. Sheely, of Harry M. Sheely & Co., said:

"Marketwise the move will have but little effect in the long pull. Temporarily it may depress prices.

"The market indicates clearly that we had much more inflation than is generally recongized and that there is more to come. After all the market is a very accurate barometer of conditions."

Red Troops Already There

Meanwhile, Government officials here in a position to know, said that Russia already has sent in troops with "bag and baggage" and their families—apparently for a long stay. Agreement upon Russia occupation of these islands, stretching like a scimitar across the entrance to the sea of Okhotsk, was reached at the Potsdam conference.

Back in the last century there was some dispute between Russia and Japan as to the ownership of these barren islands, but in 1875 Moscow officially recognized Japan's title to the Kuriles.

Truman Word Recalled

It appeared likely that President Truman had the Kuriles in mind Tuesday when he told his news conference it was not necessarily true that the United States would be alone in seeking independent control of former enemy-held islands.

But it remained at least temporarily uncertain whether Russia would lay its claim to the Kuriles formally before the United Nations, as the United States plans to do with key Pacific bases won in the war.

Three courses apparently are open for ultimate disposition of the Kuriles:

1. Settlement by a separate Russo- Japanese treaty.

2. Action at a peace parley in which all the Allies against Japan would participate.

3. Inclusion in a United Nations general settlement on the future status of Pacific islands formerly held by Japan.

Russia's Expected Stand

In all three cases, it seemed certain that Russian will argue as great a justification for sole tenancy of the Kuriles as that of the United States for other Pacific island bases.

This country at least publicly, has not listed the Kuriles as among the islands regarded as necessary to its defense. Naval quarters, however, have expressed belief that some of the Japanese operations against the Aleutians originated from this chain of islands. Japanese installations on the Kuriles were bombed by air and pounded from the sea heavily during the latter part of the war.

Reds 'Occupying' Kuriles; Troops Bringing Families

Washington, Jan. 17 (AP)—Russia was reported today to be establishing herself firmly in the strategic Kurile Island chain flanking the approaches to Siberia.

It was from a rendezvous in these foggy Japanese islands that Admiral Yamamoto's fleet set out in late November, 1941, for its attack of Pearl Harbor.

Whether a peace settlement will decree the permanent amputation of the Kuriles from the Japanese empire still remains to be decided.

RUSSIA REQUESTED U. S. LOAN IN 1945

WASHINGTON, Jan. 17 — (AP) The State department said tonight that Russia had requested a loan from the United States in January, 1945, but had made no formal renewal of that bid since then.

A department official issued a statement to newsmen after Secretary of the Treasury Vinson had told a news conference he understood that the Soviet government had sent a note on the subject of the loan.

"Secretary Vinson's remark that he understood a message had been received by the State department some time ago requesting a loan from the Soviet government undoubtedly referred to a message from Ambassador Harriman in January last year," the official said.

He referred to W. Averell Harriman, U. S. ambassador to Moscow.

"At that time," the official said, "we were obliged to inform the Soviet government that there were no funds available in the Export-Import bank and that furthermore, there were legislative impediments to granting any loans which we hoped to have rescinded."

The legislative impediments were certain clauses in the legislation setting up the Export-Import bank which prohibited U. S. loans to countries in default on previous financial obligations.

The World War I obligations of the Czarist Russian government to the U. S. were never paid by the Soviet government.

The State department official said that last August, after Congress voted additional funds for the Export-Import bank and rescinded the legislative impediment, the U. S. informed Russia it was prepared to discuss a request for a loan.

Since that time, the only approach made by the Russians was in an informal discussion between Soviet officials in Washington and Leo T. Crowley, former chairman of the board of the Export-Import bank, the official said.

Although the official gave no figure on the original Russian loan request, it was widely understood that the Soviet government desired $6,000,000,000.

7 Germans To Aid In Navy Research

Washington, Jan. 17 (AP)—Seven German scientists and engineers who participated in the development of the Nazis' terrible V-bombs are coming to this country to aid in research on similar United States weapons.

The Navy said today they will help install and start operation of a wind tunnel in research at the naval ordnance laboratory in White Oak, Md. They are due this month.

Equipment for the tunnel was shipped from Kochel, Germany, late last year after its capture by Allied troops.

Much of it, including the world's largest device for measuring air density by optical means, the Navy said, has never been duplicated outside Germany.

The Navy added that the research is aimed at development of guided missiles that can travel faster than the speed of sound—about 700 miles an hour.

The Germans are being brought to this country under escort and will work under contract with the Navy for a limited period, the Navy said. They will receive salaries which will be sent to their families in Germany and the Navy will provide lodging and meals.

They will be admitted to the United States as disarmed aliens and not as prisoners of war.

An additional six German scientists and engineers are expected at a later date.

The Navy said names of the Germans, selected after interviews with navy scientists, could not be disclosed.

EIGHT NATIONS ASKED TO AID U.S. REPORTERS

WASHINGTON, Jan. 17—(AP) The United States has requested the governments of eight countries to facilitate reporting by American newspapermen and radio correspondents in areas receiving UNRRA assistance, the State department announced today.

The requests were forwarded by Acting Secretary of State Dean Acheson in accordance with the provisions which Congress put in the last appropriations act for UNRRA, requesting President Truman to assist American press and radio representatives in their reporting of UNRRA activities abroad.

In its message, the State department asked the various governments in the interest of better understanding between peoples that they take appropriate measures permitting reporters to investigate and report "fully without censorship on the utilization and distribution of UNRRA supplies and services."

The department also requested that it be informed of the measures taken by each country, Albania, Russia, Poland, China, Czechoslovakia, Greece, Italy and Yugoslavia, so that it may report them to Congress.

Ley's Brain Found Defective In Lobes Guiding Social Sense

Washington, Jan. 17 (AP)—A post-mortem examination of the brain of the Nazi suicide, Dr. Robert Ley—the Hitler-appointed dictator over all the German working people—has disclosed a long-standing brain disease "sufficient . . . to have impaired (his) mental and emotional facilities."

This was learned today from scientists of the Army Institute of Pathology, a division of the Army Surgeon General's office.

They have just completed "whole" and microscopic studies of the brain of the Hitler henchman and "labor front" leader who directed seizure of trade unions in the Reich, helped conscript German youth for labor and sought to pump the philosophy of Nazidom into all working people.

Going On For Years

One of the Institute of Pathology scientists said the disease process had been going on "for years" in the brain of Ley, who, in 1933, avowed the Nazis' purpose to regiment German labor by declaring in a speech to workers:

"It is you whom we (the Nazi party) want; we will not let you be until you stand with us in complete, genuine acknowledgment."

Ley hanged himself last October rather than face trial as a war criminal and his brain was flown here from Germany for study shortly afterward.

Cause Remains Obscure

The scientists declared the Ley brain "discloses a long-standing degenerative process of the frontal lobes"—the part of the brain which controls emotions and thinking. They said the exact cause of the degeneration "remains obscure," but they added it was "definitely not caused by bacteria."

"The degeneration," they wrote,

30.24-363

"is of sufficient duration and degree to have impaired Dr. Ley's mental and emotional faculties, and could well account for his aberrations (unsoundness) in conduct and feeling.

"Normally, the frontal lobes are requisite for complex types of thinking and for a proper development of the 'social sense,' and they exercise a restraint on emotional impulses."

Rest Less Affected

The frontal lobes constitute approximately one third of the entire brain. The army scientists said the rest of Ley's brain was "relatively less affected" by the disease —"not sufficiently so to have affected the faculties controlled by the rest of the brain."

The gross appearance of the brain, they said, resembles that seen in brains affected by syphilis, but they declared no microscopic evidence of syphilis was found.

They said, too, that the type of degeneration found "is sometimes seen in those addicted to alcohol, but proof that alcohol in itself is a causative factor is completely lacking."

Cannot Be Laid To Accident

The report added that "the disease process cannot be ascribed to an alleged airplane accident."

Major Douglas M. Kelly, of San Francisco, an army neurologist who studied Ley when he was alive, had been quoted as saying in Nuernberg that the frontal lobe of Ley's brain was damaged—"probably caused by an airplane crash in 1917 over the Western front while Ley was an aerial observer."

But the institute investigators declared that the damage was too "symmetrical" and extensive to have been dead long ago."

They said brain damage from an injury which a person survives usually is concentrated in "a focal point."

Would Have Died Long Ago

Major Webb Haymaker, of the Army Medical Corps and neuropathologist on the institute's staff, said that "if the damage we have found had been caused by an air plane accident, Ley would have been lead long aga."

Haymaker, who is on leave of absence from the University of California, added:

"The degenerative process disclosed in the examination had been going on for a long time. I would say for years, but would not hazard an estimate of how many without further evidence based on any clinical findings that might have been made on Ley during life.

Seat Of Inhibitions

"Ley's brain is one that probably had not functioned normally. The part of the brain most affected is the part, really, that makes man civilized. It's the seat of our inhibitions—the control center that keeps most people from committing acts of violence.

"It's the part that gives us our 'social' or 'moral' sense—the sense of the fitness of things—and enables us to have sympathy with fellow man.

"Thus, impairment of that part of the brain through disease or injury usually makes the sufferer lose his sense of relative values. The individual usually is given to self-glorification and may even regress to infantile levels of conduct. He may become grandiose in his ideas. Such an individual doesn't want $500—he wants $5,000,000."

Possibly Inherent Weakness

Asked if there were any theories as to the cause of a degenerative process such as that described in Ley's case, Haymaker declared:

"One theory is that some inherent constitutional weakness of the individual leads to a premature degeneration of part of the brain, just as, in some individuals, the blood vessels harden prematurely to produce the disease we know as arteriosclerosis.

"Sometimes, postmortem examination of aged persons reveals a degenerative process of the brain, but in those cases, these degenerative changes extend equally over the entire brain—and are looked upon as the normal process of aging. In Ley's case, the degeneration is largely centered in one part of the brain, and it, therefore, is abnormal."

TRUMAN APPROVES RETURN OF JACKSON

Washington, Jan. 17 (A. P.),—President Truman issued an order today which will enable Supreme Court Justice Robert H. Jackson, chief American prosecutor at the Nuernberg war crime trials, to return to this country and leave to others the prosecution of secondary crimes.

The order authorizes Jackson to proceed against the secondary offenders before United States military or occupational tribunals and empowers him to designate a deputy chief of counsel, with responsibility to organize and plan the prosecution of charges of atrocities and war crimes other than those now being prosecuted as case No. 1 in the international military tribunal.

The order also provides that when Jackson vacates his war trail duties his powers shall be vested in a chief of counsel for war crimes to be appointed by the United States military governor for Germany or by his successor.

The Supreme Court recently deferred arguments in three important cases until Jackson could resume his place on the bench. Yesterday in the House Representative O'Hara (R.-Minn.) criticized the appointment of any Federal or Supreme Court judge to a post requiring absence from their judicial duties.

Friends of the justice have indicated that he wishes to get back to the tribunal by March.

GI's And The General's Jeep

Washington, Jan. 17 (AP)—Representative Rees (R., Kan.) told the House today that GI's on a small South Pacific island have been ordered to salute empty jeeps bearing the white stars of generals.

"I thought the House should know," Rees said, "that it has gotten to the place where our boys must not only salute officers but their empty jeeps as well."

Read Into Record

Rees declined to say where the order was issued, but read it into the Congressional Record as follows:

"All army vehicles bearing the white star of a general officer will be saluted whether it is occupied by a general or not. The vehicle will be saluted if it passes a soldier on the street or if the vehicle is stationary and the soldier passes it. The soldier will also salute all officers riding in a vehicle. When saluting, the soldier should turn his head in the direction of the vehicle or officer and look directly at the object of his salute. All salutes should be rendered wholeheartedly with snap and precision and in a military manner."

Public Relations Men Explain

Public relations officers at the War Department said last night, "Soldiers only salute the general's insigne because the general is always supposed to be inside when it is displayed. When the general gets out, it is the driver's duty to cover the stars."

The same is true for general's flags sometimes carried at the front of vehicles carrying general officers, it was said. As soon as the general leaves the vehicle, the flag is supposed to be cased.

Cotton For Japan To Be Sent Soon

Washington, Jan. 17 (AP)—Hope of beginning shipment of raw cotton to Japan within a month was expressed in State Department quarters today as part of a broad program to assist peoples of former enemy countries to feed and clothe themselves.

The plan constitutes an extension to Japan of a policy laid down December 10 by the State Department, in which this Government expressed its intention to give Germany a chance to get its peaceful domestic industries back on their feet.

In explaining the proposed cotton shipment to Japan, officials said that it was designed primarily to carry out the Army's objective of providing the materials to try to prevent "disease and unrest" among civilian populations in occupied territories.

CHURCHILL CHATS WITH GEN. SMITH

MIAMI BEACH, Fla., Jan. 17.—(AP) Winston Churchill, proclaimed "in excellent health," talked over the momentous events of D-day and thereafter with Lt. Gen. Walter Bedell Smith today and then went for a motor ride which delayed his comment on a proposed invitation to testify before the Pearl Harbor investigating committee.

Senator Ferguson (R-Mich) proposed that the famed British war leader here for a victory vacation, be invited to appear as a witness. Ferguson, a committee member, told colleagues he was not satisfied with the information that had been received concerning the Atlantic Charter conference.

The announcement of the Atlantic Charter followed a meeting of Churchill and the late President Roosevelt at sea in August, 1941.

Churchill and his host, Col. Frank Clarke, Canadian steamship and woodpulp official, received Gen. Smith, former chief of staff to Gen. Eisenhower, at Clarke's North Bay road home where the former prime minister is vacationing.

Mrs. Churchill was off on a shopping tour along fashionable Lincoln road, often described as Miami Beach's Fifth avenue—mentioned occasionally now as Miami Beach's Oxford street.

The three men had lunch at home and chatted of momentous days that saw Nazism shrink in power and finally collapse.

Clothed Millions; Can't Find a Suit

West Palm Beach, Fla., Jan. 17 (A. P.).—Gen. Brehon Somervell, who clothed and fed the Army during the war, is having a tough time today at the job he knows best—trying to get a suit.

The General wants an outfit he can wear around Hobe Sound, now that he has retired from active service. The former head of the Army Service Forces said that he had no plans for the future, and his main immediate concern was reflected in a wistful query.

"You don't know a good tailor who will fix me up with a suit of civvies, do you?"

REFUGEES LEAVE HAVEN AT OSWEGO

NIAGARA FALLS, Ont., Jan. 17.—(AP) Ninety-two Europeans, the vanguard of some 900 fugitives from Nazi persecution who were "duration guests" of Uncle Sam stepped across the border today as legal residents.

They were brought here in three buses from the Fort Ontario refugee shelter, Oswego, N. Y., where they had arrived from Italy in August, 1944, many bearing the scars of concentration camps.

They were a cheerful, well-dressed group which presented a sharp contrast to their somewhat tattered condition upon their first arrival from overseas.

Carl Sehan, who was a Yugoslavia representative of an American moving picture company for 11 years, said he would "try and get a job" with that company and declared that his "grandest wish" was to become an American citizen.

All were brought here to comply with immigration laws requiring that visas be obtained on foreign soil.

The remainder of the refugees will be brought here in similar groups every few days until all who desire are admitted under regular immigration quotas. Relatively few have expressed a wish to return to their homelands.

Prior to the issuance of a Presidential order authorizing the procedure, all were in the United States only for the "duration." The National Refugee service, the American Christian Committee for Refugees and the Catholic Committee for Refugees provided corporate affidavits which guaranteed that none of the new immigrants would become public charges.

Nazi 'Sound Gun' Tests Cut Short by End of War

ABERDEEN PROVING GROUND, Md., Jan. 17—(AP) A "sound gun," using sound waves to kill a man in 30 to 40 seconds, was under experimental development by the Nazis in a last-minute effort to stave off defeat, an Army ballistics expert told the nation's leading supersonics scientists today.

Col. Leslie E. Simon, director of the ballistics research laboratory at the Aberdeen Proving ground, disclosed the existence of the device, development of which was cut short by Allied victory. Some 300 supersonics experts attended the conference, sponsored by the Navy but held at Aberdeen because of the many testing devices here.

Research on the project, Col. Simon said, was ordered by Professor Albert Speer, Nazi munitions minister. German scientists later told Americans, Col. Simon added, that they felt chances for its success were slim.

24,500 Troops Arriving On Transports

[By the Associated Press]

Forty-two transports, carrying more than 24,500 service men are scheduled to arrive today at three East and six West Coast ports. Ships and units arriving:

merely a technicality, since the container was sealed six days ago in the Library of Congress in Washington and had not been opened here.

A shipment tag on the container was labeled:

"On his Britanic Majesty's Service—His Majesty's Principal Secretary of State for Foreign Affairs, &c., &c., &c.—Foreign Office, London.

Commodore Bissett declared that the charter was "the most precious thing" with which he had ever been entrusted. In reply to a question, he said that he was not including the thousands of United Nations troops the Queen Elizabeth has carried during his eight months as the liner's master.

The charter was brought from Washington to the British Consulate here and moved to the liner at Pier 90, North River, yesterday. After many photographs of the presentation were taken, it was locked in the ship's safe. The Queen Elizabeth is scheduled to leave for Southampton today. After reaching England, the historic document will be returned to Lincoln Cathedral.

One of the four existing copies Chiefs of Staff permitted the charter and the other historical objects to be returned to the Library of Congress and put on display. Facsimiles had been exhibited in their absence.

The Lincoln Cathedral copy is said to be the finest of the existing parchments. The 731st anniversary of the signing of the charter by King John at Runnymede Meadow, England, will occur next June 15.

Magna Charta, Here Since 1939, Put Aboard Britain-Bound Liner

Lincoln Cathedral Copy, One of Four in Existence, Was Brought Here for Fair and Kept at Fort Knox in War

In a ceremony in the main lounge of the liner Queen Elizabeth, the Lincoln Cathedral copy of the Magna Charta, which was brought here in August, 1939, was turned over to the liner's master yesterday to be returned to England.

Sealed in a zinc-encased wooden box, the document was accepted by Commodore Sir J. G. P. Bissett from Sir Francis Evans, British Consul General in New York. Commodore Bissett then signed a receipt which read:

"Tin box alleged to contain The Magna Charta."

Sir Francis explained that the use of the word "alleged" was of the Great Charter, the Lincoln Cathedral parchment was brought here on the liner Queen Mary for exhibition at the New York World's Fair, where it was estimated 10,000,000 persons saw the document. In November, 1939, with Britain at war, the historic document was turned over to the Library of Congress for safekeeping for the duration.

Soon after America's entry into the war in 1941, the charter, the Constitution of the United States, the Declaration of Independence and the Gutenberg Bible were moved secretly to Fort Knox, Ky.

In September, 1944, with the threat of enemy air attacks on this country diminished, the Joint

BY OVID A.MARTIN

WASHINGTON, JAN. 17-(AP)-THE GOVERNMENT IS SCHEDULING A SERIES OF MEETINGS WHICH MAY RESULT EVENTUALLY IN HIGHER MILK PRICES.

THESE INCREASES -- POSSIBLY MONTHS AWAY -- WOULD BE TWO CENTS A QUART DURING THE SPRING AND SUMMER AND THREE CENTS A QUART DURING WINTER MONTHS.

THE FIRST OF THE HEARINGS WILL OPEN AT NEW YORK TOMORROW. THE SECOND WILL BE HELD FOR THE BOSTON MILK MARKET NEXT MONTH.

SIMILAR SESSIONS ARE PLANNED IN MOST LARGE CITIES WHERE DAIRYMEN'S PRICES ARE REGULATED BY THE AGRICULTURE DEPARTMENT UNDER FEDERAL MILK MARKETING ORDERS.

TOMORROW'S GATHERING COMES A WEEK AFTER IT BECOMES KNOWN THAT SECRETARY OF AGRICULTURE ANDERSON IS URGING AN IMMEDIATE HIKE OF SIX CENTS A POUND IN OPA BUTTER PRICE CEILINGS IN AN EFFORT TO ENCOURAGE GREATER PRODUCTION.

THE MILK PRICE HEARINGS WILL BE CONDUCTED BY THE DEPARTMENT ON WHAT IT DESCRIBES AS DAIRY INDUSTRY PROPOSALS TO RAISE PRODUCER PRICES OF FLUID MILK WHEN THE GOVERNMENT'S $525,000,000 A YEAR DAIRY PRODUCTION SUBSIDY PROGRAM IS ENDED.

BUTTER FIGHT, ANNOUNCED IN NOVEMBER THAT THE DAIRY SUBSIDY PROGRAM WOULD BE DISCARDED BY JUNE 30.

DAIRYMEN SUPPLYING NEW YORK ARE ASKING THAT WHEN SUBSIDIES END, THEIR PRICES FOR MILK SOLD TO CONSUMERS BE INCREASED FROM THE PRESENT YEAR-AROUND FIGURE OF $3.70 A HUNDRED POUNDS TO $4.66 FROM APRIL THROUGH SEPTEMBER AND TO $5.06 FROM OCTOBER THROUGH MARCH. THIS WOULD FIGURE OUT AT TWO AND THREE CENTS A QUART.

LONDON, JAN.17-(AP)-A U.S.ARMY COURT MARTIAL TRYING NINE ENLISTED MEN AND TWO OFFICERS ON CHARGES OF CRUELTY TO PRISONERS AT THE LICHFIELD REPLACEMENT DEPOT TODAY REJECTED A JUDGE ADVOCATE'S CHALLENGE OF ITS AUTHORITY TO ORDER CHARGES PREPARED AGAINST THE FORMER CAMP COMMANDER.

MAJ.RICHARD D.KEARNEY, STAFF JUDGE ADVOCATE OF THE LONDON AREA OFFICE, PRESENTED THE CHALLENGE IN A LETTER.

DECLARING IT DID NOT "FEEL IT WAS ABLE AT THIS TIME TO ALTER ITS ACTION," THE COURT REQUESTED THAT THE LETTER BE RETURNED TO KEARNEY.

KEARNEY HAD SAID THE COURT EXCEEDED ITS AUTHORITY IN ORDERING THE PREPARATION, FOR ITS CONSIDERATION, OF CHARGES OF SUBORNATION OF PERJURY, INTIMIDATION OF WITNESSES, CONSPIRACY AND DERELICTION OF DUTY AGAINST COL.JAMES A.KILIAN OF HIGHLAND PARK, ILL., FORMER COMMANDING OFFICER OF THE DEPOT.

THE DEFENDANTS IN THE CASE ARE BEING TRIED SEPARATELY. SGT.JUDSON H.SMITH OF CUMBERLAND, KY., IS AT PRESENT BEFORE THE COURT.

THE ACTION OF THE COURT, WHICH ALSO HAD ASKED THAT A CHARGE OF PERJURY BE PREPARED AGAINST MAJ.RICHARD E.LOBUONO (CAPS L AND B) OF PITTSBURGH, PA., WAS DESCRIBED AS "HIGHLY IRREGULAR" IN KEARNEY'S LETTER.

FRANKFURT, JAN. 17 - (AP) - THE U.S. ARMY BEGAN SERVING A HOT NOON MEAL TO ITS 12,000 GERMAN CIVILIAN EMPLOYES IN THE FRANKFURT ENCLAVE THIS WEEK IN A PROGRAM THE ARMY SAID WAS DESIGNED "TO INSURE GREATER WORKING [illegible] AND TO INCREASE THE NUMBER OF WORKERS."

BUCHAREST [illegible]7-(AP)- A JOURNALISTIC WAR OF WORDS, WITH ANGLO-AMERICAN DEMAND FOR PRESS FREEDOM IN ROMANIA POSSIBLY AT STAKE, RAGED IN BUCHAREST TODAY OVER AN INCIDENT INVOLVING YOUNG KING MIHAI.

THE FORMER OPPOSITION NEWSPAPER ARDEALUL, WHICH SUPPORTS DR. JULIU MANIU'S NATIONAL PEASANT PARTY, HAS BEEN SUSPENDED FOR 15 DAYS FOR AN ALLEGEDLY ANTI-SEMITIC ATTACK YESTERDAY ON A COMMUNIST PROVINCIAL NEWSPAPER WHICH IT ACCUSED OF INSULTING THE KING.

THE PROVINCIAL NEWS PAPER SAID ITS DESCRIPTION OF MIHAI AS A "DEGENERAT SOVEREIGN," WHICH BROUGHT ON THE ATTACK, HAD RESULTED FROM A TYPOGRAPHICAL ERROR, BUT THAT ARDEALUL HAD IGNORED A SUBSEQUENT CORRECTION NOTING THAT IT HAD MEANT TO USE A WORD MEANING "LITTLE LORD" OR "DANDIFIED LOAFER."

COMMUNIST AND OTHER GOVERNMENT-SUPPORTING BUCHAREST NEWS PAPERS SAID ARDEALUL'S "VENOMOUS" ATTACK CENTERED ON THE PROVINICAL NEWS PAPER'S JEWISH EDITOR.

A COMMUNIST SPOKESMAN SAID TODAY: "THE SO-CALLED DEMOCRATIC PARTIES IN THIS ARTICLE REVEALED THEIR CHAUVINISTIC, ANTI-SEMITIC, ANTI-SOVIET CHARACTER AND GAVE AN EXAMPLE OF HOW UNFETTERED FREEDOM OF PRESS WOULD BE USED IN ROMANIA."

NEW DELHI, JAN. 17-(AP)-SENATOR KNOWLAND (R-CALIF) QUESTIONED TODAY THE WISDOM OF AN AGREEMENT BETWEEN A UNITED STATES AGENCY AND THE INDIAN GOVERNMENT FOR DISPOSAL OF AMERICAN SURPLUSES IN THE INDIA-BURMA THEATER.

THE SENATOR SAID THE AGREEMENT, SIGNED DEC. 24, MIGHT SHUT OFF POSSIBLE TRANSFERS OF CRITICALLY NEEDED GOODS AND EQUIPMENT TO OTHER PARTS OF THE WORLD.

KNOWLAND, MEMBER OF THE MEAD SENTE SUB-COMMITTEE, POINTED TO THE NEED IN THE PHILIPPINES FOR MOTOR TRANSPORT.

HE BROUGHT OOUT FROM MAJ.GEN.DONALD H.CONNOLLY OF THE AGENCY DISPOSING OF SURPLUSES THAT THE DEAL WITH THE INDIAN GOVERNMENT PROVIDED THAT ANY MATERIAL, ONCE DECLARED SURPLUS, AUTOMATICALLY CAME UNDER THE SALE AGREEMENT.

CONNOLLY SAID THAT THE PRELIMINARY AGREEMENT LEFT THE PRICE AND METHOD OF PAYMENT FOR LATER SETTLEMENT. HE IS UNDERSTOOD TO BE WORKING ON LOOSE ENDS OF THE AGREEMENT NOW.

CONNOLLY CONTENDED THE DEAL WAS JUSTIFIED, ASSERTING IT WOULD SHORTEN THE AMERICAN MISSION IN THIS THEATER BY SIX MONTHS TO A YEAR.

THE QUESTION OF THE IMPORT DUTY ON SURPLUSES ALREADY SOLD PRIVATELY OR TO BE SOLD PRIVATELY, AS ALLOWED BY THE AGREEMENT, ALSO WAS AIRED.

BRIG.GEN.WILLIAM HASKETH TOLD KNOWLAND AND SEN.TUNNELL (D-DEL) THE OTHER MEMBER OF THE TWO-MAN COMMITTEE, THAT THE STATE DEPARTMENT IN WASHINGTON HAD DECIDED THAT THE UNITED STATES COULD ASK NO PREFERENTIAL TREATMENT. SHANGHAI,JAN 17 (AP)-ARGENTINA HAS OPENED DIPLOMATIC RELATIONS WITH CHINA FOR THE FIRST TIME AND HER AMBASSADOR IS A GENIAL 64-YEAR-OLD SURGEON AND FORMER CONGRESSMAN WHO ENVISIONS EXPANDING CULTURAL AND COM MERCIAL INTERCOURSE BETWEEN THE TWO COUNTRIES.

HE IS DR.JOSE ARCE, SMARTLY-DRESSED FORMER PROFESSOR OF MEDICINE AT THE UNIVERSITY OF BUENOS AIRES AND FOUR TIMES MEMBER OF THE ARGEN TINE LOWER HOUSE.

ARCE, WHO PRESENTED HIS CREDENTIALS TO GENERALISSIMO CHIANG KAI-SHEK LAST MONTH IN CHUNGKING, IS HERE WITH HIS WIFE AMELIA, A MILITARY ATTACHE, LT.COL.OCTAVIO SORIA AND A CIVILIAN ATTACHE, EDUARDO SQUIRRU.

CARLOS SANTILLAN WILL ARRIVE LATER TO BE ARGENTINE CONSUL GENERAL AT SHANGHAI.

THE ONLY OTHER LATIN AMERICAN COUNTRIES WITH DIPLOMATIC REPRESEN TATION IN CHINA ARE BRAZIL AND MEXICO, WHICH ESTABLISHED RELATIONS LONG AGO. ARGENTINA BEFORE THE WAR HAD AN AMBASSADOR IN JAPAN. FROM THAT COUNTRY SHE OBTAINED CONSIDERABLE LOW PRICE PRODUCTS.

SHE IS PRESENTLY EXPANDING HER DIPLOMATIC CORPS TO TAKE IN THIS VAST COUNTRY, WHICH ARCE DESCRIBES AS "A FIRST LINE NATION NOW."

THE NEW AMBASSADOR SAYS HIS JOB IS THAT OF PROMOTING FRIENDSHIP AND CULTURAL RELATIONS BUT HE IS NOT OVERLOOKING THE POSSIBILITY OF DEVELOPING MUTUALLY BENEFICIAL TRADE AGREEMENTS BETWEEN THE TWO NAT IONS.

"WE CAN PROVIDE CHINA WITH MANY THINGS SHE NEEDS--TINNED BEEF, WOOL, WHEAT, DISTILLED GOODS--AND WE CAN USE CHINA'S SILKS, JEWELRY, OTHER LUXURY ITEMS. WE EACH HAVE VAST MARKETS," HE SAID.

THIS IS THE FIRST TIME THE ARCES HAVE BEEN TO CHINA. THEY PLAN TO LIVE IN SHANGHAI AND ESTABLISH AN OFFICE IN NANKING WHEN THE CHINESE GOVERNMENT MOVES THERE THIS SPRING.

TOKYO, FRIDAY, JAN.18-(AP)-THE NEWSPAPER ASAHI TODAY REPORTED THAT AN ALLIED HEADQUARTERS SPOKESMAN HAD INFORMED THE JAPANESE PRESS THAT OCCUPATION AUTHORITIES NEITHER SUPPORTED NOR OPPOSED ANY POLITICAL PARTY OR FACTION.

A JAPANESE NEWWSMAN AT THE CONFERENCE HAD REMARKED: "IT SEEMS THAT THE POLICY OF HEADQUARTERS IS TO OPPOSE READY-MADE PARTIES AND TO SUPPORT THE COMMUNIST PARTY."

ASAHI QUOTED THE SPOKESMAN AS REPLYING THAT IT WAS MERELY A COINCIDENCE THAT THE RECENT ALLIED PURGE AFFECTED PRIMARILY THE CONSERVATIVE PARTIES, WHILE AFFECTING ONLY THREE OR FOUR SO-CALLED LIBERALS AND PROBABLY NO SOCIAL DEMOCRATS OR COMMUNISTS.

"THE JAPANESE PEOPLE HAVE BEEN GIVEN FREEDOM BY ALLIED HEADQUARTERS TO CHOOSE THEIR OWN POLITICAL PARTIES AND LEADERS," THE SPOKESMAN WAS QUOTED. "THE ONLY REQUIREMENTS ARE THAT THESE PARTIES BE DEMOCRATIC."

UNO Delegates Worried By Iranian-Soviet Issue

UNO VETO POWER SHARPLY ASSAILED

New Zealand Attacks Council Privilege—Russia Gets Warning.

LONDON, Jan. 18 — (AP) New Zealand sharply assailed the veto voting privilege in the United Nations Security Council tonight shortly after Russia had warned against any effort to cut down on the authority of the principal powers in the new security league.

Addressing the general assembly, Prime Minister Peter Fraser of New Zealand also differed with the Big Three on the proposed atomic energy commission. He held it should report to the 51-nation assembly rather than to the 11-nation security council as decided by the Russian, United States and British foreign ministers at Moscow last month.

Simultaneously, the Iran delegation held a long meeting to discuss the best way of presenting its complaints against Russia to the United Nations. Nasrullah Entezam, a delegate, said the Iran appeal was being drafted. He said it "might possibly" be submitted to the security council tomorrow but more likely would be postponed until Monday.

Kuzma V. Kiselev of Soviet White Russia, opening the first night assembly session, specifically mentioned Franco Spain and asked the assembly to urge those "states not members of the organization" to expel war criminals "to the countries in which they committed their crimes." Spain is not a member of the UNO.

Kiselev said the White Russian delegation proposed to discuss the question of surrender and punishment of German war criminals "with a view to taking such decisions as may enable us to hasten their punishment." His delegation, he added, would raise the question at this session of the assembly.

Mandates Offered

Australian Delegate J. N. O. Makin said his country was ready to place her mandated territory in New Guinea under UNO trusteeship. Australia, he said, will carry out a similar intention in regard to territory in Nauru.

"Both the United Kingdom and the New Zealand government, with whom Australia shares its mandate (Nauru) concur in this course of action," he added.

Another speaker, Belgian delegate M. F. Van Langehove, announced Belgium's willingness to place its mandated Ruanda-Urundi territory under international trust.

He pleaded also for a "concentrated attack" by the United Nations "at once" on present economic and financial problems of world money and credit, agriculture, trade and employment.

Fraser declared that the veto voting privilege in the security council was "so bad that it will not conceivably be used except as a last desperate throw of one of the large powers laboring under a sense of guilt."

The prime minister's criticism of the veto was the most direct yet made, but he said he would not fight the issue at this time because "the urgent job now is to proceed fast and as efficiently as possible" with setting up the new peace agency.

The New Zealander said use of the veto "would be such a shock to the nations as to endanger the whole structure of the United Nations organization."

Each of the five permanent members of the Security Council—the United States, Britain, Russia, France and China—has the veto power to block any specific action it opposes.

Andrei Gromyko, acting chief of the Soviet delegation and Ambassador to the United States, only a few hours before had stated a different position in the first major speech by a Russian at this Assembly.

Besides warning against diminishing the authority of the big powers in the UNO, Gromyko made it clear that Russia was fully behind the Moscow decision to put the proposed atomic-energy commission under the Security Council.

'This Vast Problem'

He said it was "entirely in accordance with the role and place of this most important organ of the United Nations."

Fraser, in declaring that this commission should be under direction of the General Assembly, openly voiced the view privately expressed among some small nation delegates.

"This seems to us," Fraser said, "to be particularly important at the present exploratory stage, when the first task, even before making any recommendations, will be to define the many complex issues involved in this vast problem."

At no point did Gromyko refer to the political situation in Iran or to the expressed intention of the Iran Government to ask the Security Council to intervene in the Iran-Russian dispute over the self-government movement in Soviet-occupied northern Iran.

An Iranian delegate conferred today with the executive secretary of the United Nations on "technical arrangements" for possibly carrying the dispute to the council.

Gromyko defended the big nations' position in the UNO with the statement that "all nations, big and small, are interested in securing a stable peace and in preventing a repetition of new aggression. In this their interests completely coincide."

"Endeavors to counterpoise the big states with the small ones," he said, "cannot be regarded with sympathy in the United Nations Organization, for this organization is a body to protect all peace-loving states, big and small."

He told the Assembly the future peace of the world depends upon the unity of the great powers and said that a revival of the League of Nations methods "would cause nothing but harm to the United Nations Organization."

Small Nation Takes First Concrete Step to Place Complaint Before Assembly—Action Held Danger to Harmony at Present Time

London, Jan. 10—(AP)—The Iranian delegation to the United Nations General Assembly today took the first concrete steps to bring the explosive Iranian-Russian dispute before the World Security Council as Soviet delegates maintained complete silence on the issue.

Andrei Gromyko, acting chief of the Soviet delegation, making the first major Russian speech before the assembly, ignored the Iranian question, which was causing serious concern among United Nations leaders.

Shortly before Gromyko took the floor Seyed Hassan Taquizadeh, chief of the Iranian delegation, conferred with the executive secretary of the Assembly on what Taquizadeh called "technical arrangements" for placing Iran's complaints before the Security Council.

Some of the Iranian leader's associates had indicated earlier that the case might be filed today or tomorrow, but they said they were uncertain over where and how to file it. Presumably this was the question taken up with Secretary Gladwyn Jebb by Taquizadeh.

The Iranian diplomat said only that "technical arrangements" were discussed.

Soviets Urge Unity

Gromyko, meanwhile, told the Assembly that the future peace of the world depends upon the unity of the big powers and warned against any efforts to cut down their authority by revising the charter of the UNO.

He also strongly supported big-power plans to give the Security Council control of atomic energy problems.

Defending the big nations' position in the UNO, Gromyko said "all nations, big and small, are interested in securing a stable peace and in preventing a repetition of new aggression. In this their interests completely coincide."

"Endeavors to counterpose the big states with the small ones," he continued, "cannot be regarded with sympathy in the United Nations Organization, for this organization is a body to protect all peace-loving states, big and small."

Meanwhile, numerous UNO officials, including those of the United States and Great Britain, privately expressed concern over the Iranian question and said that the untried and only partially completed machinery of the peace organization might be badly strained in trying to cope with such a dispute at the very outset of it existence.

Make Rapid Progress

The assembly moved rapidly through its fifth day of general debate, but at midday so many delegations remained to speak that there was the possibility a night session would be held to finish the agenda.

Yugoslavia's deputy prime minister, Edward Kardelj, led off the speech-making, preceding Gromyko, with an assertion that "we must give the big powers rights and responsibilities in the new organization." He opposed any changes in the charter to limit their powers.

At another point, evidently referring to Yugoslav-Italian frontier disputes, Kardlj said "Yugoslavia wants to draw the attention of the United Nations Assembly to the fact that our ethical lines were pushed back eastward by the Fascist aggressors—this must be solved."

The 11-nation Security Council, holding its first meeting yesterday, adjourned after running into the problem of nominating a secretary-general for the UNO. The name of General Eisenhower continued to figure largely in the speculation over this key post.

Should Iran press her case at this stage, while the council is still in the process of organization, several possible results were foreseen by some United Nations leaders:

1. If the council were finally compelled to make a decision strongly critical of Russia, unity among the Big Three nations—Russia, the United States and Great Britain—might be upset at the very beginning of their efforts to work together in the interests of peace.

2. If the council ruled against Iran, the faith of the small nations in the organization's ability to protect their interests against conflicting policies of the great powers might be shaken.

3. If the council stalled along and arrived at no decision for an unreasonably long time, it would almost certainly lose prestige at a time when it should be growing in stature throughout the wrold.

U. S. Seeks Settlement

Both the United States and Britain have tried during the past months to bring the Iranians and the Russians together for a friendly settlement without invloving the United Nations. Officials of both western countries said today, however, that they could not intervene now in any last-minute attempts to persuade the Iranians not to appeal to the Security Council.

The basis of the Iranian case, according to informal statements of Iranian delegates, is that the Red Army in Northern Iran prevented Tehran from putting down a revolt in Azerbaijan Province, which they contend is a violation of Iran's sovereignty.

The situation was further complicated by charges of Iranian Premier Ibrahim Hakimi earlier this week that Russian was "hestitating" about evacuating her troops from Iranian soil by the scheduled date of March 2.

BIG-3 RESUMES DISCUSSIONS ON PEACE TREATIES

LONDON, Jan. 18—(AP) Discussions on five European peace treaties were resumed here tonight shortly after Secretary of State James F. Byrnes announced he had assured France that the Big Three—the United States, Britain and Russia—would give "fullest consideration" to proposals of the smaller European nations in drawing up the treaties.

The deputy foreign ministers of the United States, Britain, France and Russia renewed discussions of the five pacts—with Italy, Romania, Bulgaria, Hungary and Finland. France will share fully in writing the peace treaty with Italy, but not in the others.

Subject To Ratification

Byrnes made public on behalf of the Big Three the reply to questions raised by France concerning the treaty-drafting procedure.

The three great powers had decided at Moscow in December that, in effect, they would write the treaties for Italy, Romania, Bulgaria, Hungary and Finland.

The treaties would then be submitted to the conference of 21 former belligerents at Paris in May, and then be put into final form by the big powers for ratification by all the states.

But the French objected in a note January 3 that the peace conference "would have no powers of its own and the execution of the recommendations which the conference may make would be decided upon later by the states intrusted with the task of preparing the treaties."

"The French Government would wish to be assured that, as they believe, this literal interpretation does not correspond to the spirit in which the plan has been worked out," the note said.

Byrnes replied that the French "may rest assured that as broad and thorough a discussion as possible shall take place at the forthcoming conference and that the final drafts of the treaties will be made only after the fullest consideration has been given to the recommendations of the conference."

Final Say Seen For Big Powers

"We have no doubt that no final treaty would be concluded which arbitrarily rejected the recommendations of the conference," he said.

It was implied in the Byrnes letter, however, that the big powers would have the final say on the peace treaties. The only treaty for which France will share full responsibility will be that of Italy.

Otherwise, France will take part only in the conference discussions of the other proposed pacts.

The peace-treaty discussions by the Deputy Foreign Ministers had been delayed pending the interchange of notes between France and the Big Three. The French Cabinet agreed yesterday to a Big-Three proposal that the peace conference be held in Paris.

BIG THREE GIVE ASSURANCES ON PEACE TREATIES

Byrnes Says Small Powers May Make Proposals on European Pacts.

London, Jan. 18 (A. P.).—Secretary of State Byrnes today announced assurances given by the United States, Russia and Great Britain that proposals of the smaller European nations would receive the fullest consideration by the great Powers in drafting the European peace treaties.

Byrnes released the text of an exchange between the American and French governments. His answer was on behalf of the three great Powers which agreed at Moscow several weeks ago that, in effect, the United States, Russia and Britain would write the treaties for Italy, Romania, Bulgaria, Hungary and Finland.

The treaties are first to be drafted by the Powers and the to be submitted to a peace cor ference of twenty-one former belligerents at Paris in May and, after that, to be put into final form by the big Powers for ratification by all the States.

Byrnes made it clear that the final say on the peace treaties would rest entirely with the big Powers.

Foreign Minister Georges Bidault of France, in a letter to United States Ambassador Jefferson Caffery on January 3, raised this main question: "The conference would have no powers of its own, and the execution of the recommendations which the conference may make would be decided upon later by the States intrusted with the task of preparing the treaties. The French Government would wish to be assured that, as they believe, this literal interpretation does not correspond to the spirit in which the plan has been worked out."

In a lengthy reply Byrnes declared: "The French Government may rest assured that as broad and thorough a discussion as possible shall take place at the forthcoming conference and that the final drafts of the treaties will be made only after the fullest consideration has been given to the recommendations of the conference. We have no doubt that no final treaty would be concluded which arbitrarily rejected the recommendations of the conference."

The only treaty for which France will share full responsibility will be that with Italy. Otherwise, France will participate only in the conference discussions of the other proposed pacts.

logical development of the idea expressed in the declaration of the four powers adopted at the Moscow Conference of Foreign Ministers in October, 1943, which stated the necessity for creating an international organization to maintain peace and security.

Important stages in bringing this declaration into effect, as it is known, were: The conference in Dumbarton Oaks, the Crimea Conference of the heads of the three powers, the conference in San Francisco and, finally, the work of the executive committee and the preparatory commission which worked out the recommendations.

Completing an important stage in creating the international organization the present session is, at the same time, the start of the putting into effect of the principals of the Charter of the organization adopted at the conference in San Francisco. Eight months after the unconditional surrender of the German aggressor, the United Nations are in a position to take practical steps to carry out the provisions of the Charter in order to provide for mankind peace and security.

Credits Three Statesmen

As it is known, the initiators of creating the United Nations Organization are the three outstanding statesmen of our time—Generalissimo Stalin, the late President Roosevelt and Mr. Churchill. The idea of the creation of such organization is the expression of the aspirations of the peace-loving peoples to prevent the repetition of a tragedy similar to that which humanity has just endured. This is the explanation why the idea pronounced in the Moscow Declaration has met with whole-hearted support of all the United Nations.

After the Moscow conference of 1943 and the conference in Dumbarton Oaks all the United Nations have participated in the creation of the organization. All subsequent work has been carried out in an atmosphere of cooperation between the democratic nations, big and small. In spite of the difficulties which accompanied the drawing up of the Charter of the organization at the conference in San Francisco, the conference, having created the Charter of the organization, has on the whole coped with a serious task of great historic significance.

The Soviet delegation more than once emphasized at the conference in San Francisco the fact that the success of the new organization would directly depend on how the experience of cooperation of the democratic countries during the war would be taken into account and to what degree in the future true collaboration of all member nations would take place. I mean true cooperation aimed at bringing into effect the principles and attaining the aims of the Charter. Without this the United Nations organization cannot realize the hopes placed upon it by the freedom-loving peoples of the world.

Generalissimo Stalin in his well-known speech of Nov. 6, 1944, said:

"It will be a new, special, fully authorized international organization having at its command everything necessary to defend peace and prevent new aggression. Can we expect the actions of this world organization to be sufficiently effective? They will be effective if the great powers which hase borne on their shoulders the main burden of the war against Hitlerite Germany continue to act in a spirit of unanimity and accord. They will not be effective if this essential condition is violated."

Nations' Interests "Coincide"

All the nations, big and small, are interested in security, stable peace and in preventing a repetition of new aggression. In this their interests completely coincide. The endeavors to counterpose big states with small ones cannot be regarded with sympathy in the United Nations Organization, for this organization is the body to protect all the peace-loving states, big and small. This organization is designed to protect the interests of the big and small states against aggression. The counterposing of the big countries with the small ones has nothing in common with the principles of the United Nations Organization, which has been created in the interests of the struggle against aggressive states and their allies, and which united the big and small peace-loving countries in order to fight for peace and international security.

Now the organ has already been established on which devolves the most important task of maintaining peace—that is, the Security Council, which has the possibility to arrest at the very inception any attempt by aggressors to imperil again the peace, tranquil labor and freedom of the peoples. Thus the most important provisions of the Charter have already found their practical application. The Soviet delegation, as well as other delegations, taking part in the present session, expresses the hope that the activities of the Security Council will, from the very beginning, be fruitful and effective and will be aimed at the realization of the main objects and tasks of the organization.

No doubt we all have noticed how the role of the Security Council in the maintenance of peace has been emphasized by the last Moscow conference of the Foreign Ministers of the three powers.

As it is known, this conference has, among other important questions, discussed the problem of using atomic energy for the purposes of international peace. In the terms of reference, adopted by the conference, of a commission on atomic energy which, I suppose, will be set up by the General Assembly, it is stated that the commission will function in accordance with directives and instructions of the Security Council. This is entirely in accordance with the role and place of this most important organ of the United Nations.

Warns on Changing Charter

In this connection the Soviet delegation wishes to draw the attention of the General Assembly to the fact that already now, when the organization is just being born, voices are being heard from somewhere stating as if its Charter had already become obsolete and needs revision. Such allegations must be decisively rejected by all those who, not merely by words but by action, are trying to build up strong and effective machinery for the maintenance of security. Such allegations are dangerous, and under certain conditions may lead to serious consequences. The observance of the Charter of the organization and its enforcement, not in word but in deed, is an indispensable condition for the successful and fruitful activities of all organs of the United Nations.

I would like to draw your attention to the fact that the first session of the General Assembly is a test of its kind, showing how smoothly and effectively the new international machinery, created by the United Nations, is beginning its work. In a sense the first session of the General Assembly will be a precedent for the subsequent activities of this important organ.

That is why the Soviet delegation would like to sense at this session a sound and creative atmosphere capable of securing the attainment of positive results.

The United Nations Organization must differ from the League of Nations not only in the sense that it must be an effective instrument capable of defending the interests of peaceful life of the peoples, but also it must be a new body in the sense that in it there should prevail a sound atmosphere and new methods of collective work. The revival of the methods applied in the League of Nations would cause nothing but harm to the United Nations Organization. The Soviet delegation considers that this observation is quite relevant and useful at this session.

I have already pointed out that the observance of the Charter is an obligatory and fundamental condition for the fruitful activities of the organization. It is, however, necessary to point out that some provisions of the Charter, which must be carried out, are not yet being put into effect. In this connection, I would like to draw your attention only to those provisions of the Charter which have not yet found their practical realization. I mean the chapters relating to non-self-governing territories.

For a Trusteeship System

Among the provisions of the Charter there are those concerning the establishment of a trusteeship system for the territories which have not yet been given independence. The trusteeship system, as it is provided for by the Charter, is an instrument designed to accelerate the giving of the status of national and state independence to all such peoples. That is why the speediest carrying out of the principles of trusteeship declared in the Charter is one of the most important obligations of the member states of the United Nations which must take practical steps in the direction of the realization of these supreme principles of the Charter.

Among the three categories of territories defined in the Charter there is a category with regard to which there may be taken steps concerning this question without further delay. The preparatory commission has made considerable progress, having adopted a special resolution inviting certain members of the United Nations to accelerate the progress of changing one of the categories of these territories into trust territories. The word and—what is even more important—actions are now with those powers to which the recommendation of the preparatory commission I mentioned above refers first of all.

The organization of the United Nations was born as a result of bloody battles against fascism. Now German fascism and Japanese militarism have been defeated.

Thus there have been removed two sources of aggression which for many years kept the whole world in a state of fear and alarm and which plunged humanity into the most bloody war. It would, however, be a mistake to consider that military victory over fascism removes the necessity for the further persistent struggle for the eradication and complete liquidation of the nidi [nests] of fascism which still remain. This fight for the eradication of the remnants of fascism cannot be separated from the work of our organization.

Allow me to express the hope that the work of the session will be a success. The Soviet delegation on its part will do everything possible to make the session a success.

Soviet Delegate's Assembly Speech in UNO

LONDON, Jan. 18 (AP)—The text of the speech of Ambassador Andrei A. Gromyko, acting chief of the Soviet delegation, before the United Nations General Assembly follows:

The first session of the General Assembly is an important stage in the course of the struggle of the freedom-loving nations for peace and security. It is the

Court Martial Hears Lichfield Camp Slogan

'Shoot a Prisoner and Be Made a Sergeant'

LONDON, Jan. 18 (AP).—"Shoot a prisoner and be made a sergeant" was a common slogan among guards at the United States Army's Lichfield Replacement Depot, Lieutenant Granville Cubage, of Oklahoma City, testified today during the court-martial of ten guards and two officers charged with brutality.

Lieutenant Cubage, who testified during the trial of Sergeant Judson H. Smith, of Cumberland, Ky., first of the group to be tried for mistreatment of prisoners, said he knew shots had been fired in the direction of the prisoners because there were twenty bullet holes in the windows.

Earlier today Lieutenant Cubage testified that Colonel James A. Kilian, former commandant at the depot, was aware that prisoners detained there were exercised for protracted periods and forced to stand with their noses and toes to a wall. Colonel Kilian, whose home is in Highland Park, Ill., is not a defendant.

British Cotton Export Controls To Be Lifted

London, Jan. 18 (AP)—The British Cotton Board announced tonight that for the first time since the start of the war exporters will soon be allowed to send cotton piece goods abroad free from allocation restrictions.

No date has yet been set for the start of the "open-exports scheme," and it was emphasized that the increased tonnage allotted by the Board of Trade for export was not very large because basic market allocations must be met first by producers.

However, a member of the Cotton Board said that markets in the United States, Latin America, Sweden, Portugal and elsewhere would be served with a greater measure of freedom.

U.S.S. Augusta Ready For Trip Home Feb. 1

Portsmouth, England, Jan. 18 (A. P.).—The United States cruiser Augusta, which put into the Portsmouth dockyard December 20 after being damaged in an Atlantic gale, will be ready to sail home about February 1. The ship's forward plates were badly buckled and her hull was leaking.

FRENCH ASSEMBLY GIVEN DE GAULLE UTILITIES PLAN

PARIS, Jan. 18.—(AP) The De Gaulle government presented to the Constituent Assembly today a vast program for nationalizing France's electricity and gas industries capitalized at 20,000,000,000 francs (about $167,000,000).

The proposed law, one of the planks in De Gaulle's reform program, follows the nationalization of five major French banks by the assembly last month.

Industrial Production Minister Marcel Paul, a Communist, told a news conference that the proposed law, applicable "to all enterprises whose principal activity is production, transportation and distribution of electricity or gas," covered 2,400 plants. Many, he said, are small businesses.

Cost Estimated

Paul estimated that the cost to the government in reimbursing the stockholders would be approximately 200,000,000,000 francs ($1,679,200,000) in the next six years for the electrical plants alone.

Paul said the shareholders of the nationalized plants would be compensated with bonds at three per cent interest amortizable in 50 years. The value of the shares would be determined on an average stock market quotation between September, 1944, and August, 1945.

He estimated the value of foreign investments in the plants at approximately 1,700,000,000 francs (about $14,000,000). He said the procedure for reimbursing foreign stockholders had not yet been established.

Production of electric energy would be placed in the hands of six regional companies, which "would become owners of the most important plants of French production, corresponding to more than 55 per cent of the total productive capacity of the country," he added.

German Home-Coming

First of 2,250,000 From Czechoslovakia Due in U. S. Zone Next Week

BERLIN, Jan. 18 (AP).—The first contingent of 2,250,000 Germans being repatriated from Czechoslovakia and Hungary to the American occupation zone will arrive in the zone by train next week, the United States Office of Military Government announced today.

This is part of a resettlement plan adopted by the Allied Control Council for distributing 6,500,000 Germans from eastern Europe into the four occupation zones. The movement is expected to continue through July.

SAUCKEL PLANNED SLAVE SYSTEM, FRENCH CHARGE

NUERNBERG, Jan. 18—(AP) Fritz Sauckel, bull-necked boss of millions of Nazi slave laborers, planned to hold them in a system of "perpetual exploitation" in Germany after the war, French prosecutors charged at the war crimes trial today.

The French asserted also that the Nazi overlords deliberately sent both civilian slave workers and prisoners of war to toil in danger areas in violation of international law, and in some instances against the advice of sections of the German government.

As for Sauckel's plan for keeping slave labor in the Reich, the prosecution quoted a speech in which Sauckel asserted that "a great percentage of the foreign workers will remain, even after victory, on our territory to complete what the war has prevented us from finishing."

Assistant French Prosecutor Jacques Bernard Herzog, in a detailed indictment of German labor policies, directed the main force of his charges against the defendant Sauckel, but linked Nazi munitions Minister Albert Speer, Field Marshal Wilhelm Keitel, Col. Gen. Gustav Jodl, Arthur Seyss-Inquart, Walter Funk and Hermann Goering, also defendants, with the application of Sauckel's policies.

Herzog presented a transcript of the questioning of German Gen. Baron Alexander Von Falkenhausen to show that Sauckel forced a compulsory labor plan on France and Belgium over the protests of the German military commander.

Von Falkenhausen told French questioners Nov. 27, 1945, that as commander in chief in Northern France and Belgium in 1942 he had a long dispute with Sauckel and consented to issue an ordinance on compulsory labor only when forced to by a written order. The general eventually was forced to resign.

Herzog asserted the compulsory labor policy was used "with the conscious desire to weaken the human potential of occupied countries.

Recalcitrant individuals were singled out for "extermination treatment," which meant they were forced to labor long hours with scant nourishment until their health was broken, Herzog added.

NAZIS PLANNED TO KEEP SLAVES

Sauckel Quoted on Use of Labor After War.

Nuernberg, Jan. 18 (A. P.).—Fritz Sauckel, chunky czar of Nazi slave labor, imposed compulsory labor enrollment in France and Belgium over the protests of the German military commander and planned to keep slave workers in the Reich in a program of "perpetual exploitation," French war crimes prosecutor charged today.

Sauckel's personal responsibility in forcing the compulsory labor plan on the western territories was detailed to the International Military Tribunal in the transcript of an interrogation of Nazi Gen. Baron Alexander von Falkenhausen.

Von Falkenhausen told French questioners on November 27, 1945, that as Commander in Chief in France and Belgium in 1942 he had a "long dispute" with Sauckel and consented to issue the ordinance on compulsory labor only when forced to do so by written order. The dispute eventually forced the General to resign.

Also presented to the court was a copy of a speech in which Sauckel declared:

"The great percentage of foreign workers will remain even after victory in our territory to complete what war has prevented them from finishing."

Tried to Weaken Enemy.

Taking up specific details of the French case, Assistant Prosecutor Jacques Bernard Herzog told the tribunal that slave labor had been herded into Germany not only to bolster the Nazis' industrial production but also with "the conscious desire to weaken the human potential of the occupied countries."

"The idea of extermination by work was familiar to the theorists of National Socialism and to the leaders of Germany," Herzog said.

He also produced a copy of a speech made to gualeiters at Posen in February, 1943, in which Sauckel announced that 3,000,000 foreign laborers had been impressed for the Nazi war machine between April and December, 1942.

Francis de Menthon was relieved today, at his own request, as chief French prosecutor and was succeeded by Auguste de Champetier de Ribes, former Under-Secretary of the French Foreign Office. French officials said De Menthon was returning to Paris because of his duties in connection with the Consultative Assembly.

HITLER, EVA BRAUN OWE MUNICH FOR LIGHTING

FRANKFURT, Jan. 18. — (AP) Adolf Hitler and Eva Braun still owe the city of Munich 1,000 marks in unpaid electric light bills, the American-sponsored Dana News Agency reported today.

The news agency cited a Munich city treasury report which said Hitler owned 600 marks and Eva owed 400, but that the bills were uncollectable since both appear to

Effect Over Draft

Frankfurt, Jan. 18 (AP)—Brig. Gen. George S. Eyster, redeployment chief in the European theater, said today that discontinuance of the selective-service draft would not affect this theater's new redeployment program.

94TH DIVISION UNIT SAILS FROM LE HAVRE

FRANKFURT, Germany, Jan. 18.—(AP) The advance echelon of the U. S. 94th Division sailed today from Le Havre for the United States aboard the SS Thomas Barry, Army headquarters announced.

The 405th Field Artillery group also was aboard.

Between Jan. 10-16, a total of 5,264 troops sailed from Antwerp.

The Second Armored Division was at Marseille for early sailing along with the rear echelon of the 100th Division, most of which is at sea.

Also at sea were the Second, 42nd, 51st and 60th Field Hospitals, the Ninth and 196th General Hospitals! the 80th and 84th Infantry Divisions; the 453rd Antiaircraft battalion; the 244th Engineer Combat Battalion; and the 602nd Antiaircraft Artillery Battalion.

Harmon Named Head Of U.S. Security Force

Bad Toelz, Germany, Jan. 18 (AP). Maj. Gen. Ernest Harmon, Vienna, Va., was designated today to head the United States Army's elite constabulary charged with policing the American zone of occupation.

Gen. Joseph T. McNarney, United States commander in Europe, named Harmon to command the 38,000 hand-picked volunteers who will comprise the striking power of two full armored divisions. Harmon's headquarters will be in Bad Toelz.

Some units of the security force already are in operation, drawn from mechanized outfits which spearheaded the 3d Army's wartime drives. Others will come from a training academy now being set up at Sonthofen.

The constabulary members will wear distinctive uniforms and a special new shoulder patch.

Harmon, "Old Gravel Voice" to his men, has been in command of the 22d Corps with headquarters at Pilzen, Czechoslovakia. Formerly he headed the 2d Armored Division. He is a native of Vermont.

$7,000,000 Golden Horn Fire

Istanbul, Turkey, Jan. 16 [(AP) Delayed]—Fire of uncertain origin swept government warehouses in the Golden Horn last night and caused damage estimated at nearly $7,000,000. Much of the goods lost were recently arrived American products.

Little Fuehrer Sentenced to Hang

Budapest, Jan. 18 (A. P.).—Ferenc Basch, Fuehrer of the Hungarian Swabian minority, was sentenced today to be hanged. He was president of the German Volksbund which negotiated an agreement between Germany and Hungary entitling the Nazi SS to recruit Swabian and Hungarian volunteers for the German Army.

TO EJECT HAPSBURGS

Vienna, Jan. 18 (A. P.).—The Ministry of Interior said today that two members of the Hapsburg family which once ruled Austria entered the country Tuesday and that necessary measures were being taken to eject them. The Hapsburgs named were Karl Ludwig and Rudolf, who entered the French occupation zone of Austria and took quarters at the Kreid Hotel in Onnsbruck, the Interior Ministry said.

Yesterday the Ministry denied that Otto Hapsburg, claimant to the defunct Austrian throne, and his brother Robert were on Austrian soil. The Ministry said that a monarchist organization known as the National League of Austrians, which had distributed monarchist leaflets in the Tyrol, had been liquidated.

910 JEWS CAUGHT ON SHIP OFF HAIFA

Haifa, Jan. 18 (A. P.).—A 500-ton motor vessel carrying 910 Jews, who were attempting to slip by the immigration authorities into Palestine, was intercepted by a British plane and warship yesterday.

A strong guard of British troops landed 181 of the illegal immigrants today and placed them in the Atlith clearance camp. Army, police and Jewish agency representatives conferred last night on the problem of what to do with the refugees.

The ship, the Enzio Sereni, named after an Italian-born Jewish labor leader, who was executed by the Germans, flew the blue and white Zionist flag. It was halted forty miles outside of Palestine waters, and a boarding party took charge of her. She was reported to have sailed from an Italian port twelve days ago. The refugees, hailing from all parts of Europe, included 366 women. The captain, identified as a Romanian, and the crew have been arrested.

2 Jews Killed In Eritrea

Cairo, Jan. 18 (A.P.)—Two Jews were killed and twelve were wounded in a disturbance at a Jewish detention camp in Eritrea yesterday, British headquarters said today. An inquiry was in progress. Details were lacking.

LEBANESE EXPEL FOX FILM MANAGER

Beyrouth, Jan. 18 (A. P.).—Public security officials of Lebanon announced that they had expelled Albert Leonard, a representative of Twentieth Century Fox films and Jean Gallant, director of a traveling company.

Details cannot be cabled because of censorship.

Javanese Call For Van Mook As Negotiator

Netherlands Deputies Vote to Send Commission to Indies for Investigation

BATAVIA, Java, Jan. 18 (AP).—The Indonesian government, through its Premier, Sutan Sjahrir, expressed today a preference for dealing with acting Governor-General Hubertus Van Mook in negotiations with the Dutch, and a high British official said that almost no other Dutchman is qualified to handle the situation.

Sjahrir's comment was made in a statement issued after the Netherlands Chamber of Deputies voted yesterday to send a commission to the Netherlands Indies to investigate Van Mook's negotiations with the Nationalists. Van Mook is en route back to Batavia with his government's latest proposals.

Dutch sources here who oppose Van Mook as "over-liberal" expressed satisfaction with the Parliamentary move. The Netherlands chamber voted 49 to 30 to send a fact-finding body to the Indies, in support of assertions that the government does not possess sufficient facts on which to base an opinion of Van Mook's conduct.

Sjahrir declared: "If Holland questions Van Mook's abilities, he is likely to resign, and a change is likely to throw the whole Indonesian problem into confusion. No other man is as acceptable."

[An Aneta (Dutch news agency) dispatch from Amsterdam said a nation-wide campaign is being organized in support of the government's policy on Idonesia as represented by Van Mook. The slogan for the campaign will be, "No war or people against people, but voluntary co-operation," the dispatch added.]

The British announced that Indonesians living just north of Bandoeng are leaving the area, apparently to make way for forces of the extremeist youth organization Pemoeda to move in.

The Aneta news agency reported that Lieutenant General Moritake Tanabe, commander of the Japanese 25th Army in Sumatra, handed over his sword this morning to British Major General H. M. Chambers, commander of Allied Land Forces in Sumatra, in a token surrender of all the Japanese there.

INDONESIAN REGIME PREFERS VAN MOOK

Batavia, Jan. 18 (A. P.).—Premier Sutan Sjahrir said today that his unrecognized Indonesian National Government preferred to deal through the acting Governor-General, Hubertus J. Van Mook, in its negotiations with the Dutch. Van Mook recently was criticized by the right wing faction of the Dutch lower chamber of Parliament as not the proper man to negotiate with the Indonesians. Van Mook is now en route from the Netherlands to Batavia bearing his Government's latest proposals for the solution of the Indonesian problem.

In the event that Van Mook resigns, an informed Dutch source said, it is probable that Charles O. Van der Plas, senior representative of the Netherlands Government, would be the most acceptable to the Indonesians as a negotiator. The informant also suggested that the former Governor-General, A. W. L. Tjarda Van Starkenborgh Stachouwer, or even Van Starkenborgh's American-born wife, the former Christine Marburg of Baltimore, Md., might take over the negotiations.

The official Dutch news agency Aneta reported that Lieut.-Gen. Moritake Tanabe, commander of the Japanese Twenty-fifth Army on Sumatra, handed over his sword this morning to British Major-Gen. H. M. Chambers, commander of Allied land forces in Sumatra, in token surrender of all Japanese in Sumatra.

Chinese Navy Gets Ships From U. S. And Britain

Chungking, Jan. 18—(AP)—Chinese authorities in Nanking announced today that 21 warships were being turned over to China by the United States and Great Britain—eight by the former.

The announcement said the warships included a 7,000-ton cruiser and two submarines. (The dispatch gave no details as to size or classification of U. S. ships involved.)

With the assistance of the U. S. Navy, the announcement said, the Chinese will train 500 officers and 3,000 men in the next 15 months at the North China port of Tsingtao.

Chinese authorities also expect to complete by the end of this month the taking over of Japanese warships in Chna waters. Most of these ships are obsolete and in need of repair.

7TH SEIZED IN DEATH OF DOOLITTLE FLIERS

SHANGHAI, Jan. 18—(AP)—An American prosecutor today reported the arrest of the seventh and final important Japanese suspect in the execution of three Doolittle fliers and asserted that the evidence was so conclusive that their trial might require less than a week.

"It should not take long to try these Japs," said Lieut. Col. John H. Hendren Jr. of Kansas City, who brought some of the defendants from Tokyo and who tentatively is scheduled as one of their prosecutors.

"We believe we have open-and-shut cases against every one of them. We have eyewitnesses who can testify about everything the Japs did to these men from the time they crashed on the China coast, April 18, 1942, after the Tokyo raid."

The seven Japanese suspects are two lieutenant generals, a colonel whose arrest by the British in Java was reported only today, a major, two captains and a lieutenant.

All are charged with complicity in the execution of three of the fliers who bombed Tokyo in Lieut. Gen. James H. Doolittle's famous raid.

The victims, shot to death as they were forced to kneel with their hands tied behind them were Lieut. Dean E. Hallmark of Dallas, Texas; Lieut. William G. Farrow of Darlington, S. C., and Sgt. Harold A. Spatz of Leopold, Kan.

Five others sentenced to death were spared on orders reported to have come from Emperor Hirohito.

One of these, Capt. Chase J. Nielsen of Hiram, Utah, 29-year-old navigator of Hallmark's plane, will testify at the trial.

War crimes officers have been unable to find members of the six-man firing squad because records were burned by the Japanese in August.

ARMY HOLDS JAPS FOR EXECUTION OF DOOLITTLE FLIERS

Shanghai, Jan. 18—(AP)—Several key Japanese accused of complicity in a mock court-martial and execution of three of Gen. James A. Doolittle's Tokyo raiders have been rounded up and will face war crimes trials here, the Army reported today.

The trials may begin before the end of January.

Capt. Tatsuta Sotojiro, who commanded the Japanese squad accused of executing the fliers in October, 1942, in bleak Shanghai cemetery, was apprehended on Tkyo and brought here by Lt. Col. John H. Hendren Jr., Kansas City, and Capt. Robert T. Dwyer, Rochester, N. Y. Hendren and Dwyer probably will be designated prosecutors.

Others in custody in Tokyo will be brought here shortly. Hendren said a few Japanese still are to be rounded up in connection with the executions.

Eight captured Doolittle fliers from two Mitchell bombers that crashed on the China coast after bombing Tokyo from the carrier Hornet were sentenced to death in a bizarre, makeshift court-martial. Five of the sentences were commuted to life imprisonment but three fliers were shot to death as they knelt before open graves, their hands bound behind their backs.

The three were Lt. Dean E. Hallmark, Dallas; Lt. Willim G. Farrow, Darlington, S. C., and Sgt. Harold A. Spatz, Leopold, Kans.

One of those spared died later of malnutrition in a Nanking prison and the other four were liberated in August after Japan surrendered.

Capt. Chase J. Nielsen, Hiram, Utah, one of the liberees, has returned to Shanghai to appear as a witness at the trial.

Col. Edward H. Young, theater judge advocate general, said evidence indicates the fliers were treated as criminals rather than as prisoners of war.

ORDERS TO HELP YANKS IN CHINA

Return Of 5,000 To U.S. Due In February-April Period

Shanghai, Jan. 18 (AP)—Lieut. Gen. Albert C. Wedemeyer said tonight in a special message to his troops that the new War Department directives on demobilization would effect the return of more than 5,000 officers and men to the United States for discharge during th eperiod from February through April.

The commanding general of United States forces in China said more than half of all present army personnel in the China theater would be home or on the way by April 30.

Shipping Requisitioned

[The statement does not refer to United States Marines whose strength in China has been estimated in excess of 50,000.]

"It's my intention that those who become eligible for discharge on April 30 are to be started home in three approximately equal groups during the months of February, March and April," the General said.

"The necessary shipping is being requisitioned."

Enlisted WACs Eligible

All enlisted men with 45 points as of last September 2 or with 30 months' service as of April 30, 1946, are to be demobilized by that date. Officers will require 67 points as of September 2 or 45 months' service as of April 30. Enlisted WAC's with 24 months' service and their officers with 36 months' service will be eligible.

General Wedemeyer said that by next June 30 all enlisted men with 40 points as of last September 2, or with 24 months' service, would be in the states or on their way. Officers will require 65 points or 42 months' service by that date.

Priority will go to personnel with the highest points and longest service, particularly those in combat. Personnel in the scarce category may be retained, Wedemeyer explained, until replaced but in no case longer than six months.

The discharge of those eligible will leave fewer than 1,500 of the more than 10,000 United States army troops currently in China and even those "will not be retained longer than is essential," the General assured.

He promised his men to make every effort to obtain regular army replacements or volunteers for China service.

NEW QUESTIONS RAISED ON VALUE OF CHINA TRUCE

PEIPING, Jan. 18—(AP) Cancellation of a scheduled truce-inspection trip into Jehol Province, plus continuing charges and counter-charges of truce violations, raised new questions today as to the effectiveness of China's armistice of less than a week ago.

It was learned also that no inspectors would be sent to Manchuria by the truce commission, which has headquarters here.

This latter seemed to square with reliable reports from Chungking when the agreement was signed Jan. 10 that the government would be permitted to continue moving troops into and within Manchuria to clinch Chinese sovereignty over that territory.

Problem Cited

At executive headquarters of the commission here, it was said that Manchuria constituted a "complicated" problem. One of the prime subjects of discussion has been the reported loss by government forces of the Southern Manchuria port of Ying'kow after the armistice took effect last Sunday midnight.

Jehol loomed as an important testing ground of the commission's powers.

The truce negotiations originally came near bogging down because the government insisted on occupying certain strategic areas in Jehol and Chahar Provinces, but the Commmunists announced they had stuck to and won their objections on this point. The Communists claim they liberated both these northern provinces from the Japanese.

A truce inspection team which was due to go to Changteh, Jehol's capital, had its trip cancelled today. The reason given was that the airport there could not handle transport planes.

A government military council spokesman in Chungking charged today that the Communists had moved up 30,000 reinforcements and attacked Tsining in Suiyuan Province but were repulsed four times Thursday.

Communists Charge Violation

CHUNKING, Jan. 18 (AP).—The Chinese Communist party issued a formal statement today demanding withdrawal of government forces from all places it charges they occupied after the Sunday midnight deadline for cessation of China's civil strife.

It charged that the government used "excellent wireless facilities" to order "swift seizure of strategic points." The Communists have to depend upon the government radio for communications, but are preparing to establish a station of their own at Peiping.

The Communists asserted that since the truce agreement was reached on Jan. 10 government forces have seized fourteen towns—three in Jehol Province, three in Suiyuan, two in Hopeh, four in Shansi and one each in Honan and Kiangsu.

They asserted that government troops under command of General Fu Tso-yi captured Tsining, a rail town in eastern Suiyuan, Monday, and that the National Military Council in Chungking "vilified the self-defense operations of Communist troops as 'attacks.'"

Assembly Still Issue

CHUNGKING, Jan. 18 (AP)—The Chinese Political Consultation Conference failed to reach agreement today on the question of the validity of the National Assembly scheduled to meet May 5, and turned the matter over to a special sub-commmittee.

Gen. Chou En-lai, Communist delegate, objected to the assembly as now constituted but added that he would be reluctant to jeopardize the unity of the nation on this score. The Communists have asserted that the assembly is packed with Kuomintang delegates.

The spokesman of the National Military Council charged that Communists attacked the northern Honan city of Anyang on the Peiping-Hankow Railroad and surrounded the airport, creating "a very grave situation"; attacked Fenyang, highway center sixty miles southwest of Taiyuan, the Shansi capital, and attacked various points along the Tsinan-Tsingiao Railroad.

Three G. Is Released

HONOLULU, Jan. 18 (AP).—Three American soldiers who had been confined to quarters during an Army investigation of their remarks about demobilization were free today on orders of Lieutenant General Robert C. Richardson jr.

"The investigation determined that while their enthusiasm was somewhat misdirected, it was not enough to warrant punishment," the Mid-Pacific commander said.

The three, confined Wednesday and released yesterday, were identified by the Army as Master Sergeant Joseph Nahem, of Brooklyn; Sergeant David Livingston, of New York, and Corporal Herbert Freeman, of Brooklyn.

ANNAMESE POST SEIZED

French Capture Ap-Vinh-Tay in Southern Cochin China

SAIGON, French Indo-China, Jan. 18 (AP) — The French announced today that the Sixth Colonial Infantry Regiment, supported by landing craft and the minesweeper Gazelle, had captured the village of Ap-Vinh-Tay, which has been heavily defended by well-armed Annamese and a small band of Japanese.

The village is in extreme southern Cochin China, southwest of Chau-Doc.

The French also announced the capture of an armed Annamese vessel as they continued to mop up scattered resistance in the south.

BRITISH SHIP HITS MINE

Singapore, Jan. 18 (A. P.).—The British troopship Highland Brigade struck a mine off Singapore, signaled her danger and was towed into Singapore today with an undetermined number of casualties among the 2,000 Indian soldiers aboard.

Canberra, Jan. 18—(AP)—Prime Minister Joseph B. Chifley announced today that the Australian government would offer to place its mandated territory in New Guinea—which includes the eastern half of the island—under the UNO's trusteeship system.

Chifley said his government was ready to take similar action with respect to Nauru Island with the concurrence of Britain and New Zealand, nations which with Australia, are the joint mandatory authorities.

(Nauru is a small island approximately 12 miles in circumference, lying just south of the Equator and west of the Gilbert Islands).

Chifley announced that the Australian Government has approved a preliminary peace treaty with Siam, under which that country must repudiate completely its declaration of war against Britain and its alliance with Japan.

Other terms included Siamese agreement to assist in the capture and punishment of war criminals and to compensate the Australian Government and its citizens for damage sustained by them in Siam.

Lae Rocked by Earthquake

SYDNEY, Australia, Jan. 18 (AP).—Dispatches from Lae, New Guinea, today reported an earthquake shook that area last night, causing a stampede at a movie being shown to American Negro troops. The camp of 300 "emptied in a flash," the report said. Bottles and crockery tumbled from kitchen shelves, bats and birds were shaken from the swaying breadfruit trees and buildings shuddered.

British Name Occupation Chief

NEW DELHI, India, Saturday, Jan. 19 (AP)—Maj. Gen. D. T. Cowan, 49-year-old Scottish veteran who fought the Japanese on the Burma front from February, 1942, to June, 1945, has been chosen to lead British and Indian troops of the British Commonwealth Force in the occupation of Japan, it was disclosed today.

Argentina Defends Aid To Papers Once Pro-Nazi

Cites Press Freedom in Reply to U. S. Diplomat's Charge

BUENOS AIRES, Jan. 18 (AP).—The Argentine government replied tonight to assertions by United States Charge d'Affaires John Cabot that it was making newsprint available to the "successors" of newspapers once subsidized by Germany by saying the action was taken in order to permit the free expression of ideas.

Cabot, ranking United States diplomat in Argentina, said in a press conference last night that the government's activities in making the newsprint available to such papers "is one reason relations between Argentina and the United States are not so cordial as they should be."

A declaration issued by the Secretary of Industry and Commerce tonight said Cabot's charges, "possibly for lack of information, did not interpret exactly that which occurred." The statement then explained that the secretary had called paper importers and told them that "the government desired an equitable distribution of paper to be utilized by all dailies of whatever politics under the same conditions and at the same prices."

Only in this manner, the statement said, could the government "assure true liberty of expression, which otherwise would be subject to pressure by certain interests and would make liberty of expression illusory."

Arnold Stricken Ill

General Is Unable to Attend Peru Reception Held in His Honor

LIMA, Peru, Jan. 18 (AP).—General Henry H. Arnold, United States Air Force commander, is being treated at the American Clinic for a heart ailment which prevented his appearance at the American Embassy tonight where 1,500 guests attended a reception in his honor.

The general, who has been making a tour of the west coast of South America, became ill early yesterday.

Last night Arnold received through a representative the Cross of the Peruvian Aviation Order at a dinner given in his honor by Minister of Aeronautics General Carlos Girards.

Crippled Troopship Is Towed Into Port

St. Johns, Newfoundland, Jan. 18 (AP)—The United States troopship Henry Baldwin, disabled by storm, was towed into port at Argentia, Newfoundland, today.

The troopship, over which navy spokesmen in Boston expressed official concern earlier, was cracked from main hatch to rail and four feet down her side when she entered port towed by the Coast Guard cutter Modoc.

The crew and passengers—including 589 overseas veterans bound for New York from Antwerp—suffered no injuries in the storm that crippled the 7,175-ton ship 350 miles off Cape Race, Newfoundland, last Tuesday.

War Trial Court For East Set Up By MacArthur

Allied Tribunal Will Judge Major Defendants; Tokyo Is Its Permanent Seat

By The Associated Press

TOKYO, Jan. 19 (Saturday).—General Douglas MacArthur issued today an order establishing an international military tribunal for the Far East to try top war crimes suspects, and made public a charter under which the tribunal will work.

The tribunal was established, MacArthur noted, for "the just and prompt trial and punishment of major war criminals in the Far East."

Its permanent seat will be Tokyo, and members will total not less than five nor more than nine, appointed by the Supreme Allied Command from names submitted by Allied surrender signatories.

The order provided that the tribunal shall bring to trial "those persons charged individually or as members of organizations or in both capacities with offenses which include crimes against peace."

Included among top defendants is Japan's war-time Premier Hideki Tojo and his henchmen, whose trials are expected to start in March.

MacArthur's order specified that other tribunals also may try war criminal suspects. "Nothing in this order," it read, "shall prejudice the jurisdiction of any other tribunal, established or to be established in Japan or in any territory of the United Nations wherewith Japan has been at war, for trial of war criminals."

The charter provides that the Supreme Allied Command shall appoint a president and general secretary of the tribunal. The latter will supervise a secretariat to handle all documents and records.

The presence of a majority of all tribunal members will constitute a quorum, and "all decisions and judgments of this tribunal, including convictions and sentences, shall be by a majority vote of those members of the tribunal present."

The president shall cast the deciding vote in case of a tie during tribunal deliberations.

Following are the crimes under which the Japanese are to be tried:

1. Crimes against peace—defined as "planning, preparation, initiation or waging of declared or undeclared war of aggression or war in violation of international law, treaties, agreements or assurances, or participation in a common plan or conspiracy for accomplishment of any of the foregoing."

2. Conventional war crimes—defined as "violations of laws and customs of war."

3. Crimes against humanity—defined as "murder, extermination, enslavement, deportation and other inhuman acts committed against any civilian population before or during war or persecutions on political or racial grounds in execution of or in connection with any crime within the jurisdiction of the tribunal whether or not in violation of the domestic law of the country where perpetrated."

Suspects listed for arrest included Gen. Takeji Wachi, former chief of staff of Japanese general headquarters, and a half-dozen other generals, as well as prison camp officers and guards from the Solomons to Honshu to Truk.

The surprise arrest of Dr. Maw, Burmese puppet whose whereabouts since the end of the war have been a mystery, was confirmed by Brig. Gen. E. R. Thorpe, head of Allied Counter-Intelligence. He declined to say where Maw was being held.

Held Incommunicado

"He will be placed incommuicado, like other top prisoners," Thorpe added.

Maw, once premier of Burma under the British, later headed the Japanese puppet regime in his country. He disappeared by the time Allied forces reoccupied Burma.

Japanese small businessmen meanwhile rushed plans for a "League for Safeguarding the Emperor," to advocate a nationwide plebiscite on retention of the Emperor system, Jiji News Agency reported.

The fact that this issue remains unsettled is responsible for current "political unrest," Jiji quoted a spokesman. The league reportedly will urge removal of the Imperial Court to Kyoto, "so the Emperor can remain aloof from politics" in that historic, southwestern city.

Plans for a purge of ultra-nationalists from public office progressed, with Kyodo News Agency reporting that at least 21 of Japan's 47 prefectural governors were due to resign.

Kyodo said that all 21 had served as ex-officio heads of local chapters of the wartime Imperial Rule Assistance Association, and as such would be affected by MacArthur's purge directives. Home Minister Chuzo Mitsuchi has adopted a policy of permitting the governors to resign voluntarily before enforcing MacArthurs directives against them.

Mitsuchi told the Associated Press he opposed wholesale resignations of all 47 governors because it was necessary to "preserve highly-important local governments."

Military leaders listed among today's new war crimes suspects included Gen. Kyotaro Kawaguchi, who served in the Philippines in 1942; Lt. Gen. Takashi Sakai, once commander of Japan's 23d Army; Lt. Gen. Rensuke Isogava, former 10th Division commander; Lt. Gen. Shihao Tani, one-time Sixth Division commander; Lt. Gen. Sadaki Kaizesa, former commander of the 38th Division; and Maj. Gen. Saburo Watanabe, who served at Singapore in 1945.

Among civilians named was Kishiro Yasuda, captain of the Tachibana Maru, which some released American prisoners named as one of the hell ships which carried Allied captives to Japan.

Chinese who announced that German General Ott had been taken into custody did not say when he would be moved to Tokyo for questioning by MacArthur's war crimes investigators. One of the signatories of the pre-war tripartite pact of Japan, Italy and Germany, the tall Prussian has been living quietly in Peiping with his wife and daughter since May, 1943.

Emperor Hirohito during the war awarded Ott the Order of the Chrysanthemum, Japan's highest decoration, and the Japanese Army once provided a special plane so that he might tour the Philippines and Borneo.

Jiji News Agency reported that MacArthur's purge of ultra-nationalists soon would force the resignations of Admiral Baron Kantaro Suzuki, Premier at the war's end and currently president of the Privy Council, and Adm. Hisanori Fujita, Grand Chamberlain.

General MacArthur Orders Arrest Of 110 Jap War Crime Suspects

Tokyo, Jan. 18—(AP)—General MacArthur today ordered the arrest of 110 more Japanese war criminal suspects, including seven generals, and counter-intelligence officers arrested the long-missing Dr. Ba Maw, puppet premier of Burma.

In Peiping, Chinese arrested Maj. Gen. Eugene Ott, Nazi ambassador to Tokyo at the time Pearl Harbor was attacked, and announced he would be brought to Japan for questioning by MacArthur's war crimes staff.

Japanese Report Shinto Losing Out

Priests Struggle to Survive, Seek Tie to Buddhists

TOKYO, Jan. 18 (AP).—Kyodo news agency said today that Shinto priests are struggling for survival individually and as a cult, as the result of Allied elimination of state support, and that the weird philosophy is in danger of losing adherents rapidly.

As a result, Kyodo added, some of the leading Shinto priests have unsuccessfully sought a liaison with Buddhist leaders, on the basis of a long-forgotten medieval linking of the two cults.

Some Buddhists once recognized the Sun Goddess as the Japanese equivalent of Buddha and thereupon proclaimed that the two philosophies were identical. Modern Buddhists approached by Shintoists seeking to resurrect this theory "do not seem inclined" to co-operate, however, Kyodo said.

The priests of what formerly was state-supported Shinto are worrying about food bills meanwhile; their government salaries have ceased.

Hirohito Hears Lecture On Founding a Regency

Expert Quotes Constitution in Traditional New Year Talk

TOKYO, Jan. 18 (AP).—Methods of establishing a regency were outlined to Emperor Hirohito today during the customary New Year lectures for the imperial family, Kyodo News Agency reported.

Hakuju Ui, a member of the Studies Research Conference, addressed Hirohito for thirty minutes on the Japanese constitutional provision for institution of a new regency. There was no indication, however, that the lecture foreshadowed future action by the emperor.

Japanese small business men meanwhile rushed plans for a "league for safeguarding the emperor," to advocate a nation-wide plebiscite on retention of the emperor system, Ji Ji News Agency reported.

The fact that this issue remains unsettled is responsible for current "political unrest," Ji Ji quoted a spokesman. The league reportedly will urge removal of the imperial court of Kyoto, "so the emperor can remain aloof from politics" in that historic southwestern city.

Ancient Jap Documents Returned To Library

Tokyo, Jan. 18 (AP)—A vault filled with ancient Japanese documents removed last Spring from Yomei Library in Kyoto by the late Prince Fumimaro Konoye to avoid destruction by bombing was found by a United States Army patrol at Izumo Shrine.

The patrol, led by Lt. Robert Blanc of Westerville, Ohio, blasted open the vault door and found 60 ancient scroll diaries, one of the original 14 volumes of Midokampaku Nikki written by Michinaga Fujiwara, ruling advisor to the throne during the Seian period (794 A.D. to 1186 A.D.), and other royal diaries and letters.

The documents have been returned to Yomei Library.

JAPAN SOON GETS FIRST POLICEWOMEN

Tokyo, Jan. 18 (A. P.).—Japan's first policewomen soon will join the Tokyo metropolitan force to assist efforts to control growing prostitution, the newspaper Yomiuri Hochi said today. Food shortages were blamed for increases in prostitution.

CATHOLIC PAPER FLAYS SELECTION OF EDUCATORS

Tokyo, Jan. 18—(AP)—The religious beliefs of 30 educators General MacArthur requested be sent to Japan to help revise her school system "were not known to us" at Allied headquarters, Brig. Gen. Ken R. Dyke, said today.

America, the National Catholic Weekly, said in Washington yesterday that not one of the 30 was a Catholic and charged "the absence of Catholic representation appears to be conscious exclusion."

Dyke, head of MacArthur's education and information section, said:

"There was no attempt to discriminate. Selection was made on the basis of the individual's reputation. If any or all of them are Catholics their religion is not known to us. Educators were not sought as representatives of denominational colleges. That was not a factor. As a matter of fact, some of those in my section who conceived and carried out the selections are themselves Catholics.

"Again I say there was no discrimination and none was intended. General MacArthur is known for his impartiality and that is particularly true of religious matters. We are concerned with public schools. Denominational schools in Japan can give any religious education they want, be it Christianity, Buddhaism or Shinto without militarism."

In Washington yesterday, State Department officials said it could be assumed that Catholics would be invited to join the educators' mission.

954,000 Japs Repatriated

Tokyo, Jan. 18 (AP)—Repatriation of 954,000 Japanese by the end of 1945 was reported today by the central liaison office of Allied headquarters. Of the number, 404,000 were military personnel.

HOMMA LINKED TO NEW DEATH

Witness Says He Knew of Chinese Consul's Case.

Manila, Jan. 18 (A. P.).—A squat Japanese officer, who admittedly gave the signal for the shootings of Dr. Clarence Kyangson Young, Chinese Consul in Manila, and members of his staff, testified today that he "didn't like blood."

Lieut. Junjo Matsuo, witness at the war crimes trial of Lieut.-Gen. Masaharu Homma, said he was drafted from clerical duties to conduct executions because the regular executioner was absent.

"When I dropped my arm, they fired their pistols simultaneously. I turned away. I don't know whether all were killed by the first shot."

Homma Linked to Killing.

Homma, former Japanese commander in the Philippines accused of responsibility for atrocities in the islands, was linked by the witness to the killing of the Chinese Consul. Matsuo said a full report of Young's execution was made to Homma's headquarters. The witness added that Young was sentenced to death for refusing to extort $25,000,000 from the Chinese community in Manila.

Grim descriptions of the cruelties inflicted on American prisoners were given by Lieuts. Jose Lukban and Jose Diosana of the Philippine Army. Lukban testified that Col. Robert Veasey of Hope, Ark., died defiantly shouting:

"Go ahead and be damned to you!"

An instant later a Japanese bayonet plunged through the Colonel, said Lukban. He added that Veasey, a Capt. J. Price and a Sgt. Chandler were bayoneted in reprisal for the escape of four other Americans from Camp Keutmley.

Defense Cites Red Cross

YOKOHAMA, Japan, Jan. 18 (AP)—A defense witness testified at the trial of Capt. Kaichi Hirate today that an International Red Cross representative reported no mistreatment of Allied prisoners at the Muroran prison camp.

Masaru Takata, of the Japanese Prisoner of War Information Bureau and a former student of Columbia University, testified that the Red Cross representative, Dr. E. Bernath, reported that prisoners had said food at the camp was "fair" and the work "not too hard."

On cross examination, however, Takata said it was a general rule to notify camp commanders of forthcoming inspections by Red Cross investigators. Hirate, commander of the Muroran camp, is charged with responsibility for the deaths of four Allied prisoners.

Meanwhile, Eighth Army headquarters reported that the trial of Shin Ree-sai, Chinese puppet foreman of a labor camp on the northern Japanese island of Hokkaido, was proceeding in a lively atmosphere. Shin is charged with the deaths of three countrymen.

Shin shouted denials at witnesses who testified that they saw him mistreat workers. The witnesses shouted back. Guards stepped in several times to restore order. The Chinese were brought in by the Japanese to work in coal mines in Hokkaido.

SOLDIER'S SLAYER GIVEN LIFE TERM

MANILA, Jan. 18.—(AP) Convicted of slaying an American soldier out of jealousy over the affections of a prominent young Filipino woman physician, Dr. Isabelo Noble was sentenced today to life imprisonment.

The soldier, Pvt. George Ott, 32, of Clifton Heights, Pa., was shot to death last Oct. 22 at Taal, where he and his fiancee were visiting the country home of the governor of Batangas province.

Noble, the governor's nephew, had been attentive to the young woman, Dr. Paz Fores, who is the daughter of a former Manila chief of police.

In Clifton Heights, Ott's mother, Mrs. William Ott, said she had received letters from the adjutant general's office, Ott's commander, and from his friends telling her that Noble rushed in and shot Ott amid a roomful of people as he was putting records on a phonograph for dancing.

She added that Dr. Fores had written her but had not mentioned being engaged to Ott, and that "George had never mentioned the young woman in his letters home."

Ott, a salesman before entering the Army in 1941, was about to be sent home for discharge.

Notified of the conviction his mother exclaimed, "I am glad of that, but it won't bring George back."

Philippine Debt Bill Displeases McNutt

Act Validates Payments in Foe's Military Currency

MANILA, Jan. 18 (AP).—A Philippine Congressional act validating all debt payments made in Japanese military currency during the Japanese occupation "is not a law and cannot take effect unless President Truman approves it," American High Commissioner Paul V. McNutt declared today.

McNutt had proposed a measure scaling down the value of the Japanese currency, thus revaluing all debts paid in it.

A press release from McNutt's office expressed official displeasure with the statute, enacted Dec. 19 and designed yesterday by President Sergio Osmena. The statement noted that the special session of Congress was called at McNutt's suggestion, and that his suggested bill was based on a formula worked out by a committee of financial experts appointed by Mr. Truman.

The Filipino measure validated all debt payments made in Japanese occupation currency during the Japanese occupation. The McNutt proposal provided for scaling down debts on the basis of the exchange value of the "Mickey Mouse" money in relation to the peso at various times during the occupation.

HOLDOUT JAP CHIEF A SUICIDE IN LUZON

Manila, Jan. 18 (A. P.).—One of the last holdout Japanese commanders in mountainous northern Luzon committed suicide today when American reconnaissance patrols contacted remnants of his regiment on the shores of Casiguran Bay.

As the Yanks landed from a flying boat, Col. Yousa shot himself through the mouth. One company of Japanese surrendered. The rest of the regiment fled into the hills.

The Japanese, near starvation and suffering from disease, had laid siege to a village in hopes of getting food and salt. It is estimated that from 5,000 to 10,000 Japanese still roam the jungles of north and central Luzon.

FILIPINO CONVICTED OF KILLING YANK

Manila, Jan. 18 (A. P.).—Dr. Isabelo Noble, nephew of the governor of Batangas province, was convicted today of the jealousy slaying of Pvt. George Ott of Clifton Heights, Pa., and was sentenced to life imprisonment.

Ott and his fiancee, Dr. Paz Fores, the daughter of the former Manila police chief, were visiting the governor's country home at Taal October 22, last. Noble, who had been attentive to Dr. Fores, rushed in and, witnesses said, shot Ott four times.

Trial of Chinese Is Hard on Saucers

Witnesses Smash Them to Attest to Truth—It's an old Custom—M. P.'s Kept Busy.

Yokohama, Jan. 18 (A. P.).—Eighth Army headquarters reported today that the trial of Shin Ree-sai, Chinese puppet foreman of a labor camp on the northern Japanese island of Hokkaido, was proceeding in a lively atmosphere. Shin is charged with the deaths of three countrymen.

The testimony in Chinese is being translated into Japanese and then into English. A supply of saucers and a carpenter's hammer are beside the witness stand. When a Chinese witness takes an oath, he smashes a saucer with the hammer. It's an old Chinese custom. The witness does not feel bound to tell the truth until he has broken the saucer.

Shin shouted denials at witnesses who testified they saw him mistreat workers. The witnesses shouted back. M. P. guards stepped in several times to restore order. The Chinese were brought in by the Japanese to work in coal mines in Hokkaido. Shin's trial is being conducted at snow-bound Sapporo on Hokkaido.

MacArthur Will Review Hicswa Case

His Decision on Death Sentence for Jersey G. I. to Be Final—Report Not Yet In.

Yokohama, Jan. 18 (A. P.).—The death sentence of Pfc. Joseph E. Hicswa of Lodi, N. J., convicted of slaying two Japanese, will be reviewed by Gen. MacArthur, Eighth Army Headquarters announced today.

At MacArthur's office, a spokesman said the official report by the court-martial which convicted the 98th Division soldier has not yet come across the desk.

Hicswa is being held in a stockade outside Yokohama. Correspondents have not been permitted to interview him pending MacArthur's review, which will be final.

Mother Says He's Innocent.

Mrs. Joseph Hicswa, mother of Hicswa, was at first unable to believe the news given to her by a reporter today that MacArthur will review her son's case.

"If they haven't killed him already," she finally said, standing in the doorway of her home at 63 Lester street, Wallington, N. J., and staring at the reporter with alarm.

To the question of whether she could afford a trip to the West Coast to see her son, should he be brought there from Japan, Mrs. Hicswa said she couldn't, "but I'd get there somehow. You don't need to worry about that, I'd get there. Oh, if we only could see him! If we could only be near him!"

Mrs. Hicswa revealed that Hicswa had given up an opportunity for a pass to go home just before going to a staging area for shipment overseas in order that a buddy, whose wife was expecting a baby, could go instead. The soldier arrived in time for the delivery and the baby was named for Hicswa, she said.

"Oh, if we could only be near him," she exclaimed when reassured that her son is not dead. "Oh, God, send my boy back home! If he could only see his little sister! My Joey couldn't do that thing. He would fight with his fists, but not with a knife. He was too soft, too good-hearted."

Money Offered For Fight.

Mrs. Hicswa showed a number of sympathetic letters which she had received from all over the country. Some contained offers of money, some advice, others offers to start a drive to collect funds for a fight in Hicswa's behalf.

"I want to thank the newspapers," Mrs. Hicswa said. "I do want to thank them. They've been wonderful. Everybody has been wonderful."

The family was sure he would be home for Christmas and waited from day to day for him to come walking in, she said.

"A few days before Christmas I thought I heard his footsteps in the hall coming, but when I went to the door there was nobody there," she said.

Review Promised For Doomed Yank

Wallington, N.J., Jan. 18 (AP)—Friends and relatives of Pfc. Joseph E. Hicswa, 20, Wallington soldier condemned to death in Japan for the slaying of two Japanese civilians, took hope today with the announcement that General MacArthur would review the case.

But their flood of appeals to President Truman, and their campaign to petition for aid throughout Bergen county and north New Jersey, continued and they left no stone unturned in trying to assure the youth another chance for his life.

Hicswa's family heard the report of MacArthur's announcement today as they were around the family radio where last Monday they first heard the youth's court-martial sentence announced.

Tears of gratitude filled the mother's eyes as she sobbed, "Thank God General MacArthur will review the case because I know he will find Joeey innocent."

General MacArthur's headquarters in Yokohama announced today that the case had not yet reached his desk but that MacArthur said he would review the complete testimony of the court-martial and return a final decision.

TOWERS WARNS DEMOBILIZATION INJURES FLEET

Admiral Protests Against Stripping of U. S. Sea Power in Pacific.

Aboard U. S. S. New Jersey, Tokyo Bay, Jan. 18 (A. P.).—Demobilization has very seriously reduced the efficiency of the United States Navy, Admiral John B. Towers declared today, but powerful fleet units still stand "in complete readiness for any emergency in the Pacific."

The Navy's ranking airman emphasized the rapid stripping of American sea power at a press conference following a brief deck ceremony in which he turned over command of the Fifth Fleet to Vice-Admiral Frederick Sherman, beribboned veteran of carrier warfare. Towers then left immediately by plane for conferences in Washington. He will succeed Admiral Raymond A. Spruance as Commander-in-chief of the Pacific Fleet on February 1.

Sherman was captain of the carrier Lexington when she was sunk in the battle of the Coral Sea in May, 1942. Later he commanded a carrier task group and relieved Vice-Admiral Marc A. Mitscher as commander of a carrier task force last July.

17,000 Navy Men in Japan.

Towers said that there are 17,000 Navy personnel in Japan, but the number is rapidly diminishing with the release of high-point men. He will discuss in Washington the cut in Navy strength here.

As fast as ships are relieved of troop-transport service, Towers said, they are put under training in an effort to recover their wartime efficiency, but it is not possible to lose half or two-thirds of their experienced personnel, to man a ship with inexperienced men and to expect to have a first-rate ship for some time.

30.24-381

The Admiral said he had heard of no demobilization demonstrations by Fifth Fleet personnel, adding: "The plan of demobilization is a little ahead of schedule. I think our men know it."

High-ranking American and British Army and Navy officers attended the command changing ceremonies. They included Lieut.-Gen. Charles P. Hall, commander of the Eighth Army; Major-Gen. Clovis Byers, his assistant, and Air Marshal R. V. Goddard, former Southeast Asia air officer.

Sherman will transfer his flag from the New Jersey to the Iowa on January 27. The New Jersey, which was Admiral Halsey's flagship, is scheduled to leave for San Francisco on January 29 with Gen. Walter Krueger, commander of the disbanding Sixth Army, as a passenger.

NATIONWIDE STEEL STRIKE SET FOR MONDAY

COMPANY REJECTS TRUMAN PROPOSAL ACCEPTED BY C.I.O.

President Issues Urgent Appeal to U. S. Steel to Reconsider Plan.

ASKS 18 1-2 CENT BOOST

Company Will Not Go Beyond 15 Cents, Fairless Declares.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 18. — (AP) A nation-wide strike in steel—key industry of the American economy—was definitely called today for Monday after U. S. Steel Corporation rejected a White House compromise accepted by the C.I.O.

Philip Murray, president of the United Steel Workers, told a news conference that the walkout "must take place 12:01 a. m. Jan. 21," as already tentatively scheduled.

A short time previously, President Truman had issued an urgent appeal to the steel corporation, pace-setter for the industry, to reconsider and accept his compromise plan for a wage increase of 18 1-2 cents an hour. The union had backed down from its recent demand of 19 1-2 cents to accept the President's suggestion, but the company said it could not go beyond 15 cents.

Next Step Uncertain

The next settlement attempt remained uncertain with each of the three parties—government, union and steel management—arguing for its position on the ground of public interest.

Said President Truman in his statement appealing for reconsideration: A steel strike would "stall our attempts to establish a sound economy."

The union, agreeing to "accept your decision" said the action was taken "consistent with the steadfast policy of the United Steelworkers of America to promote the national welfare."

Benjamin Fairless, president of the United States Steel Corporation, told the President in his letter refusing to go beyond the company's offer of 15 cents, that a higher figure might well spell "irreparable damage to the American people.". He said many companies might be forced out of business.

Later Murray at the news conference said the union was sure of full support from "progressive forces" in what he predicted will be a "bitter struggle." He said U. S. Steel has "the full and sole responsibility" for the strike.

Murray drew a parallel between the position taken by the steel company and that taken by General Motors in turning down the wage recommendations of a presidential fact finding board, and said in a statement:

Conspiracy Charged

"The evil conspiracy among American big business has been unmasked. Its clear aim is to exact unconditional surrender of the American people and the United States government. This conspiracy must be stopped if the sacred principles, for which we fought in our struggle to destroy Nazism, are to be enjoyed by the American people in peace.

"American industry, fattened with war profits, guaranteed a high level of profits through special tax rebates under laws written at their behest, have deliberately set out to destroy labor unions to provoke strikes and economic chaos, and hijack the American people through uncontrolled profits and inflation. They are determined to accomplish their objective regardless of the risk to our nation."

Fairless told the Chief Executive in a letter that "there is a limit in the extent to which union wage demands can be met by us. We reached that limit when we raised our offer to the union last Friday x x x to x x x 15 cents an hour."

That increase, he said, would cost the corporation $60,000,000 a year.

But Mr. Truman declared in a statement:

"I still hope, and on behalf of the great mass of American citizens strongly urge, that my suggestion of settlement be adopted by the United States Steel corporation."

He asked the company to accept not only on the ground of public interest but of good business as well.

"A strike in the steel industry," the President said, "will be felt in practically every major industry in the United States. It will hamper our reconversion effort. It will stall our attempts to establish a sound economy to which our veterans can return.

"Its repercussions will be felt all over the country and for a long time to come."

Board May Start

In the event "Big Steel" refuses to change its stand a fact-finding board may go to work. Mr. Truman already has appointed one, but it has held off looking into the steel dispute pending the outcome of negotiations at the White House.

The President has been represented as willing to order government seizure of steel plants, if the strike comes off—only as a last resort.

Fairless' letter disclosed that the government had offered to approve an increase in steel prices. It reportedly was willing to go as high as $4 a ton, although Price Administrator Chester Bowles has contended that $2.50 is the top figure that would hold the line against inflation.

"Much as we desire to avoid a steel strike," Fairless wrote Mr. Truman, "we cannot overlook the effect both on this corporation and on our customers and American business in general, of the 18 1-2 cent an hour wage increase, which you have proposed.

"Such a wage increase must result in higher prices for steel than have previously been proposed to us by the government. Great financial harm would soon follow for all users of steel who would be obliged to pay high prices for their steel, higher wages to their employes, and still have the prices for their own products subject to OPA control.

"Such a high and unjustified wage scale might well spell financial disaster for many of the smaller steel companies and for a large number of steel fabricators and processors. The nation needs the output of these companies.

"Increased wages and increased prices which force companies out of business can only result in irreparable damage to the American people."

Long Bickerings

The Truman compromise of 18½ cents capped a long series of dickerings.

The union and U. S. Steel failed to adjust their wage differences through collective bargaining. A string of meetings followed in which Murray, Fairless and government labor officials, sometimes in consultation with the President, also failed to settle the dispute.

After conferring with the President last night, Fairless flew to New York to talk with his board of directors and other steel executives. Murray met with his steel workers' executive board.

Mr. Truman had asked the company and union presidents for an answer by noon today. C.I.O. had its brief reply at the White House by the deadline. Steel's answer followed an hour later.

While only U. S. Steel was immediately involved in negotiations here, the strike call is general and Fairless was accepted by officials and workers as speaking for the industry at large.

R. J. Thomas, president of the C.I.O.-Auto Workers, said at the Murray news conference that competitors of strike bound General Motors had enough steel to last a minimum of two months. Thomas said that the Ford Motor Co., which was negotiating wages with the union this week, possibly had an even greater inventory.

Murray and his secretary-treasurer, David J. McDonald, estimated that 750,000 workers at 1,300 steel plants would strike Monday, excluding the 22,000 iron ore miners, members of the steelworkers union in Minnesota. State laws there require a 30-day cooling off period before a strike.

About 1,282 collective bargaining contracts are involved in the industry wide dispute, Murray said.

Murray Explains

He told his news conference that "any company which is prepared to accept the 18½ cent settlement will not be affected by strike."

Murray said, in reply to questioning, that he saw no way by which the strike could be avoided "as of now."

Strike headquarters will be in Pittsburgh, with Murray directing activities.

Murray said he intended to bring before Congress a request for prompt consideration of repeal of the carry-back provisions of the tax law, by which companies whose income fell this year may receive substantial rebates on past taxes.

Murray called the present provisions "union busting, strike breaking benefits" and said their repeal would be "the greatest contribution congress can make to collective bargaining."

While the auto workers and electrical workers, both involved in their own strikes, had "expressed satisfaction" with the presidential compromise for steel, Murray said that did not mean they would settle for 18½ cents. Both unions have offered to accept 19½ cents.

MURRAY STANDS ON STEEL ROW

Text Of Union Head's Statement On Scheduled Strike

Washington, Jan. 18 (AP)—The text of a statement by Philip Murray, president of the United Steelworkers of America (CIO), on the steel situation:

The international officers of the United Steelworkers of America have advised President Truman that they have accepted his recommendation for a settlement of the current wage dispute in the steel industry and shall recommend its approval by the international wage policy committee of the union which shall be assembled forthwith.

President Truman's decision is that there be a general wage increase of 18½ cents per hour to the employés in the steel industry effective as of January 1, 1946.

Decision Held Justified

The facts surrounding the pending wage dispute in the steel industry have thoroughly supported the wage demand of the union and completely justify the President's decision.

In April, 1945, the last full month preceding V-E day, the average weekly earnings of steelworkers were $56.32.

The Bureau of Labor Statistics, within the past few days, has reported that the straight-time average hourly earnings for steelworkers in October, 1945, were $1.087. It is undisputed that the steel industry is now operating on a 40-hour week without any overtime.

This means that at present—assuming that the straight-time average hourly earnings have not fallen since October, which they certainly have, due to downgrading and other factors—the weekly earnings for steelworkers are $43.48.

There has therefore been a slash in the earnings of the steelworkers since April, 1945, of $12.84. The wage increase recommended by President Truman will thus provide for a substantial, but not full, restoration of the loss in weekly earnings.

Goal In Wage Increases

It is to the interest of all Americans, if we are to provide a firm foundation for an expanding economy of full production and full employment, that the purchasing power of the workers of the nation be maintained and steadily increased.

It is with this objective in mind that the CIO and its affiliated unions have been endeavoring for the past year to secure substantial wage increases.

If this end is not achieved, the high level of profits of industry will prove to be illusory and our nation will inevitably be plunged into a terrifying depression with all of its consequent evils.

Since September, 1945—a period of four months—the union has sought, unsuccessfully to engage in collective bargaining with the steel industry over the union's wage demand for an increase of $2 a day.

Twice the United States Government, through Secretary of Labor Schwellenbach, requested the United States Steel Corporation to meet with the union in collective bargaining.

"Given A Cold 'No'"

To all these efforts—the steel industry has given a cold "no."

The steel industry has now, with unmatched boldness, rejected a decision of the President of the United States.

This action of the steel industry, combined with the action taken by the General Motors Corporation in refusing to comply with a recommendation of the President's fact-finding panel, should clarify for the American people the issue which has been drawn.

American industry, fattened with war profits, guaranteed a high level of profits through special tax rebates under laws written at their behest, have deliberately set out to destroy labor unions, to provoke strikes and economic chaos, and hijack the American people through uncontrolled profits and inflation.

They are determined to accomplish their objective regardless of the risk to our nation.

Congressmen who have been so loquacious in denouncing labor unions should take pause in the face of the present situation. The evil conspiracy among American big business has been unmasked. Its clear aim is to exact unconditional surrender of the American people and the United States Government.

Blames Industry For Strike

This conspiracy must be stopped if the sacred principles—for which we fought in our struggle to destroy nazism—are to be enjoyed by the American people in peace.

The steel industry now has the full and sole responsibility for the strike which must take place at 12.01 A.M., January 21.

The steelworkers in this fight will be combating the sinister forces which seek to stamp out our cherished democracy. We know that we shall have the full support of all progressive forces in this bitter struggle.

Truman's Steel Stand

JAN 1, 1946

Washington, Jan. 18 (AP)—The text of President Truman's statement on the steel dispute, which he attempted to mediate:

I have just been informed that the United States Steel Corporation has refused to accept the compromise offered by me yesterday in the United States Steel Corporation-United Steelworkers controversy.

The original demand made by Mr. Murray in this case was for an increase of 25 cents per hour, or about 23 per cent. The original offer made by the United States Steel Corporation was 12½ cents per hour increase, or 11.6 per cent.

As a result of their final meeting in collective bargaining they had arrived at the following impasse: Mr. Murray had come down to an increase of 19½ cents per hour, or 18 per cent, and Mr. Fairless had come up to an increase of 15 cents per hour, or 13.9 per cent.

Study Of Facts

I have studied the facts and figures very carefully. The fact-finding board in the steel industry has reported to me informally. It has not had the opportunity to go into the merits of the case very fully, as it would have done if there were legislation now on the books for a "cooling off" period. Nevertheless, after hearing the board and after long consideration, I believe that the suggestion made by me of 17.1 per cent or 18½ cents per hour is fair.

In the General Motors case, the fact-finding board, after four weeks of hearings and consideration, reported to me that a settlement of a 17.4 per cent increase, or 19½ cents per hour, was fair and reasonable under all the circumstances, to both parties. I approved, and still approve, that finding. The union has accepted it, but the company has refused.

Similar Disputes

While, of course, no one finding by any fact-finding board is conclusive or even persuasive in other cases, the fact is that the present general circumstances surrounding these two disputes are similar.

It is a matter of great regret to me, and I am sure that it will be to all the people of the United States, that all our efforts to avoid this steel strike have up to now failed. A strike in the steel industry will be felt in practically every major industry in the United States. It will hamper our reconversion effort. It will stall our attempts to establish a sound economy to which our veterans can return. Its repercussions will be felt all over the country and for a long time to come.

I still hope, and on behalf of the great mass of American citizens strongly urge, that my suggestion of settlement be adopted by the United States Steel Corporaiton.

"No Setting Pattern"

I am not endeavoring to set a pattern for all industry. Each controversy should be worked out on its own merits. The agreements should be reached in every case by free collective bargaining.

In this connection, I regret that we do not have legislation, such as I have recommended, which would require a cooling-off period of 30 days. During these 30 days I am confident that some settlement could be reached. I urge the United States Steel Corporation on the ground of the public interest, as well as good business, to accept this settlement.

As you must be aware, your proposal is almost equivalent to granting in full the union's revised demand of a wage increase of 19½ cents an hour, which was advanced by Philip Murray, the president of the union, at our collective-bargaining conference with the union in New York a week ago.

In our opinion, there is no just basis from any point of view for a wage increase to our steelworkers of the large size you have proposed, which, if put into effect, is certain to result in great financial harm, not only to this corporation, but also to users of steel in general.

As I have tried to make clear to you and other Government officials during our conferences in Washington over the past few days, there is a limit in the extent to which union wage demands can be met by us.

We reached that limit when we raised our offer to the union last Friday from a wage increase of 12½ cents an hour to one of 15 cents an hour.

75% Of Demand Met

This would constitute the highest single wage increase ever made by our steel-making subsidiaries. Our offer of 15 cents was equivalent to meeting 60 per cent of the union's original excessive demands of a $2 a day general wage increase.

Our offer met 75 per cent of the union's final proposal of a wage increase of 19½ cents an hour.

A wage increase of 15 cents an hour, such as we offered, would increase the direct labor cost of our manufacturing subsidiaries by approximately $60,000,000 a year.

That is a most substantial sum, and does not take into account the higher costs we shall have to pay for purchases, goods and services, when large wage increases generally become effective throughout American industry, as is inevitable after a substantial increase in steel wages.

Breakdown Of Talk Cited

As you know, collective-bargaining negotiations with the union broke down at the White House yesterday afternoon, because Mr. Murray then refused to budge from his position that a countrywide steel strike must take place unless steelworkers are granted a general wage increase of 19½ cents an hour.

Our offer of a wage increase of 15 cents an hour was again rejected by the union.

The union threatens to go ahead with its program for a national steel strike at midnight next Sunday, although such a strike will be a clear violation of the no-strike provision contained in our labor contract with the union, which continues by their terms until October 15, 1946.

From the outset we have recognized how injurious a steel strike will be to reconversion and to the economy of this whole country.

Puts Strike Up To Union

Most industries are dependent upon a supply of steel for their continued operation. We have done everything reasonably within our power to avert such a strike. If a strike occurs, the responsibility rests with the union.

When the Government at the eleventh hour informed us about a week ago of its willingness to sanction an increase in steel ceiling prices, we at once resumed collective-bargaining negotiations with the union.

Such price action by the Government was a recognition by it of the rights of the steel industry to receive price relief because of past heavy increases in costs—something which the steel industry for many months has unsuccessfully sought to establish with OPA.

I should like again to point out some pertinent facts relative to the wages of our steelworkers.

Straight-Time Pay Rises Cited

Since January, 1941, the average straight-time hourly pay, without overtime, of our steelworkers has increased more than the 33 per cent increase in the cost of living during that period, recently computed by Government authorities.

This figure is only $4.54 less than the actual average weekly earnings of these employés, including overtime, in the last full war year of 1944, when the average work week was 46.1 hours.

The difference is really less, because we will undoubtedly continue to have overtime in the future, just as we have at the present time.

In November, 1945, overtime premiums to our steelworkers aggregated more than $1,300,000. Such reduction of $4.54 in weekly take-home pay is the natural consequence of a shorter work week of 40 hours, and therefore one of lower production.

Much as we desire to avoid a steel strike, we cannot overlook the effect both on this corporation and on our customers and American business in general, of the 18½-cents-an-hour wage increase which you have proposed.

Such a wage increase must result in higher prices for steel than have previously been proposed to us by the Government.

OPA Control Pointed Out

Great financial harm would soon follow for all users of steel, who would be obliged to pay higher prices for their steel, higher wages to their employés, and still have the prices for their own products subject to OPA control.

Such a high and unjustified wage scale might well spell financial disaster for many of the smaller steel companies and for a large number of steel fabricators and processors.

The nation needs the output of these companies. Increased wages and increased prices which force companies out of business can only result in irreparable damage to the American people.

In our judgment, it is distinctly in the public interest to take into account the injurious effect upon American industry of an unjustified wage increase in the steel industry.

After a full and careful consideration of your proposal, we have reached the conclusion above stated.

Respectfully yours,

BENJAMIN F. FAIRLESS,
President, United States Steel Corporation.

The Fairless And Murray Letters

Washington, Jan. 18 (AP)—Texts of the letters of Benjamin F. Fairless, president of United States Steel, and of Philip Murray, CIO president, to President Truman rejecting the White House proposal for settling the wage controversy in the steel industry follow (first the Fairless letter):

Dear Mr. President:

Your proposals to me in Washington last evening that the wage demands of the United States Steelworkers of America—CIO—be settled on the basis of a wage increase of 18½ cents an hour, retroactive January 1, 1946, cannot, I regret to say, be accepted by United States Steel Corporation for the reasons set forth below.

Sees 'Financial Harm'

Steelworkers' wages have kept pace with increased living costs. Such average straight-time pay in our steel-producing subsidiaries was $1.14 an hour in each of the months of September, October and November, 1945, excluding any overtime premium and any amount for correction of possible wage inequities.

An increase of 15 cents, in accordance with our offer, would raise such average straight-time pay to $1.29 an hour, placing such pay among the highest today in all of American industry.

Under our offer of a 15-cent increase, the average weekly take-home pay of our steelworkers for a 40-hour week would amount to $51.60, assuming that no overtime is involved.

Predicts Overtime

Consistent with the steadfast policy of the United Steelworkers of America to do all within its power to promote the national welfare and thereby protect the interest of our membership, I beg to advise you that the international officers of the union do accept your decision and shall recommend its approval by the international wage policy committee of the union which shall be assembled forthwith.

Respectfully yours,

S. PHILIP MURRAY, President.

Murray's Letter

Text of the Murray letter:

Dear Mr. President—In connection with the current wage dispute in the steel industry, you have submitted your recommendation that there be a general wage increase of 18½ cents an hour, effective as of January 1, 1946.

STRIKE CLOSES STEEL PLANT

Pittsburgh J.&L. Mill Shut. General Walkout Set Monday

Pittsburgh, Jan. 18 (AP) — The large Pittsburgh works of the Jones & Laughlin Steel Corporation was virtually closed by a strike tonight a few hours after announcement of the collapse of the steelworkers' wage negotiations in Washington.

Shortly after 8 P.M. the first pickets appeared and within two hours about 50 of them were marching in front of the plant's main gate. A large crowd gathered to watch.

"Pulling The Whole Works"

A spokesman for the corporation said:

"They're pulling the whole works down tonight. Everything is orderly. They left men inside to see that the heats were tapped out of the blast furnaces and open hearths. The finishing mills are already idle."

The plant employs about 9,000. The picketing occurred after two locals voted this evening for an immediate strike.

Though no formal announcement had been made that the plant had been affected by a strike, men began walking out of the mill by two's and three's, accepted picket signs and joined the line in front of the mill's main gate.

The picket signs read:

"The CIO accepts—industry rejects."

Jones & Laughlin officials said they had received no notice of any local grievance in either case.

750,000 Workers Involved

Meanwhile, the CIO-United Steelworkers and steel companies set wheels in motion tonight for the greatest strike in the nation's history—a walkout of some 750,000 employés of the steel and aluminum industries called for midnight Sunday.

The union telegraphed strike orders to its district and local union directors upon the collapse of wage-settlement efforts at Washington. The orders, issued in the name of the union president, Philip Murray, said:

"The strike orginally issued for January 14 shall go into full force and effect at 12.01 A.M., January 21, 1946."

Blast Furnaces Banked

The United States Steel Corporation, the leading producer, immediately announced it was beginning curtailments "necessary to insure an orderly shutdown for Sunday night."

Steel Supply Rationing Seen

Washington, Jan. 18 (AP)—The Government announced tonight that in the event of a steel strike a program of voluntary rationing on steel supplies will be put into effect.

John D. Small, chief of the Civilian Production Administration, said all outstanding priority ratings on steel will be suspended if an industry-wide strike scheduled for 12.01 A.M. Monday actually occurs.

Small described these preparations as a move to "protect the country's public health, safety and welfare activities by restricting delivery of a substantial portion of the nation's available current stocks of steel to essential needs."

"Essential Needs" Listed

The CPA chief outlined these plans in a "declaration of policy" to the nation's steel warehouses.

Small said CPA's emergency "AAA" priority rating will be issued in any "unusual" cases which are not taken care of through the warehouse rationing program.

He listed "essential needs" as emergency repairs and maintenance required by hospitals, transportation, public utilities, food processing, policy and fire departments, "and other extremely vital repairs and maintenance affecting the public health and safety."

Warehouse Position Important

The suspension of so-called "CC" and "MM" priority ratings would continue in effect for the duration of the strike.

"When normal shipments from steel mills are halted," Small said, "naturally the eyes of industry will be focused on the steel warehouses as the principal steel supply source. However, warehouse stocks of most of the important steel products would only be sufficient to supply the total steel demands of industry for a very short period."

MEAT STRIKE OUTLOOK BLEAK AFTER PARLEY

Fact-Finding Talks Merely 'Explanatory' — Kansas State Militia Alerted

Washington, Jan. 18—(AP)—The meat situation looked bleaker today.

There was no sign Government efforts would bring a quick settlement in the three-day-old strike of 263,000 meat-packing workers.

A Federal Fact-Finding Board opened a study on the strike's wage issue, but its report is not due until February 16—29 days hence.

The fact-finders promised, however, to act promptly on any agreement possibility that would bring a settlement in the walkout before that date.

Secretary of Labor Schwellenbach, who invited all sides to Washington in connection with a futile effort to avert the walkout, ended four hours of conferences last night.

Talks Exploratory

But the talks with packers, CIO, AFL, and unaffiliated union representatives were "exploratory," Schwellenbach told newsmen, with each presenting his position.

Edwin E. White, chairman of the fact-finding panel named by the secretary yesterday, took up the conferences today. Witte, indicated they would be concerned largely with procedure to be followed when formal fact-finding hearing begin.

His associates on the panel, Clark Keer, chairman of the War Labor Board Meat-Packing Commission, and Chief Justice Raymond W. Starr of the Michigan Supreme Court, are not due in Washington until tomorrow, Witte said.

Justice Starr said he would fly from Grand Rapids, Mich., to Washington Saturday morning.

Witte left the door open for an earlier settlement, declaring that any time the fact-finders saw a possibility of agreement they would attempt to obtain one.

Both company and union officials reported after last night's sessions that Schwellenbach did not request an end to the strike during the fact-finding procedure.

Union Demands

AFL representatives said they had not modified their demand for a 15-cents an hour increase; CIO spokesmen declared their demand remained at an immediate increase of 17½ cents, with an additional 7½ cents to be negotiated later. Company spokesmen reiterated that any wage adjustment must be tied to a price increase.

Both unions objected at the opening of the meetings to the presence of officials of the National Brotherhood of Packinghouse Workers an unaffiliated union. They said the brotherhood is not on strike and therefore, not eligible to attend.

Don Mahon, Brotherhood president, told reporters, however, that his union plans to file a 30-day strike notice if Federal conciliation efforts fail. Mahon said the Brotherhood represents 50,000 packinghouse workers.

May Call Militia

Chief of Police William Johns of Kansas City said today he had called Kansas' Attorney Gen. A. B. Mitchell to arrange possible State Guard aid for police who this morning were attempting to subdue renewed disorder at the Swift and Company packing plant.

Declaring that "anything can happen," Johns said groups of from 1,500 to 2,000 persons had formed before the plant. He said from 15 to 25 soldiers and ex-servicemen, all in uniform, had joined the picket lines carrying flags of the United Nations.

Police, in an effort to escort non-striking workers through the picket lines, were repelled four times when they attempted to crash the lines.

A police official warned the strikers that the State Militia would be called unless peaceful entry was permitted.

Police said the resistance subdued after CIO packinghouse workers official, Leslie Orear, appealed to the strikers to permit entry into the plant. Approximately 83 employes entered the plant.

Meanwhile, the supplies of fresh meat in many sections of the country dwindled. Receipts of meat animals increased slightly in the 20 principal stock yards but the most optimistic estimate said the supply of meat in branch wholesale houses of the large packers was sufficient only for six to eight days.

Electric Strike

The strike of 200,000 CIO Electrical workers, the second largest walkout, showed no indications of immediate settlement. Albert J. Fitzgerald, president of the CIO United Electrical Workers Union, in Washington offered to submit the wage dispute to a limited arbitration. He specified that the range for any arbitration award must be between the 25 cents an hour wage hike demanded by the union and 19½ cents.

Westinghouse Electric Corp., one of the three struck firms, said it had not been notified by the union of a desire to arbitrate the wage issue. The walkout, which started Tuesday, also involves General Electric and General Motors, electrical division.

As there appeared no letdown in the industrial strife, the House Labor Committee decided to complete action by Tuesday on fact-finding or some other type of labor legislation.

Telephone Workers Back

The eight-day strike of Washington's 3,000 telephone operators ended last night as operators, who had protested working conditions, returned to their boards in accordance with an agreement reached with the Chesapeake and Potomac Telephone Company.

In New York, the National Committee of Communications Equipment Workers, comprising six telephone equipment workers unions, asked 32,000 aditional employes of the Western Electric Corp. to join the current strike of 17,200 Western Electric Employes Association and the American Communications Equipment Workers.

The Western Electric strike began two weeks ago in 21 plants in New York and New Jersey in a dispute over wages. The strikers demanded better than a 15 per cent wage hike which the company offered.

New York Transit Threat

A citywide strike of 32,000 transit workers who operate all of New York City's municipally-owned subways, buses, street cars and elevated trains may be called within two weeks, Michael J. Quill, president of the Transport Workers Union (CIO), said today.

If such a strike is called, Quill said, it would be in prots against a proposal now under consideration by the Board of Transportation to sell city-owned power plants to the Consolidated Edison Company, major power utility in the New York area.

Meat Supplies Fading Fast In Nation, Dealers Report

CHICAGO, Jan. 18—(AP) The roast on the nation's table was shrinking to the size of a hamburger patty today.

In the third day of a national strike of 263,000 packinghouse workers meat supplies were not exhausted but they were disappearing so fast it was like the wartime shortage all over again.

If the strike continues into next week, it may be really tough—the supply, not the meat.

New York Nearly Out

In New York City Joseph Cohn, counsel for the Meat Trade Institute, Inc., said meat stocks would be exhausted tonight and independent packing houses would supply less than 15 per cent of the city's needs thereafter, but Market Commissioner M. Maldwin Fertig figured it at 25 per cent.

Albany retail dealers said "we'll be caught up over the week end," and packers said the situation beyond Monday was uncertain. Portland, Me., dealers reported a "tight" supply with empty iceboxes likely next week. New Haven, Conn., wholesalers were practically out of meat.

Philadelphia, Boston and Pittsburgh dealers said adequate poultry supplies would fill the gap, but meat supplies were short.

Metropolitan New Jersey had supplies for two or three days of normal buying. The OPA reported widespread over-ceiling charges, as much as 54 cents a pound above proper levels. Baltimore's supply was cut 50 per cent, as the two largest independent packers quit slaughtering.

Washington's supply was "very low," and Miami will have about 75 per cent of normal next week but it's problematical after that.

In Nashville, Memphis and Atlanta meat stocks were running low and five Charleston, W. Va., distributors were down to luncheon meats and wieners.

Ohio Cities Hit Hard

Cincinnati retailers had slim pickings, and Cleveland packers predicted an "acute" shortage by Monday. The Ohio Restaurant Association at Columbus appealed to President Truman to settle the strike, saying most restaurants would be out of meat and would close within a few days. Youngstown, O., stocks dwindled to a trickle except for usually unpopular cuts.

Detroit was a bright spot, reporting no strike and no shortage.

Lexington, Ky., also reported no shortage, with only two of 13 packinghouses struck. Pork was scarce but beef still available in Indianapolis.

Chicago meat supplies were short but determination of the extent difficult because of the large number of small, independent packers still functioning. Branch wholesale houses of major packers were reported to have a six to eight-day supply.

In Milwaukee the proprietor of the "Man O' War" market had a run (no pun) on horsemeat and practically sold out.

Minneapolis—St. Paul meat supplies were "very scanty." South Dakota counters may be bare in 10 days but there was plenty of poultry, eggs, fish, pheasants and rabbits.

Iowa Situation Good

Iowa wasn't short yet but expected to be next week, and independent packers and farm butchers kept Nebraska supplied with beef, but pork and lunch meats were scarce. The St. Louis supply was 70 per cent of normal. Kansas City butchers said only fish and poultry would be left tomorrow, with bacon already gone.

In Denver the Colorado Restaurant Association said most places had enough meat to last out this week. Salt Lake City stockyards officials said Utah and Idaho would have 60 to 80 per cent of normal supplies after this week.

New Mexico had no shortage yet, unorganized independent packers operating normally. Los Angeles supplies were off 40 per cent and probably will be down 50 per cent next week.

At Portland, Ore., and in the San Francisco Bay area supply was cut about 30 per cent, but Seattle, Wash., retail dealers said independents in the state would keep up market stocks. Spokane, Wash., reported ample supplies of pork, mutton and poultry, but beef, lamb and veal short.

GREYHOUND LIMITS FACT-FINDING ROLE

Counsel Says Firm Will Not Abide by Panel's Recommendations, Opposes Opening of Books

WASHINGTON, Jan. 18 (AP)—Ivan Bowen, general counsel for the Greyhound Corporation, told a Government fact-finding board today that the company would not be bound by any board recommendations on the bus wage dispute, and that the concern would oppose any effort to examine its books.

Mr. Bowen said that he would not present evidence or testimony until the panel decided whether it would confine itself to its "proper function" of mediation and conciliation, or would act as "an adjudicating body."

The AFL union, which called off its prolonged strike in the East only when Secretary Schwellenbach named the investigating panel, proceeded to submit its case, and the board reserved decision on the scope of its functions.

As the session opened, Mr. Bowen questioned the partiality of the panel and said that Mr. Schwellenbach and his Labor Department were bound by law to be "partisans of labor."

The counsel promised that Greyhound would cooperate with the panel, however, as long as the company's constitutional rights and "the province of collective bargaining are not invaded."

The AFL Amalgamated Association of Street, Electric Railway and Motor Coach Employes, whose recent sixty-nine-day strike tied up Greyhound operations in eighteen New England, Central and Middle Atlantic States, told the panel that recommendations should be handed down, but the union would not agree in advance to be bound by them.

The dispute arose over a demand for 5.75 cents a mile for bus drivers, instead of the present 5 cents a mile, and other demands.

GI PICKETING SPREADS IN COAL-JOB CAMPAIGN

LANSFORD, P. Jan. 18 (AP)—War veterans and anthracite leaders marked time tonight as picketing by job-seeking ex-GI's spread in eastern Pennsylvania's hard-coal districts.

A steering committee of twenty ex-GI's in the Panther Valley announced it would meet tomorrow to map out a campaign for conferring with industry officials.

Evan Evans, vice president of the Lehigh Navigation Coal Company, whose three collieries in the Panther Valley were shut down by the picketing, reaffirmed his willingness to meet with the veterans.

Joseph Polouka of Nesquehoning, who earlier said he would ask Peter Flyzik, United Mine Workers leader, to meet with mine officials, declared the meeting had not yet been arranged.

Meanwhile, 125 miners were made idle in Centralia in neighboring Columbia County, when twenty-one ex-GI's and other jobless men picketed the Mahanoy Coal Mining Company pit.

The steering committee reported an incompleted survey showed 246 unemployed veterans in the Panther Valley.

In a statement, Evans said 116 veterans who live in the valley and who never worked before had been hired by the Lehigh company. He said 452 ex-service men had been re-employed by the company.

The veterans have demanded dismissal of "outsiders" who they said came to work in the mines from other areas during the war. They said mining was virtually the only form of employment in this region.

None of the picketing veterans was employed before entering military service.

Panther Valley mines were closed Tuesday by refusal of the 7,000 coal diggers to cross picket lines.

PICKETS CALL POLICE BRUTAL

Charges Fly After Tear Gas Use on West Coast.

Los Angeles, Jan. 18 (A. P.).—Charges and counter-charges were hurled today, with almost the same violence as tear gas bombs yesterday, in the wake of a bitter battle at the United States Motors plant, where police forced a path through a picket line for non-striking office workers.

The C. I. O. United Electrical, Radio and Machine Workers Union is on strike at the plant—one of five closed in Southern California, with 3,000 workers out—for a 30 per cent pay increase, eight paid holidays and other benefits.

Boos greeted reading of a Superior Court restraining order, enjoining the more than 500 pickets from interfering with access to the plant.

As leaders urged the massed lines to hold fast, a platoon of police moved toward the main gate. Fighting broke out quickly. Steel helmets of pickets and clubs of police battered skulls and faces. Then the mask-protected police resorted to gas bombs. The picket lines broke and some seventy-five clerical workers entered the plant.

23 Arrests Made.

Of twenty-three persons arrested, three were women. All were released on $50 bond. Two policemen were treated at hospitals for injuries, one for teeth bites on his arm. The union said that three pickets were treated privately.

Union charges of police brutality and strike-breaking were quickly answered in lengthy statements. Here are some excerpts:

Morris Zusman, State C. I. O. president: "This attack was deliberate and premeditated. . . . Mayor Fletcher Bowron has put his Police Department . . . into service as a strike-breaking agency. . . ."

Mayor Bowron: "The assertion that the police have entered into strike-breaking activities is ridiculous. . . . It is a matter of law enforcement. The decrees of our courts must be respected. . . ."

Police Chief C. B. Horrall: "It was very evident that these pickets had intended to cause a disturbance and to resist efforts of the police to maintain law and order, as they were equipped with helmets, clubs, gas tents, gloves and materials to counteract the effect of gas."

ODT TO REMOVE RESTRICTIONS ON RAILROAD TRAVEL

WASHINGTON Jan. 18. — (AP) The ban on railroad sleeping cars on runs of 450 miles or less will be eased beginning February 15 and restrictions curtailing service will be removed altogether on March 15.

Announcing this today, the Office of Defense Transportation set forth this schedule for progressive elimination of the ban:

Runs to Be Restored

Runs of from 351 to 450 miles will be restored February 15. This will return to commercial service 334 of the 895 Pullman-sleeping cars set aside for troop movement last July, ODT said.

On March 1 runs of from 251 to 350 miles will be restored, returning 372 cars.

Restoration of runs of 250 miles or less will be permitted March 15. This will return 189 cars and complete removal of restrictions.

J. Monroe Johnson, ODT director, cited two reasons which he said made it "possible to take this action:"

1. Troop movements which reach their all-time peak in December, 1945, will decrease during the coming months.

"2. Troop sleepers will be available [illegible] able to replace standard Pullmans for military use."

Johnson said production of 1,200 troop sleepers scheduled for completion by last December 31 had been delayed by "labor difficulties." Currently, he added, 711 are ready for use. At the present rate of production, Johnson commented, the entire 1,200 should be in service before March 1.

ODT said the announced schedule for restoration of cars is "subject to the ability of the Pullman company to have all the cars in readiness for use."

Reservation Ban Ending

The ODT also announced today the prohibition against making railroad reservations more than 14 days in advance will be revoked March 15.

This restriction has been in effect since September 9. Prior to that reservations could not be made more than 5 days in advance.

ODT said that after March 15 "the railroads will be free to make such arrangements as they please regarding advance reservations."

The order which had placed a 5-day time limit on reservations became effective last June 29.

Standard Oil of Indiana Accepts 18% Pay Rise

Texas Company in Similar Step; Navy to Yield Seized Plant

CHICAGO, Jan. 18 (AP). — The Standard Oil Company of Indiana announced today it had accepted a United States Conciliation Service arbitration award for an 18 per cent increase in oil workers' wages and would make it the basis for adjustments not only to the employees of the huge Whiting, Ind., refinery but to many others.

The announcement said that in accordance with agreements with unions representing workers at certain refineries, Standard would automatically grant the 18 per cent rise to those employees. In other instances, it said, where 15 per cent increases had already been made the company "cannot adjust the rates on its own initiative but is ready to discuss the subject with the unions concerned."

Navy to Yield Refinery

WASHINGTON, Jan. 18 (AP).—The Navy announced tonight it will turn the Texas Company's Galena Park refinery at Houston, Tex., back to the management Sunday. The action was taken, the Navy said in a statement, because the company and the Congress of Industrial Organizations Oil Workers International Union had settled the wage dispute which originally led to seizure of the facilities. The company has agreed, the Navy reported, on an 18 per cent increase in wages, together with a forty-hour work week.

Earlier in the day, Vice-Admiral Ben S. Moreell, in charge of the seized properties for the Navy, had announced that the Illinois-Indiana division of the Texas Pipeline Company will be returned to the owners Sunday. A similar settlement with the union was effected there, the Navy said.

Fifty-three oil refineries and pipe lines were seized last October by the government as the result of the wage dispute, which threatened Navy petroleum supplies. The Navy still has possession of thirty-five properties.

Fact Finders Meet Today

Move to Avert Strike of 30,000 at International Harvester

CHICAGO, Jan. 18 (AP).—Federal fact finders have called a meeting of management and union representatives here tomorrow in an effort to settle the threatened strike in eleven International Harvester Company plants.

A strike by the 30,000 members of the Congress of Industrial Organizations United Farm Equipment Workers has been called for Monday. The meeting tomorrow will fix arrangements for meetings beginning Monday for the consideration of issues, a telegram from members of the fact-finding board to Gerald Fielde, international secretary of the union, said.

Mr. Fielde, who returned with Grant W. Oakes, union president, from Washington today, said, "Only a signed agreement acceptable to our membership could avert the strike." The union is demanding a 30 per cent wage increase.

Asks Farmers to Sell Cattle

PHILADELPHIA, Jan. 18 (AP).—Peter C. Carron, secretary of the National Meat Industry Council, called today upon farmers to release cattle on the market to ease the meat shortage caused by the packing-house walkout.

"The independent packers," Mr. Carroll said, "would like to fill the gap caused by the strike . . . but the cattle are not available."

Chicago Receives 16,000 Hogs

CHICAGO, Jan. 18 (AP).—More than 16,000 hogs, including 4,000 sent direct to packers, were received at the Chicago markets today despite the strike situation, and were very quickly cleared at ceiling prices by small packers and Eastern order buyers. Last Friday's salable run numbered 8,000 head, with the same number going directly to killers.

Cattle and sheep receipts, however, remained close to the starvation point, with only 2,500 and 3,500, respectively, offered in the open market.

Feeders Demand End of Strike

WAKEFIELD, Neb., Jan. 18 (AP). —President Lawrence Brock, of the Corn Belt Feeders Association, declared in a statement today that the packinghouse strike must be ended soon or farmer-feeders will demand Congressional action. He cited the accelerated consumption of grain resulting from the curtailment of livestock slaughtering.

The corn belt group was organized in Omaha recently to fight subsidies. Membership covers Nebraska, Iowa, Illinois, Missouri, Colorado and South Dakota.

ARMY WILL HOLD TO RELEASE PLAN, EISENHOWER SAYS

WASHINGTON, Jan. 18 — (AP) General Dwight D. Eisenhower promised homesick GIs and their families tonight that the revised demobilization schedule will be "carried out to the letter."

The chief of staff said, however, in an address prepared for broadcast to the nation and by shortwave to posts all over the world, that the army will have to abandon some of its present occupation and liquidation tasks if it fails to retain 1,500,000 men July 1.

"There is no alternative," he said bluntly.

Army Role Cited

Eisenhower advised that "this is a time when maturity and wisdom must assert themselves for the safety of this nation's future.'

"I know how homesickness and boredom may fill a soldier's letters with a disturbing sense of his own unimportance in the pattern of army life," he went on. "But our army is playing a great role in a troubled world. As each of us comes to understand this truth, then he will take pride in the part he is playing.

"The fight has stopped. The urgency of war has gone. But we have a new urgency—the necessity of building a secure peace—a peace purchased with the lives of our comrades. The army's mission is to do its part in establishing and assuring this peace and to support our country in the great cooperative venture of nations.

"For myself, I feel that the practical common sense which is America's birthright will conquer the sharp pangs of disappointment when loved ones are delayed in coming home."

Expressing the hope that his explanation would reach every family at home with a loved one overseas, as well as the men and women still in uniform, Eisenhower detailed the current demobilization in terms similar to those he used this week before members of Congress.

He said the situation had suffered much from "misunderstanding."

"Every man, both abroad and at home, who is surplus to our needs and who can not profitably take the place of a higher point man, is to be discharged as rapidly as he can be processed," Eisenhower pledged. "Our needs do not include made work and useless drill.

"Next, by April 30, this year, all enlisted men with 45 points or with 30 months service will be out of the army or aboard ship returning home.

Slower Pace Necessary

"Finally, by June 30, all enlisted men with 40 points or with 24 months service as of that date will be out of the army or aboard ship returning home. This does not apply to volunteers, of course.

"It represents a slower pace for these few months than the army had tried to maintain. Some men who hoped for discharge by March may have to stay in the army, one two or perhaps three months longer, because we cannot continue to do our job without them."

Noting that five-eighths of the V-E Day soldiers are already civilians, Eisenhower said that "no other demobilization has ever been carried out so speedily, or on a scale remotely comparable to this in vastness.'

But he said that "we had to put on the brakes. That is all."

Army Has Released Many More Men Than It Promised After V-J Day

Washington, Jan. 18—(AP)—Here is a quick look at General Eisenhower's explanation, given to Congress, for the Army's slow-down in releasing men.

1. The Army has released far more—since the war with Japan and Germany ended—than it had planned.

2. If it kept up that rate, it would run out of men necessary to carry out the Army's job in Japan and Germany.

3. Replacements for those overseas veterans through the draft or volunteering—have not been fast enough.

The General said:

"If we were to continue shipping men home at the rate we reached during the past few months, about April we would have nothing left but a woefully inadequate number of volunteers—we would literally have 'run out of Army.'"

Things To Be Done

Yet, in order to keep discharges up to a high rate, the General said the Army has done these things:

1. It has made every effort to get volunteers to replace veterans abroad.

2. It has told General MacArthur in Japan and General McNarney in Germany to cut their soldier requirements to the bone.

3. It has cut the training of new men in this country from 17 to 13 weeks.

He gave this explanation for the excitement over demobilization:

1. The end of the war started an emotional wave to get men out of the Army.

2. The "almost incredible speed" of the War Department in releasing men between the defeat of Japan and Christmas.

General Eisenhower gave these figures to show the Army's speed in demobilization and how it had exceeded its own promises to release men:

Kept Promise

It had planned to let 2,500,000 men go between September 1 and December 31, 1945. Actually, in that time it released 4,165,000, or 1,665,000 more than its plans called for.

Altogether, since Germany fell last May, the Army has released 5,000,000 of the 8,300,000 men it had at that time.

By next July 1 the Army will have released another 2,750,000 men who were in the Army when Germany quit.

Thus by next July 1 the Army will have left only 500,000 of the 8,300,000 it had in service last May. All the rest will be new draftees or recruits.

The General said the speed up of discharges between September and the end of December "undoubtedly helped create confusion by stimulating optimism among servicemen and their families."

He added that recruiting 5,000 men today doesn't mean 5,000 veterans can be released tomorrow, or next month and for this reason:

It takes three to six months to make a soldier of a recruit, ready to step into a veteran's place.

Replacements Slow

He said the shortage of replacements now facing the Army is due to the shortage of drafted men and volunteers in the last six months of 1945.

"Because they did not come in fast enough," the General said, "we must slow down our discharge rate."

ARMY IS PLANNING TO KEEP 6000 WACS

Washington, Jan. 18 (A. P.)).—The Army wants to keep G. I. Jane. Present plans call for a permanent force of women as part of the post-war regular Army. It would be known as the Women's Corps and include Army nurses as well as Wacs.

Major-Gen. Willard Paul, chief of Army personnel, told a Senate military sub-committee yesterday that the projected Women's Corps would be a small group, numbering between 5,000 and 6,000.

"We fully expect to have a permanent group of women in the regular army," Paul said. "They have done a grand job in this war.

Authorization for Wacs, Waves and other women's auxiliaries will expire with the official ending of the war emergency.

HERSHEY LAYS LAG IN DRAFT TO VOLUNTEERS

Tells Senate Group Many Eligibles Join Before Being Called.

HEARING ENDS IN DISCORD

General Would Amend Law to Cut Physical Standards and Fix Length of Service.

Washington, Jan. 18 (A. P.).—Over protests, a special Senate committee ended its public hearings on Army demobilization today after hearing Major-Gen. Lewis B. Hershey, director of Selective Service, blame heavy enlistments for a lag in draft quotas.

Chairman Edwin C. Johnson (D.-Colo.) announced the termination and promptly drew from Senator Briggs (D.-Mo.) a complaint that only one side of the case has been presented. Senator Revercomb (R.-W. Va.), third member of the group, also protested that he had received many letters from soldiers and wanted the committee to look them over.

Johnson replied that the hearings already held should provide Congress and the public with all the facts necessary to answer complaints of G. I.'s who want to get home or out of the Army.

Briggs noted that the committee had heard only top War Department officials and the draft leader and said that he wanted to go further into the matter. "I'm not satisfied," he asserted.

Exchange Words.

"You have been strangely silent while witnesses were here who could answer your questions," Johnson told Briggs.

"I've been trying to listen," Briggs replied.

Finally the three agreed that the committee would file a report, examining any cables, letters or other protests before this is done.

Hershey told the committee that Selective Service had been unable to produce its monthly quota of 50,000 men for the armed forces because so many young men were volunteering. He included among the volunteers the 18 and 25-year-olds, who are eligible for the draft, but it was explained at Selective Service headquarters that such volunteers are counted on the quotas. Hershey also referred to 17-year-olds who, he said, were enlisting in great numbers because they knew they eventually would be inducted. The 17-year-old enlistees do not figure in the draft quotas.

The Army has said that one of the reasons for the slowdown in demobilization is the lack of drafted replacements for overseas veterans.

The draft quota of 50,000 monthly was set after the surrender of Japan.

Hershey recommended to the committee the immediate extension of the draft law, scheduled to expire automatically on May 15. He also made these other recommendations:

1. Amend the Selective Service law to provide a definite period of service. He said that because Congress had authorized volunteer enlistments for eighteen months, "this would seem an appropriate period" for the draft.

2. The Army and Navy should lower their physical standards and apply them so as to produce the required number of men.

3. Persons with substantially less than eighteen months service should be submitted for re-induction.

Fixes Blame On Army.

Committee Chairman Johnson (D.-Col.), told Hershey he wanted it understood that the War Department and not Congress "is responsible for the lack of replacements keeping men overseas after more than two years service.

"I don't want any quibbling about the fact that the President and the War Department have sufficient authority to get replacements for men in the service if they desire to do it," Johnson added.

Hershey said that this was correct, adding that he could draft men a second time upon their return "after five or even ten years of service but I do not think public opimon favors that."

Johnson interposed that Congress had "turned over all the man power in the country between eighteen and forty-five years to Selective Service." If more drafted men are needed to release combat veterans and long-service men, he continued, the War Department can take them.

Hershey recalled that President Truman announced on V-J night that the draft would be limited to the 18-25-year group after Selective Service estimated this would produce 50,000 men monthly.

As Truman Ordered.

"The War Department did not think the 50,000 a month would be enough," the General added. "But the President said that is what we are going to do—and that is that."

"That was not your decision," Johnson broke in, noting that Hershey was in Army uniform and subject to Army orders.

"Oh, no, my boss is the Commander in Chief of the United States, the President," the General disagreed. "I have been separated from the War Department now for five years."

Hershey said, however, that Secretary of War Patterson had agreed to the 50,000 monthly from the 18-25 year age group. At that time, he continued, the Army and Navy were not accepting any volunteers in these age groups but later Congress approved enlistment law that allowed recruiting.

"Every man they recruit in those age groups is one I lose that I counted upon," Hershey said.

Hershey added that he was not taking any high school students under twenty years because Congress directed that "no student be taken in the last half year of study. So I decided not to take any students who had not graduated."

ARMY SPEEDING

VETERANS' BRIDES, CHILDREN TO U. S.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 18—(AP) Approximately 66,000 war brides and children of American servicemen will be brought to the United States in the next six months, starting early next month.

About 60,000 will come from Europe and the remainder from Australia and New Zealand.

Announcing this today, the war department said that the liner Argentina which left New York Wednesday, will bring back 625 women and children from Southampton, England. It will leave on the return voyage late this month.

Nearly 2,500 will be brought in on the Queen Mary, scheduled to leave Southampton for New York early in February. The big British liner will be followed by the Santa Paula, the Vulcania and the Mount Vernon, all sailing from Europe next month.

Altogether 14,500 are expected to leave Europe and Australia in February and approximately the same number are scheduled to depart in each of the following three months from all European theaters.

The first ship to bring back dependents from the Pacific will be the Mariposa, expected to arrive with 1,200 women and children about March 1.

The schedules were made public the War department said, after foreign governments, American immigration officials, other U. S. Agencies and the American Red Cross had teamed up to make possible the mass transfer.

The trips for war brides, the War department emphasized, will not be permitted to interfere with the return of troops. The transfer was delayed, the department added until there was a marked surplus of shipping in all oceans.

HOD-STEEL STRIKE (383

Corporation, started banking blast furnaces, with open hearths next to go down.

Carnegie-Illinois has been operating at only 50 per cent of capacity in the Pittsburgh area this week, following curtailment for the former strike deadline last Sunday midnight.

A United States Steel spokesman said the company was sending workers home "by the hundreds" in the Chicago and Gary (Ind.) area. Of 40,000 employés in that field, he said, only a skeleton force of 5,000 clerical and supervisory workers would be on the job when the strike starts.

Republic and Inland Steel also started curtailing Chicago-area operations.

"Industry's Responsibility"

William Donovan, union district director at Cleveland, declared:

"We'll close down all the steel plants in the Cleveland district 100 per cent. Phil Murray has bent over backward to settle the dispute. The failure is industry's responsibility.

"We'll close the plants down so tight not even a mosquito will get through the picket lines."

More than 25,000 steelworkers were already idle in various disputes connected with the strike. In New York State, 12,400 were idle; Massachusetts, 3,700; Illinois, 3,600; Indiana, 3,500; Pennsylvania, 1,800; Connecticut, 900.

For many of the 227,000 steelworkers in the great steel center of Pittsburgh tonight's work was the last they'll do in the mills until a strike settlement is reached. This involved principally employés of finishing mills and blast furnaces.

Picketing Plans Ready

In finishing mills it was the normal week-end closing. The blast-furnace closings, however, were in anticipation of the strike.

Picketing arrangements were made locally by union district directors. Doughnut and coffee serving lines were planned. Work schedules were ready for skeleton forces of maintenance men assigned to keep mill property in order.

Murray was expected to return to Pittsburgh sometime Sunday to direct the strike.

On Tuesday, his office announced, he will meet with the 21 union members of the negotiating committee for United States Steel and subsidiaries. On Wednesday he is to confer with the union's executive board and 175-man wage policy committee.

The union and the United States Employment Service made plans for setting up bureaus where strikers could file applications for unemployment compensation. State laws vary as to start of compensation.

"We're All Set To Go"

District union officials said the steel workers were angry over collapse of the settlement attempts and ready to strike.

Joseph Goney, district director, said at Pittsburgh:

"We're all set to go. The rank and filers are mad and if it's called off they'll be madder."

Director John Murray, of near-by McKees Rocks, commented:

"All plants will go down according to schedule at midnight Sunday. We have a hard time holding the men in now. They're plenty sore about it."

U. S. PROPOSES AID TO ITALY FOR RECOVERY

Washington, Jan. 18—(AP)—An approaching major power showdown on bankrupt Italy's future finds the United States ready with a plan designed to put the one-time enemy nation back on its economic feet. To achieve that objective in five years, this country will urge the Allies to abandon reparations claims against Italy and to permit the Italians to keep most of their aged merchant marine and their industrial equipment for civilian production.

Details of the plan were disclosed today by officials familiar with it but who cannot be identified by name.

Russia already has advanced a $300,000,000 reparations claim against Italy on behalf of the Soviet Union, Yugoslavia, Greece and Albania.

This country's stand against any such payments has been taken on the ground that the money, in effect, would be extracted from American taxpayers.

Officials base this contention on a compilation of Allied relief to Italy which shows that the United States contribution—by far the heaviest—will amount to nearly $1,000,000,000.

This includes $450,000,000 in UNRRA aid, about 75 per cent of which is financed by this country, $100,000,000 advanced by the now defunct Federal Economic Administration, and approximately $500,000,000 spent by the Army under its program for combatting disease and unrest in occupied territory.

The argument and the figures will be laid before the Four Power Conference scheduled to open Monday in London to draft peace treaties with Itlay, the ex-Balkan enemies, and Finland. Around the table will sit deputies representing the foreign ministers of the United States, Britain, France and Russia.

Except for the UNRRA Aid, this country still holds a technical claim for its relief expenditures. But Govenment officials express belief that these claims, amounting to more than a half-billion dollars, ultimately will be wiped off the books.

Such action, they say, would be based partly on recognition of Italy's contribution to Germany's defeat and partly to speed the general restoration of economic tranquility in Europe.

While expressing belief that Italy will continue to need financial aid after UNRRA expires at the end of this year, these officials emphasize that any further help probably will be contingent upon a progressively improving economic reconstruction.

TRUMAN SELECTS EDWIN W. PAULEY FOR NAVAL POST

WASHINGTON, Jan. 18 — (AP) President Truman today selected Edwin W. Pauley, oil operator and former secretary-treasurer of the Democratic National Committee, to be undersecretary of the Navy.

The action immediately aroused speculation as to whether the President had tabbed Pauley to succeed Secretary James V. Forrestal when the latter quits, as he has said he wants to do soon.

Pauley recently has been American member of the Allied Reparations Commission. His work on the commission is now nearing its end and it had been generally expected he would be named to another government post but his appointment to be No. 2 man in the Navy department came as a surprise. A number of congressmen had been backing Colgate W. Darden, former Governor of Virginia, for the position.

Other Nominations

Mr. Truman also designated:

1. George E. Allen, insurance executive who is one of his most intimate advisors, to serve on the Reconstruction Finance Corporation.

2. W. Stuart Symington, surplus property administrator and former St. Louis electrical manufacturer, to be assistant secretary of war for air.

In addition to Allen's nomination, the President sent to the Senate those of Charles B. Henderson, Harvey J. Gunderson, Henry A. Mulligan and Henry T. Bodman to be directors of the RFC.

Henderson, Gunderson and Mulligan were reappointed. Henderson at present is chairman of the RFC and acting administrator of the Federal Loan Agency, of which the RFC is a subsidiary.

Allen and Bodman will succeed Sam H. Husbands and Charles T. Fisher, Jr. The White House announced that Husbands and Fisher are returning to private business.

Pauley would succeed Artemus L. Gates and Symington would fill the post of Robert Lovett, both resigned.

Pauley Backed Truman

Pauley, who has served on various governmental advisory posts, was an original supporter of the late President Roosevelt and later a backer of Mr. Truman for the vice-presidency.

Pauley, 43, has made a fortune in oil and has banking, real estate and construction interests in California.

Symington, also a wealthy businessman, served in the Army in the First World War. He resigned as president of the Emerson Electric Manufacturing Company in St. Louis to become chairman of the surplus property board last June. He was named surplus property administrator when the three-man board was abolished.

Allen, a jovial Mississippian, is on most intimate terms with Mr. Truman. His relationship to Mr. Truman has been compared with that of Harry Hopkins to Mr. Roosevelt.

of getting some of the money back in surplus disposal.

President Truman revealed today that he is taking steps to incorporate the Surplus Property Administration into the War Assets Corporation. Gregory, quartermaster general of the Army from April 1, 1940, through the war, has just taken over as chairman of the corporation.

Truman Letter To Symington

The consolidation plan came to light in correspondence between Mr. Truman and W. Stuart Symington, in connection with Symington's retirement as surplus property administrator and his nomination as Assistant Secretary of War for Air. The President in a letter to Symington said he concurred in the latter's suggestion that the consolidation be effected.

Gregory is 62 years old and a native of Storm Lake, Iowa. He entered West Point Military Academy at the age of 19 and has been in the Army ever since, serving in various quartermaster corps assignments.

No Change In Procedures

Although formal orders for the merger are not yet out, the General started work in Jesse Jones's former office at the RFC building January 16. The War Assets Corporation was only recently created as a division of the RFC for the Surplus Property Administration.

Gregory said that the shift meant no change in established procedures and policies, but that he hoped with the consolidated authority to "push it along a bit faster."

BRAIN OF DR. LEY FOUND DISEASED

Washington, Jan. 18 (A. P.).—The brain of the Nazi suicide, Dr. Robert Ley, whose word was law over all German workers, had been diseased for years, an Army post-mortem has disclosed.

Army Institute of Pathology scientists who examined the brain after it was flown here from Germany revealed last night that they found a long-standing degenerative process that was sufficient to have impaired Dr. Ley's mental and emotional faculties. They pointed out that the disease process was most marked in the frontal lobes—the part that controls emotion and thinking.

"The degeneration could well account for his aberrations (unsoundness) in conduct and feeling," they said in their report based on whole and microscopic studies of the organ. "Normally, the frontal lobes are requisite for complex types of thinking and they exercise a restraint on emotional impulses."

The institute doctors said that while the gross appearance resembled that seen in brains affected by syphilis, there was no microscopic evidence of that disease.

SOUTHERNERS TO FILIBUSTER ON FEPC BILL

Surprised by Decision to Discuss Measure—Bitter Fight Certain

Washington, Jan. 18—(AP)—The wordiest filibuster since Huey Long's time threatened on Capitol Hill today as the Senate plunged into a knock-down, drag-out fight on the dynamite-packed FEPC Bill.

The advance billing had Capitol Hill harking back to the '30s when Long, as Senator from Louisiana, went on a filibuster marathon during which he discoursed on a myriad of subjects, including the merits of Southern "pot likker."

A solid phalanx of Southern Senators, all pledged to talk plenty, lined up against the Fair Employment Practice Bill which would establish a permanent committee to eliminate racial and religious discrimination in industrial and Governmental employment.

"I'm going to talk against it as long as God gives me breath," Senator Ellender (D-La.) told a reporter.

Senator Eastland (D-Miss.) promised that he and Senator McClellan (D-Ark.) would offer 1,000 amendments to the FEPC legislation between them. Eastland said he would talk "two years" if nececsary.

Senator Bilbo (D.-Miss.), who knows a filibuster when he is in one, informed newsmen he intended to speak twice—"30 days at a time"—against the measure which has been endorsed repeatedly by President Truman.

Caught by Surprise

The unexpected motion which called up the controversial bill before the Senate yesterday took its Southern opponents completely by surprise. A hurried strategy session was ordered, but they made no bones they would use everything in the rule book in their effort to block a vote.

Eastland asserted that consideration of the bill had been "promoted by labor unions to stave off anti-strike legislation."

Backers of the measure were fully aware of the opposition's caliber and ready to take countermeasures of their own.

Their most obvious weapon was a resort to cloture, a seldom-invoked parliamentary device to limit debate. Its adoption requires a two-thirds vote, and they were counting noses to see whether they could get it.

Senator Morse (R-Ore.), a vigorous advocate of FEPC, told a reporter a fundamental issue is involved: Whether the Senate will permit a filibuster to block a vote on "a meritorious matter."

Would Sign Petition

He said he favors unlimited discussion of the merits of the bill, but as soon as it became evident that the speakers were talking only for time, he would sign a cloture petition.

Senator Taft (R-Ohio) likewise said he would sign, but he added he intends to vote against the bill itself.

A prolonged filibuster on FEPC would have the effect of stalling Senate action on all other pending legislation.

It also undoubtedly would impose a further strain upon relations between the President and some members of Congress.

There was a hint of this in the acid comment of Eastland yesterday. The Mississippian told his colleagues he questioned whether Mr. Truman was "competent" for the presidency if he "has the idea this is the most important bill to take up at this time."

ODT WILL LIFT SLEEPING-CAR CURB MARCH 15

Short-Haul Ban To End; Restriction On Reservations Also To Go

Washington, Jan. 18 (AP)—The Office of Defense Transportation today announced two actions which should make civilian travel on railroads easier after March 15.

It disclosed that the ban on use of sleeping cars on runs of 450 miles or less would be progressively eased, with final lifting set for March 15.

Reservation Ban To Be Lifted

The ban against making reservations for railroad accommodations more than fourteen days in advance also will be lifted on that date.

The ban on extended reservations has been in effect since September 9. Before that, the reservation limit was five days.

In announcing the easing of restrictions on sleeping cars, the ODT outlined this schedule for progressive elimination of the ban:

Runs of from 351 to 450 miles will be restored February 15. This will return to commercial service 334 of the 895 Pullman sleeping cars set aside for troop movements last July, the ODT said.

On March 1 runs of from 251 to 350 miles will be restored, returning 372 cars.

Reasons For Action

Restoration of runs of 250 miles or less will be permitted March 15. This will return 180 cars and complete removal of restrictions.

Col. J. Monroe Johnson, ODT director, cited two reasons which he said made it "possible to take this action:

1. Troop movements, which reached their all-time peak in December, 1945, will decrease during the coming months.

2. Troop sleepers will be available to replace standard Pullmans for military use.

Johnson said production of 1,200 troop sleepers scheduled for completion by last December 31 had been delayed by "labor difficulties." Currently, he added, 711 are ready for use. At the present rate of production, Johnson commented, the entire 1,200 should be in service before March 1.

New Equipment To Aid

"With the new equipment in use, and the number of troop arrivals decreasing from month to month, it will be possible," Johnson said, "to meet demands for troop transportation adequately and at the same time allow railroads to restore the sleeping-car service which was eliminated.

"Indeed, after the restoration of commercial sleeping-car service on each of the successive dates scheduled, there will still be available for military use more sleeping cars than were in such use during the peak troop movement of December 1945."

HAWAIIAN HEARING VOTES 6-2 AGAINST CALLING CHURCHILL

Kimmel Calls 'Lie' Report Promotion Came Through Roosevelt Friendship.

Washington, Jan. 18 (A. P.).—A Republican proposal to call Winston Churchill as a witness was rejected, 6 to 2, today by congressional Pearl Harbor investigators in a swiftly paced session that brought these other developments:

1. An assertion by Rear Admiral Husband E. Kimmel that contentions that he had been appointed commander in chief of the Pacific Fleet in 1941 because he was a "friend of President Roosevelt and a Kentucky Democrat" were "misrepresentations and lies."

2. Testimony by Kimmel that President Roosevelt had sided with him at a White House conference on June 1, 1941 against any further transfer of warships from the Pacific to the Atlantic fleets.

3. Kimmel's refusal to draw any conclusion when Representative Clark (D.-N. C.) asked him if "high officials here in Washington on down" to the Army lieutenant who disregarded a radar warning of Japanese planes approaching Pearl Harbor hadn't "muffed the situation and let the Japs outsmart them."

Once Served as Aid.

Outlining his acquaintance with President Roosevelt, Kimmel said it began when he served as an aid to Mr. Roosevelt while he was Assistant Secretary of the Navy, for ten days in 1915. Kimmel said he had not seen Mr. Roosevelt except at formal White House receptions from 1918 until six months after he was appointed fleet commander in February, 1941.

Questioned by Senator Lucas (D.-Ill.) about his statement to Roberts investigating commission four years ago that it was recognized that the fleet was vulnerable to attack in Pearl Harbor, Kimmel said the decision to keep the fleet there had been made before he took command. He added:

"Nobody said to me, 'I will appoint you if you keep the fleet in those waters.' There were no conditions attached to my appointment as commander in chief of the fleet."

Jumped Over 46 Admirals.

Senator Lucas said there had been rumors at the time that Kimmel was "a close and intimate friend of the President" and that Mr. Roosevelt "jumped over forty-six admirals of senior grade to give you the job."

Kimmel said he had heard that, but thought somebody else ought to answer it.

Lucas said there also had been talk that Kimmel was appointed "solely because you were a friend of the President and a Kentucky Democrat."

"Those statements were misrepresentations and lies," Kimmel said sharply.

When he went to the White House in June, 1941, six months after his appointment, Kimmel said he discussed with the President reports that three battleships, a carrier, a detachment of cruisers and two squadrons of destroyers might be transferred from the Pacific to the Atlantic. Other units previously had been transferred.

"The President said, 'Well, they told me that could be done alright and you can defend the Pacific with what is left,'" Kimmel testified.

"I told him: 'That's ridiculous. Nobody in his right mind could make a statement like that.'"

He said the President replied: "That's what I thought, too."

Kimmel said the transfer was not made. He could not identify the "they" referred to by the President, he added.

The action against calling Churchill came before questioning of Kimmel was resumed for the fourth day.

The vote came on a motion of Senator Ferguson (R.-Mich.), to invite the former British Government leader, now on vacation in Florida, to appear at a time that suited his convenience and that of the committee.

Ferguson previously had told the committee he wanted to have

30.24-387

Churchill tell what he knows about any agreement that might have existed with the late President Roosevelt for parallel action on the part of Great Britain and the United States before the Japanese attacked Pearl Harbor.

Barkley Faces Decision.

Six Democratic members of the committee voted solidly against Ferguson's motion. They were Senators Barkley of Kentucky, George of Georgia, Lucas of Illinois and Representatives Cooper of Tennessee, Clark of North Carolina and Murphy of Pennsylvania.

The motion was supported by Ferguson and Representative Gearhart (R.-Cal.) Senator Brewster (R.-Me.) and Representative Keefe (R.-Wis.) voted "present."

Barkley, as chairman, brought the question to a vote by demanding a public decision by the committee. He announced that he neither would issue a subpoena for Churchill nor invite him to attend "unless ordered to do so by the committee."

Ferguson immediately made his motion, but Brewster protested he did not want to vote until he had had more time to study the matter and until the committee had discussed it.

Brewster sought to delay a test by moving to lay Ferguson's motion on the table. The Brewster motion, however, was defeated and Barkley forced an immediate test on the Ferguson proposal.

Brewster was the only one who supported his delaying motion, the other nine committee members voting against it.

Ferguson first brought up the matter of calling Churchill before the committee during its hearings yesterday.

NEW ENGLANDERS PROTEST AGAINST ENDING OF SWPC

WASHINGTON, Jan. 18.—(AP) Operators of small business in New England protested today against elimination of the Smaller War Plants Corporation, contending reconversion of their shops and manufacturing facilities was being delayed.

Rep. Glason (R-Mass.) said employers with a half dozen to 250 workers believed elimination of the agency and the splitting of its functions between RFC and the Commerce Department was putting their interests in the hands of a "big business organization — the RFC."

Transfer Ordered

The transfer of the agency's functions was ordered by President Truman in one step of the government reorganization now in progress.

As a result of the smaller businessmen's complaints, House Minority Leader Martin (R-Mass.) called a conference of New England Senators and Congressmen for Jan. 22. They will hear Edward J. Stewart, Boston, president of the Smaller Business Association of New England, Inc., outline demands that all functions of Smaller War Plants Corporation be placed in the Commerce Department.

Stewart, Clason said, contended that the Commerce Department would be "more interested" in small business than would RFC.

Stewart informed the New England delegation that surplus war materials were not being disposed of quickly enough to assist in the reconversion of smaller shops and plants. As an example he declared in a letter that prior to the war there were 800,000 machine tools in use, compared with 700,000 tools now surplus.

"These should be made available to the smaller concerns to permit their reconversion to be made on as modern a basis as possible," Clason said.

Stewart notified the New England delegation that representatives from small business establishments in Massachusetts, Connecticut, Rhode Island, Maine, Vermont and New Hampshire were interested in the problem.

Academy Wants Boats

Ralph A. Leavit, chairman of the trustees of the Marine Maritime Academy, said tonight he was hopeful ships, lifeboats, and other equipment considered surplus by the Navy would be available for the Maine academy.

Leavitt attended a conference here with maritime officials and representatives of the maritime academies in Massachusetts, Pennsylvania, New York and California.

He said they discussed a proposed agreement whereby each of the states would obtain equipment needed for training purposes. Maine, he said, hoped to get a 110-foot sub chaser, life boats, a public address system, tooling, machinery and lathes.

Maritime and Navy officials indicated, he added, that probably six weeks would elapse before a decision on the release of the material would be announced.

At the request of a Portland, Me., contracting company, Representative Hale (R-Me.), meanwhile investigated the release of maritime commission surpluses for private businesses. He said he had been assured that cranes, lumber, beams, brass, copper and tooling once used at the South Portland yard would be available soon as surplus for private industry. He mentioned that 21 cranes at the yard had been idle since last July 31.

An inventory of all materials is now being made by the Maritime commission, he added.

Hillman Will Study Labor in Germany

Washington, Jan. 18 (A. P.).—Sidney Hillman said after a White House conference yesterday that he will leave next Wednesday to help make a study of labor conditions in Germany.

Hillman will be the American representative on a study commission set up by the World Federation of Trade Unions, of which he is a member. Others on the commission will represent Russia, Britain and France. Their recommendations will be made to the occupying Powers.

GIs Ordered To Salute Generals Empty Jeep

Washington, Jan. 18—(AP)—Rep. Rees (R.-Kan.) told the House yesterday that GI's on a small, South Pacific island have been ordered to salute empty jeeps bearing the white stars of generals.

"I thought the House should know," Rees said, "that it has gotten to the place where our boys must not only salute officers but their empty jeeps as well."

Rees declined to say where the order was issued, but read it into the Congressional Record as follows:

"All Army vehicles bearing the white star of a general officer will be saluted whether it is occupied by a general or not. The vehicle will be saluted if it passes a soldier on the street or if the vehicle is stationary and the soldier passes it. The soldier will also salute all officers riding in a vehicle. When saluting, the soldier should turn his head in the direction of the vehicle or officer and look directly at the object of his salute. All salutes should be rendered wholeheartedly with snap and precision and in a military manner."

UNRRA To Give General Morgan Chance To Appeal

Washington, Jan. 18 (AP)—UNRRA announced today that the ousting of Lieutenant General Sir Frederick Morgan as chief of UNRRA operations in Germany has been suspended to permit Morgan to appeal to Director General Herbert H. Lehman.

The organization had announced termination of Sir Frederick's appointment after statements by him concerning Jewish refugees had aroused criticism both in Europe and this country.

UNRRA said Sir Frederick had been accorded an opportunity personally to present his appeal to Lehman "and to discuss the issues raised by his statements to the press and the action taken subsequently by the administration."

Brig. Gen. W. A. S. Stawell, a deputy chief of UNRRA operations in Germany, is serving as acting chief in place of Morgan, UNRRA said.

Four Contingents Due In California Shortly

Washington, Jan. 18 (AP)—Marine Corps headquarters announced today 540 enlisted men and 61 officers would arrive in California from the Pacific in four contingents during the next ten days.

The first unit, 44 enlisted men and three officers, will dock Sunday with the U.S.S. Windham Bay at San Pedro. They are coming from Japan.

Due from Guam are the following:

U.S.S. Star, due January 21 at San Diego, with 111 enlisted men and seven officers of the 5th Amphibious Corps Signal Battalion.

U.S.S. Lungal Point, due San Diego, January 26, with 283 men and 24 officers of the 10th and 11th 155-Millimeter Gun Battalion and 4th Separate Amphibious Tractor Company.

U.S.S. Hornet, due Los Angeles January 28, with 102 enlisted men and 27 officers.

New Housing Placards Ready

WASHINGTON, Jan. 18 (AP).—The first 100,000 veterans' priority placards to be used in the reconversion housing program have been shipped to Federal Housing Administration offices throughout the country. The Civilian Production Administration said today that builders will be required to display a placard at each dwelling constructed under the program.

Senator Proposes Cut in Wartime Tax On All Luxury Items

Washington, Jan. 18—(AP)—Representative Knutson (R-Minn.) called today for a new 1946 tax cut of $600,000,000 by reducing wartime excise levies on such so-called "luxuries" as liquor, luggage, jewelry, furs and cosmetics.

The Minnesotan, senior Republican on the tax-writing House Ways and Means Committee, announced that he is preparing legislation to cut the excises back to 1942 levels effective July 1.

The bill would slash the tax on liquor from $9 a gallon to $6, and trim the beer tax from $8 a barrel to $7.

If approved by Congress and the President, it would boost the total 1946 tax cut to over $6,500,000,000. Congress in November wrote a law reducing individual income taxes by $2,644,000,000, corporate levies by $3,136,000,000 wiping out $140,000,000 in auto use taxes.

The House voted last Fall to cut back the excise taxes, but the Senate refused to go along.

The Treasury recommended the excise cut-back, but lower individual and corporate reductions than Congress finally approved.

NAVY AIRCRAFT TO TRACK STORMS

Washington, Jan. 18 (A. P.).—The Navy disclosed today that it would track storms with aircraft in the Pacific, Atlantic and Gulf as permanent peacetime program.

Pleased with results of its wartime air reconnaissance of typhoons in the Pacific, the Navy said in a statement:

"So important to the saving of life and prevention of damage is typhoon reconnaissance that specially trained and equipped Navy weather squadrons are being organized. Two squadrons of twelve planes each will operate in the Pacific and another is being planned for the Atlantic and Gulf."

The Navy's work is being closely coordinated with that of the Army and Weather Bureau.

Two Veteran Warships Due At Philadelphia

Philadelphia, Jan. 18 (AP)—Two veteran warships, the San Francisco and South Dakota, will drop anchor at the Philadelphia naval base this week end.

The heavy cruiser San Francisco, returning from the Pacific by way of the Panama Canal, arrives about 1 P.M. tomorrow. The battleship South Dakota is expected at 3.15 P.M. Sunday from the West Coast, bringing along 121 enlisted men and nine officers for discharge.

Arrival of the San Francisco, survivor of the attack on Pearl Harbor, will bring to a close her historic career as an active ship. She will be moored in the back channels of the navy base as a member of the inactive fleet.

Navy Honors Capt. Adams

WASHINGTON, Jan. 18 (AP).—Retired Navy Captain Arthur S. Adams, now provost of Cornell University at Ithaca, N. Y., today received the Legion of Merit for his work in planning and administering the Navy's war-time college training program and shaping its peace-time officer training program.

TROOPSHIP'S FATE HAS NAVY WORRIED

Boston, Jan. 18 (A. P.).—A Navy spokesman said today there was official worry concerning the eventual fate of the disabled troopship Henry Baldwin, now struggling through heavy seas in a gale toward Cape Race, N. F.

The Baldwin reported on Tuesday that her plates had cracked and the Coast Guard cutter Modoc and the Navy tug Paiute went to her aid, about 350 miles off Cape Race. Because of the seas and winds, the Navy said today, the Modoc was not able to take the Baldwin in tow and the Paiute herself suffered a badly damaged propeller shaft that forced her to turn all attention to her own safety.

"There is some worry that the Baldwin may break up," the Navy spokesman said. Last night, he added, the Baldwin was about 110 miles southeast of Cape Race and was proceeding at three to four miles an hour.

Although the Navy said previously that the Baldwin should make port by Saturday, today's announcement said, "No predictions."

The 7,176-ton transport was en route from Antwerp to New York with 589 veterans of the European theater aboard. The soldiers still are aboard the transport.

UNO COMMITTEE INSPECTS BOSTON AREA FOR SITE

Boston, Jan. 18—(AP)—A United Nations Organization Committee charged with the responsibility of finding temporary and permanent headquarters for the world peace agency visits the Blue Hills Reservation, near Boston, and historic Plymouth today.

Dr. Stoyan Gavrilovic of Yugoslavia, chairman of the committee, said they were prospective permanent sites.

The committee will return to Boston, after inspection of possible permanent locations in Massachusetts.

The committee chairman said that a factor in favor of Blue Hills Reservation was that, as a big State park, it would serve as a "buffer" to prevent encroachment of a large city.

A similar consideration in weighing the possibilities of the Concord-Lexington area, he added, were the numeous lakes in that section. He said that a district between Beverly, on the north shore, and Tewksbury was definitely on the examination program.

An insurance company also has offered to make available 1,200 small houses and apartments it plans to construct in Brookline, adjacent to Boston.

Dr. Gavrilovic said that the committee in submitting its recommendations—probably six in number—would only offer the results of its inquiry. Hyde Park, N. Y., which houses the Roosevelt estate, will be among them.

In its search for interim facilities, the committee inspected several hotels, school and business buildings in Boston yesterday.

Four hotels, recently vacated by the armed forces and capable of accomodating 1,000 persons, have been offered in entirety, and two others agreed to furnish quarters for 500, thus meeting the requirements of the UNO.

Hyde Park Fears UNO May Engulf It

Opposes Being Chosen if Organization Proposes to Take Entire Town, Supervisor Says.

Poughkeepsie, Jan. 18 (A. P.).—Hyde Park does not want the United Nations Organization to make its permanent home there if the organization "proposes to take the entire town," Elmer von Wagner, town supervisor, said today.

Von Wagner, a member of the town's UNO committee, expressed approval of the UNO's original plan, which involved planning the site on an area consisting of approximately five square miles, but, he said in an interview, "If they are going to take the entire township, I would not want it at all." He added that he thought he expressed the opinion of the whole community in that respect.

Dr. Stoyan Gavrilovic, committee chairman, has said the committee would need about fifty square miles.

Von Wagner said UNO engineers had visited Dutchess county this week, inspecting the Hyde Park region over an area of from thirty-five to forty square miles. "It isn't logical that the UNO would require that much space," he said.

UNO Called Solution For Zion Problem

Philadelphia, Jan. 18 (A. P.).—The United Nations Organization is the only international authority that can solve the Palestine problem justly, says United States Representative Helen Gahagan Douglas (D.-Cal.).

Mrs. Douglas, a member of the House Foreign Affairs Committee, told Lincoln Lodge, B'Nai B'rith, here last night that the international trusteeship council being set up by the UNO should be charged with the obligation of the carrying out of this decision promptly.

STEEL ROBOT GAVE BLIND-FIRING AIM TO NAVY GUNNERS

Rochester, N. Y., Jan. 18—(AP)—A steel "robot," eight feet high and weighing one ton, gave Navy ships blind-firing power against Japanese Kamikaze and other aerial attacks late in World War II, Eastman Kodak Company disclosed today.

The Mark 57 gun director, utilizing both radar and optical sighting devices, permitted the operator to follow an enemy plane by night or day, through clouds and fog, a joint company-Navy report said.

Guns firing shells containing the proximity fuse were positioned automatically by the "mechanical man" which was installed first on the battleship Missouri and the cruisers Alaska and Guam.

The company said it was continuing manufacture of the director for installation on other naval vessels.

The computer Mark 17, installed in the director to relay movements to another computer below decks, was inscribed as the "brains" of the director which replaced the massive radar indicators in the ship's superstructure and complex devices on deck which directed anti-aircraft fire earlier in the war.

The system, the company said, was the outgrowth of new fire control development begun at Massachusetts Institute of Technology under Dr. Stark Draper. Johns Hopkins University engineers working under the office of scientific research and development contributed to the design.

Also producing the device was Norge Division of Borg-Warner Corp. Norge development work was done from a wooden-scale model built by scientists of the Applied Physics Laboratory of Johns Hopkins University in 1943.

In recognition of its work on the device Norge today was presented with the Naval Ordnance Development Award for "outstanding contributions to the research and development of naval ordnance."

The presentation was made by Vice Admiral George F. Hussey Jr., Chief of the Bureau of Ordnance to Howard E. Blood, Norge president, who also was given a special citation for work on the project.

3 Dead, 19 Hurt in Troop Train Crash

Toll May Be Greater; Men Were Bound for Discharge

MYERSTOWN, Pa., Jan. 18 (AP).—At least three persons were reported killed and nineteen injured in the collision of a troop train, carrying 192 soldiers bound for discharge, and a Reading Railroad freight train tonight five miles west of here.

A Reading spokesman in Philadelphia said the fireman of the troop train, Charles W. Hellings, thirty-two, of Reading, Pa., was the only dead person positively identified.

The troop train, carrying members of the 29th Infantry Division, was bound from Camp Kilmer, N. J., to Camp Shelby, Miss.

Wrecking crews dispatched from Harrisburg and Reading were hampered in their rescue attempts by debris and piles of coal spilled from the freight.

Witnesses at the scene reported that more than half of the soldiers, mostly from Louisiana and Mississippi, suffered some injuries. Ambulances from the near-by Indiantown Gap Army center and the Lebanon Hospital were on hand to care for wounded.

A Reading spokesman said seventeen cars and the locomotive of the eastbound freight were tumbled from the track. Five troop cars of a nine-car train were smashed.

The Good Samaritan Hospital at Lebanon identified two of the injured brought there as Howard Williard, forty-eight, of Philadelphia, engineer of the troop train, and Russell James, a soldier, of Shreveport, La.

Unidentified railroad workers said the coal which spilled over the crushed troop cars made it impossible to determine accurately the number of dead and injured.

Col. Sussman Leaving Fort Dix

FORT DIX, N. J., Jan. 18 (AP).—Colonel Lewis R. Sussman, provost marshal and director of the security and intelligence division at Fort Dix since April, 1941, returned to inactive status here today and will leave for Washington to accept a government post. Formerly with the New York City Police Department, Colonel Sussman pioneered in introducing to military police the latest methods and equipment used by civilian police. He will be succeeded by Lieutenant Colonel James K. Donaghy, formerly assistant provost marshal of the Mediterranean Theater of Operations.

PILOTLESS PLANE SOUGHT BY FLIERS

NEW YORK, Jan. 18 — (AP) Navy planes searched the sea from Rhode Island to New Jersey without sighting a pilotless radio-operated plane which flew wild over the New York Metropolitan area today after getting out of control.

The Coast Guard Air-Sea Rescue Command said tonight that the plane was presumed to have crashed at sea, "after accompanying planes chased the runaway craft around the sky attempting to shoot it down.

The Navy disclosed that pilot planes tried to destroy it after it broke away from control, because it contained "confidential" equipment and because authorities feared it might crash in a populated district.

Coast Guard officials believed the low-winged single-engine craft plunged into the ocean north of Long Island, but the wreckage had not been spotted at nightfall.

The radio-guided plane took off from the Atlantic City headquarters of the Navy Fleet Air Wing Electronic Task Force experimental unit at 11:30 a.m. Its speed was set at 85 miles per hour, and it carried about two and a half hours fuel supply.

At 12:30 p.m., in a cloud bank at 6,000-feet altitude, 30 miles off Cape May, N. J., the two controlling planes lost contact with the small craft. They engaged in a wild pursuit, and then the little plane disappeared.

CAMP SHANKS TO SEND NAZI PRISONERS HOME

NEW YORK, Jan. 18.—(AP) The $30,000,000 Army port installation, Camp Shanks, N. Y., which during the war sent 1,317,898 soldiers overseas, will concern itself chiefly from now on with sending home all German and Italian prisoners of war.

The New York Port of Embarkation said today that henceforth American troops returning from Europe will be processed at Camp Kilmer, N. J., leaving Camp Shanks free to ship out 400,000 prisoners on an average of 115,000 a month.

In addition to clearing prisoners from this country, Camp Shanks will ship out American replacement troops to Europe. The last soldiers to be processed at Shanks for return to civilian life or to other Army units were members of the famed 82nd Airborne Division.

Prisoners, who will be shipped from West Coast camps via the Panama Canal to avoid congesting Western railroads, will be kept at Camp Shanks from 24 to 36 hours, the Army Transportation office in Washington said.

STRIKE MAY HIT N.Y. TRANSPORT

City's Worst Jam Looms If Union Stops Monday

New York, Jan. 18 (AP)—A paralyzing strike by 32,000 workers which would hit all city-owned subways, busses, trolleys and elevated trains, causing the worst jam in New York history, was threatened today by Michael J. Quill, president of the CIO Transport Workers Union.

Quill said the workers might be called out next Monday morning in protest against a proposal to sell city-owned power plants to Consolidated Edison Company, largest utility in the New York area.

Claims Private Operation Costly

Quill said private operation of power plants for the city's transportation system would cost about $10,000,000 more each year and "the jobs of 1,500 men, their seniority, their tenure of job, their pensions are in jeopardy."

The Board of Transportation has been considering selling the power plants because of what it has termed the heavy cost of modernizing them.

Mayor William O'Dwyer said the strike threat would "have no effect on my decision when it is made."

Wage increase and other demands "will be lumped" with the power plant issue if a strike is called, Quill said.

GROMYKO NEVER IDENTIFIED ANY OF THE CRITICAL "VOICES," BUT THE CHARTER HAS BEEN ASSAILED BY MANY SMALL NATIONS FOR GIVING TOO MUCH AUTHORITY TO THE BIG POWERS. IN RECENT WEEKS, BRITISH OFFICIALS HAVE BEEN OUTSPOKEN IN DECLARING THAT THE VETO POWER OF THE GREAT POWERS SHOULD BE RESTRICTED, AND THAT NATIONAL SOVEREIGNTIES BE SUBMERGED INTO SOME SORT OF WORLD PARLIAMENT..

IN HIS DEFENSE OF THE BIG NATIONS' POSITION IN THE UNO, GROMYKO SAID "ALL NATIONS, BIG AND SMALL, ARE INTERESTED IN SECURING A STABLE PEACE AND IN PREVENTING A REPETITION OF NEW AGGRESSION. IN THIS, THEIR INTERESTS COMPLETELY COINCIDE."

"ENDEAVORS TO COUNTERPOSE THE BIG STATES WITH THE SMALL ONES," HE ASSERTED, "CANNOT BE REGARDED WITH SYMPATHY IN THE UNITED NATIONS ORGANIZATION, FOR THIS ORGANIZATION IS A BODY TO PROTECT ALL PEACE-LOVING STATES, BIG AND SMALL."

GROMYKO SAID THE NEW ORGANIZATION MUST DIFFER FROM THE LEAGUE OF NATIONS IN ATMOSPHERE, IN METHODS OF "COLLECTIVE WORK" AND IN ITS EFFECTIVENESS.

"A REVIVAL OF THE METHOD APPLIED IN THE LEAGUE OF NATIONS," HE SAID, "WOULD CAUSE NOTHING BUT HARM TO THE UNITED NATIONS ORGANIZATION."

HE CALLED FOR EARLY ESTABLISHMENT OF A TRUSTEESHIP SYSTEM WITHIN THE UNO, DECLARING THIS "IS AN INSTRUMENT DESIGNED TO ACCELERATE THE GIVING OF A STATUS OF NATIONAL AND STATE INDEPENDENCE TO ALL" DEPENDENT TERRITORIES.

GROMYKO DID NOT REFER TO THE POLITICAL SITUATION IN IRAN NOR THE EXPRESSED INTENTION OF THE IRANIAN GOVERNMENT TO ASK THE UNO SECURITY COUNCIL TO MOVE INTO THE IRANIAN-RUSSIAN DISPUTE OVER THE SELF-GOVERNMENT MOVEMENT IN SOVIET-OCCUPIED NORTHERN IRAN.

PARIS, JAN 18-(AP)-BY UNANIMOUS VOTE, THE FRENCH ASSEMBLY RECOMMENDED TO THE GOVERNMENT TODAY THAT FRANCE SEVER RELATIONS WITH THE FRANCO GOVERNMENT OF SPAIN AND ENTER INTO CONTACT WITH THE EXILED SPANISH REPUBLICAN REGIME.

DESPITE AN EARLIER DECLARATION BY FOREIGN MINISTER GEORGES BIDAULT THAT FRANCE WOULD NOT ACT ALONE AGAINST SPAIN, THE ASSEMBLY DECLARED THAT FRANCE SHOULD "PREPARE HER OWN RUPTURE" WITH THE FRANCO REGIME. FRANCE RECENTLY ASKED THE UNITED STATES, BRITAIN AND RUSSIA FOR A RE-STATEMENT OF THEIR VIEWS WITH RESPECT TO SPAIN.

THE ACTION CAME A FEW HOURS AFTER THE FRENCH GOVERNMENT HAD AGREED TO PROPOSALS OF THE UNITED STATES, RUSSIA AND BRITAIN FOR A EUROPEAN PEACE CONFERENCE IN PARIS IN MAY.

BIDAULT INFORMED THE CABINET THAT HE HAD BEEN ASSURED BY U.S. SECRETARY OF STATE JAMES F. BYRNES THAT 18 NATIONS, BESIDES THE BIG THREE, WOULD HAVE A SAY ON THE TEXTS OF TREATIES WITH ITALY, ROMANIA, HUNGARY, BULGARIA AND FINLAND.

THE BIG THREE FOREIGN MINISTERS HAD DECIDED AT THEIR MOSCOW CONFERENCE THAT FRANCE WOULD BE A SIGNATORY ONLY OF THE ITALIAN PEACE TREATY. FRANCE THEN HAD REQUESTED THAT OTHER COUNTRIES WHICH HAD BEEN VICTIMS OF ITALIAN AGGRESSION BE ALLOWED AT LEAST A HEARING ON SUCH A TREATY.

BERLIN, JAN. 18-(AP)-HELENE SCHWAERZEL, WHO WAS PAID 1,000,000 MARKS ($400,000 AT THE NOMINAL PRE-WAR EXCHANGE RATE) BY HITLER FOR BETRAYING KARL GOERDELER IN THE 1944 BOMB PLOT AGAINST THE FUEHRER, WAS ARRESTED WEDNESDAY BY GERMAN POLICE.

THE ARREST WAS MADE ON HER 44TH BIRTHDAY.

THE SCHWAERZEL WOMAN ONCE WAS A TICKET PUNCHER AT THE LITTLE RAILWAY STATION OF RAUSCHEN, WHERE THE GOERDELERS HAD A SUMMER ESTATE. SHE RECOGNIZED GOERDELER, THE FORMER MAYOR OF LEIPZIG THEN WANTED AS ONE OF THE CHIEF INSTIGATORS OF THE JULY 20 BOMB PLOT, WHEN, WEARING SHABBY CLOTHING, HE ENTERED HER WEST PRUSSIAN PASTRY SHOP FOR A CUP OF COFFEE. SHE HAD HIM ARRESTED.

HITLER WAS SO HAPPY OVER THE CAPTURE THAT HE ORDERED THE WOMAN BROUGHT TO HIS HEADQUARTERS IN EAST PRUSSIA AND GAVE HER A CHECK FOR 1,000,000 MARKS.

SHE HAD ESCAPED DETECTION BY THE ALLIES BY WORKING AS A SEAMSTRESS AND LAUNDRESS IN THE FRENCH SECTOR OF BERLIN SINCE THE OCCUPATION.

THE GERMANS REPORTED THAT GOERDELER WAS SENTENCED TO DIE.

BERLIN, JAN. 18-(AP)-PARTICIPATION OF THE GERMAN PEOPLE THEMSELVES IN THE WEEDING OUT OF NAZIS HAS BEEN PROPOSED TO LT. GEN. LUCIUS D. CLAY, U.S. DEPUTY MILITARY GOVERNOR OF GERMANY, BY AN AMERICAN MILITARY GOVERNMENT COMMITTEE.

THE COMMITTEE, HEADED BY CHARLES FAHY, DIRECTOR OF THE LEGAL DIVISION OF THE U.S. OFFICE OF MILITARY GOVERNMENT, PROPOSED THAT ANTI-NAZI GERMANS BE NAMED AS DE-NAZIFICATION MINISTERS, SPECIAL PROSECUTORS AND AS MEMBERS OF SPECIAL TRIBUNALS IN EACH DISTRICT OF THE AMERICAN OCCUPATION ZONE TO SUPERVISE COMPULSORY REGISTRATION OF THOSE SUSPECTED OF NAZI AFFILIATIONS. FINAL DECISIONS AS TO THE STATUS OF SUSPECTED NAZIS WOULD REMAIN IN THE HANDS OF THE MILITARY GOVERNMENT.

GAMBLING WITH AN EXCESS OF IDLE MONEY TO THE ONE GIVEN BY A FRENCH NEWSPAPER THAT THERE IS "DIRTY WORK" IN THE UNITED STATES TO PRESERVE
AT LEAST PART OF THE HUGE ENTERPRISE.

JAMES S. MARTIN, NEWLY APPOINTED AMERICAN CONTROL OFFICER FOR THE TRUST, SAID HE BELIEVED THERE WERE TWO REASONS FOR IT.

"FIRST," HE SAID "THERE IS A GREAT DEAL OF IDLE MONEY OF DUBIOUS QUALITY WHICH IS REGARDED AS MEANINGLESS BY THE GERMAN PEOPLE.
THE GERMANS ARE PUTTING THEIR MONEY IN FARBEN FOR A GAMBLE. SECOND, I BELIEVE GERMAN SPECULATORS ARE TRYING TO CHALLENGE US. IN EFFECT THEY ARE BETTING THEY ARE SMARTER THAN WE ARE AND THAT FARBEN WILL COME BACK.
IT'S A NICE CHALLENGE AND WE ARE GOING TO MEET IT."

"PERSONALLY I THINK THEY ARE TRYING BY EVERY MANEUVER TO HALT GET OUT."

MAJOR FARBEN PLANTS IN THE AMERICAN ZONE HAD BEEN DESTROYED OR SET ASIDE FOR REPARATIONS. FARBEN NOW IS A "NAME ONLY," HE SAID.

THE REMAINDER, DRAPER REPORTED, WERE BEING OPERATED UNDER STRICT AMERICAN CONTROL IN GERMANY'S MINIMUM ECONOMY PLAN, WITH TITLE OF THE WHOLE VESTED IN THE ALLIED CONTROL COUNCIL. HE REPORTED HOWEVER THAT INFORMATION WAS BEING SOUGHT ON DISPOSITION OF FARBEN PLANTS IN THE OTHER THREE ALLIED ZONES SINCE THE AMERICAN ZONE HAD ONLY 10 PER CENT OF THE PLANTS. HE WAS REPORTED TO HAVE SUBMITTED A PLAN FOR DISPERSAL OF THE REMAINING PROPERTIES AFTER THE PROGRAM OF DESTRUCTION AND REPARATIONS HAS BEEN CARRIED OUT. THIS PROGRAM WAS SAID TO PROVIDE A METHOD OF RETURNING CERTAIN PROPERTIES TO GERMAN OR OTHER OWNERSHIP, WITH UNITED NATIONS CITIZENS BEING GIVEN A PREFERRED STATUS.

THE FRANKFURT STOCK EXCHANGE, AN IMPORTANT PRE-WAR MARKET FOR INTERNATIONAL SECURITIES, REOPENED SEPT. 14 AFTER BEING CLOSED SINCE MARCH, 1945. FARBEN STOCK STOOD AT 123 AT THE OPENING AND ROSE TO 127 IN A WEEK. WITHIN A MONTH, HOWEVER, IT DROPPED TO 99 AND BY OCT. 24 PLUMMETTED TO 78 WHEN THE AMERICAN PROGRAM TO SMASH THE COMBINE BEGAN UNFOLDING.

PEIPING, JAN. 18-(AP)-"CEASE FIRE" TEAMS SENT OUT TO IMPLEMENT THE TRUCE IN CHINA'S CIVIL STRIFE WILL NOT ENTER MANCHURIA AND MAY BE CURTAILED IN JEHOL PROVINCE, IT DEVELOPED TODAY.

WHILE ONE TEAM, HEADED BY COL. RAYMOND R. TOURTILLOT, WENT TO CHIHFENG, MOST NORTHERLY RAILROAD JUNCTION IN JEHOL, A SECOND TEAM'S SCHEDULED ENTRY INTO THE PROVINCIAL CAPITAL OF CHANGTEH WAS CANCELLED.

THE TRUCE COMMISSION'S EXECUTIVE HEADQUARTERS IN PEIPING SAID THE CHANGTEH AIRFIELD COULD NOT ACCOMMODATE AMERICAN TRANSPORT PLANES. OTHER TRUCE TEAMS ARE IN TSINAN AND CHINING IN SUIYAN PROVINCE OF NORTH CHINA AND ARE BEING SUPPLIED WITH RADIO EQUIPMENT.

HEADQUARTERS SAID THE MANCHURIAN PROBLEM WAS COMPLICATED. DISCUSSIONS HERE HAVE CENTERED ABOUT THE REPORTED LOSS OF YINGKOW, SOUTHERN MANCHURIAN PORT, BY GOVERNMENT TROOPS AFTER THE CEASE FIRE ORDER WAS GIVEN.

WITH MANCHURIA RULED OUT, THE SITUATION IN JEHOL WAS BECOMING AN IMPORTANT TEST OF THE POWERS OF THE TRUCE COMMISSION ESTABLISHED BY THE GOVERNMENT-COMMUNIST AGREEMENT.

SHANGHAI, JAN. 18-(AP)-MUKDEN BECAME ONE OF THE MOST IMPORTANT INDUSTRIAL CENTERS IN THE FAR EAST DURING THE 14 YEARS OF JAPANESE OCCUPATION, A CORRESPONDENT FOR THE CHINESE CENTRAL NEWS AGENCY REPORTED TODAY FROM THAT NEWLY-REOCCUPIED MANCHURIAN CITY.

THE CHINESE CORRESPONDENT WROTE THAT IT IS DIFFICULT TO ESTIMATE THE AMOUNT OF CAPITAL THE JAPANESE INVESTED IN MORE THAN 3,000 FACTORIES IN MUKDEN, BUT THAT IT APPEARED EQUAL TO ABOUT HALF THAT OF THEIR OWN HOME INDUSTRIES.

AMERICAN CORRESPONDENTS HAVE BEEN DENIED PERMISSION TO ENTER MUKDEN SO LONG AS SOVIET TROOPS ARE THERE.

THE CHINESE REPORTER SAID INDUSTRIAL EXPERTS ESTIMATED AT LEAST THREE YEARS WILL BE REQUIRED TO GET THE CITY'S INDUSTRIES GOING AGAIN.

"IN THE EARLY DAYS FOLLOWING THE JAPANESE SURRENDER, MACHINERY IN MUKDEN'S FACTORIES WAS STILL INTACT," WROTE THE CORRESPONDENT. "SUBSEQUENT DAMAGE LEFT ONLY THE SHELLS OF THE VAST INDUSTRIAL PLANTS WHICH NOW STAND GUTTED.

"IN THE TATUNG AREA, SMOKE STILL IS SMOULDERING FROM THE CHARRED BUILDINGS, AND IN OTHER AREAS BITS OF BROKEN MACHINERY LIE SPRAWLED AMID PILES OF DEBRIS."

THE CORRESPONDENT DID NOT SAY HOW THE FACTORIES BECAME DAMAGED.

CANBERRA, AUSTRALIA, JAN 18-(AP)-PRIME MINISTER JOSEPH B. CHIFLEY STEPPED INTO THE CASE OF THE BRIGADIER'S FORMER VALET TODAY IN AN EFFORT TO SETTLE A CONTROVERSY WHICH HAS RESULTED IN THE CANBERRA TRADES AND LABOR COUNCIL BLACKLISTING THE OFFICER'S ENTIRE HOUSEHOLD.

THE PRIME MINISTER INTERVIEWED BOTH BRIG. DEREK SCHREIBER, THE DUKE OF GLOUCESTER'S CHIEF OF STAFF, AND SAM BLUMENTHAL, SECRETARY OF THE TRADES AND LABOR COUNCIL. THE COUNCIL CHARGED THAT SCHREIBER HAD INFLUENCED A CANBERRA HOTEL AGAINST THE EMPLOYMENT OF HIS FORMER VALET, CPL. ERNEST C. FIELDS, WHO LEFT THE BRIGADIER'S HOUSEHOLD IN A DISPUTE OVER WAGES.

SHORTLY AFTER THE INTERVIEW, SCHREIBER ISSUED A STATEMENT DENYING THE UNION SPOKESMAN'S ALLEGATION THAT HE PUT PRESSURE ON THE HOTEL KINGSTON THROUGH A BREWERY TO HAVE FIELDS DISMISSED FROM HIS POST AS A BARMAN AT THE HOTEL.

THE UNION ASSERTED THAT SCHREIBER ALSO HAD USED HIS INFLUENCE TO KEEP FIELDS' WIFE, FORMERLY THE DUKE OF GLOUCESTER'S CHEF, FROM OBTAINING A POSITION.

BUT EVEN AS SCHREIBER WAS DRIVING TO PARLIAMENT HOUSE IN AN AUTOMOBILE SENT TO HIM BY THE PRIME MINISTER, THE UNION'S BLACKLIST ORDER WAS WORKING.

THE BRIGADIER'S GARDENER HAD LEFT AND UNION MECHANICS WERE TOLD NOT TO SERVICE HIS CAR IN THE GOVERNMENT GARAGE. UNION OFFICIALS SAID ALL SHOP ASSISTANTS WERE BEING INSTRUCTED TO REFUSE SERVICE TO ANY MEMBER OF THE SCHREIBER HOUSEHOLD.

TOKYO, SATURDAY, JAN.19-(AP)-JAPANESE SOURCES CONFIRMED TODAY THAT THE FORMER JAPANESE MILITARY GOVERNOR OF HONG KONG IS ON THE NEW LIST OF 110 WAR CRIMINAL SUSPECTS WHOSE ARREST HAS BEEN ORDERED BY GENERAL MACARTHUR.

HE IS LT.GEN.RENSUKE ISOGAI BUT ON THE LIST HE HAD BEEN NAMED BY THE ALTERNATE SPELLING OF "ISOGAYA."

ISOGAI IS BELIEVED TO BE IN JAPAN BUT MOST OF THE TOP RANKING MEN ON THE LIST, INCLUDING SIX OTHER GENERALS, PRESENTLY ARE ABSENT FROM THE SURRENDERED COUNTRY, THE CENTRAL LIAISON OFFICE SAID.

ISOGAI WAS CHIEF OF STAFF OF THE KWANTUNG ARMY OF MANCHURIA WHEN IT WAS DEFEATEDBY THE RUSSIANS AT NOMONHAN IN 1939. HE RESIGNED AS A CONSEQUENCE AND RETURNED TO ACTIVE DUTY SHORTLY AFTER THE CAPTURE OF HONG KONG.

GENERAL MACARTHUR'S ORDER FOR THE ARREST OF THE 110 WAS ISSUED YESTERDAY.

AT THE SAME TIME ALLIED COUNTER-INTELLIGENCE HEADQUARTERS DISCLOSED THE ARREST OF LONG-MISSING DR.BA MAW, PUPPET PREMIER OF BURMA. AND IN PEIPING, CHINESE JAILED MAJ.GEN.EUGEN (CORRECT) OTT, NAZI AMBASSADOR TO TOKYO AT THE TIME OF THE PEARL HARBOR ATTACK.

MACARTHUR'S PROGRAM FOR THE REVISION OF JAPAN'S SCHOOL SYSTEM WAS CRITICIZED MEANWHILE IN WASHINGTON BY "AMERICA", THE NATIONAL CATHOLIC WEEKLY, WHICH SAID THAT NO ONE OF THE 30 AMERICAN EDUCATORS SELECTED TO SUPERVISE THE PROGRAM WAS A CATHOLIC. THE WEEKLY CHARGED THAT "THE ABSENCE OF CATHOLIC REPRESENTATION APPEARS TO BE CONSCIOUS EXCLUSION."

BRIG. GEN.KEN R.DYKE, CHIEF OF MACARTHUR'S EDUCATION AND INFORMATION SECTION, REPLIED THAT THE RELIGIOUS BELIEFS OF THE SELECTED EDUCATORS "WERE NOT KNOWN TO US."

"THERE WAS NO ATTEMPT TO DISC

INIMATE," DYKE SAID. "AS A MATTER OF FACT, SOME OF THOSE IN MY SECTION WHO RECEIVED AND CARRIED OUT THE SELECTIONS ARE THEMSELVES CATHOLICS."

THE JAPANESE GENERALS WHOSE ARREST WAS ORDERED INCLUDED TAKEJI WACHI, FORMER CHIEF OF STAFF OF JAPANESE GENERAL HEADQUARTERS, AND TAKASHI SAKAI, ONCE COMMANDER OF JAPAN'S 23RD ARMY. AMONG THE CIVILIANS ORDERED INTO CUSTODY WAS KISHIRO YASUDA, CAPTAIN OF THE TACHIBANA MARU, WHICH AMERICAN PRISONERS HAVE NAMED AS ONE OF THE "HELL SHIPS" IN WHICH ALLIED CAPTIVES SUFFERED AND DIED ENROUTE TO JAPAN.

THE ARRESTED BURMESE PUPPET, DR.BA MAW, WILL BE HELD INCOMMUNICADO "LIKE OTHER TOP PRISONERS", BRIG.GEN. E.F.THORPE, HEAD OF ALLIED COUNTER-INTELLIGENCE, SAID. HE DECLINED TO SAY WHERE BA MAW WAS BEING HELD.

MANILA, SATURDAY, JAN.19-(AP)-THE PROSECUTION NEARED THE END OF ITS CASE AGAINST LT.GEN.MASAHARU HOMMA TODAY. REMAINING TO BE INTRODUCED IS EVIDENCE THAT HE ARROGANTLY REJECTED GENERAL JONATHAN WAINWRIGHT'S FIRST OFFER OF SURRENDER.

THE REFUSAL RESULTED IN CONTINUED JAPANESE SHELLING OF CORREGIDOR AND DEATHS OF ADDITIONAL HUNDREDS OF THE DEFENDERS.

HOMMA DURING HIS TRIAL HAS BORNE LITTLE RESEMBLANCE TO THE LORDLY VICTORY OF BATAAN WHO RANTED AT WAINWRIGHT IN THE SPRING OF 1942. IN COURT, HE HAS BEEN SHY AND MOUSE-LIKE, AND HIS NERVOUSNESS AS THE TRIAL PROGRESSED WAS EVIDENT.

WAINWRIGHT'S TESTIMONY, GIVEN BY DEPOSITION, IS EXPECTED TO BE MADE PART OF THE RECORD.

PREVIOUS WITNESSES HAVE TESTIFIED THAT HOMMA WATCHED THE BATAAN DEATH MARCH AND DID NOTHING TO ALLEVIATE ITS BRUTALITIES; THAT HE KNEW OF THE MURDER BY HIS TROOPS OF DOZENS OF VICTIMS SUCH AS DR. CLARENCE KWANGSON YOUNG, CHINESE CONSUL AT MANILA; AND THAT THROUGH SUCH DIRECT KNOWLEDGE HE WAS RESPONSIBLE FOR SUCH DEATHS.

BUENOS AIRES, JAN. 18-(AP)-JOHN CABOT, UNITED STATES CHARGE D'AFFAIRES, TOLD A PRESS CONFERENCE LAST NIGHT THAT THE ARGENTINE MILITARY GOVERNMENT WAS MAKING NEWSPRINT AVAILABLE TO THE "SUCCESSORS" OF NEWSPAPERS ONCE SUBSIDIZED BY GERMANY.

"THAT IS ONE REASON RELATIONS BETWEEN ARGENTINA AND THE UNITED STATES ARE NOT SO CORDIAL AS THEY SHOULD BE BETWEEN TWO AMERICAN REPUBLICS," HE ADDED.

IN CONNECTION WITH THE CHARGE, CABOT RELEASED THE TEXTS OF 13 "TOP SECRET" TELEGRAMS FOUND RECENTLY IN ARCHIVES OF THE GERMAN FOREIGN OFFICE IN BERLIN.

THE MESSAGES WERE SENT BY ERICH OTTO MEYNEN, GERMAN CHARGE D'AFFAIRES IN BUENOS AIRES, PRIOR TO ARGENTINA'S SEVERANCE OF DIPLOMATIC RELATIONS WITH GERMANY IN JANUARY, 1944. CABOT SAID THE TELEGRAMS "REVEAL CLANDESTINE LINKS" EXISTED AT THAT TIME BETWEEN THE GERMAN EMBASSY AND "A SECTION OF THE ARGENTINE PRESS."

CABOT IS THE RANKING UNITED STATES DIPLOMAT NOW IN ARGENTINA. NO SUCCESSOR HAS BEEN NAMED TO AMBASSADOR SPRUILLE BRADEN, WHO WAS ELEVATED TO ASSISTANT SECRETARY OF STATE IN CHARGE OF LATIN AMERICAN AFFAIRS.

THE NEWSPAPERS LISTED AS HAVING RECEIVED SUBSIDIES FROM THE GERMAN EMBASSY WERE EL PAMPERO, NOW DEFUNCT; CABILDO, WHICH CABOT SAID HAD BEEN RECHRISTENED "LA TRIBUNA" AND IS STILL BEING PUBLISHED; THE CATHOLIC MORNING PAPER EL PUEBLO; AHORA; AND THE DEFUNCT GERMAN LANGUAGE DAILY, DEUTSCHE LA PLATA ZEITUNG. THE LAST PAPER IS SAID BY THE BUENOS AIRES PRESS TO BE CONTINUING PUBLICATION AS THE "FREIPRESSE."

ONE TELEGRAM SIGNED BY MEYNEN ON MARCH 9, 1942 TOLD BERLIN:

"MONTHLY REQUIREMENTS FOR PRESS PURPOSES WILL BE: EL PAMPERO, 42,000 REICHSMARKS; AHORA 7,200 REICHSMARKS; DEUTSCHE LA PLATA ZEITUNG, 7,000 CENTERA. AT THAT TIME THE REICHSMARK WAS VALUED AT ABOUT 40 CENTS, U.S. CURRENCY.

MOST OF THE PAPERS FIGURED ON THE BLACK LIST, WITH THE EXCEPTION OF EL PUEBLO. ANSWERING A QUESTION, CABOT SAID EL PUEBLO WAS NOT ON THE BLACK LIST BECAUSE "IT WAS CONSIDERED IN MAY CIRCLES A MOUTHPIECE OF THE CATHOLIC CHURCH AND WAS NOT PLACED ON THE LIST OUT OF RESPECT FOR THE CHURCH."

THE MILITARY GOVERNMENT RECENTLY ISSUED A DECREE BY WHICH IT COULD SEIZE STOCKS OF NEWSPRINT OF THE GREAT DEMOCRATIC DAILIES SUCH AS LA NACION, LA PRENSA, AND EL MUNDO FOR DISTRIBUTION AMONG SMALLER PAPERS WHICH HAVE BEEN FAVORABLE TO THE PRESIDENTIAL CANDIDACY OF COL. JUAN PERON.

THE TEXT OF THE TELEGRAMS SHOWED HOW THE GERMAN EMBASSY SUBSIDIZED CERTAIN NEWSPAPERS, EVEN TO THE EXTENT OF OBTAINING NEWSPRINT FOR THEM AT A TIME WHEN ALL IMPORTED NEWSPRINT COULD ONLY BE ADMITTED BY NAVICERTS ISSUED BY THE ALLIES, PERMITTING SHIPS TO BRING THEIR CARGOES TO ARGENTINA.

THE TELEGRAMS SHOWED ALSO THAT THE GERMAN EMBASSY USED THE SUBSIDIZED NEWSPAPERS TO INFLUENCE INTERNAL ARGENTINE POLICY AND OBTAIN SUPPORT FOR CASTILLO'S NEUTRALITY POLICY.

JAN 19 1946

BUENOS AIRES, JAN. 18 -- (AP) -- THE ARGENTINE GOVERNMENT TONIGHT REPLIED TO ASSERTIONS BY UNITED STATES CHARGE D'AFFAIRES JOHN CABOT THAT IT WAS MAKING NEWSPRINT AVAILABLE TO THE "SUCCESSORS" OF NEWSPAPERS ONCE SUBSIDIZED BY GERMANY, SAYING THE ACTION WAS TAKEN IN ORDER TO PERMIT THE FREE EXPRESSION OF IDEAS.

CABOT, RANKING UNITED STATES DIPLOMAT IN ARGENTINA, SAID IN A PRESS CONFERENCE LAST NIGHT THAT THE GOVERNMENT'S ACTIVITIES IN MAKING THE NEWSPRINT AVAILABLE TO SUCH PAPERS "IS ONE REASON RELATIONS BETWEEN ARGENTINA AND THE UNITED STATES ARE NOT SO CORDIAL AS THEY SHOULD BE BETWEEN THE TWO AMERICAS."

A DECLARATION ISSUED BY THE SECRETARY OF INDUSTRY AND COMMERCE TONIGHT SAID CABOT'S CHARGES, "POSSIBLY FOR LACK OF INFORMATION, DID NOT INTERPRET EXACTLY THAT WHICH OCCURRED." THE STATEMENT THEN EXPLAINED THAT THE SECRETARY HAD CALLED PAPER IMPORTERS AND TOLD THEM, "THE GOVERNMENT DESIRED AN EQUITABLE DISTRIBUTION OF PAPER TO BE UTILIZED BY ALL DAILIES OF WHATEVER POLITICS UNDER THE SAME CONDITIONS AND AT THE SAME PRICES."

THE GOVERNMENT REPLY TO CABOT'S CHARGES SAID THAT ONLY BY THE ACTION IT HAD TAKEN COULD IT "ASSURE TRUE LIBERTY OF EXPRESSION, WHICH OTHERWISE WOULD BE SUBJECT TO PRESSURE BY CERTAIN INTERESTS AND WOULD MAKE LIBERTY OF EXPRESSION ILLUSORY".

THE STATEMENT DECLARED THAT AS A RESULT OF TALKS WITH IMPORTERS 600 TONS OF PAPER WERE PUT AT THE DISPOSITION OF THE GOVERNMENT, WHICH ALREADY HAD DISTRIBUTED 120 TONS AND IS NOW CONSIDERING REQUESTS FROM SMALL PROVINCIAL PAPERS.

RUSSIAN LOAN (JCC)

WASHINGTON, JAN.18-(AP)-THE UNITED STATES, READY SINCE AUGUST TO TALK LOAN PROSPECTS WITH RUSSIA, HAS RECEIVED NO FORMAL REQUEST FROM MOSCOW FOR A FULL YEAR.

THE STATE DEPARTMENT PROVIDED THIS REPORT ON THE SITUATION AFTER SECRETARY OF THE TREASURY FRED M.VINSON TOLD REPORTERS HE UNDERSTOOD THE SOVIET GOVERNMENT HAD SENT A NOTE ON THE SUBJECT OF A LOAN.

THE DEPARTMENT'S ANNOUNCEMENT LAST NIGHT SAID THE ONLY ACTUAL SOVIET LOAN REQUEST ON RECORD IS ONE TRANSMITTED LAST JANUARY THROUGH W.AVERELL HARRIMAN, U.S. AMBASSADOR TO MOSCOW.

ON THAT OCCASION, THIS COUNTRY REPLIED THAT FUNDS WERE AVAILABLE IN THE EXPORT-IMPORT BANK AND THAT THE LEGISLATION SETTING UP THAT INSTITUTION PROHIBITED LOANS TO NATIONS IN DEFAULT ON PREVIOUS OBLIGATIONS TO THE UNITED STATES.

THE LATTER REFERENCE WAS TO A LOAN MADE TO THE CZARIST GOVERNMENT DURING WORLD WAR I AND NEVER REPAID.

HOWEVER, AFTER CONGRESS VOTED MORE FUNDS FOR THE EXPORT-IMPORT BANK LAST AUGUST AND REMOVED THE PROHIBITION AGAINST LOANS TO DEFAULTING COUNTRIES, THE UNITED STATES NOTIFIED RUSSIA IT WAS PREPARED TO DISCUSS A REQUEST.

THE STATE DEPARTMENT SAID.

IT ADDED THAT SINCE THEN RUSSIAN OFFICIALS IN WASHINGTON DISCUSSED INFORMALLY A POSSIBLE LOAN WITH LEO T.CROWLEY, WHEN HE WAS CHAIRMAN OF THE BOARD OF THE EXPORT-IMPORT BANK, BUT THE SOVIET GOVERNMENT NEVER HAS FILED A FORMAL APPLICATION.

ALTHOUGH THE DEPARTMENT DID NOT DISCLOSE THE AMOUNT REQUESTED LAST JANUARY, IT HAS BEEN WIDELY REPORTED AT $4,000,000,000.

IN THEIR DISCUSSIONS WITH CROWLEY, HOWEVER, THE RUSSIAN OFFICIALS ARE SAID TO HAVE MENTIONED A SUM OF ONLY ABOUT $1,000,000,000, THE FORM OF GOVERNMENT OFFICIALS SAID EITHER AMOUNT PROBABLY WOULD HAVE TO TAKE AND THUS BE SUBJECT TO CONGRESSIONAL APPROVAL.

THESE OFFICIALS CONCEDE THAT THE CONGRESSIONAL BARRIER MIGHT BE A FORMIDABLE ONE.

(CX) DIRECT GOVERNMENT EFFORTS TO SETTLE THE NATION'S TWO BIGGEST LABOR CONTROVERSIES FAILED YESTERDAY (FRIDAY)

THE THREATENED STRIKE OF 800,000 CIO STEEL WORKERS WAS "ON" AGAIN FOR 12:01 A.M. MONDAY, AFTER THE U.S.STEEL CORPORATION REJECTED PRESIDENT TRUMAN'S UNION-ACCEPTED WAGE PROPOSAL.

EFFORTS TO SETTLE THE THREE-DAY NATIONWIDE STRIKE OF 263,000 AFL AND CIO MEAT WORKERS REACHED A STALEMATE IN WASHINGTON AND THE MEAT FACT-FINDING BOARD ARRANGED TO START PUBLIC HEARINGS IN CHICAGO TUESDAY.

PRESIDENT TRUMAN, DECLARING THAT A STEEL STRIKE WOULD "STALL OUR ATTEMPTS TO ESTABLISH A SOUND ECONOMY TO WHICH OUR VETERANS CAN RETURN," APPEALED TO U.S. STEEL TO RECONSIDER ITS REJECTION.

"A STRIKE IN THE STEEL INDUSTRY WILL BE FELT IN PRACTICALLY EVERY MAJOR INDUSTRY IN THE UNITED STATES," THE PRESIDENT SAID IN A STATEMENT. "IT WILL HAMPER OUR RECONVERSION EFFORT."

WHITE HOUSE PRESS SECRETARY CHARLES G.ROSS SAID THE PRESIDENT HAD NO PLANS FOR SEIZING THE INDUSTRY AND NO FURTHER STEPS FOR AVERTING THE STRIKE WERE UNDER CONSIDERATION.

AFTER DIRECT NEGOTIATIONS IN THE WHITE HOUSE BROKE DOWN THURSDAY BETWEEN PHILIP MURRAY, CIO PRESIDENT, AND BENJAMIN F.FAIRLESS, U.S. STEEL CORPORATION PRESIDENT, MR.TRUMAN SUBMITTED HIS PROPOSAL FOR AN 18 1/2 CENT HOURLY WAGE BOOST. THIS WAS ONE CENT LESS THAN THE UNION'S ONCE-LOWERED DEMANDS BUT THREE

AND ONE HALF CENTS ABOVE THE INDUSTRY'S ONCE-INCREASED OFFER.

MURRAY, AFTER A CONFERENCE WITH LEADERS OF THE CIO'S BIG THREE UNIONS--STEEL, AUTO, AND ELECTRICAL--ACCEPTED. FAIRLESS, WHO HAD CONFERRED WITH TOP STEEL MEN IN THE INDUSTRY IN NEW YORK, SENT A MESSAGE OF REJECTION.

FAIRLESS SAID IN HIS LETTER THERE WAS "NO JUST BASIS FROM ANY POINT OF VIEW" FOR A WAGE INCREASE OF THE SIZE THE PRESIDENT SUGGESTED AND SAID U.S. STEEL HAD REACHED THE "LIMIT" IT COULD OFFER WHEN IT UPPED ITS ORIGINAL 12 1/2 CENTS OFFER TO 15 CENTS. AND 18 1/2 CENTS RAISE, HE ADDED, WOULD "RESULT IN GREAT FINANCIAL HARM" TO HIS CORPORATION AND USERS OF STEEL IN GENERAL.

MURRAY CALLED NEWSMEN INTO A CONFERENCE A FEW HOURS AFTER THE PEACE PLAN COLLAPSED AND ASSERTED THE STRIKE "MUST TAKE PLACE."

HE CHARGED THE STEEL INDUSTRY "BAMBOOZLED THE PRESIDENT OF THE UNITED STATES AND THE AMERICAN GOVERNMENT" AND ADDED THAT INDUSTRY "NOW HAS THE FULL AND SOLE RESPONSIBILITY FOR THE STRIKE WHICH MUST TAKE PLACE 12:01 A.M. JAN. 21."

APPEAL CHARGES SOVIET INTERFERENCE BY FORCE WITH INTERNAL AFFAIRS

Call For Inquiry Cites Failure Of Negotiations With Moscow

J. Parris

London, Jan. 19 (AP)—Iran appealed directly tonight to the UNO Security Council to investigate "interference of the Soviet Union, through the medium of their officials and armed forces in the internal affairs of Iran" and announced that direct negotiations with Russia had failed.

The announcement presented the first thorny test of the eleven-member Council on which five major nations, including Russia, have veto power. The Council, to which armed forces eventually will be assigned to maintain peace, was organized formally only last Thursday.

"May Lead To Friction"

The Iranian delegation presented a letter to Gladwin Jebb, Acting Secretary General, stating that a "situation has arisen which may lead to international friction," and adding that repeated attempts of the Iranian Government to negotiate with the Soviet Union had "met with no success."

"Accordingly," the letter said, "the Iranian delegation to the General Assembly of the United Nations, on behalf of the Iranian Government, have the honor to request to you, in accordance with the terms of Article 35 (1), of the Charter, to bring the matter to the attention of the Security Council so that the Council may investigate the situation and recommend appropriate terms of settlement."

Promises Statement Of Facts

The letter said the delegation would assist the Council by supplying a full statement of facts. It was signed by Seyed Hassan Taqizadeh, Iran's Ambassador to Britain and chief of the delegation.

Iran's grievance grew out of the proclamation by an insurgent group of an autonomous government of Azerbaijan in that province of northwest Iran. Earlier, Iranian Government troops sent to quell the uprising there had been halted by Soviet troops occupying the area.

Council On Horns Of Dilemma

The Iranian question is a delicate one for the Council. Should the Council be compelled to make a decision which was critical of the Soviet Union, the unity among the Big Three nations—Russia, the United States and Britain—might be upset at the outset.

On the other hand, should the Council rule against Iran, the faith of little nations in the organization might be shaken.

The Council would have one other course of action—to arrive at no decision, at least for a long time. But this, it is said, would almost certainly damage its prestige.

Some delegates, in earlier discussions of a possible Iranian complaint, expressed opinion that Russia, armed with its veto power, should refrain on voting on any recommendation the Council might make in the dispute.

Calls For Vote Of Seven

The United Nations Charter says that a decision of the Council requires seven votes, including all of the five major nations, on anything but procedural matters, but some delegates have voiced the opinion that discussion of any subject which might lead to a disruption of peace could be considered procedural.

Russia herself has strongly opposed the lifting of the veto power from any decision of the Security Council.

'Big-Power' Plan On Atom Control Unit Accepted

London, Jan. 19 (AP)—The "big power" plan to place the proposed atomic energy commission directly under the United Nations Security Council passed its first test today without opposition.

The test came when Paul-Henri Spaak, president of the General Assembly, called up a committee report providing that the atomic control proposal should go to the Assembly's security committee without discussion on the floor.

Spaak asked if anyone wanted to say anything, but not a word was spoken. He promptly declared the report accepted.

Manuilsky Heads Committee

The security committee of the Assembly is headed by Dmitri Manuilsky, chief Ukranian delegate. Senator Tom Connally (D., Texas) is the United States member.

A committee meeting is expected to be held Monday.

Prime Minister Peter Fraser of New Zealand yesterday contended that the Atomic Commission should be under the direction of the 51-nation General Assembly instead of the 11-nation Security Council, but he did not oppose today's move.

Committee Gets UNRRA Plan

Spaak also sent to a committee on social, humanitarian and cultural problems a British proposal calling on the United Nations to give their full support to UNRRA.

Meanwhile, the chief UNO interests centered on the next move to be made by Iran in line with her announced intention to bring before the new security organization an appeal for action in the Iranian-Russian dispute.

Nasrullas Entezam, an Iranian delegate, said the appeal would be filed "before Monday" with Gladwyn Jebb, executive secretary of the UNO.

Appeal Not Yet Drafted

Entezam indicated that Jebb

JAN 20 1946

would be directed to take the issue directly before the powerful Security Council, although the possibility remained that the Iranians at the last moment would seek ing United States Secretary of State James F. Byrnes, chatted or moved restlessly around the auditorium until repairmen sent word that the system was working.

Membership Expansion Urged

Foreign Minister Georges Bidault of France urged expansion of the European membership in the UNO, saying thirteen countries in both western and eastern Europe were conspicuously absent. After the session he told a reporter the countries were Albania, Austria, Bulgaria, Eire, Finland, Hungary, Iceland, Italy, Portugal, Romania, Spain, Sweden and Switzerland.

Spokesmen for Syria and Lebanon, one-time French mandates which claimed independence during the war, served notice that they expected the organization to rid their countries of foreign troops if other means failed.

British, French Troops There

Both France and Britain promised last month to withdraw their forces from the two Levant states, but it was provided that France would hold garrisons in Lebanon "to guarantee security until such time as the United Nations Organization has decided on the organization of collective security in this zone." British troops had intervened after fighting between native forces and the French.

Faris El Khoury told the Assembly Syria demanded "a complete and early withdrawal" of the foreign troops. He added, however, that it was not planned to pursue the matter further just now, in the hope the demand would be heeded.

He gave his name as Ralph Rose, 31 years old, and said he was a clerk in Brooklyn, N. Y.

Prosecutor F. W. Austin said "Rose claims he was discharged as a master sergeant from the American Army in September in New Jersey. About New Year's Day he was celebrating with some friends and the next thing he remembers is waking up on a ship at sea."

Rose declined to give the name of the ship, where he boarded it or where he landed.

De Gaulle's Utility Plan Awaits Action

Paris, Jan. 19 (AP)—President de Gaulle's program for nationalization of France's electricity and gas industries today awaited action by the Constituent Assembly which last month nationalized five major French banks.

Industrial Production Minister Marcel Paul, a Communist, said the program—presented to the Assembly last night—affected about 2,400 plants, and estimated that it would cost the Government about 200,000,000,000 francs ($1,674,200,000) during the next six years to reimburse the stockholders.

Under the proposed plan, the production of electric energy would be placed in the hands of six regional companies, which would become "owners of the most important plants of French production, corresponding to more than 55 per cent of the total productive capacity of the country," Paul said.

GERMANS ACCUSED OF VAST PILLAGE IN FALLEN NATIONS

NUREMBERG, Jan. 19—(AP) The French prosecution, opening the second phase of its case against Nazi war leaders, charged today that occupied countries were subjected to a systematic pillage which extended through all phases of their economic life.

The [illegible] case, which also will deal with charges of widespread looting of art works, was opened by Charles Gerthoffer, chief of the French prosecution's economic section. It began after Prosecutor Jacques Bernard Herzog asserted the German chieftains had adopted a policy of "utilization of living forces and extermination of the unproductive" in occupied countries.

Gerthoffer will elaborate on the economic phase of the French case when the international military tribunal reconvenes Monday.

Accusing all 22 defendants with "functional responsibility" for the slave labor program in western Europe, Herzog asked conviction on this count "to restore the dignity of human labor which the defendants attempted to degrade."

Fritz Sauckel, czar of the Nazi forced labor program, was Herzog's chief target. He also singled out for particular responsibility Reichsmarshal Hermann Goering, Field Marshal Wilhelm Keitel, Economics Minister Walther Funk and Munitions Minister Albert Speer. Herzog said, however, that the French held all the defendants equally guilty.

He presented to the court a steady stream of decrees and other documents. All detailed methods the Germans employed to bring millions of foreign workers into the Reich to bolster Germany's strained war economy with what Herzog said was an unconcealed intent to deplete for generations the able-bodied manpower of neighbor nations.

Only the swift Allied advance during the latter days of the war kept the Nazis from carrying out new schemes for mass deportation of all able-bodied men and women into Reich munitions plants, Herzog charged.

The prosecutor said foreign workers were forced to work 11 to 12 hours daily. Although they were paid the same wages as Germans, he continued, they were subjected to excessive taxes and frequent heavy fines.

Herzog submitted an estimate from Prof. Henri Dessaile, medical inspector general, which said that at least 25,000 French workers died in Germany after their deportation. Some workers deemed recalcitrant were thrown into reprisal camps or disappeared in political concentration camps, Herzog asserted.

JAN 20 1946

M. Herzog also charged that Arthur Seyss-Inquart, as gauleiter for the Netherlands, issued decrees that left the Germans free to impose virtually any penalty they chose upon youths who tried to evade forced labor.

Sauckel, M. Herzog said, sought to hang the mayor or prefect of one French town, merely to convince Frenchmen they could not evade forced toil. This proposal was made when Sauckel became irritated with continued resistance of the French to labor deportations, the prosecutor said.

Today's was the first Saturday session since the Christmas holiday. The tribunal gave no explanation why the session was considered necessary, but it was deemed possible the judges might decide upon a regular six-day schedule in an effort to accelerate the trial, which wound up its second full month today. Current opinion here is that the proceedings cannot end before June.

Allied Speed Hit Nazi Slave Plan, Court Hears

Nuernberg, Jan. 19 (AP)—Lightning-like Allied advances during the closing stages of the European war disrupted Nazi plans to draft an additional 1,500,000 slave laborers from France and the Low Countries, Assistant French Prosecutor Jacques Bernard Herzog asserted at the war crimes trial today.

Herzog said Fritz Sauckel, boss of the forced labor program, planned to bring in 1,000,000 additional men and women from France and 500,000 from the Low Countries to work in Reich industries.

"The rapidity of the Allied victory prevented Sauckel from realizing his plan of mass deportation," Herzog said. "However, he undertook its execution. Deportations of workers were carried out up to the day of liberation of each territory."

Vichy Acquiescence

Herzog submitted a letter from Sauckel to Hitler reporting that the Vichy regime largely accepted the Nazi labor demands, but that Pétain would not consent to send women to the Reich.

Sauckel sought to draft all men between the ages of 16 and 60 and all women between 18 and 45, as part of a program to obtain 4,000,000 foreign workers in 1944, Herzog said. The Nazi boss concentrated on France as a source of slave labor, the prosecutor added.

Complaint About Frenchmen

Herzog read the minutes of a meeting of German officials in 1944, at which Sauckel complained that Frenchmen were showing no respect to military squads sent to round up workers.

Sauckel proposed on that occasion that the Nazis "make an example" by hanging a prefect or a mayor of some French town where disobedience of labor-enrollment orders was widespread, the prosecutor said.

Herzog noted Sauckel's own statement that 5,000,000 foreign workers were brought into Germany, of whom only 200,000 came voluntarily.

Nazis Planned To Hang Bishop, In 1941, Secret Papers Show

JAN 20 1946

Nuernberg, Germany, Jan. 19 (AP)—A high Nazi official demanded the hanging of Cardinal-designate Count Clemens August von Galen, the Bishop of Muenster, in 1941, and Martin Bormann agreed a death sentence was "appropriate," secret papers of the missing Hitler deputy disclosed.

The demands were made after the bishop in a bitter denouncement of Nazi mercy killings told German mothers their wounded sons returning from the battlefields would be destroyed "like old horses gone lame, or old cows gone dry," because they no longer were productive.

The bishop is one of three German prelates who will be elevated to cardinals in Rome next month.

Property of Catholic Church

The documents, which are the property of the Catholic Church, include letters and minutes of a conference between Bormann, Paul Joseph Goebbels, Propaganda Minister, and Walter Tiessler, official of the Nazi propaganda setup who proposed the hanging. The papers arrived here too late for use in the war-crimes trial, in which Bormann is being tried in absentia.

"After a conference of ministers, Dr. Goebbels discussed with me the sermon of the Bishop of Muenster," said Tiessler's account of the August 13, 1941, meeting in Berlin. "He could not say what effective measures could be taken at that moment.

"I explained to him that in my opinion there could be only one effective measure, namely, to hang the Bishop of Muenster and that I already had informed Reichsleiter Bormann accordingly."

Goebbels Asked Restraint

A second and more insistent plea by Tiessler for the prelate's execution brought this reply from Bormann:

"A death sentence certainly would be appropriate. Considering the state of the war, however, the Führer will hardly order such a measure."

Goebbels counselled restraint, pointing out the position of power held by the bishop in the community, and arguing that it would be better to wait until the war was over to deal with the bishop and the entire Catholic Church within the Reich, the documents disclosed.

Tribute Paid To Bishop

Tiessler noted that Goebbels paid this tribute to the bishop:

"The population of Muenster could be regarded as lost during the war if anything were done against the bishop, and I fear that one could safely include the whole of Westphalia."

The Rev. Edmund A. Walsh, S.J., regent of the School of Foreign Service, Georgetown University, Washington, D.C., and consultant on religious persecution to Justice Robert H. Jackson, chief United States prosecutor, obtained the documents from the archives of the bishop's conference at Fulda in December. Dr. Walsh told this story about the Muenster prelate:

On one occasion twenty Gestapo hooligans invaded the bishop's quarters intent on arresting him. As they burst in he cried: "Only twenty of you! I must be slipping."

No More Arrest Attempts

Outside, hundreds of the bishop's flock were waiting in the street.

"I'll be with you in a moment," the bishop told his would-be captors, "I want my hat and coat."

He emerged clad in Episcopal robes, with his miter on his head and his bishop's staff in his hand.

The Nazis did not dare to lead him outside before his followers under those circumstances.

"They never attempted to arrest him again," Dr. Walsh commented.

SOVIET DESERTERS TAKE OWN LIVES IN GERMAN CAMP

BAD TOELZ, Germany, Jan. 19.—(AP) Ten Russians who fought for the Germans on the Eastern front committed suicide and 21 others slashed themselves in a flaming prisoners' barracks at Dachau today when American soldiers tried to force them to return to Russia, U.S. Army headquarters announced.

The Russians at first had barricaded themselves in the barracks, set it afire, stripped off their clothes, linked arms and invited American soldiers and Polish guards to shoot them. Not a shot was fired by the Americans, who tossed tear gas into the barracks and rushed in armed only with billy clubs, headquarters said.

Gen. Joseph T. McNarney, commander-in-chief of the U. S. forces in Europe, said the only Russians forced to return home under the Yalta agreement on repatriation were those proved to have been Soviet army deserters, to have served in German uniforms or to have aided enemies of the Soviet Union.

None is being forcibly repatriated merely from ordinary acts of ordinary employment in German industry or agriculture, or simply for preferring not to return, McNarney emphasized.

The wounded, prevented from killing themselves by the American guards, were taken to a hospital. All had slit their throats or inflicted other wounds, apparently with razor blades they had hidden in the barracks.

Army officials said the 31 were part of a group of 271 who were members of a force of flying Cossacks commanded by Lt. Gen. Andrei A. Vlassov, who fought for the Germans on the Eastern front. Their return to Russia was demanded by the Soviet government.

The entire group refused to board a train two days ago, but this morning all were induced by the American troops to go aboard, except the 31 holding out in the barracks. Although the Russians were not informed of their destination, they appeared to "sense" they were headed for Russia, the Army announcement said.

Led by Vlassov, a White Russian wanted by Moscow even before the war, the Cossack horsemen fought Red army men during the entire war on the Eastern front.

Propaganda Value Cited

Soviet troops were sworn to hunt down every one of Vlassov's men, and in turn Vlassov's troops were reportedly vowed never to be taken alive by a Soviet soldier. It was conceded, however, that their punch was more in propoganda value to the Nazis than in their actual fighting.

The Russians charged that Vlassov's soldiers, when not fighting, masqueraded as Soviet troops and raped and plundered.

Clues in Passau Murders Fail to Lead to Slayer

PASSAU, Germany, Jan. 19.—(AP) A powerful killer who used 35 gallons of flaming gasoline in attempts to destroy all clues of his crime remained at large tonight, 12 days after he hacked three U. S. military government officers to death in an elegant Danube river villa.

Army criminal investigators who escorted this correspondent through the fire-blackened wreckage of the home once occupied by an S. S. (elite guard) colonel indicated that all the available evidence bore out these assumptions:

Crime Planned Carefully

The slayer was a man. The triple crime was carefully premeditated. Someone familiar with the floor plan of the villa, its furnishings and the habits of its occupants was involved in the murderous plotting.

Two leads ended apparently in blind alleys today.

Investigators ascertained that a Polish prisoner who committed suicide in the Pfarrkirchen jail on Sunday had no burns on his body such as might have been caused by a gasoline explosion, and there was no positive information linking him with the Passau case.

The investigators asserted that prolonged questioning of the attractive daughter of an elderly German servant of the military government was "merely routine." She was known to have been on cordial terms with members of the Passau military government.

Many Germans Questioned

Counterintelligence operatives were said to be still questioning numerous Germans.

These are most of the verified facts pieced together thus far by the squad of khaki-clad detectives:

Military government commander Maj. Everett S. Cofran of Washington, D. C., in private life a city planner of wide recognition, took two visiting friends from Regensburg to an army movie on Sunday night, Jan. 6. They were Capt. Adrien L. Wesseler, New Rochelle, N. Y., a legal officer, and Major Lt. Stanley Rosewater, Omaha, Nebr.

Later the three retired quietly to the upper rooms of the villa.

Maj. Hugo Hesson, Lexington, Ky., a middle-aged agricultural expert temporarily serving with Cofran, was asleep on the ground floor.

A fierce fire broke out about 4:30 a. m. Monday morning in the upper floors. When German firemen got the fire under control, inspection showed that 35 gallons of gasoline which Cofran had stored on the third floor had been emptied in the victims' rooms.

Cofran and Rosewater apparently died almost instantaneously in bed from knifing blows on the skull probably inflicted by a hatchet. Wesseler was wounded fatally, with his forehead dented as if by the blunt back of a hatchet.

Investigators said Hesson told them he was awakened by the fire, and the heat turned him back when he tried to climb the stairway.

No German servants were accustomed to sleeping at night in the villa. No object has been found which could be identified as a murder weapon. A Hungarian naval prisoner of war in a diving suit searched for an entire day along the rocky bed of the half frozen river fronting the villa for such a weapon.

The victims were buried in an American military cemetery at Luxembourg after an autopsy at Regensburg.

Suicide Fraulein Linked To Crime

Passau, Germany, Jan. 19 (AP)—The suicide of a Polish prisoner and the activities of the pretty daughter of a German house servant were investigated today by United States Army secret agents searching for the slayer of three American Military Government officers here January 6.

Hopes of finding the murder weapon were virtually abandoned after a diver searched in vain along the rocky bed of the half-frozen Danube river, in front of the fire-damaged villa where the officers lived. The three were attacked with an ax before the luxurious villa was set afire.

Probe Of Suicide

Representatives of the army Criminal Investigation Division checked on the death in Pfarrkirchen jail Sunday of a Pole charged with illegal possession of firearms.

The prisoner, who had told his captors he fought against the Germans in the Polish Underground Home Army, hanged himself with his belt, and CID agents sought to learn whether fear of being linked to the Passau slayings might have been the motive for his suicide.

The German girl, whose father worked for the Passau Military Government detachment, was questioned at length by the army agents.

Possible Black-Mart Link

Six CID agents and about the same number of counter-intelligence operatives were reported working on the case.

"Half a dozen theories sound plausible," one source said. "The motive could have ranged from personal hatred to international black-market intrigue."

One of the victims, Maj. Everett S. Cofran, of Washington, D.C., who assumed command of the Military Government here about two months ago, had been combating a brisk illegal traffic in food and clothing.

The two other victims were Capt. Adrian L. Wesseler, of New Rochelle, N.Y., and Lieut. Stanley Rosewater, of Omaha, Neb. Wesseler reportedly came to Passau to confer with Cofran on black-market prosecutions.

Munich Bars Farben Stock

FRANKFORT-ON-THE-MAIN, Germany, Jan. 19 (AP)—The Munich Stock Exchange banned today all trading in stocks of the I. G. Farbenindustries, which had almost doubled in price during the past three months despite the United States Military Government's break-up of the giant industrial concern. The move was taken by German brokers in apparent anticipation of a similar ban by the military government.

MORGAN TO COME TO

FRANKFURT, Germany, Jan. 19 (AP) Lt. Gen. Sir Frederick Morgan, prepared today to journey to Washington for consultation with UNRRA officials on his recent statements concerning Jews leaving Poland. UNRRA Director Herbert H. Lehman announced last night that Morgan had appealed his suspension, and had been reinstated as UNRRA chief for Germany, pending action on his appeal.

I. G. [illegible] Director Arrested

HEIL[illegible]B, Germany, Jan. 19 (AP)—The American-controlled Dana News Agency said today that Matthias Pier, I. G. Farbenindustrie director who was primarily responsible for Nazi synthetic gasoline production, had been arrested by American Military Government authorities for his former activities.

Italy Approves Accord On Boost In Relief

Rome, Jan. 19 (AP)—Premier Alcide de Gasperi today signed an agreement under which relief-supply shipments to Italy by the United Nations Relief and Rehabilitation Administration will be increased during 1946 to an estimated value of $450,000,000.

Limited UNRRA assistance previously given to Italy has covered only mothers, children, sick and displaced persons. Under the new agreement, aid will be extended in a comprehensive program of relief and rehabilitation for industry and agriculture.

POPE DISTRESSED BY RUSSIAN ACTS

VATICAN CITY, Jan. 19—(AP) Pope Pius XII issued an encyclical today declaring that religious freedom was denied in Ruthenian territory under the Soviet government.

The encyclical was issued on the 350th anniversary of the reunion of the Ruthenian church with Rome. The Pope appealed to God "to calm the tempest" which he said was causing the clergy in Ruthenia to "suffer for loyalty to the Catholic church."

(Ruthenia formerly was part of Czechoslovakia, but now is in the Soviet Union. It also is known by the name of Carpatho-Ukraine).

The Pope addressed "Ruthenian bishops in prison" and urged priests "to bear the brunt of the struggle for the faith courageously."

Giving the historical background of the Ruthenian church, the encyclical pointed out that after the partitioning of Poland early in the 19th century the regions which Russia annexed were subjected to Czarist persecutions.

The encyclical stressed the Pope's anxiety because of "sad reports" it said had reached him on the present state of the Ruthenian clergy and church.

It said that pressure was brought to bear on the Ruthenians to have them leave the Ruthenian church "under the pretext of political considerations, with the suggestion that Catholics are state enemies."

It declared that Moscow Patriarch Alexei "openly praised the defection of Ruthenians from the Catholic church."

Europe Is In Need, Churchmen Insist

Geneva, Switzerland, Jan. 19 (AP). The World Council of Churches said today that a cable prepared by three prominent churchmen had been sent to the United States taking exception to the recent report of an American delegation which it quoted as saying that churches need not send food to Europe.

The cable, addressed to Robin W. Barstow, New York director of the Commission for World Council Service, asserted the 1,500 calories supplied in the occupation zone by the United States Army were "not sufficient for many hundreds of thousands living in leaking, unheated ruins and cellars."

"Starving And Diseased"

"The chief problem in Germany," the cable said, "is the displaced, wandering, starving, diseased millions of refugees from east of the Oder, Czechoslovakia and the Danubian countries."

The cable cited "especially cruel conditions for children."

Signed By Cockburn

It was signed by J. Hutchinson Cockburn, former moderator of the Church of Scotland and now director of the World Council of Churches reconstruction department here; S. C. Michelfelder, American representative and director of the council here, and Paul Neff Garber, European bishop of the Methodists, who is associated with the reconstruction program.

The American delegation was headed by Bishop G. Bromley Oxnam, president of the Federal Council of Churches in America.

Greek Reprisal Deaths

Athens, Jan. 19 (AP)—The Ministry of Public Order said today that seven persons had been killed and five wounded in reprisal for the slaying near Sparta on Wednesday of the president of a monarchist organization, his 6-year-old son and two other persons.

The Ministry placed the blame for the Wednesday slayings on a Communist band. Authorities in Sparta and Gytheion have asked for immediate police reinforcements.

Hungary Plans To Be Republic

National Assembly Will Act This Month, Tildy Asserts

BUDAPEST, Jan. 19 (AP).—The Hungarian telegraph agency, official government spokesman, today quoted Premier Zoltan Tildy as saying that Hungary would be declared a republic by the end of January.

Tildy, whose coalition government was formed after the election last fall, succeeding a provisional regime set up when the country was freed from German domination, said the republic would be established through action by the national assembly, "in accordance with the Hungarian historical tradition."

The Premier said the revision law would include "those human rights of liberty without which the Democratic development of a nation would be unimaginable."

Hungary was first proclaimed a republic in November, 1918, but that regime lasted only a few months. Soon afterward, Hungary became technically a constitutional monarchy, with the throne vacant and with Admiral Nicholas Horthy as Regent.

TERRORISTS KILL 5 IN JERUSALEM

Radio Station Silenced, Power Station and Prison Bombed.

JERUSALEM, Jan. 19—(AP)—Rioting, explosions and gunfire spread throughout Jerusalem tonight in a bloody outbreak by terrorists in which at least three persons were killed and five wounded, with casualties among both police and attackers.

The Palestine radio station went off the air after attacks on its building and bombing of an electric power station nearby in St. Paul's road.

Police Fire on Rioters

The military radio station JCPA said police opened fire and attackers fired back after the bombing.

Part of the Jerusalem prison was was wrecked in a subsequent explosion, in which the military radio said one British police officer was killed and another wounded.

A British army officer was killed later, the broadcast added, and other casualties included a dead Jew brought to Haddassah hospital on Mount Scopus.

The broadcast said three wounded [illegible], who arrived at the hospital [illegible] a taxi containing a Bren gun and bombs, were arrested immediately.

The outbreak was the third in a month in Palestine. Terrorists rioted twice in late December.

Reports from Tel Aviv said explosions and gunfire occurred there also. Both at Tel Aviv and the nearby village of Ramatgan leaflets, spread by terrorists, proclaimed: "We will fight to the last drop of blood."

The explosions in Jerusalem were spread over at least three hours, starting about 8 p.m. with a blast near the radio station. Apparently no one was killed or injured in this first blast, nor was there any damage to the building.

Steel-helmeted police and soldiers in armored cars rushed through the streets as blast followed blast and sporadic gunfire crackled. Many persons near the scene of the first attack were herded together and detained.

Strong police and military detachments spread throughout the area and established posts on rooftops and in the streets, frequently checking the identity cards of passersby.

An 11 p.m. curfew, already in effect in central Jerusalem, was extended throughout the city.

A mine which exploded in St. Paul's road at the height of the disturbances overturned a military truck but its soldier occupants escaped unhurt.

There was no official indication near midnight whether the situation was considered under control. Gunfire still was being heard.

The radio station and the prison wall appeared to have been the focal points of the attack, although it was reported unofficially that attackers created diversions near the police stations, drawing tommy-gun fire.

It was stated officially that prompt action by police prevented any serious damage to Government property except that to the prison wall.

Jerusalem Protection

JAN 20 1946 NIGHT

Jerusalem, Jan. 19 (AP)—Barbed-wire entanglements were erected today around the general post office, near the site where a British-American committee will conduct hearings on Jewish immigration to Palestine.

DAY

As officials laid plans for the arrival of the committee, police continued to check identity cards and to search for terrorists and forbidden arms.

An official announcement said the committee was expected to reach Palestine early in March after studying conditions in Europe and visiting Cairo.

Representative Arab and Jewish groups have been asked to prepare their case for submission to the committee, which will also consider written testimony presented by individuals.

In Beirut, the Lebanese Government announced that the British-American group would visit Lebanon and has recommended appointment of a Lebanese committee to prepare information on political, social and economic matters.

Threatened Indonesian Christians Rescued

Batavia, Java, Jan. 19 (AP)—Two hundred Indonesian Christians, who said they had been threatened with death by "extremist" Indonesians unless they became Moslems, were evacuated today from the 200-year-old Portuguese-founded village of Toegoe, near Tandjong Priok.

The evacuation was carried out by British Gurkha troops at the request of Dutch authorities.

CHINA TRUCE FAILS TO HALT FIGHTING IN OUTLYING AREAS

SUNDAY AM

CHUNGKING, Jan. [illegible] (AP)—Scattered fighting continued in various zones of China's civil war front tonight, both government and Communist leaders said, six days after the official deadline for a nation-wide truce.

Three-member truce teams, each including an American, a Communist and a central government representative, moved into additional areas to halt reported conflicts, but they were admittedly powerless to end the fighting if rival Chinese leaders continued action after being informed of the truce order from Chungking.

Walter Robertson, American representative on the truce commission, which includes Gen. Cheng Kai-Ming for the central government and Gen. Yeh Chien-Ying for the Communists, said, however, that he and his associates had agreed on "three principles which will put teeth into the orders truce teams will give opposing commanders."

The nature of the three principles was not disclosed.

A high official of the national military council said that Communists were operating in force from the heart of Inner Mongolia to points near the lower reaches of the Yangtze river and were seeking to establish a corridor from the lower Yangtze to Jehol.

Communist quarters in Chungking countered the government charges with assertions that government forces were conducting mopping-up operations around the Honan province highway center of Kwangshan and were "attacking vigorously" the railroad town of Yuncheng in south-western Honan to which a truce team has been assigned. Communists said government forces seized Tsoyun, 30 miles southwest of the rail junction city of Tatung in northern Shansi.

General Marshall, U. S. Presidential envoy who has followed closely every development since he brought national government and Communist leaders together for the formal truce, flew from Chungking to Shanghai today for a conference with Lt. Gen. Albert C. Wedemeyer, U. S. commander in the China theater.

More China Truce Teams Sent Out

Chungking, Jan. 19 (AP)—Truce teams have been dispatched to Hsuchow, railway junction in northern Kiangsu province, and to Kwangshan, highway center in southeastern Honan province, a Communist spokesman announced today.

The teams, latest to be listed among those checking up on the armistice in China's civil strife, included representatives of the Chinese Government, Communist party and the United States Army.

[In Peiping, Associated Press Correspondent Spencer Davis reported truce commissioners conceded at their first press conference that zones of conflict still existed in North China. They specified eight areas on four railway lines. Deadline for the truce was last Sunday.

Fighting Reported

(Gen. Cheng Kai-ming, armistice commissioner for the Government, said fighting was underway at Chining on the Peiping-Suiyan railway; Kupehkow on the Peiping-Mukden railway; Lincheng, Tsiaochuan, Kiaochi and Weihsien on the Tientsin-Pukow railway, and Anyang and Yuanse on the Peiping-Hankow railway.

(Cheng and the other commissioners, Walter Robertson, of the United States, and Gen. Yeh Chienying, representing the Communists, said they had established "a thorough working agreement.")

Four Problems Studied

Committees appointed by the political consultation conference in Chungking sought solutions to four outstanding problems:

1. Reorganization and nationalization of the Chinese Army.
2. Reorganization of the state council and fair representation of all groups in the executive Yuan (Cabinet).
3. Opening of the National Assembly, scheduled to meet at Nanking May 5.
4. Drafting of a new constitution.

Communists on the political committees are pressing actively for establishment of a new parliamentary system modeled after that of the United States or Great Britain.

YANKS GET BREAK ON CHINESE FOOD

JAN 20 1946

Shanghai, Jan. 19 (A. P.)—American forces in Shanghai will pay less for borsch under the new Army-Navy ceiling price list—but the sky is the limit on baked Alaska. That dessert luxury was removed from the list because so few places serve it.

Borsch came down from 675 Chinese dollars to 550, which is about 40 cents in American money. The coffee ceiling was lowered from 450 to 350, which is around 25 cents.

Failure to observe ceilings results in the loss of "in bounds" signs for Shanghai eating places.

General Marshall in Shanghai

SHANGHAI, Jan. 19 (AP)—Gen. George C. Marshall, President Truman's envoy to China, arrived by plane today from Chungking. He conferred tonight in his private suite with Lieut. Gen. Albert C. Wedemeyer, Commander of United States Forces in China. General Marshall said he would hold a press conference tomorrow.

French Seize Junks Carrying Annamese

Saigon, Indo-China, Jan. 19 (AP)—French naval forces, striking to prevent revolting Annamese from using sea lanes, have seized a number of junks laden with Annamese in the Gulf of Siam off the port of Rachgia, it was officially announced today.

MARINES NEAR END OF MISSION IN JAPAN

HONOLULU, Jan. 19—(AP) U.S. Marines on the Japanese island of Kyushu have completed 70 per cent of their primary mission—the disposition of enemy war material—Maj. Gen. Harry Schmidt, commanding the Fifth Marine Amphibious corps, said today.

The job is being done with almost 100 per cent cooperation by the Japanese, who are exploding small-calibre ammunition, dumping heavy ammunition at sea, burning junked aircraft and cutting up guns for scrap metal, he said.

Schmidt arrived at Pearl Harbor today en route to San Diego, where the Fifth corps, which participated in the Tarawa, Marshall, Marianas and Iwo Jima campaigns, will be disbanded.

Jap Structure Upheld

Honolulu, Jan. 19 (AP)—The basic structure of the present Japanese Government must not be disturbed at this time, Maj. Gen. C. A. Willoughby, General MacArthur's intelligence officer, told correspondents here today.

He declined to answer questions of the possible effect if the Emperor were accused as a war criminal.

Willoughby is en route to Washington with the Pauley Reparations Commission.

Aussie Press-Cable Subsidy To End

Canberra, Jan. 19 (AP)—The Australian Government's subsidy for press cables to the United States will be discontinued February 28, Information Minister Arthur Calwell announced today.

Australia's wartime subsidy reduced the rate to the equivalent of 11-3 cents (United States) per word.

Quick Sales To India Sought

New Delhi, Jan. 19 (AP)—Robert P. Patterson, Secretary of War, on a globe-circling survey of American military establishments, said at a press conference today that every effort was being made to speed up a decision on the price the Indian Government would pay for American surpluses in the India-Burma theater.

WORK IS MAPPED ON JAPS' TRIALS

MacArthur Explains Plans On Rules Of Procedure

JAN 20 1946

Tokyo, Jan. 19 (AP)—The long-awaited trials of Ex-Premier Hideki Tojo and other high Japanese war leaders for "crimes against peace and crimes against humanity" were ordered by General MacArthur today in chartering an international tribunal, tentatively scheduled to begin operations March 1.

NIGHT

MacArthur, ordering establishment of the tribunal and announcing its rules of procedure, made clear that the court of five to nine members "will not be bound by technical rules of evidence" and will not recognize official position or obedience to orders as justification for a defendant's acts.

Three Categories Of Crimes

Members of the court will be appointed by MacArthur from nominations submitted by nations signatory to the Japanese surrender. Russia has not yet indicated whether she will participate, but some sources here expressed the belief that she would.

The charter under which the tribunal will operate lists three categories of crimes for which the defendants will be tried:

1. Crimes Against Peace—"The planning, preparation, initiation or waging of declared or undeclared war of aggression, or war in violation of international law. . . ."

2. Conventional War Crimes—"Violations of the laws and customs of war."

3. Crimes Against Humanity—"Murder, extermination, enslavement, deportation and other inhuman acts committed against any civilian population before or during the war. . . ."

Forestalling controversies such as developed during the recent trials of various Japanese commanders accused of ordering or condoning atrocities, the court's charter specifically declares that affadavits and similar statements shall be admitted in evidence—even documents without legal proof of issuance or signature, provided the court deems them genuine or of probative value.

Each defendant will be entitled to counsel of his own choosing, "subject to disapproval by the tribunal." MacArthur will appoint the chief counsel responsible for investigation and prosecution, while any member of the United Nations which fought Japan may appoint an associate counsel.

A majority of the court will be sufficient to convict and impose sentence—subject to review by MacArthur, who can reduce but cannot increase any penalty.

Rules For Jap Trials Proclaimed By M'Arthur

Tokyo, Jan. 19 (AP)—General MacArthur today set the international machinery for the trials of Hideki Tojo, his Pearl Harbor Cabinet and his militarists, charged with "crimes against peace and crimes against humanity."

The supreme commander announced a charter giving detailed procedures for insuring "fair trial for the accused."

Outstanding points of procedure listed included:

1. A majority of the members of the international tribunal present shall be sufficient to convict and impose the death sentence—subject to review by MacArthur.

2. The five-to-nine-man tribunal "will not be bound by technical rules of evidence," and even documents without proof of signature may be accepted.

3. A plea that he acted under orders shall not of itself be sufficient to free a defendant.

Set For Tokyo

The charter provided that the first trial would be held in Tokyo. It has been scheduled tentatively for early March.

"A sentence will be carried out in accordance with the order of the supreme commander for the Allied powers, who may at any time reduce or otherwise alter the sentence," except that he may not increase its severity, the charter noted.

The tribunal membership will be appointed by MacArthur from names submitted by the Allied cal trends for two reasons—first, only local officials will be chosen and, second, the German people are too confused to be much interested in the vague platforms which have been submitted by the four major parties. Still, the first postwar German election is an event worth watching.

From a sample poll which military authorities have taken in the American zone it has been indicated that 77 per cent of the people desire to vote. This enthusiasm would seem to contradict the arguments for postponement of the election which were put forth by the four major political parties. They contended that the Germans were too cold to be interested in politics, and that popular opinions could not be clearly defined because the scope of the social and economic plans to be imposed upon Germany by the Allies was not yet known.

The limitations on the election are that no Nazis may vote, and an insistence that every official who is elected must be indorsed by our Government before he can be sworn into his post. Obviously, it will be a difficult task to sift out all Nazis or those who had some sympathy with Nazi ideology, but the second check on the elected local officials should be effective in screening out any persons not acceptable to our occupational authorities.

While General Clay has decreed that no flags, either American or German, may be displayed at the polls, he has in so far as possible been very liberal in restoring German election traditions. The old system of proportional representation voting which was used under the Weimar Republic will be reintroduced, and in customary tradition the elections will be held on Sundays. American troops

MacArthur Reprimands Japan

TOKYO, Jan. 19 (AP).—General Douglas MacArthur reprimanded the Japanese government today for failure to establish coal production quotas on the basis of capacity output, and for delays in providing for increased food, salary and clothing distribution as an incentive to increased coal production.

Million in Silver Seized in Japan

TOKYO, Jan. 19 (AP).—Sixty-two tons of silver bullion with an estimated value of $1,000,000 have been seized by the 82d Military Government team in Chiba prefecture during the last few days, the United States 11th Corps Military Government section announced. Allied headquarters said the silver was part of loot taken by Japanese military officers prior to the collapse of Japan and secreted in a Chiba area cavalry camp.

Have Mercy, Yuri Asks M'Arthur

Tokyo, Jan. 19 (AP)—A condemned Japanese officer today congratulated General MacArthur on "your great victory," said he was sorry for the two Americans killed in the prison camp he commanded, and appealed for commutation of his death sentence.

Lieut. Kei Yuri wrote from his cell in Sugamo prison that the had tried to make things easier for Allied internees at the Omuta camp on Kyushu Island. Yuri said his camp was so good that "I even received words of praise from General Wainwright."

No mention of the hero of Bataan was made at Yuri's trial.

"You are my only god and savior," Yuri pleaded to MacArthur, the reviewing authority on death penalties. "I will do anything for you I can if you will save me from the death penalty."

3 Jap Palaces Given Away

Tokyo, Jan. 19 (AP)—Emperor Hirohito was granted permission by General MacArthur today to give away three palaces, worth nearly $1,000,000.

Hakone palace, valued at more than $267,000, was bestowed on the Kanagawa prefecture. Hama palace, worth about $390,000, was given to the city of Tokyo, and Muko palace, worth about $320,000, went to the city of Kobe.

Parade Starts Trouble

Hodge demanded cessation of such activities in a radio appeal this afternoon.

Trouble began with a parade last night. Demonstrating student groups marched past the Russian consulate, United States 24th Army Corps headquarters and the Chosen Hotel, headquarters of the Soviet and American leaders.

Banners and placards carried inscriptions denouncing trusteeship although no trusteeship yet has been established under terms of the recent Moscow pact and provisions for setting up such a trust are indefinite.

Two Koreans Killed, Many Injured, 119 Arrested In Riot

JAN 20 1946

By Meyer

Seoul, Korea, Jan. 19 (AP)—Bloody rioting flared in Seoul today as right-wing Koreans renewed demonstrations against Allied trusteeship for their country.

Two Koreans were killed and many were injured in an armed battle at dawn between civil police and more than 200 persons, said to be members of the Koreans Students League, which started the demonstrations.

More than 100 shots were fired as police sought to break up a demonstration at the rear of the Governor General's palace, occupied by Lieut. Gen. John R. Hodge, American occupation commander, and his aides.

119 Koreans Arrested

Korean police, handling their first big job without assistance, arrested 119 Koreans.

Americans were neither molested nor threatened during the sporadic outbursts, which began last night.

There were indications the demonstration was organized to impress the visiting Soviet delegates was attacked again and heavily damaged this morning.

"Let us face the facts," Hodge asked in his prepared radio statement. "The Soviet-American conference to arrange for alleviation of Korea's immediate problems now is in progress. The eyes of the world are on Korea. The world already knows Korea does not want trusteeship. There is no reason for further demonstrations. Continuation of demonstrations and disorders can only hurt the Korean cause."

Last night's parade reached its climax at historic East Gate, where one man was shot and a woman was injured in a melee in which at least thirteen shots were fired.

American military government authorities are investigating.

Girl Beaten

One girl was badly beaten in a melee between Rightist students and young men reported to be members of the Communist party.

The general feeling among American observers was that the anti-trusteeship theme was a blind

Maj. Gen. Archer L. Lerch, new governor general, declared in a statement "I am warning you that the constant quarreling among yourselves and constant clamor, raging and petitioning against a trusteeship, are hurting your cause badly."

Criticized For Being Idle

He pointed out that the Russo-American Commission is working in a room whose windows overlook the broad street where the demonstrations occurred and added:

"The Russians and Americans are practical men. They know the value of work. When they see big strong men and women standing on the street all day waving a flag they wonder just how much Koreans are interested in economic recovery . . . and if Koreans are ready for independence."

Homma's Wife To Ask For 'Simple Justice'

Manila, Jan. 19 (AP)—Self-conscious and apprehensive, Mrs. Masaharu Homma told a press conference today she will be a defense witness at the war-crimes trial of her husband not to plead for mercy but for "simple justice."

Homma, Japanese lieutenant general and former commander in the Philippines, is charged with responsibility for the Bataan "death march" and other atrocities.

In broken English and with the aid of an interpreter, the 44-year-old housewife told newsmen her husband was "very kind and considerate of his wife, children and servants."

Engineer Battalion Is Cited

YOKOHAMA, Jan. 19 (AP).—Lieutenant General Charles P. Hall, 8th Army commander, cited the 106th Engineer Combat Battalion today for heroism on Mindanao

, in the Philippine Islands, between April 22 and June 30, 1945. The battalion built bridges and roads under artillery fire.

Aleman Is Nominated For Mexico Presidency

Mexico City, Jan. 19 (AP)—Miguel Aleman was nominated for president of Mexico today by the Government's reorganized party, now called PRI (Party of the Institutional Revolution). Aleman will make his speech of acceptance tomorrow.

Preceding the formal nomination by Deputy Donato Miranda Guerrero, there was an informal nomination by the Latin American labor leader, Vincente Lombardo Toledano, who spoke of possible "civil war" in Mexico and repeated his charge that "arms and tanks are being brought from the United States" by filibusters for "an armed movement at an opportune moment."

This is the statement about which the United States Embassy recently inquired of the Mexican Government and which the Mexican Government repudiated.

Gen. Arnold Better, Goes On To Chile

Lima, Peru, Jan. 19 (AP)—Gen. H. H. Arnold, commander of the United States Army Air Forces, who was prevented by illness from attending a reception in his honor at the United States Embassy last night, was improved sufficiently today to continue his trip to Chile as scheduled, members of his party said.

The General received treatment at the American Clinic for a heart ailment. He has been making a tour of the west coast of South America

Steel Shutdown On, 55,000 Already Out;

750,000 to Strike Tonight Across Nation; Hopes of Settlement Fade in Washington

Steel Mills Let Fires Die and Lay Off Thousands Before Deadline Arrives

Pickets Are Ready, Some Jump the Gun

First Demonstrations Are Orderly; Bulk of Men Await Midnight Signal

By The Associated Press

PITTSBURGH, Jan. 19.—The greatest shutdown in the history of the steel industry was under way tonight, with thousands of workers already off the job, some quitting work ahead of the time set for a strike—12:01 ... m. Monday—and others being sent home by companies curtailing operations in preparation for the stoppage.

Twenty-nine thousand went on strike at a few scattered plants after the collapse of eleventh-hour negotiations for higher wages, swelling to 55,000 the number of steel workers idle in strikes in various parts of the country, some of them over local grievances.

Workers generally, however, were waiting the official strike deadline which the Congress of Industrial Organizations United Steelworkers of America estimated will take 750,000 workers from their jobs at 1,292 companies in thirty states.

Large steel companies went ahead with the mill-closing program. Spokesmen for the United States Steel Corporation in the Chicago and Pittsburgh areas declared the "curtailment program was going ahead as planned and in quiet fashion."

JAN 20

Close Down Gradually

Steel producers were closing the mills gradually, banking blast furnaces and open hearths, in preparation for the suspension. The shutdown machinery was set into motion almost immediately after the United States Steel Corporation rejected President Truman's mediation wage proposal yesterday, and Philip Murray, president of the union, ordered the strike "into full force and effect" on Jan. 21.

The union's "strike list" embraces a majority of the basic steel producing companies, as well as hundreds of fabrication plants, and also a large part of the aluminum industry.

Reports from the great steel centers of Pennsylvania, Ohio, Indiana and Illinois, which produce the major part of the nation's steel, showed plans for the stoppage progressing in an orderly manner, with no expectation from any quarter that the strike could be headed off.

Pennsylvania Mills Affected

Already idle in Pennsylvania strikes were an estimated 21,000 men, including workers at the Jones & Laughlin Steel Corporation's plants, and the Allegheny-Ludlum Steel Corporation works at West Leechburg. Since the collapse of the wage negotiations more than 7,000 also walked out at the Great Lakes Steel Company in Detroit, and 2,500 struck at the Columbia Steel Company works in Pittsburg, Calif.

In other states, strikes which started earlier, involving local grievances for the most part, affected 12,400 in New York State, 3,700 in Massachusetts, 3,500 in Indiana, 900 in Connecticut and 3,600 in Illinois.

Pickets were out at some of the struck plants. Orderly conditions prevailed. Crowds watched the pickets, wearing armbands and carrying signs, marching in front of the mill gates of Jones & Laughlin's Pittsburgh works. Girls joined the picket line in front of the corporation's strip mill on Second Avenue here.

Damage Is Avoided

The strike started last night as the corporation's Pittsburgh works and spread during the day to its Aliquippa, Pa., plant.

Together the two plants employ 18,000.

A spokesman for the corporation said some workers at the Pittsburgh plant left "without regard for the safety of furnaces or equipment, but that enough supervisors and maintenance men were on duty to avoid damage."

Frank Burke, director of the union's District 16, which includes the J. & L. plant, replied that the company had refused admittance to a union grievance committee sent to tell the workers to "properly service" the furnaces and equipment.

"However," Mr. Burke said, "the men who came in at 4 o'clock yesterday stayed as late as 6:30 this morning to see that the furnaces and other equipment had been sufficiently taken care of to prevent any damage."

Negotiations between the union and the company regarding maintenance workers broke off yesterday following Mr. Murray's strike call.

Largest Exodus Ahead

An estimated 227,000 steel and aluminum workers in the Pittsburgh area, the nation's most important steel center, were expected to leave the mills at the time set by the union.

At Chicago, Joseph Germano, district director of the union, estimated 50,000 workers at plants of the Carnegie-Illinois Steel Corporation, Inland Steel and Republic Steel would be "out" by midnight. He said seventy-seven plants in the Chicago-Gary area would be "virtually shut down" by then adding: "The strike will last until we have won. We do not anticipate any trouble anywhere, any time."

At Ambridge, Pa., site of an American Bridge Company plant, Bert Hough, a union director, told a reporter the workers in his neighborhood "wouldn't jump the gun, but it is tough to hold the men in. The temper of the men is bad—they really want a strike."

In the steel field it was a repetition at many plants of last Saturday's closing operations. On Jan. 12, at the urgent request of President Truman, Mr. Murray postponed the strike to the new deadline.

In West Virginia, 800 limestone and cement quarrymen were notified that operations would cease immediately because of the scheduled steel strike. The quarries supply fluxing stone and lime to a number of steel factories.

The American Iron and Steel Institute has estimated that "over 40 per cent of all the factory workers in the country earn their living by making steel into useful products."

Plants to be struck, by states, as listed by the union:

Pennsylvania, 423; Ohio, 215; New York, 106; Michigan, 97; Illinois, 78; California, 64; Indiana 58; Massachusetts, 37, New Jersey 35; West Virginia, 35; Tennessee 17; Wisconsin, 16; Alabama, 16; Texas, 16; Connecticut, 12; Maryland, 11; Kentucky, 10; Rhode Island, 7; Utah, 7; New Hampshire, 5; Delaware, 5; Georgia, 5; Colorado, 5; Virginia, 4; Arkansas 1; Washington, 2; Montana, 2; Missouri, 1; North Carolina, 1 and Oklahoma, 1.

Pennsylvania Hardest Hit

Pennsylvania, the largest steel-producing state, has nearly one-third of the nation's steel ingot producing capacity. Its capacity in 1945 was 29,679,770 tons, says the American Iron and Steel Institute.

Ohio is the second steel state with a capacity of 19,397,000 tons.

Others: Indiana, 11,110,300; Illinois, 8,543,220; New York, 4,350,000; Maryland, 4,189,000; Alabama, 3,509,400; Michigan, 3,190,420; West Virginia, 2,186,000; California, 1,940,820; Utah, 1,283,400; Colorado, 1,272,000; Kentucky, 1,196,100; Minnesota, 610,400; Texas, 500,320; New Jersey, 463,000; Delaware, 460,000; Missouri, 426,000; Washington, 346,800; Massachusetts, 280,000; Connecticut, 188,280; Georgia, 154,000; Oklahoma, 63,450; Oregon, 60,000; Rhode Island, 60,000; Tennessee, 38,000; Virginia, 7,500.

The capacity for the nation in 1945 was given as 95,505,280 tons.

Kaiser Accepts Terms Drafted by Truman

WASHINGTON, Jan. 19—(AP) Henry J. Kaiser signed up today under President Truman's compromise wage plan to keep his California steel plant in operation while the bulk of the industry got set for an economy-shaking shutdown Monday.

The C.I.O.-Steelworkers, meanwhile, reported that they were dickering for additional breaks in the industry front against their pared-down demand for a boost of at least 18 1-2 cents an hour.

Kaiser Plant to Operate

Elsewhere 750,000 C.I.O.-Steelworkers were ready to walk out of steel plants as of 12:01 a.m. Monday in a crucial reconversion struggle. Some jumped the gun.

An official close to the presidentially-sponsored negotiations which collapsed yesterday said there was no indication that the White House would initiate any new steel move before the walkout.

C.I.O. President Philip Murray said the Fontana workers had not been included in the nationwide strike poll by which the walkout was authorized, because of a "temporary agreement" which he had with the union leaders there. Murray said that the agreement provided for a meeting with him in the event of any "action."

The steelworkers' chief declined to discuss the question whether the Fontana workers actually would have joined in the strike Monday.

Did Not Favor Strike

An associate of Kaiser said it was his understanding that the majority of workers did not favor going on strike, but that "we were not sure that they would not strike."

Questioned about Kaiser's relations with the balance of the industry in the east, this associate said that the firm had waged a struggle "all the way through" the war over keeping the Fontana plant open and operating.

A Kaiser representative said that the company was producing very little steel for use of Kaiser operations, and that the steel would be available to other companies. Much of the Fontana output at present is being exported to France, he said.

Mr. Truman had suggested the 18 1-2 cent increase as a compromise between the union's 19 1-2-cent demand and the U.S. Steel corporation's counter of 15 cents. The corporation, accepted here as representing the entire industry concentrated in the east and midwest, turned it down as too high.

But Kaiser, who has battled the eastern steel kings throughout the war, asked "who in the industry is smart enough to measure efficiency at two per cent." He estimated the 3 1-2-cent difference between the U.S. Steel offer and the President's proposal was two pe cent.

"Can anyone hesitate to save nation for 3 1-2 cents?" K asked after a White House c ence with President Trum President Philip Murr Steelworkers union.

Kaiser's Statement At The White House

JAN 20 1

Washington, Jan. 19 (AP)—Following is the text of a statement at the White House by Henry J. Kaiser, West Coast steel producer, after signing a contract with the CIO steelworkers:

I came to the White House this morning as an American who believes in his country. I have informed the President of the United States that I have sufficient faith in this great nation to humbly take the lead in peace—as I endeavored to do in war—in helping our people and our world establish the sincere and honest relationship which these critical times require.

I have signed this agreement with President Murray of the steelworkers union because I am confident that only by integrity and fair play on the part of both labor and management can we ride the perilous seas up ahead and achieve industrial harmony and security of our people.

Unity Called Vital

Like many other Americans, I learned what co-operation could do for a nation under attack by its enemy in time of war. The greatness that is America's was achieved through the unity, which was the common result of the contributions of both labor and management.

30.24-409

It is not only time now to sing Ameica but it's time to live and love it. This is a crisis! Shall we support the President of the United States? The people's answer will be, yes—it can be no other way. Too much is at stake not to support him.

President Termed Sincere

The President's proposal which I have accepted was made by him in utmost sincerity with an understanding of the human relationship and economic factors that are essential to a prosperous nation.

The public should know that the agreement signed today covers the operation of the largest steel plant on the Pacific Coast.

The President has already assured the nation and the steel industry that the Administration has and will continue to be fair and equitable in its steel-pricing policy and I have the utmost confidence that he will fulfill every obligation to both sides.

CONFERENCE SET FOR TUESDAY BY SCHWELLENBACH

Westinghouse Groups Also to Attend Parley; G-M Not Invited.

WILSON DELIGHTED

Union Locals Here Plan Mass Picketing, Mass Meetings Tomorrow.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 19—(AP) The government took a hand in the electrical strike tonight to try to get it settled.

Secretary of Labor Schwellenbach invited heads of the union and General Electric and Westinghouse companies to meet him here at 10 a.m. Tuesday.

A labor department spokesman said telegrams went out tonight. A break had not yet appeared in the dispute which sent 175,000 CIO United Electrical workers of the two firms on a walkout last Tuesday.

Replies had not yet been received. Text of the telegram was not made public.

Wilson 'Delighted to Go'

In New York, however, Charles E. Wilson, president of General Electric, said he would be "delighted to go" to Washington in accordance with Schwellenbach's telegram.

"This is the first tangible evidence of the government trying to find a basis for settling the strike," he said.

It was not addressed to General Motors whose electrical division also is included in the strike. No explanation for the omission was forthcoming, however conciliation talks have been carried on jointly with GE and Westinghouse, the spokesman said.

Union leaders said this week negotiations were proceeding with General Motors.

The strike involved 100,000 GE workers, 75,000 of Westinghouse and 25,000 employes of GM. It was called in support of CIO demands for wage increases.

STRIKE SETTLED IN GLASS PLANTS

Workers Accept 10.7 Cents an Hour Increase in Two Firms.

COLUMBUS, O., Jan. 19—(AP) A three-month strike of approximately 15,000 C.I.O. glass workers ended tonight with acceptance of a 10.7 cents an hour average wage increase and company and union officials announced production would resume Monday at plants of the Pittsburgh Plate Glass company and the Libbey-Owens Ford Glass company.

A joint statement by Joseph Froesch, president of the Federation of Glass, Ceramic and Silica Sand Workers of America (C.I.O.) and L. G. Bryan, vice president of Libbey-Owens Ford, said some maintenance employes would return to their jobs tomorrow. The strike began Oct. 19.

The agreement includes an additional seven cents an hour for certain maintenance duties plus a reopening clause, allowing the union to petition for subsequent increases. Management in that case would be committed to meet and discuss the renewed requests within 20 days.

The increase amounts to an average hourly rate less than the 25 cents originally asked last September. Conferees, who included Ward Colvin, assistant chief of the U. S. Conciliation Service, explained percentage of the increase over present rates had not yet been computed because of the large variety of rates in the industry.

The contract is retroactive to October, 1945. Other issues, including increases for certain maintenance workers will be arbitrated later, union officials asserted.

Plants affected by the agreement are at Charlestown, W. Va., Shreveport, La., Mt. Vernon and Toledo, O., Ford City and Creighton, Pa., Ottawa, Ill., and Crystal City, Mo.

Lost Wages Put At $75,000,000 In G. M. Strike

$400,000,000 Production Cutback in Industry; Total Output Off 50%

DETROIT, Jan. 19 (AP).—The General Motors strike, now in its ninth week, and work stoppages in related industries have cost hourly-rated workers in the automobile plants upward of $75,000,000 in lost wages and have cut back production by at least $400,000,000 worth of motor vehicles.

The loss to the retailing division of the industry probably amounts to an additional $80,000,000 in unsales commissions.

To date, the assembly plants have turned out slightly more than 100,000 passenger vehicles. But for the General Motors strike and the stoppages in plants of supplier concerns, total output now would aggregate around 500,000 units and a 400,000-cars-a-month production level would be close at hand.

The General Motors strike idled 175,000 production workers and halted approximately 50 per cent of the car industry's manufacturing capacity. It was not in itself wholly responsible, however, for the cutback in assemblies of 1946 model passenger cars. Strikes in glass, transmission, gear, ignition assembly and other parts and materials factories had curtailed output by other car manufacturers even before the General Motors strike began last November.

On the basis of developments since then, it is a fair assumption that even had the General Motors strike been averted, Chevrolet, Buick, Pontiac, Oldsmobile and Cadillac assembly plants would have had to curtail the production volume they scheduled for December and January.

Ford, which started assemblies in July and scheduled 85,000 passenger cars by Dec. 31, has only this week passed the 50,000 mark; General Motors, which scheduled 291,000 passenger units up to Jan. 31,. has turned out only 25,000; Chrysler has not disclosed its output volume, but it has been estimated at around 15,000. Nash has assembled no cars since Dec. 21.

Hudson has been making about 200 cars a day, but may soon feel the pinch of glass shortages. Studebaker has just started its assembly lines, and Packard has reopened after a parts shortage shutdown of several weeks.

Now definitely abandoned in the industry is any hope that 6,000,000 cars may be made this year. That was the figure projected for 1946 when plant reconversion got under way last year.

A total of 4,000,000 units this year now is regarded as an optimistic expectation. To achieve it, the assembly plants would have to get into high level output in March, continue current model output through July and cut down sharply the time normally required to switch over to next year's model.

The 1947 models have already been designed by most of the car builders. Barring unforeseen circumstances the industry will put them in production next Septem-

Union Asks Former G.I.s To End Mine Picketing

7,500 Miners Urged to Resume Work in the Pits

LANSFORD, Pa., Jan. 19 (AP).—More than 7,500 anthracite miners made idle by the picketing of ex-G. I.s were urged today by their union to go back to the pits.

Mark F. Brennan, president of District 7 of the United Mine Workers, issued the appeal. He called on the jobless former servicemen at the same time to halt their picketing, promising that the union will do all in its power to help them find employment.

The veterans, who were not employed before entering military service, are demanding dismissal of "outsiders" who, they say, came to work in the mines from other areas during the war. Their picketing in quest of jobs resulted in the closing of several collieries, when miners refused to cross picket lines.

SUPPLIES OF MEAT FALL OFF SHARPLY

Retail Stocks Depleted in Some Areas as Stockyard Receipts Decline.

CHICAGO, Jan. 19—(AP) A meat shortage exceeding anything during the war time rationing period appeared in prospect today as efforts to settle the four-day strike of 263,000 packing house workers shifted from Washington to Chicago.

Public hearings before a President-appointed fact finding panel were scheduled to begin here Tuesday on demands of the C. I. O. United Packinghouse Workers and the A. F. L. Amalgamated Meat Cutters and Butcher Workmen. The panel has ordered to report to Labor Secretary Schwellenbach Feb. 16.

Conciliation Effort Pushed

The C.I.O. union asks a 17 1-2 cent an hour wage increase and continued negotiations on an additional 7 1-2 cents. The A.F.L. affiliate's demand is 15 cents. The highest counter-proposal from any of the major packers affected, including Swift, Armour, Cudahy, Wilson and Morrell, has been 10 cents.

As retailers throughout the nation reported increasingly critical depletion of stocks and stockyard receipts fell off, an indication that the situation may grow worse came from Washington, where government-sponsored conferences ended without settlement yesterday.

Don Mahon, president of the unaffiliated National Brotherhood of Packinghouse Workers, said his union, with a membership of 50,000, would file a 30-day strike notice if conciliation efforts fail.

The brotherhood is not on strike. If it should join the walkout, it would halt operations at many of the plants whose combined production is already inadequate.

Panel to Consider Price Situation

WASHINGTON, Jan. 19—(AP) The fact-finding board in the meat packing strike said today it will consider the industry's demand for price relief, as well as ability pay union demands for higher wages.

The fact-finding board, headed by Dr. Edwin E. Witte, said it would take into consideration the "cost of each cent per hour wage increase to the production workers involved in the present disputes."

The board said it would also consider the price controls to which the industry is subject and subsidies and special price provisions affecting meatpacking.

It will also undertake to determine the total operational picture of the companies involved, such as profit and loss statements for war and pre-war years, business volume and margins, and operation prospects for the remainder of the contract period. The board will study data on output per worker and per man hour, and any available information on significant changes in recent years, plus the prospects with regard to productivity of workers.

The board will begin its hearings in Chicago Tuesday.

BOARD TO PONDER MEAT PRICE PLEA

Fact-Finding Group in Strike Also to Study Output of the Workers

JAN 20 1946

WASHINGTON, Jan. 19 (AP)—The fact-finding board in the meat packing strike stated today that it would consider the industry's demand for price relief, as well as ability to pay union demands for higher wages.

The board, headed by Dr. Edwin E. Witte, said it would take into consideration the "cost of each cent per hour wage increase to the production workers involved in the present disputes," the price controls to which the industry is subject and subsidies and special price provisions affecting meat packing.

It will also undertake to determine the total operational picture of the companies involved, such as profit and loss statements for war and pre-war years, business volume and margins and operational prospects for the remainder of the contract period. The board will study data on output per worker and per man hour, and any available information on significant changes in recent years, plus the prospects with regard to productivity of workers.

The board will begin its hearings in Chicago Tuesday.

Greyhound Bus Yields To Fact-Finding Panel

Begins to Submit Evidence in Wage Controversy

WASHINGTON, Jan. 19 (AP).—The Greyhound Corporation today began submitting evidence to Secretary of Labor Lewis Schwellenbach's fact-finding panel investigating the bus-wage dispute, abandoning its position that it would not present evidence until the scope of the panel's authority was settled.

After hearing two days of testimony on the disagreement which recently stalled eastern Greyhound operations for sixty-nine days, the panel chairman, William H. Simkin, recessed the meetings until Jan. 28. "I urge the parties to see if they can possibly use this week of recess in getting together and solving any of the differences between them," he said.

Without altering his contention that the panel has no legal validity, Ivan Bowen, general counsel for the corporation and several subsidiary bus and terminal companies involved, told the panel members that there is "no such thing as secrecy" on the employers' part. He said they could find most of the desired information available, or could "call on us for it."

However, Mr. Bowen declared, there should be no invasion by the government of the province of collective bargaining.

Testimony of Mr. Bowen and of spokesmen for the American Federation of Labor Amalgamated Association of Street Electric Railway and Motor Coach Employees was largely a review of figures supporting or opposing the union's demands.

STRIKE CONTROL APPROVAL IS SEEN

Involves Probable Modification Of Truman Plan

Washington, Jan. 19 (AP)—A majority of the House Labor Committee predicted today the group will approve a new strike control bill next week, probably Tuesday.

They agreed, in individual questioning, that it will embody the principle of fact-finding, but President Truman's recommendations on that point probably will be modified. Varying opinions were expressed as to the degree of compromise.

Some of the members interviewed asked that their names not be used, but ten of the eighteen who are due to be present Tuesday for the vote agreed with the viewpoint expressed by Acting Chairman Randolph (D., W.Va.).

"Vote Will Be Close"

He said:

"I expect the committee to approve some type of legislation embodying the principle of fact-finding. The vote will be close, but most of the members believe we should get a measure to the floor so Congress can make a decision."

Representative Landis (R., Ind.) asserted he has enough votes assured now to guarantee adoption of his modification plan, which was defeated by a 7-to-7 tie vote in the committee Thursday. He added that even if his proposal is not accepted he and his supporters will go along with "any reasonable compromise" in order to get floor action.

Power Of Subpoena

The legislation requested by Mr. Truman would establish fact-finding boards to make recommendations for solution of major labor disputes. It would give them power to subpoena records and would ban strikes during a 30-day period while they deliberated.

Under the Landis amendment, the power of subpoena would be denied the board and the section providing for a 30-day "cooling off" would be eliminated.

Representative Hoffman (R., Mich.), asserted that with these controversial sections stricken from the bill it "will be acceptable to supporters of both management and labor."

"Teeth Out Of Bill"

Representative Barden (D., N.C.), declared that the Landis plan "takes all the teeth out of the bill" but said he would support any type of strike control measure "so we can get something to the floor and get a vote."

Some members said they would try to get the power of subpoena merely limited, instead of abolished.

In addition, some asserted they would agree to elimination of the section making strikes illegal during the 30-day period, but would try to write into the bill language expressing the desire of Congress that the "cooling off" period be observed.

Action Of "Some Kind"

Regardless of the version approved, Randolph said the group definitely would "take final action of some kind" on the issue Tuesday. He said this is necessary because "as tension mounts throughout the country there will follow insistent demands for drastic legislation and we must forestall unwarranted action along those lines.

Chairman May (D., Ky.) of the House Military Committee said that if the labor group does not act next week he will try to bring up for a floor vote a bill providing stringent penalties for unions violating no-strike contracts.

Held Up By Filibuster

Some members of May's committee favor a move to attach the President's fact-finding proposal as an amendment to their legislation.

Meanwhile, the Senate still has pending a motion by Senator Eastland (D., Miss.) to take the fact-finding plan away from its Labor Committee and send it to the floor for an immediate vote. However, the Eastland motion is not expected to come up at once, because of the filibuster over the Fair Employment Practices Committee.

SUBWAY WORKERS THREATEN STRIKE

W-E Turns Down Union's Offer To Settle for 17 1-2 Pct. Boost IN NEW YORK CITY

NEW YORK, Jan. 19 — (AP) Frank Fitzsimmons, union leader of 17,000 striking Western Electric workers in the Metropolitan area, offered today to end the walkout for a 17 1-2 per cent wage increase, but the company termed the offer "not acceptable."

Fitzsimmons, president of the Western Electric Employes association (Ind.), telegraphed President Truman and the Western Electric company that the union would settle "provided the company increases its present offer of 15 per cent to 17 1-2 per cent as was recommended in the findings of the fact-finding board in the recent UAW-GM dispute case."

In a telegram to Fitzsimmons tonight, F. J. Hammel, labor relations director of the big Kearny, N. J., plant of Western Electric, said:

"The offer made in your telegram of Jan. 19, 1946, is not acceptable to the company. The Kearny dispute should be settled on its own merits and not on the basis of recommendations in the GM-UAW dispute referred to in your telegram."

"The company has not withdrawn its offer of Dec. 28, 1945, (for a 15 per cent increase) though it was made in an attempt to settle the dispute before a strike was called. The company sees no justification for increasing this offer, but continues ready to negotiate on all disputed points."

The union originally asked a 30 per cent increase. The workers went on strike 16 days ago.

Henry Mayer, counsel for the union, said Fitzsimmons sent his offer to President Truman, the company, Secretary of Labor Lewis B. Schwellenbach and U. S. Conciliator J. R. Mandelbaum after an emergency meeting of the strikers' steering committee in Jersey City, N. J.

NEW YORK, Jan. 19—(AP) A strike date for men who operate and maintain New York city's vast underground and surface transportation system will be set Monday night, a union leader said today, unless the Board of Transportation agrees to abandon a plan to sell the city's three power plants.

Michael J. Quill, president of the C.I.O. Transportation Workers union said "complete arrangements" had been made for a walkout by his union, which has, members working in the city-owned subways, but lines and elevated trains and in plants that supply power for the city's transportation facilities.

The last walkout of transportation workers in New York was in 1926 when employes of IRT, one of three subway lines, struck.

The Board of Transportation has been considering selling three power plants to the Consolidated Edison company because, it said, two need "rehabilitation if they are to be continued" and one "contains some old and inefficient machinery."

Sale of the plants to consolidated, the board said, would be economically sound for the city because cost of modernizing them would be prohibitive.

Quill said the union's policy committee decided to strike in opposition to the sale of the plants and also for a $2 a day wage increase and for an up-to-date union contract.

William J. Daly, secretary of the Board of Transportation, said 32,000 persons were employed in the city's systems, but that not all belonged to Quill's union.

"Some employes belong to the Transport Workers union, some to an A.F.L. union, some to the Civil Service Forum and thousands belong to nothing," Daly said. "There is nothing before the board from the TWU which requires an answer. No demands have been made, nothing has been presented."

Quill said yesterday that the union would not object to sale of the plants if it were approved by referendum in the next election. The board said such a sale did not have to be submitted to a public vote. Final authority rested with the mayor and the Board of Estimate, the board said.

Continuous Sessions of Senate Proposed

Members May Catnap While Southern Filibuster on FEPC Runs Its Course.

Washington, Jan. 19 (A. P.).—Round-the-clock Senate sessions, with cots for sleepy members, were proposed today to break a Southern filibuster against the Fair Employment Practice Commission.

Senator Morse (R.-Ore.) came up with the idea of provisions for quickie naps after Senator Chavez (D.-N. M.) disclosed that supporters of the fair employment practice bill will seek to hold the chamber in continuous meetings.

Their proposals came in the face of a claim by Dixie Democrats that they have lined up more than enough votes to block any attempt to shut off the prolonged debate which began Thursday and which shows no signs of coming to an end.

Senator Eastland (D.-Miss.) told a reporter that forty-odd Senators are firmly aligned against cloture, a parliamentary device rarely used to limit talk in the Senate.

Morse would not concede that his side lacks the necessary two-thirds vote (64 of the 96 members if all were present) to invoke cloture, but he did say this in an interview:

"The issue that has been raised is more important than the fair employment practice bill—important as that is. "The issue is whether the legislative program is to be determined by majority vote rule or by a filibuster conducted by men, many of whom were elected by a small minority of the adult voters of their States because the right to vote was denied a majority of the adults because of the poll tax.

Spectacle for Nation.

"Imagine what would happen if the country saw forty-nine men—a majority of the Senate—with guts enough to hold continuous sessions twenty-four hours a day. That fight would produce all the votes needed for cloture, with the spotlight of American public opinion focused on the Senate twenty-four hours a day. "We could put cots in the cloakrooms so that members could be on hand at any time to respond to a roll call."

The hotly disputed measure, called up unexpectedly on Thursday, would establish a permanent Fair Employment Practice Commission to guard against discrimination on account of race, creed, or color in private or Government business or in labor unions. A wartime committee still is supposed to do the same thing, but its funds and authority are limited.

JAN 20 1946

Antis in Driver's Seat.

The anti-FEPC group is undeniably in the driver's seat at this stage. By a legislative stratagem, they began yesterday to correct the official journal of Thursday's Senate proceedings. The bill itself hardly came in for mention.

Reading of the journal took an hour and a half by itself. Then Senator Overton (D.-La.) offered his first correction—insertion of the chaplain's prayer. That was still the unfinished business when the Senate adjourned yesterday afternoon until Monday. Then the debate on Correction No. 1 resumes, unless it is interrupted by the reading of the President's combined message on the State of the Union and the budget.

President's Message.

The text of the message itself is said to be about 25,000 words. It is accompanied by a detailed statistical analysis about as bulky as a big city telephone directory.

Eastland said he certainly thought the Senate ought to have the benefit of the detailed analysis, read aloud by one of the clerks. After that, he added, there probably will be a right smart bit of debate on insertion of the prayer. Then there is the question of whether the bills, petitions and memorials shown in the journal were referred to the proper committees.

There could be extended debate, for instance, whether the annual report of the Georgetown Barge, Dock, Elevator & Railway Company should have been sent to the committee on the District of Columbia or the Committee on Interstate Commerce.

Army Speeds Its Drive for Re-enlistments

New Inducements Offered as Effort Grows to Keep Force at 1,500,000 Mark

WASHINGTON, Jan. 19 (AP).—With the future of the draft law clouded, the Army sought today to make re-enlistments more attractive so as to assure itself a minimum force of 1,500,000 for its occupation and war liquidation roles.

The latest re-enlistment inducement, it was disclosed, will give soldiers returning to civil life ninety days, prior to July 1, in which to decide whether to re-enlist in the regular Army with the privilege of retaining their present grade and pay. The present deadline is Feb. 1.

With talk on Capitol Hill of letting the Selective Service law expire without renewal after May 15, the size of the Army by midsummer and continuation of the present occupation missions hinge largely on the success of the recruiting drive, officials said.

By Feb. 1, or less than six months since the war ended, it is expected that more than 500,000 volunteers will have joined the regulars as a result of an intensified drive that has broken all recruiting records.

About 11 per cent are from civil life, including a number who otherwise would be drafted, Major General Lewis B. Hershey, Selective Service Director, told a Congressional committee this week.

Under estimates given Congress by General of the Army Dwight D. Eisenhower, Army Chief of Staff, the Army is counting on 650,000 volunteers by July 1. But no such limitation is accepted by Major General Harold N. Gilbert, who has directed Army man-power procurement drives since pre-war days. "Maybe we will get a million," he said.

Current military man-power difficulties are confined to the Army. The Navy expects to reach its reduced goal of 500,000 enlisted men and 50,000 officers by Sept 1, and the Marine Corps is as confident of being able to retain the 100,000 men estimated as its interim post-war needs.

Senator Edwin C. Johnson, Democrat, of Colorado, today advocated "the biggest advertising campaign this country ever saw" to draw volunteers for the Army.

The chairman of a special military affairs subcommittee which has been studying demobilization problems said, "The adoption of a voluntary system is the answer to the whole thing."

Bill Would Speed GI Discharges

JAN 20 1945

Washington, Jan. 19 (AP)—A Kentucky air corps veteran, now in Congress, says the present GI morale is "lower than a well-digger's toe"—and he's decided to do something about it.

Representative Chelf (D., Ky.), a major in the Army Reserve, has begun a one-man battle to "law our service men out of uniform as they were lawed in."

A petition to force House debate and vote on his self-styled "junior GI bill of rights" has been introduced in the House by the Kentuckian.

218 Signatures Needed

Chelf said if the bill is passed the man in uniform would "know in advance that Congress had taken over the reins from the War Department and had established his right to come home by law and not merely by promise."

To take effect, the Chelf petition must bear the signatures of 218, or a majority, of the House members. His bill then would be taken from the House Military Affairs Committee, where it was sent when introduced last November, and brought up for House consideration.

35 Points Bring Discharge

The Chelf bill would provide for the immediate discharge from the Army and Navy of:

1. All men who have accumulated 35 points under the army system.
2. All ex-prisoners of war.
3. All recipients of the Purple Heart.

Terminal Leave Provided

It also provides that the enlisted man receive the same terminal leave "now the prize possession of only the officers." Under the plan, an army private with four years of service at $30 per month would be granted 30 days' terminal leave for each year or a minimum of $200.

"This, added to his discharge pay of $300 for overseas duty, would give him a total of $500, or an adequate amount to buy some decent clothes and tide him over until he had rested up and actually felt like seeking a job," said Chelf.

SUGGESTS WAY TO BUILD ARMY

Senator Urges Record-Making Advertising For Recruits

Washington, Jan. 19 (AP)—Senator Edwin C. Johnson (D., Col.) today advocated "the biggest advertising campaign this country ever saw" to draw volunteers for the Army.

Chairman of a special Military Affairs subcommittee which has been studying demobilization problems, he said:

"The adoption of a voluntary system is the answer to the whole thing. We must get vigorously behind a program to get whatever men we need in the Army."

Estimates "Not Excessive"

While declaring the Army should reassess its requirements, Johnson said he did not consider the War Department's estimate of July 1 needs excessive. That calls for 1,500,000 officers and men.

"We have 400,000 volunteers in the Army right now," he said. "Then there are 150,000 officers, all volunteers, which leaves 950,000 volunteers to be recruited by July 1. I believe the whole need can be filled by volunteers."

The Senator said that the developments of the past few weeks "should convince us that an impressed army in times of peace is disastrous."

Navy Filling Needs

He added that the Navy appears to be filling all its needs with volunteers and is experiencing little trouble with demobilization.

Johnson said he hopes to have the report of the committee's investigation completed in the next few days.

Meanwhile, with the future of the draft law clouded, the Army sought to make re-enlistments more attractive so as to assure itself the minimum force it needs for its occupation and war liquidation roles.

Latest Inducement

The latest re-enlistment inducement, it was disclosed, will give soldiers returning to civil life, during the period ending July 1, a total of 90 days in which to decide whether to re-enlist in the regular army with the privilege of retaining their present grade and pay.

Thus a soldier discharged February 1 would have until May 1 to make up his mind, but one discharged June 24, would have but a week in which to make the decision.

With talk on Capitol Hill of letting the selective service laws expire without renewal after May 15, the size of the Army by midsummer and continuation of the present occupation missions hinge largely on the success of the recruiting drive, officials said.

CIO Tells Of Money For Ads

Meanwhile, the CIO announced that 10,000 enlisted men and officers at Sub Base R, Batangas, Philippines, had sent it $5,000 with which to insert ads in sixteen newspapers protesting the slowdown in the demobilization program

The CIO Veterans Committee said the service men provided the copy for the ads, which will urge that letters be sent to congressmen demanding immediate action on the clarification and speedup of demobilization"

500,000 Expected

By February 1, or less than six months since the war ended, it is expected that more than 500,000 volunteers will have joined the regulars as a result of an intensified drive that has broken all recruiting records.

About eleven per cent are from civil life, including a number who otherwise would be drafted, Maj. Gen. Lewis B. Hershey, selective service director, told a congressional committee this week.

Under estimates given Congress by Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower, chief of staff, the Army is counting on 650,000 volunteers by July 1. But no such limitation is accepted by Maj. Gen. Harold N. Gilbert, who has directed army manpower procurement drives since prewar days.

"May Get A Million"

"Maybe we will get a million," he said.

Current manpower difficulties are the Army's alone. The Navy expects to reach its reduced goal of 500,000 enlisted men and 50,000 officers by September 1, and the Marine Corps is as confident of being able to retain the 100,000 men estimated as its interim post-war needs.

The Marines are relying entirely on voluntary enlistments. The Navy has been taking slightly more than 1,000 men a month from the selective service pool.

Division Of Forces

The reduced estimates of overseas army forces needed on July 1 call for 335,000 in Europe, 375,000 in the Pacific, 4,000 in India-Burma, and 6,000 in China. Although some congressmen profess to be unconvinced, Eisenhower said even these provide no margin of safety.

In addition, the Marines currently have approximately 55,000 in China, and one division of about 15,000 in Japan. These presumably will be reduced.

Explaining the Army's latest re-enlistment inducement, General Gilbert said it had been found that men returning to civil life "need longer than we have given them to make up their minds."

WARNING ON EVE OF DEC. 7 HINTED

Kimmel Recalls Knox Stated War Message Had Been Sent.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 19—(AP) The Pearl Harbor investigating committee today ran up against the question whether there was a "lost" Navy warning message intended to go to the Pacific fleet the night before Japan's Dec. 7, 1941 attack.

Admiral Husband E. Kimmel related that the late Secretary of the Navy Knox, talking with him at Pearl Harbor five days after the attack, was "positive" a message was sent.

Knox flew to Hawaii to investigate the damage. Kimmel said that as he recalled Knox arrived on Dec. 12 "and almost the first thing he asked me was if we got the message Saturday night." The attack was on a Sunday morning.

Kimmel, fleet commander at the time, said that if such a dispatch was prepared it must have gotten "bogged down in the Navy department," for he never received it.

He told the committee he believed Lt. Gen. Walter C. Short, Army commander in Hawaii, and Admirals C. C. Bloch and W. W. Smith were present when Knox referred to the supposed message.

The committee has received testimony that the only major dispatch sent to Kimmel after a Nov. 27 "war warning" was a Dec. 3 message advising that the Japanese here and in London were destroying their code machines.

Kimmel made no reference to the nature of the reported Dec. 6 message but Senator Brewster (R-Maine), who had asked him about it, told reporters he was informed it was supposedly a warning.

At one point in his questioning, Brewster commented that top War and Navy department officials had more information on Japan's plans than Kimmel did and they had testified they were surprised by Japan's attack. He suggested that there was more reason for Kimmel to be surprised.

Quotes Mrs. Roosevelt

Brewster then picked up a clipping he said was from the New York Times of Oct. 8, 1944, which quoted Mrs. Franklin D. Roosevelt as saying that at the White House the attack was "far from the shock" it was to the rest of the country.

"We had expected something of the sort for a long time," Mrs. Roosevelt was quoted as saying.

Brewster asked Kimmel whether "that expectation was conveyed to you."

Saying it had not, Kimmel added that Knox told him "no one in Washington" expected the attack.

In a double-barreled question, Brewster asked whether Kimmel knew any reason why copies of decoded Japanese messages were not sent to him and were sent to the British Admiralty.

"I know of no reason why they should not have been sent to the commander of the Pacific fleet," Kimmel replied. "And I think he was as much entitled to them as the British Admiralty."

Brewster turned to a purported quotation Kimmel had supplied the committee from testimony of Admiral R. K. Turner, 1941 Navy war plans officer, to a Navy inquiry conducted by Admiral Thomas C. Hart.

Turner was quoted as saying the Navy felt there was a possibility of war with Japan without involvement of Germany and had "determined that in such a case the United States would, if possible, initiate efforts to bring Germany into the war against us in order that we would be enabled to give strong support to the United Kingdom in Europe."

FEARS LOSSES IF LOAN TO BRITISH IS REJECTED

CLEVELAND, Jan. 19 (AP)—Clair Wilcox, director of the State Department's International Trade Policy office, said today, in an address before the City Club, that rejection of the pending $3,750,000,000 loan to Britain would touch off a world-wide economic war that would cost this country billions of dollars. He added:

"If there should be an economic war, we could doubtless win it, but it would be a sorry victory. The division of the world into contending economic blocs would be a tragedy, not only for Britain, but for us and for every other nation on earth."

Mr. Wilcox contended that failure to make the loan would drive Britain into raising her tariffs against this country, widen the margins of imperial preference and cause her to enter into separate deals with other countries. This in turn, he added, would force the United States to regiment its import and export trade and "deprive our domestic industry of a large measure" of its freedom.

Mr. Wilcox termed Britain "a good risk" and, asking himself whether the loan would be repaid, replied that "all that she needs is a chance to come back." He continued:

"The real question on the repayment of this loan and other foreign loans is whether the world is going to be prosperous and foreign trade large.

"If our hopes for the expansion of world trade and employment are realized, the service on this loan will be manageable. If they are not, and if there is another great depression, much greater values will be lost than the repayments on this loan. Of course there is a risk. But the stakes are very great."

Korean Independence Termed Sole U.S. Aim

Washington, Jan. 19 (AP)—The sole objective of the United States in Korea is to bring about self government and independence at the earliest possible moment, a State Department spokesman said tonight.

John Carter Vincent, director of the department's Office of Far Eastern affairs, in a broadcast devoted to Korea, said that he believed that agreement reached at the Moscow conference of Big Three foreign ministers showed that Russia and Britain had the same desire.

Viewed As Auspicious Test

Vincent said the agreement on Korea afforded "an auspicious test for Soviet-American co-operation in the Far East."

Edwin M. Martin, chief of the division of Japanese and Korean economic affairs, added that the Moscow accord provided the United States and Russia with "a made-to-order opportunity to show that we can free Korea without getting involved in any imperialistic adventures."

Col. Brainard E. Prescott, former civil administrator of the United States zone in Korea, who appeared on the program with Vincent and Martin, said early attempts to achieve liaison with the Soviet command following the joint occupation of Korea had failed.

Reason Pact Is Important

"That's why the Moscow agreement on Korea is so important," he said. "It paves the way for the economic unification of Korea, so we can establish free movement of goods and people between the two occupation zones."

Prescott defended temporary retention of some Japanese officials in public offices in Korea following its liberation last fall. He said they were shipped back to Japan as soon as they could be replaced by Allied Military Government personnel and added that their retention enabled the Americans to recover a lot of looted Korean Government funds.

VETERAN PRIORITY ON RENTS BACKED BY HOUSING CZAR

WASHINGTON, Jan. 19—(AP) Wilson Wyatt, national housing coordinator and self-styled "expediter on a hot spot," maintained today that war veterans must be given first priority in obtaining living quarters as vacancies develop.

He told the National Emergency Conference on Jobs and Security that there are about 3,000,000 "turnovers" a year in homes, and declared that if there is to be any waiting to be done by home-hunters, "it should be done by the non-veterans."

Wyatt and Rep. Patman (D-Tex.) joined in cautioning against the danger of inflation accompanying runaway rentals and prices for houses.

Patman urged the organizations represented at the conference to support his pending bill to provide subsidies for house building and to give the government authority to allocate all construction material.

R. J. Thomas, vice president of the C.I.O., terming the housing shortage a "national catastrophe," contended construction of houses should be stepped up to a million units this year and a minimum of two millions next year.

Another conference prevented Thomas from being present, but his prepared address was read by William Nicholas, director of the C.I.O.'s department of housing and community development.

In it, Thomas contended that the "maximum use of both unuses and under-occupied public buildings and private dwellings for temporary shelter for homeless veterans can best be achieved through the use of the Federal government's requisitioning power."

Urging government limitation of all but essential construction, he argued that "veterans sleeping in vacant storerooms find it difficult to understand why this is necessary when they see bars being remodeled and night clubs being rebuilt."

OWNERS TO REGAIN MERCHANT SHIPS

JAN 20 1946

WASHINGTON, Jan. 29—(AP) Nearly 900,000,000 tons of shipping —9,499 vessels—will be returned to 18 nations when the United Maritime authority dissolves March 2, it was learned today.

The ships are of all types and sizes—from slow-going tankers and small freight ships to huge luxury liners.

An official report will be made public next week in a complete post-war survey of world merchant shipping. However, an unofficial breakdown of the UMA lists, obtained today, disclosed how much each member nation relinquished to common shipping control during the war.

Of the total tonnage—one of the most closely guarded secrets of the war—the United States led with some 56,798,000 tons. Britain came second with about 15,500,000 tons.

In number of ships, the United States lead contributions to the greatest shipping pool in history with 5,529 vessels. Next came Britain, 1,771; Norway, 465; Canada, 361; Holland, 272; Sweden, 252; and France, 213.

The UMA directorate is scheduled to meet in London February 4 to discuss final plans for its own dissolution and take steps to avoid chaotic shipping competition when it is dissolved.

Shipping officials said that the UMA's immediate problem when the pool is broken up will be to guarantee shipping to United Nations relief organization, principally UNRRA, and to maintain the flow of rehabilitation goods to war-devasted countries.

These officials said the pool's breakup will precipitate a major shortage of tankers and refrigerated ships, two types of vessels which only the United States, Britain and Norway have in excess of their own requirements.

Courts-Martial Limits Restored By President

Washington, Jan. 19 (AP)—President Truman today restored, except in occupied territory, a peacetime regulation preventing courts martial from imposing the death sentences for several offenses.

These are desertion, aiding or advising another to desert, absence without leave and misbehavior of sentinels.

Today's action restores limitations suspended by presidential order on November 9, 1942.

Truman to Give Medals To 54 on Draft Boards

Men Chosen by Lot Represent 100,000 Members

WASHINGTON, Jan. 19 (AP).—Selective Service medals authorized by Congress will be presented by President Truman Monday to fifty-four members of local draft boards representing each state and territory.

Given in recognition of patriotic service, the medals will be awarded at a White House ceremony to volunteer board members who have served more than five years.

Members who will receive medals were chosen by lot in their respective states and territories. They will represent, National Selective Service said, 100,000 draft board members wtih two or more years' service who will be awarded medals later by state governors.

In the evening, the draft board members will be guests of Selective Service at a dinner at the Army and Navy Club. Major General Lewis B. Hershey, Draft Director, will preside.

Among those to receive medals are William J. Dodd of Waterbury, Conn.; J. H. Hoagland, of New Brunswick, N. J.; Robert M. Colt, of Gloversville, N. Y., and F. E. Johnson, of the Bronx, N. Y.

WOULD AVOID COTTON CURB

Anderson Hopes No Ceiling Price Will Be Needed

Washington, Jan 19 (AP)—Secretary of Agriculture Anderson told a committee of Southern congressmen he hopes a ceiling price will not be needed on raw cotton

Representative Whittington (D., Miss.) told newsmen after a two-hour conference between Anderson and the committee that "no formal conclusion was reached"

Will Continue Study

The nineteen-man group which Whittington heads agreed to continue Monday its study of OPA's announced intention to impose ceilings on cotton unless prices remain stabilized. Committee members said OPA officials will attend.

The group conferred yesterday with Price Administrator Chester Bowles, who was quoted by members as saying a 24.09-cent base price on 15/16-inch middling cotton is the lowest being considered by the agency.

Anderson took the same position, Whittington said.

Ceiling A Minimum

"Both the secretary and Mr. Bowles state that the ceiling announced was a minimum, not a maximum, and that they hope it will not be necessary to have any ceilings at all," Whittington said.

Other members of the committee, which was chosen to act for cotton producing States at a mass meeting of 110 representatives yesterday, declined further comment on today's talk with Anderson.

Cotton belt congressmen have threatened to withdraw their support of continuation of OPA if the agency adopts ceilings.

SENATOR ATTACKS OPA

WASHINGTON, Jan. 19—(AP) Senator Alexander Wiley (R-Wis) found five kinds of fault with OPA today in a letter addressed to Price Administrator Chester Bowles.

He said he believes the price agency "badly muffed the crucial job of preventing inflation."

Specifically, Wiley charged that the organization (1) has "created czars out of pinsqueak juveniles" (2) contains "needless layer upon layer of bureaucratic superstructure," (3) issues "confusing and confounding" public directives, (4) employs "gestapo-like' enforcement tactics and (5) has adopted policies which force business to operate at a loss.

"The square pegs who fill OPA's round holes must be eliminated," Wiley declared.

Veterans Office for Newark

WASHINGTON, Jan. 19 (AP).—The Veterans Administration said today it has obtained temporary space in the Newark, N. J., armory and in the industrial office building there preparatory to opening regional headquarters in Newark about Feb. 1. A spokesman said the regional offices would occupy about 52,000 square feet of space in the armory and about 32,000 square feet in the office building. No decision has been made concerning permanent headquarters in Newark, the spokesman said, but the temporary regional offices probably will be organized by March 15.

AsksPreference in U.S.Surplus

WASHINGTON, Jan. 19 (AP)—Senator Joseph C. O'Mahoney, Democrat, of Wyoming, said today he will introduce legislation on Monday to give veterans a preference on the purchase of surplus government property second only to that granted the Federal government. He said Senator Burnet R. Maybank, Democrat, of South Carolina, will be a co-sponsor and veterans would be allowed to buy materials for their own personal use.

Probe of Rapido River Battle Asked by 36th

Veterans Hit Gen. Clark for 'Colossal Blunder' in Ordering Crossing.

BROWNWOOD, Tex., Jan. 19.—(AP) With yells of approval members of the 36th Division, in reunion here, adopted a resolution today calling for a congressional investigation of the division's tragic Rapido river engagement Jan. 20 and 21, 1944.

The resolution declared almost 2,900 casualties were suffered by the unit in two crossings of the treacherous Italian stream in the vicinity of San Angelo.

Only two "noes" were heard when a voice vote was called for.

Read by Officers

The resolution was read by Carl Phinney, Dallas attorney and former transportation officer of the division, and seconded by Maj. Gen. Claude C. Birkhead of San Antonio, former commander of the group.

"Be it resolved," the resolution concluded, "that the men of the 36th Division association x x x petition the Congress of the United States to investigate the Rapido river fiasco and take the necessary steps to correct a military system that will permit an inefficient and inexperienced officer, such as "General Mark W. Clark, in a high command to destroy the young manhood of this country and to prevent future soldiers being sacrificed wastefully and uselessly."

Capt. A. F. Fisher of Wichita Falls, only man to speak against the resolution, called it "the most absurd thing I ever heard." He added that General Clark must have had his reasons for ordering the Rapido crossings.

Birkhead, in seconding the motion for adoption, said: "with the information General Clark had we feel he was derelict in his duty when he deliberately forced the crossing on the Rapido river."

Birkhead declared the only objection he had to the resolution was that it was not strong enough.

The men in the audience, many now civilians and some still in the Army, jumped to their feet to yell approval of the resolution.

Called 'Blunder'

"This is the eve," the resolution began, "of the second anniversary of the crossing of the Rapido river, a military undertaking that will go down in history as one of the colossal blunders of the second world war.

"The 141st and 143rd infantry regimental combat teams caught the brunt of this holocaust. Every man connected with this undertaking knew it was doomed to failure because it was an impossible situation.

"This Rapido river was the main line of resistance. The German elements opposing the division had every foot of ground covered with fire, the high ground was all held by Germans, and observation was perfect for them in directing the artillery fire.

"Patrols had reported that these enemy positions were strongly held, that the area was heavily mined on both sides of the river, and the German positions were wired and strongly fortified, and that the crossing was not tenable.

"Notwithstanding this information (which was in the possession of the Fifth Army commander), contrary to the repeated recommendations of the subordinate commanders, General Mark W. Clark ordered the crossing of the Rapido at several points.

"The results of this blunder are well known. The crossings were made under the most adverse conditions and required two nights to get elements of the two combat teams across.

"At daylight, the Germans shot the bridges out behind the 36th division troops and began a methodical destruction of our troops. The division suffered heavy casualties, amounting to approximately 2,900 men.

Quote Commander

"It was such a colossal failure that one of the regimental commanders commented as follows: "the river was strongly defended by a German force superior in numbers to our attacking force. The first attack was made at night and was not successful. On the night before, the British attack of the south had failed. The last attack by my regiment was made in daylight and was more decisively unsuccessful than the first.'

"Losses from attacks of this sort are tremendous in manpower and material and have a devastating effect upon those few troops who survive them. Officers and men lost in the Rapido river crossing cannot be replaced and the combat efficiency of a regiment is destroyed."

Captain Fisher, arguing against the resolution, said: "The 36th was outnumbered from Salerno through Rome."

Maj. Gen. Fred Walker, division commander at the time of the Rapido engagement, was in attendance at the reunion. He refused comment on the resolution itself, but defended the right of the men to ask the congressional inquiry. He said he had not taken part in preparing the resolution.

30.24-413

Hundreds of 36th members, veterans of both world wars, attended the reunion.

War Dept. Says Rapido Attack Helped Anzio

WASHINGTON, Jan. 19—(AP) A War department spokesman said today that the allied soldiers who fell in the battle of the Rapido river helped make a successful landing on Italy's Anzio beachhead in January, 1944.

The spokesman, designated to answer reporters' questions about a demand for a congressional investigation of the engagement, said one of the purposes of the Rapido assault was to keep German pressure off the initial beach operations at Anzio.

Diversionary Action

This diversionary result was obtained, the spokesman said, adding that the men who fell in the three-day battle "did not die in vain." About 2,000 casualties occurred in the operations, he said, with approximately half of these killed or wounded and half taken prisoners.

If the German command had not been forced to deal with the Rapido operation, the spokesman said, it would have stripped its Rapido line to skeleton personnel and diverted major strength to cope with the Anzio attack.

Here is what the war department says happened:

On January 2, 1944, headquarters of the 15th Army group, commanded by General Sir Harold Alexander, ordered Gen. Mark Clark, commander of the 5th Army, to begin about January 21-22 an attack on the German Rapido line south of Cassino. The orders were to "make as strong a thrust as possible" toward Cassino and Frosinone, just before the scheduled Anzio landing on January 22 to draw in any German elements which otherwise might be employed at the beachhead.

The Fifth army's attacking force consisted of a corps of two French divisions on the right flank, the British Tenth corps of three divisions on the left and the American Second Corps, made up of the 36th 34th divisions, in the center. The initial objective of the American corps was to take a hill mass and then with that secured, the 36th was to cross the Rapido river.

A 30-minute artillery barrage of 31,000 rounds preceded the jump-off for the Rapido crossing attempt by two regiments moving abreast. The river was from 40 to 50 feet wide, with a swift current and banks five to six feet high.

An attempt was made to put four bridges across. One bridge connection was made. Two companies crossed it. Enemy fire destroyed it.

Two rifle platoons crossed in boats, then most of a battalion got across on a foot bridge. Further crossing attempts were unsuccessfull. A German counterattack was checked, but the American forces were unable to exploit their precarious bridgehead. On the night of Jan. 22-23 survivors of the crossing returned.

Curley Is Met In Boston by A Gala Throng

'Just One of Those Things,' He Tells Admirer After Mail-Fraud Conviction

BOSTON, Jan. 19 (AP).—Mayor James M. Curley, convicted of using the mails to defraud by a District Court at Washington last night, told cheering supporters who crowded the Back Bay station to meet his train tonight—"No case is ever settled until it's settled right."

"There is no record anywhere of a single penny wasted in the transactions," the seventy-one-year-old Mayor and Massachusetts Representative added as cheers and cowbell-ringing broke out again in the crowd which had surged against him in a tumultuous parade from the train level up into the station.

Facing possible prison sentences totaling forty-seven years following his conviction with two others as officials of Engineers Group, Inc., which the government said took in $60,000 on promises to get war contracts for clients or refund their money, Curley stepped off the train to an admirer's sudden yell: "Three cheers for the greatest figure in America."

He was arm in arm with his wife and daughter, Mary, as his son, Naval Lieutenant George Curley, discharged today, joined Lieutenant Colonel Maxwell Grossman, Boston Penal Institutions Commissioner, and City Greeter William J. Shepherd in trying to open a path through friends who struggled through to shake the Mayor's hand.

Looking tired when he appeared on the train platform, the veteran Massachusetts officeholder smiled and waved his brown hat at the roar touched off by the three-cheers yell and told one of his first greeters: "There will be an appeal next week."

To a fur-coated woman who broke through to pat him on the shoulder, Curley said: "Just one of those things that happen in a lifetime."

Coming home on a continued $2,500 bond, the four-term Mayor, former Governor and fourth-term Massachusetts Representative heard the guilty verdict brought in late Friday night by a jury that had deliberated nearly twenty hours and was ordered out again when the first conviction verdict was questioned by defense counsel and discrepancies were revealed in individual polling of jurymen.

Curley was convicted on nine counts and acquitted on four of using the mails to defraud as president of Engineers Group, Inc.,

German Cruiser Due In Boston About Jan. 22

Boston, Jan. 19 (AP)—The German heavy cruiser Prinz Eugen, which furnished the Allied fleets with plenty of headaches, is due to reach Boston about January 22, the Navy announced today.

She will be the first large German warship to come to this country since the war. Taken over by the Allies on the surrender of Germany, she was allocated to the United States under the Potsdam treaty.

The 18,460-ton vessel is manned by a skeleton crew of eight American naval officers and 85 enlisted men, with German crewmen assisting. The vessel is commanded by Capt. A. H. Graubert of Los Angeles. The Prinz Eugen fought several actions in the Atlantic, Baltic Sea and English Channel.

UNO Group Inspects Sector Near Boston

Boston, Jan. 19 (AP)—The United Nations Organization site-seeking group, accompanied by Gov. Maurice J. Tobin today inspected the Concord-Lexington area which includes about 3,000 acres owned by Henry Ford.

During luncheon at the historic Wayside Inn, also the property of the automobile manufacturer, Dr. Stoyan Gavrilovic, chairman of the selectors, said facetiously:

"I don't want to alarm Mr. Ford, but if this area is selected as a permanent site, any antiquities it contains will be preserved."

He said that no decision had yet been reached on selecting temporary headquarters for the agency.

TWO DIE IN CRASH OF TROOP TRAIN

JAN 20 19

Myerstown, Pa., Jan. 19 (A. P.)—Two persons, one a soldier en route to a discharge center, were killed last night when a Mississippi-bound troop train jumped the tracks five miles west of here and collided with an eastbound Reading Railroad freight train.

Twenty-two persons, including seventeen of 191 other soldiers, mostly from Louisiana and Mississippi, were injured when five cars of the troop train spilled against the freight. The dead soldier was identified by Army authorities as Pfc. James P. Morgan, 27 years old, Baton Rouge, La.

Reading officials identified the second victim as Charles W. Hellings, 32, Reading, Pa., fireman of the troop train which had left Camp Kilmer, N. J., for Camp Shelby, Miss.

The soldiers were members of the 29th Infantry Division, returned from Europe by troopship Wednesday, a Reading spokesman reported.

EDUCATORS SEEK TO AID VETERANS

CLEVELAND, Jan. 19—(AP) Some 300 educators of the National Education association concluded a three-day conference today by adopting a constitution dedicated to aid ex-servicemen "so that both they and the country may be helped to readjust to peacetime living."

Among resolutions adopted was that of a panel on college terminal programs declaring: "Despite overcrowding reported in approximately 100 of the nationally known universities, by a full use of their facilities the 1,700 colleges of the country will be able to admit all veterans who want to enroll."

Alonzo G. Grace, commissioner of education of Connecticut, told the conference veteran training programs should be organized first at the community level, directed by able leaders and aided by state and federal funds.

Establishment of federal G.I. universities was listed by Grace as one of several alternatives which might result if the present education system failed to meet needs of returning servicemen, but the Connecticut official declared there was "no threat, or even likelihood" of the formation of such nationalized vets' colleges.

Regional vice president named by the council included Francis Bassett of Hartford, Conn.

Stassen Proposes Atomic Air Force

Cincinnati, Jan. 19 (AP)—Establishment of a United Nations atomic air force to police the world was suggested last night by Harold E. Stassen, former Minnesota Governor, who was a delegate to the San Francisco Charter Conference.

The "strategically located" unit should be armed with United States-made bombs, but manned by volunteers from all the United Nations, Stassen told a University of Cincinnati gathering. He proposed a tentative program for the United States to present to the United Nations Atomic Commission, "when it is formed."

Other Proposals

Other recommendations included:

Adoption of a world-wide law outlawing the manufacture or use of atomic bombs by any nation.

Provision for inspection and accounting of all fissionable materials throughout the world.

Requirement that scientists register their intention to engage in atomic research and, having registered, be free to carry on scientific research and publish their results to the world.

Stassen said the joint air force would be powerful enough "to inflict great damage on any aggressor . . . but not too powerful as to be itself a threat of world domination."

Cruiser San Francisco Makes Last Active Trip

Philadelphia, Jan. 19 (AP)—The battle-tattered heavy cruiser San Francisco steamed up the Delaware River today to its last anchorage at the Philadelphia naval base.

The eleven-year-old ship, veteran of most of the Pacific's major battles from Pearl Harbor to Okinawa, is to be placed in the inactive reserve, probably next month. Many of the 500 crew members aboard are slated for discharge and others for reassignment.

In command of the "Frisco" as she cruised from San Francisco through the Panama Canal on her final voyage was Capt. John E. Whelchel, of Annapolis, who came to Philadelphia as coach of the Naval Academy football team in 1942 and 1943.

2 Colgate Professors Abroad

HAMILTON, N. Y., Jan. 19 (AP)—Dr. Charles R. Wilson and Dr. Eugene T. Adams, of Colgate University, will participate in an Army-sponsored lecture tour in the vicinity of Heidelberg, Germany, the university announced today. The two, on leave from Colgate, are teaching in the American Army university study center at Biarritz, France. Dr. Wilson is head of the Colgate history department and Dr. Adams is a professor of philosophy. The traveling speakers will discuss "international relations in the atomic age."

YOUNG ROOSEVELT ASKS FOR ACTION ON HOUSING

NEW YORK, Jan. 19—(AP) Franklin D. Roosevelt, Jr., chairman of the American Veterans Housing committee, and Rep. Benjamin J. Rabin (D-N.Y.) urged tonight that President Truman use his wartime emergency powers to solve the housing crisis.

In talks broadcast over CBS, Rabin suggested that President Truman's wartime powers be used to build emergency housing, requisitioning materials and condemning lands if necessary, and Roosevelt said such a plan would "quickly and efficiently solve the housing crisis" and "solve it now."

The late President Roosevelt's son predicted 8,000,000 Americans would be homeless in the next 10 years unless Rabin's plan were adopted and the government treated the housing situation in much the same way as it treated the war emergency.

STOWAWAY FOUND ON U.S. TROOPSHIP

JAN 20 1945

NEW YORK, Jan. 19—(AP) A 24-year-old woman, who said she had been reduced almost to a skeleton in a German concentration camp, today was turned over to immigration authorities as a stowaway by officers of the troopship Stevens Victory.

The Stevens Victory, carrying 1,538 soldiers from Le Havre, France, docked at Staten Island.

The woman, who identified herself as Helma Tibeth, said she was born in Holland, but had lived in Germany since she was three years old. She said she boarded the Stevens Victory because she wanted to come to the United States.

Her parents were killed during the war and she was confined, she said, because she corresponded with persons in Holland.

The ship's officers said she was found hiding in an ammunition locker. She was dressed in blue dungarees, a sweat shirt and the top of a pair of men's pajamas.

Among the returning troops were members of the 794th anti-aircraft artillery battalion, the 60th field hospital, and the 3610th quartermaster truck company.

Twenty other transports were due to arrive today at two east coast and four west coast ports, bringing home about 10,000 troops. Arriving at New York were the George G. Meade with 643 troops;

BERLIN, JAN 19-(AP)-A HIGHLY-PLACED AMERICAN SCIENTIFIC SOURCE DECLARED TODAY THAT THE KNOWLEDGE OF MORE THAN 450 TOP-NOTCH GERMAN RESEARCHERS AND SCIENTISTS WAS GOING TO WASTE IN THE UNITED STATES ZONE OF OCCUPATION.

THE SOURCE, WHO DECLINED TO BE QUOTED BY NAME, SAID SOME FAMOUS NON-NAZI SCIENTISTS WERE BEING HELD IN JAIL BECAUSE OF INDISCRIMINATE APPLICATION OF MANDATORY ARREST DIRECTIVES, UNDER WHICH CERTAIN HIGH OFFICE-HOLDERS WERE ARRESTED WHETHER THEY WERE NAZIS NOR NOT.

AN ABSENCE OF POLICY COVERING SCIENTISTS IN THE AMERICAN ZONE CONTRASTS SHARPLY WITH THE PRACTICE IN OTHER OCCUPATION ZONES, HE CONTINUED. THE RUSSIANS, AS WELL AS THE FRENCH, WERE SAID TO BE MAKING FULL USE OF ALL BUT THE MOST RABIDLY NAZI SCIENTISTS TO RECONSTRUCT DESTROYED FORMULAS AND RECORDS.

THE BRITISH WERE SAID TO HAVE BEEN MAKING EVERY EFFORT TO KEEP GERMAN SCIENTISTS EMPLOYED IN ACADEMIC RESEARCH AND INDUSTRIAL WORK ALONG PEACETIME CHANNELS.

IT WAS REPORTED UNOFFICIALLY THAT OTTO HAHN AND DR. WERNER C. HEISENBERG, BRITISH-HELD ATOM SCIENTISTS, WERE TO BE ALLOWED TO CONTINUE THEIR RESEARCH UNDER THE EYES OF ALLIED AUTHORITIES.

THIS SOURCE DISCLOSED THAT IN ADDITION TO THE SCIENTISTS LIVING IN THE AMERICAN ZONE ITSELF, APPROXIMATELY 300 GERMAN RESEARCHERS OR TECHNICIANS EITHER VOLUNTARILY WENT INTO THAT AREA OR WERE TAKEN BY U.S. FORCES WHEN THE AMERICANS WITHDREW FROM WHAT IS NOW PART OF THE RUSSIAN ZONE.

OF THIS NUMBER, ABOUT 50 WERE SENT TO THE UNITED STATES FOR SPECIFIC PURPOSES. THE REMAINING 450, WHO WERE SAID TO HAVE BEEN TOLD THEY WOULD BE GIVEN WORK, WERE SIMPLY TURNED LOOSE AND LEFT TO WANDER ABOUT THE AMERICAN ZONE WITHOUT FUNDS OR JOBS.

AN AMERICAN OFFICIAL SAID NO SPECIAL PROVISIONS HAD BEEN MADE FOR SCIENTISTS AND THAT GENERALLY SPEAKING THEY COME UNDER A GENERAL AMERICAN POLICY WHICH CONSIDERS SUCH PROVISIONS A GERMAN PROBLEM TO BE SOLVED BY THE GERMANS.

FRANKFURT, GERMANY, JAN. 19-(AP)-APPROXIMATELY 300,000 GERMANS WILL GO TO THE POLLS TOMORROW IN THE UNITED STATES ZONE FOR THEIR FIRST FREE ELECTION SINCE ADOLF HITLER SEIZED POWER 13 YEARS AGO.

THE VOTING WILL BE WATCHED CLOSELY AS AN IMPORTANT EXPERIMENT I THE MILITARY GOVERNMENT'S PROGRAM OF REVIVING THE PROCESSES OF SEL GOVERNMENT AMONG PEOPLE WHO ALMOST HAVE FORGOTTEN HOW TO PARTICIPA IN THE AFFAIRS OF THEIR OWN GOVERNMENTS. BUT NEITHER GERMAN POLIT CIANS NOR MILITARY GOVERNMENT OFFICIALS EXPECT THE VOTING TO DISCL MUCH CONCERNING GERMANY'S POLITICAL TRENDS BECAUSE OF THE LOCAL CHARACTER OF THE ELECTIONS.

AMERICAN OCCUPATION FORCES HAVE BEEN INSTRUCTED TO KEEP HANDS O THE ELECTIONS "UNLESS PUBLIC DISTURBANCES ARISE WHICH CANNOT BE HA OFF THE ELECTIONS "UNLESS PUBLIC DISTURBANCES ARISE WHICH CANNOT B HANDLED BY GERMAN POLICE." THE MILITARY GOVERNMENT WISHES TO GIVE THE GERMANS THE FULLEST OPPORTUNITY TO DEMONSTRATE THEIR OWN CAPABILITIES.

GERMAN POLITICIANS HAVE PROTESTED, AND THE MILITARY GOVERNMENT HAS ADMITTED, THAT THERE HAVE BEEN EFFORTS BY KNOWN NAZIS TO DISSUADE WOULD-BE VOTERS. THE POLITICAL LEADERS, ALMOST UNANIMOUSLY, ALSO HAVE OBJECTED THAT THE ELECTIONS WERE BEING HELD TOO SOON TO PERMIT PROPER ORGANIZATION. THEY PREDICT THAT WITH THE PEOPLE WORRYING CHIEFLY ABOUT FOOD AND FUEL, MOST OF THE CONTESTS WILL BE DECIDED ON PERSONALITIES RATHER THAN ISSUES.

OF THE 17 PARTIES WHICH HAVE SPRUNG UP SINCE THE WAR, ONLY FIVE ARE REGARDED GENERALLY AS OFFERING REAL BIDS FOR POWER. EVEN THEIR PROGRAMS REFLECT THE POLITICAL UNCERTAINTY OF THE COUNTRY. THERE IS A NOTICEABLE LACK OF SHARPLY DEFINED POLICIES, AND THERE IS A SIMILARITY IN THE PARTIES' VAGUE EMPHASIS ON "RECONSTRUCTION" AND "DEMOCRACY."

THE THREE WERE AMONG THE DOOLITTLE RAIDERS WHO BOMBED JAPAN AFTER TAKING OFF FROM THE CARRIER HORNET.

TATSUTA SPOKE NERVIOUSLY WITH A GROUP OF CORRESPONDENTS IN THE CELL OF A JAIL. WITH A START, HE RECOGNIZED CAPT.CHASE J.NIELSEN, OF MIRAM, UTAH, ONE OF THE ORIGINAL EIGHT DOOLITTLE MEN HELD IN THE KIANGWAN MILITARY PRISON UNDER TATSUTA'S COMMAND. A FOURTH MAN LATER DIED; THE OTHER FOUR SURVIVED IMPRISONMENT AND RETURNED TO THE UNITED STATES.

NIELSEN WAS BROUGHT HERE FROM THE STATES TO TESTIFY AGAINST TATSUTA AND SIX OTHER JAPANESE OFFICERS IN WAR CRIMES TRIALS EXPECTED TO START WITHIN TWO WEEKS.

TATSUTA TOLD HOW THE ARMS OF THE CONDEMNED TRIO WERE TIED TO CROSSES. THE AIRMEN WERE BLINDFOLDED WITH HANDKIERCHIEFS BEARING BLACK CROSSES, PLACED BETWEEN

THE EYES AS TARGETS.

TATSUTA SAID A COURT MARTIAL ORDERED THE EXECUTIONS AND APPROVAL WAS OBTAINED FROM TOKYO. HE RELATED HOW ON THE MORNING OF THE EXECUTION AND AGAIN AT THE CEMETERY HE TOLD THE AIRMEN THEY WERE GOING TO DIE AND SHOULD BE HEROIC.

ASKED WHAT WAS THEIR REPLY, TATSUTA SAID WITH A SOMEWHAT PUZZLED EXPRESSION "THEY JUST SAID 'THANK YOU.'"

TATSUTA SAID THE EMPEROR ORDERED THE COMMUTATION OF THE DEATH SENTENCES OF THE OTHER FIVE FLIERS TO LIFE IMPRISONMENT BUT COULD OFFER NO EXPLANATION FOR THE ORDER.

THOSE EXECUTED WERE: LT.DEAN E.HALLMARK, DALLAS; LT.WILLIAM G.FARROW, DARLINGTON, S.C., AND SGT.HAROLD A.SPATZ, LEBO, KAS.

HONG KONG, JAN. 20-(AP)-THE HEAD OF A CHINESE MILITARY DELEGATION IN HONG KONG ASKED THE BRITISH MILITARY ADMINISTRATION TODAY FOR "AN AUTHENTIC COPY" OF A POLICE REPORT ON THE CASE OF CHINESE ARMY CAPTAIN ACCUSED OF SHOPLIFTING.

IN REQUESTING THE REPORT SO THAT "THE MATTER MAY BE GONE INTO FURTHER," MAJ. GEN. N.B. JUE ASSERTED IN A LETTER TO REAR ADM. CECIL H.J. HARCOURT, COMMANDER-IN-CHIEF OF BRITISH FORCES HERE, THAT THE CAPTAIN WAS "BADLY ASSAULTED AND MANHANDLED BY A CERTAIN INDIAN SHOPKEEPER AND TWO OR THREE PORTUGUESE POLICE CONSTABLES" FRIDAY AFTERNOON.

THE ACCUSED CAPTAIN WAS TURNED OVER TO CHINESE MILITARY AUTHORITIES SOON AFTER THE INCIDENT, AND A BRITISH STATEMENT SAID THAT "CHINESE MILITARY AUTHORITIES POSSESS FULL FACTS OF THE CASE AND WHEN THEIR INQUIRIES ARE COMPLETE THEY WILL TAKE DISCIPLINARY ACTION IF NECESSARY."

HONOLULU, JAN.19-(AP)-SEVENTEEN ARMY ATHLETES WHO SURVIVED THE CRASH OF A C-46 "SKYTRAIN" OFF A MARSHALL ISLAND ATOLL LAST SUNDAY ARRIVED AT HONOLULU TODAY, CONVINCED THAT THEIR TRAINING AS SWIMMERS WAS ALL THAT SAVED THEM FROM DEATH IN STORMY SEAS.

TWELVE OF THE MEN WHO WERE ABOARD THE PLANE WHEN IT FELL INTO THE OCEAN NEAR MAJURO ATOLL AND SPLIT IN TWO, ARE STILL LISTED AS MISSING AND PRESUMED LOST.

THE SOLDIERS WERE EN ROUTE TO HONOLULU TO PARTICIPATE IN THE ARMY OLYMPIC SWIMMING CHAMPIONSHIPS.

"I DON'T KNOW WHAT HAPPENED," SAID DON J.BECKWITH OF MIDLAND, MICH., WHO WAS CUT ABOUT THE LEGS. "IT JUST HAPPENED."

JACK BECKWITH OF LANSING, MICH., (NO RELATION TO DON) SAID THE PLANE CRASHED A FEW MINUTES AFTER THE TAKEOFF.

"I WAS THROWN INTO THE WATER AND WE HAD TO SWIM TWO MILES TO SHORE. ONLY THE FACT THAT WE WERE GOOD SWIMMERS SAVED OUR LIVES," HE DECLARED.

SECOND LT.GEORGE FREEMAN OF NEW YORK CITY, A YALE UNIVERSITY MAN, SUFFERED CHEST AND LEG INJURIES WHICH ARE NOT BELIEVED CRITICAL. SECOND LT.ARTHUR C.MORGAN, WILKES BARRE, PA., FORMER COLUMBIA UNIVERSITY STUDENT, RECEIVED A DISLOCATED HIP, FACE LACERATIONS AND BROKEN FINGERS. MORGAN SAID "IT WAS PRETTY TOUGH SWIMMING WITH A HIP LIKE THAT."

HODGE IN A RADIO ADDRESS CALLED FOR AN END TO THE PARADES AND DEMONSTRATIONS, WHICH AT TIMES TOOK PLACE IN FULL VIEW OF RUSSIAN AND AMERICAN DELEGATIONS AT WORK ON A TEMPORARY CONTROL PLAN FOR KOREA.

MAJ.GEN.ARCHER L.LERCH, NEW GOVERNOR GENERAL FOR THE AMERICAN OCCUPATION ZONE IN SOUTHERN KOREA, FOLLOWED WITH A WARNING TO KOREANS THAT THE DISORDERS "ARE HURTING YOUR CAUSE BADLY."

VIOLENCE FLARED LAST NIGHT WHEN MEMBERS OF THE RIGHTIST KOREAN STUDENTS' LEAGUE PARADED IN FRONT OF THE RUSSIAN CONSULATE, U.S. ARMY HEADQUARTERS AND THE CHOSEN HOTEL, HEADQUARTERS OF AMERICAN AND RUSSIAN DELEGATIONS.

BEARING BANNERS DENOUNCING THE PROPOSED FIVE-YEAR TRUSTEESHIP FOR KOREA, THE MARCHERS MOVED ON TO THE OFFICES OF THE NEWSPAPER INMIN BO, ORGAN OF THE LEFTIST PEOPLES PARTY, WHERE EQUIPMENT WAS WRECKED AND DESKS WERE PITCHED OUT WINDOWS.

KOREAN POLICE MOVED IN AND DURING THE FIGHTING THAT ENSUED A KOREAN MAN WAS SHOT AND A WOMAN WAS INJURED.

THE KOREAN POLICE STRUCK AGAIN THIS MORNING, THIS TIME AT HEADQUARTERS OF THE LEFTIST "PREPARATORY ARMY" IN THE REAR OF THE GOVERNOR GENERAL'S PALACE.

AMERICAN MILITARY POLICE ESTIMATED THAT MORE THAN 200 LEFTISTS WERE IN THE HEADQUARTERS. TWO KOREANS WERE KILLED AND MANY WERE ARRESTED IN A SHORT BUT HOT BATTLE.

THE SOVIET-AMERICAN CONFERENCE IS GRAPPLING WITH PLANS "FOR THE ALLEVIATION OF KOREA'S IMMEDIATE PROBLEMS," HODGE SAID IN HIS RADIO ADDRESS.

"THE EYES OF THE WORLD ARE ON KOREA," HE ADDED. "THE WORLD ALREADY KNOWS KOREA DOES NOT WANT TRUSTEESHIP. THERE IS NO REASON FOR FURTHER DEMONSTRATIONS. CONTINUATION OF DEMONSTRATIONS AND DISORDERS CAN ONLY HURT THE KOREAN CAUSE."

JAN 20 1946

A171KX

LERCH, POINTING OUT THAT THE RUSSIAN-AMERICAN COMMISSION WAS AT WORK IN A ROOM OVERLOOKING THE STREET WHERE THE DEMONSTRATIONS OCCURED, DECLARED BLUNTLY:

"I AM WARNING YOU THAT THE CONSTANT QUARRELING AMONG OURSELVES AND CONSTANT CLAMOR, RAGING AND PETITIONING AGAINST A TRUSTEESHIP ARE HURTING YOUR CAUSE BADLY."

THE CONSENSUS OF AMERICAN AUTHORITIES WAS THAT THE DEMONSTRATIONS WERE MERELY A SCREEN FOR KOREA'S INTERNAL POLITICAL STRUGGLE AND THE PARADERS EITHER WERE SUPPORTED OR PAID BY WEALTHY BACKERS.

NO AMERICANS WERE MOLESTED OR THREATENED DURING THE DISORDERS.

WASHINGTON, JAN. 19-(AP)-GEN. DWIGHT D. EISENHOWER, PLEADING ANEW FOR AN UNDERSTANDING OF DEMOBILIZATION PROBLEMS, PROMISED LAST NIGHT THAT THE NEW DISCHARGE DIRECTIVE WILL BE STRICTLY OBSERVED.

THE CHIEF OF STAFF SAID THE REVISED SCHEDULE WILL BE "CARRIED OUT TO THE LETTER."

WITH THIS PROMISE HE COUPLED THE SOBER ADVICE THAT "WE HAVE A NEW URGENCY--THE NECESSITY OF BUILDING A SECURE PEACE."

EISENHOWER, SPEAKING OVER THE RADIO TO BOTH THE NATION AND OVERSEAS POSTS, SAID THE ARMY WILL HAVE TO ABANDON SOME OF ITS PRESENT OCCUPATION AND LIQUIDATION TASKS IF IT FAILS TO RETAIN 1,500,000 MEN JULY 1.

"THERE IS NO ALTERNATIVE," HE ASSERTED.

THE ARMY, HE ADDED, IS PLAYING "A GREAT ROLE IN A TROUBLED WORLD."

"AS EACH OF US COMES TO UNDERSTAND THIS TRUTH, THEN HE WILL TAKE PRIDE IN THE PART HE IS PLAYING.

"THE FIGHT HAS STOPPED. THE URGENCY OF WAR HAS GONE. BUT WE HAVE A NEW URGENCY--THE NECESSITY OF BUILDING A SECURE PEACE--A PEACE PURCHASED WITH THE LIVES OF OUR COMRADES. THE ARMY'S MISSION IS TO DO ITS PART IN ESTABLISHING AND ASSURING THIS PEACE AND TO SUPPORT OUR COUNTRY IN THE GREAT COOPERATIVE VENTURE OF NATIONS."

ON THE OTHER SIDE OF THE WORLD, LT.GEN.ALBERT C.WEDEMEYER TOLD HIS TROOPS IN CHINA THAT THE NEW DEMOBILIZATION DIRECTIVE WILL RESULT IN THE RETURN OF MORE THAN 5,000 OFFICERS AND MEN FROM FEBRUARY THROUGH APRIL.

THE COMMANDING GENERAL OF U.S. FORCES IN [illegible]A SAID MORE THAN HALF OF ALL PRESENT ARMY PERSONNEL IN THAT THEAT[illegible]L BE HOME OR HOMEWARD BOUND BY APRIL 30.

WASHINGTON-(AP)-CRIES FOR A BALANCED NATIONAL BUDGET ARE EXPECTED TO ECHO THROUGH CONGRESS NEXT WEEK AS THE LEGISLATORS BUCKLE DOWN TO BUSINESS IN THE NEW SESSION.

REGARDLESS OF WHAT PRESIDENT TRUMAN MAY ASK IN HIS ANNUAL BUDGET MESSAGE, SEVERAL MEMBERS HAVE SAID RECENTLY THEY WILL DEMAND THAT FEDERAL EXPENDITURES BE CUT TO THE LEVEL OF NATIONAL INCOME.

THE PRESIDENTIAL BUDGET RECOMMENDATIONS ARE TO BE READ TO THE SENATE AND HOUSE MONDAY, ALONG WITH MR.TRUMAN'S STATE OF THE UNION MESSAGE. THE COMBINED DOCUMENT IS EXPECTED TO EXCEED A RECORD-BREAKING 20,000 WORDS.

A TYPICAL ECONOMY COMMENT WAS VOICED TODAY BY REP.GORE (D-TENN). HE SAID:

"MOST MEMBERS THINK THAT OUR EXPENDITURES SHOULD BE SHARPLY REDUCED, NOW THAT THE WAR IS OVER. THEY WILL DEMAND EITHER THAT THE BUDGET BE BALANCED, BUT IF THAT CAN NOT BE ACHIEVED THIS YEAR, THEY WILL INSIST THAT AS CLOSE AN APPROACH AS POSSIBLE BE MADE TO A BALANCE."

CHAIRMAN CANNON (D-MO) OF THE HOUSE APPROPRIATIONS COMMITTEE TOLD NEWSMEN RECENTLY HE WOULD REQUIRE SHARP REDUCTION IN FEDERAL SPENDING.

HE SAID HE DOUBTED, HOWEVER, IF THE BUDGET COULD BE BALANCED OVERNIGHT.

THE PRESIDENT'S MESSAGE WILL SIGNAL THE START OF MAJOR LEGISLATIVE BUSINESS IN THE HOUSE.

ACTING DEMOCRATIC LEADER SPARKMAN OF ALABAMA HAS ANNOUNCED THAT AN APPROPRIATIONS BILL PROVIDING 1947 FUNDS FOR FEDERAL AGENCIES WILL BE CONSIDERED WEDNESDAY, AND THAT LEGISLATION DEALING WITH THE U.S. EMPLOYMENT SERVICE WILL BE TAKEN UP LATER IN THE WEEK.

SPARKMAN SAID NO DECISION HAS BEEN MADE AS YET FOR CONSIDERATION NEXT WEEK OF LABOR LEGISLATION. IT IS NOT EXPECTED TO REACH THE FLOOR UNTIL THE WEEK FOLLOWING.

THE SENATE REMAINS TIED UP WITH A DISAGREEMENT OVER PROPOSALS FOR A PERMANENT FAIR EMPLOYMENT PRACTICES COMMITTEE. SOUTHERN SENATORS HAVE ANNOUNCED THEY WILL FILIBUSTER INDEFINITELY TO PREVENT PASSAGE OF SUCH LEGISLATION. PROPONENTS ARE MAPPING STRATEGY TO TRY TO BREAK THE DEAD-LOCK BY HAVING DAY AND NIGHT SESSIONS, IF NECESSARY.

NIGHT LEAD UNDATED STRIKES
BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

(CX) WITH A PARALYZING STRIKE DUE TO HIT THE NATION'S STEEL INDUSTRY AT 12:01 A.M. MONDAY, HENRY J.KAISER'S WEST COAST STEEL PLANT WILL CONTINUE TURNING OUT STEEL.

JAN 20 1946

KAISER ANNOUNCED YESTERDAY (SATURDAY) HE HAD ACCEPTED A PRESIDENTIAL PROPOSAL GRANTING AN 18 1/2 CENT HOURLY WAGE INCREASE TO HIS STEEL PLANT EMPLOYES, AND HAD SIGNED A CONTRACT WITH THE CIO UNITED STEELWORKERS, WHOSE 750,000 MEMBERS HAVE SET MONDAY AS THE DEADLINE FOR A STRIKE IN OTHER STEEL PLANTS THROUGHOUT THE NATION.

KAISER ACCEPTED THE PRESIDENTIAL PROPOSAL. EARLIER THE PROPOSAL WAS ACCEPTED BY THE CIO BUT WAS TURNED DOWN BY U.S. STEEL, THE INDUSTRY'S BELLWETHER.

"I CAN NOT CONCEIVE THAT A SUM OF THREE AND A HALF CENTS (THE DIFFERENCE BETWEEN U.S.STEEL'S OFFER AND THE PRESIDENT'S 18 1/2 CENTS PROPOSAL) SHOULD BE PERMITTED TO RETARD OR DESTROY THE POSSIBILITY OF REAL PEACE AND PROSPERITY FOR THE NATION," KAISER SAID.

KAISER'S CIO CONTRACT COVERS THE OPERATION OF "THE LARGEST STEEL PLANT ON THE PACIFIC COAST," HE SAID, ESTIMATING THAT HIS FONTANA, CALIF., OPERATIONS EMPLOY APPROXIMATELY 3,000 TO 4,000 PERSONS.

MANY STEEL PLANTS BEGAN SHUTTING DOWN SATURDAY, HOURS AHEAD OF THE WALKOUT'S OFFICIAL STARTING TIME. IN DETROIT, 7,118 WORKERS WALKED OUT AT THREE MILLS OF THE GREAT LAKES STEEL CORP.; AT PITTSBUR JONES & LAUGHLIN STEEL CORPORATION'S BIG PLANT WAS CLOSED, AND AT CKUJ JOSE

JONES & LAUGHLIN STEEL CORPORATION'S BIG PLANT WAS CLOSED, AND AT CHICAGO, JOSEPH GERMANO, CIO DISTRICT DIRECTOR, ESTIMATED 50,000 WORKERS IN THE CHICAGO-GARY AREA WOULD BE OFF THE JOB AT MIDNIGHT SATURDAY BECAUSE OF ADVANCE PREPARATIONS FOR THE STRIKE, WITH 77 PLANTS IN THE AREA "VIRTUALLY SHUT DOWN."

"THE STRIKE WILL LAST UNTIL WE HAVE WON," GERMANO SAID. BOTH HE AND U.S.STEEL REPRESENTATIVES AT CHICAGO SAID CURTAILMENT OF OPERATIONS WAS "GOING AHEAD AS PLANNED AND IN A QUIET FASHION."

THE STEEL WALKOUT, IF FULLY EFFECTIVE, WOULD BE ONE OF THE BIGGEST, IF NOT THE BIGGEST, IN THE NATION'S HISTORY. THE STRIKE WAS ORIGINALLY SET TO BEGIN JAN.14, BUT WAS POSTPONED FOR A WEEK TO PERMIT LAST-MINUTE CONFERENCES AIMED AT AVERTING IT. HOPE OF A SETTLEMENT, HOWEVER, FADED WHEN PRESIDENT TRUMAN'S PROPOSAL, ACCEPTED BY THE CIO, WAS REJECTED BY BENJAMIN F. FAIRLESS, U.S. STEEL CORP., PRESIDENT.

A140CX

FAIRLESS SAID HE HAD TURNED DOWN THE PROPOSAL BECAUSE "SUCH A HIGH AND UNJUSTIFIED SCALE MIGHT WELL SPELL FINANCIAL DISASTER FOR MANY OF THE SMALLER STEEL COMPANIES AND FOR A LARGE NUMBER OF STEEL FABRICATORS AND PROCESSORS."

AT HARRISBURG,PA., GEORGE MERRICK, DISTRICT CIO DIRECTOR, SAID THE UNION AND TWO READING, PA., STEEL PLANTS WERE NEGOTIATING--AT THE COMPANY'S REQUEST--ON THE UNION'S WAGE DEMANDS.

MERRICK SAID HE HAD TOLD THE COMPANIES, WHICH HE IDENTIFIED AS THE BIRDSBORO STEEL CO., EMPLOYING 1,400, AND THE AMERICAN CHAIN & CABLE CO., PLANT AT READING, EMPLOYING ABOUT 1,200, THAT THE UNION WAS DEMANDING 18 1/2 CENTS. HE HAS HAD NO REPLY, HE SAID. THE UNION'S ORIGINAL DEMAND WAS 25 CENTS.

PRESIDENT TRUMAN, IN SUBMITTING HIS PROPOSAL TO THE UNION AND THE INDUSTRY, SAID A STRIKE IN THE STEEL INDUSTRY "WILL BE FELT IN PRACTICALLY EVERY MAJOR INDUSTRY IN THE UNITED STATES," ADDING THAT "IT WILL HAMPER OUR RECONVERSION EFFORT."

TWO OTHER TOP-RANKING DISPUTES CONTINUED AS THE STEEL STRIKE DEADLINE NEARED. THE NATIONWIDE STRIKE OF APPROXIMATELY 263,000 CIO AND AFL MEAT INDUSTRY WORKERS CONTINUED FOR THE FIFTH DAY, AND THERE WAS NO INDICATION OF A BREAK IN THE STRIKE OF 200,000 CIO ELECTRICAL WORKERS AGAINST GENERAL ELECTRIC, WESTINGHOUSE AND GENERAL MOTORS.

AS A RESULT OF THE MEAT STRIKE, ALSO THE RESULT OF A WAGE DISPUTE, HOUSEWIVES ACROSS THE COUNTRY RAIDED BUTCHERS' SHELVES, AND NEW YORK CITY, APPARENTLY HARDEST HIT SO FAR, REPORTED SUPPLIES OF FRESH MEAT WERE EXHAUSTED. A RETURN TO WARTIME SHORTAGES APPEARED IN PROSPECT. A FACT-FINDING BOARD WAS TO OPEN PUBLIC HEARINGS IN CHICAGO TUESDAY.

THE ELECTRICAL WORKERS' WALKOUT BEGAN LAST TUESDAY AFTER JAN 20 1946
BREAKDOWN IN WAGE NEGOTIATIONS.

De Gaulle Resigns French Presidency In Row Over Army

JAN 21 1946

JAN 21 1946

SIZE OF NATION'S FORCES CAUSE OF DISPUTE WITH TWO PARTIES IN CABINET

R. WILSON

Assembly Head Calls Leaders Of Group To Discuss Action

Pertinax says de Gaulle's resignation cannot be construed as a tactical move.....Page 5

Paris, Jan. 20 (AP)—Gen. Charles de Gaulle resigned tonight as interim president of France in a dispute with Left Wing Cabinet members over the size of this nation's armed forces.

The announcement was made by de Gaulle's secretary, who said the General's decision was "irrevocable."

Felix Gouin, president of the Constituent Assembly, summoned the heads of France's major political parties to meet at noon tomorrow to decide when the Assembly would consider de Gaulle's action. The Assembly normally would reconvene Tuesday.

Predicts New De Gaulle Cabinet

One source said that "while de Gaulle's decision is described as irrevocable, it might not be that in eight days," and predicted the crisis would end "in the formation of a new de Gaulle government."

Communists and Socialists had demanded an additional 20 per cent cut in the budget for France's army.

De Gaulle, France's first elected chief of state in five years, stepped down after 48 hours of conferences with party leaders.

Third Crisis In Two Months

The 55-year-old provisional president had been scheduled to address the nation by radio tomorrow night and was expected to state his position in this third government crisis in two months.

Later, unofficial reports said he was planning to leave Paris tomorrow for an unspecified length of time and destination, and that he would not make the scheduled broadcast.

De Gaulle, France's wartime military leader, was elected interim president last November 13 by the Constituent Assembly which, in turn, had been chosen by popular vote.

Reported Nettled By Attacks

An authoritative source said de Gaulle told the Cabinet earlier in the day:

"I have had enough. I do not want to assume direction of a government in which political parties or groups do not cease to attack me."

He then strode from the turbulent meeting.

The crisis over the size of the army began on New Year's Day, but at that time was resolved in a compromise calling for an immediate five-per-cent cut in army expenditures and an automatic twenty per cent reduction if, by February 15, the Government had not reorganized the forces to operate more economically.

World Tension Alters View

The new crisis arose when de Gaulle changed his views on the compromise "because of the tension of the world situation as revealed at the London United Nations conference."

De Gaulle, who led his nation's resistance during the war against Germany by organizing a provisional government, has been described by political observers as anxious to step down from his office before the Constituent Assembly begins debate on France's new constitution, and on proposed clauses which would strip the president of his power.

[NBC quoted a BBC broadcast tonight as saying de Gaulle intended to retire from political life. The broadcast quoted de Gaulle's secretary as saying: "I am betraying no secret when I say that this letter contains General de Gaulle's resignation. His decision is irrevocable. De Gaulle definitely is retiring from politics.]

UNO Delegates Hurry Home

Georges Bidault, Foreign Minister, and member of the Popular Republican Movement party (MRP), and Vincent Auriol, Socialist Minister of State, hastened back from the London meeting of the United Nations General Assembly because of the gravity of the crisis within their Government.

The Cabinet session followed repeated newspaper attacks on national defense expenditures and on the administration of Armand Michelet, Minister of the Armies, a member of the MRP.

During the past few days several Paris newspapers have charged that billions of francs had been "camouflaged" in the budget for the army. The newspaper Liberation said yesterday that "if one examines the budget closely one finds this: "To the 125,000,000,000 francs (official budget figure) have been added some 30 billions under the heading 'equipment and reconstruction'."

Speculation On New Regime

The situation became tense yesterday, and some well-informed persons were considering the possibility that a Communist-Socialist Government might be formed, headed by a Radical Socialist. Edouard Herriot, prewar premier, is leader of the Radical Socialists. The Communists and Socialists, when they joined forces on the army issue the first of this month, compromised at the last moment in order to prevent de Gaulle's resignation.

Later the Communists and Socialts announced an alliance on the form of the constitution being drawn up by the Constituent Assembly, stripping most of the powers from the presidency and placing them in the hands of the legislature.

Crisis Over Charter Expected

De Gaulle has not declared publicly in detail what his ideas are on the form of the constitution, but it was believed certain that whenever the charter came up for debate in the Constituent Assembly, a new crisis would be at hand.

The Socialists, before the New Year's Day dispute, when de Gaulle threatened to resign over a proposed twenty per cent cut in army funds, had resisted Communist appeals for an alliance at the expense of the MRP, stanch de Gaulle supporters.

De Gaulle successfully rode out the serious Government crisis last November, when he threatened to resign over the Communist demand for key Cabinet posts.

KERR MAY BECOME ENVOY

LONDON, Jan. 20—(AP) The London Daily Mail said tonight it was "probable that Sir Archibald John Clark Kerr, British ambassador to Moscow, would succeed Lord Halifax as ambassador to Washington.

It has been consistently rumored that Halifax, ambassador to the United States since 1941, was anxious to return to England.

Russian Finds Progress Slow In U. S. Zone

Reporter Who Toured Area Also Doubts Germans Are Ready for Elections

BERLIN, Jan. 20 (AP).—The first report by one of the Russian correspondents who recently visited the American occupation zone was published here today. It criticized the progress of industrial recovery and said the Americans were holding German local elections too early.

The five-paragraph report—distributed by the Soviet news bureau and published in the Berlin "Zeitung," the organ of the city government—told of visits to industries at Munich and discussions with administrative leaders about the elections.

The Russian correspondent said Bavarian industrial and transport recovery was slowed because "much-needed coal from the Ruhr was coming in too slowly and in insufficient quantities." He added that "coal from the Soviet occupation zone now was arriving in Bavaria."

Recounting visits to railroad repair works, a locomotive plant and a tool plant at Munich, the correspondent said: "I was astonished by the large number of tool machines which were out of operation.' He added: "These works have great possibilities to boost their production."

Discussing the local elections today and next Sunday, the correspondent said: "I got the impression that military government leaders and other administrators believe the elections are being held too early and, at best they can only show a trend for the future. The influence and participation of parties in these elections is insignificant."

Five Soviet correspondents made a conducted tour of the American occupation zone under an exchange agreement which sent American and British newspaper men on tours into the Soviet zone.

GERMAN VOTE RUNS HEAVY

J. RING

Early Lead Held By Socialist, Independent Candidates

Protestant church pastors urge Germans to vote in coming elections .....Page 11

Greek general elections set for March 31.....Page 5

Frankfurt, Germany, Jan. 20 (AP). Socialist and independent candidates were out in front tonight in the first returns of Germany's first free elections in thirteen years which brought out nearly 80 per cent of the registered vote.

United States Military Government officials and German civic leaders emphasized, however, that the trend was not politically significant for Germany because the elections—held only in villages and towns of under 5,000 population in the farming area of Greater Hesse—were decided more on personalities than on political issues.

Extreme Parties Far Behind

Giving the Germans their first taste of democracy since Adolf Hitler assumed political control of the nation, the elections were held in 17 of 39 Kreis (counties) in traditional conservative Greater Hesse and served as a forerunner for similar elections to be held throughout most of the American zone next Sunday.

With fewer than one quarter of the votes counted, the left-of-center Social Democrats, who entered the most candidates, were well in the lead, with 31,887 votes. Independent and unsponsored candidates received 20,946 votes and the conservative Christian Democratic Union 15,178.

Parties of both extremes—Communists on the left and the Democratic bloc on the right—were far behind in the early counting.

Of the first 76,000 ballots tabulated, approximately 3,500 were ruled out because of improper marking, reflecting German inexperience in secret balloting.

The voting was for councils to govern for two years in the various towns and villages.

The Germans themselves supervised the elections with the United States Military Government adopting a "hands off" policy. Nazis were barred from voting. All reports reaching United States headquarters here said the voting was orderly.

Voters Display Patience

Col. James R. Newman, director of the military government for Greater Hesse, expressed satisfaction at the heavy vote, declaring "I think this should prove to the world that democracy has not been completely smothered by years of Nazi oppression."

In Kreis Rheingau, fronting the Rhine River, 87 per cent of those eligible voted. The conservative Christian Democratic party led in this heavily Catholic area with 13,668 votes, good for 112 Council seats. The Social Democrats got 6,325 votes and 42 seats, while the Communists received 506 votes and no seats.

The Germans displayed patience and good-naturedly stood in line during rush periods. The American-controlled German news agency Dana said that one possible reason for the large turnout was that "authorities from the minister-president down to the burgomasters have told the people it was their duty to vote."

Sabotage Attempts Futile

Nazis were known in several instances to have attempted to sabotage the elections by persuading qualified voters to stay away from the polls. The heavy vote showed, however, that those attempts failed in general.

Colonel Newman's headquarters estimated that more than 400,000 ballots had been marked, roughly 85 per cent of all registered voters in the area.

The population of the area which held the elections is 888,000, with more than 1,200 local gemeinde councils. Under the military government order banning Nazis from voting, more than 39,000 citizens were kept off the registered lists. Up until midnight not a single incident of disorder was reported to the greater Hesse military government headquarters.

PASSAU SLAYINGS BAFFLE PROBERS

JAN 21 1946 LUCE

PASSAU, Germany, Jan. 20—(AP) Baffled U. S. Army agents who literally sifted plaster debris in Passau's murder villa in a vain hunt for evidence in the slaying of three American military government officers Jan. 7 appeared tonight to be as far from breaking the case as ever.

Scores of persons — American service men, Germans and foreign displaced persons—have been questioned from among the 55,000 inhabitants of this Bavarian border town and Danube port.

The victims were Maj. Everett S. Cofran of Washington, D. C.; Capt. Adrian L. Wessler of New Rochelle, N. Y., and Lt. Stanley Rosewater of Omaha, Neb. Cofran had assumed command of the military government here about two months ago.

Maj. Wyman Wickersham of Kansas City, who was assigned by the Regensburg military government to make a special report on the case, was preparing to end his stay here. His report was not expected to be made public.

Although the slayer started a fire to cremate his victims at approximately 4:30 a.m., and German firemen were on the scene a few minutes later, no qualified army criminal investigator arrived until more than 12 hours had elapsed.

States Air Forces in Europe numbered 450,000 men. Now it has only 29,000 men in the entire European theater, although the size of the occupational forces has been set at 70,000.

Approximately 9,000 American planes are scattered over the airfields of Europe, but many of them, although properly protected by grease, are deteriorating rapidly from disuse, it was said. Under current plans the permanent occupation forces will have about 2,700 planes to fly, including some 200 B-29's scheduled to arrive soon.

Army Doctors Seek Hearing

San Francisco, Jan. 20 (AP)—A group of army doctors and dentists on Guam notified the Associated Press in a prepaid cablegram that at a meeting Friday night they had resolved to ask Senator Johnson (D., Col.) for permission to send a representative before his Senate demobilization committee after a speaker (unidentified) said that idleness from professional duties was "causing decay, physically, mentally and morally."

The message said that the medical and dental officers were not asking for demobilization, but for "a fair rotation policy" to permit surplus doctors overseas to return to the United States.

Prompt Replacements Essential In Making And Maintaining Peace, General Cannon Says

Wiesbaden, Germany, Jan. 20 (AP). Lieut. Gen. John K. Cannon, commander of United States Air Forces in Europe, said today that his redeployment-depleted organization had been able to fulfill its duties thus far only through the "yeoman work of the few experienced men left."

"If the USAFE is to continue to perform effectively its share in making and maintaining the peace, it is most essential that replacements be received promptly," he added.

39,000 In Entire Theater

Officers at air forces headquarters said it would take at least three days to get one squadron of sixteen fighters into action and a week to get a single medium bomber squadron into effective operation due to a shortage of men to fly and service them.

UNRRA TO GIVE POLES 36 MILLIONS IN TRUCKS

WARSAW, Jan. 20—(AP) Brigadier Charles M. Drury, chief of the United Nations Relief and Rehabilitation Administration's mission here, said today the UNRRA planned to spend $36,000,000 for trucks this year to help Poland break a transportation bottleneck that has retarded her reconstruction.

UNRRA has been acquiring most of its trucks from American and British army surpluses.

Drury added that a $2,000,000 expenditure was contemplated for machinery needed to rebuild Polish towns and cities.

GREEK ELECTIONS SET FOR MARCH 31

150,000 Left-Wing Followers in Stadium Hear Regime Scored as 'Reactionary'

L. S. CHAISALES

ATHENS, Greece, Jan. 20 (AP)—Prime Minister Themistokles Sophoulis has agreed with right and center party leaders to hold Greek general elections March 31, but the extreme left wing adopted a resolution today charging that the Government had not cleared the way for honest balloting.

About 150,000 left-wing followers, massed in an Athens stadium, protested that the Government had not restored order necessary for the elections and objected to "intervention of foreign reactionaries who strengthen and support corrupt Greek political factions." No country was named specifically, but left-wing spokesmen recently have decried British influence in Greece.

The resolution also said honest elections could be held only under a government that included representatives of the resistance movement. Copies were ordered sent to Regent Archbishop Damaskinos, Premier Sophoulis and the diplomatic agents of the United States, the Soviet Union, Britain and France.

Following the agreement of Premier Sophoulis with the right and center parties last night, Archbishop Damaskinos issued a decree fixing the election date, when a Legislature will be chosen with power to make certain limited revisions in the Constitution.

The Legislature will hold its first session May 13. It will not be empowered to make any constitutional changes affecting the form and structure of the Government, because the form of Government that Greece will eventually adopt will be decided later in a plebiscite to determine whether King George II may return to his throne.

Gen. Alexander Othonaios, only speaker during the leftist mass meeting, attacked the King and the monarchists, charging that there was "a clique surrounding the King which has exploited the people since Greece became an independent state."

General Othonaios served one day in 1933 as Premier during an abortive insurrection. During the war he declined an offer to command Greek Middle East forces.

The Athens radio said tonight that armed outlaws attacked the police station in Kalamata, in southern Peloponnesus, freeing thirty-two prisoners. The Government declared martial law in the area and reinforcements were dispatched to restore order, it was reported.

Athens Newspaper Strike Ends

ATHENS, Jan. 20 (AP).—Athens newspapers resumed publication today when reporters and linotypers in this inflation-ridden capital accepted a bonus of hard-to-get suits and shoes plus a 66 per cent wage increase.

Pravda Makes a Denial

MOSCOW, Jan. 20 (AP)—The Communist newspaper Pravda asserted today that the Russians had never forbidden American correspondents to enter Mukden and denied that Soviet representatives had ever referred to the newsmen as "enemies."

[A dispatch from Chinhsien, Manchuria, Jan. 16 quoted a spokesman for Gen. Tu Ming-ling, commander of Chinese Government forces in Manchuria, as saying that American correspondents would not be permitted to enter Mukden while Red Army troops were there because the Russians regarded the correspondents as "enemies." The dispatch said the spokesman's statement was the substance of a message sent from Mukden by the leader of a Chinese advance party.]

Pravda's "foreign observer" reviewer asserted that "Soviet representatives never and nowhere" made any statement that the American correspondents were considered enemies and added that if such a statement was reported by a correspondent he "must first of all turn to the Chinese general, Tu Ming-ling, and his staff."

New Violence Is Reported on Palestine Shore

JAN 21 1946

Coast Guard Station Called the Target of Terrorist Attack; Ten Casualties

JERUSALEM, Jan. 20 (AP).—Terrorist violence caused at least ten casualties in the Palestine coastal area, it was reported tonight. The outbreak, an attack on the Givat Olga Coast Guard station, between Tel Aviv and Haifa, followed bombings yesterday at Jerusalem. Part of a Coast Guard tower was reported destroyed by an explosion. The report could not be confirmed officially.

Givat Olga, sixty miles northwest of Jerusalem, was among the Coast Guard stations north of Tel Aviv attacked Nov. 24 after the capture of the Greek steamship Demetrios with 200 illegal immigrants on board.

At Jerusalem strong military and police parties enforced a curfew tonight and combed the city, now quiet, in a search for hidden arms stores and for persons suspected of participating in last night's bombing and gun fighting here.

A government communique described the disorders, in which two persons were killed and a third was seriously wounded, as an attempt by terrorists to wreck studios of the Palestine Broadcasting Service. The attempt started, the communique said, when armed Jews placed explosives in an electric power substation near the studios.

Declaring that the substation was slightly damaged and several land lines to the radio station's transmitter in suburban Ramallah were severed, the communique credited prompt police and military action with averting the demolition of the substation and the studios.

Forced off the air for a time by the powerhouse explosion, the radio station used emergency power and resumed broadcasting this morning with an official announcement of the disorders which was read in all three languages of Palestine-English, Arabic and Hebrew. Regular broadcasts, however, still were canceled.

The dead were a British Army officer and an armed Jew, whose body was found in a taxicab at the Hadassah Hospital. A British policeman was seriously wounded.

Patrols this morning uncovered considerable quantities of firearms, bombs, explosives, ammunition and other material, the communique said.

POLITICAL MOVES AID IRAN REGIME

J. GOODWIN

TEHERAN, Iran, Jan. 20—(AP) The government of Premier Ibrahim Hakimi, described by its opposition as "tottering" for the past three months, appeared tonight to have been materially strengthened by parliamentary political maneuvering which observers said guaranteed Hakimi at least another 30 days as head of troubled Iran.

Key move in the strategy in Iran's parliament was a motion of censure against Hakimi by one of his own supporters. The Iran constitution sets a legal limit of 30 days to answer such a motion.

The move followed withdrawal yesterday of a similar motion made months ago by Opposition Deputy Teherantchi, who demanded Hakimi's resignation. Teherantchi supporters said Hakimi had agreed to resign if the motion were withdrawn.

In a speech yesterday Hakimi told parliament the Iranian problem had been sent to the United Nations Assembly and volunteered to resign "any moment the Majlis (parliament) wishes."

Meanwhile, Iran's ministry of foreign affairs denied reports printed in Russian language newspapers here today that "Bakh Tiari tribesmen were fighting in Southern Pelina (Pepina)."

RUBBER FROM CHINA FLOWS STEADILY TO U.S.

SAIGON, Jan. 20—(AP) Natural rubber is now flowing in a steady stream to the United States from China, purchasing agents of the Reconstruction Finance corporation disclosed today.

The Liberty ship Red Rover is at sea with 7,702 tons, the agents said, and the Liberty ship Mary Ann Livermore is scheduled to sail tomorrow with 8,000 tons. The Liberty ship Floyd Spencer in harbor is waiting the loading of at least 7,000 tons.

Chou En-lai Says Government Secretly Ordered Fighting— Russians Free Fliers

J. MOOSA

CHUNGKING, Jan. 20 (AP)—Gen. Chou En-lai, the Communists' truce negotiator, said today that shooting was dying down throughout China seven days after both sides had issued their cease-firing orders. General Chou said in an interview that he would invite General Marshall, United States Presidential envoy, to meet Mao Tse-tung, the Communist leader, at Yenan.

JAN 21 1946

General Marshall, who brought the Communist and Government negotiators together and arranged for the truce, now is in Shanghai.

While General Chou said the clashes were ebbing, he charged once more that the Government was responsible for the fighting that ran on beyond the Jan. 13 deadline for a cessation of hostilities. He alleged that the Communists had unearthed secret orders issued by the National Military Council instructing Government troops to keep on fighting through Jan. 15 to take strategic cities and towns near which they were poised. There was no immediate Government reply to the allegation, but previously spokesmen denied similar accusations and charged that the Communists themselves had been the aggressors.

General Chou said the fighting had been diminishing since Jan. 15, but that since the cease-fire order the Government had taken over nine cities and towns in North China. He proposed that each side withdraw to lines held Jan. 13, with truce teams to verify the positions by questioning local inhabitants.

General Chou said the Communists would be willing to abide by decisions of the Peiping Executive Headquarters, whence truce teams now are being dispatched to trouble zones.

4 On Chinese Armistice Mission Wined, Dined But Not Confined

Peiping, Jan. 20 (AP)—Four American airmen returned to Peiping today after being detained for seven days at Chihfeng, in Jehol, province, by Russian troops.

The flyers, who were on a mission for the Chinese Armistice Commission to determine the condition of the Chihfeng airfield, said they were wined and dined and were not confined, but were not permitted to leave until Russian authorities in Changchun, capital of Manchuria, sent word to the Russians at Chihfeng.

Russians Not Notified

The flight in a C-47 transport had been made without prior notice to the Russians, who were reported authoritatively to have about 4,000 men at Chihfeng.

[This was the first news that Russian forces still were in Jehol, northern province over which the Chinese Government and Chinese Communists have contended bitterly.]

JAN 21 1946

With advance notice to the Russians, another plane went to Chihfeng Thursday, deposited an armistice inspection team headed by Col. Raymond R. Tourtiliot, and returned to Peiping Friday without difficulty.

The reconnaissance plane which was detained by the Russians on the grounds that its flight was unauthorized, was piloted by First Lieutenant Estele I. Sims, of Denver. Others of the crew were First Lieutenant Glenn V. Van Zee, of Des Moines, Iowa, co-pilot; Sergt. Robert B. Reed, radioman, and Sergt. Myroslav S. Polischuk, crew chief.

Vodka For Breakfast

"We had vodka for breakfast," said Polischuk, who is from Brooklyn, "and spent most of our time playing cards with a Russian major who was the garrison commander and a Russian captain. We looked around the town once but it was so cold it was a pretty stiff jolt for us."

The crew chief said the Russians put guards around the plane as soon as it landed and refused to permit a takeoff because they had not known of the flight. Lieutenant Sims said he and the crew offered their pistols to the Russians but were told to keep them.

Chihfeng is a strategic station in the railway the Japanese built between Mukden, Manchuria, and Kalgan, Chahar.

HIGH DECORATIONS GIVEN MARINE COMMANDER

TIENTSIN, Jan. 20—(AP) Maj. Gen. DeWitt Peck, commander of the First Marine division, was given high Chinese and American decorations today for his part in the repatriation of Japanese and assistance given Chinese in this theater.

The Chinese government awarded him the Grand Cordon of Yun Hui (Cloud Banner, Second Class).

The Third Amphibious corps commander, Maj. Gen. Keller E. Rockey, pinned an Oak Leaf Cluster on Peck in lieu of a second Legion of Merit awarded Peck by the theater commander, Army Lt. Gen. Albert C. Wedemeyer.

U.S. Studies Riots In Korea; Clashes Kill Two, Hurt Many

R. MYERS

Seoul, Korea, Jan. 20 (AP)—American military authorities began an investigation today of rioting between Korean Leftists and Rightists which in a tumultuous day and night left two Koreans dead and many injured.

Lieut. Col. Walter Stone, of Berkeley, Cal., head of Seoul civil police, said the trouble started Friday night with the wounding of a Rightist student league leader shortly after he had denounced the Communists at a mass meeting called to protest the projected Allied trusteeship.

March On Leftist Newspaper

Stone said the Rightists blamed Leftists in general and the Communists in particular for the Moscow Big Three decision for a five-year trusteeship in Korea which is being mapped out in Seoul now by a joint American-Russian commission.

As the meeting adjourned and the students prepared to form a parade, the speaker was shot, Stone said, and fighting broke out.

One student league group then marched on offices of the Leftist newspaper, Inmin Bo, and wrecked them while another attacked the Peoples party headquarters. The Peoples party and the Communists support a so-called peoples' republic for Korea.

Several Hurt In Street Melee

Later, Stone said, Rightist student marchers collided with the Communists in a street melee in which several were injured.

Morea's civil police then stepped in, raiding the Leftist "youth's preparatory army" headquarters during which two Koreans were killed. They followed this up with a raid on a Rightist "army" headquarters and made several arrests.

The Rightists charged that Pak Heung Young, general secretary of the Korean Communists, had told an interviewer he favored a strictly Russian trusteeship and hoped that Korea would become a republic in the Soviet Union.

Pak promptly issued a statement declaring that he had been misquoted, but the parties on the Right used it as a rallying point against the Communists.

394 Japanese Plants Seized As Reparations

N. SPENCER

Most Are Plane Factories; MacArthur Acts to Stop Removal of Machinery

TOKYO, Jan. 21 (Monday) (AP).—General Douglas MacArthur today took over 394 Japanese aircraft plants, Army and Navy arsenals and war laboratories in a intact for probable shipment as reparations to the nations Japan once set out to conquer.

Disclosing that the Japanese had been permitting equipment valued at millions of dollars to deteriorate and, in some instances, had removed machinery from plants, the supreme Allied commander directed the Japanese government to reverse removals forthwith and place guards around the buildings to assure adequate maintenance.

Affected by the order were 265 aircraft and parts plants which the Allied Reparations Commission, headed by Edwin Pauley, had listed as "first priority material" for removal to other nations. Forty-seven of them were owned by the once-great Nakajima Aircraft Company, nineteen each by the Mitsubishi and Aichi companies, fifteen by the Kawasaki company and nine by the Hitachi company.

Also ordered taken over were naval arsenals at the once-great naval bases at Yokosuka, Yokohama, Sasebo, Kure, Kanoya and Sagami and other arsenals at Tokyo, Nagoya, Osaka and Kokura.

MacArthur also ordered the cancellation of any permits previously granted any of the installations for conversion to peace-time production unless the installations were "immediately and absolutely essential to the civil economy."

The commander of the 5th Fleet, Vice-Admiral Frederick Sherman, was charged with custody of three installations at the Yokosuka naval base. All the others were given into the custody of the 6th Army.

Commanders were told to consider the "probability that these plants will be taken as reparations and consequently should not be allowed to acquire importance in the Japanese economy."

"If in your opinion," the directive said, "any converted plant is not immediately and absolutely essential to the civil economy you will cancel authorization for its conversion."

Returned Jap War Prisoners Complain They Are Ignored

D. HENNESY

TOKYO, Jan. 20 — (AP) Japanese soldiers who have returned home from American prison camps are now complaining that, far from the scorn they expected of their countrymen for being captured, they are being almost totally ignored.

These men are the "living dead" who were listed during the war by the imperial army as having died gloriously for the emperor. Having submitted to capture instead, they had thought it was impossible for them to come home and face the anticipated hatred of their people.

Many slunk home under cover of darkness, and only days later did they dare to emerge and face their friends and neighbors.

Public Ignored Them

Then, according to a new Japanese demobilization ministry poll just released, they discovered that they were not even objects of curiosity. Most of them told the pollers that the public was treating them indifferently, and that they didn't like it because they had come to feel they were entitled to special consideration because of their sacrifices.

The former prisoners, who have been brought from the Philippines, Saipan, Guadalcanal and other points, also said they had been pleasantly surprised at the treatment accorded them by the Americans, for they had been led to believe that torture and hard labor awaited them once they were captured.

They also said that as prisoners they had been stunned to see the superiority of American equipment and operations, which made their own look "pitiful" by comparison.

got along well with the people in Japan.

Pvt. William E. Rourke, 255 Wood avenue, Bridgeport, Conn., said, "he was a likeable guy and a good Joe. Everybody in the battery liked him. He got along with the Japanese better than anybody in the battery."

Others spoke highly of the Jersey soldier.

JAN 21 19

"We used him as a pusher in cases where we were working with the Japanese because he got on so well with them," I was told by Capt. G. B. Welsh, Jr., of New Orleans, who was Hicswa's superior.

Will Be Witness

Welsh will serve as a witness when the case comes up for review. A court martial convicted Hicswa of murdering the two Japanese in a park here Nov. 24.

Brig. Gen. James T. Loome, commander of the 98th division artillery, said that "we painstakingly and exhaustively investigated the case before the charges were prepared."

Loome added that at first his headquarters was reluctant to associate the stabbings with an American soldier.

The two Japanese men were killed shortly before Hicawa was to have left for a furlough in the United States after reenlisting. Hicswa did not testify during the four-day trial.

Witnesses testified that he and two soldier companions had been drinking heavily and were strolling in the park when Hicswa spied two Japanese and shouted, "Let's get 'em."

The testimony also showed that the Japanese fled; that one was overtaken and stabbed a score of times with a bayonet, and that a little later the other suffered a similar fate.

Hicswa and his companions, whose names were not disclosed, returned to their base, awaiting processing for shipment home. It was there that investigators arrested him.

Character Efficient

Discussing Hicswa today with this reporter, Capt. Welsh said, "He never gave us a bit of trouble except for twe minor violations. He was a hard worker; his character and efficiency were excellent."

Captain Welsh referred to a letter Hicswa wrote his battery mates after his sentencing.

"Goodbye fellows," Welsh quoted from the letter. "I guess you've heard that I am going to be shot. Well, that's the Army for you. I'm sorry it had to end this way. Best of luck.—Joe."

Army records show that Hicswa is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Hicswa, 63 Lester street, Wallington, N. J., that he attended high school for a year and a half and quit to work in a leather factory in nearby Lodi. He served apprenticeships as a machinist and a baker before his induction in 1943.

At the time of his arrest, two days after his reenlistment in the Army, he was a telephone operator at battery headquarters.

Nara park, where the slayings took place, is one of the ancient Japanese cultural cities with many temples still undamaged by the war. The park contains the world's largest statue of the buddah. It is 63 feet high.

Australian Unions End Schreiber Blacklisting

Ex-Chauffeur of Aid to Duke of Gloucester Regains Job

CANBERRA, Australia, Jan. 20 (AP).—The Canberra Trades and Labor Council lifted today its ban against Brigadier Derek Schreiber, chief of staff to the Duke of Gloucester, Governor General of Austria, assuring the restoration of normal services and deliveries to Schreiber's household. The council acted after Schreiber's former chauffeur, ex-Corporal E. C. Fields, was assured of reinstatement as barman at the Kingston ....

In placing the ban against Schreiber last week, the council contended that Fields was fired from the hotel because of what the unionists described as the brigadier's "infulence." Schreiber denied the charges.

U. S. SCIENTISTS REACH AUCKLAND ON TOUR

AUCKLAND, N. Z., Jan. 20.—(AP) Eighteen American scientists who left Dayton, Ohio, a month ago arrived here today on a tour of Pacific bases.

The group, representing major laboratories under direction of the U. S. Army Air Forces and Signal Corps, is especially studying, among other things, the effects of tropical conditions on military materials.

After a short stay here, the scientists plan to go on to Australia, New Guinea, the Philippines, Saipan and other American wartime bases.

American Air General Found Shot To Death In Philippines

Manila, Jan. 20 (AP)—The Army Public Relations Office reported today that Brig. Gen. Harold L. Mace, 38-year-old air force officer, was found shot to death early today in his room at the Admiral Apartments.

An army service pistol was clenched in his left hand. A bullet from it has been fired through his mouth, public relations reported.

Mace, a resident of Jacksonville, Fla., was said to have been in poor health for some time.

Born In Florida In 1907

The houseboy found the body on the floor. No one had heard a shot, but death apparently had occurred about 9.30 P.M. Saturday.

General Mace was born at Lake Helen, Fla., October 10, 1907.

He was appointed a flying cadet in 1928, and was commissioned a second lieutenant in the Regular Army in January, 1930, rising to captain in 1940. Temporary wartime promotions made him a brigadier general in the Air Forces November 21, 1944.

He served first at Maxwell Field, Ala., and Fort Benning, Ga., then spent two years in the Philippines beginning in 1936.

Received Legion Of Merit

After that his assignments were principally to air force training duties through the early part of the war. After a tour at Randolph Field, Texas, he became director of training at the Coffeyville (Kan.) flying school in June, 1942. He took a similar post at Goodfellow Field, Texas, in November that year. A year later he became base commander at the Lake Charles (La.) airbase.

In December, 1944, he became commander of the 98th Bombardment Wing of the 9th Air Force in Europe. In May, 1945, he was assigned to the 7th Air Force in the Pacific.

He was awarded the Air Medal in March, 1944, the Distinguished Flying Cross in August that year, and the Legion of Merit in September, 1945. He held command pilot and observer ratings.

Prosecution Completes Its Case Against Homma

MANILA, Monday, Jan. 21—(AP) The prosecution today rested its case against Japanese Lt. Gen. Masaharu Homma, Death March commander, after an eyewitness to the fall of Bataan testified that the number of vehicles available made the man-killing trek unnecessary.

The witness, Maj. Achilles Tisdale, an aide to Maj. Gen. E. P. King, Jr., Bataan commander at the time of surrender, said the Americans retained sufficient vehicles to have transported all prisoners to any designated camp.

The Japanese major general arranging surrender details with General King, however, refused to discuss treatment of prisoners, Tisdale testified. The only statement made, he added, was the Japanese interpreter's:

"We are not barbarians."

The infamous Death March followed soon afterward.

15 ARMY, TWO NAVY MEN SURVIVE AIR CRASH

HONOLULU, Jan. 20—(AP) The army today listed 15 army athletes and two hitchhiking navy men as survivors of a transport plane crash near Majuro atoll in the Marshall islands last Sunday. Twelve others are listed as missing and presumed lost.

The survivors, who arrived here late yesterday, said their training as swimmers saved many of their number. They had to swim two miles to shore despite injuries. Five were litter cases when they arrived here.

The soldiers were en route here to participate in the army Olympic championships.

Plane Brings Stricken Infant from Australia to U. S. for Operation

JAN 21 1946

HONOLULU, Jan. 20—(AP) Two-month-old Cherylene Robison and her mother arrived in an Army transport plane last night on the semi-final lap of a flight for life one-fourth the way around the globe.

A navy plane will leave this afternoon for San Francisco with Mrs. Rona Robison and her stricken infant, who will undergo a delicate cranial operation in an attempt to stave off death.

Robert J. Robison, recently discharged sailor from Virgil, Kans., the father of the Australian-born child, was en route from Kansas to San Francisco to meet his wife when she arrives at Oakland naval auxiliary air station early tomorrow morning.

Mrs. Robison was met at Hickam field here by her husband's youngest brother, Sgt. Dean Robison who said he did not know of the baby's illness until he read it in a Honolulu paper yesterday.

"Cherylene stood the trip very well," Mrs. Robison told reporters as she stepped from the C-54 Skymaster. "She doesn't look like she is not a well baby."

A fontanelle, or infantile opening between the bones of the child's skull, failed to close naturally and doctors at the University of California hospital will attempt an operation.

"I'm going to San Francisco because the naval doctor in Australia told me it was the best thing to do," Mrs. Robison said. "I would be happy about going to America if it was not for Cherylene's sickness."

Robison, who has never seen his baby, met his wife, an Australian girl, in 1943, while he was stationed in Australia.

Mrs. Robison said she had intended to move to Kansas as soon as possible, not knowing it would be brought about so quickly by the rare malady of her child.

The army's transport command flew the 25-year-old mother and her child the first 4,900 miles and the Navy will take over for the final 2,000-mile lap.

The pilot of the plane from Perth, Australia, was Capt. Claude S. Haigler, El Paso, Tex., who made the trip in three days elapsed time.

Mrs. Robison was offered a special plane for the flight from Honolulu to the mainland, but said she thought her daughter needed last night's rest."

ALMOST 1,300 PLANTS IN 29 STATES AFFECTED WITH 750,000 MADE IDLE

Both Sides Apparently Expecting Long Deadlock

Nearly 20,000 Baltimore steelworkers join strike.....Page 20

Kaiser acceptance of wage compromise affects less than 1 per cent of steel production..Page 2

Pittsburgh, Jan. 21 (Monday) (AP)—A crippling strike closed down virtually the entire steel industry today.

The CIO steelworkers heeded their union's call for the mass walkout from coast to coast to back up wage increase demands. The union said the idle would total 750,000.

The strike beginning one minute after midnight was a grim new round in the postwar money battle between business and labor. It forced the closing of fabricating works, ore mines and aluminum plants as well as steel-producing works.

Pickets Outside Plants

Pickets took their places outside the struck plants. Some picketing had started hours before the deadline, which came when the clocks in each community read 12:01 A.M. Angry pickets protested use of airplanes to ferry supplies over their picket lines into Bethlehem Steel's plant at Lackawanna, N.Y.

Neither Philip Murray, union chief who came to Pittsburgh Sunday to direct the strike personally, nor other steelworker leaders were at the union's headquarters here at the time the strike order went into effect. A member of Murray's office staff said:

"There's nothing to add to Mr. Murray's statement made in Washington ordering the strike into effect at this time."

No Reports On Disorder

All United States Steel Corporation's steel plants in the Pittsburgh area were picketed beginning at 45 minutes before midnight. A corporation spokesman said groups varying from twenty to 100 covered all gates of the plants.

Special police details watched pickets which established their lines at 11 P.M. Sunday night outside the American Locomotive Company plant at Schenectady, N.Y., where 8,000 walked out.

There were no reports of any disorders as the strike got under way.

Pickets Form In Ohio

Pickets also formed outside Republic Steel Corporation's plants at Cleveland, Youngstown, Massillon and Canton, Ohio.

The strike, threatening the nation's postwar productive effort, climaxed months of fruitless negotiations in which President Truman had recently tried without avail to act as peacemaker.

The union's 21-man negotiation committee for the United States Steel Corporation, which announced all its operations had closed down hours ahead of the midnight deadline, arranged to meet with Murray Monday morning.

Both sides dug in for what they apparently expected will be a long deadlock. Almost 1,300 plants in 29 states were affected by the union strike call but workers stayed on temporarily in a thirtieth Minnesota with its big iron-ore mines, because of a State law requiring a waiting period.

Little Activity At Mills

Normally bustling steel mills in the Pittsburgh area, from which comes approximately a quarter of the nation's steel ingot production, cooled and ground to a stop. There was little activity at any except for skeleton crews of maintenance workers allowed to keep equipment in order.

Never before has there been a strike involving so many workers or such far-reaching effects. The closest one in size was the mass walkout of 450,000 coal miners in 1919. The biggest prior steel strike involved 365,000 men in 1919 in a dispute over union recognition and shorter hours.

The strike came at a time when steel, lifeblood of American industry, was needed for scarce civilian goods, automobiles, washing machines, refrigerators and a variety of other articles.

Almost immediate effects were expected to be felt by some railroads, which carry the iron and coal to make the steel as well as the finished products, by the scrap industry, which collects discarded metal for reuse, and by scores of other types of business closely dependent on a steady steel output.

Steel producers had slowed down operations for an earlier strike deadline a week ago, postponed until tonight by Murray at the request of President Truman. During the week some production was restored only to be curtailed again when the White House conferences at Washington failed.

Murray had originally asked $2 a day pay hike, or 25 cents an hour.

He said it was needed to keep workers' pay envelopes filled to the same amount as during the war when they worked longer hours.

Short Steel Supply Estimate

Speaking for the industry, Benjamin F. Fairless, president of the United States Steel Corporation, said the companies could not afford to pay anything near $2 a day and that, further, OPA ceilings for steel products are too low, even without increasing wages, for the industry to operate profitably.

During the negotiations Murray reduced his demands from 25 cents to 19½ cents an hour, the figure recommended by the Washington fact-finding commission as a compromise in the two-month General Motors strike. Fairless was willing to go only as high as 15 cents.

President Truman asked both sides to accept 18½ cents. Murray agreed but Fairless refused so the two sides were only 3½ cents apart from the union's 18½ cents and the industry's 15. The Government reportedly had figured on allowing steel prices to rise about $4 a ton.

Kaiser Plant To Produce

An estimate of the short steel supply situation came from John L. Lovett, general manager of the Michigan Manufacturers' Association at Detroit. He said "nobody has more than a 30-day supply of steel on hand and some have a lot less."

Production was slated to continue at only a few plants. One was Henry J. Kaiser's plant at Fontana, Cal. He signed a contract with Murray at the 18½-cent increase figures proposed by Truman.

Normal operations were expected, too, at the plants of the Weirton Steel Company, employing 10,000 men who belong to the separate Weirton Independent Union.

At Harrisburg, Pa., a CIO district official, George Medrick, disclosed that five central Pennsylvania fabricating companies had signed, like Kaiser, at the 18½-cent figure "or better," retroactive to January 1.

Dark Outlook For Factories

At the same time, Medrick said negotiations with two other firms had failed. The companies, Medrick said had signed contracts were the Alloy-Rods Company at York, and four at Reading, the Columbian Cutlery Company, Reading Hardware Corporation, Beryllium Corporation of Pennsylvania, and Dick Brothers Company, Inc.

John D. Small, Civilian Production Administrator, forecast in Washington that a big share of the nation's factories will have to shut down or at least curtail operations if a steel strike lasts as long as two weeks. Some may close before using up steel inventories in order to have some on hand to start operations again at such time as steel mills would start rolling agin.

Pivotal Steel State

Pennsylvania, the pivotal steel State with almost one third of the nation's ingot capacity, has nearly 300,000 workers in the stalled industry. The greater part of these are in the Pittsburgh area, where the strike got off to a head start with a stoppage by 18,000 workers at two Jones & Laughlin Corporation steel mills Friday and Saturday. Picketing was orderly. If the strike lasts long enough, it probably will affect the soft-coal industry, particularly the "captive" mines which supply metallurgical fuel to large steel companies.

Shortly before the strike deadline, pickets appeared at the Homestead (Pa.) and Clairton (Pa.) works of the Carnegie-Illinois Steel Corporation, and at the Bethlehem (Pa.) plant of the Bethlehem Steel Corporation at Bethlehem, an estimated 2,000 steel workers gave ruosing approval to the "jump-the-gun" proposal and marched to the picket lines in a snowstorm.

PACKING PLANTS MAY BE SEIZED

Possibility of Government Action Rises in Administration Circles.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 20. — (AP) The possibility of government seizures in the strike-hit meat packing industry within 24 to 48 hours was raised in high administration quarters tonight.

An influential official, who declined to permit his name to be used, told a reporter that he saw little hope of avoiding this action.

The question of a seizure, he said, would be discussed in high level conferences again tomorrow. He said he was inclined to recommend such a step at once. More than a quarter million A.F.L. and C.I.O. workers are off the job.

At the same time, the official said, seizure of the steel industry was not seriously considered as yet although he did not know whether the picture would remain the same if the C.I.O. United Steel Workers were out a week from now. A walkout of 750,000 in 29 states began this weekend.

President Truman is known to oppose seizures in labor disputes except as a last resort, this source said, and his is the final word.

With the meat strike presenting an emergency felt immediately in millions of American homes the five-day-old walkout requires drastic action at once, in this official's views.

A government fact-finding board will open public hearings Tuesday in Chicago in the packing industry's wage dispute involving a total of 263,000 workers. Across the nation news dispatches told of dwindling meat supplies.

TRANSIT TIEUP DECISION TODAY

New Yorkers Face Possible Transportation Strike

JAN 21 1946

Washington, Jan. 20 (AP)—The possibility of Government seizures in the strike-hit meat-packing industry within 24 to 48 hours was raised in high Administration quarters tonight. An influential official said he saw little hope of avoiding seizures. The question, he said, would be discussed in high-level conferences again tomorrow.

Pittsburgh, Jan. 20 (AP)—A spokesman announced tonight that A. W. Robertson, president of the Westinghouse Electric Corporation, had accepted the invitation of Secretary of Labor Schwellenbach to meet in Washington Tuesday at a mediation conference on the strike of CIO-electric workers.

New York, Jan. 20 (AP)—More than 3,500,000 New Yorkers who ride to work—nearly half the city's population — were confronted tonight with the uncomfortable thought of a threatened tieup of the city's transportation system.

Such a move, if successful, would be the greatest mass inconvenience ever to hit the day-by-day routine of the nation's greatest city. The average New Yorker is almost entirely dependent upon the city's transit system to get him to and from his job.

Decision Due Today

Michael J. Quill, president of the Transport Workers Union (CIO), said a strike date for 32,000 workers who operate the municipally owned subways, streetcars, elevated trains and busses, would be set tomorrow night unless the Board of Transportation accedes to union demands for a referendum on a proposed sale of power plants.

Whether such a strike actually would tie up the entire transportation system was a matter of conjecture, but it was generally conceded that it would shut down most lines.

Union officials have given no hint as to when the strike would start, if it is called. However, they have said the public would be given ample time to arrange to meet the inconvenience.

There never has been a complete tieup of the city's transportation facilities. The last major walkout of transit workers was in 1926, when employés of IRT, one of the three subway lines, struck.

The Greater New York CIO council, central body for 300 local CIO unions claiming 600,000 members, has pledged to support the transport workers. It scheduled a meeting for tomorrow to decide what form of support it would give.

Quill's major demand is that the Board of Transportation submit to a referendum a proposal to sell the three city-owned plants that supply most of the electricity for the transit lines.

Cost Called Prohibitive

The board is considering selling the plants to Consolidated Edison, major utility firm in the metropolitan area, because, it claims, the cost of modernizing the plants is prohibitive.

The board said, however, no final decision had been reached and it also was considering three alternatives which would cost between $15,000,000 and $104,000,000 to rehabilitate and enlarge the plants. It says no referendum is necessary to sell them.

Quill's contention is that sale of the plants would give Consolidated Edison a monopoly to supply power to the city and that it would cost at least $5,000,000 a year more to buy the power than it would to rebuild the plants. He doesn't object to the sale if the voters approve.

$2-A-Day Increase Sought

Tied in with the power plant demand is a request for a $2-a-day wage increase and what Quill terms an "up-to-date" union contract that would include a union shop.

The TWU has not had a union shop among transit workers since the IRT and BMT subway systems were taken over by the city in 1940. The third subway line is the Independent system.

Quill never has disclosed how many of the 32,000 transit workers belong to his union. All the workers are under civil service and union membership is voluntary. Several independent unions also claim some of the transit workers.

Workers Off Jobs Total 1,575,000

Chicago, Monday, Jan. 21 (AP)—The approximate number of workers off their jobs in the nation's major industries this morning as the steel strike went into full effect:

Steel	750,000
Meat industry	263,000
Electrical	220,000
Automotive	205,000
Transportation	50,000
Communications	7,000
Miscellaneous	80,000
Total	1,575,000

Other scheduled to quit their jobs today were:

Truman May Renew Support Of Bills Stalled in Congress

President to Deliver Annual Message, Budget Proposal Today.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 20—(AP) President Truman will face stiff bi-partisan opposition if he renews in his annual message to Congress tomorrow some of the domestic legislative proposals he has made in the last few months.

There also is a Republican fight brewing against at least two of three major appointments the White House announced Friday, with some indications of Democratic dissatisfaction too.

Two Appointments Criticized

Senator Tobey (R-NH) said he will ask the Banking committee to hold public hearings on Mr. Truman's nomination of George E. Allen, former Democratic National committee official, as a director of the Reconstruction Finance corporation.

Tobey told a reporter that as far as he can see Allen has "no special qualifications for the job." The New Hampshire senator added he will ask the Naval Affairs commitee, of which he is a member, to inquire publicly into the President's choice of Edwin Pauley, another Democratic National committee official, as Undersecretary of the Navy.

Some southern Democrats who had urged the appointment of Colgate W. Darden, Jr., former Virginia governor, to this post indicated dissatisfaction at Pauley's selection.

Delivers Message Today

Congressional interest will center tomorrow on Mr. Truman's 25,000-word combined message on the state of the union and the budget.

Any budget cuts he may recommend will be welcomed by a Congress conscious of the approaching off-year elections, but if the President follows through on some of his previous proposals he will find trouble with members of his own party as well as the Republicans.

Most legislators think, for instance, that Mr. Truman will have to ask again for the establishment of a permanent fair employment practices commission to police industry against racial discriminations.

Southern Democrats already have demonstrated their last-ditch opposition to that measure by a filibuster that will find the Senate still arguing tomorrow about its journal of proceedings for last Thursday.

Democratic leaders are known to be growing restive about this tieup in the Senate, but Senator Barkley of Kentucky, the majority chieftain, told a reporter he sees no break in sight.

If Mr. Truman asks again for legislation to set up fact-finding boards to attempt settlement of labor—management disputes which are tying up a large sector of the country's industry, he will encounter both Democratic and Republican opposition. A majority of the House Labor committee indicated in a survey yesterday that they expected the committee to bring out legislation this week, embodying the principle but applying modifications.

Even such influential Administration supporters as Barkley have failed thus far to work up an enthusiasm for that proposal.

President Truman has called for universal military training legislation. Congress is split wide open on this question, which cuts sharply across party lines.

A renewed plea for retention of the U. S. Employment Service under Federal control likewise would find congressmen divided, irrespective of party. The Senate voted once to turn the service back to the states, with such usual White House supporters as Senator's Lucas (D-Ill) and Briggs (D-Mo), bucking the President's wishes on that test.

An OPA extension plea also would bring tough opposition. Republicans have been talking about killing the OPA and turning some of its authority over to other agencies. Many Southern Democrats generally will vote against any extension if attempts are made to put a ceiling on cotton prices.

KIMMEL FACING PROBE QUERIES ON SHOOTING ORDERS

WASHINGTON, Jan. 20 — (AP) Rep. Gearhart (R.-Calif.) of the Pearl Harbor investigating committee raised the question today of whether pre-war "shooting orders" in the Atlantic did not apply in the Pacific too.

JAN 21 19

Gearhart told reporters he would try to clear up that point tomorrow, when Rear Adm. Husband E. Kimmel returns to the witness stand for his sixth straight day of testimony.

Kimmel was the 1941 commander in chief of the Pacific fleet. He has testified he was told by Washington officials that "shooting orders" did not apply to his area in 1941. He himself, he said, directed the depth-bombing of suspicious submarines in Hawaiian waters in November of that year.

Gearhart based his question on the anti-Comintern agreement of Rome, Berlin and Tokyo of Nov. 28, 1940. He said:

"First, it would appear from that document that Japan was obligated to go to the aid of Germany as soon as we began firing upon her ships.

"Then, in the light of information from intercepted Japanese messages, we learned that Japan assured Germany that it regarded U. S. requests that she withdraw from the pact as an insult.

"Taken together, these raise the question of whether shooting orders in the Atlantic did not constitute shooting orders in the Pacific."

Gearhart waited over the weekend—as he said he had been waiting for many weeks — for photographed copies of intercepted Japanese messages of Dec. 6, 1941.

He said some of these, shown in printed form to have been translated after the attack of Dec. 7, 1941, pointed definitely to oncoming war. He said he wanted to inspect photographs of the originals to study the original markings on them as to time of translation, etc.

Senator Brewster (R.-Me.) must first finish his questioning of Kimmel, before Gearhart gets his turn.

Brewster laughlingly turned aside a reporter's query as to whether he would want to call Mrs. Eleanor Roosevelt as a witness.

Clipping Quoted

The question was prompted by a reference the Senator made to the wife of the late President yesterday. He read a New York Times clipping dated Oct. 8, 1944 which quoted her as saying that those at the White House had been "expecting something of the sort for a long time" when news of the Pearl Harbor attack reached Washington.

Hanging fire over the weekend was a line of questioning Brewster brought up in connection with a reference in Kimmel's prepared statement to Admiral R. K. Turner, 1941 chief of navy war plans.

This quoted Turner as having testified in a previous investigation:

"It was felt in the Navy department, that there might be a possibility of war with Japan without the involvement of Germany, but at some length and over a considerable period this matter was discussed and it was determined that in such a case the United States would, if possible, initiate efforts to bring Germany into the war against us in order that we would be enabled to give strong support to the United Kingdom in Europe."

Brewster showed interest in the idea of efforts "to bring Germany into the war against us." Kimmel could not recall dates in connection with this paragraph, and Brewster and Senator Ferguson (R.-Mich.) asked that the dates be supplied as soon as possible.

SENATORS SHY AT PROBE INTO CLARK ACTION

But Rankin Backs Demand For Investigation Of Rapido Crossing

Washington, Jan. 20 (AP)—Reachable senators generally cocked a wary eye today at a 36th Division resolution calling for an investigation of the costly Rapido River crossing two years ago, but at least one House member was all for it.

"That horrible disaster must be thoroughly investigated," said Representative Rankin (D., Miss.), "even if it has to be done by the Committee on Un-American Activities."

Rankin is a member of that committee as well as chairman of the committee on World War veteran's legislation.

Futility Of Probes Noted

On the other hand, Senator O'Mahoney (D., Wyo.), of the Senate Military Committee, said the veterans who adopted the resolution at a reunion in Brownwood, Texas, yesterday "were probably worked up."

"We have spent months on an utterly futile investigation of what happened at Pearl Harbor, trying to look into the past," O'Mahoney said. "What this country needs is a look into the future."

The resolution adopted by members of the 36th Division Association said almost 2,900 casualties were suffered by the unit in two crossings of the heavily defended Italian stream on January 20 and 21, 1944.

Clark Called "Inefficient"

It called on Congress to investigate and "take the necessary steps to correct a military system that will permit an inefficient and inexperienced officer, such as Gen. Mark W. Clark, in a high command to destroy the young manhood of this country, and to prevent future soldiers being sacrificed wastefully and uselessly."

A War Department spokesman promptly defended the operation as a diversionary assault and said the men who died there "did not die in vain." The spokesman said Clark was ordered by General Sir Harold Alexander, commander of the 15th Army Group, to make the attack.

"Conspiracy" Against Patton

Rankin, in a statement, coupled the Rapido River setback with what he called a "treasonable conspiracy here in Washington to smear and discredit Gen. George Patton when it was proposed to put him in command of the army in Italy."

"That conspiracy, and that smear," the Mississippian said, "succeeded in slowing General Patton down by interfering with him right in the midst of his greatest victories. It disturbed the entire Western front, prolonged the war and cost the lives of tens of thousands of America's bravest fighting men."

Members of the Senate Military Affairs Committee who had anything at all to say showed a disposition to go slowly.

Clark Silent

VIENNA, Jan. 20—(AP) Gen. Mark W. Clark had no comment today on a resolution adopted by a 36th Infantry Division reunion seeking a Congressional investigation of the Rapido River battle in Italy two years ago.

Clark, now American commander in the U. S. Occupation zone in Austria, was accused in the resolution of having ordered the crossing against the recommendations of subordinate officers in the U. S. 5th Army, which he commanded at the time. The resolution was adopted at Brownwood, Tex., yesterday.

TALBOT PROPOSES ARMY PAY BOOST TO DRAW RECRUITS

Congressman Urges Action to Get Replacements for Veterans.

CRITICIZES WAR DEPT.

Demobilization Program Confused, Says G.O.P. House Member.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 20 — (AP) A proposal to double the pay of enlisted men and to provide educational and vocational training as a means of attracting volunteers was made tonight by Rep. Talbot (R-Conn).

Talbot said in a statement that Congress should authorize such pay boosts "to provide replacements in large numbers" for men now wishing discharge.

Criticizing the War department's handling of demobilization, Talbot declared the slow-up recently announced "adds just one more note of confusion to a system studded with examples of indecision and vagueness since its very inception."

As examples, he said, the European and Pacific Theater commanders said recently they had more men than needed, that transportation was the "bottleneck." But now, he continued, "we are told troopships may come home with plenty of room to spare because replacements are not available for the 'much needed' troops in those areas."

For families of servicemen it is "justifiable to expect the War and Navy departments to live up to their plans. This the War department has failed to do."

Talbot asserted that by making service attractive, through increased pay and educational advantages, a sufficient volunteer force for both Army and Navy would be available for occupational and other duties.

Talbot said he had asked Chairman May (D-Ky) of the House Military committee to take immediate action on his proposal.

Text of Statement

The text of Rep. Talbot's statement follows:

"Recent announcements from the War department indicating that demobilization will be slowed up because of the lack of replacements add just one more note of confusion to a system which has been studded with examples of indecision and vagueness since its very inception.

"Just a short time ago, we were told that the Army and Navy had far more men than were needed in the European and Pacific theaters and that the only bottleneck to be overcome was the terrific transportation shortage. We were told at that time that the European bottleneck was expected to be relieved by February and the Pacific bottleneck by Spring. Now, long before those dates, we are told that we should not be surprised if troopships come to America from either of those theaters with plenty of room to spare because replacements are not available for the 'much needed' troops in those areas.

The tragedy of all of this indecision and confusion by the War and Navy departments is the fact that husbands and sons in the service have been counting on the successful execution of previously announced plans, and wives and mothers back home have held firmly to the hope that their servicemen would be returned on schedule. It is justifiable for these men in the service and their families back home to expect a reasonable knowledge of definite plans by the War and Navy departments to demobilize these servicemen and it is justifiable for American citizens to expect the War and Navy departments to live up to those plans. This the War department has failed to do.

"If, truly, the return of our veterans is now being impeded by a lack of replacements, it is time for America, through the voice of Congress, to act quickly. If the War and Navy departments can be authorized immediately to increase the pay, advantages, and opportunities of enlistment in the armed forces to a point sufficient to attract the voluntary enlistment of enough men to provide replacements in large numbers, a knotty post-war problem will be solved. Under this plan it would be possible within a reasonably short time to demobilize all members of the armed forces who desire to be discharged and to retain an Army and Navy of sufficient strength for all occupational and other current duties made up entirely of men to whom employment in the armed services is desirable.

"Membership in the armed forces of the United States should not be an undesirable occupation because of low pay, lack of opportunity for advancement, or other disadvantages. This, to my mind, is the sensible method of solving the demobilization problem and, by the same token, increasing the morale of our armed forces to the greatest degree possible.

"The House Military Affairs committee should take immediate action in this direction, and I am today proposing such action to Chairman May of that committee."

Army's Postwar Status May Wait Three Years

Washington, Jan. 20 (AP)—A new War Department regulation suggests that the Army's reconversion to full postwar status will be delayed until July 1, 1949.

Beginning with that date, no newly commissioned second lieutenant may take a bride for a year, upon pain of forfeiting his commission.

The long-standing peacetime rule was suspended in 1942 because during the war most new officers came from civil life rather than from the Military Academy at West Point. The 1949 date makes the additional year of enforced bachelorhood apply to the first West Point class to be admitted to the academy since V-E day.

The Army's theory is that a new second lieutenant has neither time nor money to spare for a wife. The ancient rule that a Military Academy undergraduate may possess neither a wife, a horse nor a beard remains unaltered.

GEN. BRADLEY RULES ON VETERANS' PENSIONS

WASHINGTON, Jan. 20—(AP) General Omar Bradley, Veterans' administrator, ruled today that a veteran receiving a salary from the Federal government is not barred from receiving a pension because of it.

The ruling answered the question of whether a retired army officer not receiving retirement pay but holding a government job could receive a veterans' pension.

"So long as the veteran is not receiving active service or retirement pay, he may, if otherwise entitled thereto, be awarded a pension and the receipt of the salary of his civil office does not bar payment of such benefit," Bradley said.

LIQUIDATION MISSION ON WAY TO EUROPE

WASHINGTON, Jan. 20—(AP) Three representatives of the foreign liquidation commissioner left by Army plane for Europe today to survey overseas surpluses and arrange for purchases for relief use.

They were accompanied by Earl Martin of the American Council of Voluntary Agencies for Foreign Service, Inc., which comprises 58 American charitable, religious and overseas relief groups.

In a statement issued as the group departed, Foreign Liquidation Commissioner Thomas B. McCabe said:

"The action of the council in consolidating its overseas surplus requirements and purchases is a constructive simplification of a supply problem that is undoubtedly most difficult for missions and relief groups abroad. The physical difficulties in obtaining supplies of surplus alone are a serious handicap, as these surpluses abroad are located in many widely-scattered spots, while the transportation of the world in general is appallingly disrupted."

McCabe's agents on the tour are Brig. Gen. Alexander Gorder, Capt. Allan Lee and Henry Dudley. Their tour will take them to Paris, Rome and Cairo.

Smithsonian Institution Reports Theory on How Atom Was Born

WASHINGTON, Jan. 20 (AP).—A speculative explanation of one of nature's greatest secrets—the means by which atoms first were formed to give us all the known elements—was advanced today in the annual report of the Smithsonian Institution.

In the same report the statement was made that war-time researches had produced "strong evidence" that there are planet-like bodies in the heavens entirely distinct from the planets we now know.

Both concepts were described by Dr. A. Vibert Douglas, of Queen's University, Kingston, Ontario.

Concerning the formation of atoms, Dr. Douglas first gave this background: The atoms of all the known elements which make up all earthly things and also all the stellar bodies are themselves composed of elemental particles—electrons, protons, neutrons and positrons.

Sometime and somewhere in the universe these elemental particles were brought together into their present forms, but astronomers have been unable to find any conditions now existing to account for this union.

Dr. Douglas said that a "highly speculative answer" to that puzzler had been given by two scientists named Chandrasekhar and Heinrich. He did not give their complete names nor list their scientific affiliations.

Dr. Douglas outlined the theory of the two scientists as follows: At one time, all the elementary particles which now go to make up the elements of the universe were confined to a volume of radius only about twenty times that of the solar system.

In that comparatively tiny space, under conditions of tremendously high temperatures, the elemental particles came together to form atoms. And in that crowded space were formed not only the thousands of millions of stars that now constitute our own galaxy, but all the millions of galaxies that now exist in the boundless space outside our solar system.

Gradually, the scientists theorized, the millions of stars and other bodies broke away from this jam-packed giant molecule in the sky and expanded to take the position and motion they now show in space.

This theory of a titantic breakaway of the celestial bodies from cramped quarters is backed up, the scientists contend, by the fact that distances between galaxies, or groups of stars, is known to double every 1,800 million years.

As to the other idea he advanced—the probable existence of other planet-like bodies in the heavens—Dr. Douglas said this: "An investigation of very recent date has led to positive conclusions about planet-like bodies associated with stars other than our sun.

"There is strong evidence for this in the case of sixty-one Cygni and seventy Ophiuchi." (These are stars in the constellations Cygnus, "The Swan," and Ophiuchus, "The Serpent-Bearer.")

84TH DIVISION VETS LAND IN NEW YORK

NEW YORK, Jan. 20—(AP) The 39,450-ton George Washington, army transport which formerly was a German transAtlantic liner, docked today from Le Havre with 6,

30.24 — 431

242 passengers, most of them members of the 84th "Rail-Splitter" Division which fought through three European campaigns.

Maj. Gen. A. R. Bolling of Washington, D. C., the division's commander, was on the dock to greet his troops when they debarked. Bolling flew to the United States in advance of the division.

The 84th Division band, which played the funeral march at services for Gen. George S. Patton, was aboard the ship, as were units of the 33rd and 334th Infantry regiments, the 244th Engineer Battalion, and one of the 84th Division's military police platoons.

UNO GROUP VIEWS SITES FROM BLIMP

Chairman Promises Aerial Inspection of Stamford Area.

BOSTON, Jan. 20—(AP) Dr. Stoyan Gavrilovic, chairman of the UNO site-selection group, today surveyed possible locations from a Navy blimp and was so enthusiastic that he said he hoped to repeat the experience around New York particularly in the Stamford, Conn., area.

Declaring a blimp more desirable than a plane for aerial inspection because of its slower speed at lower altitudes, Dr. Gavrilovic said:

"The view was magnificent and provided data that we could not get in any other way," adding:

"The most useful fact the trip brought out was that the Middlesex Falls area is hemmed in by densely-populated cities and towns."

Ascending from the U. S. air facility at Weymouth at 10:15 a.m., in a blimp piloted by Capt. Karl L. Lange, USNR, of Ipswich, the party cruised for two and one-half hours over the terrain of metropolitan Boston.

Also abroad were Dr. Shuhsi Hsu of China and Julio A. LaCarte of Uruguay, members of the site-seeking group, Governor Maurice J. Tobin and other officials.

During the leisurely cruise the three delegates were able to get a more thorough and comfortable view of the Concord-Lexington area which the entire group saw yesterday from a freezing hill top.

"We were able to see how truly spacious and convenient the Bedford airport really is," declared Dr. Gavrilovic.

The route included the Blue Hills reservation, Stoughton, Norwood, Needham, Weston, Wellesley, Framingham, Southboro, Waban and Boston.

In spite of the discovery of the Middlesex Falls' thickly-settled surroundings, the committee does not intend to disregard that site, Dr. Gavrilovic said.

"There may be other factors," he added.
